BERMUDA HOUSE OF ASSEMBLYOFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT*2 MARCH 2015*10:02 AMSitting Number 10 of the 2014/15 Session[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]PRAYERS[Prayers read by Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker]CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

The Speaker: The Minutes of the 27th of February. I happen to know they are not completed, so they will be brought to the next meeting.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Speaker: There are no messages from the Governor.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE SPEAKER OR MEMBER PRESIDINGAPOLOGIES

The Speaker: We have two Members, Member K. L. Bascome, from constituency 1, St. George's North; and Member Susan Jackson, constituency 20, Pembroke South West, who will not be here today, and MP Bascome, just this morning.

MESSAGES FROM THE SENATE

The Speaker: There are no messages from the Senate.

PAPERS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS TO THE HOUSE

The Speaker: No papers or communications.

PETITIONS

The Speaker: No petitions.

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS AND JUNIOR MINISTERS

The Speaker: No Statements.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The Speaker: No.

QUESTION PERIOD

The Speaker: Question Period. We have Minister Richards. I do not see him here.

Premier, if Minister Richards is not here, if you could make sure that he is here for Wednesday morning to respond to the question that he has, if he could be in here early on Wednesday.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Right. I see that the other Member is not here as well.

CONGRATULATORY AND/OR OBITUARY SPEECHES

The Speaker: Are there any?

The Chair will recognise first the Honourable Member, the Minister for Economic Development. Minister Grant Gibbons, you have the floor.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good morning.

The Speaker: Good morning to you.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Mr. Speaker, I had the pleasure on Saturday evening to attend the prize-giving for the Bermuda Sea Cadet Corps, the training ship Admiral Somers, and wanted to pass on my congratulations to all the cadets who participated in this, particularly to Mr. Tevin Daniels, who won the top award as Able Cadet for the year on a range of issues and performance and discipline that he had indicated over the course of the year.

I would also like to ask that congratulations be sent to the Lieutenant of the Sea Cadets, Michael Frith, who is the Commanding Officer for TS Admiral Somers; to Dwayne Trott, who is also a senior member of that; and Dr. Mark Guishard, all of whom participate and are part of that very important organisation down there. There are about 20 cadets, including both junior and senior cadets. And they, as I think Honourable Members will know, participate in a lot of parades. We had the pleasure of having them in the arrival of the . . .

[Pause]

The Speaker: Of the America's Cup?

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Of the America's Cup. (Thank you, Mr. Speaker—senior moment.)

[Laughter]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Back on December 3rd. They provided some discipline and class to that particular party that evening. But generally, I wanted just to say to all the parents and other members of the TS Admiral Somers who help to work with these cadets and mould them, they are doing a great job down there. And I think it is a terrific organisation. I think we need to see more of this on the Island, Mr. Speaker.

While I am on my feet, I would certainly ask that condolences be sent to the family of Vincent Bridgewater. I think a number of Members have already . . . I think the whole House. Others will probably get up and comment. I knew Dr. Bridgewater over many years. A real character, as the Premier had said as well, I think in a condolence note, a Member of both the House and also the Senate for the then-United Bermuda Party. A really nice individual, and certainly had some of his own issues. But I think, by and large, made a great contribution to this community, both in public service and as a dentist as well.

While I am on my feet, Mr. Speaker, I would ask that condolences also be sent to the family of Jack Wahl, a long-time resident of Bermuda. I know the Premier would like to be associated. Let us see, Glen Smith and Jeff Sousa and also my colleague, the Whip, and Mr. Walter Roban as well. The long-time resident of Bermuda did a lot quietly, a great golfer, and certainly helped a lot of Bermuda causes behind the scenes, and condolences be sent to his wife, Lynn Wahl. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, thank you, Dr. Gibbons.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency number 29. MP Zane De Silva, you have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I too would like to be associated with the condolences to the family of Mr. Jack Wahl. And as the Honourable Member, Dr. Gibbons, said, he was a very good golfer. In fact, I had the privilege and honour of playing against Jack in several tournaments, in particular down at Mid Ocean, Mr. Speaker. In fact, I have to admit that I would say it was because of him I shot my best-ever round on that course, Mr. Speaker, during one of our matches. And he just happened to be the victor on that day. But it was not too many times he was the victor, Mr. Speaker, as I am sure many Bermudians will tell you.

[Laughter]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And of course, Jack had a very impeccable record in terms of golf, he represented Bermuda on several occasions.

I would also like to be associated with the condolences to Vinnie's family, Mr. Speaker. That is Vinnie Bridgewater. Vinnie and I had many occasions together, Mr. Speaker, especially when I decided to run for the Progressive Labour Party. He and I had many, many conversations about, you know, where I was going, what I was doing. And once I was elected, we continued on with that relationship. And of course, we had many times on the golf course as well. Outside of golf, we had many, many conversations. And he will always be remembered certainly by many Bermudians, but I certainly enjoyed my times with Vinnie, and I will miss him terribly.

Mr. Speaker, I would like for the House to send condolences to [the family of] Mr. Cecil Downs, who passed recently.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Yes. That was done.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, I would certainly like to be associated with it, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes. Yes.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Again, Cecil and I spent a lot of time together. And later on in his life, outside of the Boys' Brigade, which he founded, outside of that, Mr. Speaker, he was a darn good, what we called, money chaser. If you had a debt and Cecil was the one who did the collections for you, he was really good at it. And he was one who stuck to the task at hand. So again, I send condolences out to the family.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to end on asking if the House could send congratulations to Mrs. Ann Smith Gordon. Many of us in this House will know that she has been part and parcel . . . Her name is called, when you mention P.A.L.S., her name is not far from the conversation. She will be retiring as soon as she can find someone to step into her shoes, Mr. Speaker. But I thought that during this time it would be a good time to send her congratulations for many, many years with regard to her relationship with P.A.L.S.

Glen Smith, the Honourable Member Pat Gordon-Pamplin and also Honourable Member Nandi Outerbridge would like to be associated. Thanks very much.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister for Community, Cultural Development and Sports. The Minister Patricia Gordon-Pamplin, you have the floor.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask that this Honourable House send a letter of condolences to the family of Dorothy Lorraine Ingram. Ms. Ingram (Lorraine Clarke, as we grew up with her) . . . I think the House is asking to be associated, and Honourable Member Roban has indicated that she was one of his constituents. But Lorraine Ingram was a devout, staunch member of the AME church. She was the wife of Reverend Fred and the mother to Lee-Ann and F Lee-Onard. She had numerous brothers, and she had quite a large family.

But anybody who knew Lorraine would know that she was such a genteel lady, Mr. Speaker. And it was quite a shock for me when I opened the paper to see that she had passed, and I would like to offer condolences. She will be funeralised at eleven o'clock this morning, and I will certainly be attending that service.

I would also like to be associated with the condolences that the Premier offered on Friday night/Saturday morning, to the family of the late Colin "Jelly" Smith. I think that many of the comments that have been made about Colin Smith over the weekend have depicted exactly who he was as a person. In particular, I note the comment that was made by Alfred Mabury, who is the current President of Somerset Cricket Club. And I think that when you have that passing of the baton from one person to another and recognise the impact that the outgoing president has had, not just on the club, but on the community at large, one can have a depth of appreciation for who Colin Smith was and what he meant to, not just the Somerset Cricket Club, but the Somerset community. And I offer my deepest condolences, and especially to his mom, who actually is an aunt (through marriage) of mine, Aunt Eleanor. And I am deeply, deeply—

An Hon. Member: Are you not divorced?

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I divorced the man, but not the family.

[Laughter]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: And I would also ask that this Honourable House send a letter of condolences to the Baxter family, to Patsy, Edith and Lois, on the passing of their brother Grant.

Tilly Baxter is probably one of the most colourful characters that we have had in a long time. But, Mr. Speaker, a person with a bigger heart you would never find. Tilly actually spent a lot of time around the softball diamond, he actually umpired. He was a heavy-truck driver. Tilly was Tilly, and that is as much as I can say about that. Anybody who knows Tilly knew that he was Tilly. And it was quite sad when I read the fact that he had passed, and I would like to offer condolences to his family. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the . . . All right. Everybody deferred to you, it looks like, Honourable Whip. The Chair recognises now the Honourable Whip, MP for St. David's, constituency number 3. MP Lovitta Foggo, you have the floor.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good morning to the House and to the listening audience.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Mr. Speaker, I would like to be associated with the condolences for the family of Colin Smith. I do know that he was a Somerset man. However, he spent quite a few years living down in St. David's. His wife is Zina Francis, now Zina Francis-Smith, first cousin to former MP Patrice Minors. And I can say that Mr. Smith, what he brought to the cricket community and what he brought to Somerset Cricket Club as a president, you cannot give enough accolades for. However, he will be missed in the St. David's community, and he will be missed by the Clearwater community, because he often assisted his wife with whatever duties she had to carry out down there at Clearwater Middle School.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to also give congratulatory remarks to several of our primary schools, in particular to St. David's Primary School and to Paget Primary School, for a stellar science production, having their science fairs, as well as to Somersfield Academy, which had a science fair. I think I would like to associate the Minister with that, yes, and I would like to associate the Honourable Member Derrick Burgess with that. We were all in attendance.

The work was absolutely phenomenal and of an extremely high quality. I would daresay some of it was on the university level, especially when you saw students who have written and produced their own music and played it, and several science gadgets that were created by students. So we have mechanical engineers in the mix and electrical engineers. And it was absolutely a phenomenal science affair. So, Mr. Speaker, I just thought it was noteworthy to highlight what both our public schools are doing, and indeed some of the private schools on the shores of Bermuda. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Warwick West, constituency number 28. MP Jefferson Sousa, you have the floor.

Mr. Jeff Sousa: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. Jeff Sousa: Good morning, colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, I stand today to ask the House to send condolences to the family of Doreen “Mac” Musson, a very colourful character. I knew her personally. She was the founder of what is today known as the Bermuda Society of Arts and was an artist in her own right. Many of the more senior Members of the House will remember the paintings that she had on the walls of the 40 Thieves Club. She also did many of the windows throughout town, back in the day.

Artisan Reviewer Charles Zuill recalled her as “quite a character—flamboyant, fun.” She is survived by her son, John Musson, and her daughter, Deborah Hollis. I also would like to ask that MP Suzann [Roberts-]Holshouser and MP Cole Simons be associated with these remarks, and also Minister Jeanne Atherden. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair now recognises the Honourable Leader of the Opposition, from Warwick South Central, constituency number 26. M. A. R. Bean, you have the floor.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Good morning, Mr. Leader.

The Speaker: Good morning.

[Laughter]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I mean, good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: That is okay, Honourable Member.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I would like to rise and also join in expressing my profound condolences to the family of Colin “Jelly” Smith. Mr. Speaker, I saw Jelly so much that I actually cannot recall when was the last time I saw him. But it was not too long ago. I am not sure if we were on an airplane returning back to Bermuda or not.

Jelly was well known in the East End. He gave excellent service to the Somerset Cricket Club community, in particular, but let us not forget that Colin Jelly Smith is from Hog Bay Level. He is a White Hill man, and he is an Eagles man first and foremost. And so his influence spread not just in Somerset, but the entire Sandys community. And so it was a shock when the Honourable Premier got up on Saturday morning and announced that Jelly had passed away. And I know the way Jelly was, he is not a person who drank or smoked or led a lifestyle that would put oneself at risk. It reminds me of Lance Brown, Mr. Speaker, a very similar scenario, which is very hurtful and painful for everyone, especially those in the West End community.

Mr. Speaker, I also take this opportunity to ask for condolences to be sent to [the family of] Ms. Dawn Wilson, the wife, the lovely and beautiful wife of Mr. Aswad Wilson. Some Members may know that Aswad Wilson is one of those Bermudian artists who have an angelic voice. And he was a performer in the group Ital Foundation. And he still performs, alongside James Richardson and others. He and she are my constituents. And I would love to offer my condolences. And I would like to associate MP’s Atherden and Gordon-Pamplin and Commissiong, also.

Lastly, I just noticed today, Mr. Speaker, that “Mama” Gooden, Josef Gooden’s mama, passed away. So I think I would like to associate, I guess, the whole House for Mama Gooden, especially those on my side and from the West End community who know how beautiful and influential a person Mama Gooden was. So I would like to extend my condolences in that regard also.

The Speaker: Thank you very much, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from St. George’s, the Junior Minister. You have the floor, Junior Minister Outerbridge.

Ms. Nandi Outerbridge: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, this morning I ask that this Honourable House send congratulatory remarks to Taylor Bean, on being awarded MVP for the 2015 CIAA Tournament, which took place between February 15th and 16th. Taylor has been known throughout Bermuda for her success in track and field. And I can definitely appreciate the time and effort and the sacrifice it takes to compete in these events. I just want to extend my congratulations to her and her family. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Pembroke East. MP Roban, constituency number 15, you have the floor.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and good morning to everyone listening, as well.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: I would just like to have myself associated with the condolence remarks to Dr. Bridgewater. I knew him well. And as other Members have said, he did not fail to challenge you on many things when he met you. But it was always in a way that he wished to just make sure that you thought a little bit more carefully about what you are doing and how you are handling yourself. But he was a wonderful man, wonderful man. And I took great counsel from him often on many things.

I would also like to be associated with the comments to the passing of Mr. Jack Wahl. He was a very, very longstanding and good friend of my late father-in-law, former Member of this House, Mr. Arnold Adolphus Francis. And many a time I was with Mr. Francis's family, and they were talking about Mr. Wahl and his wife. And they spent a lot of time with them over the years. They were longstanding friends. So it would be remiss of me not to mention that on behalf of my family as well.

Also, Mr. Colin Smith, whom I knew, I was shocked to hear of his passing and certainly would like to be associated with the condolences to his family and the Somerset community and all the communities that he very much served well. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister for Education. Minister Scott, you have the floor.

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good morning.

Mr. Speaker, I would certainly like to be associated with the remarks for Dr. Bridgewater. Of course, I knew him going back some 30 years. And to say that he packed a lot into his years is an understatement.

Mr. Speaker, I would like for congratulatory remarks to be sent out to Ms. Carmen Jones for the work that she did on the Primary Art Show. I would like to associate the Minister of Community, Culture and Sport, as well as the Junior Minister of Community, Culture and Sport, all of whom attended this art show last Friday. And the amount of talent that we see from our young children is amazing. Of course, not being an artistic person myself, I just appreciate art that much more.

And to continue the comments that the Shadow Education Minister made, certainly there are lots of elementary schools that are now doing their science fairs. Elliot just had one, as well, last week. But I would like to congratulate the school in my constituency, Purvis, which had an excellent programme as well, which I attended. If you look at the creativity, again, of our young kids, and putting together the science experiments. It is interesting when you look at the real young kids and see that the projects that they put together, of course in conjunction with their parents, just speak to [the fact that] we have a solid future ahead of us if we continue to just take care of our children and, you know, let them expand on the creativity that they do have. So, congratulations to all those events.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you, Minister.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Pembroke East Central, constituency number 16. MP Michael Weeks, you have the floor.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Mr. Speaker, I would like to start off my remarks by having this House join me in sending a letter of congratulations to the Impact Mentoring Academy. For those who do not know Impact Mentoring Academy, it is a home school for young boys, Mr. Speaker, normally those who have trouble fitting in with the mainstream education system. Impact Mentoring Academy is run by Mr. Trace White. And on Saturday, Mr. Speaker, they had a Spoken Word Competition at St. Paul's Centennial Hall, in which all the young men were on show.

It was an excellent competition. They had skits and singing and speeches and poetry. It was very exciting and interesting to see our young boys. Not only black boys, but it was very diverse. There were about 20 of them who really showcased their talents at St. Paul's Centennial Hall. I would like to associate the Honourable Minister, Ms. Jeanne Atherden.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to have the House join me in sending congratulations to Mr. Dage Minors. He had a gold-medal-winning performance in the North East Regional High School Track and Field indoor championships in Boston. Mr. Minors, Mr. Speaker, is the nephew of the Deputy Mayor of Hamilton, Mr. Donal Smith. Dage Minors, and I would also like to associate my MP, Rolf Commissiong, and the Shadow Minister of Community, and the Minister of Community, Culture and Sport, and MP Derrick Burgess. Actually, I should associate the whole House.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to have the House and Members join me in sending congratulations to the Bermuda Pacers Track Club. They have celebrated 20 years, Mr. Speaker. This past weekend, in spite of the bad weather, they had a marvellous turnout up at National [Sports Centre], Mr. Speaker. And from having children that took part in that, I know that this event is much anticipated and looked-forward-to. It is one of the most anticipated athletic events on our young sporting calendar.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to, before I take my seat, have the House join me in sending congrats to all the recipients of the Bermuda Triathlon 2014 Awards special commendation. I would like to associate the Minister of Community, Culture and Sport, and MP Glen Smith. Mr. Speaker, this weekend, the Junior Triathletes of the Year were Megan Hands and Matthew Oliveira. And the Senior Triathletes of the Year for 2014 were Dr. Tucker Murphy and Ms. Karen Smith. Now, we all know that it is hard as athletes, but triathletes, Mr. Speaker, I would definitely commend them. Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency number 14, Devonshire North West, MP Glen Smith. You have the floor.

Mr. Glen Smith: Thank you, and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

I rise today because I would like to send congratulations to Mount Saint Agnes and the alumni. I know there are several former MSA students, including myself, who have sat in this House who were educated by Mount Saint Agnes. And I would like to have Honourable Member Roban and Honourable Member Commissioning associated with that. The school goes back to 1890, when four sisters set sail to Bermuda. Primarily, the school opened up on March 3rd, 1890, at Woodlands, which is the current site of where Saltus is today.

In 1892, the property was put up for sale. Hence, the sisters went out to try to raise funds themselves to purchase another property, which is where the convent is located, or what is known as the convent is located today, but also the Muslim facility.

Funny enough, if we look back, every year Mount Saint Agnes has an annual bazaar in October. However, it was really [started] back in 1892 [for] raising funds. And that is how it has continued, and it has been going on for all these years, 120-plus years. But as I say, I would like to send congratulations to them. And I would like to associate Honourable Jeff Sousa.

I would also like to be associated with the condolences to the family of Colin Smith. Colin and I used to work together many years ago. He was a Customs officer. In actual fact, when Colin first became a Customs officer, I started my first job in life, working for Island Couriers, clearing courier packages down at the passenger arrival hall. And from then, as he grew in through the ranks, I ended up coming back, starting my other company, IBC [International Bonded Couriers, Bermuda, Ltd.]. And I worked very closely with him. Of course, he was on the other side, and of course I was running my business. But I want to say he was always a very fair, fair man. And I think condolences should probably be sent to all the Customs officers who worked so closely with Colin over the years. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency number 35, Sandys North Central, MP Dennis Lister. You have the floor.

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I rise this morning mainly to be associated with the condolences that have already been expressed on the passing of Colin Smith, to his wife and his family, his mother and his brothers and sisters. Like everyone in these Chambers, in fact in the country, I was shocked when I heard of Colin's passing.

Mr. Speaker, Colin and I go way back. He was actually a primary school classmate of mine. And we stayed friends over the years. I actually married into his family, you know. My wife is a first cousin of Colin. So we have had a longstanding relationship. And it truly took the wind out of me when I heard that he had passed, Mr. Speaker. I sat and talked with his family over the weekend, and everyone is just shocked, Mr. Speaker, by this.

As you move around the Sandy's community this weekend, you felt that same sentiment, Mr. Speaker, no matter whom you spoke to in Sandys, whether it was young or old or in between, those who associated with Somerset Cricket Club, and those just in the community who knew the impact that Colin had had with clubs and with the young men in the clubs and in the community. Even recently, Mr. Speaker, when we had the incidents in Somerset prior to Christmas, he was off to the meeting, to the first meeting and subsequent meetings, Mr. Speaker, just giving his input and direction, as he had always given.

One thing you knew about Colin, he was always firm and no-nonsense. He was found to stand a line, and took that line and stayed there, Mr. Speaker. So his passing, Mr. Speaker, will not only be felt in Bermuda, but throughout the Island. And as has been said already, he spent many years in the East End, not only working, but living after he married. He moved to that end of the Island, Mr. Speaker. So he will truly be missed throughout the Island, Mr. Speaker. But I just wanted to be added to the many remarks that have been expressed already. I would also like to add the Honourable Kim Wilson to those remarks, Mr. Speaker. She is one of the Members of Parliament of the West End who would like to be associated with those remarks, as well.

But, Mr. Speaker, whilst on my feet, I would also ask the Honourable House to join me in sending condolences to the family of the late Roger Burrows, Gladwin Roger Burrows, who passed away earlier this year, Mr. Speaker, while we were out on recess. Burrows was one of those well-known Somerset persons, Mr. Speaker. He had actually spent most of his early years in the hospitality industry as part of the well-known Reef family and had been employed many years at The Reefs. In the years when . . .

The Speaker: Has somebody got a phone on in here?

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: Something is vibrating.

[Inaudible interjection and laughter]

The Speaker: Is it yours, Dennis, Honourable Member?

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: It is off now, Mr. Speaker. It was vibrating.

[Laughter]

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: But, no, Mr. Speaker. Just to continue on, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Burrows was one of those who was well known in our community. And again, his passing took the Sandys community by shock, as well, Mr. Speaker. And his loss will be felt greatly within the community. And the later years after he got out of hospitality and he worked for himself in maintenance and construction, he took that same attitude that he had in the hospitality industry that it had to be done right. So we extend condolences there to his family, his wife Cheryl, and the children, Mr. Speaker. Thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable and Learned Member from constituency 31, Southampton West Central. Minister Crockwell, you have the floor.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Good morning.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, I would like to be associated with the condolences to the family of Dr. Vincent Bridgewater. I know that the whole House was associated, but I would be remiss if I did not weigh in on the remarks of his passing.

In addition to being a well-known dentist, Mr. Speaker, and a former Senator of Parliament, Dr. Bridgewater was also an influential member of the fraternity Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, which is a fraternity that I am a member of, Mr. Speaker. And as everyone already said, he was a very eccentric and flamboyant character. I can think of many stories. I mean, he was the de facto Mayor of Court Street, Mr. Speaker. I remember in 2007, when the Honourable Premier and I went down on Court Street to walk around, we bumped into Dr. Bridgewater, and he took us into every single establishment, establishments I did not even know existed, Mr. Speaker. We were well embraced because we were there with Dr. Bridgewater.

And I have a story, where every now and then some of the older members of Alpha would be down at Hamilton Princess having cocktails and discussing, I guess, how to solve the problems of the world and the fraternity. I was once invited to go down there and have a sit-down with these gentlemen. When I got there, I sat down. Dr. Bridgewater said, What are you drinking? So I said, I'll have what you're having. And that was a mistake, Mr. Speaker.

[Laughter]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I got something, I think it was bourbon straight up, Mr. Speaker. And I started to drink this drink, and he saw the look on my face. And he would not let me get up until that drink was finished. And you can rest assured I never made that mistake again. But he will be missed, and I would like to let his family know that he was indeed an influential man.

I would also like to be associated with the condolences to the family of Mr. Colin Smith. Mr. Smith was the President of Somerset [Cricket Club] when I lived in Somerset, Mr. Speaker. And I was a very vocal St. George's fan whilst living in Somerset. And I remember going to Cup Matches, and I did not hide my allegiance, Mr. Speaker. Despite that, we used to have a running joke. He was always a very affable individual. He would see me, he would shake my hand or give me a hug and we would have a little chat. Certainly, when I heard of the news, it was a shock. He certainly was gone in his prime. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair now recognises the Honourable Member from Devonshire North Central, constituency number 13. MP Glenn Blakeney, you have the floor.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Thank you, and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: I would like to be associated with the remarks for Dr. Bridgewater, as well as former President of Somerset Cricket Club and popular Customs officer, Mr. Colin Smith. We actually came from the same neighbourhood growing up in Rose Hill, Southampton, as you would know, before he moved further up into Somerset. To all of his siblings, I think Marion, Charlie-Horse, Gregory, Perry, Kevin, Jerome (I think they called him "Boney")—

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Yes, yes. So, the whole family, as well as to his wife and mother.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Yes, he had a lot of nicknames. But Colin was an unassuming, gentle giant, I think, in the community. He went about his business very quietly, but very effectively. And I am sure he is sorely missed, not only by his family, but the entire Somerset community, to say the least those who supported the Somerset Cricket Club or continue to support Somerset Cricket Club at Cup Match. So, with that I would like to be associated with the condolences sent, especially to his wife, mother and immediate family. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister of Health and Environment, from Pembroke West, constituency number 19. Minister Atherden, you have the floor.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the House send condolences to the family of Sandra Maybury. Sandra was a constituent of mine and someone whom I grew up and went to school with. I am sure that Minister Gordon-Pamplin and MP Weeks would like to be associated with them. I must admit I used to see Sandra whenever I would go up to Point Mart. She would be out there sometimes with the little children. But always, we would have a little chat and talk about what was happening in the constituency.

Also, Mr. Speaker, I would like to be associated with the condolences sent to the family of Vincent Bridgewater. Vincent also was a constituent of mine, but he also was a family friend. We used to tease and joke about the fact that he might have been my brother-in-law in the past, or could have been. But he was one of those individuals who, you could talk about golf and you could talk about what was happening in the world. And he will be missed.

I would like to also, Mr. Speaker, have condolences sent to the family of the late Myrtle White. Myrtle was the mother of Roche White [Swan] and Juliet Dillas. I would like to have the Premier be associated with those remarks, as well. I must admit, at Christmastime, I went up to Packwood Home, and, Mr. Speaker, when you go to these homes, you suddenly see people whom you have not seen for a while. And MP Roban would like to be associated with that as well. So it reminds me that we are all mortal.

That is why I would like to be associated with the remarks sent to the family of Lorraine Clarke Ingram. Lorraine and I went to Central School together, and I remember her as my speedy-relay mate. Because Lorraine could clock around that field. And so I would like to be associated with those remarks.

On a lighter note, a glad note, I would like to have congrats sent to Coldwell Banker [Realty], who put on their 13th Annual Home Show. This is something that started off years ago in a small way, and over time, when you go up there, you see . . . First of all, it is a day-and-a-half now, when it used to be just one. And MP Glen Smith and the Premier would like to be associated with those remarks. But I am just amazed at the number of vendors who are there, the number of organisations that are there, all trying to make the population know about things that are happening with respect to their homes, not just about things that they could buy, but things that they could do. So I would like to have congrats sent to Coldwell Banker.

I would also like to have congratulations sent to Bacardi, Limited, because they had their 153rd anniversary and awards banquet. And I must admit, Mr. Speaker, I want a particular congrats to be sent to Clara Fay, who is celebrating 25 years with Bacardi. And now I know why Clara does not get out, like me, to play as much golf, because she is always busy working.

And last but not least, congratulations to HSBC and all of their employees who had commitment awards. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Sandys South, constituency number 33. MP Jamahl Simmons, you have the floor.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Thank you and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Good morning, colleagues.

I would like to add my voice to the condolences of the family of Mr. Colin "Jelly" Smith, a man who was so full of life and so passionate about Bermuda and Bermudians, particularly our youth. And his contribution to sports, to our community, even to the Customs Department, will be truly missed. I hope that his family, his wife Zina, and everyone who knew and loved him get comforted during this time of sorrow.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to add my voice to the list of condolences for Dr. Vincent Bridgewater, whom I knew as Uncle Vince. He served in Parliament the same time as my father. And I also travelled to Ohio with his daughter for a conference, a Youth to Youth conference in the 1980s. A larger-than-life character, a man who always had a laugh, always had a smile regardless of the circumstances. And he will be truly missed, not just by his family, but by all the lives that he touched.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to add my congratulations to the Bermuda Pacers Club, as well as Telford Industries. The Telford Electric Magic Mile 20th anniversary was this weekend, as mentioned by our Honourable Member, Mr. Weeks. And when we look over the years, the young people who have enjoyed this programme, the events that bring families together and communities together, it is truly valuable, truly should be supported. And I hope that this 20th anniversary is a mark of 20 years, 50 years, 100 years into the future where it can continue to contribute to our society. And with that, I take my seat, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency number 7, Hamilton South. Junior Minister Sylvan Richards, you have the floor.

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, I would like a letter of condolence be sent to the family of the late Mr. Vernon "Sandpaper" Hollis, who was a constituent of mine. He was a longstanding, upstanding member of that community, and he passed recently. And I would just like a letter to be sent to his family. He is survived by his children and very numerous grandchildren, Mr. Speaker. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 18, Pembroke West Central. MP David Burt, you have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and good morning to you.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to rise this morning to be associated with the condolences that were sent to the family of the late Dorothy Lorraine Ingram, or, as I know her, Aunt Lorraine. I would just like, for the record, for my name to be associated with those condolences. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Are there any other Honourable Members who would care to speak?

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Premier. Premier Dunkley, you have the floor.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Good morning to you, and good morning to colleagues.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I would like to be associated with the congratulations sent by honourable colleagues to Ann Smith Gordon for her tremendous service to the community and the valuable work she has done with P.A.L.S. Certainly, it cannot go without being said that she has sacrificed a lot of her time and energy to the benefit of our community and ill people. My colleagues, Deputy Premier Richards and Minister Gibbons, would like to be associated with that, as well.

I would also like to be associated with the congrats to Coldwell Banker on the Home Show. I had the opportunity to go up there. It seems to get bigger and better every year. The crowd on Friday afternoon was certainly very large, and there is a great opportunity for current entrepreneurs and future entrepreneurs to get involved up there.

I would also like to send congratulations to Flora Duffy, who now has won, I believe, three triathlons in a row and certainly is on a real hot streak and performing very well at what she is doing. I do not think we can underestimate the commitment and the dedication that it has taken for Flora Duffy to get to the position she is in. She is not only competing and winning, but she is representing Bermuda and making many Bermudians feel proud by the work she has done.

I would like to be associated with the condolences to Jack Wahl, whom I had the opportunity to play some golf against. He was a very, very tough competitor. When you thought you had him beat, he certainly could pull shots out and get things done. He got me involved in part of the community effort that I have been involved in for the past 30 years. Because one day, playing golf about 30 years ago at Mid Ocean, he asked me to get more involved in the club, and kept pushing and pushing and pushing, and finally nominated me to serve on the board of directors.

I have been friends with him and his lovely wife, Lynn, and his daughter, Stephanie, for a long period of time. He was a Canadian who came and lived in Bermuda, but he certainly contributed a great deal to the Bermudian way of life.

It would not be right if I did not say a few words of condolences to the family of Colin Smith, who passed away. First and foremost, Mr. Speaker, I think it is important, as colleagues have noted, that Mr. Smith was a very valued and respected member of the Bermuda Customs. He served there for many years, and he did an impeccable job for the Customs Department and the Government of Bermuda, and we should not forget that.

I came to know Mr. Smith through Customs and then through cricket. A lot of Members of this Honourable Chamber and the public are probably not aware that Mr. Smith was instrumental in transforming Cup Match to get the sponsorship involved to the level that we have it to today. Because in the early 1990s, the mid-1990s and the late 1990s when he was, I think, Vice President at the time and then President of Somerset Cricket Club, he was one of the forerunners to get sponsorship in there and actually would not leave me alone, as far as my position was concerned at Dunkley's. And that is when we started the sponsorship, and it continued to grow. Because I think at that time, probably the only major sponsor of Cup Match would have been Shell for St. George's Cricket Club at that time. Ford Hutchings was, I think, the CEO at that time.

So I would like to be associated with those condolences, Mr. Speaker. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Premier.

Are there any other Honourable Members who would care to speak?

That completes our congratulatory and/or obituary speeches.

MATTERS OF PRIVILEGE

The Speaker: There are no matters of privilege.

PERSONAL EXPLANATIONS

The Speaker: No personal explanations.

NOTICE OF MOTIONS FOR THE ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE ON MATTERS OF URGENT PUBLIC IMPORTANCE

The Speaker: No notices of motions.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

The Speaker: No Bills to be introduced.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

The Speaker: No notices of motions.

ORDERS OF THE DAY

The Speaker: And we move now to the Orders of the Day. And we are going to resume in the Committee of Supply for further consideration of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for 2015/16. We will be first looking at the Cabinet Office, and I would ask that the Honourable Member from constituency number 14, MP Glen Smith, please take the Chair. Thank you.

Did I move too fast? Madam Clerk, did I move too fast?

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Oh, okay. All right.

House in Committee at 10:53 am

[Mr. Glen Smith, Chairman]

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

The Chairman: Good morning, Members. We are now in Committee of Supply for further consideration of Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for Year 2015/16, for the Cabinet Offices, Heads 9, 26 and 80. Three hours have been allocated to this Head. I call on the Premier, the Minister of National Security, to proceed.

Premier, you have the floor.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to formally move those Heads, 9, 26 and 80.

The Chairman: So moved.

HEAD 9—CABINET OFFICE

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman and colleagues, I am grateful for the opportunity this morning to lead the Debate and present the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for Head 9, Cabinet Office; Head 26, Human Resources; and Head 80, Office of Project Management and Procurement.

Mr. Chairman, I will note that there are a number of heads within the Cabinet Office that are not being debated today. Those would be Head 14, Department of Statistics; Head 43, Information Technology; Head 51, Department of Communication Information; Head 84, e-Government; and Head 96, Sustainable Development.

As I start the presentation this morning, Mr. Chairman, I think it is important to first highlight that, for Members of this Honourable House and for people outside who are listening on the radio, that when a budget is presented in the House, as the Budget for 2015/16 was presented two weeks ago by the Honourable Finance Minister, that this is actually the first time you have an opportunity to see the actual numbers for two years prior. So, two weeks ago, we managed to see the actual numbers for the years 2013/14 Financial Year. And that is where we will start, Mr. Chairman, because I think it is important to reflect back on those actual numbers the first time we have seen them.

At that time, Mr. Chairman, there was a budget for the total Cabinet Office, which was estimated to be $26,739,000. And you can see that on page . . . You cannot see that on page B-30, but you can see the "actual" number on page B-30, which finished off at $24,733,000. So over the course of that financial year, the Cabinet Office managed to do what it was expected to do in an appropriate, very efficient manner and managed to save $2 million in doing it through the course of that financial year.

Mr. Chairman, the Cabinet Office is the heart of Government, providing services to Cabinet, the Premier and Ministries of Government. The Cabinet Office also coordinates initiatives on cross-cutting issues such as an access to corporate headquarters for the public service, providing services, advice and guidance for other government departments and, by extension, the wider public sector.

The Cabinet Office is responsible for the department that provides support services to other ministries, and those service departments in the Cabinet Ministry include the Department of Statistics, the Department of Human Resources, Information Technology, the Department of Communication and Information, Project Management and Procurement, e-Government, and Sustainable Development.

As shown in detail on page B-31, Mr. Chairman, the total current expenditure for 2015/16 is estimated to be $6,296,000, which is a decrease of $696,000, or 10 per cent under the original Budget for 2014/15.

The two major programme areas for the Cabinet Office are also shown on page B-31. They are the General, which is a line item of 0901, and Economic Policy and Foreign Affairs, which is 0902.

The first programme, Mr. Chairman, General. Programme business unit 0901 has been allocated a budget of $4,616,000. This budget is $697,000 less than the original 2014/15 Budget, or a reduction of 13 per cent. The budget is allocated across six cost centres within the Cabinet Office, and I will go through those.

- 1) General Administration, or Head Office, has a budget allocation of $2,710,000, representing a decrease of $286,000, or 10 per cent less than the budget for the current financial year.
- 2) Professional Development and Travel has a budget allocation of $168,000, representing a decrease of $32,000, or 16 per cent, on the current Budget for Fiscal 2014/15.
- 3) Third area is Protocol and Hospitality, which has a budget allocation of $450,000, representing a decrease of $145,000, or 24 per cent less than the 2014/15 Budget.
- 4) The fourth area is the Central Policy Unit, which has a budget allocation of $477,000, representing a decrease of $234,000, or 33 per cent less than the budget for this year.
- 5) Item number five is Public Access to Information, or commonly known as PATI, with a budget allocation of $113,000, a decrease of $33,000, or 23 per cent less than the budget for the current fiscal year.

- 6) And finally, Management Services has a budget allocation of $698,000, an increase of $33,000, or 5 per cent more than the current financial year budget.

The second programme area is Economic Policy and Foreign Affairs. It is unit 0902, and it has been allocated a budget of $1.68 million. And this budget is $1,000 more than the original budget for the current financial year, which is less than 1 per cent. This budget is allocated across two overseas offices within the Cabinet Office, including the London Office, which has a budget allocation of $1,032,000, representing a decrease of $5,000 less than the current financial year budget; and the Washington, DC, Office, which has a budget allocation of $648,000, representing an increase of $6,000, or 1 per cent more than the current financial year budget.

Mr. Chairman, the subjective analysis for the Cabinet Office is able to be found on B-32 of the Estimates Book. The object code description increases or decreases are attributed to the following:

- Salaries—a decrease of 12 per cent, or $444,000, which represents the following changes:
 - an increase of $143,000 resulting from the discontinuation of the furlough days;
 - a reduction of $61,000 resulting from the freezing of the vacant post of Assistant Protocol Officer;
 - a reduction of $180,000 resulting from the transfer of an assistant cabinet secretary into an existing post of Permanent Secretary in the Ministry of Economic Development;
 - a reduction of overtime in the amount of $56,000;
 - a freezing of a post in the PATI unit in the amount of $144,000;
 - a reduction of $123,000, representing salaries for four interns for one-half of the current financial year. Those interns completed their internship in October 2014;
 - a net reduction of $228,000 resulting from the decrease in the number of political staff;
 - an increase of $145,000 for administrative staff that transferred from other Ministries to Cabinet Office; and
 - an increase in salaries of $60,000, representing a correction in salaries in the Management Consulting Section, that was incorrectly deducted from the budget in 2014/15.
- Wages—a decrease of 50 per cent, or $86,000, which is a result of reduction from

(1) the freezing of the post of housekeeper at Clifton, in the amount of $68,000. That position is not being filled, Mr. Chairman; (2) the reduction of overtime in the amount of $24,000; and (3) the increase relating to furlough days in the amount of $6,000.

- Training—a reduction of $2,000 in an effort to reduce costs. And to help continue the training along we will do more in-house training sessions.
- Travel—a decrease of 14 per cent, or $35,000.
- Communications—a decrease of 7 per cent, or $10,000, mostly in telephone costs, which we have found a way to reduce costs.
- Advertising and Promotion—a decrease of 24 per cent, or $43,000, resulting from decreasing advertisements in the official Gazette because of the PATI advertising, which is coming to an end shortly.
- Professional Services—a net reduction of $76,000, or 9 per cent, resulting in a reduction of costs in the following areas:
 - A reduction in overseas consultants and contractors in the amount of $160,000, and a reduction in consultants and contractors for the Protocol Office and CPU for $11,000.
 - There is a light increase in consultant fees in the London Office of $1,000, and an increase of $94,000 for a position of legal advisor in the PATI unit, Mr. Chairman.
- Repair and Maintenance—a small increase of $6,000, or 4 per cent, because of anticipated repairs due to equipment aging and the need for maintenance to it.
- Energy and Materials and Supplies—a decrease of $17,000, or 12 per cent. We believe we will be able to budget that due to falling oil prices.
- Other Expenses—include $11,000 increase, or 9 per cent, for hospitality costs relating to events managed by the Protocol Office.

Mr. Chairman, I now turn to Manpower. The full-time staffing establishment, including posts in the London and Washington, DC, offices, is 31, down from 37 in 2014/15. This is due to:

- a) a reduction of two posts related to political staff from General Administration;
- b) a reduction of two posts from Protocol and Hospitality, namely, the Assistant Protocol Officer and the Clifton Housekeeper;
- c) a reduction of three posts from CPU [Central Policy Unit] relating to Interns; and
- d) an increase of one post in the Washington, DC, Office resulting from the establishment of the director's post. A salary for this post has not yet been determined, but will be once a job description has been produced and evaluated.

Mr. Chairman, in regard to output measures, the Cabinet Office's Output Measures can be found on pages B-33 to B-34 of the Budget Book. It should be noted that the output measures have been amended to be more meaningful, as well as performance based. Attention should be drawn to the fact that the target outcomes were partly or completely achieved in all measures.

Mr. Chairman, in regard to achievements, I am pleased to highlight the achievements in each cost centre listed on B-31:

First, in General Administration. For Financial Year 2014/15, allocation for General Administration covers the cost of advisory, administration and other support services to the Office of the Premier; arranging Cabinet meetings; appeals to the Cabinet; liaison with Government House on treaties, international conventions, deportations and high-level visits; oversight of performance across all Ministries and departments; publication of government notices and statutory instruments; and conduct of civil service disciplinary matters.

Public service reform, Mr. Chairman. Honourable Members will be well aware that the public service reform is a major Initiative of this Government. It was launched during the 2014/15 Fiscal Year to serve as a delivery model for the implementation of the SAGE recommendations. The aim of the initiative is to create greater operational efficiencies and to reduce costs within government. The Government has not been idle in this regard and has been actively engaged in the implementation process.

Mr. Chairman, you will recall that our objectives were clear:

- to streamline the government processes;
- to improve delivery of services;
- to make government more efficient;
- to make government more cost effective;
- to make government more transparent; and
- to make government more user friendly.

In October 2014, the Government announced that it had accepted and agreed to implement 16 high-level SAGE recommendations, and I am pleased now to be able to report on the progress of those recommendations to date.

The Ministerial Code of Conduct, Mr. Chairman. It is imperative that Government Ministers establish clear and demonstrated leadership, and, therefore, the Government accepted the recommendation to amend the Ministerial Code of Conduct. Mr. Chairman, you might not be aware, but in 2002, there was a draft copy of the new Ministerial Code of Conduct that was worked on, but it was never implemented.

I can report today that the Ministerial Code of Conduct has been amended and the final draft of the document, together with a verification agreement, which is intended to be signed by each Minister, confirming that they have read, understand and agree to the contents of the amended Ministerial Code of Conduct, is with the Attorney General's Chambers for review. I expect that all Cabinet Ministers will sign off on the amended Ministerial Code of Conduct prior to the end of March 2015, or shortly thereafter.

Succession Planning, Mr. Chairman. It was agreed that the Government would formalise a succession planning policy. I can report back that the framework for the succession planning policy has been completed and internal consultation has commenced. I can further report that, to support the implementation of the policy, the Government will roll out the employee records module within its Human Resource Information Management System [HRIMS] to automate and update the records of all government employees.

This is a very critical step, as automated employee records underpin and support the implementation of the talent management module of the HRIMS system, which is at the foundation of succession planning within a large and very complex organisation. It is expected, Mr. Chairman, that the succession planning policy will be completed during the upcoming fiscal year.

Independent Negotiators and Harmonisation of Union Agreements. Mr. Chairman, we have implemented the recommendation to retain an independent body to negotiate with unions and are moving towards harmonising union agreements. The Government has retained Mr. Gary Phillips, Mr. John Harvey and Mr. Martin Law to serve as independent negotiators. While the issues relative to collective agreements and the way forward remain a work in progress, this Government is confident that the use of the independent negotiators is, in the long term, in the best interest of the service. It is expected that the independent union negotiators will continue to engage our union partners as we negotiate new and harmonised union agreements.

The significant component of the harmonisation of the union agreements is directly linked to the reformation of Government's human resource policy and operating structure, to include performance, accountability and all other human resource policies. Mr. Chairman, you might recall that this was another of the recommendations that the Government has agreed to implement.

I can report that the Government has approved the development and/or amendment of a suite of 96 human resource policies. The policy development work is being progressed in four phases. The framework and early drafts of all policies in phase one have already been completed, and consultation is currently in progress. The suite of policies is intended to streamline delivery by focusing on strategic outcomes and represents a holistic approach to performance management. At the end of the process, the Government will deliver its first Public Service Handbook, which will standardise human resource practices and collective agreements across all six of the unions. This work, Mr. Chairman, is at the heart of the harmonisation process.

Moreover, Mr. Chairman, the Government has reviewed the operating structure of its Human Resource Department and has agreed upon an operating model designed to create greater efficiency. A team from Deloitte assisted the Government with this undertaking, and the work was completed in December of 2014. The development of this implementation plan is now in progress. It is expected that implementation of the new operating model will commence in the coming months.

Mr. Chairman, in regard to consolidation of departments and programmes, you will recall that the Government accepted the recommendation to realign, merge, amalgamate and/or discontinue certain government departments and programmes. This work has already commenced and will be evidenced throughout the Budget presentation of this department and many other Ministry budgets.

The Public Bodies Reform Functional Review Working Group is deeply engaged in a functional review to identify functions that are:

- duplicated across the government, Mr. Chairman;
- redundant and should be discontinued; and/or
- considered inappropriate and should be transferred to a more appropriate body.

As a result, the Government will be able to make informed decisions that will affect the future shape and size of the civil service.

Mr. Chairman, digitisation of services represents yet another tool that will serve to increase efficiency, streamline service delivery and ultimately help to reduce some costs. You might recall, Mr. Chairman, that the Government accepted the recommendation to expand digital recordkeeping and other digital services. I am pleased to report today that the new government portal will signal the first major change in the way that the Government provides these services. The development of the information architecture for www.gov.bm has been completed, and the new customer-centric portal is expected to launch in the fall of 2016. Following the launch of this new portal, the public can expect to see the introduction of a range of government services provided online. Ultimately, this will result in a reduction in the number of front-line customer service officers required by the Government.

Fiscal Asset Management. Mr. Chairman, as a result of this host of changes, the Government will require fewer assets to support service delivery. Therefore, Government has accepted the recommendation to produce a fiscal asset management plan. And I can report today that the format and template for the property asset management plan has been completed, and recommendations for the amendment of the Public Lands Act 1984, regarding the acquisition and the disposition of land, will be considered in the coming weeks.

Mr. Chairman, the public service reform initiative is the platform through which the Government will reduce the size, cost and shape of the service and dramatically increase operating efficiency. It will also make government more sustainable, going forward. This is a long-term initiative, Mr. Chairman, and I am pleased to report the significant progress that has been made since the Government announced these SAGE recommendations that it will implement.

Mr. Chairman, I turn now to Professional Development and Travel. In 2014/15, I have participated in a number of overseas events on behalf of the people of Bermuda. These visits serve as a major component of our efforts to generate interest and investment in Bermuda, and thereby increase the employment of our people. I am happy to provide some of the highlights today. Mr. Chairman, what I will say before I go through these highlights, I will draw Members' attention and the listening public's attention to the Ministry of Travel website, which was launched in the fall of last year. When trips are taken, shortly after that, as soon as the costs have been tabulated, they will be put on that website.

Mr. Chairman, the first event that I had the pleasure to attend was the Bermuda Tourism Newport Event, Rhode Island. And I participated in a business development event on board the Spirit of Bermuda to support the Bermuda Tourism Authority. And that was in June.

I then attended the Campaign for Bermuda Wellness in New York. That was by invitation of the Bermuda Hospitals Charitable Trust (BHCT), as they launched a fundraising campaign for the Bermuda Wellness Foundation. An overseas charity has been set up.

I had the pleasure of attending the Boston Red Sox Tourism Promotion, and as a lifetime Yankees supporter, I had to be very careful in my approach. But I was happy to go and support and build awareness for Bermuda in the Boston market by leveraging the relationship with the Boston Red Sox in conjunction with a fine Bermuda partner, Goslings of Bermuda.

Mr. Chairman, I attended the Pre-Joint Ministerial Council (JMC) Meeting in Cayman to meet with the Heads of Government of Overseas Territories to plan the agenda and agree on collective positions ahead of the JMC Meeting in the UK.

I attended Business Development and Media Outreach in New York, with Honourable Minister Grant Gibbons, to meet with companies interested in establishing financial service businesses in Bermuda and conduct media interviews to promote Bermuda as an international financial centre. And I was with Minister Crockwell when we did some media at the same function to promote tourism in Bermuda and at the Lily Perfume launch down in the heart of Manhattan.

I had the pleasure, along with Minister Gibbons, to attend the America's Cup Venue Selection Announcement in New York in early December.

And I also attended a couple of weeks ago the 63rd Annual National Prayer Breakfast and meetings with congressional leaders in Washington, DC, where I was accompanied by Minister Gibbons and members of the Cabinet team staff.

Mr. Chairman, a schedule of official business visits is anticipated for the Fiscal Year 2015/16, but the schedule will be in line with the reduced budget allocations. And, as always, Mr. Chairman, travel is only when necessary, jam-packed to maximise the time and done as cost-efficiently as possible.

Mr. Chairman, I now turn to Protocol and Hospitality. The Protocol and Hospitality team plays a leading role in arranging ceremonial functions, including the presentation of the Throne Speech, the Remembrance Day ceremony, official dinners and receptions at Camden, and facilitating VIP delegations and visitors on arrival and departure at the L. F. Wade International Airport. This team also is responsible for managing the operation of Camden. And I have to say, Mr. Chairman, and I think most colleagues in this Honourable House who have had some business dealings with the Protocol and Hospitality Office are well aware that this team operates very efficiently and often quietly behind the scenes to get their job done.

The Central Policy Unit (CPU), Mr. Chairman. The CPU's mission is to work efficiently and effectively with all stakeholders, lending the expertise necessary to generate policy options which are the best for Bermuda, taking into account, of course, the societal, economic and other prevailing considerations of the day.

The CPU carries out a number of varied functions, which include providing advice on current or emergent proposals to the Secretary to the Cabinet and the Premier, developing and implementing policy initiatives and generally improving the standard of policy communication within the Government. More specifically, Mr. Chairman, the CPU assists with the coordination of policy proposals across the Bermuda Government and identifies, explores and considers the wider implication of these proposals.

Up until October 2014, the CPU managed the Cabinet Office Intern Programme, which has been temporarily discontinued. This programme provided Bermudian university graduates opportunities to learn more about the inner workings of the government, with a view to prepare them for future employment in either the public or the private sector. The four interns in the 2013/14 cohort remained with the CPU for the first three months of their contract and were exposed to opportunities for research, critical thinking and, of course, debate. Thereafter, each intern transitioned to a series of three-month stints at various government departments such as Energy, Planning, Environmental Protection, the House of Assembly, Magistrates Court, Public Works, and Marine and Ports. As I stated earlier, the programme has been discontinued for the next fiscal year, but this Government will resume the programme once we are in a position to do so, because we think it is valuable and something we would like to try to continue.

Mr. Chairman, the unit has undertaken a number of assignments during the past fiscal year. The CPU drafted a National Strategic Plan, which, although still under review, will assist with providing focus and direction as the Government moves Bermuda toward economic and social recovery. The unit has provided one-on-one advice to ministries developing policy proposals within a five-day turnaround, ensuring that all policies are not only well-thought-out, but also that the content, once agreed, is sustainable into the future.

The unit continues to provide advice and assistance with identifying Bermuda's role in the development of CARICOM's five-year strategic plan and continues to play a role in helping to assess Bermuda's future with CARICOM. The CPU has also coordinated responses for requests for information from the United Nations, the International Labour Organisation and other international conventions to which Bermuda is party. Particular documents on which the unit has worked include the UN International Convention of Civil and Political Rights, the Convention for the Elimination of All Forms of Racism and the UN General Assembly Special Committee on the situation with regard to the implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples.

Mr. Chairman, the CPU continues to work on guiding government public authorities as they prepare for the April 1st, 2015, implementation of Bermuda's first-ever public access to information [PATI] regime. To that end, the CPU has enlisted additional help from two officers seconded from other government departments, as well as one legal consultant, which I highlighted earlier.

The value brought by the CPU to the Government is undeniable, and, in fact, its role has been supported by both the SAGE Commission and other reviews of the civil service. A review, Mr. Chairman, is currently underway to determine both the optimal operational and staffing levels for the CPU. To that end, government's Management Consulting Section is currently conducting a review to determine the most efficient and effective operational model for the CPU so that it can better support the strategic planning for the Government.

Mr. Chairman, Public Access to Information (PATI). The fundamental principle of public access to information legislation is to provide a statutory right for people to request and obtain information held by public authorities. Bermuda has joined more than 90 countries around the world that have enacted some form of freedom of information (or public access to information) legislation.

No matter the country, public access to information is intended to increase transparency and eliminate unnecessary secrecy on the part of the government. One way in which this can be achieved, Mr. Chairman, is by proactively informing the public about the activities of public authorities and by generally making more information available to the public domain. In jurisdictions where such regimes are in operation, there has been a marked increase in the level of transparency and accountability on the part of government. There are clearly benefits for the citizens, as well, because their level of understanding about how their government operates necessarily increases by the virtue of being able to ask for and, of course, receive information.

In Bermuda, the Public Access to Information Act 2010, taken together with the Public Access to Information Regulations 2014, outline how the access regime is intended to operate here in Bermuda.

Mr. Chairman, the CPU within the Cabinet Office has been charged with ensuring that public authorities, as defined by our legislation, are in a state of readiness for the implementation. The staff at the CPU—Policy Analyst, Mrs. Marisa Sharpe; Junior Policy Analyst, Mr. Gilbert Rowling; and Policy Analyst, Mrs. Alberta Dyer Tucker—has been bolstered by the addition of two secondees, Mrs. Nicole Simons, from the Department of Archives; and Mr. Richard Hazelwood, from the Bermuda Post Office; as well as by the temporary addition of Mrs. Kathy Lightbourne Simons, a legal consultant to the Cabinet Office.

The group combined is known as the PATI Implementation Team. They have reviewed the legislation, recommended a number of amendments to the Act and the Regulations, made presentations to several public authorities about PATI and have responded to operational questions from various public authorities.

Mr. Chairman, although it is intended that the combined PATI Implementation Team will remain in place for several months after the April 1st, 2015, start-up in order to continue to offer assistance to those public authorities who may request it, it is actually intended that the ministries, departments and all public authorities will own PATI and ensure that all requests and requirements are appropriately met.

Mr. Chairman, to be clear, although it may be proposed in earlier models of operation that there would be a central PATI office charged with handling requests and trouble-shooting problems on behalf of public authorities, this will not be the case. It has been determined that a more efficient and meaningful model of PATI operation is for requesters to have their queries handled right at the organisation that holds the information rather than going through another organisation.

In order to ensure that there is a common understanding and agreement about preparation, the PATI Implementation Team holds periodic meetings with government departments such as e-Government, the Office of Information Technology, the Departments of Human Resource and Communication and Information. Each of these organisations contributes to the PATI infrastructure, be it through the creation of advertisements, the development of an electronic tracking system or the creation of the PATI webpage.

Mr. Chairman, you would be aware that His Excellency the Governor announced on Friday the appointment of Ms. [Gitanjali] Gutierrez as Bermuda's first Information Commissioner to oversee the PATI regime here on the Island. According to the PATI legislation, the Information Commissioner serves for a period of five years. The position answers to the Governor and can be thought of in broader terms as operating in a manner similar to the Ombudsman.

Mr. Chairman, there will necessarily be an arms-length distance between the office and the rest of government as a whole. In addition to making sure that the public is well informed about PATI, the Information Commissioner will publish codes of practice relating to PATI operations and will act as a mediator for any PATI-related issues.

Mr. Chairman, PATI has been a long time coming to Bermuda. From the seminal work done in 2003, to the passage of the legislation in 2010, to the full implementation slated for April 1st, 2015, we have seen at least 12 years of work, at varying levels of intensity, carried out around this regime. Mr. Chairman, it is clear that this Government is committed to the public's right to have access to information held by the government. We have accepted our responsibility to raise the levels of transparency and accountability by ensuring that PATI is indeed implemented. PATI is now here, and it will require us, all of us, to approach our business differently.

Mr. Chairman, I am sure that there will be some teething problems along the way, but this Government is committed to the transparency, and that is why we have moved forward on PATI.

The Management Consulting Section [MCS] provides professional business management consulting services, Mr. Chairman, and has value-added services to ministries and departments through a broad array of public sector consulting. Mr. Chairman, in particular, this section helps to analyse and rationalise, transform and implement programmes and services. They provide analytical support to internal clients, enabling them to make evidence-based decisions, identifying strategic and/or operational challenges, and to optimise operational approaches to realise efficiency and programme effectiveness. The overarching objective is to achieve greater value in the changing political, economic and legislative environments in which the government operates. Consistent communication, positive stakeholder relations and the ability to lead organisational change are key success factors to the Management Consulting Section's work.

Mr. Chairman, as noted on page B-34, the Management Consulting Section achieved its target outcome of completing 80 per cent of requests for the preparation and/or review of Cabinet memos and evaluated 85 per cent of ministry or department job description packages within one month of date of receipt. As noted in last year's Budget brief, when taking into consideration the Management Consulting Section's overall purpose and its alignment with the goals of the public service reform, it was deemed necessary to add two output measures, namely, (1) project/report recommendations identifying cost savings in the amount of $750,000 within Fiscal Year 2014/15, and (2) identifying a minimum of 25 performance measures that will help improve service delivery and performance.

I am pleased to report that, to date, the Management Consulting Section has recommended costs savings that equate to $632,673, or 84 per cent of our target within the current fiscal year. In addition, Mr. Chairman, they have exceeded expectations by identifying more than the projected target goal of 25 performance measures. It is important to note that the work of the projects can span over two fiscal years, depending on the start and end dates and how complex the reviews happen to be, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, taking into consideration the unprecedented economic challenges that we face, the Management Consulting Section assisted ministries and departments with delivering better service to the public and achieving public value for money. Some of the projects completed by the Management Consulting Section are as follows, Mr. Chairman. I will highlight some of them.

Stabilising the Department of Maritime Administration. Mr. Chairman, following the Department of Transport UK audit findings in February of 2013, the embargo imposed by the British Maritime Regulator was lifted in March 2014 as a result of the Management Consulting Section working with the Department of Maritime Administration. Thus, they can continue with operating the Bermuda Shipping Registry, which continues to grow, resulting in additional revenue generation for the Government of Bermuda. In addition, Bermuda has received favourable results from the Department of Internal Audit.

Mr. Chairman, there is a high demand for aircraft registry services globally. The Department of Civil Aviation has a well-established and highly reputable aircraft registry. In order to remain competitive and positioned for growth, the Management Consulting Section has realigned internal resources and assisted in identifying efficiencies in their processes so that they can seize future opportunities which will result in increased revenue and efficient civil aviation services. In the first quarter of Fiscal 2014/15, the Cabinet approved a reorganisation structure that will support their continued growth and transition to a different operating model. Ongoing discussions are taking place. It should be noted, Mr. Chairman, that this is one of the SAGE recommendations that is being fulfilled, and it is also aligned with public service reform. No additional resources are required, and efficiency levels increased due to the realignment of staff resources and recommendations for process improvements.

Mr. Chairman, following the establishment of the Tourism Authority, the Management Consulting Section was asked to determine if the Regulatory and Policy Unit should remain within the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport, as approved by the Cabinet, or was this unit actually better suited in another department or ministry? The results of this review process supported Government's recommendation for the Regulatory and Policy Unit to stay within the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport, as it is the Government's responsibility to set policy and regulation for industry. However, the Management Consulting Section recommended that the ministry consider shifting from the current regulatory process to a quality assurance programme. This will support the objectives of the Tourism Authority in making Bermuda a preferred tourism destination.

Mr. Chairman, the Management Consulting Section has recently completed a review of the National Office for Seniors and the Physically Challenged (NOSPC) within the Ministry of Health, Seniors and the Environment. The purpose of this review was to determine its role, function and organisation structure. The outcome of the review was to stabilise the operations in order to plan its strategic direction in serving the needs of its target population. Recommendations were made on the strategic objectives, operating structure and process improvements of the entity. Recommendations are being currently considered in regards to their implementation.

Mr. Chairman, I now turn to our overseas offices, first the London Office. Since the inception of the London Office in 2009, it has continued to provide service to the Government by fostering greater working relationships with the Department of Her Majesty's Government (HMG), while working in cohesion with the Governments of the Overseas Territories on collective priority issues. The London Office continues to be recognised as the official representative of Bermuda and the Government of Bermuda in the UK by all departments within HMG, to include both Houses of Parliament; the UK Diplomatic Corps such as embassies and high commissions; the United Kingdom Overseas Territories Association; the Commonwealth Secretariat, along with all UK-based Commonwealth Associations.

It also serves Bermudians living in the UK, including students and the general UK public, to include private companies and civil societies who have an interest in Bermuda. The office continues to host a satellite office for the Department of Civil Aviation and the Department of Maritime Administration.

The role of the London Office for the Fiscal Year 2014/15 specifically concentrated on managing the reputational risk of Bermuda's financial services industry in the UK and, of course, in Europe, Mr. Chairman. As we are aware, the UK Government has applied political pressure to the Governments of the Overseas Territories to adopt a public register of beneficial ownership. The London Office, alongside the Ministry of Finance, has provided the required assistance to the Government's engagement on this matter to minimise the risk directed by Her Majesty's Government by effective, continuous dialogue and briefings to UK officials.

The London Office consistently engages and works in partnership with the UK public sector and engages with the UK private sector and civil societies to ensure the Government's agenda is carried through. This refers to matters on-Island or in the UK and Europe. The office is also responsible for ensuring that commitments made by the UK Government and the Governments of the Overseas Territories in the 2014 Joint Ministerial Communiqué are fulfilled alongside this Government's agenda.

In January 2014, Bermuda became a signatory to the Overseas Association Decision (or OAD), which manages the relationship between the European Commission and the [Overseas] Countries and Territories (OCT) on relevant matters within the European Union [EU]. The London Office holds responsibility for Bermuda's engagement with the OAD. The purpose of that engagement is to share in best practice how each OCT creates sustainable development through participating in EU partnerships and adding value to its economic development through innovation, competitiveness and growth. Sharing of these values provides OCT's with a special relationship within the European Union and helps political visibility in Europe, as well.

The London Office will continue to engage with the European Commission and to advise the Government on: (1) European regional funding, where the European Commission supports OCT's efforts to position themselves as regional hubs in services such as higher education, health care, commerce, transportation, shipping, logistics, communications and scientific research by encouraging private investment from EU-based companies and financial backing by the European Investment Bank (EIB) and local financial institutions in these sectors; and (2) European horizontal thematic programmes as it relates to the Overseas Association Decision based on priorities set in partnership with the European Commission and the OCT's.

Mr. Chairman, the London Office continues to provide a consular service to Bermudians living and studying in the UK and Europe. The assistance provided by the London Office includes emergency assistance (each case is assessed by government departments); accessing emergency travel documents; providing UK residency advice and assistance to Bermudians; as well as travel advice to other nationals residing in Britain who wish to travel to Bermuda and require access to government services.

Mr. Chairman, I now turn to the Washington, DC, Office. The Fiscal Year 2013/14 was a year of transition for the Washington, DC, representative office, with the introduction of new personnel. With that transition, the office re-examined its current approach and reassessed its mandate. The DC Office of the Government of Bermuda was established in September 2009, generally to strengthen relationships with the United States public and private sector. The Washington, DC, Office has continued to serve as a full-time liaison to US congressional members and staff since May 2010.

The Overseas Representative and Director has accepted and attended several meetings with congressional members and high-level staff and advisors to inform them of Bermuda's broad public policy agenda in the United States. Areas of interest remain, but are not limited to taxation and protection of the insurance/reinsurance industry, promotion of Bermuda's tourism sector through its linkage with the Bermuda Tourism Agency offices in New York and in Bermuda and, generally, promotion of Bermuda as an international business centre.

The Washington, DC, representative office has worked diligently to complete a strategic assessment and develop a plan for the years ahead; and this plan is at 25 per cent completion as regards its ability to execute.

To that end, Mr. Chairman, the DC Office has completed the following:

- Based on best practices, they have defined the role of the Washington, DC, Office and developed a plan to execute on Bermuda's key strategic objectives, which would be: (1) to ensure and protect Bermuda's status as a friendly global partner; (2) to establish global relationships that create trade partnerships, cultural exchange, foreign direct investment and travel and tourism opportunities; and (3) to create structure to support Bermudians and Bermuda-based businesses in key overseas markets.
- In addition, they further develop key messages for Bermuda that reflect Bermuda's diplomatic, tax, trade, cultural and social policy issues.
- They have been invited and have attended quarterly meetings with G20 embassies in DC.
- They have engaged as a member of the Board of Directors for the Foreign Trade Commissioners Association and attended meetings, conferences and receptions with the regard to this entity.
- They have referred several businesses to Bermuda, including SpaceX, Black Emergency Managers Association and Turkish Airlines, among others, trying to drum up new business opportunities for Bermuda.
- They have been referred to the National Bar Association Subcommittee Group for approximately 1,000 beds for 2015 to boost our tourism product.
- They continue to work effectively with the Department of Fisheries on the potential for the introduction of aquaculture as an industry into Bermuda, together with meeting with potential investors in the US and Bermuda.
- On a monthly basis, Mr. Chairman, they attend meetings with US Senators, Congressman, staffers and congressional committees. In particular, they have worked closely with official visits such as the one I just conducted with Minister Gibbons, and they hold meetings and communicate with key Senate Finance Committee on-goings in regard to policies affecting Bermuda.
- They have continued on with good work and organised a reception for India and Bermuda businesses hosted by the Indian Ambassador at the Indian Consulate General in New York.
- They provide ongoing research and monitoring of legislative and public policy developments in the US, Canada, Mexico, Latin America and Asia. And they do this in regard to any budgetary constraints that we might have.
- They have organised and completed the 2015 economic research report on Bermuda's economic role in the world economy, particularly the United States and Canada, the major European communities, UK, Germany and France, China and its regional microstates of Hong Kong and Singapore, between 2007 and 2013.
- They have hosted the first official Bermuda Day Reception abroad.
- They have conducted the official celebration of Cup Match abroad, and had an educational lecture by Ms. Kristin White of the St. Georges Foundation.
- They have continued to organise events that will promote Bermuda, such as the art exhibit featuring work by Bermudian artists Sharon Wilson and Monica Jones in honour of the CBC Annual Legislative Conference. Ms. Wilson also gave a lecture on art and race relations in Bermuda.

- And finally, the DC Office has acquired an unpaid intern for the summer 2014 to assist with various projects and to get some vast training and knowledge experience for the young person.

Plans for the Upcoming Year

Mr. Chairman, in looking forward to 2015/16, the main focal area for the Head Office continues to be Public Service Reform. As indicated earlier, the objective of this reform is to achieve results in the six areas that I listed earlier in my presentation. Under the leadership of the Secretary to the Cabinet and the Deputy Head of the Civil Service, the new form of the public service has begun and is taking shape.

In regard to the CPU, the CPU will focus mainly on implementing PATI when it starts on April 1st. The impact of PATI on the public service cannot be understated, Mr. Chairman. The coming year will be critical to ensuring that the regime is implemented successfully.

Management Services. During the coming fiscal year, the team will continue to focus on the Government's public service reform while carrying out its mandate. Thus, the Management Consulting Section's function will be viewed as progressive; that is, it will continue to deliver increased benefits in terms of efficiency and effectiveness on how public services are performed and, of course, delivered, while also [sharpening], Mr. Chairman, the focus of Ministries and departments on the realisation of the Bermuda Government's goals and priorities.

The MCS has commenced an operational and organisational review of the Department of Marine and Ports. This review, Mr. Chairman, is in its early stages. The MCS is working with the department's new management to organise resources, realign its business units and identify any efficiencies and cost reductions. The MCS will look at the staff complement and recommend an organisation structure that will facilitate succession-planning for up-and-coming Bermudians in the industry. The MCS will also look at the overall scheduling and identify how it can better support the transportation and, of course, the tourism industry here on the Island. Furthermore, the work will assist the Department of Marine and Ports with closing audit gaps that were recently identified by the Department of Internal Audit. The end result, Mr. Chairman, will be a department that is more efficient and effective than the current state.

The MCS has commenced a review of the Departments of Environmental Protection and Conservation Services and the Environmental Health Section within the Department of Health. The purpose of this review is to determine areas of linkages in order to improve operating efficiency and effectiveness. The outcome of the review will be to optimise regulatory capabilities in the areas of public and environmental health.

It is necessary for MCS to play its role in assisting the Bermuda Government with meeting the six public reform goals. Thus, the Management Consulting Section will conduct more strategic reviews with the intent of determining if they are operation critical.

Mr. Chairman, in regard to the London Office, the director has been tasked to examine the current lease of the London property with the intention of finding alternative space with similar value in Central London. The purpose is to find a location that provides cost savings to this Government. The property has served the Government well over these past years; however, the current property market in London suggests that it is now time to review and find any opportunity for alternate locations. Currently, the majority of the London Office budget goes towards the overhead of the property, leaving limited expenditure for the office to carry out its mission.

In regard to the DC Office, Mr. Chairman, based on its research and guidance, the Washington, DC, Office will continue its efforts to establish a fully effective overseas representative office that is global in nature, but primarily focused in on the United States, Canada and Asia, with a strategic plan and targeted objectives that drive diplomatic, policy, business, cultural and social connections on behalf of the Government and to the benefit of all Bermudians.

Where possible, the DC Office will focus efforts on advancing treaties, MOU's and agreements that will further benefit Bermuda's economic and social progress, enhance its reputation and attract talent, and generate support for the jurisdiction.

Mr. Chairman, the Cabinet Office is at the very heart of Government. For the Government to be effective, the Cabinet Office must be effective. The culture and leadership of the entire Public Service emanates from the Cabinet Office. We understand our responsibility for good governance and leadership, particularly during these most challenging of times, and we take that responsibility seriously.

In closing, I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to all of the individuals who comprise the Cabinet Office for their unstinting dedication and service. Given the nature of our work, many of them are called upon around the clock, and they respond without hesitation. Without them, we could not have achieved the success we have today. Mr. Chairman, I would like to take a special moment to thank Cabinet Secretary, Dr. Binns, for his leadership and, of course, his guidance and his support of me as Premier. I would also like to take this opportunity to thank the Deputy Head of the Civil Service, Cherie-lynn Whitter, for the good work that she continues to do.

With those comments, Mr. Chairman, I turn my attention now to Head Number 26.

HEAD 26—DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Chairman, the Department of Human Resources is found on pages B-38 to B-43 of the Budget Book, and it gives me great pleasure to present the Budget Head for Department of Human Resources, Number 26.

The Department of Human Resources' mission is: To partner with internal and external stakeholders to provide professional, strategic and value added solutions to maximise human capital and enable operational success.

The total expenditure is estimated to be $3,884,000 for the coming financial year, a decrease of $210,000, or approximately 5 per cent. The subjective analysis for the department is on page B-39 of the Estimates Book. The following object code description increases or decreases are attributed to the following areas:

- Salaries—An increase of 5 per cent, or $113,000 which represents funding that has to be replaced as a result of the furlough days ending at the end of March this year;
- Wages—a decrease of 92 per cent, or $71,000. These funds were previously utilised to cover an additional resource to assist with providing the administrative support for the Learning and Development Section. Funding that was allocated for maternity coverage has also been removed.
- Other personnel costs—a decrease of 100 per cent, or $9,000, primarily due to the elimination of bonus awards for the officers within the department.
- Training—a reduction of $25,000, or 13 per cent, for professional development for officers. We will conduct as much training in-house as we can during these difficult periods.
- Travel—a decrease of 46 per cent, or $37,000, in available funding, Mr. Chairman. Travel overseas to attend specialised conferences and workshops will be pulled back as much as possible, and funding has also been reduced for airfares to relocate employees to and from Bermuda.
- Communications—a decrease of $1,000, or 7 per cent, and that is strictly relating to courier costs.
- Advertising and Promotion—a reduction of $10,000, or 29 per cent, for funding for advertising of local and overseas recruitment and promotions of the Government of Bermuda as an employer of choice.
- Professional Services—a decrease of 66 per cent, or $189,000, for funding for local and overseas facilitators. Also, funding for membership fees has been eliminated in this financial year.
- Rentals—Mr. Chairman, a reduction of 3 per cent, or $14,000, in funding for the rental of office and audio/visual equipment rental to assist with the facilitation of workshops. Funding associated with the rental of buildings to host external training courses has also been decreased.
- Repair and Maintenance—an increase of 83 per cent, or $124,000, is a result, Mr. Chairman, of the department having to find money within its operational budget to fully fund the annual hosting, support and license costs of the Bermuda Government's first Human Resource Information Management (HRIM) system.
- And finally, Materials & Supplies—there has been a $91,000, or 55 per cent, reduction, primarily associated with materials and supplies that are used within this department.

Mr. Chairman, funds budgeted for Capital Acquisition for 2015/16 amount to $36,000. These items can be found on page C-8. The allocated funding will be used to purchase copier/printer/scanner equipment, and to cover the costs for implementing an automated process in the Human Resource Information Management System for employees to register online for workshops offered by the Department of Human Resources.

The manpower estimates for the department as outlined are on page B-40, Mr. Chairman. There are 29 full-time equivalents for the same in the current fiscal year. Let me take an opportunity to highlight that 100 per cent of this department is Bermudian.

In regard to Output Measures, Mr. Chairman, they can be found on pages B-41 to B-43 of the Budget Book. Competencies describe the behaviours, skills, knowledge and attributes that an employee must possess to be effective in his or her job. Currently, there are competencies that were established for the civil service as part of the performance appraisal process. The Department of Human Resources, however, was desirous of agreeing and establishing specific leadership competencies during 2013/14. The initiative was not achieved due to insufficient resources. The new target outcome, Mr. Chairman, is for the 31st of October 2015. As a result of not being able to establish the leadership competencies, briefing awareness sessions were not conducted around that, Mr. Chairman.

To ensure that all public service's performance management culture is transformed to be outcome driven and one that is integrated across the service, a comprehensive performance management approach was communicated to all public officers by the targeted deadline of the 30th of April 2013. The approach will contribute to the effective management of employees as individuals, as well as teams, in order to achieve high levels of organisational performance, which in turn will drive a vibrant world-class public service.

Communication regarding performance management continued to make certain that all public officers across the service have an opportunity to increase their awareness of the importance of performance management. This was achieved by offering four lunch-and-learn sessions between June 2013 and January 2014.

Mr. Chairman, we are pleased to report that five Bermudian professional and technical trainees were appointed to posts that are difficult to fill and/or held by contract officers between April 2013 and March 2014. The posts these individuals were appointed to included electrical engineer (one post), comptroller (one post), airworthiness safety inspector, management accountant and a process controller.

The Department of Human Resources was able to achieve 100 per cent of the annual review of trainee development plans, exceeding the forecasted 90 per cent. This review ensures that the agreed outcomes of the trainee development programmes, are being achieved and enables appropriate placement of suitably qualified Bermudians.

Mr. Chairman, you will recall that I have commented that the Department of Human Resources successfully launched the phase one of the Bermuda Government's first Human Resource Information Management System (HRIMS) on April 1st, 2013. And this allows persons seeking employment within the Government of Bermuda to apply online. With the implementation of the Human Resource Information System, the department has developed two new recruitment performance measures that reduce time-to-hire and the turnaround time to prepare employment contracts

The department's aim is to ensure the Government of Bermuda acquires the best talent; therefore, the first performance measure is to improve the recruitment and selection process by reducing the time to hire on average from 20 weeks to 10 weeks for local recruitment, and from 24 weeks to 12 weeks for overseas recruitment.

During fiscal year 2013/14, a combined overall reduction of 18 per cent was achieved, and the continued aim is to achieve a 50 per cent reduction. There are aspects of the recruitment and selection processes that are indeed outside of the control of the Department of Human Resources, such as the review committee process that impacted the time-to-hire and the delegation of recruitment (i.e., due to staffing levels, the Department of Human Resources does not drive every recruitment process).

Mr. Chairman, the second aim is to improve the efficiency of the recruitment process by reducing the turnaround time to prepare employment contracts on average by 50 per cent—that is, from 10 working days to 5 working days. I am pleased to report that the actual turnaround time to produce employment contracts was reduced by 77 per cent, which exceeded the outcome measure. The positive outcomes of increasing efficiencies in the recruitment and selection are being realised with the Human Resource Management Information System.

Mr. Chairman, obviously, as a businessperson yourself, you will be aware that attracting the right staff and recruiting staff and getting staff on board are critical. Because quite often, if somebody applies to you, they will be applying to other people as well, and if you cannot move in an efficient, timely manner, you might lose a valuable employee. So I am glad that the focus on Human Resources has been put on here to make it more streamlined and more efficient. There is still some work to be done, but I have every confidence that the department will continue to make the strides that are necessary.

Mr. Chairman, the outcome to communicate a succession planning framework by November 30th, 2013, was not achieved due to other areas that were deemed to be priority at the time. However, now that recommendations from SAGE have been reviewed and decisions made on which ones will be accepted, the Department of Human Resources can commence work on formulating a succession planning framework to ensure there is a consistent approach across the organisation. Once finalised it is anticipated that this framework will be communicated by December 31st, 2015.

Mr. Chairman, in regard to work that has been done and things accomplished, I will give a brief overview for the 2014/15 Fiscal Year in the Department of Human Resources [HR]. The department is pleased to announce that two major recommendations from a review conducted by the Cabinet Office's Management Consulting Section were agreed and work has commenced.

The first was the development of a Government Human Resource Model. A request for proposal (RFP) was published in May 2014, and Deloitte was the approved vendor to undertake this review. The review took an aggressive approach in terms of timelines for the publication of a draft report for Cabinet approval. Work commenced in mid-September, and the final report was submitted in November of 2014. The report recommended that before the Government of Bermuda changes the HR organisational structure, that focus should be on enhancing core HR processes. This will be the focus between 2015 and 2016, and more details will be provided as we move along, and I will continue to keep people updated.

Mr. Chairman, harmonisation of policies across the public sector was another recommendation that was accepted, and the department has commenced efforts to amalgamate human resource policies for the public service.

In 2014, the department developed a Human Resources Policy Suite. The policy suite is a catalogue of 96 policies and related instruments that have some operational integration with the Department of Human Resources. It includes categories on Absence Management, Career Transition, Compensation and Pay Administration, Employee Benefits, Employment, Job Classification, Safety and Health, Information Management, Labour Relations, Learning and Development, Performance Management, Privacy and Protections, and Termination.

Mr. Chairman, the drafting of HR instruments was designed with the intention of ensuring applicability across the public service. In other words, each policy consideration and recommendation will aim to support the entire service—i.e., all employees, irrespective of the ministry, department, or union representation. As a general principle, all policy instruments are governed or advanced by government documentation, which includes legislation, regulations, codes and commissioned reports. This means, Mr. Chairman, that as propositions are accepted, determinations of governing documents, including collective bargaining agreements, will need to be reconsidered.

Due to the size of the policy suite, the policy development was separated out into four phases. As a result of utilising a human resource working group comprising professionals from across the service, development work for those policies that fall within phase one has commenced. It is anticipated that the commencement of work for phases two and three will take place during 2016/17.

Mr. Chairman, during the second quarter of 2014/15, the Department of Human Resources continued work on phase two, which is the talent management module. The module includes succession planning, performance management and learning and development.

The identification of what talent we have across the organisation was seen as a critical first step as part of gathering information for succession planning. Therefore, on September 10, 2014, the Employee Self-Service (ESS) was launched for all public officers. Employees, irrespective of which union represents their positions, have an opportunity to highlight such things as their education, employment history, and professional development pursuits. As this is the first phase of gathering employee data for succession planning, all government employees in permanent, temporary additional and trainee positions are now able to input their information into the Human Resource Information Management System (HRIMS).

As self-service is a new concept to the Government of Bermuda, and to prepare employees for this new initiative, the Department of Human Resources provided ESS demonstration sessions to employees between August and October 2014. Approximately 770 employees attended the demonstrations. For those departments that deemed it difficult to have staff attend one of the Human Resource Department's demonstrations, a video demonstration was also produced. The video option was made available to departments so that they could have their respective in-house representatives share the information with staff. In addition, Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) were prepared, and these have been circulated via email on a regular basis, with a reminder for employees to create their own profiles.

Mr. Chairman, some of the benefits of having a fully functional talent management system that incorporates an employee self-service are as follows:

- employees can share their career plans and aspirations with management;
- it provides opportunities for career movement and growth;
- managers can easily find talent within the organisation;
- identification of necessary employee training and development is also possible to ensure employee growth.

Mr. Chairman, it would be remiss of me not to share that the talent management module is integrated with the Enterprise One (E1) system hosted by the Accountant General's Department to enable employees' information, such as name, date of birth, employee number, and position ID number, to automatically populate each employee's profile. This is an example of how, across government, we can integrate our systems to achieve efficiencies, and the work will continue.

Mr. Chairman, during the 2014/15 fiscal year, work commenced to automate the course registration for public officers. The Learning and Development Section completed business process mapping for course registration and has started to test the automated processes. This feature, which is a component of the talent management module, will enable employees to submit training requests to their line managers/supervisors for review and approval before the request is submitted to the Department of Human Resources. Courses that are full would enable online wait-listing, and appropriate email notifications for such areas as course acceptance and wait-listing will be generated from the system.

Based on the need for the public service to improve delivery of services resulting in a more efficient, more cost effective, more user-friendly and accountable public service, the Human Resources Department's five-year learning and development strategy focuses on performance management and building leadership capacity.

The focus for year one (which was 2013/14) was employees who have been in the service for up to five years and all employees who supervise staff from executive to foreman level, irrespective of the years of service. Fiscal year 2014/15 included employees who have been in service for up to 10 years and all employees who supervise staff from executive to foreman, irrespective of their level and years of service.

Mr. Chairman, the Department of Human Resources continues to manage two talent management programmes, namely, the Professional and Technical Trainee Scheme and the Public Service Bursary Award Scheme. The Professional and Technical Trainee Scheme provides Bermudians with an opportunity to obtain qualifications and work-related experiences that enable them to fill professional and technical positions within the public service.

Mr. Chairman, there are currently 15 trainees enrolled in the Professional and Technical Trainee scheme seeking to obtain qualifications and experiences to eventually fill posts such as management accountant, business analyst, environmental health officer, land title legal officer, land surveyor, maritime operations controller, supervising engineer, quantity surveyor, planner and civil engineer.

Mr. Chairman, the Public Service Bursary Award Scheme is another successful programme that awards bursaries to Bermudians who are enrolled in courses of study at a university, college or other training institution in order to acquire professional or technical qualifications. The areas of study are identified by permanent secretaries and/or heads of departments as essential or desirable for appointment to an office in the public service.

Fifteen bursaries valued at $10,000 can be awarded annually, Mr. Chairman. Currently, bursary awardees are studying in the fields of accounting, dental hygiene, library science and information, engineering, aviation and medicine. There were two bursary recipients who successfully completed their programmes of study and were recognised during the current fiscal year. These individuals completed studies in occupational therapy and biology. Mr. Chairman, I was pleased to attend that reception and awards for them, and I was impressed by the work that is being done in this regard.

Mr. Chairman, the department embarked on a pilot to enhance the performance appraisal programme. The new form was offered in an electronic format aimed to reduce labour hours and to create efficiencies for the process of submissions. It also introduced new parameters for the level of assessment relevant to the type of employee and restrictions aimed to produce more precise information. Utilising the current rating scale of 1 to 5, the system was designed to break down the measurement to offer greater detail in levels of performance of both individuals and the civil service as a whole.

Results of the pilot programme have proven successful, as new key performance indicators could be reported on to better qualify government's performance, based on competencies and technical functions of participating employees. Survey results also demonstrated the pilot was well received amongst the departments who participated, including the Department of Human Resources, the Department of Statistics, the Department of e-Government, the Department of Immigration and the Ministry of Works (BPSU only, Mr. Chairman).

Mr. Chairman, in regard to plans for the coming year, in fiscal year 2015/16, the Department of Human Resources will continue to work towards achieving its vision of building a competent, engaged workforce which drives a vibrant world-class public service. Therefore, as previously mentioned, before changing the Government's HR model process mapping of the employee life cycle for the service must commence. The employee life cycle comprises recruitment and on-boarding, compensation and benefits administration, performance management, succession and career planning, and separation.

As there are no harmonised processes for the Government of Bermuda as an employer, these areas that comprise the employee life cycle, if they exist, currently differ based on the union representation of the respective positions. This initiative will be a priority for the Department of Human Resources. Once reviewed, the future state processes will be created, revised and implemented during the coming fiscal year 2015/16.

Mr. Chairman, the officers under Head 26, the Department of Human Resources, have persevered throughout the fiscal year 2014/15 in developing professional and strategic partnerships with their stakeholders, with a focus of providing value-added solutions to achieve operational success. I would like to take this opportunity as I close my remarks on Head 26 to thank the Director, Mrs. Carlita O'Brien, and her team, for a job well done in the work that they do under very trying conditions.

HEAD 80—OFFICE OF PROJECT MANAGEMENT AND PROCUREMENT

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Chairman, the last head for discussion and debate this morning is Head Number 80, the Office of Project Management and Procurement (OPMP). It gives me great pleasure to present Head Number 80, which can be found in the Budget Book on pages B-51 to B-53.

Mr. Chairman, the mission of the Office of Project Management and Procurement is to provide oversight and guidance to government departments and ministries regarding project management and procurement activities, to ensure fairness, transparency and consistency in awards of contracts and adherence to applicable rules and industry best practices.

The total current expenditure for the Office of Project Management and Procurement is estimated to be $868,000, which represents a decrease of $45,000 or approximately 5 per cent lower than the Budget for the current financial year, and that is explained in detail in the subjective analysis on page B-52, as follows, Mr. Chairman:

1. Salaries (line 1) has a budget allocation of $807,000, representing an increase of $4,000, or less than 1 per cent.
2. Other Personnel Costs (line 2) has been allocated a budget of $5,000, an increase of $5,000. This change is due to professional membership fees. These are dues charged by professionals to retain their professional license.
3. Training (line 3) has been allocated a budget of $9,000, representing a decrease of $11,000, or 55 per cent. This change is due to the need to become more efficient, but we will continue to look at training in more appropriate ways as we move forward through this year, bearing in mind that we will train as much as possible to stay at the cutting edge.
4. Travel (line 4) has been allocated a budget of $5,000, a decrease of $8,000, or 62 per cent. This is a cut-back which we believe we can live with and still get the job done.
5. Communications (line 5) has been allocated a budget of $8,000, an increase of $2,000, or 33 per cent over the budget for the current financial year, and necessary in light of the projects that we have to take on, Mr. Chairman.
6. Rental Fees (line 7) has been allocated a budget of $7,000.
7. Repair and Maintenance (line 8), their budget of $5,000, a decrease of $27,000, or 84 per cent. This change, Mr. Chairman, specifically relates to software maintenance that is no longer required in the next financial year.
8. Clothing, Uniforms & Laundry (line 9) has a budget decrease of $4,000, or 100 per cent less than the original budget allocation, simply because the line item is no longer required in this department.
9. Materials & Supplies (line 10) has a budget allocated of $22,000, a decrease of $6,000 over the current financial year, which represents a decrease of materials and supplies due to the government-wide budget reduction initiative. But we feel we can live and plan effectively through that.

Mr. Chairman, funds budgeted for Capital Expenditure for the year 2015/16 amount to [$77,000]. This budget is listed towards the back of the Budget Book, on page C-8. Sixty-seven thousand dollars will be used to complete the development and implementation of the Purchasing and Tendering System (PATS). Ten thousand dollars has been allocated to obtain a replacement photocopier that has had its useful life, Mr. Chairman.

Performance Measures (B-53)

All Cabinet memoranda, contracts and requests for proposal (RFP, RFI, or EOI) received by the Office of Project Management and Procurement for vetting will receive a response within five days of receipt. The department plans to perform compliance audits on four projects, 6 procurement processes and 12 contracts. In addition, the department expects to review 24 requests for procurement documents. Now, Mr. Chairman, as you know, these are just estimates because you never know what is going to come up through the year.

Major Achievements

Mr. Chairman, during fiscal year 2014/15, which still has one month left, the department vetted 95 per cent of all documents received for review within five working days. In addition, the department reviewed 84 procurement documents, 29 Cabinet memos and 48 contracts.

During the upcoming year, Mr. Chairman, in 2015/16, OPMP plans to:

- publish the Procurement Code of Practice as required by Section 33(2)(b) of the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act 1969, once the draft document has been approved;
- perform compliance reviews on projects, the procurement process and contracts;
- conduct training sessions to educate senior managers and executives on procurement guidelines and best practices;
- implement the Purchasing and Tendering System, better known as PATS. (Do not get it mixed up with the New England Patriots!);
- develop and implement a Procurement Procedure Manual (or PPM), which will include template documentation and in-depth procedures for procurement;
- draft and implement updated guidelines for managing capital projects for all ministries and departments; and
- implement a small-business government-contracting program in conjunction with the Bermuda Economic Development Corporation.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to expand a little on the Procurement Procedure Manual. While the rules regarding the use of the public purse have become more stringent and standards have been raised when purchasing on behalf of government, public officers must focus in on controlling spending, applying the same principles as if it was their own money, Mr. Chairman. And I will repeat that: Public officers must apply the same principles as if the money was their own money. And I find that that is always a good guideline as I conduct my political role, and I think all of us should remember that.

Government must continue to leverage its name, its credit rating and its buying power—those are important to focus in on. Leverage our name, the good name of the Bermuda Government, its good credit rating and, of course, its buying power. To this end, a process of asserting control over our major suppliers has begun.

Historically, there has been no central coordination of contracts. Major long-term contracts have been set up by each department or Ministry, often with the same supplier. Government contracts have been negotiated using inefficient commercial pricing. Poor negotiation has led to inadequate flexibility of service levels for many contracts. As a result, Mr. Chairman, we are incorporating in the Procurement Code of Practice the following principles:

1. mandating centralised procurement for common categories to leverage this buying power and to achieve best practice;
2. producing accurate expenditure and consumption data;
3. pricing common items at the same level for all government departments (and making contracts available to the wider public sector); and
4. overseeing and managing across Ministries' demand and specifications.

Mr. Chairman, let me stress that while procurement will continue to be decentralised, control and oversight will certainly be centralised.

Mr. Chairman, this brings me to the end of the presentation on this head, the Office of Project Management and Procurement. And I want to take this opportunity to thank them for their diligent work over the past year, and thank the acting Director, Mr. Graham Simmons, and his team for the work that they do.

Mr. Chairman, as I close in on the three heads discussed this morning in the Cabinet Office, I want to take this opportunity to say that the Cabinet Office has effectively managed the budget with the 5 per cent cuts, which actually we managed to get 6 per cent for this coming financial year—a savings of over $1.5 million. Mr. Chairman, we will lead by example, barring any unforeseen circumstances, and deliver the services, as expected, in a prompt and professional manner.

Mr. Chairman, as we have to look at doing things a different way, we have to look at becoming more efficient. I think if we start to think about these things, as we start to examine these things and we start to ask questions and we dialogue more about it, we can find a way to do things that can not only be more cost effective, but will continue to deliver the services to the people of Bermuda they are expecting.

I want to take this opportunity, as I close, to thank, again, Cabinet Secretary, Dr. Binns, for his work that he does throughout the entire civil service, and thank Dr. Binns specifically for the work that he does to support me and the Cabinet team.

The last thing I will say on this, Mr. Chairman, in regard to the Cabinet Office and Dr. Binns as the Head of the Civil Service who works out of there, the civil service is under a great deal of focus now because of the challenges we face in our economy. And by and large, Mr. Chairman, I have been impressed by the dedication and zeal of the civil service team that works not only in the Cabinet Office, but throughout government.

It is unfortunate that there is such a critical eye cast on it. Rather than taking a personal approach at the work of some people, we should take a much larger approach at the good work that is being done, and understand and accept the need to continue to improve as we go forward.

So I look forward to working with the Cabinet Secretary and the entire team at the Cabinet Office and its civil servants as we deliver the services that the people of Bermuda expect. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Mr. Premier.

Honourable Opposition Leader, would you like to break for lunch? We have 10 minutes to go. Go ahead.

[Pause]

The Chairman: An hour and 28 minutes.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: How much time?

The Chairman: An hour and 28 minutes.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: An hour and 28 minutes. Thank you. Good morning, Mr. Chairman. Good morning, honourable colleagues.

I would first like to thank the Honourable Premier for the brief that was prepared by his quite able Cabinet Secretary, Dr. Derrick Binns.

Certainly, Mr. Chairman, the Honourable Premier made mention that the Budget for the Cabinet Office came in on budget. And I can say that, as a Minister, I had the Cabinet Secretary as my Permanent Secretary, and this is par for the course in terms of being the chief accountant for their respective departments: Dr. Binns is excellent in terms of managing a budget.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to turn to page B-31 and take some time to read the mission statement and department objectives of the Cabinet Office. The mission statement, as contained on page B-31, says, "Cabinet Office is at the Heart of Government, providing services to Cabinet, the Premier, and Ministries of Government. Cabinet Office also coordinates initiatives on cross-cutting issues, acts as the corporate headquarters for the Civil Service, providing services, advice and guidance for other departments, and by extension to the wider public sector.”

Now, the department objectives are thus:

- Strengthen governance, transparency and accountability across the public sector.
- Deliver efficient and effective services to the Premier, Ministers, and Cabinet as well as provide oversight and co-ordination of the Civil Service.
- Raise the quality of civil service capacity.
- Develop and improve Government policies as well as provide assistance to all Departments in the implementation and coordination of those policies.
- Lead and give support to initiatives to modernise business systems and processes in government.

Mr. Chairman, in reading these objectives, especially the first one, “Strengthen governance, transparency and accountability across the public sector,” this is clearly one of the most critical aspects of government that permeates the entire structure of government. At the same time, Mr. Chairman, while that is written and that is a good theory, we have found that in applying that theory the current One Bermuda Alliance Government has had great difficulty and challenges.

The great difficulty is really found at the Cabinet level. So this really is not directed at the civil service, but the Cabinet level, at the top, where the tone must be set. And many observers within our community have, with merit, observed that this very important objective of strengthening governance, transparency and accountability has been most elusive—most elusive at this point in time, under a One Bermuda Alliance Government, more so than at any other time in the history of modern government in Bermuda!

It is elusive. It is hard to find. It is hard to put one’s finger on that principle when looking for it to be put into practice. There is no evidence of the theory. There is no evidence that this objective is actually being manifested.

Quite frankly, Mr. Chairman, on that note, and it starts from the top, the One Bermuda Alliance record when it comes to transparency and accountability and good governance is poor. Poor, Dr. Gibbons!

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Page B-31, Dr. Gibbons!

It is called the Department Objectives, Dr. Gibbons! But I am sure you do not like this, Dr. Gibbons, because I am pricking your conscience, Dr. Gibbons, because I am speaking about transparency and accountability—an elusive principle, Dr. Gibbons!

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: [What do] you point-of-order me for?

The Chairman: Honourable Member, please—

POINT OF ORDER

[Imputing improper motives]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: The point of order is because of your imputing improper motives, with pricking my conscience. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Thank you.

The Chairman: Honourable Member?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: See? Now, I am going to change a gear because he is opening his mouth. Okay?

Mr. Chairman, what you find about certain principles is that a person cannot offer what they do not possess. So, should we sit here with expectation that these principles are applied by the One Bermuda Alliance? Of course not! If it is not in you, it is not going to come out of you.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Go ahead.

POINT OF ORDER

[Imputing improper motives]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: We have come here for a Budget Debate. I am not going to allow anybody to impugn improper motives on somebody. That language is not Parliamentary; it is not for the Budget Debate. I delivered for an hour-and-a-half—

Mr. Chairman. I ask him to sit down while I deliver my point of order.

The Chairman: Member, please take your seat.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I delivered for an hour-and-a-half. I did not get personal. If he wants to go personal, it can be done. But it is not happening here today, Mr. Chairman. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Now, you see the challenge with accountability and transparency? When you are held to account, you call it personal!

It is not personal. This is business! This is why we are here, to hold the Government to account! But when held to account, they act like they are the victims.

You better sit here for the next hour and 20 minutes and listen to what we have to say. And you can take it as personal or whatever. But again, when it comes to principles, you cannot offer what you do not possess. And we are talking about the evidence of the last year.

Again, Mr. Chairman, on the other hand, the civil service has done fairly well in terms of upholding these principles, led by the Cabinet Secretary. But over the last few weeks, there was a blot on their record. Can we recall? The Public Accounts Committee meetings have not left the Cabinet Office and other technical officers in a good light from the Public Accounts Committee meetings. I know that the Royal Gazette tried to cover it up and not report on it accurately. That is all part of the lack of transparency and accountability. But we saw civil servants actually . . . It appears as if they were under the gun of coercion!

Well, let me remind the civil service, and I hope you are all listening, that you must stand firm in your obligations. You do not serve the ministers alone! You serve the people of this country via the ministers and their ministries. Do not find yourself [between] a rock and a hard place when you are doing things against a good conscience, when you are going outside the bounds of stewardship. Do not allow any politician to influence you not to carry out your responsibilities and obligations.

But we saw tendencies of that over the last few weeks with the Public Accounts Committee. And again, the Premier has the nerve to stand up and give words about how everything is rosy. But again, those words do not match with the reality. Hence, the widening trust deficit between the people of this country and the One Bermuda Alliance Government.

I would like to move on to cost centre—

The Chairman: Honourable Member, do you want to—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Yes, speaking for us. For lunch, yes.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I move we adjourn for lunch.

The Chairman: Thank you. We adjourn for lunch and will return at 2:00 pm.

Proceedings suspended at 12:31 pm

Proceedings resumed at 2:00 pm

[Mr. Rolf Commissiong, Chairman]

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE & EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

[Continuation of debate thereon]

The Chairman: Members and to the listening public, we are now prepared to resume with the Committee of Supply; Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure.

We will be considering Heads 9, 26 and 80.

The Chair now will recognise the Member from constituency 26 the Honourable Opposition Leader Marc Bean.

You have the floor, sir.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, Mr. Chair, and good afternoon.

Mr. Chairman, prior to our lunch break I had an opportunity to speak for 10 minutes and emphasise the most department objective of the Cabinet Office, which is strengthening governance, transparency and accountability. For those who did not have an opportunity to listen to the exchange such a critique obviously caused some concern [for] Members opposite. And that critique basically was that this principle has been the most elusive of any Government at any time in our modern history. So, it is on that basis that I began our debate on the Cabinet Office Heads.

Let me remind everyone that this is the opportunity to ask questions, not just on line items or cost centres, but on the objective and mission statement of each department. And if—and if—the Government does not like the assessment provided, it is not personal. This is the business of being Members of the Legislature. It is not personal. So I suggest that the Government put on their iron shirt and be prepared to be put in the light of scrutiny.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to refer to page B-31, cost centre 0901, Central Policy Unit 19015. I would just touch on it briefly. I know that the Premier provided what I considered to be an adequate explanation. But I did note a reduction of 33 per cent or $234,000 in the Central Policy Unit. Now the Central Policy Unit is responsible as being a key component of those departmental objectives that I read out at the beginning of my contribution, so it was an initial concern as to why there would be a 33 per cent reduction that represents $234,000 in the Central Policy Unit. Nevertheless, I will touch on that a little later in my contribution.

Mr. Chairman, I was also going to ask some questions related to page B-32, the Subjective Analysis of Current Account Estimates in regard to Salaries and Wages, where you see a reduction of $81,000 for Salaries and a reduction of $65,000 in Wages, but you also should note that the actual change in terms of employee numbers was reduced from 32 (actually in the last fiscal year) to 28 in the current fiscal year. I had a question as to why there was some type of apparent anomaly in the numbers, but I think that the Premier provided an adequate explanation as to why.

To be honest I thought it was some kind of fancy accounting, but the explanation has satisfied me so I will just move on from that particular point.

Mr. Chairman, if you turn back to page B-31 you will notice cost centre 0901, line item 19005 Professional Development and Travel. The expenditure shows $232,000 was the revised estimate for this fiscal year—$232,000. But when you turn to B-32 Subjective Analysis and look at Travel it shows that the revised figure is $301,000. Now [this] is another anomaly in the numbers, unless the Premier would like to explain why it is that the Subjective Analysis is showing $301,000 for expenditure for Travel, yet on the previous page under the General Summary it shows $232,000 in travel. Maybe—

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I am happy to clarify, if you want me to.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Sure.

The Chairman: The Chair now recognises the Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes, thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I appreciate the opportunity to clarify. When I saw those numbers in the Budget Book I wanted to correct it. You referred to the revised estimates which are higher, and so I went back and asked for the actual Travel number for year to date and that is $149,200.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Based on the general summary . . . $149,200?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: No, in the whole department.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Okay.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: That is actual to . . . probably a week ago.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Okay.

The Chairman: Thank you, Premier.

The Chair now again recognises the Honourable Opposition Leader.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I appreciate that explanation. So, in fact, what the Premier is saying is that the revised 2014/15 figure of $301,000 is actually 100 per cent more than the actual spend.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Okay. Well, fair enough. I do not mind things being showed up as more when you actually spent less. So okay, fine, fair enough.

But I must say . . . talking about travel, Mr. Chairman, remember the election promise of the One Bermuda Alliance that they were going to reduce travel, as well as all the other election promises? Well, the Premier has met that promise in terms of Cabinet Office, but if you would allow me to I could just bring to the attention of the people of this country that when I looked at the overall travel—and it starts from the top, the example starts from the top—when you look at the overall travel, the actual spend in 2013/14 for Travel was $3,311,000. But for the last fiscal year the actual spend—or revised, sorry—is $4,394,000. Not only $315,000 more than was budgeted for this year—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Well, we are speaking about transparency, right?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Mr. Chairman, can you tell the Honourable Minister to refer to you, please, because earlier before lunch he started chirping and then you had to crack the whip and he took it personally.

The Chairman: Point taken, Opposition Leader. But can we try as much as possible to stay—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Listen, I am on my head—

The Chairman: —in respect to the Head.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: If you heard or listened to the Honourable Premier's presentation, the Honourable Premier alluded to a website, and ministerial travel being promoted.

Correct Premier?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you very much. Maybe some of you were sleeping.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Point of order.

The Chairman: Talk to the Chair.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: To be accurate—

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: The Honourable Opposition Leader is referring to the Ministerial Travel website. That is for Ministers only. When he refers to overall travel in Government, that will be the travel of Ministers—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Everyone.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Everyone involved. So let us make that distinction. The Ministerial website is Ministers only. And today we talk about the Cabinet Office, which is travel within the Cabinet Office including the Premier.

The Chairman: Premier, thank you for the clarification.

Member?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: So it begs the question, if the Ministerial website was just to provide ministerial spend on travel, is that actually attaining the goal of transparency? Was the intention, when the promise was made, to reduce travel? It was not just segmented into ministerial travel; it was reducing travel for Government. Correct, Mr. Chairman? Of course it is. So I think it is worth noting while we are discussing travel in the particular of the Cabinet Office to just note that so the public can understand that the actual travel budget for everyone, not just the Ministers, because the Ministers . . . that travel is on a website. But there is information that has not been provided and we are talking about transparency.

The fact of the matter is that last year the current Government spent $1,083,000 more than the previous year on travel. I hope the Royal Gazette takes note of it because if that was us, that would be the front page of tomorrow's edition—PLP Over-spends by $1.083 million on Travel.

But again, this is lack of transparency and accountability does not just lie at the feet of the current One Bermuda Alliance Government. Trust me, that condemnation is spread to many institutions in this country, in particular the Royal Gazette.

The Chairman: Point taken, Honourable Opposition Leader.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Mr. Chairman, I would like to move on, again, back to page B-31, CPU (Central Policy Unit) and the noted reduction of 33 per cent or $234,000. And we see an actual increase of one additional staff member. At first I thought it was a discrepancy but, again, the Premier provided what I consider to be a fairly adequate explanation as to why that apparent discrepancy existed.

But what I would like to know is why are we seeking to have such a drastic cut in Central Policy Unit when we know—and I know from experience working at the Cabinet Office—that that is the unit that provides much of the work to ensure that the department objectives, which I spoke to earlier in my remarks, are actuated, that they are actioned, that they become manifest. But yet your budget is being cut by 33 per cent or $234,000.

Make no mistake; the Central Policy Unit is a critical component of the Cabinet Office. The work that they do I doubt even some Ministers today understand. I am sure the Premier understands, but when you deal with Cabinet Memorandums that is one example of the work they do to ensure that Permanent Secretaries and Ministers, when they get to the Cabinet table, have got all their ducks in a row. So it is not just implementation of PATI that they are going to be working one.

But I ask the question, why the emphasis . . . why a whole unit of Central Policy is going to be dedicated to the implementation of PATI when you already have $666,000 allocated and an Information Commissioner hired for the new Information Commissioner Office, in addition to two additional staff? So is this a duplication of effort? I am not sure. But I can understand if the Central Policy Unit will help to assist that transition.

Mr. Chairman, let us move on to B-31 19050 PATI (Public Access to Information), since I just raised it under CPU. The budget is $113,000 a 23 per cent reduction or $33,000 and one employee. Why is there even $113,000 allocated to Public Access to Information when on B-29 Head 98, as I referred to earlier, the Information Commissioner's Office is about to come into being—$666,000? I do not know if there was a reason for budgeting the Information Commissioner's Office for [$]666,000 but that is the amount that has been budgeted. There is also a staff of three full-time equivalents. I would like an explanation.

If $666,000 has been allocated for a new entity—the Information Commissioner's Office—then what is the purpose of this $113,000 for PATI?

And then the Honourable Premier also mentioned that a legal adviser for PATI has been brought on. Why would you need a legal adviser for PATI when you just hired a lawyer to head up the Information Commission Office? It does not make sense. So we could be forgiven if people perceived this to be, again, a duplication of resources and effort. But I would like an explanation as to why.

Mr. Chairman, I will move on to B-31 0902 Economic Policy & Foreign Affairs. I must say on behalf of the Progressive Labour Party that this is an opportune time to compliment both offices which work very diligently in London and Washington, D.C. And while their budget allocation has not really changed much, we can and should expect much, much work over the next fiscal year by those two offices, in particular because of the G-20 and other external pressures like the OECD.

There is no doubt that the London office and the Washington, D.C. office are doing an excellent job in representing our country. In fact, on page B-34 Performance Measures you would see an increase in the expected activities by those two offices. Again, that is because, I would think, of the necessity to foster very high degrees of international relationships and more so to keep the big bad wolf—the tax man—off our backs, Mr. Chairman.

But I do note an additional staff member over the last fiscal year on page B-32 for the Washington office, and I would just ask the Premier, is this that the intern that you mentioned in your remarks? Because I do see a change of one additional person but no appreciable change in terms of salaries or wages.

Yes? Okay.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: The Premier said that he will answer that question, so I will wait for the response.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to move to page B-34 Performance Measures. I did have a question on Management Services, the $750,000 that Management Services has apparently found as a cost savings across Government or across their programme. I was wondering how that $750,000 was actually measured.

Where did they get it from? How were you able to ascertain that $750,000 was saved?

Mind you, if $750,000 was saved, then congratulations to that department. I am sure that is very, very useful for our overall fiscal position. It helps. But I would like some clarity.

Lastly on Cabinet Office, Mr. Chairman, on page B-32 Subjective Analysis of Current Account Estimates, Professional Services, where we see $836,000 was spent in the last fiscal year and $772,000 has been allocated for this fiscal year. The Premier mentioned that there was a reduction in consultants overseas and local, but I have a question. Does this reduction of $76,000 mean that persons like Mr. Gearson are going to have a pay cut? Or did he get a pay cut?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: No, I am . . . the Premier said that it is not in management services.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: It is not Professional Services?

Well, would the Honourable Premier care to explain under what part of the Budget is Don Gearson, who I am sure works at the Cabinet Office as one of your advisors, paid out of? I could take my seat.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Well, last time I checked, Professional Services meant consultants. The last time I checked, the Premier can hire consultants for the Cabinet Office. But the Premier is now saying that persons like Don Gearson . . . his pay is actually not found in Professional Services, so I am eager to find out where in the Subjective Analysis will you find a person like Don Gearson receiving taxpayer funds.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Oh boy.

Well let me ask the question again. Let me ask another question. Is Don Gearson being paid out of Professional Services, Mr. Premier?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: And what about Senator and Chief of Staff Jeff Baron? Because I stand to be corrected, but I know Don Gearson . . . they announced how much he is making, all right? But I cannot recall the pay of the Chief of Staff being made public. But I stand to be corrected.

But what is troubling is the fact that you have Ms. Nea Talbot of DCI who has been doing an excellent job as the PR Officer for the Premier. In fact wherever you see the Premier go you would see Ms. Talbot in tow. And she does an excellent job.

So please, I pray, do tell. If Nea Talbot is doing the job of PRO for the Premier, then what on earth is Don Gearson getting paid six figures for? What is he doing?

Now we have seen over the year some really weird pronouncements and actions and activities come out of Cabinet Office. Are we paying Don Gearson for that? Is he the architect of those she-nanigans? Is he there to be a PR officer or a PR advisor? Because Nea Talbot is doing it as a civil servant. So we would like to know, what is our value for money? Because Lord knows I hope the taxpayer is not paying $108,000 or $106,000 for a high paid UBP spin doctor. But I would like clarity, Mr. Chairman.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Yeah, I know they got rid of Ms. Burgess, you can see the reduction in the Budget. But are we getting value for money? I think if I ask the country, the church would say, No we are not getting value for money from these so-called advisors or consultants.

I would like to move on to Head 26 page B-39 Department of Human Resources. I am not going to spend too much time on Human Resources. I did note a reduction of $210,000 or 63 per cent for the Training Courses, and that is page B-39 cost centre 2602. The Premier did mention that there would be a shift of training strategy over the next coming year where there will be additional training in house. I certainly hope that is the case, but time will reveal all.

When you look at the Subjective Analysis on page B-39 I note a 92 per cent decrease of $71,000 in Wages. But there has not been any change in the employee numbers. Mr. Premier I would like to know why there is that $71,000 change in Wages—page B-39 Subjective Analysis under Wages.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Page B-39, my apologies.

But the Wages decrease by $71,000 but there has not been any movement in terms of full-time equivalent employees, so I would like clarity on why that is the case.

Lastly, page B-41 Performance Measures. It says that on March 31, 2015 (this is under 36100 Policy Development), 100 per cent of Phase 1 of the succession planning policy framework (as they call it) is due. And that is in 29 days. And I would like an update by the technical officers who are present as to where we are on the completion of that Phase 1 in regard to succession planning.

Lastly, page B-42 we look at Business Unit: 36110 Public Service Bursary. Mr. Chairman, allow me to read what this measure indicator is.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Page B-42. It says, “To ensure there is a cadre of suitably trained Bermudians to meet Department’s human capital needs for posts that are difficult to fill and/or held by contract officers, 90% of bursary recipients who successfully complete their course of study will be appointed to a post.”

Let me ask a question. Why is it that 90 per cent—and 90 per cent is a high figure—but why is it 90 per cent [of] recipients who are successful in completing their study appointed, and not 100 per cent? I mean if you successfully completed it, why is it that that one out of ten—arbitrarily, I would think—is not selected? I cannot think of a better way to discourage a young person than to ask them, or demand that they meet certain requirements, and they do it, and then when they get to the finish line they say that there is no room in the inn. So I would like to know why it is 90 per cent and not 100 per cent for our public bursary recipients, especially if they are filling difficult posts or posts with contract workers. You would think that if it is difficult and you have got somebody trained for it then you would put them in the post.

But I have another question, too, Mr. Premier, and to the technical officers who are listening, since we mentioned “contract officers,” I would like to know, before the end of this debate, can someone in Government provide us with the numbers as to how many “contract officers” we have working for government? I have an additional question but I think it would take a little longer to calculate. What is the personnel cost of the contract workers that work in government?

One thing we see in this country, there is this anti-CS sentiment that is pushed, but then there is also this mind-set that we cannot be . . . what do they call it? Xenophobic, anti-foreigner, and we need to welcome foreign people into our country. Well let me say this, as a previous Minister, the majority of contract workers that I have worked around, just like the majority of civil servant workers who are Bermudian, are excellent in their duties. Contract workers and Bermudian civil servants do their job and, in the main, they do it well. But that is not the point.

Contract workers working for the government do not add to the productivity of our country. The state does not add to the productivity, contrary to what some may think or say. That is the same argument used against current civil servants—that they are unproductive, they are a burden—but that includes contract workers, too.

Now I would think, because I am asking how many we have because, that it segues into this whole concept of using Bermudians who we have trained to replace them, I would suggest that it is high time for us to make a concerted effort . . . and no disrespect, I am not saying in the negative light, but I think that if we have contract workers of that [number] then they need to be replaced by Bermudians.

If you think that we need to reduce the civil service, then let us at least make sure that those working in the civil service are Bermudians. So a good way to maybe reduce the size of the civil service is to identify the contract workers, give them their redundancy package and say, Thank you, we appreciate your service, but it is time to go.

I would like to know the numbers because if you can reduce those contract workers that will bring a reduction in budget, not to the amount that we saved from what we pay them because many of those posts, which are high technical officer posts, will have to be replaced. But it sets in motion this hiring freeze. The hiring freeze then comes in sync, but from the bottom up. So when you get rid of your contract workers you are going to have to replace them, but those lower down the chain do not have to be replaced.

We could probably combine some functions. But that is one way to reduce the size of government. I wonder if the OBA supporters and bloggers will now claim that I am xenophobic for suggesting that our contract workers for government, if they can be replaced, should be replaced by Bermudians. And maybe that will reduce the size of government. It is not xenophobia; it is just loving yourself first before you love your neighbour. And we love Bermudians first.

So I would like those numbers, if it can be provided, as to the size and the amount, in terms of finances that are expended on the contract workers, in our government. And I would appreciate that, Mr. Premier.

Mr. Chairman, I would now like to move on to page B-51, Head 80, Project Management and Procurement. Project Management and Procurement. Well let us take a look at the Mission Statement:

“The mission of the Office of Project Management and Procurement is to provide oversight and guidance to Government Departments and Ministries regarding project management and procurement activities to ensure fairness, transparency and consistency in awards of contracts and adherence to the applicable rules and industry best practices.”

There is that fairness and transparency again. Man! And that tells me that we are going to have to look a little bit deeper into this particular Head, Head 80.

Let us also for the public's consumption state the Department Objectives of this Office:

- To embed a consistent approach to procurement through the development and implementation of a Code of Practice.
- To assist Government Departments in developing and implementing procurement strategies that leverage the purchasing power of the Government to achieve the best value for expenditures.
- To monitor compliance with [applicable] procurement rules, policies and procedures.
- To provide assistance to Government Departments and Ministries to help maximise efficiencies and achieve overall cost savings in managing capital projects.

Mr. Chairman, you see these principles of transparency and accountability? They are mere words. They are worthless if they are not applied. They are mere words.

So in reading these statements and objectives let us cast our mind back to the previous Head, the Cabinet Office whose overall responsibility is accountability and transparency. Earlier I spoke of the poor record of the OBA in this regard—in fact, the poorest in our modern history some observers would say.

This is the Department where we will see the evidence of why these observations of the OBA being the worst Government in our modern history resonate through our community. This is the Head right here that will give some type of anecdotal evidence as to why there is a lack of transparency and accountability in our Government.

A few days ago, again, we had a Public Accounts meeting where our Accountant General admitted to having at least 50 requests from Government—at least 50—to forego (my words, not his) proper or prudent tendering or procurement processes. Then he went on to say, in fact, that burden has been shifted on his head as the Accountant General because the proper code of practice—proper tendering rules—are not in play.

That made me think, Well, if that is the case then what on earth is this office contained in Head 80 where we expend $913,000 a year . . . what have they been doing if the burden of making decisions like that has been laid at the feet of the Accountant General?

Is the responsibility of procurement with this Office and not the Accountant General? But yet the Accountant General found himself between a rock and a hard place because of a lack of information, a lack of work, apparently by this office, or a lack of rules.

Well some may say some of these 50 projects are minor—between $5,000 and $50,000. But I could tell you one project that is not minor, which is a bone of contention, and it is like that proverbial noose around the OBA's neck, and that is the Airport development. That is not a minor project. That is roughly $250 million to $400 million. Yet the same burden our Accountant General has had for the other 49 projects he has been burdened with the Airport project.

Where did the Office of Procurement and Project Management . . . at what point did they participate in the process of the Airport redevelopment? It appears as if they never participated. So again why are we spending almost a million dollars on an office that seems to be . . . not being used (that is the parliamentary word)—not being used?

Mr. Chairman, the function of 50 requests and proper tendering is not the Accountant General's responsibility. We just read the Mission Statement and Department Objectives of this Office. So if you do not believe me, let us take a look at the Performance Measures contained on B-53. Look at these numbers, Mr. Chairman:

- Number of compliance audits on projects, revised forecast for this fiscal year—1; the target outcome for next year—4.
- Number of compliance audits on the procurement process, this year—1; target outcome for next year—6.
- Number of compliance audits on contracts, this year—3; next year—12.
- Number of requests for procurement documents (RFP, RFI, EOI) reviewed, this year—12; next year—24.

So you have seen 100 per cent, 200, 300 per cent increase in what is forecast from what they actually did this year to what they expect to do next year. What is going to bring about this change? New rules? Because I see that the Minister of Finance has tabled legislation that apparently might be addressing this gap in practice.

But what makes you think that we can actually trust this statement and these numbers? In fact, if you have not been [doing] anything all year—you know, 1 compliance order for a project, 1 for the procurement process, 3 for the audited contracts and 12 reviews of documents—and that cost us a million dollars? And you think we are going to believe that you are going to double, triple or quadruple your output next year? Why? Why?

If we judge and go by the facts and figures presented to us why should we be confident that there will be a change of attitude and action in regard to procurement? Because the evidence shows that they have done nothing. And it is not their fault. It is not the Accountant General's fault that he is burdened with 50 requests. The fault lies solely at the top, and that is why I said at the beginning that transparency and accountability has been the most elusive principle in the history of modern government under the One Bermuda Alliance. [Those are] not my words, you know. The facts speak for themselves. Be at Public Accounts Committee meetings.

Now as we analyse Head 80 of this Department and we wonder why there is no transparency, because it appears there has been no attempt for transparency and accountability. Aided and abetted . . . aided and abetted by your favourite Royal Gazette. But do not worry, we are not concerning ourselves on that too much anymore because eventually when you avoid principles of sound governance it comes back to haunt you. It is a source of self-destruction on you. It is a double-edged sword, whereas you have decided to grip it by its handle. And it is nothing to do with the Opposition. Our job is to try and shine the mirror. But, trust me. You have been poor when it comes to transparency, absolutely poor.

Under the former Premier Paula Cox this same office tied the hands of Cabinet. That office drove my Cabinet colleagues crazy. In fact, if you ask former Cabinet Ministers they would tell you that they felt that that office had more power than ministers. That office was controlling us, they neutralised us for the last year of Government. We had more rules put on us by Paula Cox than any other Minister of Finance ever.

Where have those rules gone? Did they just disappear? Or were they just wilfully ignored? Because I know before she left she went beyond her means, beyond herself, to try and show that the PLP Government would have the rules and the processes in place to safeguard the public purse and to be transparent and accountable, okay?

And I will tell you what. That office of Project Management and Procurement, they made us sick. Not because we had the desire to do anything untoward; but when you are the Minister and you have some external, non-elected or appointed body saying no to you, that is a problem. And I think every Minister, even those today, would not accept that type of situation. But that is what we were dealing with.

But today we see the complete opposite end of the spectrum. We have an Office that does not even do anything! The evidence speaks for itself. The evidence speaks for itself.

Mr. Chairman, again, this just speaks to this widened trust deficit that is irreparable between the people of this country and the One Bermuda Alliance. Where is the transparency, One Bermuda Alliance? Where is the information about contracts and who the recipients are? Under Paula Cox they were gazetted on a weekly basis. Under Paula Cox they were gazetted, contracts and who received them, on a weekly basis.

Now to be fair I think I have seen one or two advertisements by Government stating who got contracts, one or two. But yet the Accountant General said over 50 requests were made. So you mean to tell me that 48 other contracts have been issued and no one in Bermuda knows who got them except those who gave them? And you call that accountability and transparency?

I think not.

I think not. Where is the transparency? It has been clawed back by this One Bermuda Alliance. A lack of transparency and accountability has become a political cancer that has infested the OBA's body politic.

It is an indictment, Mr. Chairman, because it is contrary to their promise. Their word has not been honourable. They have said one thing and then done the complete opposite. But will we see an improvement? The Premier indicated that there will be an improvement. Will the people believe him? I do not.

Say what you like, I judge a man by his deeds. Not you in particular, but I am talking about the Government that you lead.

Now let me move . . . how much time do I have left? Or how much time do we have left?

The Chairman: Member, there are about 40 minutes remaining—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Okay, good.

The Chairman: Under these Heads.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: The Premier, and I am grateful, I wish I had a copy of your brief so I could have looked at it more in depth, but the Premier mentioned something about SAGE recommendations and there were a few that stood out.

One was the Ministerial Code of Conduct. When the Premier said that, I perked up. The Ministerial Code of Conduct? You mean the Ministerial Code that the previous AG stood up in this Honourable Chamber and said did not exist? You mean the Code that when I was a Minister of Government I had to adhere to, and now we are talking about taking the recommendation of SAGE to improve or amend the Ministerial Code?

How on earth can you amend a Code that you never adhered to in the first place? What type of nonsense is this?

The Ministerial Code could have been applied at least 5 or 6 times over the last 12 months, and not once has it been applied—not once—by the OBA Government. And then they have got the audacity to get up and say SAGE recommended an improved or amended Ministerial Code of Conduct policy, and you are going to do just that? And you could not even follow the former rules? Again, that just adds to the trust deficit. The OBA says one thing but their actions reveal something different. That is all it says.

What is remarkable is . . . because Jetgate is an example of the Ministerial Code. If they had adhered to the Ministerial Code all they had to do, when we first ask the question was say, Hey, in fact we stepped outside the Code and to get back inside the rules all we had to do is compensate Mr. Landow for a business class ticket for us riding up on his plane. That is all they would have had to do. And then the Ministers would have told their PS's to send some money to Mr. Landow. That would have been the end of the story, although we would have still probed and asked them questions, it certainly would not have been as intense if they would have just adhered to the Ministerial Code in the first place.

Mr. Chairman, what is the most remarkable aspect of this disrespect and disregard for the Ministerial Code of Conduct is that a Premier resigned based on acting outside of the Ministerial Code. And then a few months later our Premier appointed that Minister, or former Premier, back into a ministerial post. Can you believe . . . you cannot make it up! You cannot make it up.

That is the greatest evidence of having no regard for the Ministerial Code of Conduct. That is the greatest evidence that the Premier is only paying lip service to amending a SAGE recommendation. Minister Cannonier resigned in disgrace over Jetgate over the Ministerial Code, but was brought back into the Cabinet by the current Premier. Why?

Who knows?

Mr. L. Craig Cannonier: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

I know he is not attempting to mislead the House, but to say that . . . resign—

The Chairman: The Chair recognises—hold it, hold it—Honourable Member.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 12.

You have the floor.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. L. Craig Cannonier: That I resigned in disgrace is far from the mark.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: No problem. If one did not feel disgraced, then that is not my problem. That is not my problem. But I would think that when we make decisions it is based on our conscience.

History has recorded it and no amount of revision will change it. But the fact of the matter is this is the indictment of his Ministerial Code. The Premier will actually say one thing and actually do one thing and then get up in this House and talk about how he is going to amend it? When he just flouted it as the Leader? What a joke . . . what a joke.

Some leadership we have got right here. I tell you. But then again if people are going to be fooled and the OBA says things and does things without being held to account, then it is not the OBA's fault, you know, it is the people's fault. They put them there. They got what they asked for.

The other item that SAGE recommended was independent negotiators. Well that sounds good, but over the last few weeks we saw where that has already got us. The level of . . . the trust deficit between union and government negotiators, independent or not, is at an all-time low. They are still asking (the unions that is) to play the tapes of the meetings that they had over this furlough day. Okay? Not hearing these vile, dutty op-eds by silent backbenchers who do not contribute anything any other time, attacking the Union, and questioning what is their membership and what are their dues.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Take your seat there, Honourable Opposition Leader.

Honourable Premier, you have a point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Imputing improper motives]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I appreciate the Honourable Member's strong need to be emotive on this subject, but I will not—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Okay—

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Chairman, do I have your attention on a point of order?

Mr. Chairman, I will not allow him—the Honourable Member—to come up here and impute improper motives on my backbench colleagues. That is unacceptable. If he wants to continue with personal attacks, then he had better be very careful in where goes with that.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Well we are talking about value for money—

The Chairman: Thank you, Premier.

The Chair recognises the Opposition Leader—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: —we are talking about value for money—

The Chairman: Opposition Leader—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: —we are talking about value for money, and I can speak about whoever I like.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Not in this House.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Okay? I could tell you . . . I could speak . . . we are talking about a SAGE recommendation, all right?

So do not try to distract me.

The fact of the matter is the negotiators who went and negotiated with the Union came back and said one thing. And then, after that negotiation had ended, what did you have? The OBA launched a public campaign attacking the Unions.

An Hon. Member: No, no, no, no.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: This is your form of negotiation. If you do not want me to talk about it you should have never mentioned it in your brief. But then again you probably never read your brief. I understand that too.

An Hon. Member: Come on.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: One thing, one thing, they cannot handle fire, you know. They quickly call and act like they are the victims, whereas as far as I am concerned they are on the front foot when dealing with the people of this country.

The Chairman: Member, return to the—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I am.

The Chairman: —can we return to the Head, please?

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: I am—independent negotiators—independent negotiators . . . somebody is chirping. I think a moveable minister, somebody is chirping.

Now let us go to the other item—duplication of roles. Now I did not get the gist of the duplication of roles, all right? I did not get—

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Let us restore some order here, Members.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I understand. They do not like me. They do not like me, because their conscience gets crushed every time I talk.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Patricia Gordon-Pamplin calling me a liar.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Wow! Boy, do not cast pearls—

The Chairman: Let us—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: —do not cast your—

The Chairman: Let us keep some civility in the House, Members, please.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: —you will get embarrassed.

The Chairman: That is unparliamentary language there.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: So we are talking about a duplication of roles, and I would think that would be led from the top. I do not know exactly what the Premier was discussing, details in terms of duplication of roles and SAGE's recommendation, but if we are going to lead from the top, why is it that we have two Junior Ministers sitting in the same place as the substantive Minister? Why is that?

Now, I understand the concept of political patrimony. But in terms of structure and organisation of Government I will let you Junior Ministers who do not know yet, I guess, that you have no functionality as a Junior Minister from a legislative perspective. They are getting $11,000 extra for being a Junior Minister for being a photo-op Junior Minister. Do you know why? And I am sure they have not told you this, Junior Ministers on the backbench. Your job as a Junior Minister is to represent the substantive Minister in another place. But for some reason a core component of organising Government escapes the current Premier, why? For patrimony, that is why.

The Chairman: For the sake of clarity, Member, we are referring to which Head at this point?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Head 80.

Again, if you read the Premier's notes, the Premier referred to SAGE recommendations. I am referring to the same recommendations. If you do not want us to talk about it, tell the technical officers not to put it in your brief.

So, as I said, value for money on Junior Ministers is non-existent because it is a patrimonial post. It is not functional, and it reflects poor leadership . . . poor, poor leadership on behalf of the Premier. Poor leadership. He obviously does not know how to organise Government.

Now let us go to the last statement, CARICOM.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Easy Bob. Bob Richards is asking . . . you still have not explained why your bet lost.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: So look in your crystal ball, look in your crystal ball—

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Come on, Members, come on.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: —okay? Because I know the Royal Gazette avoided that too. But you stood up here beating your chest like you know everything. I asked you why your bet lost; you still have not answered me. Because you do not know why because you have been mis-educated, that is why.

CARICOM, the Premier—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I dare you to touch my batting shot I dare you—

The Chairman: Talk to the Chair, Members.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I dare you, okay? I did not hear what you said, I will pass. No I do not want—

[Inaudible interjections and general uproar]

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Come on! Can we talk to the Chair here?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I do not worry about that. See what happens? They are weeping and wailing and gnashing their teeth.

The Chairman: Members, the other thing is, can we also, as much as we can, refer to each other by the constituency number of the representative in question?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Now let us talk about CARICOM that was mentioned by the Premier.

I do not know what or why Dr. Binns put that in there, but Dr. Binns knows that the OBA could care less about CARICOM. In fact, let me give you an example.

Last year the Bahamas celebrated their 40th Anniversary of Independence, and when I got to Nassau Airport I met Perry Christie, he was coming from Trinidad [and] the Heads of Government meeting. And then when we got there he said, Your Premier, Canonier, is in the Bahamas for the Independence celebration. But why was he in the Bahamas but never came to the CARICOM Heads of Government meeting?

I said, Oh, that is the OBA.

[And he said], Oh, I understand . . . I understand.

The OBA is not interested in CARICOM, right? But if you do not believe me, guess what? Guess what? Last Thursday and Friday was the Heads of Government meeting in the Bahamas for CARICOM. And do you know who was conspicuous by their absence? Bermuda!

It was conspicuous.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I apologised. I mean you pronounce Bermuda as Bermuder, and no one holds you up, so what is the difference, man?

But where is . . . did anyone represent—

The Chairman: Talk to the Chair, Member.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Did anyone represent Bermuda at the Heads of Government meeting?

Premier? Premier?

Can the Premier answer that question? Is there anyone from Bermuda, because I know Minister Fahy is in the Bahamas now for an ILO meeting, did anyone go to the Heads of Government meeting in the Bahamas last week? Yes? No?

No one attended. And that has been a pattern under the One Bermuda Alliance Government. But do not worry every Head of Government in the Caribbean knows it already, so it does not bother them, they do not take it as a slight, they do not find it to be disrespectful. If Ralph Gonsalves did not show up . . . you see it? If Portia Simpson [Miller] the Prime Minister of Jamaica did not show up, people would feel slighted. But when an OBA Government does not show up, people care less because they understand—a leopard cannot change his spots, neither a zebra his stripes.

So why are you mentioning CARICOM when you have no intent . . . actually, you are. Because the Minister mentioned reviewing our tax base with some IMF Caribbean institution. Ain't that something?

So that just speaks to, again, the overarching theme which permeates throughout Government and we will find throughout our Budget debate over the next two weeks. There is a lack of transparency and accountability, and the level of governance under the OBA is the worst we have had since 1968. History will record it.

And no amount of spin or censorship by the Royal Gazette or other lazy media outlets can hide it. The people have been awakened. The people have been awakened. And that is why you take offence. They take offence when I speak about it being elusive and you cannot offer what you do not possess. They say it is personal. No, it is not personal, Mr. Chairman. It is all business. This is the real business. This is not Mickey Mouse business, the type of business they would like to reduce this Legislature towards. No, our job is to hold this Government to account for more transparency. And we would hope that there would be a change of mindset so they—they—can exemplify at least a mid-level of good governance for the sake of this country. But if not, no worry, I am not stressing myself because, again, I already said, the people are now awake.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Opposition Leader.

The Chair now recognises the Member from constituency 17.

Mr. Walton Brown: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I would just like to direct a few questions to the Honourable Premier. If you can turn your attention to page B-33, just to do the comparison of the Washington office and the London office. The Washington office has a budget that is about two-thirds of the budget of the London office. The Washington office, based on the objectives, seems to have a much more activist role to be a lobbyist, to be . . . and actually that is meant to promote and sustain our interests within the United States. So I see it as a lobbyist entity.

In contrast, the London office seems to be confined to merely administrative procedures. If you look at the intended outcomes there is just a focus on attending meetings. So I would like to hear the Premier's take on whether we are getting good value out of these two offices, given the range of challenges that we face. The London office could be doing a whole lot more.

The Premier will know, the Government will know, we face a multitude of challenges in the UK and yet there does not seem to be reflected in the work of the London office that it is meant to champion Bermuda more so than what we see taking place within Washington.

So I would just like to hear the Premier on what he sees as the future intended role of the London office, whether it is going to be changed in any way, shape or form. Whether the Premier is certain that we have all requisite (shall we say) skill set to move into a new type of activist role for the London office. But given the challenges we are facing these challenges are going to get more severe, more intense.

I am happy with what I see in the Washington office, I am happy with the overall approach. But I think we need to have a much more activist office in London. So I would like to hear the Premier speak on that matter.

The Chairman: Well, thank you, Shadow Minister of Immigration and External Affairs Mr. Walton Brown.

Any other Member that would care to speak?

The Chair once again recognises the Opposition Leader.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: One question that I forgot to ask regarding the Washington, DC office.

Premier, you mentioned that the scope of the DC office extends to Asia and Latin America—does that include Latin America? Okay, fair enough.

Now I can see how Asia could be included in either the London office or the DC office. Is there any intention to set up a satellite or smaller office directly in Asia, for instance, at Hong Kong or Singapore or China? Because I noticed that BVI has been doing it for some time for promotion of financial services and tourism, and I know that the Bahamas just set up, or has had a London office in China for some time, too. And right now what they are trying to do is facilitate, not just tourism of Chinese into Baha Mar, but the Chinese have seen Latin America as a market they want to tap into and they are looking to use the Bahamas . . . or the Bahamas is looking to position themselves as that go-between between Latin America and China. So is there any intent or consideration (and I understand the fiscal constraints) to perhaps extend or create a satellite office in Asia proper?

ANNOUNCEMENT BY CHAIRMAN

HOUSE VISITOR

The Chairman: The Chair would also like to take this time to recognise the presence of former Senator Toni Daniels who is in the House.

[Committee of Supply continuing]

The Chairman: Are there any other Members who would care to speak to these Heads?

The Chair now recognises the Honourable Minister for constituency 12, the Honourable Craig Cannonier.

You have the floor, sir.

Hon. L. Craig Cannonier: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I want to thank the Premier and his Cabinet Office for a fine job that they have done thus far with the financial records in the Budget for this fiscal year.

But only because we only have just a few moments left and I know that the Premier would like to get up and allow the Opposition to have some answers to some of the questions, I will move very quickly to . . . there was a lot of concern that I heard coming from the Opposition about the Head 80. And if you were to go over to B-53, the Honourable Opposition Leader, Honourable Member, had brought up about the performance measures on page B-53. And that there seemed to be some concern about whether or not the Office of Procurement actually was doing a job and working. And that it appears as if, based on these measurements, that they are not really doing much at all.

I want to remind our listening members that if we were to go back to the period of 2013/14 where there actually were no performance measures in there at all, it was a budget that at the time the OBA Government had assumed and no fault of anyone's, but if you go back even further to 2012/13 . . . and I am just quoting this as I am taking a look on page B-110, and which you probably would not have in your hands, under the same Head you will find that the performance measures are extremely, extremely vague—50 per cent it says of those will be covered.

Sorry?

Hon. L. Craig Cannonier: Sorry? Under Head 80 in last year's [Budget] Book. I am just going back into the history of the Office of Procurement when it came about.

And what concerns me is that when we take a look at some of those records (I am just going to pull it out there) it concerns me of some of the things that—How can these be proper performance measures when it says "a minimum of 50 per cent of projects will be delivered"? Well, 50 per cent of what? Nothing? It does not tell how many projects or anything to that effect, [it is] extremely vague. We could have said the exact same thing in reference to the Office of Procurement.

We know for sure, Mr. Chairman, when the Office of Procurement puts out projects they are gazetted. And so the public does know that they are available.

Now, as far as the record is concerned as to who is awarded to do these things, that is public information that can be gotten at any time, whether it is gazetted or not. You can get that information because that has already been put out there in the public.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. L. Craig Cannonier: The fact that the contract has been put out.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. L. Craig Cannonier: Well, you can call the office, you can call the office. You can call Cabinet Office to get that information if it has not . . . I am saying "if" it has not been gazetted.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. L. Craig Cannonier: That information is available, all right?

So what I want to go back to again, Mr. Chairman, is that we get into this nickel and diming situation here, and really, we are not getting anywhere with this kind of nickel and diming over whether or not Procurement is doing its job. We all know that they are working and they are working hard and they are working well because of the number of projects that are out there.

What I am thankful for as I look at the targets, the target as he said already, these targets are a 300 [per cent] to 400 per cent over and beyond what was there before. That means that work is getting done and that progress is happening. And so I wanted to really bring that up.

And one of the other areas that I feel a bit . . . we went into no man's land there, and I will end there because I know the Premier wanted to get up and give some answers, [when] we started assigning shame to certain people and Ministers of the past that may have resigned. But we just need to go back just [a short way] and we can see a number of the Opposition's Ministers, when they were Ministers who resigned, and then came back within a couple of months. So we need to be very, very careful about when we start casting these aspersions out there onto people. I thought basically after Friday that we were not going to be heading in that direction, but it seems that you have asked us not to go in that direction and you have gone ahead and violated the very thing that you said that you did not want to do. So we will see how things go on further from here.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Are there any other Members who would care to speak to the Heads under consideration?

The Chair now recognises the Member from constituency 6, the Honourable Wayne L. Furbert.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I just want to ask the Premier, I know for years that the OBA (at least for the two years I was) they talked about a Contractor General. And when do they hope to move towards a Contractor General? I know we still have the Procurement Office, but they were very loud. I mean, very loud when it came to talking about how they wanted a Contractor General. But yet I do not see anything in this Budget to move towards that direction. Now will it be moved some time in the next Budget? Maybe the Premier can talk about that.

We also talk about—and I am concerned about some of these numbers here because as the Minister of Finance finds out—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am talking about . . . this is Head 80. I am talking also about Cabinet Office, Head 9.

We know very clearly when it comes to the numbers . . . and I know the Premier had mentioned that, I believe, he was trying to say that actual 2013/14 went from $24 million down to $23 million, roughly. [He] talked about how they had saved $2 million. But if you look at, Mr. Chairman, that they budgeted for $25 million in 2014 but the revised—in fact, it is pretty well the same number. And so the question I would ask the Premier, and as most Ministers of Finance are quite aware, it is very nice to put these numbers down and to make it look like they are having decreases, but when you look at the actual, when you compare the revised with the original, it is always going back to like the year before. And I will give you an example, Mr. Chairman. When we talk about on Head 80, Professional Fees, Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman: You are referring again to which Head?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am looking at Head 80.

The Clerk: Where? What page?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Head 80, they can find it. I am not going to help them over that part.

Head 80, we are talking about looking at Training for Project Management and Procurement [and] the actual was $14,000 in 2013/14; the original was $20,000 for 2014/15; but the actual revised figure is still $20,000; and now they are going down to $9,000. Now, that means some very tight, tight checking within the Ministry itself that the actual Government will have to [do]. And that means every, and we are talking about the directors, particularly the directors in charge of the financing portion, will have to . . . the accounting officer, that is who I am talking about, will have to be really close on watching these numbers.

I am very concerned. When you are talking about the actual was $5,000 in Repair and Maintenance, but you had $32,000 in revised figures for 2014/15. What I am pointing out, Mr. Chairman, is whether Government will . . . and we will be watching again when next year's budget comes out and we will see the real numbers, but every year we get up and talk about the comparison of numbers and whether the Government can really keep track or hold to these numbers as they would like to have it. Now, if they do, then it will be good. It is very important that the numbers be kept within line.

Mr. Chairman, the other numbers I was talking about were the numbers for—I know the London [office] and the Washington office. I know everybody . . . it is one of the famous areas that the Opposition, now the Government, but the Opposition when they were the Opposition, always used to cry down the London office and the Washington, DC office. But now all of a sudden, Mr. Chairman, these are good offices. You know, they talked about the . . . and I do not think it is in this Ministry. I think that is the television station that we have up there. You know, they cried down those offices for years. And I now recall certain Ministers talking about how they would get rid of those departments when they become the Government. Well, those [offices] are still there. And we support them. We think that there is a purpose there for the London office, particularly in the Ministry of Economic Development having people over there. I believe that there are some benefits for having the office there in London.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Well, there are . . . I know the aircraft and shipping are there, but there are some benefits for having that office there. I believe the . . . I forget her name now, but she is doing extremely—Ms. Durrant is doing an extremely good job over there. The Washington office, we look at the—how much time do I have left, Mr. Chairman?

The Chairman: There is approximately five and a half minutes left.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I will give the—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: No, I do want some answers, so I will give the Premier . . . because if he wanted to answer he would have answered before the Honourable Member Craig Cannonier stood up. He had sufficient time. We understand how that works. So I will sit down so that the Premier will answer some questions.

The Chairman: Thank you, Member.

The Chair now recognises the Member for Smith's North, constituency 10, the Honourable Michael Dunkley.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I am happy to answer questions. But before I answer some of the questions in the limited time remaining, let me say a few things, Mr. Chairman.

I came to this place today to deliver the budget for the Cabinet Office and the three Heads under that. But before I get to answer those questions I just have to remark a bit about some of the non-sense—errant nonsense—that I have been listening to.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: There is no point of order I have not started speaking yet, Mr. Chairman. Come on.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

I would like to know what Head the Premier is speaking to.

The Chairman: Take your seat, Member.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you. Thank you.

I am responding to comments from the other side. When I hear “the worst Government in history,” well, you would expect the Opposition to say that. But to come out with blatant prevarication (I will not say “lies” because that is not appropriate language, but I will say prevarication) and twisting—twisting?

Now let me . . . we talk about the Office of Management and Procurement, and I had to stop myself from laughing because it is not Saturday Night Live, but I thought it was. I really thought it was. The reason why changes were made is because the former Premier had to do something because those guys on that side were pilfering—

An Hon. Member: Whoa!

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Those guys, Mr. Chairman! I refer to the Dame Lois Browne[-Evans] building. I refer to TCD. I refer to Port Royal. I refer to BLDC. Should I go on?

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Have your seat, Honourable Premier. Point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Imputing improper motives]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: The Honourable Premier is clearly imputing improper motives on former Members of Cabinet of which he has no evidence to present to this House today. And he should withdraw the term “pilfering” from his comments.

The Chairman: Thank you, Member from constituency 15.

Premier, I think that language was a little over the top.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Okay, fine.

The Chairman: The term “pilfering.”

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Okay, well what about missing assets, what about the Auditor's Report . . . missing assets—

The Chairman: Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: There is a point of order on that from that side. Point taken, Mr. Chairman, point taken.

The Chairman: Premier, Premier, I am asking you to withdraw the comment—

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I withdraw that comment.

The Chairman: —the “pilfering.”

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I withdraw the “pilfering.”

The Chairman: Okay.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: But what about missing assets? Is that fair? Misappropriated assets! Unethical! What about that stuff? That is not my language, that is somebody else's.

But, Mr. Chairman, if the shoe fits, you have to wear it. Honourable Members on that side have to wear it. And in 2011 the former Premier changed just because of this reason, and that is why we are here today—cleaning up the mess.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: What about the 21-year lease (oh, minus one day) that did not get the light of day, by a former Minister?

What about putting all your cronies in charge of the BLDC and paying them as consultants, Mr. Chairman?

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order. Point of order—

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Now Mr. Chairman, here is the coup d'état—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman. Point of order.

All right. It is absolutely wrong for the—

The Chairman: Hold it! Hold it!

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 6.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: It is absolutely wrong for the Premier to be standing up saying that the Government put cronies in place and paid them for consulting. The Government did not pay for those, the board decided . . . made the decision—

The Chairman: Okay.
Premier?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: —and it was based on the advice by lawyers, too.

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Hold it! Hold it!

Okay. Now I just want to inform the Members that there are five minutes left for consideration of these Heads.

Honourable Premier, you have the floor again.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Look up “cronies” in the dictionary, and it says “friends,” Mr. Chairman.

I do go on, Mr. Chairman. What about Ministers approving plans for their friends? What about firing up Ministers because of these types of details? What about—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: —Heritage Wharf, Mr. Chairman?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: That is not a point of order, it is just that Honourable Member trying to fill time.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order.

The Chairman: Again, the Chair recognises the Member from constituency 6.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Chairman, the Premier is . . . I sat down based on they were supposed to be answering some questions that the Leader of the Opposition—

The Chairman: Yes, okay. Sit down, Member.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: —and he is not doing his—

The Chairman: Okay, Member, okay.

Premier, can we move on to at least address some of the questions that were posed to you—

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes.

The Chairman: —under those Heads.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Let me deal with—

[Inaudible interjections]

The Chairman: Sit down, Honourable Member, sit down.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: He looks like he is moving a little slowly today, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: You have five minutes left, Premier, need I remind you.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

So to answer some of the questions, allegations cast about the . . . and I am still getting answers here, but I do not know if I can read all those papers, if there is time.

So the Office of Project Management and Procurement: Do you, Mr. Chairman and honourable colleagues, realise that when the changes were made in 2011 the former Government was paying $500,000 for a consultant to do that job?

Some Hon. Members: Ooh!

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Point taken, Mr. Chairman—$500,000 for one company consultant! Ooh, that is a little rich for everybody’s blood, Mr. Chairman. And so the former Premier, and give the former Premier credit, tried to tighten it up and we had to go finish the job.

So, Mr. Chairman, the Honourable Member who spoke for an hour and just was all over the place casting aspersions left, right, and centre is not even here to hear the questions he wanted answered.

Now, in regard to gazetting contracts, yes, they are gazetting every month. Every single contract is gazetted every month. Honourable Members, if they have got a problem with the Royal Gazette or other papers, then they will not read them. They will not see them. That is simple. I can help you on that.

I had to bite my tongue on the Ministerial Code of Conduct as well because, obviously, as I know now, and my colleagues know, as I said in my brief, in 2002 it was a new Code that started to be worked on. But for . . . let me see, 2002 to 2012, that is 10 years, nothing happened—nothing happened.

I would sit down and ask the Opposition Leader if he wanted to tell me what happened, but he is not in the Chamber. And I will not yield if he comes back in, if he comes rushing through the door. For 10 years nothing happened.

We are going to put a Code in place to make it into 2015 script, Mr. Chairman. And Ministers will sign off on it and it will be tabled in this House. That is putting up, Mr. Chairman. That is what the other side did not do. They could not even talk when they were the Government, they were ducking and weaving and trying to cover up things. The Auditor's Report said all of it, over and over and over again. And so the Honourable Member who is not sitting in his seat, I do not know where he is, he has gone out for a coffee break or something, to talk about transparency and accountability? Nonsense! He does not know what those words mean, Mr. Chairman. He does not know what those words mean. We know what they mean because we live them and we abide by them.

Mr. Chairman, the Honourable Member should know because he sat in Cabinet, Junior Ministers are allowed, and they can sit in either place. So we are following the rules, they can sit in either place.

Now he made a big deal about consultants and asked questions about whether there was a pay cut for this person and that person. Let me give you some facts. Talk about travel, well, budgeted travel for this financial year coming up is $3.6 million. In 2006 under the PLP it was $5.6 million. In 2007 it was $6.4 million. And in 2008 it was $6.5 million.

An Hon. Member: Oh, Lord!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: If the shoe fits, wear it. I mean, it is amazing. In December of 2012 they lost the election and all of a sudden—boom! They forgot everything that happened and they forgot what they did. You cannot push out what you did.

Now let us talk about consultants for a second. The former Premier had seven consultants. Now, that is no problem because policy allows the Premier [to] hire any consultant he wants. He had seven consultants, Mr. Chairman. The next PLP—

The Chairman: Honourable Premier, you have one minute left.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you very much. I am just in good timing. I will answer the last couple of questions. Point taken.

The next PLP Premier had five consultants.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Under the OBA, the Premier Cannonier cut it to four. I have cut it to two. Wow!

They do not want to talk about that. They want to talk trite about transparency and accountability. Look at the size of Cabinet, Mr. Chairman. There are 10 people in Cabinet. It has never been that small before. Ministers are working harder, doing more under more scrutiny, and that is why we need the Junior Ministers to give support.

So, Mr. Chairman, I listened to trite all afternoon. This Government is accountable, transparent and we are getting the job done. And that is why we are here and we are going to stay here.

Mr. Chairman, with that I will move all Heads under the Cabinet Office be approved.

[Desk thumping]

The Chairman: Members, we are now prepared to move the relevant Heads—9, 26 and 80.

Are there any objections?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Chairman, we should move all Heads under the Cabinet Office so they are done. So that would be 9, 14, 26, 43, 51, 80, 84, 96—all should be moved.

The Chairman: Honourable Premier I am informed that a motion will be made at the end of the Committee debate with respect to those other Heads, those remaining Heads.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: This is the end of that section. The motion at the end, I believe, will cover departments that are not debated. I just want to make sure we cover them all in here because between now and in two weeks time we could have a miss. And the people's business must go on so the money must be accounted for.

The Chairman: Point taken. Let me just take a . . .

[Crosstalk]

The Chairman: Okay, Premier, you have the floor again.

Honourable Premier, can you again name the Heads? We will proceed in that manner.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you.

I ask that this House move and approve Head 9, Cabinet Office; Head 14, Department of Statistics; Head 26, Department of Human Resources; Head 43, Information Technology; Head 51, Department of Communication and Information; Head 80, Project Management and Procurement; Head 84, E-Government; and Head 96, Sustainable Development.

The Chairman: Members, we have been asked to move Heads 9, 14, [26], 43, 51, 80, 84 and 96.

Are there any objections?

No objections.

[Gavel]

The Chairman: So moved.

[Motion carried: The Cabinet Office, Heads 9, 14, 26, 43, 51, 80, 84 and 96 were approved and stand part of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the year 2015/16.]

The Chairman: Members we are now going to move on to address National Security. The Heads that we will be considering are 83, 6, 7, 25, 88 and 12.

The Minister for National Security, the Honourable Michael Dunkley, from constituency 10, has the floor.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I am pleased to have the opportunity this afternoon to present briefs on the Ministry of National Security. I will start by doing Head 83, Ministry Headquarters, Mr. Chairman.

HEAD 83—MINISTRY OF NATIONAL SECURITY HEADQUARTERS

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Honourable Members, the current accounts estimates for—

[Crosstalk]

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Premier, you may proceed.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes, thank you.

The Ministry of National Security Headquarters, Head 83, can be found starting on pages B-284 to B-287 of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure Book.

Mr. Chairman, the Mission of the Ministry of National Security Headquarters is "to protect and enhance the welfare of our community effectively, efficiently and equitably."

The Ministry's departmental objectives are to direct policy implementation and oversee programme management and departmental operations within the Ministry. This includes but is not limited to providing leadership, oversight and coordination of the Department of National Drug Control, the Department of [Corrections], HM Customs (as of 1st April of last year), the Bermuda Post Office (as of December 2013) and the Bermuda Fire and Rescue Service.

Mr. Chairman, the Ministry also facilitates the delivery of the policing strategy of the Bermuda Police Service and promotes the role of the Bermuda Regiment.

The Parole Board, the Treatment of Offenders Board and the Police Complaints Authority also fall under the Ministry of National Security Headquarters remit.

The Ministry of National Security Headquarters' budget allocation of $1,360,000 for this coming financial year represents an increase of $165,000 or a 13.81 per cent increase over the current financial year. This increase is due to the ministry having inherited the electronic monitoring programme which was previously under the Ministry of Legal Affairs. Mr. Chairman, the programme has been in the Ministry of National Security for the entire fiscal year 2014/15 as well, but the departments were able to realise savings to fund the programme from within.

Expenditure Overview

Let me take a short opportunity to reflect on Expenditure Overview.

The Ministry of National Security Headquarters' has seven full-time staff members. Salaries consist of $734,542 or a decrease of 2.6 per cent when compared to financial year 2014/15 which had a budget of $754,000. This net decrease is due to the abolishment of a post throughout the year.

Mr. Chairman, Board and Commission fees, included in professional services have increased from $235,000 to $460,000, an increase of $235,000 over the current fiscal year. This simply reflects the additional funding provided to the department for the electronic monitoring programme. And this programme (I might add) Mr. Chairman, has been working quite effectively and we will get to that more through the presentation of this brief.

Each of the following budget items remained the same in the 2015/16 budget year as compared to this current year:

- Local training—$1,000;
- Travel—$50,000;
- Advertising and Promotion—$50,000;
- Communications—$11,000; and
- Materials and Supplies—$29,000.

Major Achievements

Mr. Chairman, I take this opportunity to reflect a bit on some of the work that is done and some of the achievements for the Ministry.

I would like to say that first off the Ministry continues to fulfil the potential of the Inter-Agency Gang Task Force beyond cooperative enforcement to include greater community engagement.

It has continued to implement a gang mediation programme—Team Street Safe. Mr. Chairman, you will recall that this programme was implemented as a means by which to intervene in the destructive cycle of the gang lifestyle. The grass roots, street interaction is the strength of this programme, and to date it continues to work on providing much needed alternatives to the gang lifestyle. This is a public/private partnership, Mr. Chairman, and through the assistance of those in the private sector we will continue to positively impact the lives of this target population and the community in general.

We continue to enhance the Neighbourhood Watch system which is called "Neighbourhood Watch 2.0" technology.

The Ministry Headquarters has provided the legislative foundation for Cash Back for Communities by amending the Proceeds of Crime Act. Mr. Chairman, it will also be recalled that last fall the Government fulfilled the promise of this legislation and made significant presentations to The Family Centre, Team Street Safe, North Village Community Club, Pembroke Hamilton Club, and Focus Counselling Services.

The Ministry along with other colleagues reintroduced the Gang Resistance Education And Training initiative known as G.R.E.A.T. into Bermuda's Primary Schools in partnership with the Bermuda Police Service and, of course, the Ministry of Education.

And we tabled the National Drug Commission Act 2013.

Mr. Chairman, through a firm hand in this budgetary process and the vigilance of the Ministry team and the department heads, I am pleased to advise this Committee that the Ministry of National Security has realised significant savings over the past two years against budgeted numbers.

And if you will allow me, Mr. Chairman, I will just take a few minutes to reflect back to the Budget for 2013/14. And the reason why I do that, Mr. Chairman, is because in the Budget Book that was released a couple of weeks ago the actual numbers for 2013/14 are numbers which we [are seeing] for the first time.

So if you look at the Ministry of National Security in Headquarters, the budgeted number in Headquarters was just over $3.2 million. The actual number finished at just under $1.1 million, Mr. Chairman.

In Defence it was $6.9 million and it rose to $7.7 million.

In Police the budgeted number was $71 million, the actual number, Mr. Chairman, finished at $66.1 million.

Customs, the budgeted number was $20 million; it finished at $19 million.

In the Bermuda Post Office the budgeted number was $13.6 million; it finished at $12.6 million.

Corrections' budgeted number was $27.5 million and finished at $25.2 million.

Bermuda Fire and Rescue Service [was budgeted at] $13.8 million and finished at $12.6 million.

And the Department of National Drug Control [was budgeted at] $4.1 million and finished at $4.5 million. The reason for that increase, Mr. Chairman, is because of the programmes up at the Nelson Bas-come Treatment Centre which opened during that year.

So, Mr. Chairman, the original budget for the fiscal year 2013/14 was $158.3 million, now it has finished at $149.2 million, or $9 million under budget. And I would hope that the Royal Gazette and all the media pick that up too, Mr. Chairman.

So those are the budget numbers as it relates to 2013/14, which are final.

Mr. Chairman, in keeping with its policy formulation and coordination role, the Ministry Headquarters will oversee a number of initiatives in this coming year. These include but certainly are not limited to:

- i. The continued implementation of Cash Back for Communities;
- ii. The implementation of mandatory ID checks;
- iii. The implementation of the G.R.E.A.T. Middle School Programme;
- iv. The creation of a best practice call-in version in Bermuda that engages community and moral voices to directly challenge those men and women who are on the cusp of exiting the gang lifestyle;
- v. Mr. Chairman, Honourable Members will recall the Security and Defence Review conducted by a Committee appointed by the Governor. The report has been debated in this Honourable Chamber and those recommendations that the Government is prepared to advance formed part of the 2014 Speech from the Throne. I am pleased to advise that as progress continues to be made on the implementation of those recommendations we will continue to update you.

Mr. Chairman, obviously as you know, that was a pretty deep list that was in the Security and Defence Review, and the Ministry has a summary of all of the recommendations. Ones that are completed, ones that are being worked on, and ones that we have taken no action on to date for a number of reasons: (1) we do not feel those are priorities; (2) we do not have the funding to do them; or (3) the jury is still out, we are deciding which way to go.

Mr. Chairman, this completes the presentation on the Ministry [of National Security] Headquarters, Head 83.

I would note, Mr. Chairman, that we are not debating the Bermuda Fire and Rescue Service and the Bermuda Post Office, but I want to take the opportunity to thank the Chief of the Bermuda Fire Service, Chief Lloyd Burchall, for the excellent work that his team has done. And also take the opportunity to thank Postmaster General Major Wayne Smith for the excellent work that he has done within the Post Office dealing with the challenges of narrowing the gap between revenues and expenses. They do good work and we will continue to work with them.

And last but not least I would like to take the opportunity to thank Major Marc Telemaque for his excellent leadership within the Ministry of National Security. And he joins us here this afternoon in Chambers.

HEAD 6—DEFENCE

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: So Mr. Chairman, I turn now to Head 6—Defence, which colleagues can find on pages B-267 to B-271 of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure.

Head 6 comprises the Bermuda Regiment. The Regiment's role is to provide operational capacity to support the civil authority. It performs a number of critical functions including natural and man-made disaster relief, internal security, state ceremonial activity, routine and specialist support to the Bermuda Police Service, military training, manning, social cohesion and, of course, youth development. The primary legislation affecting the departments are: The Defence Act 1965 (including amendments), Bermuda Regiment Governor's Orders 1993; His Excellency's Directive to the Commanding Officer dated 4 July 2009; the Bermuda Volunteer (Reserve Force) Act 1939, and the Bermuda Cadet Corps Act 1944 (which is not active).

Mr. Chairman, the estimate for the current financial year is $6,948,055, a decrease of $365,686 from the fiscal year that we are currently in.

Mandate

Mr. Chairman, the mandate of the Bermuda Regiment, under the authority of the Defence Act 1965, is to be a military force maintaining the necessary standards of manpower, training, and equipment, to enable it to perform its assigned roles efficiently and effectively. The Bermuda Regiment is continuously training to remain at a state of readiness in order to accomplish its missions and tasks.

Mission and Roles

The mission and roles of the Bermuda Regiment were confirmed by formal reviews in 2000, 2006 and 2014. The extant mission is: "The Bermuda Regiment is to support the Civil Authority with the security of Bermuda, its peoples, property, livelihood and interests in order to maintain normality."

To support this mission statement there are four main roles:

- a. to provide Regimental Assistance to the Civil Authority [RACA]. Consisting of unarmed assistance to the governing authority—for example, disaster relief and routine support to the Bermuda Police Service including Maritime Support—but also general contingency for the unexpected as Bermuda's 'insurance policy.'

- b. to provide Regimental Assistance to the Civil Power [RACP]. Comprising assistance to the governing authority that makes use of the Regiment's ability to act as an armed military force in order to provide assistance in preserving, maintaining, or restoring law and order—for example, internal security such as Public Order and Key Point Defence.
- c. to provide Regimental Assistance to Bermudian Society [RABS]. This includes social cohesion, through the shared military experience, youth development, state ceremonial activity and support to tourism.
- d. to provide Regimental Assistance to the International Community [RAIC]—for example, regional disaster relief and promoting Bermuda internationally.

Funding

Mr. Chairman, the funding for Defence for this coming year I have already stated is a decrease of $365,000, or 5 per cent, in line with the savings that Government has been trying to attain. This has led to a scaling back of programmes, and much critical assessment and thought [went] into it, and communication. The funding has come from a couple of areas: withdrawing the funding of the Bermuda Regiment Junior Leaders from April 2015, reducing recruiting incentives and some training, with the aim—as far as possible—of protecting core operational capability. I will come to the junior leaders more in my presentation, Mr. Chairman.

Let us look at the cost centres.

Defence Services—Cost Centre 16000

Mr. Chairman, Defence Services manage the processes for registering, selecting, calling-up, and deferral from service of Bermudian men. Recruitment, provides the administrative support, and services to Regimental Headquarters, the Defence Board, Defence Exemption Tribunal, Defence Promotions Board, and Defence Medical Board. Financial support and budget control round out this cost centre's responsibility. There are three full-time staff paid in this cost centre, two of whom are civilian, Mr. Chairman.

Regimental Headquarters—Cost Centre 16010

All command and control functions and associated costs are collated in this cost centre. All administrative and policy functions in support of military activities (less logistics), are funded through this cost centre, which includes six full-time staff members.

Quartermaster—Cost Centre 16020

The Quartermaster's Department provides all material and logistic supply to the Regiment. All procurement is funded through this cost centre. In addition, this department is responsible for the maintenance of all military assets—from buildings to weapons. The Regiment is in urgent need of a new rifle weapon system as the current Ruger rifle is well beyond its acceptable life span, and at this point negotiations are ongoing with the UK Ministry of Defence to procure at no or minimal cost, surplus UK weapons. Mr. Chairman, there are ten full-time staff paid in this cost centre, including one who is civilian.

Ceremonial—Cost Centre 16030

The Bermuda Regiment Band and Corps of Drums, along with Guards of Honour provided by C Company, will continue to perform at the high standard required during parades and state occasions that are expected and enjoyed by our visitors and residents. There are two full-time staff in this cost centre which also captures costs associated with routine state ceremonial occasions including:

- a. the beating Retreat Ceremonies from April through October;
- b. the Peppercorn Ceremony which is held in April;
- c. the Queen's Birthday Parade in June;
- d. the convening of the Legislature in November or whenever it is ordered;
- e. the Remembrance Day Parade in November.

The costs of various community supported activities carried out by the band in Bermuda throughout the year are also reflected in this cost centre. These include: leading the Bermuda Day Parade; performing at the annual Senior Citizens Tea; leading the Labour Day Parade; performing in support of the Bermuda Junior Leaders Camp and Bermuda Regiment Recruit Camp; performances at the request of community organisations such as the Bermuda International Business Association [BIBA]; supporting the Department of Tourism and convention groups, and this year supporting the Regiment's 50th anniversary celebrations which culminate in [Bermuda] Tattoo at Dockyard in October 2015.

Local Training—Cost Centre 16040

This funding is for the local training costs of all part-time personnel in A, C and Support Companies for the training year. Training begins with the annual Recruit Camp (14 days)—

The Chairman: Excuse me, Premier, which Head are you on right now? What page are you on rather?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I am on the Regiment.

The Chairman: Page?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Page B-268.

The Chairman: Thank you.

You may resume, Premier.

[Inaudible interjection and crosstalk]

The Chairman: He is reading from his brief.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Got it now?

The Chairman: You may resume, Premier.

Thank you.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: As I was saying, Mr. Chairman, it consumes approximately 14 man-days of time per soldier per year. The number of training days has decreased since 2008/09 proportionally with the reduced budget.

The training commitment is higher for senior ranks and for specialist capabilities. Costs associated with the junior non-commissioned officers cadre are included. This cadre concentrates on developing leaders and managers. Those who complete this course go on to become non-commissioned officers in the Regiment. Many soldiers also find that their employers reward their enhanced skills in the civilian workplace. This year, personnel on the cadre will attend the "Battle Camp" in May 2015 along with the remainder of the Regiment (less C Company and elements of Support Company) at the United States Marine Corps Base in Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. There are seven full-time staff paid in this cost centre.

Bermuda Regiment Junior Leaders—Cost Centre 16060

As I go on to cost centre 16060, Bermuda Regiment Junior Leaders, we are still on the same page, Mr. Chairman.

This is a youth development program maintaining the same goals and objectives as its predecessor unit the Bermuda Cadet Corps. The cost centre captures costs of the adult staff and the overall support for the junior leaders throughout the training year. Sadly, from April this year, budget reductions mean the programme will be scaled back and the full-time staff post re-invested elsewhere, although attempts will be made to continue the programme on an all volunteer (unpaid) basis similar to other youth organisations.

Overseas Camp—Cost Centre 16075

This cost centre captures the costs associated with taking approximately 180 personnel overseas for a mandated 15-day camp annually. Significant items of expenditure within this cost centre include the cost of the aircraft charter, soldiers' camp pay, and the provision of all resources to facilitate and support this training. In May 2015, the Regiment will deploy to Camp Lejeune, North Carolina to undergo its annual training. The overseas camp is essential in order to allow training not possible on Island and to help ensure the Regiment keeps pace with international best practice.

[Crosstalk]

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Members, bring your volume down a little bit. Thank you.

Premier, you may resume.

Courses and Attachments—Cost Centre 16080

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Overseas courses offer an opportunity, often the only opportunity, to acquire specialised skills and to maintain those skills that may be required for operations in Bermuda, whilst also ensuring the Regiment conforms to modern military best practice. This cost centre is for the continuation training, additional training, and special training of all officers and non-commissioned officers; both locally and overseas throughout the training year. Depending on the availability of personnel, the Regiment may send up to 15 officers, warrant officers, senior NCOs, or potential officers, to the UK, USA, Canada or Jamaica to attend a variety of military skills or military knowledge courses. Subject to available funds, in previous years the Regiment facilitated volunteers to participate in various camps and exercises organised by affiliated units such as the Royal Anglian Regiment. In 2013 three individuals deployed to train in Kenya for six weeks.

Personnel

Mr. Chairman, the Regiment employs 29 full-time staff; of which all but three are military personnel. The three civilian staff are employed in the administration of recruitment and accounts payable, and grounds maintenance at Warwick Camp.

Due to historic reductions in cash limits since 2008/09, the total strength of the Regiment is being held at just over 400 full-time and part-time personnel. Wages are the Regiment's greatest expenditure.

Output Measures and Objectives

Mr. Chairman, the Regiment successfully completed its preparations for the past hurricane season. In October, the Regiment participated in the joint services exercise Joint Venture 14. The joint exercise conducted with other agencies had a disaster relief theme.

Major Achievements—2014

Mr. Chairman, the Bermuda Regiment demonstrated its enduring utility and relevance in October 2014, when in the wake of Hurricanes Fay and Gonzalo, 2,140 man-days of disaster and hurricane relief were devoted to getting Bermuda back on its feet. This included clearance of routes for emergency service access, helping householders directly, and joint patrolling with the police, as well as enabling the deployment of HMS Argyll.

Mr. Chairman, a record high level of volunteers took part in this year's recruit camp with a total of 61 persons in the first intake, 35 of which were female—exceeding the target set and in line with the Government's commitment to phase out conscription.

The Regiment continues to work closely with the Bermuda Police Service, including with the Joint Service Explosive Ordnance Team and in developing the concept of selected soldiers trained as time-bound special constables.

And this year, Mr. Chairman, the Regiment celebrates its 50th anniversary on the 1st of September this year, and a series of nationwide events with the theme of reunion, and culminating in music [Bermuda] Tattoo in Dockyard in October 2015 are planned.

Mr. Chairman, the Bermuda Regiment plays a vital role in the life and safety of the country. The values it stands for—duty, service and patriotism—are the values that help make Bermuda strong.

The Regiment maintains very high standards of training and discipline and prides itself on being ready and able to answer the call of duty at anytime. It also continues to provide the people of Bermuda with a wide array of social benefits. These include bringing people together from different backgrounds through the shared military experience helping to promote unity, whilst also exposing young men and women to a disciplined and structured environment which requires team work and selfless commitment. This experience of military service helps build better Bermudians.

Mr. Chairman, its service in times of emergency is especially appreciated by one and all. Bermudians are proud of the Regiment and rightly so. As the Minister of National Security, I am impressed by the work that is done. The Bermuda Regiment has given 50 years of valuable service and this was no more evident than during the back-to-back hurricanes of Fay and Gonzalo in April of last year.

In the Budget Book, Mr. Chairman, on page B-268, you can see that Hurricane Fay is expensed out at $182,000 and Hurricane Gonzalo at $610,000 for the direct costs during that embodiment.

As I said on 23 October 2014, at the height of the post-Gonzalo recovery effort:

"I know I speak for all of Bermuda when I say that the men and women of the Bermuda Regiment have done incredible work restoring the Island to normality after the recent storms. The superior planning, readiness and quick deployment of teams tasked in various areas was evident and significantly contributed to the speedy response to the calls for assistance immediately following the events.

"It was a sense of some pride to see young men and women performing every task assigned without complaint and to the best of their ability and training. I have personally heard from many residents for whom the Regiment's assistance proved invaluable.

"Please convey my sincere, personal thanks and those of the Government and people of Bermuda to all ranks of the Bermuda Regiment for their tremendous contribution to the restoration effort."

Mr. Chairman, those conclude my remarks on Head 6—the Bermuda Regiment/Defence. And as I close, I would like to take this opportunity to thank Lt. Col. Foster-Brown for his work, which will be coming to a close in January of this year with the announcement that next year David Curley will be assuming the position of Commanding Officer.

HEAD 7—BERMUDA POLICE SERVICE

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Chairman, now I turn my head to the Bermuda Police Service which can be found on pages B-272 to B-276 of the Estimates of Revenue of Expenditure.

Mr. Chairman, the mission statement of the Bermuda Police Service is "Making Bermuda Safer" by engaging in three priority areas of operations:

- tackling crime and antisocial behaviour;
- engaging with the community; and
- improving road safety.

Priorities

Mr. Chairman, the Bermuda Police Service (BPS) continues to operate in austere times, along with other sectors of the community, meaning that [limited] resources must be used and deployed strategically. It is important for the police to be sharply focused on the things that present the most significant threats to public safety in Bermuda, and to those things that most impact on the feeling of community confidence in the police to keep us safe.

Accordingly, Mr. Chairman, the BPS acknowledges that it cannot do everything that everyone might like them to do, and they cannot do very much at all without the full support of and cooperation from the wider public. To that end, Mr. Chairman, the police have committed to the following priorities for the next fiscal year:

Tackling Crime and Antisocial Behaviour

Strong enforcement must be complemented by strong education, prevention and diversion efforts. The police will continue to deliver the Gang Resistance And Education Training (G.R.E.A.T.) programme in partnership with our Island's schools to weaken the grip of the gang culture on young people.

The BPS will continue to work with partners within the framework of the Interagency Gang Task Force [IGTF] and its associated levels: the Interagency Gang Enforcement Team [IGET] and the Interagency Community Response [ICR] Team. The work of the IGTF combines strategy with enforcement and community support.

The police will remain highly visible and accessible to the public and they will continue to target those criminals that pose the greatest threat to our community.

Community Engagement

Troubled neighbourhoods and those being affected by gang violence will continue to be the highest priority. Community Action Teams [CATs] are already embedded in these neighbourhoods to tackle antisocial behaviour, improve community relationships, and to help to solve problems and enhance public confidence.

The Problem Oriented Policing and Partnerships [POPP] strategy is the cornerstone of police operations. CAT officers rely on partnerships to build stronger communities and the BPS will make efforts to provide greater consistency in providing local community officers so that relationships at the neighbourhood level are strong and enduring.

Good communication sits at the heart of strong relationships, Mr. Chairman. The BPS will develop media strategies and expand the use of their website and social media sites to keep the public informed and engaged with the latest news from the police.

Road Safety

The BPS Road Safety Strategy is a community collaboration that is designed to save lives, make our roads safer and increase public confidence.

The police will deliver operational plans to reduce the total number of traffic collisions with an emphasis on reducing the number of deaths on the road. Patrols will be targeted to disrupt criminal use of the roads and combat antisocial driving behaviours. The police will aim to calm the roads and reduce the frequency of impaired driving.

The approach to road safety will include intelligence-led data analysis to determine traffic "hot spots" and areas that are needed for attention. The police will raise awareness of poor driving behaviour though education in concert with key stakeholders. The BPS will engage in enforcement that is combined with professional judgment and discretion, so that punishment is balanced with prevention.

Staff

The BPS relies on trained, competent people to deliver efficient, quality service at the highest professional standards. This year's training budget will be invested in the development of staff as leaders and problem solvers. The commissioner and his team will deliver a programme of transformational leadership that builds a culture of shared leadership and decision-making at the lowest possible levels.

Considerations of safety, health and welfare are priorities for the people engaged in our workplaces. The BPS seeks to foster a safe and healthy work environment with a strong focus on preventative measures. They will continue a series of upgrades to the Welfare Office to form an Occupational Health Unit that will provide a multidisciplinary approach to delivering complete physical, mental and social well-being environments for all BPS staff.

In the age of shrinking budgets and critical assessment of how every dollar is spent, the police are increasingly required to do more with less. The police will take a close look at the organisational structure to ensure that all police officers are engaged in police work. They will avoid using officers for jobs that do not require police training to perform, and they will make recommendations to the Government for alternate service delivery of any non-traditional roles that they may still be carrying out.

Technology

The collection, analysis and dissemination of intelligence form the basis of intelligence-led policing, which is critical. The BPS will implement the final phase of the MEMEX RMS [records management system] with new hardware and software applications that will ensure the right information reaches the right people at the right time.

Use of new technologies, most notably the new CCTV infrastructure, will be incorporated into operational policing plans. By making effective use of technology the police seek to enhance efficiency, increase capacity, and create greater accountability.

Technology is, indeed, the future. The police will conduct an assessment of current technology capabilities and anticipated technology requirements for the future. The BPS Strategic Plan 2015–2018, currently being finalised, will benefit from a separate technology strategy that will position the service for a longer term approach to keep in step with the ever changing technological world.

Allocation of Staff—Cost Centre 17000

Mr. Chairman, in regard to allocation of staff, for ease of accounting, all salaries for police officers are allocated to the Commissioner's [Office], cost centre, 17000. Police salaries for 2015/16 have been set at $38,100,000.

The full establishment for the BPS is adjusted from time to time by the Government and is currently set at 477 [police] officers. The actual strength as of today is 436 police officers, comprised of: 1 commissioner; 1 deputy commissioner; 2 assistant commissioners; 3 superintendents; 8 chief inspectors; 27 inspectors; 71 sergeants; [and] 321 constables. Additionally, 13 police cadets are employed on a full-time basis and they are at varying stages of completing associate degree programmes at the Bermuda College, with the option later of receiving a subsidy to obtain a university degree from overseas. These cadets represent part of the future of the BPS.

Mr. Chairman, the service employs 91 support staff members out of a total of 98 funded positions (both BPSU and BIU posts) for a total workforce of 540 full-time employees. Another 100 volunteers make up the ranks of the Bermuda Reserve Police. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Bermuda Reserve Police for the work that they have done in our community.

Officers and support staff are divided into four main divisions, and the commissioner has the authority to move staff between divisions according to the programmes that he would like to put in place within the service.

The 2015/16 Budget for police salaries and overtime has been adjusted to reflect the 5 per cent reduction target set by the Ministry of Finance. Accordingly, the Ministry of National Security is working closely with the Commissioner of Police and the Bermuda Police Association to find cost savings and reductions in labour costs to ensure that the available funding is sufficient to maintain police officer numbers around their current level. Additionally, the Ministry will examine other cost-saving options across the Ministry in order to assist in this regard.

The allocation of police officers is generally made according to the following areas:

Community Policing Division (300)

- Hamilton Police Station, 90;
- Southside Police Station, 60;
- Somerset Police Station, 55;
- Police Support Unit (PSU), 70 (including Gang, Firearms & K9 Units);
- Roads & Marine Policing, 25.

Serious Crime Division (65)

- Serious Crime Unit, 25;
- Criminal Investigation Unit, 25;
- Drugs & Financial Crime, 15.

Intelligence Division (35)

- Intelligence Operations; 35.

Support Services Division (35) [sic]

- Operational Support, 25 (Courts, COMOPS & Forensics);
- Training and Administration, 11.

Mr. Chairman, this is a total of 436.

Additional Resources/Specific Initiatives

Mr. Chairman, the variances to be observed in most of the cost centres reflect operational considerations that fall strictly within the remit of the commissioner whose internal submissions for funding are mission driven.

However, I wish to take this opportunity highlight for Honourable Members, key additional elements of the 2014/15 Budget that indicates this Government's support for the BPS and the role we ask them to play in this community.

Overseas Investigative Assistance is allocated $1,034,538.

Mr. Chairman, in response to the rapid escalation in 2009 in gang violence and associated gun crime, the BPS implemented a number of strategies to build the extra capacity needed to cope with the higher caseloads of serious crimes. This initiative has run for five years and has resulted in a significant clearance of current and cold cases. Gun crime has been reduced by more than 50 per cent year on year, partly attributed to this increased capacity. The BPS has been able to reduce this budget by more than 50 per cent since its original grant in 2010. Additionally, the service continues to look for more opportunities to employ Bermudians in an effort to further decrease reliance on this overseas assistance.

The funding, Mr. Chairman, allows for the employment of temporary additional staff with specific expertise that is not currently available in the service. The roles that these temporary staff fill are: financial investigators, intelligence analysts, cold case reviewers, digital forensic examiners, and crime scene investigators.

Mr. Chairman, the CCTV Project is allocated $1.5 million for this fiscal year.

The BPS entered into a 60-month contract with BAS-Serco in 2014 to provide an Island-wide CCTV system comprised of a combination of fixed, pan-tilt-zoom (PTZ) and Automated Number Plate Recognition (ANPR) cameras, with a total of 150 cameras providing coverage in 85 locations.

Unfortunately, Mr. Chairman, the implementation of the system was met with a series of significant delays meaning that full operation will not be in place until sometime in the first quarter of 2015. Significant progress has been made in recent months and the installation is currently at about 80 [per cent] to 85 per cent complete. The disadvantage of this delay has been the lack of full coverage. But clearly this is a vast improvement over the former number of cameras we had which were limited in scope throughout the Island. Now, while there was a disadvantage in getting the full system up, the advantage has been that there has been a significant savings of funds in the current financial year as the BPS has only paid partial monthly costs while the system continues to be set up.

These cost savings have realised an additional benefit in that Cabinet has been able to use some of the money to fund an immediate upgrade to the system that was originally not budgeted for. Since the cameras work on a line-of-sight system, Bermuda's topography prevents the deployment of cameras in certain areas without the support of additional "repeater" poles. The savings have been used to purchase six cameras and repeating equipment to provide coverage to six additional areas that would otherwise have been vulnerable. In addition, Mr. Chairman, these areas include critical junctions along Ord Road in Paget as well as on Deepdale [Road] in Pembroke.

Mr. Chairman, it is important for the Committee to note that in keeping with this Government's Throne Speech pledge, the negotiating team is in discussions with the Bermuda Police Service with a view to negotiating those changes to the Conditions of Service Order, or more commonly known as COSO, required to modernise that benefit structure for the BPS and consequently realise savings necessary to make this budgetary allocation effective. As Honourable Members of the House might not be aware, and as indicated by the Honourable Member, the Minister of Finance, in his Budget Statement, that includes the requirement for officers to at least consider payment of some portion of their GEHI because at the present time health insurance premiums are not covered by the officers in any way. This would be consistent with much of the public service and, certainly, the private service. So these negotiations take place and we are pleased that the BPA appears willing to discuss these very important issues.

Mr. Chairman, there are several items that are no longer necessary under the Order and which have been accounted for in the 2008 Award which was actually implemented in 2011. So those discussions are ongoing and I am confident that, working together, we will achieve a modern agreement, reflective of these times but one which sets the BPS on a sound footing for the future.

Mr. Chairman, as I close out my remarks for the Police Service, in times like this it is obviously very clear we need men and women in whom we can have confidence and to whom we can look to for decisive action in the face of any criminal activity. The Bermuda Police Service rises to the challenge each and every day. The Senior Command, led by Commissioner De Silva, and the men and women of every rank have made keeping Bermuda safe more than a slogan. Mr. Chairman, it is indeed a calling for them.

I would like to take—I hear the Honourable Opposition Leader saying something.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I hear the Honourable Opposition Leader say they need a pay cut and that . . . we are talking about looking at it in an appropriate way, and we let the negotiators take a look at it. But I would like to take this opportunity to thank the commissioner and his team for the work they do.

Mr. Chairman, as you know when many people sleep, if something happens the police have to be at it. We have high expectations in Bermuda and I think they have done a very commendable job at meeting the demands and needs of the community, and it is a pleasure to have the opportunity to work with such experienced personnel who do the job, such as the commissioner and his colleagues. And I look forward to the continued relationship.

HEAD 12—CUSTOMS

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Chairman, I now return to the Department of Customs—Head 12, found on pages B-277 to B-301 of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: The [Budget] Book is Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure, yes.

The Customs department is responsible for: assessing and collecting customs duty and fees on imported goods; enforcing customs laws, administering other statutes controlling the international movement of goods and people, and preventing the smuggling of drugs and other illegal commodities; in addition, it provides information and assistance to the public regarding customs laws and regulations.

Mission

Its mission, Mr. Chairman is “To promote compliance with Bermuda's Customs Laws through quality service and responsible enforcement, thereby contributing to the economic and social stability of our community.”

Mandate

The mandate of the department is as follows:

- to facilitate legitimate trade;
- to assess and collect revenue; and
- to interdict drugs and other contraband.

In carrying out the mandate, Mr. Chairman, they will:

- encourage and promote voluntary compliance;
- communicate and cooperate with our clients and stakeholders;
- adhere to high standards of integrity and professionalism; and
- treat the public and each other with respect.

Mr. Chairman, the department operates under nine cost centres which can be found on page B-277 of the Budget Book. The objectives established for each cost centre are as follows:

Airport Commercial—Cost Centre 22020

The objectives of this area are to:

- authorise the release of imported goods;
- to carry out inspections of courier cargo;
- interdiction of illicit goods and control of restricted goods;
- maintenance of prescribed service levels to clients; and
- acknowledgment of correspondence within three working days and responding within ten days.

Airport Shift A—Cost Centre 22030

Airport Shift B—Cost Centre 22040

The objectives of these shifts are:

- the examination and control of all civil aircraft, passengers and air freight arriving in Bermuda;
- primary immigration control of all arriving passengers;
- enforcement of customs laws and regulations with respect to passengers and their baggage;
- collection of customs duties and fees;
- supervision and control of all in bond exports of liquor/tobacco by air;
- agency work for the Departments of Health, Environmental Protection and the police; and
- the prevention and interdiction of all restricted and prohibited goods entering Bermuda. These goods include plants, fruit, animals, firearms, pornography, prohibited weapons and, of course, illicit drugs.

Investigations and Audit—Cost Centre 22050

The following objectives in this section are:

- the investigation of all suspected revenue offences, completion of case files including recommendations for the disposal of the case and, where applicable, the level of penalty to be applied;
- they carry out the inspection of imported and exported cargo; and

- they audit declarations of imports and exports for accuracy and compliance with a particular focus on bonded operators and local inland clearance agents.

Hamilton Commercial Operations—Cost Centre 22070

The objectives are to:

- authorise the release of imported goods;
- interdiction of illicit goods and control of restricted goods;
- maintenance of prescribed service levels to clients;
- providing guidance to the public with customs laws and processes.

Administration—Cost Centre 22080

The objectives of this section are as follows:

- to process all entry declarations in accordance with our prescribed quality service levels;
- to ensure that all customers' correspondence is dealt with in accordance with our prescribed quality service levels, i.e., a two-day response time is aimed for; and
- to provide all personnel, legislative, financial, budgetary, administrative and general operational services to the department.

Vessel Clearance—Cost Centre 22090

Vessel clearance has the following objectives:

- the examination and control of all sea-bound vessels arriving in Bermuda, including private yachts, cruise ships and cargo carry vessels;
- primary immigration control of all individuals arriving in Bermuda via the ocean;
- enforcement of customs laws and regulations with respect to cruise ship passengers and their baggage; and
- the collection of customs duties and fees.

Interdiction—Cost Centre 22100

The objectives include:

- the collection, analysis, and the managed dissemination of intelligence on the cross border movements of illicit items, suspected persons and data on suspicious activities to enable a risk-based, focused Customs enforcement environment;
- carrying out inspections of courier cargo and postal packages; and
- the interdiction of illicit goods and control of restricted goods.

Seaport Enforcement Team—Cost Centre 22110

The objectives include:

- the examination and control of all cargo containers arriving in Bermuda;
- interdiction of illicit goods and control of restricted goods; and
- the verification and matching of declarations of imports to the contents of imported containers.

Operational Budget

Mr. Chairman, in regard to the Operational Budget the total budget for the coming fiscal year found on page B-277 is $17,267,000 [and is] broken down as follows:

- Airport Commercial Operations—$308,000;
- Airport Shift A—$1,961,000;
- Airport Shift B—$1,961,000;
- Investigations and Audit—$1,011,000;
- Hamilton Commercial Operations—$1,214,000;
- Administration—$5,070,000;
- Vessel Clearance—$1,011,000;
- Interdiction—$3,984,000;
- Seaport Enforcement Team—$747,000.

The budget allocation for the coming year is $908,000 less than the current fiscal year, or 5 per cent.

Employee numbers, full-time numbers, Mr. Chairman, can be found on page B-278 and the department's estimated staffing level has remained consistent at 202 employees this year and [for the] next financial year.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to take the opportunity to do a bit of line item analysis of Head 12, Operational Budget, on page B-278.

Salaries of $14.8 million are a decrease of $13,000. This remains consistent with the original budget from 2014/15.

Other Personnel Costs of $26,000 is a decrease of $127,000, Mr. Chairman, or 83 per cent. The decrease reflects the department's commitment to remain within its cash limits by reducing expenditure on long service awards and call-out allowances. In addition, the allowance for canine handlers has been reduced to three due to the death of one of the canines.

Training of $23,000 [is] a decrease of $7,000, or 23 per cent. The decrease is a reflection of the 2014/15 revised budget. This reduction in expenditure is primarily due to the department reducing the number of sponsored training courses, utilising more in-house training (such as our "lunch and learn" sessions), utilising the training offered by the Department of Human Resources at no charge to the department, and collaborating with other departments to share training classes.

Transport of $10,000 is a decrease of $1,000. Transport costs for the Customs department represent air freight, shipping costs and Customs duty and, for the most part, these costs are the result of the importation of uniform items. The decrease in the allocation is related, therefore, to the reduction in the planned expenditure for uniform items.

Travel—$18,000 is a decrease of $15,000, or 45 per cent. The main reason for travel by Customs staff is to attend conferences hosted by International Customs and Law Enforcement bodies. Mr. Chairman, attendance at some of these conferences is essential to maintain membership (or executive membership) of the relevant bodies. Membership of these bodies brings with it many benefits including: access to international best practice guidance, statistical information, legal advice and training materials. Attendance at these international conferences afford staff members rare opportunities to develop contacts vital for the intelligence gathering from which Customs benefits. The decrease in budget allocation represents the department's commitment to minimising expenditure by reducing the number of attendees at conferences and minimising the number of conferences attended.

Communication has a budget of $154,000, a decrease of $51,000, or 25 per cent. The original budget for 2014/15 included a contingency amount of expenditure which may not be covered by the Capital Budget allocation but [was] required to install a new Internet protocol telephone system. The IP phone system has now been completely installed. The replaced telephone system required many periodic repairs which became increasingly challenging and costly. The IP system has contributed to a reduction in communication costs since it allows Customs to make free calls within the existing standard Government telephone network.

Professional Services, Mr. Chairman, has a budget of $331,000, an increase of $32,000, or 11 per cent. Professional Services costs consist of the services of a consultant who advises on legal and policy issues faced by the department, and assists with the drafting of Customs legislation, other local consultants and contractors, and membership fees for the World Customs Organization [WCO] and the Caribbean Customs Law Enforcement Council [CCLEC].

Mr. Chairman, the reasons for the increase in allocation are as follows:

1. an increase in the membership fees of CCLEC of $1,750;
2. an increase in the membership fees of WCO of $602;
3. an increase in fees proposed by the overseas consultant of approximately 3 per cent or $5,000;
4. the remaining $25,000 represents a provision made to use, on a seasonal basis, Mr. Chairman, qualified consultants (retired immigration and Customs staff) to perform the primary immigration function at the airport. It is anticipated that these local hires will help ease congestion at the airport during the peak periods in the summer. It is planned that this will allow the Customs officers to focus on their primary duties and allow for a reduction in the overtime required. It is expected that this programme will result in a net reduction in expenditure.

Mr. Chairman, as you are well aware, when the busy flight schedule kicks in there is a real crunch between eleven and three on a daily basis. And so we have identified the need to move people through the hall, we have to keep the airport running efficiently, and we feel with this extra funding it will not only help people move, but we should save money in the long term on overtime.

Rentals—$499,000; a decrease of $75,000, or 13 per cent. The decrease in budget provision is a reflection of reduced actual expenditure. Due to market conditions, Mr. Chairman, rental costs have decreased and we anticipate a further decrease during 2015/16 for the department's Magnolia House property. Further, during 2014/15, Customs transferred the lease of a storage facility from a private vendor to available storage space at the airport. The Department of Airport Operations offered a much more favourable rent for this new storage space.

Repair & Maintenance saw $726,000; a decrease of $455,000, or 35 per cent [sic], Mr. Chairman. The decrease in the allocation is reflective of the actual expenditure, year to date, of repairs and maintenance in 2014/15. Thus, we believe it will be much more accurate going forward.

Energy of $226,000 is a decrease of $23,000, or 9 per cent. This is reflective of the actual expenditure, year to date, of energy expenditure during 2014/15. And we believe with the reduced oil prices we should be in a good position to make this number work.

Clothing, Uniforms & Laundry—$158,000 is a decrease of $76,000, or 32 per cent. This decrease is a reflection of the department's commitment of remaining within its cash limit by reducing issues of uniforms.

Materials and Supplies of $249,000 is a decrease of $29,000, or 10 per cent, [and] is very manageable under the improved oversight that will take place in this area.

And finally, Equipment is $11,000; a decrease of $43,000. This decrease is simply an allocation within the available cash limits by reducing expenditure on fixtures and fittings and there is nothing that pressing of a high cost that we need to budget for this coming financial year.

Mr. Chairman, since Revenues will be covered at another time, I do not need to go into the Revenue section of the brief, which is right in the middle of the Custom pages. But if you turn to page B-279 and B-280, I am pleased to provide the following results on output measures.

Output Measures

First, in Airport Commercial, [cost centre] 22020, the Airport Commercial Operations achieved 95 per cent compliance with its prescribed quality service levels and, therefore, exceeded its target of 90 per cent. It is forecasted that 95 per cent compliance will be achieved again in 2014/15 and of course the target in 2015/16.

The Airport Commercial Operations processed 11,307 Bermuda Customs Declarations [BCD], during 2013/14. It is forecasted during 2014/15 that 9,262 Bermuda Customs Declarations will be processed. And the target for 2015/16 is 11,300 BCDs.

Mr. Chairman, Airport Shift A collected forced duty in the amount of $45,287. It is forecasted that during the current financial year that forced duty in the amount of $34,924 will be collected. And the target is $40,000 for the next financial year. Forced duty, Mr. Chairman, is for a traveller that has failed to declare something.

For the 2013/14 year, Airport Shift A seized illicit items on 55 occasions. It is forecasted that they will seize illicit items on 70 occasions this current financial year and the target is 50 for the next financial year. But, obviously, the targets are set there but they will continue to do their jobs and I am sure that they will exceed those targets.

In regard to Airport Shift B, they collected forced duty in the amount of $43,512. It is forecasted during the current financial year to collect $50,610. And for the next financial year the target is set at $40,000.

In relation to illicit items seized, [Airport] Shift B seized illicit items on 53 occasions. So far this year they predict that on 70 occasions they will seize illicit items. And the target has been set at 50 for the next financial year.

Mr. Chairman, in regards to Investigations/Audit—[cost centre] 22050, they completed 160 investigations during 2013/14, resulting in, amongst other things, the collection of $44,772 in additional duty. By the close of the current fiscal year, it is forecasted that the Investigations unit will have 68 cases resulting in $7,573 in additional duty. And the target for the coming fiscal year is 140 cases and $70,000 in additional duty.

In Hamilton Commercial Ops—cost centre 22070, the Hamilton Commercial Operations complied with the prescribed quality service levels in 95 per cent of all declarations processed [and] 37,712 were processed during this same period. In 2014/15, it is forecasted that the Hamilton Commercial Operations will meet the quality service levels 95 per cent of the time and 37,000 declarations will be processed. In 2015/16, the target outcome is that, as a minimum, they will make the 95 per cent compliance and 37,000 declarations will be processed.

In regard to Administration—[cost centre] 22080, in 2013/14 the Administration section met its established goals and ensured that BCDs were processed in compliance with prescribed standards 100 per cent of the time, Mr. Chairman. The average time between receipt of purchase invoice and authorization or rejection of payment was five days. In 2014/15 it is forecasted that BCDs will be processed in compliance, again, 100 per cent of the time and that authorization or rejection will be done in five days again. The targets for the coming financial year will be 100 per cent of the time and we will stick within our target authorization or rejection of 10 days, which we have done much better over the past couple of years.

In regards to Vessel Clearance—[cost centre] 22090, the Vessel Clearance section processed 100 per cent of cruise ship passengers and prepared and issued invoices with a value $1,390,853. In 2014/15, it is forecasted that the Vessel Clearance section will also process 100 per cent of cruise ship passengers and the amount will be $1,040,406. In 2015/16, of course, the target is going to be 100 per cent and the estimate of issued invoices will be just over $1,000,000.

In regard to Interdiction—[cost centre] 22100, Mr. Chairman, the Interdiction section made 87 seizures [sic] in 2013/14 and had a 60 per cent success rate of positive results from all search and detentions. In 2014/15 it is forecasted that 234 seizures will be made and a 76 per cent success rate with search and detentions. And in 2015/16, the target is 80 with a 60 per cent success rate. Obviously, those targets will continue to be pushed to do the job we have at Border Control.

In regards to the Seaport Enforcement Team—[cost centre] 22110, the Seaport Enforcement Team, or SET, inspected and reviewed 100 per cent of import cargo manifests and used the Hamilton docks Gantry X-ray scanner to scan 60 per cent of containers imported into Bermuda. In this current financial year, it is forecasted that SET will inspect and review, again, 100 per cent of the cargo manifests and scan 80 per cent of the containers into Bermuda. In addition, the target for the next financial year as set by SET for inspection and review will be 100 per cent and a scan of 65 per cent of cargo containers, Mr. Chairman.

I would now like to provide you, Mr. Chairman, with a brief summary of the ongoing capital projects which will be active under the department during the next fiscal year, namely the Customs Automated Processing System (CAPS) as listed in Customs IT Developments which can be found on page C-14.

Mr. Chairman, CAPS is the core computer system used throughout the whole of Customs. It is the central database of all information collected from Customs declarations from both traders and travellers. It serves an integral part of the control processes used within Customs as it expedites data analysis for the purpose of making risk assessments. This allows Customs to focus its efforts more efficiently and productively.

CAPS has enabled the automation of a number of preliminary checks including, but not limited to, assessing the internal consistency of declarations, and, identifying whether sufficient funds are available prior to the release of dutiable imports.

CAPS also plays an important part in the initial collection of statistical data as used by the Department of Statistics in monitoring economic and commercial trends.

An ever-increasing number of our major traders who normally submit many large record Bermuda Customs Declarations [BCDs] are now submitting them all electronically thereby removing a huge strain from our data input section. Customs is actively engaging traders to utilise the electronic processing capabilities of CAPS. At this point in time, Mr. Chairman, over 80 per cent of all Customs entries are processed via CAPS.

Due to the complexity and unique nature of the Bermuda Customs environment, CAPS is, by necessity, Bespoke software owned by the Government of Bermuda. To keep pace with changing technologies, legislation, and security needs, as well as providing enhanced services and functionalities to our customers, it is necessary that we invest in and maintain the development of this system. The efficiency benefits combined with the improved statistical information, controls, customer service, and intelligence gathered by this system outweigh the costs of development.

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: The budget for this project this coming year, Madam Chairman (as we have had a change in Chair), is $250,000.

It is anticipated, Madam Chairman, that Customs will spend a further $20,000 on purchasing computer equipment. Most of this expenditure will be for replacements of desktop personal computers.

It is anticipated that Customs will use the duty van allocation of $80,000 to replace two vehicles which have been written off as economically unviable to continue to run and maintain.

Achievements

In 2015/16, Madam Chairman, I would like to inform Members of some of the important achievements that we had in 2014/15 as we look forward to 2015/16.

During the first week of November of last year, 2014, the Caribbean Customs Law Enforcement Council [CCLEC] selected Bermuda as the host of the 2014 Executive Committee Meeting. This honour conferred upon Customs Bermuda the responsibility to organise, amongst other things, a welcoming committee for the visiting delegates from 11 countries across the Caribbean and Europe, the meeting venue, and the accommodations for the visiting delegates.

The meeting proved to be a great success as a number of important agenda items were discussed and consensus was reached on these important issues, including a ratification on a treaty with respect to the organisational structure of CCLEC, its strategic plan, and future financing. As the Chair of the Executive Committee, Bermuda played an integral role in providing direction for the future of this highly influential body in the protection of the borders of the Caribbean and Bermuda.

In addition, Madam Chairman, to the executive committee achieving its objectives for the meeting, it also highlighted to the visiting delegates the stunning beauty, the warm hospitality and the rich culture of Bermuda. The Collector of Customs was very pleased to accept on behalf of the Customs department, expressions of gratitude and commendation for hosting this well organised event.

A major challenge faced by Bermuda during 2014, as I referred to prior in this brief, was the impact of Hurricanes Fay and Gonzalo. The Customs department takes the safety of its employees and the wider public extremely seriously and, on becoming aware of the probability of an impending direct hit, immediately formulated and instituted a contingency plan with the intent of ensuring that the Hamilton docks were cleared of containers prior to the arrival of Hurricane Gonzalo. Customs designed and implemented special procedures for the clearance of imports which allowed the expedited release of goods whilst retaining many of the important checks and controls. By means of these innovative procedures, good communications with importers and declarants, cooperation with and from our Stevedoring partners, and the diligence and hard work of the Customs staff, all containers were safely cleared from the Hamilton docks well before Gonzalo made its landfall in Bermuda.

Following the storm, Customs promptly assessed the damage to its facilities. Despite incurring substantial damage at its Airport Courier Facility, Customs was able to quickly relocate to an alternative location and resume normal operations.

Madam Chairman, at some point during 2016 [financial year], it is expected that an assessment will be undertaken of Bermuda's anti-money laundering environment by the International Monetary Fund (IMF). As a benchmark, the IMF will undoubtedly use the recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force [FATF] to assess the Bermuda Financial Environment.

Their assessment will involve a review of all of the policies and operations of Government departments. It is anticipated that part of this review will encompass an examination of the policies and procedures applied by the Customs department with respect to monitoring and controlling the cross border movements of cash and monetary instruments. Customs recognises that the financial services sector is an especially important part of the economy of Bermuda and, therefore, takes extremely seriously its role in protecting the reputation of Bermuda as an ethically responsible financial jurisdiction within the international community. Consequently, the department has created its own task force, which meets on a weekly basis, to:

- document and analyse current practices and policies and compare these to the recommendations of best practice as identified by the Financial Action Task Force;
- update existing policies and develop new policies to bridge the gap between current working practices and international best practice;
- identify and procure any necessary assets to allow the new policies to be put into action;
- in addition, it communicates and trains staff on the revised policies; and
- continues to monitor and review the application of the revised policies and procedures.

Madam Chairman, the progress of this task force is indeed encouraging and Customs is on target to have the revised policies and procedures in place in fiscal year 2015/16.

On a related note, Customs has enjoyed considerable success during 2014/15 in making cash seizures of the proceeds of crime. During this current financial year, Customs has seized cash in the amount of $205,000.

Following the announcement that Bermuda had been successful in its bid to host the America's Cup, Customs has been busy in making preparations for its role in making the event a success. Naturally, Madam Chairman, in the lead up to this event, Customs anticipates an influx of related imports and has, as a result, assigned a committee to focus on the related preparations and administration. Already, Customs has reached out to the major stakeholders of this event to offer advice and assistance with their imports and transition into Bermuda and all relevant information is on the Customs website. A working plan has been devised to handle efficiently and effectively all of the imports related to the America's Cup.

Madam Chairman, that ends my comments on the Department of Customs and I would like to close by thanking the Collector of Customs, Ms. Pearman, and her entire team for their dedication and commitment to the work. And I know that over the next couple of days they will be operating with a heavy heart at the loss of their Senior Customs Officer, Mr. Colin Smith.

HEAD 25—DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I would like to take this opportunity now to move on to the Department of Corrections. Head 25 can be found on pages B-286 to B-289 of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure.

Madam Chairman, the department's mandate is to administer sentences imposed by the courts under conditions of safe custody and well-ordered community life so that convicted persons can lead good and useful lives upon discharge. The main objectives being:

1. to protect the public by holding inmates securely, reducing the risk of re-offending, providing safe, humane, well-ordered and lawful regimes;
2. to provide a humane but demanding regime aimed at reducing re-offending by presenting inmates with a range of opportunities in which reward is linked to effort (incentives and earned privileges), and to prepare for life after release.

Madam Chairman, the departmental outcomes are as follows:

1. The Government of Bermuda endorses the aim of the Department of Corrections to achieve, and where practicable, to exceed the United Nations Minimum Standards for the treatment of prisoners; and
2. The people of Bermuda are satisfied that the Department of Corrections makes an effective contribution to public safety and the rehabilitation of offenders.

The principle functions of the Department of Corrections fall into two categories:

1. Custody. The Department of Corrections is authorised to accept and detain all persons who are lawfully ordered to be detained by the courts. The main functions under custody include inmate reception, release, security, visits, court escort security, safety and general daily operations.
2. Treatment and Rehabilitation. This function is the treatment (intervention) rehabilitation/habilitation of offenders. This function can be challenging as offenders, based on their mindsets, attitudes and sometimes irrational thinking, often consider programmes unnecessary and irrelevant. However, this is achievable through the provision of offending behaviour programmes, cognitive interventions, life skills training, educational classes, skills and recreational development which are aimed at addressing offending behaviour and of course promoting positive change.

Madam Chairman, the department is divided into 13 major cost centres which comprise of: Corrections Headquarters (35000), Farm Facility (35020), Co-Educational Facility (35030), Westgate Correctional Facility (35060), Transitional Living Centre (35070), Therapeutic Community—Right Living House (35090), Psychological Services (35105), Social Services & Case Management (35106), Health Services (35107), Educational Services (35108), Vocational Services (35109), Recreational Services (35110) and Chaplaincy (35111).

The department's mission statement is clear, "To empower inmates to be responsible and productive citizens." Madam Chairman, the department's core beliefs are set out as follows. They believe that:

- i. Those in our custody have the potential to change. I know we all believe that as well.
- ii. Our staff are our greatest asset in the achievement of our mission, and that they have the potential to bring about change.
- iii. The Bermuda Department of Corrections is an integral part of the entire Bermudian community.
- iv. We should operate the department cost-efficiently while retaining our mission.

The department has a responsibility for adhering to the following legislation:

- Treatment of Offenders Board Act 1979;
- Prison Act 1979;
- Prison Rules 1980;
- Young Offenders Act 1950;
- Senior Training School Rules 1951;
- Prison Officers (Discipline, Etc.) Rules 1981;
- Sections of the Mental Health Act 1968 and portions of other Legislation;
- Sections of the Parole Board Act;
- Sections of the Criminal Code Amendment Act.

Madam Chairman, the total current expenditure which can be found on page B-286 is estimated to be $24,866,000 for the coming financial year, which represents a decrease of $1,308,000, or approximately 5 per cent over the current budget. This reduction is a direct result of the mandate by the Government to look at efficiencies and cost savings.

The 2015/16 budget provides funding for 233 full-time employees as shown on page B-287. In addition to full-time employees it will fund facilitators and teachers for inmate programmes.

Headquarters—Cost Centre 35000

Madam Chairman, cost centre 35000, Headquarters, represents $4,488,000, or 18 per cent of the budget. Corrections Headquarters under the general direction of the commissioner and assistant commissioners provides directives to a decentralised organisation. Staff administer and coordinate the training, security strategies, human resources, financial resources and policy direction for the department. This budget will fund salaries and operating expenses for Corrections Headquarters.

Farm Facility—Cost Centre 35020

Cost centre 35020, the Farm Facility, represents $3,489,000, or 14 per cent of the total budget in that department. The budget will allow for staffing of the Farm Facility, operating expenses and inmate care.

Madam Chairman, the Farm Facility is an adult male minimum security facility with a capacity to house 93 inmates. Currently there are 38 inmates housed at the Farm Facility. The prerequisite for inmates housed at this facility is completion of their core sentence plan requirements and classification of minimum (low risk) security.

Treatment continues to be provided focusing on relapse prevention. Inmates are also involved in work release programmes, charity programmes, increased activities and other ongoing projects within the facility. This year 18 inmates were enrolled in the work release programme and 37 inmates participated in the Charity Work programme.

Co-Ed Facility—Cost Centre 35020

Cost centre 35020, Co-Ed Facility, represents $3,213,000, or 13 per cent of the total budget and provides funding for 40 staff and operational costs. This facility with a capacity of 56 cells has separate and distinct provisions to house 40 adult females and 16 young male offenders between the ages of 16 and 21. Currently, there are 12 adult females and one young male offender in the facility. The programmes provided are similar to other facilities based on the assessment of needs and the available resources. Madam Chairman, it must be noted that currently there is just one trainee at the facility; however, as the need arises, young males can prepare for their General Education Diploma [GED], gain skills in carpentry and computer classes. The females are provided with computer and sewing [classes]. Cognitive programmes such as anger management and substance abuse are provided as needed as well, Madam Chairman.

A [personal] officer scheme will be introduced in this budget year; the scheme is designed to allow officers to build a rapport with assigned inmates. In addition, the assigned officers will help inmates access services and address issues that may arise and provide input and advice whenever required on inmates in their charge.

Westgate Correctional Facility—Cost Centre 35060

Cost centre 35060, Westgate Correctional Facility, represents $9,332,000, or 38 per cent of the total budget. Westgate Correctional Facility is an adult male establishment with the design capacity to house 208 prisoners in conditions of maximum, medium and minimum security, and represents over 60 per cent of the entire Department of Corrections total inmate population. Currently at Westgate there are 142 inmates. The majority of inmates fall within the medium security classification. The majority of assessment and treatment programmes for inmates take place at this facility. One of the main interventions at the facility has been to address inmates with gang affiliation. The facility has partnered with other community agencies to provide gang intervention workshops and assistance for inmates with gang affiliations who are being released back into the community. The initiatives will certainly continue in the 2015/16.

One of the highlights from the last budget year was the department's entry in the Bermuda Day parade. Inmates, including those from the Lifeline group, a support group for inmates serving life sentences, constructed a float representing Bermuda's gun powder plots. Additionally, the Lifeline group continued the bike refurbishment programme and presented students from various schools with "new" bikes. An activities day for inmates and their children was held prior to Father's Day to assist in the fostering of strong relationships between inmates and their children, which is so badly needed in any community.

Transitional Living Centre—Cost Centre 35070

Madam Chairman, cost centre 35070, Transitional Living Centre, has not been allocated funding as it has not been operational for a couple of years.

Therapeutic Community Centre—Cost Centre 35090

Cost centre 35090, Therapeutic Community Centre (TCC), represents a budget of $1,354,000, or 5.5 per cent of the total budget. The Therapeutic Community, also known as the "Right Living House", is located on the northern perimeter of the Farm Facility and is a segregated residential substance abuse programme with a capacity of 18 residents. Currently there are 13 enrolled in the programme. The programme is developed for adult male offenders with a history of substance abuse and associated criminality. The mission of the Right Living House is to provide a drug-free, safe and structured environment characterized by two central qualities—mutual peer support and mutual peer accountability. The treatment environment is one where residents live and work together within a supportive and rehabilitative framework of mutual self-help. Residents move through three phases; Orientation, Primary Treatment, and Re-entry which transitions the offender through an intensive 9 to 12 month treatment wholly dependent upon their demonstrated clinical progress. Aftercare treatment is provided to the residents once they leave the structured Right Living House and while fulfilling the conditions of their sentence or parole.

To date there have been an average of 14 residents in Right Living House every month. The goal of the Therapeutic Community is to return residents to the broader community with an increased potential for a life free of drugs and crimes by providing them an opportunity to realise their potential for change, as well as the inherent potential for health and success in every person. This funding provides for staffing, operational costs and inmates programmes.

During the current budget year, residents participated in a variety of community projects including:

- partnered with St. Paul's Anglican Church in Paget and assisted with the restoration of the church and grounds after the hurricane season, and ongoing projects at the church;
- they assisted with the cleanup in the Ferry Reach community; and
- there were 18 inmates involved in the Charity Work Release programme and six inmates have participated in Work Release.

Madam Chairman, currently the Right Living House inmates are housed at the Co-Ed [Facility] because their dorms on the Farm Facility are in a poor state of repair. So we are putting them in better conditions at Co-Ed where we have many rooms over there for them. The programme is still going on with no hitch in the programme.

Madam Chairman, Inmate Services and Programmes are designed to meet the needs of inmates that are identified in their individual case plans. The programme team is multi-disciplinary and provides various services/programmes including psychological, social and case management, health, educational, vocational, recreational, and chaplaincy. Funding for inmate services is necessary as the programmes provide tools and resources for offenders to assist them in returning to society as positive, productive and contributing citizens.

Psychological Services—Cost Centre 35105

Cost centre 35105, Psychological Services, represents a budget of $473,000, or 2 per cent of the total budget. This funding provides for salaries for three psychologists who provide psychological services to offenders at each of the three facilities: Westgate Correctional Facility, the Co-Educational Facility, and the Farm Facility (including the Right Living House). I currently note, Madam Chairman, that the department only has two psychologists; however, we will be recruiting to fill the other post. The psychologists complete various assessments on offenders including assessments of criminogenic need (areas of risk associated with their re-offending potential), emotional well-being and adjustment, personality factors and cognitive functioning. The findings of these assessments assist in determining the holistic needs of the offender, the motivation for change, treatment priority and treatment interfering factors, evaluating the best fit for treatment options, adjustment concerns and risk management approaches. In addition to the assessments, Madam Chairman, the psychologists focus on the provision of intervention to meet offender needs. This can be both group and individually based, utilising expertise in the application of research into what works with offenders.

Interventions can include, but are not limited to, substance misuse programmes, i.e., drug and alcohol education, drug and alcohol treatment and relapse prevention, Violence Reduction Programme, Sexual Offender Programme and Cognitive Skills Programme (Thinking for a Change).

The psychologists bring an evidence-based approach to working with offenders which assists with making more objective and risk-focused decisions. Interventions can include, but are not limited to, drug education, short-term substance abuse treatment and maintenance, Violence Reduction Programme, [Sexual] Offender Programme and, of course, cognitive thinking skills.

One of the programmes implemented during the 2014/15 fiscal year, Madam Chairman, was the Sycamore Tree Project. The programme is a restorative justice programme that brings together convicted offenders and unrelated victims from the community. The programme is facilitated by Prison Fellowship Bermuda and comprises of eight sessions delivered once per week. In conjunction with the Sycamore Tree Project, 12 inmates participated in the Victim Empathy programme which introduces inmates to the types of cognitive distortions used to justify offending. Using the “ripple effect” exercise, inmates are encouraged to identify those directly and indirectly affected by their offence.

Madam Chairman, the intent for the 2015/16 fiscal year is to deliver a variety of offending behaviour programmes/services to our inmates which include:

- Drug and Alcohol Treatment Programme;
- Drug and Alcohol Education Programme;
- Drug and Alcohol Relapse Prevention;
- Violence Prevention Programme (VRP);
- Survivors of Abuse Recovering Together (SART);
- Reflective Practice group and individual sessions for programme facilitators;
- Individual Work and Assessment including Parole Board assessments, mental health assessment and one-on-one therapy;
- Peer Support Groups/Lifers Group;

- Restorative Justice Conferencing (in partnership with the Bermuda Police Service).

Madam Chairman, one thing I will say before I get off the programme section is that it is important to note that there are many demands on psychologists throughout the world, and Corrections and the Human Resources Department have worked hard to get the number of psychologists up to three. I know the former Government is well aware of the challenges of getting psychologists in because they are in demand. So, we are pleased to have two on board now and we are actively searching for the third.

Social Services and Case Management—Cost Centre 35106

Madam Chairman, cost centre 35106, Social Services and Case Management, represents $743,000, or 3 per cent of the total budget. Funding provides for staffing of two social workers and five case managers/assessment officers and, of course, inmate programmes.

The goal is to improve the well-being of those inmates and trainees who have deviated from the norms of society and are in dissension with the law. The department’s social workers, who are members of the department’s multi-disciplinary team, assist inmates and trainees with offence-specific associated problems and help to address behavioural, social and financial problems and provide a variety of services to the inmates and trainees including the following:

- Thinking for a Change/Cognitive Skills Programme;
- Anger Management—Controlling Anger and Learning to Manage It (CALM);
- Parenting Programmes (Fathers and Children Together (FACT));
- Job Readiness/Employment Assistance;
- Housing;
- Life Skills Training;
- Risk Assessments;
- Individual Counselling (financial, stress, adjustment, coping and grieving).

Key activities that took place during the current fiscal year included:

Bridging the Gap VIII was held at Westgate Correctional Facility. This is a community reintegration fair aimed at bridging the gap between community services and Corrections, providing offenders with an opportunity to learn more about community resources prior to discharge, and linking offenders to resources such as employment agencies, potential employers, housing agencies, support services, etc.

The fair continues to be very successful and proves to be a benefit for those inmates who attend.

Father's Day activities were also held for inmates housed at the Farm Facility and Westgate Correctional Facility.

The aim, Madam Chairman; Case Management is an integrated system involving initial screening and assessments, case planning and monitoring, discharge planning and preparation of programme case documents.

The five case managers/assessment officers provide case planning that is a key element in managing inmates as this process ensures that inmates are placed in the appropriate environment for treatment; the main objective is to prepare them to return to the community as law abiding, responsible and productive citizens.

Initiatives for 2015/16 include:

- Bridging the Gap Reintegration Fair [IX];
- Breaking the Chain4Life (a pilot programme) will take place as well. This is a Prison Fellowship re-entry programme in which inmates will undergo a mentorship programme prior to release. The programme is designed to enhance re-entry of inmates into the community and reduce inmates' re-offence risks.

There is certainly a lot going on in those areas.

Health Services—Cost Centre 35107

Cost centre 35107, Health Services, represents a budget of $1,040,000, or 4 per cent of the total budget. This funding provides for staffing and health care services for inmates. Health care services include:

- Physical examinations;
- Dental treatment and hygiene;
- Chronic disease management—diabetes, asthma, hypertension;
- Physiotherapy;
- ECG;
- Phlebotomy;
- Drug detoxification;
- Drug screening.

Health services is staffed by a senior nurse and five registered nurses responsible for providing services to the inmate population at all facilities. The extent of services, i.e., basic to comprehensive, provided to inmates is based on the inmate's level of need and length of an inmate's incarceration. All inmates are seen upon reception by a registered nurse within a 24-hour window. This process assesses the initial physical and mental health of all inmates who are received at the Co-Educational and Westgate Correctional facilities, our main reception facilities. The mission statement of Health Services is "To respect human dignity and provide the highest standard of healthcare within the correctional setting."

The Correctional medical officer usually sees the inmate within three to seven days after his/her arrival and the psychiatrist sees those persons assessed by the nurse or doctor within one week.

Some of the goals of Health Services in 2015/16 are:

- Continuation of monthly Mental Health Clients in Corrections (MHCC) meetings with external partners with the aim of 100 per cent of the mental health inmates to be seen by the Mid-Atlantic Wellness Institute prior to their release into the community;
- The extension of a co-pay system for inmates receiving medical attention;
- Certification of up to 25 per cent of inmates in Basic Life Support including CPR, AED and first-aid;
- Certification of all nurses as Certified Correctional Healthcare Professionals (CCHP); and
- Continuation of the Annual Summer Oral Hygiene Programme, which is a joint initiative between Department of Corrections and the Department of Health.

Educational Services—35108

Cost centre 35108, Educational Services, represents a total of $316,000, or 1 per cent of the budget. This allocation provides for salaries and educational supplies. Educational Services provide educational programmes at all Correctional Facilities to those inmates who wish to pursue their General Education Development [GED] certificate as well as to those who wish to strengthen basic numeracy and literacy skills. Educational Services are designed to enable inmates or trainees to achieve a higher level of education, enables inmates or trainees to participate in other programmes, daily life activities and to prepare them for a vocation. The Educational coordinator assesses each inmate/trainee in order to place him/her in the most suitable academic or basic programme. A range of educational programmes are offered to inmates/trainees and these include:

- Basic English;
- Basic Math;
- Basic Computer Skills;
- Social Science;
- General Education Development Certificate (GED);
- College Level Courses.

During the year 2014/15:

- The introduction of two new 12-week programmes; Personal Development (at the Co-Ed Facility) and Public Speaking (at the Westgate Correctional Facility).
- There was also the implementation of a music studies class as research shows a direct correlation between inmate conduct and music intervention.

- Approximately 40 have been actively engaged in educational classes and programmes. Programmes extend to Westgate Correctional Facility, Co-Ed Facility, Farm Facility and Right Living House. These numbers take into consideration that some inmates are involved in more than one class, in fact, quite a few of them are.
- Eleven inmates/trainees were successful in obtaining their General Education Development [certificates], and a recent ceremony was held where Senator Baron attended.

In addition to the continuation of classes that were held in 2014/15, in 2015/16 we will see in the budget year:

- Computer usage for inmates to engage in technological learning in preparation for their return to the community and for those who require an alternative style of educational learning.
- A general knowledge class utilizing a DVD series. This class will familiarize inmates with the details of world and science related events in an effort to increase overall general knowledge while encouraging inmates to engage in constructive dialogue.

Vocational Services—Cost Centre 35109

Madam Chairman, the next cost centre 35109, Vocational Services, represents $325,000, or 1 per cent of the total budget.

Vocational Services functions as an integral part of the programmes and services afforded to inmates and trainees. These services are designed to assist inmates/trainees in pursuing vocational interests with a view to increasing their employability upon release. Persons enrolled in such programmes may develop new or enhanced skills. Additionally, persons may engage in vocational classes for therapeutic or personal interest purposes. Funding allocated for this cost centre provides for staffing and vocational programmes (including some materials and supplies). The vocational programmes and services that will be offered in this fiscal year at Westgate, Farm and Co-Educational Facility based on the population and needs include horticulture, enhanced graphics, carpentry, life skills, sewing, crochet, correspondence/distance learning courses, culinary arts, drywall, auto body and mechanics. During the 2014/15 budget year, a culinary arts programme was offered at the Co-Ed Facility with eight inmates completing it. Also, a jewellery making class was introduced for the female inmates at the Co-Ed Facility.

Other highlights for the current financial year, Madam Chairman, include:

- completion of community projects including construction of a plinth for the Bermuda Paralympics Association;
- introduction of a drywall programme at Westgate Correctional Facility. This groundbreaking initiative is instructed by two professionals on a volunteer basis;
- the re-introduction of the National Centre for Construction Education and Research (NCCER) Core class;
- an arts and crafts display at City Hall during the Proclamation of Corrections' Week 2014.

Madam Chairman, the vocational classes are designed in workshop, classroom and independent/self-study formats. Participants are assessed for base-line skills and aptitude levels, and further assessment is conducted during or at the completion of each programme as necessary. Inmates participating in vocational programmes have assisted with the maintenance, repair and fabrication of departmental property. This affords the department expensive services at low cost. The prioritised initiatives are not only targeting vocational skill development, but are also intended to generate internal and external resources and create revenue-generating products.

Madam Chairman, I continue to be pleased on my visits to the facilities to see the work that has been done in this area and how delighted myself and the team at the Ministry are with the effort taken by some inmates on the work they do. And I do not want to name any inmates because I might miss some, but the work that I see down in the workshops and out and about in the facilities just goes to show that many inmates are on the right path, and it is gratifying to see. I love going into the workshop just to see what they have fixed up and what they have done, it is amazing how they can do things and they take great pride in doing them. So I thank them for it and I thank the commissioner for continuing to give them the support they need to do it.

Recreational Services—Cost Centre 35110

Madam Chairman, cost centre 35110, Recreational Services, represents $52,000, or 0.2 per cent of the budget. The role of Recreation Services is to provide structured leisure time activities in sports, hobbies and cultural events at Westgate, Co-Ed and Farm facilities to promote constructive leisure time activities for offenders. Allocation of funds will provide for activities such as: art, ceramics, wood sculpture, sports and Penn Foster Correspondence Courses (Health and Fitness). This also includes the organising of annual arts and crafts shows to display inmate/trainee artwork to the public. The aim is to address the inmates' social, physical, intellectual and emotional needs in socially useful ways, according to their interests.

The major [decrease] in the budget of 65 per cent represents a decrease in staffing and other minor operational costs. The facilitation of daily recreation for facilities is currently being managed by the individual facilities and incorporated into their daily operations.

Chaplaincy Services—Cost Centre 35111

Cost centre 35111, Chaplaincy Services, represents $41,000, or 0.2 per cent of the budget. This provides funding for two part-time chaplains who continue to offer much needed spiritual enrichment and guidance for our inmates. The chaplains coordinate services and religious instruction from the various denominations and also provide counselling to inmates. Prison Fellowship, whose focus is on restorative justice and religious programming, continues to partner with the Department of Corrections in providing programmes for inmates. Two of these programmes are:

- Angel Tree—a programme which provides Christmas gifts for children of inmates;
- Back to School Programme—supports children of inmates to acquire necessary resources and tools for school.

Madam Chairman, in regard to recruitment, training and development, the Department of Correction's strategy for the fiscal year is to limit the training to the local arena as a cost-saving measure. And we believe we can do that effectively.

Highlights of the 2014/15 budget year include:

- The deployment of 12 correctional officers (recruits) who completed their initial training. I had the pleasure of going up there to celebrate on the passing upgrade. These officers were a welcome addition to facilities which in some cases have been understaffed due to retirements and resignations.
- There were promotions of senior officers to the ranks of divisional officers, principal officers, chief officers and assistant commissioner.
- And in preparation of upcoming inmate programmes for the 2015/16 fiscal year, Madam Chairman, a number of staff have been trained to facilitate programmes, and staff awareness presentations were made. This includes:
 - Victim Empathy, Group Skills and Sex-offender Facilitation Training;
 - Restorative Justice Conferencing Training;
 - Staff Presentations on Restorative Justice;
 - Restorative Justice Conferencing Training; and

- Level of Service/Case Management Inventory LS/CMI Training.

Madam Chairman, the department's performance measures forecasted for 2015/16 are outlined on page B-288, and you will see some of the highlights:

1. The average daily inmate population for the current financial year, 262, but currently we are at 206 and the trend has been like that over the past couple of months. I believe the electronic monitoring programme is working quite effectively and that is why we intend to continue to try to find more funding to put in that to expand that programme.
2. The 97 admissions for this year were first-time offenders who received custodial sentences.
3. The forecasted outcome of inmates released on parole is 33. To date, 32 inmates were successful in achieving parole. Madam Chairman, as you are aware parole provides an opportunity for inmates to return to the community under supervision and receive the necessary support during their re-entry. I want to take this opportunity to thank the Parole Board, ably led by the chairman, for the fantastic work that they do on that. They put in a lot of time, a lot of energy and are very efficient at what they do, and I would like to thank them for that.
4. There was one minor assault on an inmate during the current financial year, and one minor assault on staff. I note, Madam Chairman, that staff are continually challenged by inmates' negative behaviour, and the department has a zero tolerance for any assault in any category.
5. [There were] 675 inmates enrolled in development and treatment programmes aimed to address the offending behaviours, address educational and vocational needs and to improve skill development.
6. Eleven inmates achieved their General Education Development (GED) certificate and this brings the total to 171 who have achieved their GED over the past 11 years. That is quite amazing.
7. The Department of Corrections calculates its recidivism rates according to internationally accepted practices. And based on these standards, Madam Chairman, the rates include persons who have a conviction for a new offence within one, two and three years of their release. The actual outcome for 2013/14 are as follows:
 - a. Year 1—57 inmates or 12.05 per cent;
 - b. Year 2—92 inmates or 19 per cent;
 - c. Year 3—104 inmates or 22 per cent.

I think these numbers are reflective of success as we move forward.

Achievements

I would like to take the opportunity to highlight some of the department's achievements in 2014/15:

- There has been continued use of the video conferencing at Westgate Correctional Facility and it has not only assisted in reducing the number of staff required for external court escorts during monthly arraignments, but it allows more efficient management of inmates with gang affiliations during their court appearance via video conference.
- In June 2014, the department held its inaugural Corrections Week 2014. A number of activities took place during the week to better educate the public on Corrections in Bermuda. Corrections celebrates all its staff and showcase and celebrate the vital role [they] play in the community.
- The department remains heavily engaged in community service and charity work and I commend them for their effort. Inmates have worked at senior citizen rest homes and charities, inmates have assisted community groups throughout the Island and, additionally, inmates have assisted in minor projects within the facilities.
- Madam Chairman, security is a major focus of our operations within Corrections and we constantly endeavour to improve security measures to combat breaches. The purchase of a specialised security vehicle has been finalised and is expected to arrive before the end of this fiscal year. In addition, Madam Chairman, Cabinet has approved upgrades to the current CCTV system, which are currently taking place. There are presently over 90 cameras in the facility and this will see major upgrades to the facility security system, which will put them in a much better position to have some extra eyes on the ground.

Madam Chairman, despite the many challenges faced by the Department of Corrections, staff remain dedicated and seek ways to address them including working with union representatives and other stakeholders and partners in order to achieve their mission and mandate.

- Security breaches remain a big concern as there have been breaches to the outer perimeter that have been intercepted by Corrections staff.
- Maintaining staffing levels due to resignations and retirements is also a bit of a challenge. The department has taken advantage of legislation which allows officers to be rehired based on the needs of the department.

- Management of high-risk inmates, particularly those who are gang affiliated, continues to be a challenge, but we make progress.

In the 2015/16 budget year we will undertake:

- The continued implementation of recommendations from the Security Review Committee. These recommendations will not only enhance the safety of staff, inmates and visitors, but they are aimed at reducing security breaches.
- We will also finalise the new management structure, implementation of succession planning and the development of a training plan for the department.
- There will be a completion of a structural review of the physical plants which will assist in determining the necessary upgrades to the physical plants and equipment. Obviously, after the last hurricane, the facilities, like every place throughout Bermuda, were hit quite drastically.
- There will be a broader expansion of the restorative justice programmes.
- All programmes including industries and work programmes and facility regimes will continue to be examined and revamped as necessary to ensure programmes are relevant as necessary to ensure that they stay to a sufficient level of quality that is expected to be maintained. Changes will be made to the facility operations to improve the daily regime of inmates, particularly for the long-term inmates and young offenders. As you can imagine, there are a number of long-term inmates at the facility who require special attention to make their life more meaningful as we move forward.
- Activities are being planned to celebrate Corrections Week 2015 again.

Madam Chairman, this brings to a close my presentation on the Corrections Head. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Commissioner Lamb and his team for the work they do under very difficult circumstances. I take every opportunity I can to visit the premises to see first-hand the work that has been done, and while we have some challenges, I feel very comfortable with the direction that we are moving and I look forward to continued progress.

HEAD 88—DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL DRUG CONTROL

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: The last Head, Madam Chairman, in debate today under the Ministry of National Security is the Department of National Drug Control, Head 88, which can be found on pages B-293 of the Estimates Book. For the fiscal year 2015/16, the department has been allocated $3.921 million dollars, which is a 5 per cent decrease.

Madam Chairman, the Department for National Drug Control presently plays a key role in the Ministry for National Security with respect to addressing one of the foremost social issues affecting Bermuda today—substance misuse and abuse. The Department for National Drug Control provides leadership and policy coordination for the planning, development, implementation, and evaluation of a comprehensive national system of alcohol, tobacco and other drug (ATOD) prevention, treatment and, of course, rehabilitation services. In its leadership role the DNDC is charged with facilitating collaboration with all agencies involved in the national drug control effort, including supply reduction and demand reduction efforts.

The department is also responsible for establishing targets and standards of performance for initiatives supporting the National Drug Control effort. Subsequently, the mission of the department is to lead efforts to reduce alcohol abuse and drug misuse.

The strategic goal of the department is to advocate for the adoption of effective measures to support substance abuse prevention and treatment of drug dependence on the Island, and the employment of a balanced approach to supply and demand reduction efforts. In support of the strategic goals, the Department of National Drug Control has the following strategic initiatives:

- a. Guided by the National Drug Control Master Plan, the DNDC will coordinate the development, management, implementation, and the monitoring and evaluation of all national-level drug control efforts including the formulation and implementation of national drug control policies and national strategies [Master Plan], incorporating supply and demand reduction activities through a balanced inter-agency/departmental approach.
- b. To strengthen and develop sustainable drug prevention and drug treatment services by providing policy direction and technical oversight guided by the National Drug Abuse Prevention and Treatment Strategies.
- c. To continue the development and maintenance of the national drug information network (BerDIN) to provide comprehensive information on the drugs phenomenon in Bermuda and drug-related issues affecting specific community groups and society overall.
- d. To provide support, advocacy, and resources to stakeholder Ministries, departments, and community partners to enhance efforts in achieving goals identified in the National Drug Control Strategy.

Madam Chairman, the DNDC manages and administers both grant funds to partner agencies providing prevention and treatment services as well as a budget for core administration functions, drug prevention, drug treatment, community development and, research/policy initiatives. Funds are also allocated to assist in the implementation of the National Drug Control Master Plan and its action plans.

The department employs 27 staff. The National Office is presently staffed by a director, six technical officers, and one full-time administrative assistant. There is presently one vacant post within the office. The treatment coordinator post will be funded in 2015/16 and utilised to support the operations of the Nelson Bascome [Centre for] Substance Abuse Treatment facility in Dockyard. Direct staffing support to [the] Nelson Bascome facility is provided by 19 clinical and support posts currently assigned to the Women's Treatment Centre and the Men's Treatment programme. There are five vacancies within the treatment programmes, several are in active recruitment and the remainder are awaiting approval of a restructuring effort to create more efficient utilisation of clinical staff.

Over the next financial year the DNDC plans to:

- Continue to monitor active initiatives identified within the revised National Drug Control Master Plan 2013–2017 and provide an update to the public on relevant activities, progress and challenges.
- Over the next year we will continue to promote and disseminate public information about the health and social consequences of alcohol, tobacco and drugs via all forms of media including Facebook, YouTube and text messaging.
- Will continue the implementation of drug prevention programmes (AI's Pals and Teen Peace) in collaboration with the Ministry of Education within schools in support of the National Prevention Strategy.
- It will continue to move towards the creation of a National School Drug Policy to assist in the management of drug-related issues within schools.
- Continue to operate the male and female residential drug treatment programmes at the Nelson Bascome [Centre for] Substance Abuse Treatment facility in support of the National Treatment Strategy.
- It will ensure that both programmes gain and maintain international accreditation with CARF International as per the National Drug Control Act 2013.
- It will develop and implement regulations addressing licensing and registration for drug treatment and drug prevention facilities/centres/programmes to support the National Drug Control Act 2013.

- It will continue to support efforts to implement TIPS Regulations within the Liquor Licence Amendment Act 2014.
- It will support the implementation of cross-Ministry initiatives within the Police Service and HM Customs in support of the National Drug Control Master Plan (e.g, anti-gang initiatives, community club development, and border control).
- It will continue to report on alcohol, tobacco, and other drug-related research and surveillance data via the Bermuda Drug Information Network [BerDIN].
- It will lead efforts in implementing initiatives to address underage drinking.
- And support efforts to address drunk/drugged driving.

Madam Chairman, key policy focuses will be on alcohol abuse and road safety (driving under the influence) with a continued emphasis on underage drinking.

Key legislative initiatives will include amendments aimed at the management of drunk/drugged driving along with the implementation of regulations to support the Liquor Licence Amendment Act 2014 as it relates to TIPS and to the National Drug Control Act 2013 as it relates to licensing and registration of facilities, centres and programmes.

Madam Chairman, during the fiscal year 2014/15, the DNDC concentrated its efforts on the continued implementation of the National Drug Control Master Plan, its action plans and the implementation of elements of the Demand Reduction Strategies for Prevention and Treatment in alignment with the National Drug Control Act 2013.

The following achievements can be highlighted to date:

- Solidification on the implementation of the After-School Drug Prevention Programme for middle school students, Teen Peace at five middle schools. The programme includes the Botvin Lifeskills drug prevention curriculum along with Adventure Education. Both are evidenced-based programmes with [proven] positive outcomes among students for making healthy choices.
- The Al's Pals programme has continued in collaboration with the Department of Education, with the majority of public and private pre-school teachers and P1 and P2 teachers in the public schools, providing the programme in their classrooms. A commitment of continued collaboration and support for the Al's Pals programme has been given by the Department of Education.

- Drug prevention education and training included: presentation for physicians on cannabis-based medications and their use; education of parents and young people about the facts of marijuana and the negative consequences of adolescent marijuana use; and displays of drug facts in public buses. Drug Prevention Week was held for the first time in Bermuda and involved participation of school age students and information booths manned by "The Prevention Partners." Dissemination of drug information within the community included participation in the Santa Parade, health and school fairs and television/radio advertisements.
- There was continued provision for the residential substance abuse treatment programmes for both adult males and females.
- During 2014/15, they provided supportive housing for females through the Women's Treatment Centre for nine clients, and the males for 20 clients, and they continued to be provided by Focus Counselling Services who were assisted by the Department of National Drug Control.
- The Women's Treatment Centre/Supportive Housing unit underwent a CARF survey for continued international accreditation and gained the "gold star" status of a three-year award for the period 2014–2016. The Bermuda Hospitals Board, Turning Point Substance Abuse Treatment Programme also gained the "gold star" status of a three-year award for the same period. CARF Accreditation is spearheaded and funded by the Department of National Drug Control in support of the National Drug Control Master Plan.
- The Men's Treatment programme has completed the process of developing and implementing programme policies and procedures to meet CARF Accreditation standards and will be surveyed in April 2015.
- The DNDC has solid working relationships with the Bermuda Police Service and HM Customs as partners in the National Drug Control [Master] Plan with combined efforts in the areas of strategic planning, data collection and analysis, training, community education and the provision of materials, books and presentations to officers.
- The Bermuda National Drug Information Network (BerDIN) continued with the collection of data from key stakeholders. The annual meeting was held with all network [members] in October 2014. This annual event has greatly increased understanding and information sharing within networks. The 2013 Annual Report of BerDIN [Bermuda Drug Information Network] was released to the public in October 2014.

- Consumer satisfaction surveys, stakeholder feedback surveys and quality records reviews were completed within the DNDC, Women's Treatment Centre, Men's Treatment programme and the Right Living House operated under the Department of Corrections.
- TIPS Regulations were developed and provided for drafting with the Attorney General's chambers and work has commenced on the development of regulations to guide licensing and registration of substance abuse treatment centres/facilities and drug prevention programmes in accordance with the [National Drug Control] Act 2013.

Finally, the DNDC, Madam Chairman, has provided grants to five stakeholder agencies to support efficient and effective delivery of prevention and treatment services. Agencies included: PRIDE, CADA, Focus Counselling Services, Salvation Army Harbour Lights/Salvation Army Community Life Skills and the Bermuda Addiction and Certification Board [BACB].

Now I will deal with cost centres and compare the estimates for 2014/15 and 2015/16.

Administration—Cost Centre 98000

The Administration allocation is $677,000 and covers employee expenses (salaries) and other operational expenses (facilities, utilities, maintenance costs, supplies and training). The 41 per cent decrease in this cost [centre] is representative of the elimination of grant funding to Focus Counselling Services, PRIDE and Salvation Army Harbour Light and Life Skills programmes. The Ministry understands clearly the importance of the programmes and services provided to the community by our grantees and will ensure that some level of funding support will be provided.

As you know, Madam Chairman, last year we realised funding through the continued Cash Back for Communities programme, and those proceeds were disbursed from the Confiscated Assets Fund. We anticipate we will use the same approach this year to help them fill their mandate going forward.

Community Development—Cost Centre 98010

Turning to the allocation for Community Development, [cost centre] 98010 which was merged with the allocation for Prevention 98020, under cost [centre] 98010, in the combined amount of $501,000 as evidenced on page B-293 in the Budget Book. This year's budget has been segregated again to provide a clear delineation between the functions of the unit. This change may create some confusion with the comparison from the previous year in the Budget

Book for both, Community Development, cost [centre] 98010 and Prevention, cost [centre] 98020.

The allocation for Community Development is $270,000. Funding is to facilitate activities that are primarily targeted towards public education, community development, information dissemination, and to support CADA.

The goal of this unit to educate the public about the harms of alcohol and drug use; to ensure the provision of clear and sustained messages to our young people that no use of alcohol, tobacco or other drugs is acceptable and to involve families, schools and community organisations in alcohol and drug prevention efforts.

CADA works in collaboration with the DNDC to provide community education on alcohol as well as to provide the server training programme (TIPS), which I have mentioned a couple of times already, which is mandated under the Liquor Licensing Act Amendment 2011. A grant of $100,000 is allocated to CADA to support these activities within this cost [centre].

Other initiatives for the Community Development unit will be to assist highlighting drunk/drug driving and road safety initiatives through public education and to continue awareness campaigns directed at underage drinking and adolescent drug use.

Prevention—Cost Centre 98020

Prevention, Madam Chairman, on page B-293.

An allocation of $229,000 is provided to support the Prevention Unit efforts in the budget under cost [centre] 98020. Funds will be utilised to improve coverage of drug prevention measures within the community, to improve opportunities for school-based prevention interventions, and to increase access for young people to targeted prevention programmes.

Currently, the Prevention Unit facilitates the Teen Peace programme in five public schools, and also supports the implementation and integration of the Al's Pal Programme at the pre-school and primary 1-2 levels. Funding is allocated within the cost [centre] to support facilitators and the purchase of resources to sustain these programmes.

The successful implementation of the Prevention Unit functions will be based on the performance indicators on page B-296 of the Budget Book.

Treatment—Cost Centre 98030

Treatment, cost centre 98030, on page B-293 of the Budget Book.

Madam Chairman, the Treatment Unit is allocated $397,000, a 28 per cent increase from the previous fiscal year. The increase represents the funding of the previously vacant Treatment coordinator's post. The funding of this post will assist in planned efforts to re-structure [staffing] for the Nelson Bascome [Centre for] Substance Abuse Treatment [facility], to make it more efficient and more cost-effective. The Treatment funding allocation will also facilitate the implementation of key activities geared towards achieving the goals of the National Treatment Strategy and to support the grant allocation for the Bermuda Addiction Certification Board (BACB).

This fiscal year focus will remain on achieving and maintaining CARF Accreditation for the Men's Treatment programme, the Women's Treatment Centre and Turning Point (which is operated by BHB), as required under the [National Drug Control] Act 2013. Continued efforts will be directed at consolidating the use of the AccuCare Client Management system in all drug treatment programmes. The $100,000 grant provided to BACB provides international certification testing for both prevention and treatment professionals, and some funding to support addiction specific training to enhance workforce development in this specialty area.

Madam Chairman, let me pause for just a short moment and observe that the provision of treatment services, whether by Government or by the private sector, is a fiscally challenging proposition. More often than not the clientele do not have the independent means to pay for the services, and insurance coverage for the intensive treatment required is certainly limited.

Madam Chairman, this is an area that simply cannot be neglected. Treatment must continue to be provided in this way as it is the responsibility that the Government bears towards their citizens.

And I say that because we have seen over the past number of years that Government has taken a focus to expect the public community to deal with treatment. The commitment was made by the former Government probably in 2010/11 to fix up the treatment centre in Dockyard which is now the Nelson Bascome [Centre for Substance Abuse] Treatment [facility], and this Government fully supports the mandate that they have up there to take care of our men and women who need that help because clearly the private sector, through the work and the support they get from the public, is strained to meet these demands. As a Government we are not willing to allow treatment to not be provided, so we will step to the plate and do what we have to do.

Research and Policy Development—Cost Centre 98050

In regard to Research and Policy Development on B-293, the cost [centre] 98050 has an allocation of $320,000. The funding allocation remains the same as the previous fiscal year. Funds will be used to facilitate information gathering and analysis, monitoring and evaluation, as well as any relevant legislation and policy development initiatives prioritised within the Ministry. The primary activities of the Research unit will be geared towards collection and dissemination of reliable data through the Bermuda National Drug Information Network (BerDIN), identifying any emerging trends and patterns of drug use, evaluation of current drug control efforts, and providing coordination and implementation of the revised National Drug Control Master Plan and Action Plan.

Men's Treatment—Cost Centre 98060

Men's Treatment, cost centre 98060, on B-293 has an allocation of $890,000. [This] provides the operational and staffing cost required to provide outputs to meet the treatment needs and goals for adult males needing residential treatment at the Nelson Bascome [Centre for] Substance Abuse. The 22 per cent increase in funding in this cost [centre] will accommodate on-call allowances which provide added staffing coverage for staff leave and sick time. The 22 per cent increase also includes real costs in utilities and maintenance incurred at the facility for daily operations. [Because] 2014/15 was the first full year of the occupation and operation of the Nelson Bascome [Centre for] Substance Abuse Treatment [facility], we are just now getting a clear understanding of costs and what is required to run that facility.

Women's Treatment Centre—Cost Centre 98070

The Women's Treatment Centre, cost centre 98070, has an allocation of $1.103 million for the fiscal year coming up to meet the outputs to meet the needs of women in residential substance abuse treatment. The Women's Treatment Centre provides both residential treatment for women at the Nelson Bascome [Centre for] Substance Abuse Treatment [facility] as well as nine beds for supportive residency at a separate site. This programme, as I said earlier, has been Accredited by CARF since 2009 and currently holds a "gold star" international accreditation ranking for the period 2014–2016 after recently completing the re-accreditation survey in March 2014. The 3 per cent increase will accommodate on-call allowances which provide added staffing coverage for staff leave and sick time. The 3 per cent increase also includes real costs in utilities and maintenance incurred at the facility.

Madam Chairman, I am sure we are all we aware, but just for the highlight of the listening public, those facilities operate 24 hours a day so there has to be coverage 24 hours a day.

National Drug Control Master Plan—Cost Centre 98080

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: The National Drug Control Master Plan, cost centre 98080, on page B-293 has a cost allocation of $35,000. The cost goes towards the effective implementation of the Master Plan; cross-Ministry initiatives with the Police, Customs and Corrections; evaluation of the Master Plan and to encourage cooperation and involvement of other government departments and civil society in the implementation and the success of the Master Plan's initiatives.

The $35,000 in this fiscal year will be utilised to support efforts to address drunk/drug driving, an action item in the National Drug Control Master Plan

It is certainly anticipated that funding will be allocated accordingly in the next fiscal years to ensure the implementation of priority initiatives identified within the 2013–2017 National Drug Control Master Plan, thus ensuring its success.

Grants and Contributions

Madam Chairman, the Department of National Drug Control Grants and Contributions can be found on page C-20. It is established in part as a service delivery unit but cannot provide all of the needed services within the community. Therefore, the DNDC depends greatly on purchasing services in the treatment and prevention areas to realise its mandate. It is anticipated that the allocations for [fiscal] 2014/15 of $200,000, listed under Grants and Contributions, will be used towards providing grants to CADA and the Bermuda Addiction Certification Board (BACB). Both of these agencies provide essential activities required by legislation. CADA's TIPS programme is mandated within Section 39B of the Bermuda Liquor License Act 1974 and the addiction counsellor examinations and certification is required for registration of addiction counsellors under the Allied Health Professions Act 1973.

In closing, the Department for National Drug Control will continue to work collaboratively with other key Ministries such as Health, Education, and departments such as Corrections, Court Services, and the Police and Customs to ensure the implementation of a balanced approach to efforts made in achieving a healthier and drug free Bermuda.

And as I close down my comments, I want to say thank you to Director Joanne Dean and her team for their work in an area that our community relies greatly on as we make progress in turning the lives around of those who have been impacted.

This brings to a close my presentation on National Security. And as I close I would, once again, like to thank PS Major Marc Telemaque for his experience and effective support as we tackle some of the challenges in one of Government's most important Ministries.

Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Premier.

The Chair now recognises the Member from constituency 15, the Shadow Minister of Public Safety, Mr. Walter H. Roban.

We are going to be clear on the rules as set out by the Standing Order: [Standing Order 40(9)(b) "[The] debate must be relevant to the head or programme under consideration" and [Standing Order 40(11)] "confined to the policy of the service for which the money is to be provided and shall not . . . [for which] that service is not responsible."

I would ask, because there are quite a few Heads and in order for me to be able to follow, if you could specify where you are, it would be a real help.

Thank you very much.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Yes, Madam Chairman.

Thank you very much. Thank you to the Premier for his presentation. It was quite substantive. Those are very weighty Ministries with quite a bit of responsibility. And quite a bit of information was shared today which I hope the public heard. And those departments were chosen because they did reflect quite a bit of work that goes on in the community in the areas of law enforcement, drug treatment, obviously revenue and safety and dealing with issues of incarceration.

One thing that is very interesting about this particular Ministry, Madam Chairman, is that—and which I myself have found quite fascinating, is that there are somewhere in the region of over 1,300 employees, which is a substantial amount of the government's service. And they occupy numerous posts, as was said, we were talking about psychologists as well as other types of expertise that are all within and under the Ministry of National Security. So although there are eight different departments, we are only looking at six of those, and I do expect that I will get good feedback on my questions. And I am sure other Members of this House will also want to contribute.

I note the expenditure starting with Head 83, page B-263, noting that the expenditure for that Ministry is about 13 per cent of the Government's budget at $14.3 million, revenue is just over $5 million, their capital expenditure is $3.9 million. And we will be dealing with Heads 83, 6, 7, 12, 25 and 88.

One of the interesting things I did notice in my examination—

[Mr. Walton Brown, Chairman]

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: I stated it is page B-263, Mr. Chairman.

One thing I noted in examining this, I did note that when you look at . . . for some of the departments that we are looking at, when you look at the original estimates for 2014/15 there were some interesting overspends which, I think, perhaps in a number of the departments. But I will go through each department because I did think starting with the Ministry, and just over $200,000 overspend based on the revised and the original number.

I would like to, perhaps, get some information as to what that accounted for in relation to that department. Because the Honourable Premier did take note . . . and when you look at the Budget Book, that department—most of the departments—faced a 5 per cent on average reduction. That is the one department that had a 14 per cent increase. The Honourable Premier did account for that, something having to do with the amount that they were taking on with taking on the bracelet programme, I believe. But I would be interested to know why in the previous calendar year that particular department had a particular overspend of just over $200,000.

Looking at the Subjective Analysis of Current Account Estimates on page B-265, Mr. Chairman, it was interesting to note that Advertising & Promotion in that particular department was going up around 92 per cent. A question I would like to perhaps have answered is, Exactly what they are expecting to be doing in Advertising & Promotion for the next calendar year with that increase? Are there particular special promotional efforts planned? I did not hear much about that in the brief by the Honourable Premier, but perhaps I can get some specifics as to why that is going up so much in relation to . . . are there actually specific things planned that account for that expenditure?

Mr. Chairman, I did note a few other things with the Premier's presentation in relation to Head 83. Mention was made of the Inter-Agency Gang Task Force and that is a public/private partnership of a number of different agencies and members to directly address the issue of gangs and gang behaviour with a view to reducing those activities in our society.

What I would be interested to know is what has been the composition of the public and private partnership? Has this been a financial relationship or is it just in reference to a person relationship where there is outside personnel but has there been a financial component? What has been the funding, if any, to some of the programmes like Project Street Safe? Which I believe that particular Inter-Agency Gang Task Force might have some oversight on monitoring as to their activities. So what has been the funding commitment to that particular programme and particularly to some of the other programmes that have been related, specifically under the Inter-Agency Gang Task Force? I would like to, if possible, get some information on that.

There were a number other initiatives which were mentioned under the Ministry—Cash Back for Communities and the Middle School programme. I did not hear the Premier mention, the Honourable Member for constituency 11 [sic], how much funds were actually taken in or dispersed by Cash Back for Communities over the calendar year. I think that would be interesting to know. Certainly, it is a worthwhile programme, looking to use the proceeds of crime to do good. There is nothing wrong with that, but I would be interested to know how much. It was mentioned as a successful programme, I would like to know perhaps what was taken in or given to it by the Confiscated Assets Programme and what was actually dispersed. I do not need to know to whom, but just how much, that would be interesting to know.

Further on with my comments about the Ministry budget, I am very interested to hear more as it relates to some of the particular initiatives that are under the Ministry. I do note, Mr. Chairman, on page B-266, as it relates to Performance Measures in the Ministry, a couple of things. One is the percentage of current year Throne Speech Initiatives that have been implemented under Business Unit, [cost centre] 93000, Administration. And I see that they have 100 per cent achieved.

I found it interesting because I think perhaps, and I know the Premier did mention . . . make some comment about that, but there are a number of initiatives that have appeared in Throne Speeches related to this Ministry. If you consider that the 2013 Throne Speech which was done in late year would be captured by the following year, the 2014 Budget, and vice versa, so I did not hear much on details as to specifically what initiatives actually had been met. And based on what is in the Throne Speech, I would like to perhaps get some answers on some of these initiatives from the Ministry to know what actually has happened. And I will just go through some of them.

Department of Marine and Ports will also review—this was in the 2013 Throne Speech—“border and port security with partner agencies in concert with the completed National Security Review.” Since, and I mention that because it is connected to the review, which came out of the Ministry. So what work has the Ministry done to deal with that particular objective on page 11 of the 2013 Throne Speech?

The other one the Premier did mention, which was concerning the Bermuda Police Association and the Conditions of Service Order. The Premier made clear that that is currently being discussed, so that is something that is being worked on.

Have we . . . has the Government completed its full implementation of Operation Ceasefire that was on page 12 of the 2013 Throne Speech?

There was a mention in the same Throne Speech of the Inter-Agency Task Force implementing a Bermuda-style call-in procedure. What work has been done or has that been completed?

Parole responsibilities for Court Services will be transferred to the Department of Corrections. Was that done? Has that been completed?

Government will complete earlier plans to strengthen border control by placing control of those elements under the Ministry of Public Safety. It does appear that those may have been done at least on the face of the fact that Customs, from the standpoint of enforcement, we have just discussed that budget. But has that been fully completed?

Government will allocate funding to support Team Street Safe. I have asked that question, so if perhaps an answer can be given to that.

Government will introduce the elements in the Defence Act to deal with conscription to eliminate conscription. No mention of that in the Minister's presentation, but where are we on that particular measure as a Throne Speech initiative, from page 13 of the 2013 Throne Speech?

Further amendments to the Act will provide for a revised legal disciplinary system for the Bermuda Regiment in accordance with EU standards and the modern military. Where are we on that? That is on page 13 of the 2013 Throne Speech.

As it relates to the current 2014 Throne Speech, there are a number of initiatives as well, which I will mention so that perhaps the Premier can give a more detailed report on their progress. On the basis that, again, on page B-266, it is stating that 100 per cent of Throne Speech initiatives presented for the year have been implemented. So if a more clear, detailed progress on those can be given, I would appreciate it.

The Government will introduce amendments to the Motor Car Act, this has to do with breathalyser tests, authorising the police to administer. Again, because they are connected with the Bermuda Police Service I am mentioning them. So there is a role for the Ministry to be playing in making sure these are done on the basis that the police are going to be the ones enforcing it. And what work has been done on the police side to make sure that these have been done? These are in the Throne Speech. It is important that I think some report be given on them in we are now into the year 2015, or certainly if work has not been done, then the Ministry can give us a report as to where they are.

Government will better align the work of the Mirrors Programme with Team Street Safe, page 15, to ensure that there are no gaps in delivery of services and that there is meaningful alternatives to destructive gang activity. Clearly, that would be in line with the previous questions I have asked.

The Caution Policy, that was something that was mentioned, will be amended to commit greater discretion on the part of police officers when dealing with first-time offenders. Has anything been done on that up to this point?

Government will facilitate a means in which sports clubs, educators and community leaders and parents are joined in a network of constant interaction, also the national strategy to build on the recommendations of the Report of the Joint Select Committee of 2011 around a National Youth Summit. Where are we on progress on these initiatives?

Secondment of a senior police officer to the Ministry of National Security to act as a disaster planner. Clearly, this would have come out of the experience with Fay and Gonzalo. What has been the progress on this particular initiative as well?

Government will devise a means by which to devolve responsibility of the police to attend and investigate minor road traffic accidents . . . suitably qualify individuals, including existing traffic officers. I have a few questions about that. Will the Ministry be funding any particular training in relation to the persons who they desire to take on this responsibility? I can understand this may be an important cost-saving measure that the Government is seeking to do. If you can take the police and the expensive . . . and . . . you know, their time out of minor traffic offences, it potentially is a reasonable cost-saving measure. But certainly there is, you know, what sort of training will be given to, if not the traffic officers themselves who primarily seem to issue tickets, what training might they be afforded if this is going to be implemented in the reasonable future?

Again, the conscription matter was mentioned in this . . . second time in the Throne Speech, so it would be good to know where the Government is on that, having mentioned it twice in the Throne Speech with a very definitive statement as to where you are going. Where is your progress on that?

Where are we on the Marine patrolling, evolving more responsibly to the Regiment in marine patrols? That was on page 17 of the 2014 Throne Speech.

We recently had a successful conference with INTERPOL Specialists Group on Crimes Against Children in Bermuda. Now there are some . . . there was mention of some potential amendments to the Criminal Code 1907 that the Government would look at. Where are we possibly on those? And this is an area of success for Bermuda so it would be interesting to know where we are on moving those forward.

And there was also the mention of a committee to review domestic violence in Bermuda with the initial focus on protective legislation. Where are we on those initiatives?

These are things that were mentioned that might have some impact on the work of the Ministry. If some of them do not I am happy to be clarified on that. But these are things that were in the Throne Speech. I bring them to the attention of the House and to the listening audience because there is a clear statement in your Performance Measures of having met them 100 per cent. If there can be a more detailed report on where you are with them, then that is fine.

There is also in your Performance Measures a percentage of current year Cabinet papers that have been submitted in the current year and have been successfully approved. Perhaps you could tell us how many Cabinet papers the Ministry presented to Cabinet. I am not interested in hearing anything else, just how many. That would perhaps give a better idea as to the work that is being done.

Madam Chairman, I will now move on—

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: I am sorry, Mr. Chairman, sorry—to Defence, Head 6, page B-267 in the Budget Book.

Defence Services, that total Head had a budget of $6.9 million combining Defence Services with the Bermuda Regiment. I do have a question in relation to the Junior Leaders Programme as the Premier mentioned that there seemed to have been a requirement to reduce the spending to zero from $128,000, that was the original number, and it was revised to $135,000 in the 2014/15 Budget. Does this mean that there is not going to be any activity with the Junior Leaders at all for the year? Is there any funding that might be available to ensure their existence through the calendar year? I ask the question because certainly that gives the impression that there is not going to be a Junior Leaders Programme. So if there could be some more clarity as to what might be . . . even though the budget is not there, what is the expectation for the Junior Leaders Programme for the year? Certainly youth development is a priority in the country and the role of the Junior Leaders over the years has been quite positive, Mr. Chairman, in that. And in my discussions with some former members of the Regiment that programme did take a bit of a dip, but there has been a passionate effort to try and get it back so that it has a greater influence amongst our young people and in our schools. And so seeing the budget cut, you know, it does give cause for some concern. But if the budget does not mean that it is not going to be in existence, but that it will just run in a different way I would like to hear more about that. That would perhaps be more interesting to hear as to . . . fine you are not going to give it the money but you have ways of knowing that you can keep the programme going and meet some of the objectives until such time as you can give it more funding.

[Cost centre] 16050, Basic Training, again, it was zero. Does that mean that . . . what is going to be the change in light of that not having funding for the calendar year? What is going to be the change to that Basic Training Programme? I am assuming that that is a programme that your new recruits are exposed to when they come in, so what will be the change with that particular programme—16050—for the upcoming fiscal year?

Moving to page B-269 under Defence under Subjective Analysis of Current Account Estimates, I note that under Energy, which is a cost of $180,000 last year and it is budgeted for $160,000 for this year. That is the main figure that I am interested in only from the basis in that is there perhaps an opportunity for the Regiment in its quest to always be an organisation that has a level of self-sufficiency and independence to perhaps look at some energy-efficient technologies that it can deploy on site to its facilities to actually save money . . . some photovoltaic or solar water heating technologies that can be deployed there?

I know that there is a cost to implementation, but certainly as the Regiment looks to save money over time and this budget is quite finite for them, obviously there are other changes which are coming to the Regiment which might affect its budget, but perhaps this is something that can be looked at. There are standing facilities up there that are always there. Perhaps some of this technology and others can help. I mean, the Regiment prides itself on being very independent and self-sufficient.

It is a way that can ultimately keep to that prerogative and also save some money in the long term. Certainly, if you cannot [eliminate] the $160,000 altogether perhaps you can get it down, and some of that money can be deployed in another place that the Regiment can find valuable rather than giving it all to BELCO.

Moving to page B-271, performance measures, Business Unit, [cost centre] 16000, under Administration and Recruitment it is noted that your target is 80 per cent for the upcoming year. I have to question because do you generally feel that is achievable because of the cut in your budget? I was impressed with what seemed to be the over-performance of the Regiment with getting volunteer recruits this year. Having myself had the opportunity for the first time to attend the recruit camp, I will say that I was very impressed with what I saw. I was impressed with the leadership by the young Bermudians who were running the camp. I was also impressed with the general enthusiasm of the recruits. It did not appear as if they did not want to be there, but perhaps they hide it very well.

But certainly when myself and my honourable colleague here who sits in constituency 36 attended—we were pleased with what we saw. We were impressed with the leadership by the Bermudian officers who were running the camp. We were pleased with the genuine welcome of Commander Foster-Brown and his staff.

I ask that question, Do you generally believe that the 80 per cent can be achieved for this year? The budget has been cut and I have some concerns about the budget being cut. I understand why, but I have some concerns because of the genuine very interesting time the Regiment is going through right now with transitioning from what it has been doing for the past 50 years to something else—to being a more professional and volunteer organisation, so that any cuts in budget do not jeopardise them being able to handle that transition, being able to promote themselves

They have had a very impressive promotion campaign over the past year, certainly since Commander Foster-Brown has come on board, in promoting the volunteerism and trying to make themselves almost look kind of (if I can say) a sexy organisation with a lot of life and vitality, you know, from perhaps the stereotypical organisation. Which I think, unfortunately, and I say this with genuineness, that was tagged with a lot of the debate over conscription rather than the focus on the organisation as a genuine locally led, locally developed organisation that developed Bermudians. It has always done that for the past 50 years, but it got caught up in this other discussion that had nothing to do with the Regiment as an organisation that does the work that it does. The conscription issue is a different [matter] (in my humble view), and it is separate and could be dealt with differently than actually tagging the Regiment with negativity on that issue when it does so many other positive things. I ask that because I do believe that these developments and these goals are good goals to increase the volunteerism, increase the level of professional development in the Regiment, so I raise my concerns about that genuinely.

I also note under [cost centres] 16020, 16030, 16040, 16075, Training and Support, has the percentage of soldiers in the past serving their mandatory service inclusive of Long Stay Nucleus, the target is from 55 [per cent] to 60 per cent. I am also interested in finding out what actually is—is there a number goal for how many officers that you wish to have stay on? Is that a percentage number or is it just—you know, how many that number actually is? Like, again, I am also concerned that with the budget reductions that you can reach and sustain some of the others who might choose to stay on. I mean, as long as, you know, does your current budget represent reaching that goal? Because, certainly, to keep the talent you have developed is good and less expensive than developing new talent.

Because the Bermuda Regiment has made that investment it makes sense to want to benefit from it over the longer term rather than just for three years. If there are colonels of excellence amongst those recruits and officers who can become leaders, than you should have the opportunity to have them there longer, contributing to the new recruits that come in as well as contributing to the organisation. So I am concerned that that is achievable. But I would like to know if there is a number of officers that you would like to actually—if there is a number. If there is not, fine, but I am interested to know if there is a number that represents that 60 per cent up from 55 [per cent].

A question related to your capital acquisitions under Defence on page C-13, at [cost centre] 76468, Equipment, there is an allocation for $47,000—what exactly is that for? Is that, you know, what specifically is that for? I would like to get some answers on that. Again, I stand here as a supporter of the Regiment, not somebody who wishes it any ill will. It is a great achievement that it has been around in its form for the last 50 years and let us have many more years of its existence as a strong Bermudian organisation that is contributing greatly. It has contributed considerable—if you think as to its contribution during natural disasters in particular—Fabian and successive—Emily and other events [which] brought the country to crisis.

The Regiment has been a sterling organisation and has provided support to the utilities and other agencies that have been working to get the country back on track. Certainly, in my own district of constituency 15, I personally saw them at work assisting people, and people were genuinely welcoming their assistance in that of the officers and the members who were part of the teams that were out day in and day out helping to shore up roofs or whatever temporary repairs that they could make. So these are extremely valuable contributions outside of the civil defence that, you know, the sort of other reasons why the Regiment has been tasked with dealing with which are perhaps more unpleasant than not. When the Regiment can play a role that is generally rejuvenating to the community, that just shows its genuine value. So I raise some of the questions on things that I have because I am interested in seeing that that sustainability is maintained very much with the Bermuda Regiment.

Mr. Chairman, I have another question in relation to the current strength of the Regiment at 400. Is that close to the number to be considered to be that keeps the Regiment viably operating or is there another number that perhaps is a goal that they would like to achieve over time? But is 400 that number that at least the Regiment feels that it could meet its objectives on an annual basis or is there another number that they are interested in?

As it relates to—I note that you mentioned the, the Honourable Premier mentioned, that Mr. David Curley will be the new commanding officer. If just, at some point, confirm the date that he will be coming on board.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Okay. And so Commander Foster-Brown will be moving on so whatever positive contribution that he has been able to make certainly we as a country and Government and members of the legislature should be thankful and that he hopefully leaves the Regiment in a better state of affairs than what he [found] it—presumably that is the goal of every officer and that Commander Curley will be able to move forward in his role moving from strength to strength in this anniversary year of that organisation.

I would like to now move to Head 7, the Police, page B-273. I note that the Budget for the police is somewhere in the range of $64.4 million. I do have a question. In the Budget Book it says employees of 535 and I heard the Premier mention a number of 540. Is that just—I am not saying that is even an error. Is there a reason why there is a different number in the Book compared to the number that the Honourable Premier outlined? He said that 436 police offers, 91 support staff (I believe) and then the final number he mentioned was 540. I am just curious as to why that number would be different in the Budget Book over what you mentioned. I am not trying to point any fingers. I appreciate that is a reduction but there is always a reason—maybe a few people have retired since the numbers were produced. Fine! But just let us know and that is fine, because, certainly, the Budget Book is a record that most people rely on. So that would be fine if that could be appropriately detailed.

[I] note that the revenue is around $350,000 in a variety of areas that the police do collect revenue in. According to the Budget Book—and I am sure I will get clarification, but I will present the question anyway—the decrease to 535 down some so-called 28 from 563, I would be interested to know (again) I would like to know as it relates to the Budget Book but also with the change of number. Did that 28 represent—what does it represent? Does it represent retirement? Does it represent secondment? Does it represent resignations? Obviously it is good for the police because it means you are paying for less people, but it would be nice to know that reduction for year to year of the 28 or so based on the Budget Book number. I would like to know what that represents and what that change of number is.

A couple of other questions that I raise in relation to the Police Service—as it relates to there being no third quarter or fourth quarter statistics upon the BPS website, is there a reason why—I did sort of try and look for them and I could not find any. Perhaps I could get an answer on that.

Moving on to Performance Measures for the Police Service, B-276 and the Commissioner's Office, the overall—looking at your public satisfaction numbers, originally forecasted at 64 per cent for the 2014/15 year. Your target for 2015/16 is 65 per cent. I want to know if there are any particular steps that you think you can take to raise that number. Again, I happen to be generally pleased with the performance of the Police Service.

We have seen in recent reports that the overall crime statistics have gone down year over year, and that certainly is a good thing and that has obviously come from a lot of hard work with the police being appropriately funded and resourced with what they need so they can get out there and do the work that they have been tasked to do. Satisfaction at 64 per cent I am assuming that they want to push that up higher. So what else other than what they have clearly been doing—any specific measures that they think that can be taken over the next year to reach that performance number to raise public satisfaction—

I am very interested to know what they are expecting to be able to do with that.

The Honourable Premier mentioned about the CCTV camera system. I—perhaps he could repeat at a later time—you mentioned there were three different types of cameras: fixed, tilt and you mentioned another type of camera, and that there was expected to be 150 cameras at 85 locations. You did note that you have only paid the partial monthly cost—what actually was that partial monthly cost? You did not mention what the number was, so I would like to know what that exact number of the partial cost that was paid. That was obviously based on there not being full implementation. Is there an expectation, Mr. Chairman, that the camera system will be able to do a lot more than just, I guess, take pictures, but actually function in more ways [then just] speed checks. There was some talk some years ago about ShotSpotter being possibly a part of the technology that might be implemented as a part of it. Is that foreseen to be a part of this existing system going forward so that it becomes a more multi-disciplinary system? Obviously, with the recent traffic summit and with an effort to tackle, Mr. Chairman, the issues of what is going on in our roads, can this system also assist in that?

It will be interesting to know what other activities will be attached with this system once it is fully implemented. Will it have ShotSpotter to deal with the obvious issue? Will it be an effective speed camera system as well as just monitoring general activity? Certainly, I raise a question of the cameras particularly in my own area in the Island, in constituency 15, the presence of cameras has been a great topic of interest to the residents and it has been generally felt that it took quite a time to get a camera system there that has aided in the change of atmosphere in that area of St. Monica's Road and in that general area of the Glebe Road, Mr. Chairman.

I am trying to remember when we last heard of an incident there. So hats off to the leader of the Police Service for the work they have done to get it to that point in the Glebe Road and St. Monica's Road areas and also other parts of the Island. So I am not just going to focus—it is the whole Island that benefits from the use of those technologies [and] from the effectiveness that it allows even to some degree for the police to put their manpower elsewhere because they can have cameras in one place. So [I am] interested in finding out what will be the further capabilities of that camera system.

[I am] interested to know whether—in relation to the police budget—if there is a view of perhaps a question of redeployment of some of their officers? And I am not sure, perhaps the Premier cannot answer this because I am not sure that deployment of officers is a responsibility of the Government. I do not believe it is. But perhaps in light of the Government's recent traffic summit and having a strategy around that, is there room to deploy officers, perhaps more officers to the traffic unit to assist, or is there a view that that deployment is satisfactory in light of the situation? Will there be a movement of officers from other departments to the traffic unit or to that area that will assist with that particular issue that the country is facing?

Also, in reference to how a particular department is organised (under the Police Head), Mr. Chairman, noting that in the police there are a number of different departments—Corporate Services Division, Community Policing Division, Support Services Division, [and] Drugs and Intelligence Division—and on page B-273, there is [line item] 0708, Drug and Intelligence Division, and under that there is the [cost centre] 17050, Child Victim Unit. I notice that is at zero.

Now, my question is this to the Government—I am aware that there has been some level of reorganisation. What used to be the Child's Victim Unit moved into another part of one of these divisions. Perhaps it could be identified exactly where. And I will say that I, like many other persons in the country, saw the presentation of Inspector Mark Clarke on television as it relates to what is being done and I made reference to the integral conference that we had. I was very impressed with his presentation with the member from Child and Family Services, and I do believe that a lot of misconceptions may have been debunked as a result of their persuasive presentation as to what the country is doing in that area and how we have had a very proactive approach to dealing with issues around child victimisation, and victimisation of vulnerable persons.

Clearly, we have the same problems, Mr. Chairman, that any other country has around these things. But there is the understanding that we have been leading in the region around the legislative framework and being very proactive and effective at getting the appropriate legal measures in place to deal with these situations. What I am interested in knowing is where exactly that department sits now in reference to the organisation. Certainly, I would hope that it is being appropriately funded so that that team can do what they need to do since there has been a rise in attention to cases in the courts around vulnerable persons, children and also domestic violence, and this unit seemingly is one that is tasked with addressing those issues.

I would hope that they are being appropriately funded. I would like to know where they are in the organisational structure of what is the police and the one, two, three, four, five, six different areas under the budget that is listed because I do not see it specifically mentioned and there is a zero budget. So if it has been moved somewhere—I do not think you are not funding it, it is just that it has been put somewhere else and I would like to know where it is.

Moving on from there. I know that this country has experience certainly in the latter part of last year—and I am still speaking to the Police Head—and some serious increase in fluctuation in violence which many persons found very alarming and are very concerned about because we seem to have these lulls of violent offences being committed. But then they pop up and they then bring our alarm bells back up. I do hope—and this is of concern to us on this side—that groups like the Inter-Agency Gang Task Force and others under the umbrella of Government are going to use this period where there does not seem to be much happening—I do not know everything that is happening in the community. I am just saying that we have not heard reports of certain things—that they are using this time to construct appropriate strategies going forward that the public can feel a sense of reassurance that the work is being done by the Police Service and all their partners.

Because, as been clearly stated by the Minister and others, that this is work that is not done alone and that many others are involved with tackling these issues, and not just the work will continue to be done on reacting to the violence [but] that [the] Inter-Agency Task Force and all their partners are also looking at how we as a country can more effectively deal with the causes of these occurrences—particularly now that there does not seem to be anything happening that is quite alarmist. So I do hope that the Inter-Agency Task Force and others are working right now to come up with strategies that they can let the public know at the appropriate time what is happening in these areas and how they expect to address it in the long term.

I wish to touch just lightly on the area of Customs but not in a heavy way. I see that the Honourable Premier noted under Customs, Head 12, which starts on page B-277, in relation to [line item] 1201 and [cost centre] 22030 which has to do with the airport, that there was a talk of hiring retired officers to do the primary check at the airport. Possibly you will be hiring retired officers to do that work—

An Hon. Member: As needed.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: As needed. Okay. Is there an anticipation of how much that might cost because you know what the manpower needs are probably at the airport, and I do declare my interests having once been an Immigration Officer who worked at the airport, so I have some understanding of what the needs are down there. But I was working with the Immigration Department at the time not with Customs—that was before the change was made. Is there expected—is there a general possible estimation of what that cost might be? I mean, if you are thinking about using them you must have an idea as to how much it might cost you over time as you know when the peaks are, you know what the manpower needs are, what might be the overall cost you might have to incur if you do use a few officers as needed. Perhaps you can let us know what that will be.

We move on from Customs. I am going to address Corrections which is B-286, Head 25, Mr. Chairman. I have a few questions in relation to that particular department. On page B-286 under, [cost centre] 35108, Educational Services, which is a slight decrease [and] also Vocational Services, [cost centre] 35109, a slight decrease, I am just wondering . . . these are perhaps two [areas] that that particular agency can be the best resource for a lot of the inmates. It is unfortunate that perhaps more monies could not have been deployed in educational and vocational services. Now, maybe what is there is based on the demand or need that exists within the actual corrections system, but certainly what one learns over time is that a lot of the challenges of those persons who find themselves in incarceration has to do with education.

With perhaps a low level of literacy and not having had the most positive educational experience of which was the leading reason why they found themselves on the other side of the law with their options, Mr. Chairman, being few and that maybe, you know, this is where we can push a lot of our resources—more resources—into assisting these inmates who ultimately, most will come out, in ensuring that they have a level of training so they can live a sustainable life, not associated with crime and/or any activity that might get them back in the prison.

Now, I am going to raise another question. Does the department work with Labour and Training and the new Workforce Development departments to perhaps design some training modules that effectively are tailored to the reality of the workplace so that in the areas that you do provide the training in for these inmates? These are the most efficient. And for those that get through and qualify for some certification, if they are there that long that they can be marketable, that they can see themselves potentially being a carpenter, being an electrician, being a mason—if they are in a programme within the prison that gets them to having the appropriate certification they are recognised by the National Training Board as somebody who is trained and they can even be linked with people like the BIU or with the construction association or any other partners that the training facilities have to place them at least even on a probationary period.

So perhaps to . . . obviously, there are limited resources, but maybe some of what can be deployed with the Corrections Department can be working with these agencies to efficiently train. Or even motor mechanics. These are areas that potentially that the Corrections Department with whoever manages their training can actually work with these agencies to even provide further support for what is being done down there. For many years this has been going on, particularly with the remedial programmes and getting men and women to get their GEDs and ultimately do other things with their lives.

As we have seen heavily reported, those achievements by those inmates are great for their families, it brings a level of [increased] self-esteem, it brings a positive feeling that they have achieved something and that they may potentially have a pathway out of the incarcerated situation that they are in. So without the actual funding being increased potentially is there an opportunity for the agency to work with the other groups in Government to provide the support that is required for those inmates? I would hope that could be considered and if it is not already being done—perhaps it is already being done. I would say hats off to the department and those who are managing those programmes.

On page B-287 under Employee Numbers (Full-Time Equivalents), I do not know—did the Premier speak to this that there was a reduction of 12 personnel, or was this achieved through retirement or did you actually speak to this in your brief? I cannot remember. I thought you mentioned something about the Corrections Department and their personnel. But I cannot remember what was said. Did you mention something about why there was a reduction and what that was being attributed to? So if you could just repeat that at some point, I would appreciate it.

I would also be interested to know is there (from the standpoint of the size of our particular corrections facility) is there a ratio of minimum officer to inmate that we are following that is international best practise? If that is actually something that we—do we have those measures that we are following and are actually being achieved? I would be interested to know where we are with that, in particular.

Based on the performance measures as it relates to the Corrections, [line item] under 0701, Commissioner's Office—I am sorry. I am on the wrong point on my brief that I have created. Sorry about that. I did have a question in relation to the number of inmates and looking at that in the performance measures and maybe I am reading the numbers incorrectly and I am happy to be corrected if I am. On page B-288 under Business Unit, [cost centre] 35000, Headquarters, I note in that first category there is actually an original forecast for average number of inmates. I see a number there of 273. Does that number represent the number of inmates in all the facilities? And then you have a revised forecast for 2014/15 of 262 and your target is 258—does that represent at all the facilities? Or is that it? Okay.

I saw that there was a savings that was there, Mr. Chairman, which represents just over a million dollars or so in savings. I am presuming that with the reduction goal with the number of inmates, that that is a part of where you are going to find your savings? Because you are expecting that with the average number that is listed here as originally forecasted $80,735 and revised forecast at $76,535 per inmate—that some of your savings you are expecting to find through the less inmates. Perhaps you can answer that for me.

Under Capital Development, page C-5 on Corrections under Minor Works, [cost centre] 75027, Prisons Minor Works—I would like to know if I could be told specifically what those minor works are, and I raise that questions because I have had a few members of the community come to me concerned—particularly people from the Sandys community as to whether damage received during—at Westgate in particular—during the hurricanes has been repaired. And this is equivalent to fencing. There was a concern by residents that there was severe damage done to the perimeter (fencing) and that has not been addressed. This was brought to me not too long ago. A clarification would be—and perhaps is this minor works going to account for some of that damage, or does it have to do with other things? But if you can answer even the question about the perimeter fencing and its integrity that might have been damaged that is or has not been repaired, I would appreciate an answer with that. That was a concern brought to me by members of the community in Sandys.

I see you mention that that $46,000—is it $46,000 that is going to be replacing the security system at the facility? You mentioned, Mr. Chairman, there was a mention of some work on the security system at the corrections facility and there was going to be a replacement. Is that the number? No, I am sorry, it was $250,000 that was mentioned that you were going to do. Okay.

I do have another question in relation to the security of the corrections facility. I think we know that there has been an ongoing concern in relation to drugs getting in and cell phone activity within the corrections facilities. I have not heard much recently about it but perhaps it can be mentioned as to whether the effective equipment has been deployed that can manage that. That seems to be an ongoing issue that even despite the equipment being deployed still was a problem that the phones were getting in and they were being used. Perhaps you can give us some clarification on if anything has happened with that. Whether the issue of drug activity is still a major problem, and the measures that are being taken to combat it, if it is.

I am also interested to know in relation to the prison facility under [line item] 2502, which has to deal with psychological services—35105. The Honourable Premier said, Mr. Chairman, that the goal was to have three psychologists on staff and that they currently have two. What is the cost of a psychologist? I would be interested to know how much that is. Obviously it is a very specialised area. But what is the salary? Is it paid by the Department of Corrections or are they attached from somewhere else? Also, do you have the benefit of services from Mid-Atlantic Wellness Centre if you desire them? If you are in need of psychological support, do you get that from Mid-Atlantic Wellness Centre and how is that dealt with?

Perhaps, Premier, you can also clarify something else that you mentioned in relation to psychological or health services under [cost centre] 35107. I heard you mention the word “lobotomy” and I was not sure if that was correctly stated because I did not think that they were still done. But it was mentioned in the actual narrative that you were reading. So are we still doing lobotomies? It just seems a little alarming to hear that word in this 21st century because it is . . . so perhaps it will just take a re-clarification of what you stated as in relation to health services or, fine, if that was just put in there. It is my understanding that those are things of the past and that lobotomies are not really . . . they would [not] seem to be necessary. I do not think they are taking off a couple lobes of people who now are—they [do not] seem to be a sensible psychological practise, but I did hear the word mentioned in your brief, Premier, so. But if I was hallucinating then, please, just tell me.

I think those are my main questions around Corrections. I think—oh, yes, I did have some questions, Mr. Chairman, in relation to Capital on page C-26, Head 25 for Corrections. I was a little concerned as to why Corrections was paying more rent year on year at the Dockyard office. It has gone up from $302,[478] to $310,000 and I am surprised any of our departments or any Ministries are paying more money for their rental—particularly in this market. I am surprised. But perhaps that is how the lease is designed but it would seem as if—and I had some understanding as that—I mean, it is the Government that actually renovated and made that office actually fit for purpose for the Corrections office down at Dockyard. Is there a way to find savings on some of these rents? I will just divvy back to like the Customs office down at Hamilton Hall.

They are also paying more money for rent. Is there a way to find some savings so that you can decrease your rental expenditure over time for these very important departments rather than paying out a whole lot of money for rent? I do hope, and perhaps you can give us some clarification on what you are expecting in that area going forward.

I will move now to National Drug Control which is Head 88 on [page] B-293 with a budget of $3.9 million. I appreciate the great description that the Premier gave on this particular department. But I am really interested in a couple of things not with what they do—not so much their budget—but I am actually very interested more in matters concerning policy.

I am pleased that under [cost centre] 98050, under Research Policy, that that budget has been held the same from year to year and that is for a number of reasons. One, I do believe that the National Drug Control and its work on creating the action plan and other data that it generates around what is happening with drugs in Bermuda with a view to helping the Government formulate effective policy is important. Perhaps it will only disappear when the scourge of substance abuse is finally defeated. That is not likely to come anytime soon, but it is clear that the NDC played a crucial role of what the Government does in this area as a policy organisation.

Clearly, what the police do is important and our partnerships with other organisations are also very important in this. But I am interested to know now that we have had a year where the discussion of the decriminalisation of cannabis was very much a part of the national discussion where a group independent of the Government commissioned and produced a report that was used presumably to lay a framework for how we are going to move forward. I am interested to know what is going to be the role of the National Drug Control agency in what we do next. It must not be forgotten—and this is in relation to Head 88, [cost centre] 98050 under National Drug Control.

Once that was taken by the Government to develop legislation around medical uses of cannabis, of which we dealt with in this House, but it must be remembered that the discussion and the energy that came behind with the discussion about cannabis and the attitude of the country and a potentially new policy around cannabis came about not so much around the medical use—but came in relation to the decriminalisation issue.

An issue that has seen for years our citizens and residents in front of the courts, some young or many young and many not so young, find themselves with records and imprisonment. This imprisonment has resulted in irreparably affecting the lives of many of these people and frustrating their ability to pursue opportunity to get jobs, to forward their lives in a positive way, even to the point where they did something when they were the age of 16 and 17 seemingly what resulted from there was an experience that has damaged them way into adulthood.

So I ask this question because if there is a commitment from the Government to address this and if we are going to move beyond—which was frankly both the low-hanging fruit around cannabis policy which was some alterations to the policy around medical marijuana. When is the Government going to get the courage to deal with the bigger issue which is the very reason why this even became a discussion? It did not become a discussion around just medical marijuana. In fact, that is not even the issue that brought it to the table. It was how it is affecting many of our young people and their lives and the fact that they often find themselves prohibited from travelling to North America, particularly the US, and having difficulty with pursuing genuine opportunity.

Perhaps they are not even remotely connected to the actual substance at all, but they find themselves hampered. I am not putting the blame of them being hampered just on Bermuda, clearly, their being able to travel has to do with other countries and not being able to travel to that country.

But when are we going to see a genuine move forward on this? Is the NDC now, having had the cannabis review committee report, having presumably the Government made a commitment to look at this further, is the NDC going to put some of those research resources that it has available to coming up with a policy that can eventually become a level of decriminalisation? This party and this Opposition spoke about this in our Budget Reply in that we see a change in the policy towards cannabis as not only being sensible social policy but also good fiscal policy. It will take some of the huge expense that we put in interdiction and the resources—whether it be customs, whether it be police—that we can perhaps change how we deploy our resources if we decriminalise at some level. At least that can be a start. So there is some fiscal benefit to it at least from the start. Obviously, the ultimate path is to looking at ways that perhaps there can be some other fiscal benefit with cannabis as a taxed resource. But that is clearly further down the road with any steps that any Government would take, but we do have some examples to observe in the meantime.

We do not have to play guinea pig with this and I am not suggesting that we as a country play guinea pig. I am suggesting that we observe what is happening in North America, particularly in about three states in the United States. I am suggesting that we look at what has happened in Jamaica just a few weeks ago with them creating legislation that allows for them to ultimately tax the production of marijuana. It gives certain other guidelines and if that is a future opportunity that we can pursue, then it should be investigated. And the very body that can spend some time [and] energy on this particular endeavour is none other than the National Drug Control.

They are [the body] who can at least begin the actual intellectual exercise beyond the cannabis review committee report with formulating a potential future policy for us in this area. We mention it as a potential revenue opportunity in our own statement for the past couple of years. We understand that this would take some time, just like some other things would take some time to develop. But there is no reason to look at our policies now. Let the NDC dedicate some of its time and energy to looking at this and shaping what might be our future.

With a view to the decriminalisation issue in particular because I do believe that having not gone after that directly, the Government is shirking some of the responsibility that it said it would give to our citizens with addressing this issue. Fine—the medical part has been dealt with to some degree but this other part is essential, and the NDC is the appropriate organisation to start that work. It does not commit the Government to anything, but certainly you have this body that has the expertise that has the people, and the resources to begin the policy development. To begin looking at what we can do or what we should do on the basis of what is reasonable for Bermuda.

am not saying that we cookie-cutter or that we copy anybody else but clearly what is happening around the world eventually comes to our doorstep. We should be fair and be proactive about how we are going to shape our policy going forward.

The other matter that I would like to look at under National Drug Control before I close—and I do hope someone—how much time do I have left?

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: And what time is it now?

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: That is still quite a bit of time. Maybe there are other Members who will chime in and want to contribute to the discussion. Certainly, I can get up again, if necessary, to continue going through my main queries and questions that I had around the budget, the budget for National Security.

Under page C-20, I am interested to—under NDC, and this is Grants and Contributions. Now the Premier did speak as to what the Government is looking to do here but the major concern that is around this, Mr. Chairman, is the reduction in grants to certain key organisations. Under [line item] 7048 you have Salvation Army, under [line item] 7084 we have PRIDE (Parent Resource Institute for Drug Education), and [line item] 7086 there is Focus. These three organisations are going to have zero grant allocations. [I am] a little concerned about that for some of the very reasons that we have been discussing, [which] is the concern about the effect of partnerships that the Government has on dealing with some of our social issues.

These are some very key partners in what is done in the community and they have had the support of Government over the years. So to withdraw the grants from them is really a little disturbing because it is actually during this time when the economic situation is dire for many, this brings stress to many persons and many people then succumb to substance abuse, and it is perhaps at the one time that we should be keeping certain grants and support consistent.

I am not suggesting that the Government can give everything to everyone or give a lot to everybody but some portion of support for these organisations is essential to the whole country managing some of the concerns and some of the by-products that comes out of people at an increased level of substance abuse in the country due to the stresses and anxieties and pain that comes from people losing their jobs, greater family stress, just overall anxiety about what is happening in their lives. Some people are vulnerable to this level abuse, or find themselves homeless as is the case with how the Salvation Army gives support to many people.

They also are supposed to have programmes in place that will help people who may find themselves homeless and this may be as a result of substance abuse problems or other behavioural issues. So they clearly are an agency that is tasked with those things. They maintain the shelter. And I do know that recently they have concluded an agreement with the Government on potentially developing a publicly owned site into a facility, which is good news and hopefully that can be successful in the long-term.

We have PRIDE which is a youth organisation, primarily, which gives drug education to many of our young people in the community. Their grant seemingly has been cut. And if there is one group that we should spend some time making sure are appropriately armed for some of the severities that they will confront in their adult lives, it is our children.

Groups like PRIDE, I am sure there are others, certainly, is one group that actually has seen it as their mission to prepare our young people and their parents for the possibility of being confronted with drugs, and the choices that they have to make. So withdrawing funding from them does seem a little concerning.

And, of course, there is Focus. Focus is a treatment organisation. Once, ironically, a former Member of this House, whom the treatment [centre] at Dockyard is named after, spent a great deal of his time dedicated to their development and to the work that they do. The late Honourable Nelson Bascome. So to see that organisation now, which I know he spent a great deal of time . . . and my honourable colleague from constituency 16 also spends a great deal of time working there, [to see] that they are suffering a grant depletion at the hands of the Government is a little worrying, knowing that this is an issue for many people right now.

Many societies, just like ours, who have similar compositions, similar demographics, similar levels of development, find substance abuse increasing. So I do hope and ask that the Government can ultimately look at, perhaps over the calendar year, reconsidering if there are other ways that they can be appropriately funded in the manner that they have requested, but some sort of support can come from the Government in some way to continue to help these organisations with the work that they do.

I know that money is not everything. There are other ways that the Government can perhaps give in-kind support or services to them in what they do. But I would hope that we do not let the grant depletion for these three organisations, in particular, jeopardise the work that they are committed to doing in our community.

I do hope that the Government can give some attention under National Drug Control to actually find other ways that they can help these organisations. If it cannot be through money, it can be actually through in-kind services or support or resources that they can dedicate to helping them.

I would like to be able to give an opportunity for some other people to contribute. Perhaps (and I do hope) there are others who are going to be happy to give some contribution to this discussion. I have presented the Premier with a number of questions that he has to answer. So I will conclude my comments at this point and perhaps others will want to contribute to the discussion that we are having on the Ministry of National Security.

Thank you.

The Chairman: Is there any other Member who wishes to speak on these heads?

Honourable Premier?

[Inaudible interjection]

The Chairman: Oh, sorry.

I would like to recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 20 . . .

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: [Constituency] 25.

The Chairman: Twenty-five.

Minister Pettingill, you have the floor.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: It is all right, Mr. Chairman, I seem to be getting overlooked a lot lately, that is—

The Chairman: It is nothing personal.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: I have got to roll with it.

I just wanted to speak to the very interesting head, [and to the questions] which the Honourable Member that just took his seat, in his eloquent response on these issues, raised. And that is with regard to Head 88, on National Drug Control.

It was something, that if I had had the opportunity, Mr. Chairman, when I was cut short on my opening salvo the other day, restricted to half an hour—

The Chairman: Let us not revisit that.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: —instead of an hour. I know it is controversial. I will leave it alone. It is okay. But, you see, I knew I would get to slot it in somewhere, so here it is.

It is an interesting question. It has been raised before. I had the opportunity when I was the Attorney General to see the draft that the Opposition (someone in the Opposition) had drafted in relation to decriminalisation. Of course, it is just not as easy as that. Mr. Chairman, you have somebody now on their feet who, you know, is likely a proponent of (certainly, I am known to be pretty liberal in my views and the things I have supported) some form of legalisation when it comes to marijuana.

Frankly, and all the research that I have done . . . I tend to be a proponent of what they did in Portugal. They legalised all drugs. And guess what happened? Crime went down. They put the money into people with the problem. They put it into social programmes, and Portugal became the test case for the world where the war on drugs is going on and everybody is saying that we have lost the war on drugs. You speak to intellectual people and they say that if you have this position on it, you just drive it underground. It is an interesting model to look at.

Now, I am not saying it would work in Bermuda. But what I am saying is, you know, it is kind of an extreme version of this polarized argument that Portugal just decided, Look. We have this horrendous crime rate. I think at one time, Mr. Chairman—and I think I am quoting from the Bill Marsh Show, which I watch every Friday night (and I know you do too)—it was like 10 per cent of the country was addicted to heroin. Some ridiculous number of people were addicted—

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: Maybe less than that. I forget what it was. It might be 1 in 10. But I have to tell you . . . No, you know what it was? It was one point something per cent. That is what it was. It was 1 per cent, not 10 per cent. One point something per cent. But that is still an astounding number, if you think about it. Every 1 in 100 people is addicted to heroin. So it was definitely in that range of where it was at.

And they just decided, We cannot go like this. It is all in the hands gangsters, and so on. Look. Let's legalise it and take all the money and put in into social programmes. So that is an extreme example of what was done. I am not advocating that here. I am just saying that there are other things to look at.

But when—and it comes from the Opposition a lot, and I heard it today—we start talking about this decriminalisation. We cannot have a Bill that is a decriminalisation Bill. Decriminalisation would be a policy. And, frankly, to some degree we have had decriminalisation here—not as a fixed policy, but as a practice (let's say) for some time, in some form. And we see that where people are not ultimately charged in relation to minor possession of marijuana, particularly if it is their first offence. It is looked at, the social issues are looked at, and somebody, somewhere makes a sensible decision.

Now, I get the point from the other side that it needs to almost be regularised across the board so that you have a system in place for doing it. But once you get into fixing rules about it, or drafting laws, you are talking about legalising it. Okay? And that is what we need to understand. Because the one thing I will say in relation to this, no matter how we feel about marijuana (and I say “we” in the royal sense, about how I may feel about it), it is candidly, in my personal view . . . and I can say this as a person who is not a smoker of marijuana. All right? I am not saying that I have never smoked marijuana. I am not going to say I have not, like, you know . . .

No, no, I am not going to do a Bill Clinton and say . . . I am not saying that. It is not my particular vice of choice, Mr. Chairman. You know, I like to have a glass of wine and that is my thing. But I have no issue with if that is somebody’s vice of choice. Okay. Albeit, there are health ramifications for whatever you do too much of, you know, from whatever you do too much of.

Having made that confession, I lost my train of thought because I can just hear the minds worrying about but—

[Inaudible interjection and laughter]

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: Yes, too much to smoke.

But the point is this, one has to, particularly when they sit up here, in my view, abide by the laws of the land even if we do not agree with them. Because there are a number of laws that are on our books that I do not agree with. I did not agree with them as Attorney General, I did not agree with them when I was in Opposition. I do not agree with them now. I would like to see them changed. I would like to see those things changed.

You know, it was an abomination to me that sexual orientation was not a humanised, legal issue as long as it was. I know it was for you too. It was an abomination to me. But I could not just, because of that, change it. I could not make it be a way that it wasn’t because it was my personal view. And I cannot do that in relation to marijuana or any of the other things. And it would be wrong for me, it would be wrong for anybody, it my view, but particularly as a legislator, to say, I don’t agree with that law, so I am going to smoke marijuana all the time. [Or say] I am going to grow it, or do whatever I feel the law should be. That is irresponsible. No matter how I feel about it, that is irresponsible.

Until the day comes where we can actually say, I have legalised this . . . that, in my view, is not the way to go. That is what we have to get to grips with. We either come with a policy that is a methodology of decriminalisation with a fixed approach and look at it . . . but there are constitutional issues that arise there.

I digress as I am standing here, back and forwards with myself, because the DPP [Department of Public Prosecution] is really the only one that can say they are going to prosecute or not prosecute. So there are issues that come into play.

We have already seen it where you might have one person that gets charged and another person that does not, and so on and so forth. I think it is the legal aspect that one has to look at and be advocating in addressing this issue, when you start to talk about decriminalisation. Because what we have to realise is that even with decriminalisation, people that purchase marijuana are still supporting criminality.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Have a seat, Member. Have a seat.

The Chair recognises the Honourable Member from constituency 6.

POINT OF ORDER

[Relevance]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Chairman, you know that normally there is a general debate. Then there is a debate on the actual heads.

The Chairman: What is point of order?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The point of order is that the speaker, the Honourable Mark Pettingill, I have not heard him mention any numbers yet. I mean, we are supposed to be having a Budget Debate, not a Budget Debate on any philosophical . . . or whether they should be supporting marijuana or any other type of drugs.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: You heard the number mentioned when I started, Mr. Chairman. I do not know where that Honourable Member was. I immediately started—

The Chairman: Proceed.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: —under a head. Yes. I do not know what he has been smoking but—I say that tongue in cheek.

The Chairman: Member, you know that—

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: I did say that. That—

The Chairman: You might want to withdraw that comment.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: I was speaking under Head 88.

Sorry?

The Chairman: You might want to withdraw that comment.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: No. No. I said I was being tongue in cheek. He knows that I did not mean that. I know that he does not probably fall into that category. No disrespect at all. It was a joke. Okay?

No offense. I withdraw it. I can see it was disrespectful, so . . .

The Chairman: Honourable Member?

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: We are all very touchy.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Chairman: Okay.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: I was even poking fun of myself in regard to that earlier on, so there is no fear of that.

So, one has to consider that in looking at the complexity—this is the point that really is the crux of it—it is the complexity of doing this. And I know because I had [a] pretty extensive conversation with the US Attorney General, Eric Holder, when we were at a conference together, a good sit-down on this issue. He, I could say openly here, was like-minded about a certain liberal approach to things, and legalisation, and did not have issues with the way it was being done in the States. He had a federal problem. And, likewise, we have a federal problem because the question becomes, if you get into . . . you saw the question, Mr. Chairman, where are you going to get it from? Where do you get it?

I can hear the eye rolls now. Ah! Ah! Where are you going to get it? Because you cannot grow it legally. And that is a topic for another day, because I have views on that. And you sure as heck cannot import it. You cannot even import it from the States legally because you can have federal issues if you decide to go cut a deal with Colorado and say like, You know, we are going to try transport. That is not going to happen.

Again, I raise this view. I have said it before. It has come up today by the Opposition in the sense that they have to start on the basis that, I join with certain liberal views on that side about addressing this issue of marijuana. I join with them on that. But every time it comes up, with the greatest respect, they seem to lose the plot on the ability to actually do it and make it workable. And they seem to lose the plot on all of the intricacies that are involved in the ability to do that.

I know we had debates and all the rest of it, but I can tell you, it is just not that simple a thing to do, even though you think it is the simplest thing in the world. It is not. You are going to wave the magic wand and say, Here we go? You know, we have seen the start from this Government, at least with regard to addressing one particular element with regard to medicinal marijuana. I heard the eyes-roll on that one. But, you know, it is like, slowly, slowly one hopes that you get there and this is a classic case of hurry up and wait. But those are the types of issues that we face.

So when I look at this Head of National Drug Control, immediately I start going through the list. I think about things like Portugal. I think about the issue with regard to the marijuana issue in this country, and specifically how it impacts on us socially, in the sense that it is something that people want and people have done for a long time. And it is criminalised. And that is what it is. And you hear there is a large segment of the society that is saying that it should not be criminalised. It should not be criminalised. And not everyone will agree with that view.

But that is . . . you are talking about legalised. And so the point is you have to then make arguments for legalisation, and you have to look at all of the intricacies in relation to that, and problems solved from that standpoint. But just standing up, beating his drum, decriminalise, decriminalise, and look at that and what it would make . . . One, you are mixing concepts when you talk to them about decriminalise and legalise.

So, I rise because I hope if we are going to continue to have a look at this, or if other Members are going to speak on this particular head today, that the issue of how problematic it is and how it has to be approached and what has to be done, is a very significant thing for consideration.

Mr. Chairman, other than that, I would be remiss if I did not say, as a general premise, about . . . and I heard the Honourable Member who spoke before—

The Chairman: Have you moved on to another head?

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: I'm sorry?

The Chairman: Have you moved on to another head?

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: I was just looking in relation to that. But I could do it under the same head. I think, you know, . . . sorry, Mr. Chairman.

Yes, Head 7, in relation to the police.

The Chairman: Mm, hmm.

Mr. Mark J. Pettingill: You know, Mr. Chairman, one could not say that this Government, for being in power for the time it has . . . and don't forget, it is acceptable that everything going on about whether the police is controlled by the Governor, and so on and so forth, but the fact of the matter is that the Government has put the Budget together.

And the one thing with this Government, and I know because I sat on it, is that they have been actively involved in the [National] Security Council. It has not just been a post facto of the Peppercorn Ceremony where that [National] Security Council meets and has a chat and a glass of sherry and goes home.

It has been an active thing for this Government, so there has been involvement in relation to policing.

I think the proof is in the pudding. Again, it is all about policy and how it is applied. The Premier has now been, you know, long-serving . . . well, has served now for the duration of this Government as the National Security Minister, now as Premier, [and] also keeps that Ministry, and one can see their results. And it is a fact.

That is why when we do have things that come up these days, it is shocking. It is shocking because we are not having them with the frequency that we used to, and the difficulty about it . . . I know we have these speeches up here, I remember making one from the other side, you know, where we were just getting complacent. We were used to hearing about these things, because that is the road to ruin. That is the road to ruin. There was so much of it back a few years ago that it was almost a case of like, Oh, is that the way we are going to go? Well, we have turned that corner, in fairness. We have turned that corner. That is why the statistics that we have had reflect the lowest crime in more than a decade under the leadership that has happened in this Government.

And the police are to be commended for that. I know that they are happy about the leadership that has taken place here because of the policies that have been implemented. Right? Because of the way that the funds have been allocated. It is not easy when it comes to the allocation of funds. It is an expensive task, but it is the way that you use the money. I think that in that regard, when we look at it as far as the results go, it has been used very, very effectively with regard our police force.

With that, Mr. Chairman, I will take my seat. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 6, the Honourable Wayne Furbert.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I am going to begin where the Honourable Member left off. I mean, he talks . . . and it is—

The Chairman: Which head? Is that Head 7?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: This is head . . . Police, Head 7. Right.

When the Honourable Member talks about that this is the lowest for, I think he said a decade . . . you know, that is playing politics. We understand how that works. You know, Mr. Chairman, that there are certain times that activities taking place. And if you are catching individuals and they are causing problems and some have been, let me . . . excuse the word, some of them have actually passed away. That helps out with the problem too, you know. And people are being locked up and also, I do not want to use the word “dying,” but there were certain situations happening during the time that the PLP was in Government. That helps out with the problem.

So those individuals are not around anymore so, of course, these things could seem to be getting better. It is not that policing has not changed. They are not happy because all of sudden the PLP is out and the UBP, or OBA is in, and they say, Hey, we are going to stop crime. It does not work that way. It was not that type of setup. It took place when certain things took place in the past. All right?

And we do not want these things to occur. We want a peaceful society. And the Government worked hard during those days, National Security Ministers, to put things in place. As a matter of fact, most of the legislation that counteracts those types of activities came out under the Progressive Labour Party. There are very few changes that have taken place since 2012 until now. But there were a lot of means put in to counteract the situation that we found ourselves in.

So you cannot say . . . so those were activities or legislation that the Progressive Labour Party put in place; hence, I believe that it has helped the situation that we find ourselves in.

So, you know, and look, we do not want our neighbourhoods to be up in arms. We want a peaceful society. We want to ensure, of course, because [when] we have more crimes, of course, then our tourists get to hear the news, and on and on, so that impacts international business. So, look, let's not say that all of a sudden that we . . . yes, numbers are down because of certain circumstances, and we appreciate those things. But it was because of the planting, of the seeding. You do not see the tree until later on after, when the thing starts to grow, when it is being watered and nurtured. But somebody planted that seed, and the Progressive Labour Party planted that seed.

The Permanent Secretary, who is here now, who has done a great job for the Minister, was the same Permanent Secretary that we had while we were in Government. He did an excellent job then. So if I was to give any applause, [it] would have to go the Permanent Secretary who is there now. He is the one who was doing this during the difficult times, and has given the same consultation to the Premier and Minister of National Security now, and he will give advice to us when we get back in. So let's not play that situation.

[National] Security Council. Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman: What head is that?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: It is the same thing. It was Police, that is [Head] 7.

The Chairman: Okay.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes. [Head] 7.

The [National] Security Council, and I heard the Honourable Member talk about the Security Council as if all of a sudden they used to meet, and they did not have . . . it was the Governor who was responsible for national security. Many of us have . . . I have met with him several times on things when I was Leader of the Opposition during that time. But, yes, the Premier was involved in the National Security. But at the same, those meetings took place under every Premier that you can think of. Governors change, but those formalities and things went on. So let us not play those types of games.

But I want to talk about some numbers. We look at [Head] 7, I remember when the Progressive Labour Party was in Government, they kept on saying that, You are not giving enough money to the Police Service. Now, the Premier and the Minister may say that because of [the] drop in crime we have cut the numbers, but in 2011/12 there were 615 employee numbers allocated, 2011/12.

The Chairman: What is your page reference for that?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Well, this is former numbers. You have to go back [to the] former books to look at it, 2011/12.

The Chairman: Okay.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Then, 2012/13 it was 560; 2013/14 it was 563; then 2014/15, the revised number went down to 557; and now down to 535. So the Government is cutting the numbers of the Police Service. Now, I did not hear why the numbers were being cut, but maybe the Premier would answer.

It is clear that we have more manpower than they did. The amount of dollar value that we had in 2011/12 was $69 million compared to now, $64 million. So the amount that has been allocated . . . and I remember, Mr. Chairman, (not me personally, I was not the Minister of National Security, but I was part of the Government) being beat up, almost on a weekly basis, and with the resources we had we were still able to put legislation by the former Attorney General, Minister Scott, former Attorney General Kim Wilson, put legislation in place with the Minister of National Security to make things effective for this country.

So now that the numbers are down, we are dropping 28 commissioners or officers. I do not know why. I do not know why those numbers are being dropped. Yes, I know that the Minister of Finance says, Every Minister, had got to cut 10 per cent. And, of course, I remember David Saul said the same thing when I was with another group. Of course, we cut the number of staff, police enrolled, down to the minimum. We cut it right down. So we had to build it back up and so on.

I am hoping that this . . . I do not know, well, even if they are retiring, maybe because they are retiring, individuals are not being replaced. But is that the number that is conducive to help us out with our yearly or monthly or daily activities within the Police Service? I do not know. Has there been an audit that the Minister is working with that says that these are the numbers that we can work with? I do not know.

It is all right to say we are cutting numbers, but what we do not do in a lot of budgets, Mr. Chairman, is that we do not prioritise our budgets. What Ministers do, Minister of Finance does, is to say, Everybody cut! But Education may need more (I am not going to get into that), or Tourism may need more (like when we get into that in another head in the next couple of days), but we do not prioritise. We do not look and say, What do we need? What is our goal? What is the vision for the country? What is our priority? What is going to make this country tick and go forward?

I have heard the President of the [Bermuda Industrial] Union, Mr. Chris Furbert, say, Come back and tell us what numbers it would take to run the civil service? Nobody knows.

Now, I think the Premier mentioned earlier, I think he said that they are doing some type of (I will use the word) "staff audit" to look at these things. Maybe . . . I think I heard that. But what does it really take to run the Police Service? And, based on what the Honourable Member who just sat said, how much is being spent on, particularly, crimes when it comes to drugs? What is that number? What is the staff? They are not out hiding in trees now and trying to catch us speeding. There are a few, but they do not pop up as often as they used to, because that is where most of them used to be—hiding in trees with a little old gun, a radar gun, I should say—catching us speeding. So I do not see that much nowadays.

So, what is the budget in regard to those? Maybe in the future the Premier or the Minister of National Security will say. How much is allocated toward each department within the Police Service? Crime? Road Safety (or whatever it is)? And so on and so on. I am not a police officer. I do not know the whole detail of how the commissioner would do it. I am sure he must have some allocation on that basis. I remember when [Colin] Coxall became the Commissioner of Police, he took practically everybody off the roads. Everybody was off the road. He just said, I am going to do away with roads. That is when we first started seeing the increase in, maybe, traffic . . . people started speeding because you know that nobody is hiding in trees. He just took everybody off from hiding in the trees.

So, I would like to know, basically, what impact will it have on these 28 individuals? And why, if there are 28, why not 30? Why not 35? Why not 50? What is so magic about this number 28? Is it retirement? Or somebody sat down and did an analysis and said, This is exactly what we need and, therefore, in the future, unless there is a real rise in crime, we will be staying at that number or we will be decreasing [that number] because we are not allocated that way.

I believe that, because it is $68 [million], well, $64 [million], $65 million . . . that is a lot of money spent specifically on law and order. And if everybody was in . . . I do not want to say if everybody was in church, but if everybody, like families like ours, you probably do not need that many police officers out there. So what does it really take as far as the police department to really make Bermuda safe, secure, and people feel that we are getting some worth out of it?

Second thing I want to speak about is the Defence. We have seen a decrease in the—

The Chairman: Are we moving to Head 6 now?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Head 6, yes.

We have seen a decrease in the Defence budget over the years. I am a proponent of [the] need to get rid of the conscription—me—and let individuals volunteer. As a matter of fact, I volunteered.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: What do I mean, you volunteered? Yes, I came back from school. There was a certain age I think you had to be. I went up there because they had my name called up on some sheet of paper, so being a good individual from Hamilton Parish, I went up, did my test, they checked my heart and all that type of stuff, and then the guy said, You have been here. You do not need to serve anymore because you are past the time.

I said, Look, I am here now. Take me in. I am here, take me in. So I kind of volunteered, to a certain degree. And I had a good time in the Regiment. I learned a lot. In those days I was part of that we called the “INT” section. It was called the—

The Chairman: What section?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: It was called “INT” which meant “Intelligence” section. The Permanent Secretary may recall those days when we had the word “INT” in the Regiment, done by Major Bainbridge and Major Davis (I think it was). We used to hide in trees and check out and see how much people’s trash was being collected, [and] see how many people were in the houses. We did good.

I will never forget the time, Mr. Chairman, we did an exercise in Jamaica. I took things seriously. That was just how I was. In Jamaica, [in the] Blue Mountains.

The Chairman: You sure you are not roaming a bit, are you? You have gone to Jamaica—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: No, I am in Defence. I am talking about Defence.

The Chairman: All right.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I was part of the “INT” section and I was supposed to lead the troops out in the fields. Major Oogly [or] Captain Oogly, (you know who I am talking about) Oogly, I think his name is.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I think it is his name. We were camping, Mr. Chairman, [and] he camped the troops out in the open field.

I said, You are going to get us slaughtered. (I will never forget that night.) You are going to get us slaughtered. And at that time, Captain Burchall (I think it was Burchall) . . . no, a gentleman . . . I think it was Captain Burchall. [He] came in, and [he said], Kill all the soldiers. I said, Didn't I tell you? We are going to get killed! So that was one exercise. The second day, I am leading the troops through—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I was in Intelligence, yes, I told him.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I was in charge of them.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The second time I am leading the troops through the . . . I was ahead of them, you know, got my little gun, ducking and weaving all through the trees in Jamaica. I came across at that time, it was Colonel Raynor, had an ambush. I came back and told the troops—

[Laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: —told the troops, We have an ambush up ahead by Colonel Raynor. You know, because I spotted him. He still made us go through the exercise, made us go through the exercise. From there on, I left, I did not take it seriously anymore. I said, If you guys want to play cowboys and Indians, I am not into that game. You know, that was my job. I was supposed to lead you through.

Anyway, as the Permanent Secretary would know, our final assault at night, putting our feet all through that cow stuff, walking through the trees. I will never forget it . . . but it was beautiful time in Jamaica. The best time I found was at Jamaica recruit camp, [but] Camp Lejeune was as cold as anything. I will go to Jamaica anytime when it comes to the Regiment.

But getting back to the idea, I know what it is to be in the Regiment. In those days we had about, I think we were doing 400 or 600 a year, I cannot remember. It was not the numbers we had, everybody was out. In fact, Mr. Chairman, I was the marksman in recruit camp. I was the marksman in recruit camp.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Now, let me tell you how it happened.

[Laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I was the best marksman in recruit camp. I had my rifle on the range on the South Shore.

An Hon. Member: A water pistol.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Now, I had . . . check this out, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: I am listening. I am listening.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Chairman, I had . . . we were shooting balloons. I had one round left with two balloons. How is this going to work? Well, I know how to make twins, so I know how to take two out at one time.

[Laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: So for some reason or another, I must have hit the sand balloons, they busted. I won it, though. I won a competition. I can show the picture of Colonel Raynor giving me my medal. But that was . . . so I, I really enjoyed it. At that time I was still involved in politics and they allowed me off early to get to meetings, [in] those early days when . . . in the 1980 election, I forget, around that time.

But getting back—

The Chairman: Yes, let us get back to the—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: —to this, we have decreased our numbers. Still talking about Defence.

The Chairman: Yes.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am still talking about Defence. So we decreased our numbers over the time and I am hoping that the . . . I know they have done reports on how we will make this thing work in the Defence force.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: How do we . . . this is Head 6, Defence. I figured if everybody else is going all over the place, I might as well join them.

So how do we work with the numbers? Because we do need service individuals here, but I think conscription needs to be abolished. I personally support that, although I supported the Regiment when I was there and I still support it, but I think we can do it now off, kind of part [or] full-time, or full-time to a certain degree. I strongly believe it, whether it is people in the water, people doing other things, whatever. We need to move away from that and really take the stand to another level. So the numbers are down, and I am not sure what they are recruiting now, I think maybe a hundred to two hundred individuals per year. I think those are the numbers we are down to. So the budget number keeps on falling.

Now, I remember last time that we asked the question about the Colonel. Is the Colonel's salary included in this Budget? Because the last time I remember somebody saying that it was being paid for by the UK Government. Okay? But are there any other expenses paid by Head 8, Defence, that goes to the Colonel? Travel? Rental? Anything that comes out of this Budget that goes towards . . . or is the UK Government paying for everything? Okay? Because I know something and I just want to make sure that they . . . I hope I give the Premier enough time to answer that question. Is any money being spent by the Defence department on the Bermuda Regiment?

An Hon. Member: The Colonel.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The Colonel, sorry.

I understand that we have someone lined up . . . when will his term be up? You may have mentioned that, Premier. I cannot recall. But when is his time up? When is his time up?

The Chairman: February.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: It is up very early next year and we have a Bermudian in place.

We have a lot of qualified Bermudians who could do that post. I speak more to the Permanent Secretary because I know he is a soldier guy and he could have done it. My cousin, Furbert, who is up there now (I think), his assistant, he could have done it. There are Bermudians who . . . all these years we have Bermudians up there and all of a sudden we have to bring somebody in from the Middle East? What were they expecting?

The Chairman: Asia.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: That is the Middle East, isn't it?

What were they expecting? Right? Let us make sure that Bermudians are in place for all these top positions. For the Defence, we have got someone, Commissioner of Police now, and of course we have got somebody up there in Corrections.

Customs.

The Chairman: Yes.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman: Head 12?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, Head 12.

Mr. Chairman, I know that we are friendly Bermudians. We are friendly. When I was the Minister of Tourism, if there was ever . . . and I love . . . and it is not because . . . who has come back through the airport and they ask the question, Where have you been? What are you talking about? Where have I been? It is none of your business where I have been. It really is none of your business.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: There is no need for a Member coming back through the airport, that somebody checks, comes through that door and [asks], Where have you been? Well, one of my friends answered, they know what to answer. One of my friends told him a few things, and they did not like it. Well, not that they did not like it; but they were stung that he said it. But you should not be asking, Where have you been? I am back home. Let me through. You want to arrest me? Arrest me. But do not ask me where have I been and these types of things.

I have travelled to places. My friend and I have travelled to Costa Rica (the current Minister of Tourism) and other places. And let me tell you something, you speed through the airports so fast—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, yes, yes.

We speed through the airport very, very fast. But the slowest airport I know around, as far as people getting through—Jamaica has thousands of people coming through, the Bahamas has thousands of people—but we have a hundred people coming through and all of a sudden it takes an hour.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: You can wait outside. You can time it, Mr. Chairman. When they get off the plane, okay, I have an hour to wait. Plane landed, okay, an hour to wait. What are we . . . we are supposed to be welcoming . . . So I am hoping that the Minister of Tourism, the Minister of Economic Development, devises a plan, particularly when it comes to . . . there must be a way that we can do things better.

Everybody—I am not saying everybody considers . . . but that is a slow computer down at that airport, it is slow. If there is anything we change, change that. And I am not blaming the officers, but we have got some down there sitting, What are you doing? [And they say] Waiting for the computer.

What?

Change that thing! And I know that the Ministers go through another line. They get out the door fast. The Premier probably does not see it because he is right off the . . . he is not used to going through lines anymore.

But we need to find a way to clear up, or make that line down there [faster] for our tourists, because that is the first welcoming that our people get. When you are waiting in line, sweating, or whatever it is—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Sweating. We need to get the people through much [quicker]. I know we were setting up in particular for international business, I know we were working on something. I am hoping that the Minister—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Well, they must be slowing me up. You must put a special . . . the Honourable Member Grant Gibbons said that it is much faster now that they are Government. But they must be targeting me because they still go slow with me.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: So that is the first thing. The second thing, because we have to find ourselves . . . now, the Minister, I am sure the Honourable Michael Dunkley, the Premier, most Ministers would probably know that in the States they have these lines when you leave that you do not have to take off your jacket, you do not have to take off your belt. All right?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: That is right. Right.

And we were working on something to get it done also. I am just saying, maybe we need to . . . again, it is how do we make our customer feel welcome as they are leaving? Stop taking off all your clothes and just walking through, putting my hands up, in order . . . you know, there must be a better way. And we know it.

I do not care if we even charge a fee for it, for business people, for everybody. You get checked out by the police. You have a special card. The Honourable Michael Dunkley . . . I am not sure what he does, but former premiers have special treatment. Why?

Because they are the Premier. Okay? So why would they not think the Premier hasn't got something wrapped on him and we all do? Now we are going to blow up the plane, but the Premier is not going to blow up the plane.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: All I am saying is that . . . I am trying to give you some, some . . . I have talked to the Minister of Tourism before as the Minister of Transport. How do we find ways to make coming to Bermuda much more friendly? And when you leave, you feel like, I want to come back. That is all I am saying. I know that everybody has felt the same way I have, but no one is willing to take the bull by the horns and make it work. Nobody.

I even had to take my wallet out of my pocket when I was the Minister of Transport. All right? And, you know, I . . . Yes, you know . . . I take my belt . . . Look. Come on. There are certain things . . . and I remember when Dr. Brown was the Minister of Transport, and at that time I was with you fellows. (I will never forget it.) I said to Dr. Brown—

An Hon. Member: We will not forget either.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I said, Why don't we . . . Because at that time only Ministers could go in that special room. There is a room back there if you haven't all gone. And I said to the Premier, Can we all get the opportunity to go into that back room? They will know. I do not know whether all Members know they have access to it, unless these guys changed the policies. All right?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: That is the backroom for the private meeting room that we have in the back. It was a certain code that we all put in. All right?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: There is a room up top where you go. But you know something? I do not use it because I go in there by myself and who am I talking to? The TV. [And they] say we are having a meeting, so I stay outside and talk to—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, I talk to people in the area, you know. But there is a room up there that Members of Parliament can go to. I do not know whether the Premier or the Minister of Transport, who is responsible, has changed that policy. If he has not, then everybody should know. All new people should know that you have a number and there is a code.

Call the person on duty and they will give you a code. You go back there. There are some little drinks, sodas, and orange juice, and TV back there. You can lay back.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: You cut that out?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Television is there, though.

An Hon. Member: Budget cuts.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Television. Well, you can buy your coffee and go into the room and enjoy it. All I am saying is that you can; but it is very hard to get into that room with one person, by yourself. I mean, I do not know who goes into that room and says, Just let me look at the walls. Right? I must have been in that room, since Dr. Brown said . . . yes, probably about three times. But you know if you are by yourself you are not going to be going. But you would have had meetings with, the meetings you are travelling with—

The Chairman: We know that this is not about Customs. Right?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am talking about Customs.

The Chairman: This is not about Customs.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, it is about Customs because you are restricted. You are restricted.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes. You are restricted.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, this is about restrictions.

So all I am saying to you as far as . . . we have got to get to a place . . . and I believe that . . . because remember, people coming in will . . . and most people who are citizens of the country, Can I look at your passport? Welcome home, Wayne. I can go to Europe. You all have been there. I am not even . . . I got a British passport. Welcome home, Wayne. They do click, click, click, click, click, click, click, click. If they can do it up in the mother country, why can't we do it here?

Welcome home, Shawn. Welcome home, Burgess. Welcome.

Let me look at my computer.

For what? To see if I am on the stop list or something? Come on!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: And we both did it. But I am saying we have got to rise. We got to rise up to another level.

First of all, we are Members of Parliament, so none of us should be treated any differently, all among us is equal. You know how Cabinet works, all among us are equal. So there are certain things, I am not saying privileges, but there is a certain respect that we should have. Right?

And now all I am saying is that you find a fee for business people who are travelling. At that time I was talking to an international businessman. I am not going to tell you which one it is. They still exist. As a matter of fact, [they do] not exist, they merged here recently. And they were giving me some good advice, working on those things, but, you know, 2012 came and I was not able to implement some things. So I am just hoping that the Minister of Tourism, Minister of Transport, particularly under his post that is where it lies, and the Minister of National Security, and the Minister of Economic Development can get together and say, What can we do differently? Because I know you got caught up in your regular, mundane types of things. But you know something? There was a . . . we had a consultant once, and you guys may still have this same guy. You know, the guy we used to have. You may still have him. I do not know.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: And he said to me once, he was wondering why they were building buildings and were wondering why the people were upset, still upset because, I'm building hospitals. I'm building this. All they wanted off the street was the dogs. Get rid of the dogs. Because dogs were running wild on that particular island. Once they got rid of the dogs, they found the polls went up. We get caught up in a lot of things up here that a lot of people do not understand. All I am saying [is] that we need to get back down to here, some grass roots—I am talking about Police, Customs—

The Chairman: You are talking about Police? Oh, I see.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am talking about Police, Customs. I am talking Defence.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am not talking about chickens. We need to get people out there shooting those chickens.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: So we need to be dealing with . . . all I am saying is, Let's get back to basics on Customs. (And I am not talking about civil servants.) All I am saying is that the policies come through the Premier and his Cabinet and I . . . because I know some things that we worked on when we were there and I appreciate the Permanent Secretary. Like I said, the Permanent Secretary did an excellent job when we were there and pushed some things through for us because it made basic sense.

Do not come back and ask any Bermudians, What are you doing away? If you have . . . if you have something you want to arrest me for, because you think I was [away] doing something illegal, based on Bermuda laws, then arrest me on that. But do not ask me, What did you do? And I think most people can appreciate that.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Is there any other Member who wishes to speak on this?

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency . . . (I don't know) 11? The Honourable Member—

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Sixteen.

The Chairman: [Constituency] 16. Honourable Member Weeks, you have the floor.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Pembroke East Central.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I would like to start with the Police.

The Chairman: Yes.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: That is number—

The Chairman: Head 7.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Okay. That is Head 7. Let us start at Head 6.

The Chairman: [Head] 6?

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Yes.

The Chairman: Okay.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Now, I have a comment and a question. If it has already been answered, then you could direct me.

Like the Member who just sat down, Mr. Chairman, I too am a proud member of the Bermuda Regiment. I went in kicking and screaming, but when I got there I enjoyed it. But what I wanted to say is that I definitely agree with ending conscription.

Now, we have talked for some time now about how we go about making this a full-time force. I have made suggestions. Other Members have made suggestions, be it a maritime force, somehow a border control. The time has come in 2015 that we stop talking about and implement it.

We are looking for jobs for our Bermudians. We have been talking about jobs for the last two years. The Regiment, if we make that a full-time force . . . and we could go back and forth of how we are going to do it, or what we are going to have them do, [but] that is not my argument today. But if we use that vehicle to make it full-time, and we could have 100, 200, maybe 300 Bermudian men and women in that force and that would go a long way in alleviating some of the job stress.

Obviously, it would target a lot of our youngsters, who at this point in time, are having trouble finding employment. A lot would jump at the opportunity because the Regiment would not only train them in military training, but they would have a vehicle to get their proper education with the Bermuda College.

So having made that comment, I am going on to Head 7, which is—

The Chairman: Police.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Police. Head 7, Mr. Chairman, on B-276, line item 0702, Corporate Services.

I notice here that the percentage of Bermudian officers employed with the BPS (I do not know if that has been mentioned already), but I see 61 per cent. I do not know of any other island, a comparable island to us, which has such a large percentage of foreign police officers. That is 39 per cent foreign police officers. And, again, I would like to ask the Minister of National Security, the Premier, what is in place for us to, first of all, attract more Bermudians? And if [many] Bermudians are failing the intake exam, why? How can we change this percentage from 61 per cent Bermudian to 80 per cent, 85 per cent Bermudian?

Again, we need to be creative Mr. Chairman. We have ways of creating jobs, creating employment. And our Bermuda Police Service, which is 61 per cent Bermudian, is a good place to start. You know, I have nothing against a foreign officer. But I will venture to say that [if] we did a comparative study on other islands, that percentage of foreign workers, of foreign officers, is probably minimal. Minimal, at best. So I would like to challenge the Minister to see how we can go about putting a programme together to attract more Bermudianisation there in the Police Service.

Now, Mr. Chairman, real quick, I would like to go on to Head 88. This is really the one I stood up for. Head 88, National Drug Control.

The Chairman: Which page are you on?

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: [Page] 293, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Okay.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Mr. Chairman, page B-293

The Chairman: Yes.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Mr. Chairman, I would like to say right up front that I heard one of my colleagues mention that. I, like a former Member of this House, the Honourable Nelson Bascome, worked very closely with the NDC, the National Drug Commission. So it is near and dear to my heart.

[Crosstalk]

The Chairman: Proceed, Honourable Member.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Whip just needs to focus a bit more.

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: I do not mind seeing him walk down the red carpet, but that was all right.

But Mr. Chairman, what I am saying is, because I have worked with it so intimately, I think we have to understand that unemployment and the recession equate to higher drug and alcohol use, higher incidences of family breakup, higher incidences of crime with alcohol and drugs. So what I am saying is, we cannot look at this here in isolation. Right? Alcohol and drugs affects every family here in Bermuda. Most of us admit it. A lot of us try to mask it. But I am here to say that alcohol and/or drugs affect every family in Bermuda. And that also [causes] an increase in domestic violence.

So what I am here to say is, Mr. Chairman, I am trying to tie it in as far as the monies that we allocate to those agencies that help to address these situations is very critical. You have an organisation like the Men's Treatment Centre, that is government run, and even that facility is underfinanced, underfunded. And we know that we are scraping for money, but I think the importance of these organisations . . . I cannot state it enough.

A charity like Focus Counselling Service is considered on the front line of drug rehabilitation and relapse prevention. They operate on a shoestring budget. And over the years, Mr. Chairman, with the recession as it is charities, like Focus Counselling, have suffered. So they rely more and more on the Bermuda Government. So we cannot minimise the fact that organisations like the charity Focus Counselling, or the family centre, even the Women's Resource Centre, that all those charities [work] right in the heart and soul of our community. They are part of the community that a lot of people do not want to talk about. That is the drug and alcohol [problem] which creates domestic violence. And all of that is connected, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Yes.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: I have an interesting statistic. Just to make mention, because rather than just talk about problems, I have a solution that could help the Minister consider it.

Minister, I was doing some reading the other day in the BerDIN report—

The Chairman: Which report is that?

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: BerDIN [Bermuda Drug Information Network]. B-E-R-D-I-N. BerDIN report.

The Chairman: Okay.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Which is actually produced by the NDC (National Drug Commission).

I was reading there, Mr. Chairman, “Revenue from Alcohol Sales,” [that] in 2013, revenue from alcohol sales was $14,654,894.13. Revenue from alcohol in 2014 was $13,797,457.31. [This is] a grand total of $28,452,351.

Now, why did I say that? We are looking for revenue. We are looking for ways to help these organisations, like the Focus Counselling, like the Family Centre, like the Women’s Resource Centre. Believe it or not, those centres are indirectly, and sometimes directly, linked to alcohol and drugs, as a result of alcohol and drugs.

In the Budget Statement last week I heard the Minister of Finance speak of looking at various ways to get revenue through taxes. My suggestion is that we must look at these organisations that are definitely on our front line. These kinds of organisations are in places that a lot of us do not want to talk about and try to avoid, thinking that it is going to go away.

But they are desperate. And if they do not get the proper support and funding, they will close and perish. But what happens to those clients that they are there to try and help and support? Some people say, Oh, well, it is their choice to go on drugs and/or alcohol. What I am talking about is past that. It is past that, and that is the reality that we have to address.

Again, it reminds me that there is two Bermuda’s, Mr. Chairman. It is that section of Bermuda that when they get caught up in drugs and/or alcohol, they could go away to rehabilitation centres. But this class of Bermudian, with low income, the class of Bermudian that cannot go away. So this is where Focus is doing things, and the Family Centre, and Women’s Resource Centre, those kind of agencies, Mr. Chairman, who is really on our front line.

In saying all of that, I am saying that we have relook at creative ways to help these organisations. And as I take my seat, I would like to ask the Minister to consider taxing the alcohol industry. And we can use some of those monies and invest into relapse prevention and rehabilitation.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Is there any other Member who wishes to speak on this debate?

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Premier then, and the Minister responsible.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I have enough questions. I do not know if I can understand my writing.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I thank my honourable colleagues for participation in this debate this afternoon and the 63 questions that I was asked. Let me try to answer and—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: No, it was not 63; I just made that number up.

First, in regard to the Honourable Shadow Member, Mr. Roban, I will try to answer some of his questions. I will just go through the various heads, one by one.

In regard to Ministry Headquarters on B-265, Advertising and Promotion, an increase of $26,000 to $50,000. This was devoted to the Interagency Task Force, the call-in which we are putting together. The programme that we ran on “If you know something, say something” and to great materials to use in the programme in the school.

In regard to B-263, again Ministry of National Security, the Honourable Member asked in regard to the increase of funding for the Ministry Headquarters of $1,195,000 to $1,426,000 for the current fiscal year. I covered that in my brief, but just to give a bit more of an explanation, that is specifically as it relates to the EMD (electronic monitoring devices). That programme was transferred over to the Ministry and the budgeting was not put in the Ministry at that time.

For the edification of the Honourable Member and Members of this House, and the listening public, the programme functions amongst a number of different departments: Bermuda Police Service, the courts (Probation and Parole), and it has been quite effective in what we believe is helping to reduce the prison population numbers. Up until a few years ago when we did not have the programme, individuals had to be incarcerated. But now for less serious offences, individuals can be released on police bail, can be released on probation, [and] the courts can put a tag on them and they can be accounted in that way.

It has been quite effective; in fact, there have been stories (maybe it wasn't this year, but late last year) where the number of devices we had in the programme had been used up and there were four individuals waiting to come out of prisons that did not have access to those devices. So we are looking at ways to do two things. First, access the need for more of those devices to be used. Secondly, and perhaps more importantly, Mr. Chairman, is to make sure that those devices are used in appropriate cases, not just be used on offenders who might not even need a device. Because, Member, the devices are not cheap, and that technology costs some money. But we feel it has been a very effective programme and so that was the increase in the Ministry there.

In regard to Cash Back [for] Communities, Honourable Member—

The Chairman: What page are you referring to?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I am referring to Headquarters again. In regard to the question about money put out to Cash Back [for] Communities. It was $243,000 in the fall of last year: Family Centre, Team Street Safe, North Village Community Club, PHC [Pembroke Hamilton Club], and Focus. The funding was taken with approval of Cabinet colleagues from the Confiscated Assets Fund when funds were available. And Honourable Members are also aware that funding out of Confiscated Assets Fund can be used for the FIA [Financial Intelligence Agency] and other regulatory agencies.

In regard to a question about the full implementation of Operation Ceasefire, let me be clear that Operation Ceasefire is a programme to stop the shooting, or to reduce the shooting. It is a comprehensive programme that steps have been put in place going back for a couple of years now. Perhaps the most well-known feature of that programme is the call-in programme. It has been deemed . . . our opinion over the past couple of years is that the call-in programme was not necessary or appropriate to do until we had a total Operation Ceasefire programme in place, which calls for front-end activation enforcement by the police and the back end to keep people out of that lifestyle. We are now working on the Bermuda-style call-in part of the Operation Ceasefire and I refer to that in my Budget Brief, again, on page 9.

That will be used at the appropriate time to have better impact on what we are trying to do. I will come back to that a little bit later as I talk about the police in some of the answers [to questions] that Honourable Members asked in that regard.

Parole is virtually complete now within the Ministry of National Security, and, as I said in my brief, functioning very well. The Honourable Member, MP Bascome, sits on that board. He knows the work that is involved and I give them credit. They take that job very seriously and they do a commendable job in what they do.

Team Street Safe, there was some questions asked about that. Team Street Safe has been successfully funded by the Government and also by the private sector. [There has been] $100,000 put in by the private sector over the past couple of years, each year. We anticipate in the next financial year we will still continue to get support from the private sector. We are very gratified in the Ministry of National Security that we do have this support to supplement the programme which has had a good impact with our total programme that we are trying to do to curb the shooting and stop the shooting.

The question in regard to the National Disaster Planner. That will take effect on June 1st. That was the recommendation that the Government adopted from the National Security and Defence Review. In conversations with the Commissioner of Police, over the past few months, myself and the Permanent Secretary have come to an agreement with the commissioner that on June 1st, hurricane season, we will have that individual on board. Right now they are reviewing the appropriate people for that position.

There was a question asked about attendance of police officer's at accidents. By law, there is no requirement for police officers to be at accidents where there is no injury. What we are trying to do is streamline the process because, obviously, if you and I, Mr. Chairman, get into a small fender bender, and there is no injury, one of us—or both of us—is going to call somebody to make sure that you are getting the insurance claim you need, or I am getting the insurance claim I need. We do not need to waste valuable police resources to do that type of thing. So the police are looking at other options to try to make sure that works. We will take about that more in the coming months.

In regard to Maritime Controls, and this spans not only Ministry Headquarters, but there were comments that [were] touched on in regard to the police and the Regiment as well. We will continue with the current policy and programmes within the Bermuda Police Service. Also, supported by the Regiment, as I think Honourable Members will be aware during the busy boating season, we have seen patrols supplemented with the Regiment working hand-in-hand with the police to get a better and more effective patrol out there.

Clearly, this is a budget constraint that we have. The current programme works quite effectively and based on our desire to use resources efficiently and the lack of new money that is available in the budget going forward, this is something we will continue to look at with, and it is still our intention to look at implementation when we can find the resources to do it. The Regiment is keen to work with us in that regard. Thanks to the Bermuda Police Service for continuing on, and for their efforts to try to find out a better programme that can be worked with within the Bermuda Regiment.

A question was asked by the Honourable Member on the number of Cabinet papers within the Ministry of National Security. I do not want to say too much about this because all Cabinet Ministers work very hard, but the Ministry of National Security is a very, very hard-working Ministry as well. And there is an average of about five Cabinet papers a month from the Ministry of National Security.

Turning to Head 6, Defence. Our junior leaders, yes, unfortunately, the funding has to be withdrawn because of the need to get on top of spending and work on appropriate ways to reduce the deficit. However, the programme will still continue. Full-time staff will be looked at to see if they will volunteer their time and will work the programme through the school. But it is our initiative to try to continue with the programme and when funding becomes available, we will put it back into that. The Honourable Member has hit the nail right on the head. A few years back the programme struggled a little bit. We built it back up again. The aim of the programme is not only to grow and mature our young people, but also to try to find members from the junior leaders who will naturally progress into the Regiment. That has never really taken that much seed at this point, and so that is one of areas, as we look at how to improve the effectiveness of the programme, getting members into the Regiment, we will have to look at as we go forward.

[Line item] 16050, under Defence [Head 6], there has been no allocation for a number of years and it could come out of the Budget Book. I take the Honourable Member's comments about more efficient use technology to save energy. It does cost money, but across government we will be looking at ways to do that.

In regard to the Recruit Camp, I am pleased to see that the Honourable Members who attended the recruit camp thought it was a good experience and they were comforted by what was taking place. We feel very comfortable that we can reach the numbers of 80 volunteer recruits for the next recruit camp in 2016. We will still be able to offer some incentives in there and the current commanding officer will work extremely hard to get those numbers. It has been very successful over the past couple of years.

The Shadow Minister expressed his support of the Regiment and certainly that is heartening to see. The commanding officer changes in, I believe, January 2016 and the new officer will be on the ground before then to assure a seamless transition. In regard to the salary of the commanding officer, mentioned by the Honourable Member from constituency 6, I think colleagues will be aware that when the arrangements were made for the commanding officer who came with a great deal of experience, the Government agreed to pay the standard commanding officer's salary from the Defence Head. Any extras comes from Government House or the UK.

In regard to getting rid of conscription. It is still an item that this Government will continue to work toward. But we have to understand and accept, and as the Honourable Member from constituency 16 said, Let's have a full-time force of 100, or 200, or 300. Well, that is fine, but over here we authorise cheques to be signed and if we put in a full-time force next year that would be funding that would have to come from somewhere. So we want to do it in an appropriate way. And that is why we are looking at increasing the volunteers over time, so at the appropriate time we will have a fully volunteer force where conscription will not have to be used. I think we are making impressive headway. This camp more than half of the recruits volunteered and all of the reports that I got showed that recruit camp was very effective.

Mr. Chairman, in regard to Police, Head 7, on the numbers—

The Chairman: Honourable Premier, you have about five minutes left.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I am on question 37, so I am just about halfway through.

Head 7, Police. How were the numbers arrived at? The actual number is correct, 436, 91 and 13. That 540 number is correct. The Budget Book will be out a bit here because this is a real-time number as of last week: Police officers, 436; administrative staff, 91; cadets, 13.

Now, how is this number arrived at? In the Ministry of National Security, we meet on a regular basis with the commissioner of police and the deputy commissioner and, as we go through the budgetary process, I have always taken the approach, Okay, tell us what you need and we will discuss how we get there.

For example, in the last budget process we went through the commissioner came with three options: (a) which is golden; (b) which will work; and (c) which [he said] I could live with but it is not going to work very well. We took the (b) number at 436 and funded those and the commissioner will work with those. We will do our best to get to the budget number we have. I think the past couple of years we have gotten there.

The numbers before really are not an accurate reflection. The commissioner is comfortable with the 436 officers on the ground, and that is what we funded this year, that is what we funded last year, and that is what we funded the year before. So forget about all the other numbers that might have been out there. Forget about the 477 that could go up to that level. We are not considering—

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes. But at this point in time 436 uniformed officers is what the commissioner is comfortable with. Now, everybody would love to have to more staff and more money, but this is not the time and place to talk about that.

In regard to Crime Stats, stats are publicised every six months, so the second and fourth quarter. The commissioner has informed me this afternoon that within a month the crime stats for the fourth quarter will be . . . well, he will have a press conference and put them up on the website.

In regard to satisfaction of the BPS [Bermuda Police Service] and the 65 per cent rate. Of course, we want to push it higher and they are going to do that through their objectives: tackling crime and anti-social behaviour, engaging in the community, and improving road safety.

In regard to CCTV, the Honourable Member asked numbers about what has been paid. The contract, once the system is 80 [per cent] or 85 per cent installed is for $111,000 per month. That includes equipment, maintenance, and monitoring. At the present time, we are paying $48,000 a month (I will be happy to give you the numbers afterwards), and that includes monitoring and the rental of the fibre optic rental cabling. So the money is being saved because we are not to the level where we have to pay the full contract.

In regard to further capabilities of the system, yes, ShotSpotter, all those types of things, can be put on the system. But they will require additional funding because the system was not set up for a ShotSpotter or anything like that. But they can be added. So we are looking at options down the road on what we will want to take a look at.

The three types of cameras that you referred to, a combination of fixed cameras? One that just points one way in one direction; the pan, tilt and zoom, where the camera can go anywhere and do what it has to do; and the automatic licence plate recognition cameras. [There would be] 150 cameras in 85 locations.

In regard to [line item] 17050, Child Victim Unit. All of that has been in CID [Criminal Investigation Department] for a couple of years and there is no change in the number of officers and the expertise they have, they are all in that one department, and they give their advice.

The percentage of non-Bermudians in the Police Service, I take that point. I think Honourable Members will be aware that if you go back 10 years and more, it was very difficult to attract the police. But over the past couple of years, especially with the downturn in the economy, it has not been that difficult to attract people to come to the police. We have worked hard to have the recruit programmes we need and they have all been Bermudians coming in. So we will see that number go in the other direction.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: In regard to Corrections

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I did not say “lobotomy.” I said “phlebotomy.”—

The Chairman: Honourable Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Inward veins.

The Chairman: Honourable Premier. You are not going to be able to get to the rest of the questions.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: All right. How much time do I have?

The Chairman: None.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Okay. Well, let us move the heads because I could talk night. I enjoy talking about National Security and how we work for the people. [I could talk] all night, but if you want to cut me off now, I will do that, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Just following the rules, Honourable Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you.

Mr. Chairman, with that I ask to move the following heads [under] National Security. Head 83, Ministry of National Security, HQ; Head 6, Defence; Head 7, Police; Head 12, Customs; Head 13, Post Office; Head 25, Department of Corrections; Head 45, Fire Service; and Head 88, National Drug Control.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Premier.

It has been moved that those heads be approved. Are there any objections to those heads being approved?

None.

Agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Ministry of National Security, Heads 83, 6, 7, 12, 13, 25, 45, and 88 were approved and stand part of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the year 2015/16.]

The Chairman: Honourable Premier?

[Pause]

The Chairman: Or Minister of Finance, either.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Chairman, I ask that we rise and report progress, and sit again on Wednesday, [4 March 2015].

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Committee rise and report progress and ask for leave to sit again.

Are there any objections to this motion?
There are none.
Agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Committee of Supply agreed to rise and report progress, and sought leave to sit again.]

House resumed at 8:22 pm

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE 2015/16

[The Committee of Supply agreed to rise and report progress, and sought leave to sit again.]

ORDERS OF THE DAY

The Speaker: Honourable Members, from what I have been made to understand, Orders 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23, those Orders will be carried over.

The Orders that would like to be taken up this evening are Orders 2, 4, 9, and 10. There has been a request that we do Orders 9 and 10 first, and then go back to Order 2 and then Order 4.

Are there any objections to that?

Some Hon. Members: No.

The Speaker: Okay. Honourable Members, we will look at Order No. 9 first, which is the Corporate Services Tax Amendment Act 2015, in the name of the Minister of Finance.

The Chair will recognise the Minister of Finance, E. T. Richards. You have the floor.

BILL

SECOND READING

CORPORATE SERVICES TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.
Mr. Speaker, I would ask the that this Honourable House give consideration to the Bill entitled the Corporate Services Tax Amendment Act 2015.

The Speaker: Are there any objections to that?
Carry on, please.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, sir.

This Bill provides for a revenue-raising measure in support of Government's 2015/16 Budget. Mr. Speaker, Honourable Members will recall that in the 2015/16 National Budget Government announced it will increase the corporate services tax rate. The tax will be raised from 6 per cent to 7 per cent to achieve additional revenue of about $1 million.

Mr. Speaker, corporate services tax, which was introduced on April 1st, 1995, is charged on a local service provider on the gross fee earned charged to an exempted undertaking for taxable corporate services provided during each tax period. This tax is charged under the authority of the Corporate Services Tax Act 1995. The tax is charged at a rate of 6 per cent now to be raised to 7 per cent and is payable quarterly.

Currently, there are approximately 61 service providers registered at the Office of the Tax Commissioner. Most, if not all, of these entities should be positioned to contribute their fair share of taxes without undue hardship as the gross fee earned revenue generated in this sector in 2013/14 was approximately $78 million.

Mr. Speaker, Government has tried to be balanced and fair, taking into consideration the situation that we must face as we try to reduce the deficit. Indeed, while the community would prefer that taxes not be increased, most understand the current fiscal situation and there is an appreciation that this has to be done on the road to consolidation. There is no question that the demand for government services is increasing along with the pressing requirement to reduce the deficit. The propose change in this rate will assist in providing some additional revenue that is required to satisfy the expanding needs of our community and reduce the deficit.

In particular, increased revenue will be used primarily to pursue key objections of government, such as improving educational outcomes for the public school system, creating safe neighbourhoods, providing affordable health care, and expanding investments for growth in infrastructure. All of these are areas which the Bermuda community has identified as being critical and this budget is focused on the ultimate funding of these key areas.

The Government recognises that this increase may not be popular in some quarters. However, as Bermuda is a premier of financial services jurisdiction, in order to provide the level of service, the level of sophistication, and our positioning in the global economy, it is necessary to maintain our operational standards, and, more importantly, our financial independence.

With those introductory remarks, Mr. Speaker, I would now like to read for the second time, the Bill entitled the Corporate Services Tax Amendment Act 2015.

The Speaker: Okay. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Any other Honourable Member care to speak?

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from Hamilton West, constituency 6, MP Wayne Furbert. You have the floor.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

This particular Act in 1995, I remember like it was just yesterday because I remember at that time there were many service providers that were complaining about this. I think that at that time it was Dr. David Saul, was the Minister. So I remember the loud outcry from that particular sector.

It will be interesting to know, not actually who they are, but what is the spread as far as what is the highest any particular service provider pays to the smallest, whether the Minister does have that number. So, let's say, service provider "A" pays (I don't know) $100,000, where the smallest one may pay $1,000. It would be interesting to know whether the Minister has that range for the service providers.

As the Minister said, no one likes to pay increases. The last increase in this particular . . . I cannot . . . What did you say? Was that last year?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Last year.

So we have basically been increasing this over the years. I am not sure whether (and I remember the debate last year) this has any impact on where the service provider puts their business because the actual amount is charged on corporate secretarial service, or management service, and so on. Does corporate service provider "A," . . . because where is that point where management within in that service decides, particularly if they have offshore jurisdiction, do they place it in Bermuda? Because I am going to be taxed another 1 per cent and so did we lose, are we going to lose . . . is that it? Are we losing our . . . what is the word I am looking for?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, competitive advantage.

Where is that breaking point where they say, Nope, I am going to place my business down in Cayman [Islands] or I am going to place my business in the Bahamas, or wherever? I do not know whether I heard the Minister say that some people do not like it. That means that some people called it. That is what it really means. Minister, I do not like . . . you know what is interesting? No one has called . . . if they have not called maybe the service has already been moved. But that has to be in their planning.

In the olden days, and I will use the two particular larger law firms when their business was only in Bermuda (but now that they have corporate offices all around the world), they decide . . . and they have. They have made decisions. I know when I was Minister of Economic Development, they decided to place some business in a jurisdiction, and I think it was Cayman [Islands] at the time, before they placed it in Bermuda, because we did not have something in place. And I know that the Minister who came on under me, Grant Gibbons, had to do air craft . . . I think it was air craft register, or something at that time. But it was a change that we were putting in place and I know the Minister was bringing it forward after and hoped that it was picked up.

But these are the concerns I have. Will [we] lose a dollar because we are trying to get increase 1 per cent? And that is the balancing act that any Minister of Finance has to do. In other words, does the service provider continue to look from now on, every year, Well, they may hit me next year. Because I can guarantee, somewhere down the line, some of us may still be here, somewhere down the line this will be 10 per cent. Taxes hardly go down. They give me no concessions on these types of things. And whether the Minister starts, like I said, by doing this, chases business away and hence, unemployment increases. That is an interesting scenario.

Like I said, I know the Minister has to find a way to do it . . . but I would have probably . . . I do not know. Unless he has some numbers and talked to them, where we are going, but it is here. We support the increase with some reservations on this part on whether it will drive business away and we will have to monitor it all the time.

Last year . . . let me see, last year we did . . . well, interesting, 2013 we did $4.6 million. Now, I am not saying this because of the service provider. It could be because we lost the business. This is in the Budget Book, page 32, in 2014, they budgeted for $4.5 million; revised is $4.5 [million]. Which I doubt, it is not going to . . . I doubt it will actually end up the same amount, the revised and the budget. That means they would have to be had been exceptionally talented in predicting that number. But yet, now they are going up to $5.4 million.

So when the actual comes out next year, will that number be down $4.5 [million]? And have we lost that because of the situation? The Minister is budgeting for it to gain, hopefully, a million dollars, a 21 per cent increase over last year. If we get it, good. If we do not get it, then we have to look at . . . and the Minister has talked about looking into other ways at raising revenue and other means. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Any other Honourable Member care to speak?

Then I will revert back to the Minister, Minister Richards.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I have been informed by an authoritative source that it was two years ago that we raised the rate on this tax. And two years ago it was the first time it had been raised for a long, long time. We do not have the information on the spread of taxpayers, although I think I can safely say the market is dominated by a small number of very large players who are known to (I am sure) the Honourable Member and most people in the Chamber. There are a few very large players and a number of smaller ones. But that is about all the information I could give on that.

We do not think that this raise in rates is going to have . . . it is going to sort of act as a clearing price, which is what you're wondering about. I do not think you are suggesting it, but you are wondering, Honourable Member, if it could be a clearing price, which is a price at which everybody just takes off. The market for corporate services in Bermuda has become more complicated than it used to be. The Honourable Member is right when he says that a lot of the major players now have offices in other offshore jurisdictions. I think to counter that I can safely say that my colleague, the Minister of Economic Development and the BDA are working very hard to get more corporate services' business in Bermuda. Company corporations are up. They have been relatively strong, so we think that the efforts that we are making to build up new offshore business in Bermuda, in particular the funds business, will help us reach the goal that we are seeking to attain here with this tax.

So those are all my remarks on this, Mr. Speaker. I would now like to move that the Bill be committed.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

Any objections to that?

If there are none, then the Bill will be committed and I ask that the Deputy Speaker, please take the Chair [of Committee].

COMMITTEE ON BILL

CORPORATE SERVICES TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Chairman: Honourable Members, we are now in Committee of the whole [House] for further consideration of the Bill entitled Corporate Services Tax Amendment Act 2015.

I call on the Minister in charge to proceed. Minister, you have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, I would like to move clauses 1 through 3.

The Chairman: Please proceed.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you.

Clause 1 is self-explanatory.

Clause 2 amends section 4 of the Corporate Services Tax Act 1995 to increase the rate of corporate services tax from 6 per cent to 7 per cent of gross earned revenue.

Class 3 provides for commencement on April 1st, 2015.

The Chairman: Are there any Members that would like to speak to clauses 1 through 3?

There are no Members.
Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I therefore would like to move clause 1 through 3.

The Chairman: It has been moved that clauses through 3 be approved as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?
No objection.
Agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: Clauses 1 through 3 passed.]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I would like to move the Preamble.

The Chairman: It was moved that the Preamble be approved as printed.

Any objections to that motion?
No objections.
Agreed to.

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I would like to move that the Bill be reported to the House as printed.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Bill be reported to the House as printed.

Any objections to that motion?
No objections.
Agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Corporate Services Tax Amendment Act 2015 was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed without amendment.]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

CORPORATE SERVICES TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Speaker: Honourable Members, the Corporate Services Tax Amendment Act 2015 has been approved.

Any objections to that?

None.

We will now move on to the next Order which is Order No. 10, Temporary Loans (Repeal) Act 2015 in the name of the Minister of Finance.

I recognise again, the Minister of Finance. You have the floor.

BILL

SECOND READING

TEMPORARY LOANS (REPEAL) ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I move that the Bill entitled the Temporary Loans (Repeal) Act 2015, which has been recommended by the Governor be now presented to the House and read a second time.

The Speaker: Any objections to that?

Carry on, Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, the Temporary Loans Act 1973 provides for the Minister of Finance's authority to borrow money on a short-term basis. The Act sets the tenure of loans raised under this legislation to no more than 15 months. Currently, the maximum amount may be borrowed under this facility is 10 per cent of the Estimates of Expenditure approved for the current financial year.

Mr. Speaker, it should be noted that the Temporary Loans Act was drafted in 1973, it was actually before the Government Loans Act 1978. The Temporary Loans Act requires any loan raised under it to be paid off within 15 months. The 1973 Act was clearly drafted at a time when there was minimal, or no, government debt, much different from today's circumstances of high debt levels. As currently drafted, the Temporary Loans Act 1973 is in conflict with the Government Loans Act 1978, section 2A of this Act actually provides the Minister of Finance with the authority to borrow in such manner and on such terms and conditions as may be agreed with the lenders, provided the overall borrowing does not exceed $2.5 billion. This provision is clearly in conflict with the Temporary Loans Act 1973 which restricts the Minister of Finance to certain forms of borrowing classified—

The Speaker: One minute.

Honourable Members, I would prefer it if I did not see Honourable Members' backs. Honourable and Learned Member, I would love to . . . yes, right. I would appreciate it if you . . . That's right.

Carry on.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

This provision is clearly in conflict with the Temporary Loans Act 1973 which restricts the Minister of Finance to certain forms of borrowing classified as temporary loans. Restricting the amount that the Minister can borrow on a short-term basis could prevent the Government from raising necessary financing to meet its obligations. This is especially true during times when international capital markets used to raise long-term debt becomes dysfunctional, as was the case during the financial crisis in 2008, 2009, and 2010, when it was virtually impossible to borrow for any period over a year.

Mr. Speaker, the Bill brought forward today seeks to resolve this conflict between the Temporary Loans Act 1973 and the Government Loans Act 1978 by repealing the former Act as it no longer serves any valid purpose. Moving forward, all borrowings will be governed by the Government Loans Act.

With these brief introductory remarks, Mr. Speaker, I would now like to read this Bill, entitled Temporary Loans [(Repeal) Amendment Act 2015], a second time.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

Is there any other Honourable Member who cares to speak?

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from Hamilton West, constituency 6, MP Wayne Furbert. You have the floor.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I do not see any problem with what the Minister is doing. It clearly shows there is a conflict somewhere along the line. I wonder why it took us all so long to recognise this particular . . . Did you say the Governor recommended this? Or did he pick it up? I mean . . .

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, but I am sure it was us that picked it up, somebody in the civil service picked this up I am assuming.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I cannot imagine the Governor looking through all the books looking for . . .

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: This is the only thing. I heard that part but, in theory, I mean, it just makes sense. Really, like you said, 1978 really knocks 1973 out of the ballpark, so we no problem with this, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Any other Honourable Member care to speak? Minister Richards?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, to answer the Honourable Member's question, I do not know why it took this long. But it is high time we did. In many ways it is just house-keeping.

So, Mr. Speaker, I would move that the Bill be read a second time and committed.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

It has been moved that the Bill be read a second time and committed.

Any objections to that?

None. The Bill will be committed.

I ask the Deputy Speaker to take the Chair [of Committee].

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, this Bill seeks to repeal the Temporary Loans Act 1973. I now move clauses 1 through 3.

The Chairman: Please proceed.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Clause 1 is self-explanatory.

Clause 2 repeals the Temporary Loans Act 1973, the provisions of which are in conflict with the Government Loans Act 1978, and makes a consequential amendment to section 12(3) of the Government Loans Act 1978.

Clause 3 provides for the commencement date of 1 April 2015.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any Members that would like to speak to clauses 1 through 3?

There are no Members.

Minister, please proceed.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Therefore, Madam Chairman, I move clauses 1 through 3.

Are there any objections?

There are none.

We will move now to the next Order of the Day, which would be Order No. 2, which is consideration of the Hotels Concession (Pink Beach Hotel) Order 2014, in the name of the Minister of Tourism Development and Transport.

The Chair recognises the Honourable and Learned Member, the Member from constituency 31, Minister of Tourism Development and Transport. Minister Crockwell, you have the floor.

ORDER

HOTELS CONCESSION (PINK BEACH HOTEL) ORDER 2014

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, I move that consideration be given to draft regulations entitled the Hotels Concession (Pink Beach Hotel) Order 2014, proposed to be made by the Minister of Tourism Development and Transport under the provision of section 4 of the Hotels Concession Act 2000.

The Speaker: Any objections to that?
Minister, please carry on.

AMENDMENT TO TITLE

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, before I proceed I would like to move that the Hotels Concession (Pink Beach Hotel) Order be amended. I would just like to amend the citation by amending the title of the Bill and the citation in paragraph 1 by substituting the following: Hotels Concession (Pink Beach Hotel) Order 2015.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.
Any objections to that, Members?
There are none.
Please carry on, Minister.

[Amendment passed]

HOTELS CONCESSION (PINK BEACH HOTEL) ORDER 2015

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, the Order before this Honourable House relates to the Pink Beach Hotel.

Honourable Members will be reminded that the aim of the Hotels Concession Act 2000 is to improve the overall tourism product by affording tax relief to hoteliers who reinvest in their property through development. The Concession Act was also designed to encourage the full development of new and existing properties and this is the category in which the new Pink Beach Hotel falls.

The former Pink Beach Club has long been synonymous with the historic success of Bermuda's tourism industry when it opened its doors in 1947 as a 13-acre oceanfront cottage colony. The property represented the very best of Bermuda's golden years of a thriving tourism industry. It was the winner of many top awards of excellence over the years. It truly was an iconic hotel with instant worldwide recognition.

Mr. Speaker, Honourable Members are also very familiar with the well-documented decline of the tourism industry starting in the early 1980s. The Pink Beach Club did not escape this decline and struggled with the declining quality of product, as well as experiencing difficult financial circumstances. The hotel was put into receivership in 2010, and closed its doors on August 31st, 2013.

The Pink Beach Club was purchased in early 2014 by Sardis Developments Ltd, as subsidiary of C12 Global Investments Ltd, founded by the CEO Mr. Stephen King as a Bermuda exempted company in November of 2011. This purchase was for $12.75 million and has already started redevelopment using private resources.

The owner/developer plans a further investment of $42 million in constructing the 40-room hotel and seven luxury condominiums configured to allow use as hotel rooms on the western lot and a private residence with a groundkeeper's cottage and two luxury guest cottages on the eastern lot. Thirty-five million dollars of the construction spend will be invested directly into the hotel building, spa, changing rooms, infinity pool, tennis courts, operating facilities, and condos which are configured to allow use as hotel rooms, and $6 million will be spent on the private residence and cottages.

Mr. Speaker, Sardis Development Ltd. intends to bring back the intimacy and charm intrinsic in the scale of the original hotel, while at the same time giving their guests every modern convenience with an emphasis on personal attention to detail and discreet and flawless service. This new hotel will be spread over approximately 7.64 acres of hotel property. It is intended that the hotel will be open for business in April of 2016 as a new luxury boutique resort containing 34 rooms and six two-bedroom rooms. Each room will be extremely generous at approximately 750 square feet each, with 10-foot ceiling, and 15-foot spans. This will be as many rooms as were available in the last year of the former Pink Beach Club and will be considerably larger, more luxurious, and hopefully create a new gold standard for Bermuda.

The owner/developer commits to making a private residence and guest cottages available as hotel inventory for a minimum of five years from the hotel's opening date, and not less than six months in each of those five years. In addition, the seven luxury condominiums have 21 bedrooms between them and the new owners will have an option to rent any or all of their condos back into the hotel's inventory when available. In fact, we are made to understand that any unsold condominium will be utilised as hotel inventory for the America's Cup events.

Mr. Speaker, the developer plans to employ between 80 and 100 construction positions with the majority of these jobs being held by Bermudians. Pink Beach Hotel estimates that 50 to 80 long-term, full-time hospitality positions will become available, half of which will be held by Bermudians and offer some employment opportunities to students.

Mr. Speaker, this Order provides concessions relief in the amount not to exceed $7.59 million over the period of five years, which is calculated on the projected capital redevelopment expenditure of $42 million. This commitment is important as it is consistent with creating an environment that will encourage, promote and attract investments in new hotel developments. In addition, it is critical and in line with this Government's strategy to development the tourism product and assist with defraying the exorbitant cost of maintaining such an infrastructure. It is also needed to sustain Bermuda's tourism for future generations.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I will now go on and explain the clauses of the Order.

The Speaker: Thanks. Yes.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, again, this is the Hotels Concession Order under section [4]of the Hotels Concession Act 2000 in respect of the Pink Beach Hotel redevelopment deemed to be in the national economic interest of Bermuda.

Clause 1 is the standard citation clause.

Clause 2 is the interpretation clause. Honourable Members are invited to take note that the developer's application submitted under section 3 of the Act, defines the hotel's redevelopment as (a) new luxury rooms, (b) new luxury spa facility and infinity pool, (c) new lobby and reception areas, (d) new heart of the house, kitchen, and laundry, (e) new landscaping, (f) new state-of-the-art information technology system.

Clause 3 sets out the developer's entitlement to concessions. Clause 3(1)(a), full relief from customs duty until a year after the hotel's opening date; 3(1)(b), full exemption from land tax for five years up to the amount not exceeding $105,977 in each year of the assessment; 3(1)(c) (Hotel Occupancy Tax I) refers to a full exemption for hotel occupancy tax for five years. This relief will be based on the total amount expended on marketing the hotel up to an amount not exceeding $1.2 million in the first year of the assessment and up to the amount not exceeding $1 million in the remaining four years of the assessment.

Clause 3(1)(d) (Hotel Occupancy Tax II). This relief is directly related to a full exemption from hotel occupancy tax for five years for the hotel, equal to 100 per cent of the amount expended by the hotel on entertainment provided by Bermudian entertainers up to an amount not exceeding $250,000 in each year of the assessment.

Clause 3(1)(e)—payroll tax relief for five years. This relief is directly related to a full exemption from the employer's share of payroll tax equal to the amount expended for training Bermudian employees up to an amount not exceeding $120,000 in each year of the assessment.

Clause 4 sets out the terms and conditions required for the developer to qualify for the various concessions. Applications are provided with guidelines which set out these conditions.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Shadow Minister of Tourism from Southampton East, constituency 29, MP Zane De Silva.

You have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, it is unfortunate that the Minister did not give a copy of his brief because he gave a lot more detail in his brief than . . . well, he did not even have an Explanatory Memorandum, which would have been nice, which, I guess, would have been the same as his brief.

Notwithstanding, Mr. Speaker, I do not see any issue with these concessions. In fact, I welcome them. I applaud the Minister. I do. Because if you look at the concessions and the time frames and the money expended, I think it is a good thing. So, Minister, I do not have any issues with it, outside of I certainly would not mind getting that brief you read before you got into the actual legislation itself.

The only thing I would ask, and make sure that the Minister is aware, is that the owner has subdivided some of that property for his private home. I hope that none of these concessions are looped in with his house.

I do not know if you know that or not, but I would certainly make note of it. And if you are aware of it, hopefully, that is not included in this because I certainly think that owner can afford it and any concessions that are for the hotel, or any related cottages, or any development whatsoever, [we] have no issue with that. But we just want to make sure that with regard to his private home, which he subdivided . . . and, of course, I am sure you are aware of the beach that . . . the best part of the beach he is taking that away from the residents as well, and they are not happy about that.

So if we could just make sure that these concessions do not, for that particular house, I am sure that he is going to do some additions, that they are not included in these concessions.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: So, if we can just make sure that these concessions do not, for that particular house, I am sure that he is going to do some additions, that they are not included in these concessions.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Would any other Honourable Member care to speak? The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from Hamilton West, constituency 6. MP Wayne Furbert, you have the floor.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: We all know about Pink Beach. And some of us may know why Pink Beach actually went up for sale. The actual hotel itself was doing quite, quite well. But as an investment that was made by the current or former owner, and of course, my understanding is that the banks made a call. Great area—everybody knows about Tucker's Town, great beaches. But for some reason, Mr. Speaker . . .

[Inaudible interjection and laughter]

An Hon. Member: Well, almost.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, almost. He is a good man. Nice . . . It is not going to . . . That beach is better than that Honourable Member's beach, I must admit.

The Speaker: Stay on target.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I have not been invited down to Tucker's Town since a certain day, Mr. Speaker.

[Laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: But, Mr. Speaker, something is not right—something. And I am wondering whether we are doing . . . Actually, the words the Minister said, economic benefit and it is for Bermuda. I wonder if it really is. This gentleman is getting a nice big property, his own personal house and his own private beach. Subdivided, it is subdivided, I know it is subdivided.

And he is building 34 units somewhere else away from his house. And if those 34 units go bust, he does not care. He [still] has his house.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: That is my point. That is my point. The purpose was not, I do not think, [to get] the hotel. The purpose was to get a nice, big property down in Tucker's Town with a beach. And I understand it being done, as part of the property is arable land. That is what I understand. So I hope the Minister will tell me that none of that property is being built on arable land. I hope that is what it is. Because when I tried to get a two-by-two down in Hamilton Parish for my children, that side was crying out arable land. Put in six inches of soil. I bet you that soil is thicker down in Tucker's Town where that gentleman is. Six inches of soil! Six inches of soil.

And so, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that we finally found someone to buy it, because we had some people in the pipeline looking at it also. And as we all know, it takes time to get there. But he came up with a smart idea, I'm going to build my $6 million house on a nice pink beach. Grant can't come there. The people from Pink Beach cannot walk along there, just me and my wife. And the residents can't come there, and I am stuck there with 34 [units], and I can sell that off; if it fails. It fails. I have got my house.

I really wonder whether this is really being done in the best interest of Bermuda. Mr. Speaker, to me it clearly is being done in the best interest of that particular investor. It is not Bermuda. Is the 34-unit hotel sustainable? Is it? Is it really? Has the Minister seen financial projections that would make the place sustainable? Then let us tax them! Or is it after five years that, after five years when it comes to being that he is taxed, he said, Well, I have made my couple thousand dollars, I am out of here. That is the hotel property, but yet I have still got my house.

Something, it cannot be right, Mr. Speaker! It cannot be right. That whole area is for hotel development. And we are allowing an individual to go down there and put a house down there! And I am hoping that the Government has not agreed that that gentleman gets concessions, it is not included. But I heard him read it. He said 34 rooms, and he said residence. He mentioned price, $6 million for a private residence. It cannot be right, Mr. Speaker!

So we are talking about . . . And then he says 52 people are going to be employed, about half Bermudians. How do you decide it will be half Bermudians? That is what you agreed to? There will be half Bermudians? That is what you worked out? They should be all Bermudians if they qualify. But we are going to say it is half? So, 26 of them are foreigners right off the bat? We are being taken down the wrong road. We are being sold a bill of goods that is not right. And it is right around by my honourable friend, Grant Gibbons', house. He is not going to reject the Honourable Member from coming around his beach. He can walk around the corner.

But, Mr. Speaker, it cannot be right. And I heard the Minister say, half Bermudians. Eighty to a hundred construction people, that is good. Some will be Bermudians, I think I heard him say. This is not done in the benefit of Bermuda. It is being done for the benefit of one individual, one individual who made a lot of money off the hedges and mortgage . . . I am not sure. It was something to do with mortgages. Hedge fund. He made pretty good money off that. They were trying to buy it back and do this all type of thing, and he did very good. And now he is coming down to Bermuda and stripping us. Sucking us. That is the word. Can I use that word? Mr. Speaker did not hear it.

[Laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: So, something cannot be right, Mr. Speaker.

A property that we said is designed for hotels, and you are putting a private property, a private house on there. And the Minister better not say that they are setting up and giving that individual concessions for him building the house. It cannot be! And if that is the case, every one of those Cabinet Ministers should be fired now.

[Laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Every one of them! It is not done in the interest of the country. It is not! But they are happy to say we were able to get a hotel, a fabulous hotel, 34 rooms, which probably will go bust after five years when they start paying the real outrageous prices down there. Yup. Show me that it is a sustainable right now! And if it is not a sustainable right now based on the numbers, then maybe yes, okay, fine. But if it is not sustainable in five years . . . And the rates must be about $800–$900 apiece, maybe more. Tucker's Town? It may be $1,200 a room, $1,500 if they can get it. That would mean I cannot rent those rooms. Nobody on this side can rent a room. Maybe the Honourable Grant Gibbons and Michael, the Minister, can rent those rooms, but we cannot rent those rooms.

Mr. Speaker, we appreciate the move to get something down there, but I really question whether this is being done in the best interest of Bermuda when you are telling me only half Bermudians will be hired, 34 rooms, somebody is getting a private residence, and just take it. It was not in the interest of the Government to move ahead. The banks still held that property. It was in their interest. They want to sell it for, I think it probably at that time was, if I recall, I think around $11 million, $10 million, $13 million. I can run the numbers at the time. Maybe they got it for a little steal to get my property built on a big piece of land. The property is probably bigger than the residence for this . . . How many acres?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Seven. Yes. So we are putting or squeezing 34 into two acres. Is that true?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Hotel, seven acres.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, finish your presentation, and then when you get a chance you just clear it up, whatever needs to be cleared up. That is all.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: So, what I need to know is: How many acres is this total property? How many acres is for the hotel? How much beach waterfront does he have compared with what the residents will have? And I asked the Minister of Economic Development, who would never buy that piece of land, would he would have sunk a 34 hotel . . . Does he really think they are sustainable? I doubt it. Thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise now the Honourable Member from constituency 7.

Mr. Walton Brown: Seventeen.

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Walton Brown: Oh, sorry.

The Speaker: Constituency 7. I know it is late, Honourable Member. I know it is late. It is okay.

[Laughter]

The Speaker: All right. The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 7, Hamilton South. Junior Minister Richards, you have the floor.

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, as the MP for the area where this Pink Beach hotel development is ongoing, when I first heard about the development . . . Well, let me back up.

An Hon. Member: Is your microphone on?

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Yes, it's on. It's on. I'm tall. Let me bend over.

Before I was elected as the MP for the area, when I was canvassing the area, I actually walked up on that property because I had mostly seen it from the road. And I walked up on the property, and it was very sad to see the Pink Beach hotel in a state of—it was derelict and empty, and you could see that it was once a very beautiful, beautiful old Bermuda cottage. And it filled me with sadness because it was emblematic of Bermuda's tourism product and how far we have fallen. Beautiful property, beautiful beaches, beautiful landscape, but just littered with derelict, sad-looking buildings.

I said to myself, You know, this is a property that needs to get developed. And it was in receivership. And so when I heard that the property was in play and that a number of developers were looking at buying the property, I became optimistic. And then, when a purchaser was announced formally, I started to get phone calls from constituents who were concerned about the property and what it was going to be used for, and the beach and all that stuff.

So I jumped on my bike, and I rode down there one Saturday. And I met with constituents, people who live close to the development down there in Devil's Hole on Harris's Bay. And I spoke to quite a few of them, Mr. Speaker. And I was actually pleasantly surprised by what I heard. And what I heard was that when it came to the beach, there was very little concern. In fact, there was only one person whom I spoke to who was concerned about access to the beach. And this individual lived right next door to the development. And this individual was concerned that they would no longer have access to the beach, and it was understandable.

But as I walked around the other neighbourhoods, what became very clear to me was that they welcomed the development. They were happy to see a new hotel being built in their neighbourhood and in their constituency that would provide jobs for people in that area and outside the area. And they were not worried about the beach, because John Smith's Bay is the neighbourhood beach. They were like, We don't care about that beach. I heard it from people who said to me they had only been over there once or twice in their whole lives. But John Smith's Bay was their beach.

[Desk thumping]

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: So, with that being said, it is good that this hotel is being developed. It is going to be good for tourism. We need this development in the constituency. Bermuda needs the development. And as the MP for the area, it is my responsibility to keep a very close eye on that development. And I have been in regular contact with the Minister of Home Affairs and the Tourism Minister, and we are going to do just that.

So, to sum up my remarks, I think that the development, once it is built and once it is finished, is going to be worthy of that honourable tract of land and beach. And it will be a very nice addition to our rejuvenated hotel inventory. It is going to be one of a few hotel properties that are going to be built in the next few years, Mr. Speaker. So we look forward to it. Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 17, Pembroke Central, MP Walton Brown.

Mr. Walton Brown: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to get some clarification from the Minister. This property, the Pink Beach property, has been designated as hotel development. It is meant to be one of the important pillars of our economy. It once was. We hope that it will be again. And it is very clear now that at least a third of this property is now going to be utilised exclusively for private ownership, private development.

When my honourable colleague from constituency 6 said that this looks like a private development with a spinoff as a hotel or a boutique hotel, and if I am not mistaken, I heard the Honourable Minister saying, Yes, well, that was the owner's intention. Perhaps not, but something along that continuum. In other words, I understood the Minister's comment to mean, Mr. Speaker, that the Government fully understands that this developer's primary motivation is to build a luxury residence. If I am mistaken, I am happy to be corrected.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Go ahead, Minister.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: That is not what I said. The point I made in an interpolation was that it was purchased by this gentleman. The Government did not sell. The Government had nothing to do with who purchased the property.

The Speaker: Right. Go on.

Mr. Walton Brown: My apologies. Sorry. I understand that Government had nothing to do with the sale of the property.

But in giving the range of concessions, the Government understands, if I am not mistaken, that the primary purpose of the investor is to build a luxury home and have a hotel, because that is one of the requirements of actually being able to purchase the property. So that is something a little bit different than finding someone who is a hotel developer who has a fundamental commitment to improving the tourism product and generating a return on investment in Bermuda. So I am a little bit disturbed about that.

I am happy to see that there is some development. But there seems to be a less than full commitment, if you will, to the redevelopment of a hotel, just because the primary motivation seems to be to build this luxury home. So I would like for the Minister to address that in his remarks.

And then secondly, my honourable friend and colleague, the Member from constituency 7, Mr. Sylvan Richards, I am happy that he talks to his constituents on a regular basis. I am happy that his constituents are not overly concerned that they will lose access to what was once a publicly accessible beach. But the reality, Mr. Speaker, is that the beach access is not a matter simply for that Honourable Member's constituents. It is an issue of access for the entire country. And so, whether—

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walton Brown: I am sorry. I hear a number of comments coming from colleagues intimating that my comment is not altogether incorrect, Mr. Speaker. The reality is that all beaches—my understanding, and someone can correct me—are public property up to the high-water mark. Now, if I am incorrect, I am happy to sit down and have someone correct me.

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Walton Brown: Nothing has changed. Right. But we now understand that the public access to this beach is going to . . .

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Just a minute, Honourable Members. When Members have a chance, you will be able to respond. If you have a point of order, stand up and give a point of order or a point of clarification. Let us not have this talking across the floor.

So, MP Walton Brown has the floor.

Mr. Walton Brown: Right. So if there is no public access now to the beach at Pink Beach, what were the concerns expressed by the Honourable Members on constituency 7's area? So I just need clarification. What are they not concerned about if they never had access to it? How could they express to you that they are concerned about not having access to it going forward? Something is not right. First point.

But secondly, you know, Mr. Speaker, that gets to a much larger issue. It gets to the larger issue of access to beaches in general in this country. Because I have seen a number of properties that are incorrectly putting up signs saying, This is a private beach. There are no private beaches in Bermuda. You may recall, Mr. Speaker that maybe 20 years ago there was an access to public beaches campaign, where we understood there to be an absolute right for everyone to have access to those beaches. Now there seem to be more and more cut off. And we have to strike the right balance between levels of comfort for our tourists and creating tourism products, and assuring that Bermudians retain rights—not privileges—rights to their own country.

It may well mean, Mr. Speaker, that we need to reinstitute a campaign which takes back the beaches that are increasingly being eroded from public access. So I am hoping that the Minister can speak to the question of whether or not this is primarily a private dwelling development with a hotel as an appendage because of a legal requirement, or whether you are convinced, Minister—Mr. Speaker, whether the Minister is convinced that this is someone who actually has a commitment to redeveloping what was once an important tourism product in Bermuda. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 1, St. George's North. MP Kenneth Bascome, you have the floor.

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: Good evening, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good evening.

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: It is with great pride that I can say that I am a Member of the One Bermuda Alliance, and I would like to say thank you to the Honourable Minister for finally securing a developer for this particular property.

I can remember Mr. Topy Cohen and myself getting into loggerheads a few years back when he was supporting the comments by our Honourable Jim Woolridge that we did not support or we did not want the hamburger-and-French-fry crowd. Mr. Cohen and I had a little doodah on a talk show one day, Mr. Speaker. And he invited me out to lunch at the Pink Beach Club. And I ordered a hamburger, French fries and a Coca-Cola.

[Laughter]

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: And I said to Mr. Cohen, I am surprised that you serve this particular ambiance at this plush establishment. And Mr. Cohen and I became very good friends from that particular little lunch, Mr. Speaker.

You will be aware that when it comes to tourism, I have a passion, Mr. Speaker. And I have tried on numerous occasions to convince Bermudians to do away with the word "tourist" and deal with the word “visitors” while [they are] in our country as guests. And this is just the beginning of great things to come. Mr. Speaker, the Minister stated that there would be definitely half Bermudians. There is a commitment that there will be at least half, Mr. Speaker. But I believe that it will possibly be more. As it stands now, there are no Bermudians employed at that particular property. There are none, Mr. Speaker! So you must get one before you get two. You must get two before you get three.

Oh, I am dumb. Do not worry about that. That is why I am over here—

The Speaker: Honourable Member, that is not appropriate. That is not appropriate!

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: Mr. Speaker, it is appropriate!

The Speaker: Honourable Member, carry—

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: It is appropriate!

The Speaker: That is all right.

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: Because that Honourable Member—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Speaker, I did not call him down.

The Speaker: I did not say you did, Honourable Member.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: So what is inappropriate, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker: Honourable Member—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: What was inappropriate?

The Speaker: Please take your seat. Please take your seat. Thank you.

Carry on.

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: Mr. Speaker, I find it so amusing. They always complain that I will not speak. And now that I am speaking, they begin to get upset.

Mr. Speaker, once again, I will say this is a grand opportunity for Bermuda. And I am hoping that all Bermudians buy into what the Minister and the One Bermuda Alliance is endeavouring to do on behalf of the people of Bermuda.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak?

So then we will go back to the Minister. Minister Crockwell?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly appreciate the comments and questions that emerged from the Opposition. Very quickly, just to answer direct questions, in terms of the acreage, the acreage of the private residence—two cottages and the groundskeeper’s cottage will be 5.5 acres. The acreage of the hotel and its facilities is 7.5 acres.

Mr. Speaker, as I said in my brief, that the cottages, the private residence, they will form part of the hotel inventory for the first five years. So, six months out of each of the first five years, the residence and the cottages will form part of the hotel property.

We have to keep in mind, first of all, Mr. Speaker, that (as I said in a point of order) the Government did not sell this property. The Government had absolutely no control, no influence on who purchased the property from the bank. So, Mr. Stephen King purchased it from the bank. The bank went through whatever due diligence process. Mr. King went through whatever process he had to go through, Mr. Speaker, and purchased the property.

Then, the developer comes to the Government and says this is what his intentions are for the property, understanding the zoning of the property and everything else, their planning processes and the like. It is not my job as the Minister to question his motives, Mr. Speaker! My job is to look at the plans. My job is to look at the intention. The Cabinet’s job is to ascertain whether or not this is a good development.

And since 2013, the Pink Beach had closed. There was a purchaser now of the property, who wanted to build a boutique luxury hotel, investing $54 million of his money to purchase and redevelop the property, Mr. Speaker. We have gone through the plans, Mr. Speaker. We have looked at it. And is this the ideal plan? Maybe not. But, Mr. Speaker, we have looked at it, and we believe that it will make a good addition to the hotel inventory. We know that this will be at the very high end, when we talk about luxurious properties and luxurious rooms available to our guests. And this is a type of niche that is not on offer at the moment.

And so, there are quite a few activities that can take place on this property. This is an aggressive developer. He is working. There is work taking place on the property. We should be grateful, Mr. Speaker, that he is making this investment in Bermuda.

But I do appreciate the questions that were raised. And in regard to the question concerning the arable land, there was an application, Mr. Speaker, to build on arable land, which was turned down by the Department of Planning. The developer has a right to go through whatever appeal process he can go through.

In terms of the beach issues and questions, there was no public access to the beach. The access to the beach was by a condominium property called Hidden Cove, which was formerly part of the entire Pink Beach property when that was subdivided many years ago. And so, they had access to the entirety of the beach, and now part of that beach will now be denied access. So there were some concerns raised by the residents of Hidden Cove about access to the beach. But there was never access from the general public. You could not access the beach without going onto private property, Mr. Speaker. So, I just want to clarify that issue in relation to that question.

But at the end of the day, Mr. Speaker, we have gone through the normal process. We believe that this is a good development to support with the concessions. These are normal concessions that are being asked. And we are very hopeful that this particular property . . . The number of rooms that are being built and utilised as a boutique hotel is very close to what the property was operating under in its last few years. And so, the developer has a plan, and we are going to support the development because we need development. We need new hotel inventory. And we need a diversity of hotel property in Bermuda.

So, with that, Mr. Speaker, the Government is prepared to support it with this Hotel Concession Order.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you very much, Honourable Member.

So, therefore, you need to move that . . .

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I would like to move that the draft Order be approved and that a message be sent from this Honourable House to His Excellency the Governor.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Are there any objections to that?

And so, the message will be sent.

[Motion carried: The Hotels Concession (Pink Beach) Order 2014 was considered by the House and approved.]

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

We now move to Order No. 4 on the Order Paper. Order No. 4 is Consideration of the Maintenance Orders (Reciprocal Enforcement) (Designation) Amendment Order 2015, in the name of the Attorney General and Minister of Legal Affairs.

I recognise the Attorney General, T. G. Moniz.

ORDER

MAINTENANCE ORDERS (RECIPROCAL ENFORCEMENT) (DESIGNATION) AMENDMENT ORDER 2015

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I move that consideration be given to draft Regulations entitled the Maintenance Orders (Reciprocal Enforcement) (Designation) Amendment Order 2015, proposed to be made under the provision of section 15 of the Maintenance Orders (Reciprocal Enforcement) Act of 1974.

The Speaker: Are there any objections to that?
Please carry on.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: I am obliged, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to present to this Honourable House this Order, pursuant to section 15 of the Maintenance Orders (Reciprocal Enforcement) Act 1974, for Bermuda to designate the State of Minnesota in the United States of America as a reciprocating country. Mr. Speaker, the Act makes provision for Bermuda to enter into agreements with other jurisdictions to become reciprocating countries for purposes of mutually enforcing judicial maintenance orders or provisional orders, as defined by the Act.

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, the Maintenance Orders (Reciprocal Enforcement) (Designation) Order 1975 shows that there are currently 18 reciprocating countries, with the State of Ohio in the United States of America being the most recent designation as of January of 1998.

Per the Act and subject to section 6 of the Statutory Instruments Act 1977, it falls to His Excellency the Governor to make orders to designate reciprocating countries after such orders have been subject to the affirmative resolution procedure.

Mr. Speaker, in accordance with these provisions, the process started with the State of Minnesota making a request to enter into a mutual enforcement agreement with Bermuda. To facilitate the request, Bermuda was provided with an agreement dated 24th of September 2014 for the stated purpose. This document was subsequently vetted by Crown Counsel, modified and returned to Minnesota for endorsement. It was then endorsed on behalf of Bermuda by the acting Registrar of the Supreme Court of Bermuda as the central authority in Bermuda.

I can confirm that the Governor, as the person authorised to designate reciprocating countries under the Act, has been kept abreast of developments in this matter, including by correspondence with the Ministry of Legal Affairs, to which he responded with authorisation to proceed to gazette the requisite order. Hence, this Order is hereby laid in this Honourable House for affirmative resolution, pending the Governor's signature and subsequent gazetting. We are thus pleased to partner with Minnesota in this regard to ensure that, going forward, maintenance and support orders issued by our courts pertaining to Bermudians will be honoured within that jurisdiction. Likewise, our authorities are committed to reciprocate with respect to such orders from that jurisdiction as they pertain to persons domiciled within this jurisdiction.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

Are there any other Honourable Members who would care to speak?

The Chair will recognise the Honourable and Learned Member from Sandys North.

Hon. Michael J. Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the PLP Opposition have no objection to this Maintenance Enforcement Order being extended to another state in the United States so that there can be judicial and other reciprocal enforcement procedures with that particular newly listed state of the United States, Minnesota. Thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak?

Then the Chair will recognise the Learned Attorney General again. You have the floor.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you. And I thank the Honourable Member, and I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I move that the draft Order be approved and that a message be sent from this Honourable House to His Excellency the Governor.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

Are there any objections to that?

Then a message will be sent.

[Motion carried: The Maintenance Orders (Reciprocal Enforcement) (Designation) Amendment Order 2015 was considered by the House and approved.]

The Speaker: That completes the Orders. All other Orders are carried over.

So I will recognise the Minister of Finance, the Minister of Finance.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 21

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, I move that [Standing Order] 21 be suspended so that we can read the Bill entitled the Corporate Services Tax Amendment Act 2015 for the third time.

The Speaker: Are there any objections?

There are no objections.

Minister?

[Motion carried: Standing Order 21 suspended.]

BILL

THIRD READING

CORPORATE SERVICES TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I move that the Bill do now pass.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Are there any objections to that?

So, the Corporate Tax Amendment Act 2015 is now passed.

[Motion carried: The Corporate Tax Amendment Act 2015 was read a third time and passed.]

The Speaker: Minister, remain on your feet. The next is Order No.10. Carry on.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 21

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I also move that Rule 21 be suspended so that we can read the Temporary Loans (Repeal) Act 2015 for the third time.

The Speaker: Are there any objections to that?

There are none.

Minister?

BILL

THIRD READING

TEMPORARY LOANS (REPEAL) ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I move that the Bill do now pass.

The Speaker: Thank you.

It has been moved that the Bill The Temporary Loans (Repeal) Act 2015 be passed.

Any objections?

There are none. The Bill is now passed.

[Motion carried: The Temporary Loans (Repeal) Act 2015 was read a third time and passed.]

The Speaker: Honourable Premier?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I move that we now adjourn until Wednesday, March 4th.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Premier.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 17, Pembroke Central. MP Walton Brown, you have the floor.

IMMIGRATION—NEW WORK PERMIT POLICY

Mr. Walton Brown: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the question of immigration and immigration policy has always been one that has been fraught with emotion and, at times, a level of acrimony. I have to concede to this Honourable House that I had not been completely current on all matters involving immigration because I was away for an extended period for personal reasons, Mr. Speaker. And with the new immigration policy now in effect, there is one additional component to this immigration policy. We are going to speak on immigration in more detail next week, Friday, Mr. Speaker, but there is one aspect that I think we need to speak to now in the hope that a level of respect, common sense and dignity would permeate the ranks of this House and Government to have a rethink of some policies.

The policies that I speak of, Mr. Speaker, involve the new work permit policy, which will allow for the dependents of work permit holders in particular categories to be able to seek and obtain employment in Bermuda.

You will know, Mr. Speaker, that probably about two years ago (or maybe somewhat less than that, but about two years ago), the idea of children of work permit holders being able to compete with teen-aged Bermudians for summer employment was floated by the Minister responsible for Immigration. And that issue met with immediate hostile reception because of the sensitivity of the issue, Mr. Speaker. We are immersed in a recession. We are at a time when money is tight and working-class families need to have as much income as possible.

What the Government floated at the time was what they now have in place, where those who have significant levels of income, because they are working (because you can only be here as a guest worker if you have a work permit, therefore, you are working). And because of the bands of employment that make you eligible to secure this permission to seek and obtain employment for your dependents, children and/or adult, (not just the child), it creates a playing field that, once again, is going to marginalise and weaken opportunities for Bermudians.

Because the reality, Mr. Speaker, is that when you talk about certain bands of work permit holders, they will have access to jobs. They will have access to contacts. And it is going to make it much more difficult for Bermudians to also have contacts to get access to jobs. So we are creating yet again, with new policy slipped in, that was added after the initial policy was tabled, I believe in October of last year . . . This policy was not in the initial policy; it was put in later. And I do not want to say “disingenuous.” You may consider that to be unparliamentary. But it is wholly inappropriate, Mr. Speaker.

An Hon. Member: Snuck in.

Mr. Walton Brown: “Snuck in” is not the kind of word I would use, but I can appreciate the sentiments of my colleague here. It came in undercover.

It is disingenuous, Mr. Speaker. It is going to make it much more difficult for teenagers, those trying to save money to go off to school in September, to get a job. And I cannot understand how the Government can countenance doing such a thing.

I am hoping that this was not a decision that was actively agreed upon by Cabinet. I do not know if it was just in a document that people did not debate. But this was tossed out two years ago as just an idea that was ridiculed by the people—not just ridiculed for the sake of ridiculing, ridiculed because it was met with hostility because of what it meant! And so, Mr. Speaker, you know, I am not usually at a loss for words. But I cannot understand how a Government could put this kind of policy in place, not have it as part of a wide consultative process, and in the darkness of night, well, at least from my hospital recovery bed in another place, Mr. Speaker, it cannot be right.

I am going to speak to the Premier tonight, through you, of course, Mr. Speaker, and ask the Premier if he could have a hard look at this, if he could do some reconsideration of this, recognising the sensitivity of the issue, recognising the hardship of working-class families who need their children to get work to make money to pay for groceries, to save money to get to school, and the hardship that this is going to bring about.

This is the time, Mr. Speaker, where I and many others are not interested in having long conversations. I for one will not be marching anymore to protest another Government policy. I have gone beyond that, Mr. Speaker, and I think many people have. This is an affront to many people in this country. So I implore the Premier, address this issue. It is not good for the country. It is not good for the mood of the people who are hurting. And all it will do is give people who are privileged, who already are gainfully employed, because you cannot be here without a work permit, an opportunity yet again that is denied on a regular basis for many Bermudians.

I speak from my heart on this issue, Mr. Speaker. We have to address it. We have to address it now. And I am calling on the Premier to demonstrate the kind of leadership that I think the country wants to see to ensure that there is a commitment, a demonstrated commitment to ensuring that Bermudians come first in their own country. It is the only place we should come first.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 3, from St. David's. MP Lovitta Foggo, you have the floor.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Mr. Speaker, I really do feel compelled to get up on the same issue.

I am a working mother, a working-class mother who raised two daughters alone. It did not begin that way, but that is basically how I lived my life out. I cannot fathom the idea of having a situation where young ones, young teenagers who, as has been pointed out, rely heavily on being able to secure summer employment, part-time work and the like, to help their family survive, particularly if those young ones are going to college, [will have to deal with this].

I can stand here and say there is no way that my family ever would have gotten anywhere if my daughters were unable to secure employment during summers, from very little, I might add. They are children who had to go and pack groceries when they were quite little. They learned from very young, as a family, we sink or swim together. And I liken this to taking . . .

If reading this actually does mean that children and partners of those who are given work permits will likewise receive work permits, then I have to wonder why? Because perhaps they should be looking at some other type of permit that clearly excludes the partners and the children from being able to work. Because I do not see the need to give someone a work permit if they are not going to be allowed to work. So I can only assume by saying that they will be allocated work permits, it would mean that they would be allowed to work, and therefore will be able to compete directly with our Bermudians.

We have seen thousands of Bermudians lose their jobs for various reasons. You know, the economy has contracted. Businesses have downsized. There has been a recession, and we are still in that recession. Families are losing their homes every day. And every Bermudian who loses the ability to be able to secure employment to help bring bread and butter (to help pay for the bread and butter) means that in one way or the other, we as a society have to pay.

I would think that we would be doing more to ensure, as my honourable colleague who sits just to my right just pointed out, we should be ensuring that Bermudians are first and foremost in Bermuda.

I cannot go to the United States and expect to have preference, by and large, over an American citizen. And indeed, when I was there, I did not. And I do not think that anyone who comes here should get preference over and above a Bermudian who, one, is qualified or capable to assume certain positions within the workforce.

If this is the direction that the OBA Government is going to move in, then you know, my heart is . . . I am very disheartened. I really am disheartened, especially given the fact, Mr. Speaker, that the public was very vocal about this very issue, outraged. There was an extremely loud clamour in the public domain when the OBA Government first came into power, and the idea of children of those who are here on work permits was, I guess, entertained to give them employment as well.

Where do our children go when they have not been able to qualify as professionals? When they heavily rely on summer employment with the various institutions that we have here in Bermuda to help ensure that they are able to continue their education and go back overseas so that they could come back as qualified Bermudians to assume their rightful place within our society?

I really fear what is going to happen is more and more Bermudians [are going to] feel they are being disenfranchised in their own country. There are too many of us currently who are unemployed and qualified to be in some positions where we see international workers. And as has been said many times in this Honourable Chamber, that no one is saying no to international business, especially when we need their expertise within certain areas. We are saying, and we are saying it loudly and clearly, Bermudians first and foremost in their country, Mr. Speaker! I cannot accept this.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Hamilton East, constituency 5. MP Derrick Burgess, you have the floor.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I am wondering, when will this Government act in the interests of Bermudians? Mr. Speaker, tonight, in the debate we just finished about Pink Beach hotel concessions, the Government party is acting like we are destitute when they can agree that Pink Beach will give us at least half of the jobs to Bermudians. Mr. Speaker, let me say this here. Let me give you a little bit of history of the small hotels and the big hotels when it comes to employment in this country.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Mr. Speaker, point of order.

The Speaker: Yes, yes.

POINT OF ORDER

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I believe the Honourable Member is reflecting on a debate we just had, raising Pink Beach and small hotels.

The Speaker: Right, right. Yes.

Honourable Member, as you speak, I see what you are trying . . . Try and stay away from speaking about that.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes. I will say Green Beach.

The Speaker: Yes, yes.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Any hotel. In the hotel industry, Mr. Speaker, the small hotels took pride in bragging that I have 95 per cent of my staff are Bermudian—95 per cent! The larger hotels, I think the highest was about 89 per cent Bermudians in the hotel industry.

Here it is in 2015, we have a Government that is saying to the people of Bermuda, Well, we will take 50 per cent. It is okay. We are destitute. Even though you spend money to send your children away to school to get the necessary academic qualifications, you come back, there is still no job for you. We must start acting for the people of Bermuda! We had, just this week gone, a Bermudian denied a position by the top person paid in government in this country, when they were recommended for this position. It is not the first time it has happened; it is the fourth time it has happened, that a Bermudian has been overlooked for a position that they are qualified for, Mr. Speaker!

We cannot take this anymore. I think it was early 2013 (could have been 2014; time is going so quick I cannot keep up) that I had a meeting with the Honourable Minister who sits in another place, Senator Fahy. And he said to me in a conversation that he was going to allow children of work permit holders to work without a permit. And I—

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Mr. Speaker, point of order.

The Speaker: Yes, yes.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: The Honourable Member is essentially misleading the House in the sense that that was broached at one point, but it was certainly rescinded.

The Speaker: All right.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: All right, Mr. Speaker. This fellow is jumping ahead.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, speak to the Chair.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Mr. Speaker, let me repeat: I was in a conversation with the Minister for Immigration and Labour, who said to me that he was going to allow children of work permit holders to work in this country without a work permit. And I said to him, I replied, I said, Well, Mr. Minister, if you decide to do that, I am pretty sure you will have some unrest in the streets. Would you want to see a whole lot of young children out in the streets for this matter? And I think he pulled it back.

But now I see in this new policy what he has on there that Mr. and Mrs. Smith come in with their work permits. And so his spouse does not have the job, but he has a job. The children will have a job. But that work permit gives them the right to seek employment! Seek employment! They have a right even before they step in this country!

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Mr. Speaker, this past summer gone, there were university kids, children back home in this country, which did not have a job! Did not have a job! And we are out here, this Government is saying that, I'm going to allow these people to seek employment! How low can you go? It is shameful! And then when you have the immigration policy change where the entertainers come second to someone else!

When will this Government govern for the people of Bermuda? We have everybody in this. We have the Government, another person stays up on Government House hill doing the same thing to Bermudians, disrespecting the people of this country. We deserve better than that. Our forefathers, the seniors of this country fought hard to get jobs and benefits for the people of this country! Some of them do not understand that, because they did not have to fight, they did not have to sacrifice for anything. We have people like—and let me repeat again—Artie Simmons, Eugene Blakeney, Dr. Ball, Robert Johnston, Dr. Gordon, Chris Furbert, and the list goes on.

And this is what we are getting from this Government, when the unions of today have been very cooperative with the Government in the situations that the country finds itself in. And this is what they get back for this? This is the payback? That you can disregard Bermudians if you are acting like you are destitute? We are not destitute! You have got to have some principles! Government must act on principles, and they must protect the people of this country!

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to see unrest in our streets! I want to see Bermudians hired! When they come home from school, those young kids, children need a job so they can assist when they go back to school, with their expenses and everything else. And here is this Government trying to say, No. No. We are going to let other people come in your pool.

Mr. Speaker, let me tell you this much. If I were to marry an American tomorrow, and I went to the United States to stay, I do not get an automatic green card. I could be waiting years for a green card! That is the policy of the country, because they are protecting their people first. It is about time.

And, Mr. Speaker, let me say this here. I have said this in this House before. Calvin Smith, Bermuda's first black statistician, Lord Martonmere, the Governor at that time, brought him back to Bermuda. But, Mr. Speaker, before he came back to Bermuda, he was working in these statistics in Canada. And a job came up that would have taken him to another height. And he applied for the job and did not get the job. In fact, the person who got the job was the person he was training. So he asked the folks, why did he not get the job? You know what they told him? And they were right. They said, because a Canadian applied for the job. Canada was protecting their people first! And it is about time, it is about time this Government wake up! They have been in Government 27 months! They must understand we have got 9 per cent unemployment.

You know, Mr. Speaker, our unemployment is very high for blacks. It is about four times more than of my cousins that are of my complexion. Mr. Speaker, that is not right. In fact, the PRCs [permanent residency certificates] is even less than whites. Their unemployment is less than 1 per cent. In fact, they could not even say 1 per cent. They had to say seven people.

[Laughter]

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Because it was so small it would not even register in the calculator. There is nothing right about that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, it is about time that the Government of this country starts governing for the people of this Bermuda.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you. Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from Devonshire North Central, constituency 13. MP Blakeney, you have the floor.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am still fighting the bug, and so I do not think I am going to be able to be on my feet too long.

But I was compelled to speak because it seems obvious that the One Bermuda Alliance Government is devoid of a social conscience. For a piece of legislation with regard to this new work permit policy that took effect on the first of this month, it is absolutely reprehensible.

We have heard our colleagues on this side of the House give various reasons. But let me just give a little practical context, based on the other hat that I wear as a business owner. There are always, every single year, at every school break, young Bermudians who approach the business for employment. There are a number who have been employed by the company as paid interns. You know why, Mr. Speaker? Because they need any kind of financial help for their family. And I am talking about those as young as 14 years old.

So what we do is give them a practical education on the operation of the business, based on their aptitude in particular areas. And then we give them a stipend so that they can help their family. There are several university students who have come through the business as interns and gone off to university, graduated and come back, and have become productive citizens of this country.

The country should be absolutely outraged with what has now been done in a very deceitful way with regard to providing an opportunity for work permit holders to have not just an immediate member of their family, such as a child, but a significant other—a significant other. How do we qualify or disqualify a significant other? What is the criteria that must be met? What is the measure of standard that must be met that says, Someone is indeed a significant other?, where there is no matrimony involved, where there is no consummation of the relationship involved?

How in good conscience can we open up our borders to provide that kind of opportunity when we have the significant number of unemployed Bermudians, whether they be white, black or other, but Bermudians, who would be fighting to get employment, no matter what employment? These are very, very desperate, desperate times for the country. And the One Bermuda Alliance are saying that they are committed to turning it around and finding jobs. But guess what? They are looking to find jobs or facilitate jobs for people who are coming here as guest workers, while at the same time the Bermudian is looking for the job.

How do you explain that, in good conscience? How do you get a wave of support behind a piece of legislation like that, and then look in the eye of your fellow Bermudian and say you have their best interest at heart? How do you do that in good conscience?

I think what the One Bermuda Alliance Government should start to do is explain and substantiate their anti-Bermudian strategy and philosophy, and why they think non-Bermudians will do better in Bermuda, for Bermuda, than Bermudians themselves. Just explain it. Help us to understand. Because we are at a deficit and at a loss to understand how you could substantiate providing a work permit policy that allows a significant other, or the child of a legitimate work permit holder, to compete for employment in this country, when our students coming back from university are looking for gainful employment as a necessity to help them with their challenge, whether it be tuition or whether it be living expenses.

We have seen a reduction in scholarship funding. That means there is more pressure and challenge on those who might otherwise qualify if there is not enough to go around because the numbers are greater than the money can support. So they have to look for a means and a way to find that money to supplement their tertiary education.

And we eliminate the potential opportunity for them in their own homeland to be gainfully employed by putting guest workers' significant others and children in competition with our own Bermudians children? And you stand up and say you have got Bermuda's best interest at heart?

Shameful!

Reprehensible!

Despicable!

Cowardly!

How do you explain that, One Bermuda Alliance Government? How do you explain that? And there are a number among you who have businesses. So you would know invariably what the challenges are, because I would guarantee there are a number of Bermudians who are unemployed seeking gainful employment from your businesses, like they come to mine!

It is incredible! Where is the social conscience? And in the face of the outrage demonstrated and manifested by feet in the street to express their discord and their disappointment and their anger at what was proposed initially. And then to come back and sneak it in in the way that they have done, it borders on criminal (for lack of a better term). Borders on criminal.

Mr. Speaker, I would appeal and implore that the One Bermuda Alliance, under the leadership of a business entrepreneur, the Honourable Premier, step back, have a look in the mirror, then walk outside, look around the country and see for themselves, if they have not already, the challenge we have with unemployment and young people in this country. And then, as was suggested by my colleague, have a rethink and a renewed commitment that is genuine, that is bona fide to the people of this country.

If they cannot do that in turning around, then they should substantiate why they have an anti-Bermudian philosophy and do not care, do not truly care about the young university students, the young local college students, the young unemployed youth in this country who are seeking gainful employment in their own homeland. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency number 7. MP Sylvan Richards, the Junior Minister, you have the floor.

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to try and add some clarity to the comments that are coming from the Opposition. In fact, earlier today, I was listening to the radio, and there is a certain talk show host who was drumming up, basically saying the same sentiments that the Opposition is saying right now. So I kind of expected that this would be the theme on the motion to adjourn.

I will start off first by saying, Mr. Speaker, that Bermudians come first in Bermuda! And the One Bermuda Alliance puts Bermudians first. Now, how do we do that? Conveniently, what the Opposition has failed to remind the listening public of is that there are three categories of jobs in Bermuda. There are jobs that are closed, jobs that are restricted and job categories that are open. Jobs in the closed category are for Bermudians. Nobody with a work permit can apply. And grocery packing is in the closed category.

[Inaudible interjections and general uproar!]

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: So, whether the work permit holder's spouse or dependent wants that job, they cannot have that job. It is closed.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Mr. Speaker, I would ask that that Member withdraw that remark to say . . . He is insinuating that only Bermudians can pack groceries.

[Inaudible interjections]

An Hon. Member: Well, they can!

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Thank you.

MP Richards, are you going to . . .

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker. I am just confused by that last statement. I am not insinuating that only Bermudians can pack groceries.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, speak to the Chair.

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: I am just bewildered. I am just bewildered by the whole conversation and debate. It seems like no matter what we say, it gets construed to be anti-Bermudian.

But in any event, once again, there are closed categories of jobs. And it is online. Anybody can go and look at the new work permit policy. The Opposition Members can go and look at the work permit policy and see which jobs are closed.

Then there are jobs that are restricted, meaning that Bermudians are given first preference. All the jobs must be advertised in the category. And the jobs must be listed in the Workforce Development. So it is not like anybody on a work permit can get the restricted jobs in the restricted category. There is a process to go through.

Now, under the new policy, the dependents of work permit holders can seek employment. And it is intended for spouses and their partners. They are still under work permit control; they still need a work permit. They are still under Immigration control, Mr. Speaker. So this is not about children. And this is what I was getting from the other side, that dependent children of work permit holders will be competing with Bermudian children for jobs, such as packing groceries. This is what the brouhaha was about a few months ago!

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Summer jobs! And what the Honourable Member said, when speaking to Minister Fahy, was that Mr. Fahy said something to the effect of, Well, they won't need work permits to do these jobs.

But in any event, I just need to clarify that also, in competing for jobs in the open category, meaning there is no restriction on who can apply, there is still the rule that if a Bermudian, a spouse of a Bermudian or a PRC holder is qualified, they get the job! So, that is all I can add to the debate. The policy is there. It is online for everybody to see.

Bermudians are not being put at a disadvantage. The policy states that dependents of work permit holders, if they want to get a job, compete, they need to get a work permit also.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from Pembroke East, constituency number 15. MP Walter Roban, you have the floor.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I have listened to the Junior Minister, the Honourable Member of constituency number 7. And I am no better informed than I was before he got up to speak. In fact, he may have confused most of the country by what he just said.

Mr. Speaker, this is part of the question: Why does this Government suddenly feel that it is the right thing to even allow dependents to be issued work permits? When the principal person who came here . . . because the policy up until this point is that if you can bring your family with you, you are earning enough money to support them, spouse, partner and child. So the presumption is, if you are bringing your family here, you are getting a salary and you are being given enough benefits by what your presumed employer is giving you where that is not needed! So all of a sudden, this Government is essentially giving them away like oleanders on the trees, just oleander flowers. They are just giving away permits to whoever wants to come here—dependents, children, everybody.

How is this, under these conditions, where jobs are limited, Mr. Speaker, a limited job market . . . how is this fair or even right for Bermudians? The Minister did not answer that! The Minister just assured us that people are protected, that the categories seemingly will provide the protection.

Well, Mr. Speaker, the reason why those of us on this side cannot trust what the Junior Minister or his Minister have said, or the assurance they have given, is that we remember how this originally came about. And this is, frankly . . . Mr. Speaker, I thought this Government had learned over the last couple of years that trying to do activities in the darkness of night is not going to get them anywhere. They got blown out by other things that they tried to do under the darkness of night. And now they are trying to put policy through under the darkness of night. I thought they would have learned by now that it is not good for political business, their business! And as my Honourable Member from number 5 said, do you want to see people in the streets?

Now, Mr. Speaker, another reason why we are not trusting the Government around this is because we remember what happened the first time this issue came up. The Government put out this policy and published it, a number of things that they were going to do, including the issue of giving permission for the children of permit holders to have some unlimited work permit rights.

Here is what was a part of the madness of the whole proposal: They tried to blame it on the PLP! They tried to say that it was the previous Minister and the work permit policy group that actually proposed it. And it was only because of the good, able documentation of Mr. Chris Furbert, who was also on the work permit policy group who showed that, Well, no. We did not propose this. And then all of a sudden, the Ministry then said, Oh, yes. Oh, in fact, yes. Well, that is not the case. But they tried to make it that the PLP had proposed it in the first instance, just like they have tried to blame us for other things that they have had to do where it is a tough decision.

So again, a policy proposed under deception, under fabrication. The trust deficit will widen because of this. That is why we are not buying your explanation, and neither will the public. All they are doing is dressing it differently. Instead of the dependents having not to be controlled by permit, they are just going to issue them the permit and they can go do it anyway. That is what it appears to be, Mr. Speaker!

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I think my honourable colleague, Mr. Richards, said very clearly that these dependents need to go through the normal work permit process. An employer has to apply for a work permit. And there are categories of work permits, some of which are closed, some of which are not. If there is a Bermudian who is available to do the job, the Bermudian gets first preference. What could be clearer than that? Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Mr. Speaker, we are not buying it! We have a difficulty believing, in a limited job market. What the OBA Government is doing is creating more eligible people to work when Bermudians cannot find work! That is the problem, Mr. Speaker!

[Desk thumping and general uproar!]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: This is illogical!

Why are you creating more people eligible for work when our own people cannot find work?

That is the part that escapes us. It is madness! It is madness on your part!

[Inaudible interjections and general uproar!]

The Speaker: Honourable Member, speak to the Chair.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: it is equal to the madness, Mr. Speaker, that we have seen for the past 24 months. This proposal they rolled out at the beginning of their tenure. And they have tried to sneak it in on us again. Instead of it being—

The Speaker: Honourable Member! Honourable Member Richards, you have had your say.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Well, he is not a very, you know—he needs to learn the rules, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Speak to here.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Mr. Speaker, of course it is not the same. Instead of being red, it is yellow. That is all it is. Yellow with a bow. That is all it is!

Mr. Speaker, there is a big trust deficit that this Government has with the community, particularly with the working people of this community, who are the ones looking for work. It is illogical, it does not make sense for this Government to have a policy that essentially creates more eligible people from outside the country to work in a market where work is limited. It does not make sense, Mr. Speaker!

It is illogical. It is crazy! It smacks of policy confusion!

It smacks of a Government that is not receptive to the needs or the wishes of the citizens, who want jobs, want them to create jobs, but jobs for them, not for somebody else! They are creating more eligible people to work in a market where there are limited jobs. It does not make sense! If we had an expanding labour market, there might be some logic. But there is no logic to creating more eligible people to work from outside when your own people cannot find jobs in the same marketplace. They really must want people fighting in the streets. Because they cannot find work, and they will be desperate, and will do anything to get it.

Mr. Speaker, this Government really needs to check itself. They need to really sit down and have a real hard thought about what their purpose is in the society. I understand that you want to be the party of business and you want to be open to new investment. But you are killing your own people!

The Speaker: Honourable Member. Honourable Member, you speak . . .

Mr. Walter H. Roban: I will withdraw it, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: I will use other words.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Sorry, Mr. Speaker.

They are bringing serious damage to the people of this country, to their aspirations.

An Hon. Member: Demoralising!

Mr. Walter H. Roban: They are widening the trust deficit!

This policy should never have seen the light of day, because the people already made it clear that they do not want this sort of thing happening right now in a market that has shrunk in the number of jobs that it has, even [less than] when it came in 24 months ago. We have lost more jobs since they even first proposed it. And here they are now creating another policy to widen the opportunity for outsiders to get jobs in a shrinking market.

It is illogical. It is madness. I only hope that somebody slaps them across their heads, Mr. Speaker, and helps them to find their way. Because right now, Mr. Speaker, they are leading us down a road that this country and its citizens do not want to go. Thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency number 29, from Southampton East. MP Zane De Silva, you have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, my colleague who just took his seat, Mr. Roban, said something very important, and it was two words: trust deficit. Mr. Speaker, since the OBA has been in power, they have promised a referendum on gaming. They ditched it. They said they would not use GP cars. They ditched that, too. Even changed the numbers on licence plates, said that it was because a Minister was threatened that we changed the licence plates, in Bermuda. If I cannot see, you know, Randy Horton driving around in a car that says—

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Mr. Speaker, point of order.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: The Honourable Member is, intentionally or unintentionally, misleading the House. We never, this Government never said it would not use GP cars. It said it would pool them and use them on that basis and on a very restricted basis. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.
MP De Silva.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

But they might have said they would pool, but they did not say they would change licence plates to try to trick people. And that is what they did, Mr. Speaker. In fact, the Minister at the time said that she was going to come back to this House and give us the information that led to changing those licence plate numbers. And we have not seen that yet, Mr. Speaker!

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Point of order, point of order, Mr. Speaker!

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member. Yes! I recognise the Attorney General. Yes.

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: The Premier under the PLP had the car without a GP plate.

The Speaker: Right. Carry on, carry on.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, that was his private car, too, Mr. Speaker.

Some Hon. Members: Ooh!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: So, Mr. Speaker, let me just say.

The Speaker: No, it was not. It was not. But carry on.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: We had a Minister who said that the Millennium was here in Bermuda, and it was still in the States, Mr. Speaker.

We had a Government that was going to close Lamb Foggo Urgent Care Centre, Mr. Speaker. Okay? After saying that they would look after the people of this country. Transparency—Oh, we're transparent! We're transparent, Mr. Speaker!

Airport! CCC! Desarrollos Group—we still cannot find them on the Internet, Mr. Speaker! We are hoping that that is going to be okay. There is a trust deficit in this country, Mr. Speaker!

Mr. Speaker, we had a Minister who turned off residents' running water up in Dockyard!

Some Hon. Members: Ooh!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Let us not forget that, Mr. Speaker! We have a trust deficit in this country! And, Mr. Speaker, the list goes on.

Mr. Speaker, you know, when we on this side talk about our children and worrying about our children getting jobs, see, a lot of Members from the OBA/UBP do not have to worry about that. A lot of them do not. See, when we talk about our children—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I said most.

See, Mr. Speaker, when we talk about children, we are not talking about eight-year-olds who pack groceries, you know. We are talking about some of our children who come back who are 24, 25, 26 years old who cannot find work. Some of them with degrees! Some of them with master's degrees! One of them was the child of one of the Members on this side of the House, Mr. Speaker, who could not find work.

Yet, yet, under the cloak of darkness—

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Under the cloak of darkness, the OBA tried to slip this past the people of this country. Cloak of darkness, Mr. Speaker!

Mr. Speaker, you know what? I was hoping when the Honourable Member, my colleague, Walton Brown—

The Speaker: The Honourable Member from constituency number 17!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Seventeen. Yes, yes, Mr. Speaker. The Honourable Member from 17, Walton Brown—

The Speaker: Leave his name out of it! The Honourable Member.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, okay. I thought I was sharp, too, Mr. Speaker, I thought I was sharp.

The Speaker: Yes, you are getting there.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay, I am getting there. You know what? We are all getting used to it. So it is good.

But when the Honourable Member from 17 first stood up and spoke, Mr. Speaker, and then no one got up. I did not hear a point of order. Then another one of our Members got up. I did not hear a point of order. I said, Wait a minute! I am waiting for somebody to jump up from the Government to say, Hang on! You got this wrong. But we do not! We do not, Mr. Speaker!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: See, they are all saying we did. I did not hear anybody jump up on a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, we have at least 4,000 people out of work in Bermuda. Why and how in the heck can the OBA justify even thinking about . . . and you could call it one, two, three, four, five different reasons or five different policies. Because they do not care! That is why, Mr. Speaker. They do not care!

It is too bad that the OBA Government, when we had all those, what was it, about 2,000–3,000 people down in front of Cabinet? It is too bad they did not mention it then. That is when they should have announced it.

Well, Mr. Speaker, when this hits home, we will see. We will see what happens.

Well, you know, Mr. Speaker, I have to believe another one of the OBA's pre-election promises was 2,000 jobs. You remember that, Mr. Speaker,

2,000 jobs. Maybe these 2,000 jobs, here they are coming. They are coming for work permit holders' spouses or significant others, or children! Is that where the 2,000 jobs are going to be given? Because the jobless rate in Bermuda has increased under the OBA Government. It has increased, Mr. Speaker. But yet, they find it okay to do this? Well, maybe, Mr. Speaker.

I look at that promise of 2,000 jobs, and I have got to wonder who it is for. You will recall, Mr. Speaker, I pointed out—and I will continue to do it—you have board members of the Bermuda Tourism Authority, board members, some of them (most of them except for two) are getting $20,000 a year. Maybe those are the jobs the OBA was talking about in 2012—$20,000 a year!

And, Mr. Speaker, we will find out soon how many meetings they have had in one calendar year. Mr. Speaker, do the math. If they have had 10, and they get $20,000, that is $2,000 a meeting! How long is a meeting? An hour? Two hours?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I find it bizarre, but this was asked in a Parliamentary Question a few weeks ago, and it was answered. And all of the meetings were laid out. That Honourable Member commented on the meetings and made a calculation.

The Speaker: Yes. I think you calculated how much they made each time.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Mr. Speaker, I tell you what. That is incorrect. He gave them out, but it was not in a calendar year. It was over a period. But we will deal with that.

Well, let us talk about that then. Okay, 12 meetings, 10 meetings. Do the math. It is still $2,000 a meeting, Minister! Two thousand—

The Speaker: Honourable Member! Honourable Member, speak to the Chair.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Mr. Speaker, $2,000 per meeting!

So, Mr. Speaker, that is when I talk about our people getting to work. It is okay for them to issue out $20,000 to their board members. It is okay to say, Okay, work permit holder, your significant other, your wife, your husband, your child, they can work, too. And that is okay?

Mr. Speaker, the people of our country, the civil servants in particular, gave up furlough days. They made their sacrifice. Is this what they made a sacrifice for, so that all of a sudden, while we are thinking, We are helping with the job situation, and the OBA are going to say, Well, okay, thanks for taking your furlough days, ya'll. Now we have got some money we can pay somebody else! What the heck is going on, Mr. Speaker? It is disgraceful!

It is disgraceful, Mr. Speaker!

Is that what the people of this country get? All the civil servants who have been headlined for the last couple of months, is that what thanks they get, Mr. Speaker? They give up so that their money can go somewhere else, Mr. Speaker? Mm, hmm, hmm. Disgraceful, Mr. Speaker, disgraceful.

Mr. Speaker, you have some of us in Bermuda who are trying to help. And I will put up my hand, Mr. Speaker. Everyone knows, I declare my interest. You know what I do. We have taken on five people this year, Mr. Speaker, three of them (and some of my colleagues on this side may know who they are) could not find work. So I said, You know what I am going to do? We are going to put them to work. Mr. Speaker, we are struggling to keep them working, but we are trying. I am sure that Premier Dunkley probably does the same in his business. I am sure he does. I am hoping he does. But those are the things that some of us, Mr. Speaker, in this business community do.

It makes no sense for the OBA to give this permission. We are trying (I put my business hat on now, Mr. Speaker) to do our part to help our unemployed, Mr. Speaker, and then this happens?

[Pause]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Mr. Speaker, let me say this. Presently, if someone wants to seek employment in Bermuda, they have to write to the Immigration Department. That is what they have to do. I advertise, I have to write in for a job. Well, if a foreigner gets that job, that is fine. That is cool. But now, on that work permit, Oh, I have a significant other, or, I have one, two, three, four, five children. Well, guess what, Mr. Speaker? All of a sudden, they can get work!

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. The Junior Minister made it clear that they would have to apply like any other work permit application.

The Speaker: Right. Right.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I think it is very clear!

The Speaker: I think he said that they would have to apply for work permits.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: No, he did not, Mr. Speaker. He did not say that.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, no, no!

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: You said they would automatically get the work!

The Speaker: Honourable Member, do not tell me what I said!

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I am saying what he said, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, yes.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I am not saying what you said. I am making a point of order that they would have to apply. It is not automatic.

The Speaker: Thank you. I appreciate that.

The Honourable Junior Minister did say they would have to apply.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I agree. I heard him very clearly.

The Speaker: Yes. Right.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And so did the people of Bermuda. But what we are saying, Mr. Speaker, is would they have been able to apply otherwise? Before he made that change, could they apply? No! That is the difference, Mr. Speaker. Because they changed the rule!

That is what we are upset about over here, and that is what the people of this country are going to be upset about, because you could not do that before this change came about, Mr. Speaker, and that is what is upsetting us! And that is what is unfair to the people who are unemployed in this country, Mr. Speaker!

We have 4,000 people who are unemployed. And every little thing we can do or every little thing that the Government can do, they should be doing to get them working. Not trying to introduce policies that are going to cut their percentages down, Mr. Speaker. And we know how it works. The Honourable Member from constituency number 22 certainly knows how it works, Mr. Speaker. You have got people in this Island with master's degrees who cannot get work. So do not tell me about, Oh, well, they have to go through a vetting process at the Immigration Department, Mr. Speaker. We know how it works.

And the Honourable Member from 22 knows how it works.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Yes! Bermudians come first!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, Mm-hmm. Yes, we know. Bermudians come first.

So, Mr. Speaker, let me finish on this note. I think several Members on this side asked the Premier to look at this and deal with it in the way in which it should be dealt with, Mr. Speaker. This needs to be crossed out, marked off, Adios, amigo, Mr. Speaker. That is what needs to happen to this—Adios, amigo! Our people who are unemployed right now—4,000 of them—do not deserve a kick in the face while they are down, Mr. Speaker. So, OBA, let us have a rethink.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable and Learned Member, the Attorney General. Minister Trevor Moniz, you have the floor.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you, thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I will try and sort of lower the level of heat in the room. I think the Opposition are trying to work themselves into a bit of a lather here. At least we need to, I guess, agree what it is we are arguing about. We need to make it clear to the public what we are arguing about.

The Speaker: Exactly.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: When the substantive Minister gave his press release with respect to the new work permit policies that went into effect on March the 1st, there was a simplified regime for partners of people who are resident to apply for work. But it is clear, as was pointed out by the Junior Minister, that they still have to go through that step of applying for employment.

And the Members on the other side were worried initially about children.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Point of order.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: And children are persons under the age of 18, not otherwise.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Honourable Member. Honourable Member.

And MP Foggo!

[Pause]

The Speaker: You have a point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The present system, Mr. Speaker . . . The Member is misleading the House. And I do not think he is doing it deliberately. Under the present . . . before this new policy came in place, a person had to get permission to reside and seek employment. By the new policy, if your name is on the work permit, they can automatically go and seek employment. That is the difference.

The Speaker: All right.
Honourable Minister?

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Mr. Speaker, that Member, that Honourable Member sort of has it right, but it is not quite right. You do not have your name on the work permit. But if you can show that you are a partner of someone who is resident, be it a Bermudian or a PRC or a work permit holder, then you have the ability to seek employment without going through a formal process to seek employment.

But you cannot actually get a job unless, (a) it is a job that is available to a non-Bermudian; and (b) there is no Bermudian able to fill that job.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: There must be no Bermudian able to fill that job.

The Speaker: Honourable Members, let us give the Member an opportunity to try and bring some clarity, from his point of view.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: So, the Honourable Member who was saying that he had employed three in his business. He can rest assured that there will be no [non]-Bermudians getting those jobs, which should make him happy! There are no non-Bermudians going to take jobs from Bermudians in those work categories. And those are most likely either closed categories or restricted categories.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: No, but is that right in the case example you gave?

Is that right?

Yes. So those are not jobs which non-Bermudians are going to take. Those are not jobs that a non-Bermudian is going to take. So it is only going to be in a situation where it is a job available—

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Honourable Members, let us concentrate, because this is an important issue! So we should all listen so we can argue, you know, clearly.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: I am obliged, Mr. Speaker.

So it must be a job that is available for a non-Bermudian to apply for, and there must be no Bermudian who can fill that job. If there is a Bermudian available to do that job, the Bermudian will get the job. The Department of Immigration will protect them.

But one of the things that bothers me with the approach of the Opposition to this matter is that they seem to have the ability to turn positives into negatives. Even while the Opposition formed the Government, they were going out very publicly and saying . . . Even at that time, we had lost thousands of people from our population. And at that time, Government Ministers were going out and saying, Our population is shrinking. We can no longer maintain our health system. We can no longer maintain our pension system because we do not have people, employed people of working age, young healthy people, holding up the system through their medical premiums, through their health premiums, through their pension payments, who hold up the system. So the whole system is getting very creaky because when those 3,000 to 5,000 Bermudians left our workforce, and non-Bermudians went abroad, then we have a huge gap in our income which worsens the tendency that we already have towards an ageing population.

So, we need to do things to encourage young healthy people to come here to stimulate the economy, to make payments into the pension schemes, to pay premiums into the health system so that the whole system will be supported and will work.

We even heard these arguments, unfortunately, we heard negative arguments from the Opposition even with America's Cup. You know, they are worried about, Oh, well, should we let these people come in? Is this going to be spread to the people? The thing is, when you come in and you stimulate the economy, it is not a precise measure. But if you bring in people who are going to be renting homes and spending money, they are going to be employed. They are going to stimulate the economy. And if you ensure that they are only going to take a job for which there are no Bermudians available to fill, then it is not going to damage Bermudians' employment opportunities.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: And the Member on that side is saying nonsense. But the proof of the pudding is in the eating. On this side, we feel confident that we are stimulating the economy, that these measures will not hurt Bermudians, that they will in fact help Bermudians, and they will improve our economy.

The xenophobic attitude on the other side, saying, Well, we don't want these people here. We don't want them coming to Bermuda. We don't want them being employed, even when no Bermudian is available for the job is counterproductive, and it has destroyed Bermuda, and it is destroying our economy, and that is what they were doing when they were in Government. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency number 33. MP Jamahl Simmons, you have the floor.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

It is not xenophobic to want your people to come first in your own country!

Some Hon. Members: Yes.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: It is not xenophobic to stand up for our people, who were born here, who did not come here for a salary! Who did not come here—

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Point of order, Mr. Speaker. Point of order, Mr. Speaker! Point of order!

The Speaker: Honourable Member, take your seat.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: That Honourable Member is misleading the House. I quite carefully said the Bermudians will always come first.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: I am talking about xenophobia, Mr. Speaker, which is the word that that Member used, that Honourable Member used.

But, Mr. Speaker, the trust deficit . . . the trust deficit. I would believe the Honourable Members on the other side if before the election they had not said, We won't get rid of term limits, we will just suspend them. I would believe the Members on the other side if they had not said, We'll have a referendum on gaming, and they did the reverse when they got in power. I could run down the list of the OBA before the election and the OBA today, and Jekyll and Hyde would be a very kind comparison.

Mr. Speaker, I am not going to waste another breath imploring the One Bermuda Alliance to put Bermudians first. I am not going to waste another breath on appealing to the conscience and to the spirit of people who should put Bermudians first. I am not.

Mr. Speaker, the Bible teaches us that Pharaoh's heart was hardened. This is a Government that does not listen. So, Mr. Speaker, I am going to speak to the public. I am going to speak to the people. And I will not waste a breath on the One Bermuda Alliance.

To the people of Bermuda: If you knew that the One Bermuda Alliance would give the children of guest workers the opportunity to seek work in your country, would you have voted for them?

Some Hon. Members: No.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Mr. Speaker, I would ask the people of Bermuda: If you knew that the One Bermuda Alliance would seek to give the partners of work permit holders the right to seek work in this country, would you have voted for them?

Some Hon. Members: No.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: If you knew that unemployment would reach a record level under the One Bermuda Alliance, would you have voted for them?

Some Hon. Members: No.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: If you knew that air arrivals would plummet to the lowest level since the 1960s, would you have voted for them?

Some Hon. Members: No.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Mr. Speaker, they did. And I sent your Greek home, crying.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, Honourable Member, Honourable Member—

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Mr. Speaker. Is that xenophobia? Is that xenophobia, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker: Honourable Member!

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: I withdraw that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you very much. And I think what you need to do is speak to me.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Mr. Speaker—

[Gavel]

The Speaker: All right!

[Inaudible interjections and general uproar!]

[Gavel]

The Speaker: Order in the House!

[Gavel]

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, we have to begin to find a way to show our people that this is the country for them. Mr. Speaker, when you have . . . Before Christmas, all right, I saw some people on Facebook. I reached out to them. I said, Hey, I haven't see you in a while. And they said to me, Oh, I am living in the UK now. There is nothing for me in Bermuda.

Over the past year, I have seen the farewell parties on my timeline on Facebook. And I have seen the people leaving, and they say the same thing: They do not believe there are opportunities here for them. They have had the experience, some of them, of doing what they were supposed to, getting their education, going to the right schools and having soft skills and all the things that they said that they have, but be in positions where they might have been working under somebody on a work permit, and when the work permit came up, their immediate boss came to them and said, Look. Don't put your name in for that job. We like you where you are. And then the company would go to Immigration and say, There is nobody who wants this job.

They had the experience of being interviewed by somebody on a work permit who spends half the interview trying to convince them, This is not the job for you. You should be working somewhere else. You're so smart. This job is beneath you. They have had these experiences, Mr. Speaker. And these experiences are real.

And many of the Members of the other side, nature's passport has prevented them from experiencing that, straight up. They have not had the experiences of having to work under people less qualified than them and prop them up and make them feel secure and not threatened because their work permit is dependent on, you know, keep training a Bermudian or making a Bermudian . . . you know, all that stuff.

But, Mr. Speaker, there is an issue. There is an issue in the private sector. We spoke about this during the Budget Debate. There is an issue in the private sector. And there are employers in this country—make no mistake, Mr. Speaker—who will do whatever it takes. They will pay more money. They will hire inferior talent, because they do not want to hire Bermudians, for whatever reasons. They will hire their friends and family and find a way to do it.

The reason is, though, Mr. Speaker, as far as I am concerned, the penalties are too weak. Right? And we bear a burden for that as well. But, Mr. Speaker, I just speak to the people of this country. Have you had enough? Are you tired of it yet? So, Mr. Speaker, with that, I take my seat. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable and Learned Member from constituency number 36. The learned Member, MP Michael Scott, you have the floor.

Hon. Michael J. Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, responding in my opening remarks to the learned Attorney General, who sought to stand and defend that really unhelpful explanation by the Member who speaks for Immigration in this House, the Junior Minister, make the analysis . . . and it becomes a corporatist analysis. And this is the difficulty when you have a Government that is largely empowered or populated by corporatists. You have this huge conflict of interest.

But the learned Attorney General's analysis, Mr. Speaker, spoke to the lament, and made the lament of the failure of this country's current economy not to be able to support the health care system because there has been shrinkage in the employment area, and everybody is panicking. And so there is a race to the bottom, Mr. Speaker, a race to the bottom in reacting and responding to this problem.

In making the analysis, he says, Just open the gates to immigration. He ignored in his analysis—nowhere in the analysis was there a reference that was advocated and directed to this country as long ago as 1977, in the Royal Commission of Inquiry into the civil disturbances that I believe we are heading toward again with these kinds of crazy policies . . . The Royal Commission into civil disturbances in this country where the commissioners, Members of this House, and certainly its Chair, said training was important. Training is vital. Low immigration is the policy of this tiny Island. Training—training of your people, your native talent—this would be the right response.

To go into this race to the bottom and say, We open the category to partners and young people of foreigners is absolute . . . it is inexplicable. It was inexplicable when it was first ballooned by the Member who sits in the other place, and there was this storm in the country. And to have a bull-headed OBA Government (I hope that is the headline—bull-headed OBA Government) press this ridiculous policy in this context, Mr. Speaker . . . We have recorded numbers and statistics. We say 4,000 unemployed. Those who have not recorded themselves as unemployed probably pushes the number into 6,000!

Hon. Michael J. Scott: I do not care what the number is! There is significant unemployment. There are women in this country . . . so you are attacking young people. Young people are waiting to be employed. They are talented young people. You have women, your voter base, disappearing all the time. Women who have worked in this country in international business, for the first time in their lives are unemployed. Single mothers who are meant to be supporting households, unemployed. I meet with them. Never unemployed in their lives, now redundancies in the international business sector—unemployed, on financial assistance.

And you have just men unemployed. They make up this number, whatever the number is, between 4,000—whatever the number is—a broad new class of unemployed. In this context you have a policy from a Minister of Immigration that offers, as my learned friend and the Shadow Minister of Immigration points out, establishing a policy that offers wider employment, empowerment, opportunities to foreign young people and their partners!

Can this be? Can this be right?

Now, I would have thought that an OBA Government that has recently been on a very positive, happy tack (if I can put it that way), the buzz of job growth, the numbers of trades-people I watch coming into Dockyard across Somerset Bridge, across my home, heading out to Dockyard. I would have thought that in the buzz and the promise of jobs being bumped up in this country, the first salvo of the OBA Government would have been to offer opportunities to Bermudians, young people and Bermudians generally.

But this confounded policy, the boldness and entitlement of this policy to offer it on March the 2nd to non-Bermudian workers is extraordinarily inept! I cannot understand it. It just makes no sense. If you want to rebrand yourself as turning the country around and keep coasting on this marvellous buzz that is going on in the community, this wonderful new Western front that is being opened in Dockyard, offer it to your people first! But yet, who in your . . . as colleagues, why would you let a colleague, a senior ministerial colleague, put you in this position? It makes no sense!

The other day, Mr. Speaker, we heard, I believe it was the Honourable Member who is the Minister for Economic Development. I beg your pardon, the Honourable Minister for America's Cup. I believe someone in this House said, America's economy has begun to recover. Yet the PLP was so awful and left us in such an awful position that Bermuda has not begun to recover yet. So, on their own admission, Bermuda's conditions are not yet recovered, or in recovery.

So with that observation from that front bench of the OBA Government, plus women unemployed, young people too numerous to number looking for work . . . They are at home, they are in all of our homes, lying around all day. They want to work . . .

lying around all day. And when they cease lying around all day in our homes, they are out on the streets on the corner or on the wall.

You know, this is the reality. So young people, women with administrative assistants, the unemployment statistics given to us in this context, we have an OBA Government that declares this policy today. I really do not get it. I cannot understand that kind of . . .

Add to the list, Financial Assistance is now covered by the Honourable Minister for Community, Culture and Sport. That policy requires that members, clients who go into that building and apply for financial assistance, Mr. Speaker, must pound the pavement and come back with 20 opportunities that you have sought across the country in looking for jobs. And they all come back and tell each one of you—they certainly tell me—I can't find jobs.

So, in this context, you are offering jobs to foreigners?

An Hon. Member: Offering the opportunity to get a job.

Hon. Michael J. Scott: How much of the list must I continue to add to make good the case, as the Shadow Minister of Seniors and Workers, my honourable colleague and cousin said? You know, it started with Cindy Clarke at the high level of barriers to her employment in the country. We know that there are barriers to all of these unemployed folks, from young to women to middle-aged. And we have this confounding statement from the Minister of Immigration. And all this flowery language that is now in the new policy is not worth the paper it is written on.

Here is the point: The Junior Minister stood and sought to make some weak rationalisation, we all know what goes on, Mr. Speaker, and the learned Attorney General, that Immigration will protect Bermudians. Mr. Speaker, this is what happens. There is the huge difference between the ability of Bermudians to be able to vie for the job opportunity, to vie for the advertised job, and who is finally put in the job. This goes on all the time. This has been going . . .

The Immigration Department, with its best of will in the world, has been grappling unsuccessfully with this policy about Bermudians who are qualified for the job pitching up, and then the next line that is written is that the job was offered to the non-Bermudian because, you know, the Bermudian . . . and there are excuses that are made. The Bermudian did not quite make the grade or was overqualified.

That was a nonsensical attempt at getting around the righteous indignation, Mr. Speaker, the righteous indignation by the Junior Minister's attempt to say that Bermudians can apply for the jobs in competition with young people and partners of foreigners. It was a completely unconvincing statement. Because we know that there is a vast difference between the decision to finally employ and the decision to actually let the Bermudian compete with the non-Bermudian for the employment. We all know this!

So it amounts to the same final analysis that was indicated by the Shadow Minister of Immigration. Non-Bermudians are going to be placed in employment, and the statistic and the numbers on unemployment amongst young people and women and men in this country will not tick up! It will not move.

[Pause]

Hon. Michael J. Scott: So, Mr. Speaker, the children—the children and the young people of this country today have been served up a very bitter brew, in my view. Their sense of participation in this bonanza that is being declared and announced has taken at least a number of steps in the reverse until the Government actually says, stands on its two feet and says, All that we are doing in relation to this coming bonanza, we are linking it to opportunities for yourselves.

This is what we would have expected to hear. And yet, we have this policy from the other place that is going to affect this place, and every place and by-way in our country. And I find it bull-headed, insensitive and totally unbecoming of a government that seeks to claim that it is putting Bermudians first. Not your finest hour.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from St. George's South. The Deputy Speaker, MP Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, you have the floor.

Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Politics, it fascinates me. And I want to make sure that we this evening are not putting politics before the people. I just happened to look at, I was looking at some numbers. In 2007, there were 18,131 work permits issued. By 2013, that number had decreased. But this is not just an issue about work permits, Mr. Speaker. It is definitely an issue about Bermuda, about where we go, what we do and how we are going to survive.

I have a 17-year-old son. So I hear what has been said, Mr. Speaker. I get it. I get the concerns. I understand it fully, as a Bermudian and as a mother who wants to ensure that her son has a job, just like everyone else does. I understand that, Mr. Speaker.

But the truth of it is when I looked at it, and I did some research a couple of months ago, so it was just funny I happened to have some of my notes in my bag. When I was looking at the census, in 2012 there were 1,121 persons, approximately, who emigrated out of Bermuda. And that was in a period from 2002 to 2012. Of that, the statistics pointed out that 53 per cent of them were certified, qualified Bermudians who left Bermuda and took those experiences, took their knowledge away. And we have heard it from the other side. They had to leave Bermuda. They had to find jobs. They had to sustain themselves.

And some of them wanted to see how they can evolve away from Bermuda. A lot of individuals leave Bermuda, this small country of 21 square miles, so that they can develop and grow and come back to Bermuda and have an even greater opportunity and chance to get a higher position within the community, based on their experience internationally.

So, Mr. Speaker, one of the things that concerned me when I was looking at the numbers, and recognising that Bermuda needs people . . . More than anything, by the year 2017, we need (and I said it the other day) more hands on deck than we can even imagine, more hands on deck. Does that mean they are non-Bermudian and they are work permit holders? No, it does not. It means that we need all of Bermuda, all of Bermudians out there working.

Now, the concern that we have heard this evening, and again I was a bit concerned, truthfully—truthfully concerned because information going out there, the people of Bermuda depend on us. They depend on us to calm the seas. They depend on us to speak the truths. But sometimes, as part of human nature, Mr. Speaker, we see the truths differently. And I do not want to say that is politics, but the truth of it is, Bermudians do come first.

Mr. Speaker, as a St. David's islander, I can tell you that it is more imperative to the people from the east, I believe. We understand what it is like to be second class. We understand what it is like to be forgotten, Mr. Speaker. But again, like an analogy that I spoke of not long ago, it is like a bowl of water, a sink. And in that sink, where the stopper is stopped, there are Bermudians. We see the tap turned on and the individuals who are coming into Bermuda, because we need the importation of talent coming into the sink. But what we have seen also, Mr. Speaker, is that that sink clogger has been opened up and people have left the Island. So we need to clog that back up. Bermudians do need to return home.

But, Mr. Speaker, one of the things that flagged me most that I have heard, which is a real concern, and I would like us to focus on that concern, is that if employers are playing around with our immigration rules, and if individuals within this room are aware of it, I implore them, Mr. Speaker, to come forward! And if we do need to increase the penalty for spinning those rules, of breaking those rules to put non-Bermudians [to work] where Bermudians should be and deserve to be, well, then, let us address those rules! Let us make sure that we do not have people playing around.

But do not throw it out there that these things are going on and not do anything about it! Speak up!

Go to the Minister of Immigration and say, We're not going to stand for this! Do not stand on this floor and not put the people of Bermuda first! Because the way the rules of immigration work is that, if a job is going to be applied for by a non-Bermudian, it has to be advertised, Mr. Speaker! I know that if I am looking for . . . I will look for a job for my son; I will help him out. He is 17. I know he is not going to do it by himself. We know what our young boys can be like, Mr. Speaker. Parents often have to step in.

But if I see a job that is being advertised in the newspaper because it is opened up to the market, I know that I am going to apply. And if my son does not get it, and if a non-Bermudian gets a job that I believe my son can do, do you think I will not be making noise, Mr. Speaker? We have an obligation! We Bermudians have an obligation to actually speak the truth and know the truth and go where we know that we can have it fixed if we think it is broken! But, Mr. Speaker, we have an obligation to do that.

We also have an obligation, Mr. Speaker, not to spin fear when fear does not exist. But if people are breaking the rules, we have an obligation that is bigger than ourselves. It is about the people we represent.

So I understand the sensitivity, and I have to also say that I appreciated what the Member from constituency 33 said. He was the one who . . . The way I look at it, he highlighted the sensitivity of Bermudians being denied jobs in the workplace because there are employers out there who would like to fiddle the case. But, Mr. Speaker, there is nothing more that I can say, but we need people in our economy to help feed our economy. We need to address the concerns that are also out there. But, Mr. Speaker, I could not sit on my seat this evening to hear that the One Bermuda Alliance do not put Bermudians first! Because this one, this one, I do. Again, I have a son just like individuals who stood who have children as well. I understand the importance. I do.

But, Mr. Speaker, again, I implore anyone, anyone, anyone in Bermuda, you can come to me if you have to. You can tell me if you are aware that a non-Bermudian is getting a job over a Bermudian, I would be the first one to take it further if I have to.

Again, I reiterate what the Junior Minister said, and that is there are policies that have been established. Those policies have been put into place to protect Bermudians. And we as a government need to grow Bermuda so we are healthier than we have been in years. And as we go forward into 2017, I look forward to having more people employed, more Bermudians employed. All of us deserve that. And as a government, I believe that is one of our mandates, Mr. Speaker. Thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 6. MP Wayne Furbert, you have the floor.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Speaker, you know, I am sitting here tonight, and I am amazed how certain Members of that Cabinet can actually go along and support such a policy. Particularly Members such as the Honourable Member, Wayne Scott, who is from Warwick, constituency 27, and other Members who are sitting on that side.

How in the world, Mr. Speaker, can you set a policy to allow the children of non-Bermudians to compete against Bermudian children? How can you feel deep in your being that that is good? Mr. Speaker, they talk about that jobs have to be advertised. Well, Mr. Speaker, last year I recall the Minister putting forward a policy called the Bermuda employment visa that would allow exempted companies to employ some foreigners without needing to advertise. That is a clear loophole that will allow them to hire either the spouse of that non-Bermudian or the children!

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. That is for people who are significant in the operation when they bring a new company here. That is not for spouses or dependents.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Speaker, that person could still be significant.

All I am saying to the Members on that side is that you cannot be allowing . . . And let me tell you something. We all know that there are companies out there finding a way to get around not hiring Bermudians. That is clear! And there is not one Member on that side of the House who can stand up and tell me it does not happen. It happens all the time! I have heard many times Members on that side throwing out these accusations, Oh Members on this side are not getting the job. I wonder why! I wonder why!

I have heard Members on this side, I heard my honourable friend the other day said, Oh, when I finish up, I have got a job, implying something different, implying something—implying something. Many times, Mr. Speaker, Members on this side, just forget about our children, apply and do not get . . . And they are qualified—qualified. And I could give you examples from examples.

Mr. Speaker, we cannot allow non-Bermudians . . . And, look. We are not trying to . . . We understand that we want this economy to grow. But if you are allowing another individual or group of people to compete against our own Bermudians, it restricts, it encourages individuals to overlook Bermudians, by far! Do not tell me that Bermudians have to be out there packing groceries, washing dishes, because they are restricted. There are posts out there.

Let me just give you an example, Mr. Speaker. If I have a company and if I want somebody to be hired, do I hire my children first or do I go out and hire somebody else's children? The old-boy network can work. The whispering campaign goes on. My son needs a job. My daughter needs a job. My spouse needs a job. I remember an individual (cannot call names, and I am not going to call names, but [I] cannot even remember them). I remember they came here. The father, the husband came here doing some accounting work. And the wife came here with the husband. I see them now driving around those sporty cars, got the children in the car. Both of them have got jobs. They find a way, Mr. Speaker, to hire who they want to hire!

That is why we need—and we recognise it—that we need to clean up in that Immigration Department as far as hiring Bermudians. The Honourable Member, the Premier, is laughing. There is not one person who can tell me that they do not hire!

Mr. Speaker, I will give you an example. I am not going to call the law firm's name out. I used to be general manager of a law firm and financial controller. They advertised for a post. This is sometime back, not here recently. I went for the job. The partners hardly asked me any questions, not one accountant in that room, the accountants. I got a call from a person inside. They said, Wayne, they want to keep that individual. They want to keep that individual. Or I got a call back saying, You didn't qualify. Mr. Speaker, they find ways to ignore Bermudians!

And I am telling you right now, with all those Bermudians out there who are unemployed, and more to come . . . We understand today another international business made some staff redundant. Again, more Bermudians, and you are trying to send a message that you want to put more people in the pool to compete against Bermudians? Why are those Members whom I am looking at who got their heads down, not speaking up in that Cabinet and sending a message that [it] is not right? Why are you voiceless? Why are you spineless? Sending that message, Mr. Speaker! That is wrong! It is wrong! Our children and some families are going without food! Not able to pay their mortgages! Houses are being taken from them! And that Government is sending a message that they want to allow other people to compete against Bermudians? It cannot be right! It cannot be right!

Mr. Speaker, I warn the Government. I am warning you that the people are not going to sit down on this one. They are not going to sit down on this one. There are Members on that side who will come out of Cabinet ducking and weaving, hiding out, looking outside that window. But when it happens again, it is going to happen and it is going to happen strongly. Because you are setting policies in place driving investment away. You are setting policies in place that are driving . . . because of the concern. The concern—I will tell you right now. We heard of concerns of the march, the people from America's Cup were concerned about it. We heard it. It is political concern, political risk. Come on! Do you understand that? There were people who were concerned.

So if this continues over and over, people with investments are going to say, Why am I going there? We are trying to help other governments say, Listen . . . This is a small community. And you have to have some peace and calmness and things to work, so the people can be happy and so other people can make things happen! But if people are not able to feed their families, Mr. Speaker, you have nowhere else to go but back in—not back in the corner. You cannot go back in the corner.

And I know some Members on that side are not running in the next election, and they do not care. They do not care. That means . . . Let me go down the things done the way I want now. The rest of you [are] remaining.

Mr. Speaker, I am asking this Government to go back and look at this policy. Because if it does not happen today, if it does not happen tomorrow, something will come. Because you people are backed in a corner! I do not understand why they do not understand that. I do not understand that, Premier. Was there any opposition within that group? Are they all blinded?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Are all Cabinet Ministers blinded? Are all caucus members blinded?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Sure are.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Are you that weak?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Wow, wow.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Are you a weak bunch of . . . Are you weak?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Sure, sure.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Does nobody ever oppose anything in this group?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Never.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: What are you doing, gentlemen and ladies?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Speaker, it is not going to work. It is not going to work. It is not going to work. Every Member on that side has got a job. As a matter of fact, some of them are making more money now. Junior Ministers and so on and so on. But there will come a time, Members, when you are not Ministers, when you are not Backbenchers, when they are finished with you! Ask Donte Hunt.

An Hon. Member: Ooh!

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: When they are finished with you, Mr. Speaker! Because this is what happens. And then they look for the next person whom they can put out front, next person they can put out front.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I sure did. I recruited him. And you dropped him.

So, Mr. Speaker, there is going to come a time when they are going to run out looking for people who look like me. They are going to run out. They are going to run out. They will run out. And when the time comes, Mr. Speaker, there will be a few of them left in that group. As a matter of fact, they will be sitting over here by that time. They will be sitting over here, because of the policies and non-caring attitude that they have put towards Bermudians. Non-caring attitude! I could think of great leaders that come out of that group, former leaders, who would never allow such things to take place.

Mr. Speaker, we have got students coming home this summer. We have got students coming home this summer, and they are going to have to compete against individuals. Other countries, other countries and other Caribbean countries could find people who can do better. But they make sure that their people are taken care of first and foremost. We have this attitude that we have got to find the best. We have got to find the best. So if there is a person outside who is better than Bermudians, we will hire them. That is our attitude! Recognising that there are Bermudians who can do certain jobs, we find excuses!

There are mothers out there looking for jobs right now who cannot find it! But you are throwing another person in the ring and say, Hey, compete with my Bermudians. And they will find a job faster than Bermudians, Mr. Speaker. I hope that the Premier takes it back to his Cabinet colleagues and reverses. They know how to repeal. Reverse, repeal this policy and allow Bermudians to compete with minimum . . . We understand there are certain people to compete with. But to allow them to compete against the children of non-Bermudian workers is not right. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 21, Pembroke South East. MP Commissioning, you have the floor.

Mr. Rolfe Commissioning: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the people shall not be mocked. For many of us, this represents an existential issue. A number of my colleagues have spoken to the fact that growing numbers of Bermudians are living lives of quiet desperation, marked by unemployment, marked by social dislocation, marked by diminishing expectations and a loss of confidence not only in terms of the broader community and society in which we live, but more profoundly, in themselves.

Mr. Speaker, I heard the Honourable Member from constituency 22 extrapolate with respect to the Bermuda employment visa that the Honourable Member from constituency 6 evoked in his presentation that somehow that Honourable Member, my colleague, had gotten it wrong.

What was not said is that that Bermudian employment visa, which offered an exemption from Immigration control for upwards of, I believe, 20 employees within any respective company, that policy was deemed to be so outrageous that industry leaders within the international business community asked for it to be set aside. Because even they felt that it could have been problematic, even politically, I believe, if that was to be implemented by that Minister who sits in another place. Even they could see that it would create such a blatant perverse incentive, acting against the interest of Bermudians within those respective companies!

Mr. Speaker, we would have been opposed to this on principle under any circumstances. But to see this being touted, floated, pushed forward in an environment where unemployment is at record levels in this country, at 9 per cent, at a time when the Bermuda economic report issued only recently highlights that over 790 [additional] persons are unemployed in this country as of 2014, an additional number of people who are now without jobs.

Mr. Speaker, you will know that I spoke of the changing storm coming with respect to our insurance industry only a few days ago, and how the impact of insurance-linked securities and things, exotic instruments of investment such as catastrophe bonds were rearranging the industry itself right before our eyes, precipitating these mega-mergers. And I talked about the spectre of unemployment coming forward in that industry in a way that we have never seen in our lifetimes.

Well, today we got the first inkling that that process of creative destruction, which will also significantly impact many lives in this country, is underway, with the news that over 38 persons, 37 have been made redundant via RenRe [Renaissance Re], which had just amalgamated or merged with Platinum Re [Platinum Underwriters Holdings, Ltd].

My key point is, Mr. Speaker, that at a time when the headwinds of recession are deeply affecting this country, why would you put forth a policy which seeks to liberalise—liberalise immigration policy with respect to migrant labour in the country? I heard the Honourable Member from constituency 4 speak about the spectre (to use that word) of emigration over the previous decade. Certainly, we think, from anecdotal evidence, it has only increased over the last three years. While many of our best and brightest, those we have invested so much in in terms of investment in education and training, our children and grandchildren, who have left the country to parts beyond our shores, such as the UK, such as London, looking for work, as more commonly characterised, they now form part of the Bermuda brain drain.

No, Mr. Speaker. This cannot be right. This cannot stand. I have heard some of my colleagues offer a challenge to those Members on the other side of the aisle. Mr. Speaker, let me just try to elucidate a little more light on this by talking about some previous historical impacts of migration in this country. I want to refer very quickly, Mr. Speaker, again to the book authored the Honourable Walton Brown, Jr., Bermuda and the Struggle for Reform: Race, Politics and Ideology, 1944–1998. I spoke of that, of how the use of immigration policies in that post-World War II Sixties and Seventies period had a profound and damaging impact on Bermudians of your generation, mine and beyond, the impact which is still rippling through this society today.

But again, speaking to that challenge that was ushered in then, and which has now come full circle to be ushered in now by my colleagues to those Members on the other side, to stand up and say that this policy is wrong, let me offer this analogy. On page 103 of the aforementioned book, it says that “by 1960, the figure had grown modestly,” speaking about immigration to the country, “by 18 per cent to a total of 8,753 persons. However, the following decade”—we are talking about that decade from 1960 to 1970, Mr. Speaker—“it saw a significant escalation in the foreign-born population, an increase of some 66 per cent of the total, to a total of 14,496 persons. A small proportion of this were black, persons like my father and some of the members of the Esso Steel Band, 15 per cent, while over 83 per cent were white.

“Since more than half of these new residents were from the British Commonwealth, they were all entitled to vote after living on the Island for a period of three years.” May I just interject—give that Minister from another place a little more time, and he will try to accomplish that as well!

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Okay. "Finally, well over two-thirds of all foreign-born persons living in Bermuda in 1970, 69 per cent came to the Island during the 1960s." Getting back to the challenge, it appears, the author writes, "The racially motivated immigration policy by the Government caused the abrupt resignation of one of only two black United Bermuda Parliamentary Members, George O. Ratteray, in April 1967. Mr. Ratteray made a moral choice to stand up to what he saw as a blatant attempt at social engineering on the part of Bermuda's Anglo-Saxon elite in an effort to maintain the hegemony and dominance over Bermuda politically, socially and culturally in a way in order to navigate the threat posed by universal adult suffrage. He stood up to the encroachment of policies that were meant to continue the marginalisation of Bermudians, and particularly black Bermudians."

And I too ask those Members on the other side today, or tonight, to also similarly stand up for Bermudians! And to stand up for Bermudians does not mean you are anti-foreign! All of us have foreign roots! Let us get this right here! It is also standing up for social and racial justice in this country! We know the stats, even though in Bermuda we care to leave them unacknowledged. We know that is the ultimate taboo. We know who we are talking about here.

Like I said, Mr. Speaker, the people shall not be mocked. And I suspect, without sounding too ominous on this issue, which is very difficult, that the people's voices will be heard again. This is not a great day for Bermuda. Not a great day for the OBA Government either, because once again, it reveals its true philosophical, ideological DNA. It reveals its true provenance as the child spawned by the United Bermuda Party. The policies are consistent.

Some Hon. Members: Yes! That is right.

[Desk thumping]

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable E. David Burt, the Shadow Minister of Finance, from Pembroke West Central, constituency 18. You have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and good evening to you.

Mr. Speaker, the Labour Force Survey, which was conducted last year, indicated that there were 3,486 unemployed persons in Bermuda, the highest number on record ever. Against that backdrop, Mr. Speaker, we today see the One Bermuda Alliance making it easier for persons to come into Bermuda and to seek permission to get a job.

Now, Mr. Speaker, let me just be clear, because nobody on the Government benches has denied that this is a change in policy, Mr. Speaker, what is now possible was not possible before this change was made. That, Mr. Speaker, is the key. This is a change of policy. Previously, if you were the child of a work permit holder, coming home for the summer, you were not able to work in this country and get a summer job. This represents a change in policy, Mr. Speaker. That is what this is. So, as much as Members on the other side want to say, Oh, but you are still subject to work permit controls, Mr. Speaker, let me tell you.

The Honourable Deputy Speaker, the Member for constituency 4, got up and said, If there is anyone who is not doing anything or anyone who is not following work permits, let me be the one to know and I will hold out to it. Mr. Speaker, there are people every single day, Bermudians every single day, who are denied opportunities because there is a renewal. Or they already know who they are going to have.

We have jobs that are advertised in the newspaper, going through the recruitment firms, where qualified Bermudians are contacted. I have a story of a constituent where he was qualified for a job, was contacted by the recruiting firm for this job, and before he could send his résumé immediately to the recruiting firm or his information and cover letter about further information, he gets a message from the recruiting firm saying, Never mind. Just found out that it's a renewal. So it doesn't make sense applying.

So, how does the work permit policy work if it is supposed to protect Bermudians, but when there is a renewal, Oh, don't worry about applying. Recruiting firms are telling people, No. No. Not for you. Because we already have our man in place.

Now, how do you think that is going to work when the wonderful vice president comes down, who has relocated to Bermuda, which is a wonderful thing? And clearly, Mr. Speaker, that vice president is making more than $60,000 a year. So what happens when that wonderful vice president brings his wife, or it could be the vice president brings her husband, and they come down here? And what happens with the children when they come?

Before, they required special permission to reside and seek employment. That is what happened, Mr. Speaker. Now the permission is automatically given. So now the young person can go ahead and apply for the summer job. And guess what, Mr. Speaker? He is going to get it! And there are not an expanded supply of summer jobs that are going to exist in the Bermuda economy. What is going to happen is there are going to be fewer summer jobs for Bermudians! End of story! Fewer Bermudians being able to work inside the international business industry and gain the valuable experience; that is the result of this change of policy, Mr. Speaker! That is what we are up here discussing.

So, the One Bermuda Alliance can hide behind as many fancy words as they want. They can go ahead and they can get their marching orders of what to say in response, Mr. Speaker. But the fact of the matter is this is a change of policy that will restrict and lessen the ability of young Bermudians to work and gain experience in the international business sector. This is a policy which we will see now, because before, in order to come to Bermuda with someone, you had to engage them and you had to have had a wedding beforehand. Now, no! You can just be their girlfriend, say, Yeah, that's my girlfriend, that's my boyfriend. He can come with me. That is it! Before you had to be engaged to be married. Now, no! Anyone can come! Oh, you want to come? Oh, bring your girlfriend. Bring your boyfriend. Bring whoever! And, yes, they can come. And now they can automatically look for work.

That is the door that has been opened in this new policy, Mr. Speaker! That is the door that no one on the backbench of the One Bermuda Alliance, save and except for the Deputy Speaker, has the courage to get up and speak out against! What about the Honourable Member from constituency 1 in St. George's, the former mayor, who talks about the need to make sure that we protect Bermudians? What about the Member from constituency 14, who talks about the need to hire Bermudians, who represents a constituency where there is a large number of unemployed persons? Why is he not speaking up against this proposal from the front bench?

It is the wrong policy. It is the wrong direction to go. And it is not what this country needs. And for the young people, Mr. Speaker, who before the election had an advertisement, which I will table so all Members can be aware, had an advertisement from the One Bermuda Alliance, which said (and I quote, Mr. Speaker): "Qualified? Yes. Unemployed? No. He has worked hard and graduated. But under this government, nearly 4 in 10 young Bermudians can't find a job." Well, Mr. Speaker, the youth unemployment rate right now is 29 per cent, and we will see it go to a different level as a result of this policy.

The fact, Mr. Speaker, that the same party that had the audacity to run full-page ads with a young black male talking about how the Progressive Labour Party Government was not looking out for their interests, and we will, will come to Parliament and put this policy down and say that we are doing right by the people who elected us—it is wrong, Mr. Speaker. It is the wrong way to go. And I sincerely hope that some Members of the backbench will grow a spine and will tell their Government it is the wrong way.

Because when we talk about political stability, Mr. Speaker, this is exactly what I was speaking about in my Budget Reply. And until we can come together on a common immigration policy, we are not going to get investment in this country. We all need to be on the same page! It does no favours for us whatsoever for us to be having these debates in this Parliament right now. Because all it says to the international community is that the country is not unified on international business in our approach to employment. So we are not going to touch it because in the next election, when the PLP becomes the Government, they may reverse and change some policies.

We need to work together, Mr. Speaker. But on this particular policy, Mr. Speaker, it is wrong! There is no way that you can justify people being able to bring whomever they want with them and making them available to go ahead and seek employment, when we know the old boys' or old girls' network, which works in the international business, which keeps Bermudians out and keeps their friends and whoever they want to work inside those companies in, this is making it easier. This is not the correct way to go. The trickle-down economics will not work, and the people, Mr. Speaker, who before the election were treated to these advertisements, will see it for themselves if this Government does not reverse course. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair now recognises the Honourable Minister, the Minister for Community, Cultural Development and Sport, from Paget West, constituency [23]. Minister Patricia Gordon-Pamplin, you have the floor.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, let me make a contribution to this debate. And I hear the interpolations by Members opposite that one of my colleagues told me to speak. I find that really rather amusing. You know, I think my mother did not have much success in telling me what to say. So I think, after this many years, you can be assured that if I have something to say, I will say it. And if I do not, I will not.

But let me just speak to this particular issue and ask Members opposite to follow their own argument through to its ultimate conclusion. Because I think it is very easy to say something, then stop and bring the emotive reaction with it, and not complete the thought process.

What we have heard from Members opposite is that companies will hire non-Bermudians irrespective, in spite of what talents and what capabilities and what education and what a Bermudian will bring to the table. Well, Mr. Speaker, if that is the case, then does it not follow that, irrespective of whether this person who shows up at the door of the international company or the company, whether they have arrived on the shores as the result of coming with their significant other or whether the company has elected to put an advertisement in and decide that they are not going to hire a Bermudian irrespective, does that give any Bermudian any better opportunity? I am just trying to understand the logic that is being put forward by the other side.

Because what I see is that, if a company is not going to hire a Bermudian, they are not going to say, Because this person has come through my door, I am not going to hire this body. I am going to wait. I am going to leave the position vacant. I am going to leave the position vacant, and I am going to wait and go through the Immigration process and advertise and wait until I find . . . Or, as the Honourable Member opposite said, that there is sometimes renewal for which there is nobody who is actually going to replace that individual. Those things happen. We understand that.

We also heard through the census data that my honourable colleague from constituency 4 indicated, that between 2000 and 2012, 1,112 people emigrated. Because under the former administration, they could not find employment. So, does it bode well for us as Bermudians—

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Point of order, Mr. Speaker. Point of order.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Mr. Speaker, we know that. We know that we did not have serious unemployment here until around 2007, 2008. She has cited that stat was 2002. So there were other . . . There were a variety of factors which can account for those trends.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I take the point that the Honourable Member made. But I said that the number was 1,112 emigrants over that period of time from 2002 to 2012. In 2007, we started to see the downturn. So effectively, 50 per cent of the way through that exercise or through that process, you will have seen that, let us say it is half of those, 600 of the 1,200 people who left during that period of time. And I would venture to say that it was weighted more towards the end of the cycle than that towards the beginning, because people may have found it a little bit difficult. But what we found is that some of the policies that existed caused those people to leave the country.

Now, one of the things that we are talking about is people coming in. And we are saying, I heard Members opposite indicate that you bring a VP or somebody significant under the visa policy. You bring somebody into the country, Mr. Speaker, and now they are allowed to bring somebody in with them. But, Mr. Speaker, let us understand one thing. That sometimes, if you do not encourage significant key personnel to come in, then those companies perhaps may not even relocate. And for every one non-Bermudian, there are two Bermudian jobs that are supported. So we have to make sure that we open our arms to balance those situations, Mr. Speaker, in order to be able to provide opportunities.

Now, will I as a mother of two Bermudian men say for one second that I want to see my children unemployed to the benefit of somebody who is foreign? Absolutely not! But the one thing that kept coming up from . . . Oh, our children! I even heard an Honourable Member opposite from constituency 6, I believe it was, say that we think that we have to have the best! Why should our children not be the best, Mr. Speaker? Why should there be a presumption, as has come across as a common thread on the other side, why should there be a presumption that Bermudians will not excel? Our Bermudians can be the best! Our Bermudians can compete! Our Bermudians can qualify!

I, Mr. Speaker, am an example. You know, there was a time, Mr. Speaker, when to be a woman in the corporate world almost taboo. To be a qualified woman in the corporate world was a further problem. To be a black qualified Bermudian in the corporate world was almost non-existent. But what do you do? You let people know that you have the ability and that there is nobody, irrespective of what their policies are, who can hold that position ahead of me. And as a result, they will not get that job!

Now, we, Mr. Speaker, who now have made it to that level as a vice president of the company that I work for, you can be assured that when I look for employees, Mr. Speaker, to bring into my company, I look for Bermudians first. I can tell you, Mr. Speaker, that in the last 25 years of working in a position in which I have—

[Gavel]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: —had the ability to hire anybody, I do not hire foreign staff. Not because I do not think foreign staff are wonderful. It is because I am concerned. I do show concern and empathy and support for my Bermudian people. So to hear Members say that we are non-caring in our attitudes, the facts belie those comments.

And I know that it is an inconvenient truth. But, you know, we have to put right to some of the things that we hear and some of the untruths that we hear. We heard Honourable Member from constituency 5 say that the civil service have taken furloughs, so now we have all this money that we could pay these people to have these jobs. The furlough day and the public sector is not supporting any of the people in the private sector. The Government is not going to hire somebody outside of Bermuda if there is somebody qualified in Bermuda in order to be able to hold that job! So the focal point of the complaint and the concern are those areas that are coming from the private sector. And I acknowledge and understand that.

But let me just say, I also want to dispel the myth that the Honourable Member from constituency 5, I think, indicated, that we talked about Cindy Clarke. I think Members will know, and I think it is important for the public to know that this was not a situation in which the Government had any say over what was happening in that regard. The Honourable Leader of the Opposition, in consultation with the Honourable Premier at the time, I believe, accepted and recommended—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order. Point of order. Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: No one on this side—no one on this side—ever said that. Not the Member from constituency 5 or 6.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Yes, he did.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: He never attributed it to the Government—

The Speaker: Thank you. All right. Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: It was always the other place.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Okay. As I said, the Honourable Leader of the Opposition, in consultation . . . Or the Honourable Premier, in consultation with the Honourable Leader of the Opposition made recommendations in that particular position, and it was determined differently by whoever was—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Okay. Go ahead.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: The Honourable Minister is clearly once again misleading the House. I was never, as the Opposition Leader, consulted regarding the appointment of the DPP [Director of Public Prosecutions]. It had nothing to do with me!

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I am not even sure if the Premier was consulted!

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: It is none of our business!

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, thank you, Honourable Member.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Sorry, sorry. I did say the DPP; I meant the PATI [Public Access to Information] executive. I apologise.

The Speaker: Yes. So that is a correction.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: The information officer. I do correct myself, and I do apologise. I certainly do not intend to mislead this Honourable House.

But the position of the DPP was nothing to do with the Government or the Immigration policies. I wanted to just make that point clear. It was a decision that was taken in another place, outside of our control. And I just think it is important to point that out.

But let me just say that when people have not had opportunities under the previous administration, we wanted to try to ensure that we can broaden the base as much as we possibly can. Mr. Speaker, if people are not going to hire somebody . . . Let me just refer to the actual policy when it comes to employing relatives. Because we have heard a lot of, you know, Your children are going to come home for summer jobs, and they are not going to be able to get them. And what it says here is that an employer who makes an application to hire . . . (Sorry, that is the wrong one.) A sponsored dependent—a sponsored dependent may be permitted to work only if they are hired by an employer who has followed the normal policies to obtain a work permit.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Just a minute. Honourable Members, Honourable Members, can we be quiet? I am going to ask you for the last time. Let us be quiet. We are trying to get clarity on this. This is a very important matter! And when anyone is speaking, we want to hear what each person says. And they might be right; they may be wrong. But at least we want argument, clear argument! That is what this place is for!

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

As I was saying, that the employment of a sponsored dependent—and this is a dependent child, as we would have it. A sponsored dependent, or it could be an adult, may be permitted to work only if they are hired by an employer who has followed the normal policy to obtain a work permit. Those policies are subjected to the advertisement of the position, the proper vetting process. And once a choice has been made, the board, the Immigration Board, has the capacity to evaluate if there are challenges that come to the fact that somebody believes that they ought to have been qualified. That information is able to be presented, and it is all being considered.

Now, I know that the system as it obtains may not be perfect. But we certainly strive towards something that makes the policy work as well as it can. And I know that the previous Government [struggled], and we will struggle, because there will be people who perhaps have entrenched attitudes. But if they were not going to hire a Bermudian before this policy, they are not going to hire a Bermudian after this policy. That is the employer that we need to be able to drill down on. We need to be able to let an employer know that it is unacceptable, when there are Bermudians able to do a job, that that is the person who must, first and foremost, be considered.

So, Mr. Speaker, when the Honourable Members indicate that what used to be policy will now cause it to be a lot easier, if we are able to gain additional tax revenue without waiting for the company to go through the process of recruiting abroad and bringing in somebody—because we have already made the determination they are not going to hire the Bermudian, and having this policy or not is not going to change that significantly . . . So if the company is going to hire somebody abroad, they are going to go through the application process, go through the advertisement process, go through the interview process, go through the application to Immigration process and everything that comes along with it in order to get that one person from outside in, which is probably going to take three or four months, are we not better to maybe start getting some of the tax revenue from those individuals now if that person is capable? But not to the exclusion of the Bermudian, not to the exclusion of the Bermudian, Mr. Speaker.

We heard the Honourable Member also speak concerning mergers and acquisitions and whether it is the insurance-linked securities that caused the merger between RenRe and Platinum.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: That is what I heard. And if I misunderstood, well, I do not necessarily need to take a point of order if I misunderstood what he said.

But let me just say that my information concerning the merger of RenRe and Platinum is consistent with some of the other mergers that we have seen over time. And what those mergers have done is effectively to cause international companies to make different decisions based on their economic models that suit them, suit their bottom line, but also, more importantly, suit their places of abode such that they can have better tax advantages, better situations for themselves when it comes to conforming with laws relating to things like Solvency II and all of the other edicts that have come down relating to international company business.

So I did mention when we did our economic debate that we will not see things in the manner now that we used to see them before in terms of having the 100- or 200-member companies relocating here and bringing with them many of their corporate executives. We are going to see smaller companies coming. We are going to see less of the mega-company that is going to employ. So we have to be able to be honest and be embracing to our ability to attract as much into our tax revenue base as we possibly can. We want our Bermudians to succeed.

We are not going to have children, as we say, children of foreign people, even dependent children, who will, according to the policy, sponsor dependents. They can volunteer for an unremunerated position. But in terms of who is going to be getting paid, we are not going to have foreign children. If there is a restricted category, they will not be able to apply. If there is a closed category, they will not be able to have that job. So it is only an open category that we have to make the assumption that the rules will be sufficiently and stringently applied such that Bermudians are not being disadvantaged.

That is the ultimate aim. And if we are failing, Mr. Speaker, we are failing as a country because somehow we can tighten up the policy in order to make sure that the interviewing process, that the system allows for effective vetting of those applicants. What we do not want to do, Mr. Speaker, is to say, Let us throw the baby out with the bathwater. You might have somebody who is sitting here who is equally as capable, and but for the fact that we have got resentment and pushing-back as a result of it, we are effectively saying, No, we are not going to have that person. But a Bermudian is not going to get that job. So they are still going to wait to bring somebody else in. And the question is, Does that make any sense?

There was also the question concerning the significant other. And I understand the concern and the angst relating to that. But one of the things, there are rules and regulations that surround what is deemed to be a significant other. I am not sure how much time I have, if I can delve into that.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I have three minutes. Okay.

Because I wanted to make one other comment, I am not going to delve into that. But I believe that Members will at least have the opportunity to know that there are rules and regulations. It is not just, This is my girlfriend, and therefore she can come in with me, or, This is my boyfriend, and he can come in with me, and that marriage is not required beforehand. There is a substantive relationship test that has to be put in place in order to ensure that the person who fits into that category is—effectively, that there is a substantive relationship. It is going to be a substantive relationship. It is not going to be somebody . . . And the interesting thing is, the interesting thing is, that substantive relationship (hold onto our hats for this one), it may even be a same-sex relationship. That is also a possibility. So it is just important that we put that out there so that people know that we are not just saying that any old body can pick up somebody at the airport on their way, en route to Bermuda, and somehow they are able to create a family environment in a Bermuda context and then have the ability for that person to go into the market and to be able to apply for employment.

Mr. Speaker, let me say, if I say nothing more and if nothing else comes up, when we hear Members saying, you know, Would you have voted for anybody in the last election, would you have voted for the Alliance, for the One Bermuda Alliance if you thought this or if you thought that or if you thought the other? I have one question: If people had remembered some of the vitriol that came prior to the last by-election, would they really have voted for the individual? Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

HOUSE VISITOR

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Just before you speak, we just recognise the Senator, Senator Diallo Rabain, in the Gallery.

[Desk thumping]

[Motion to Adjourn continuing]

The Speaker: The Chair will recognise to speak now the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: It is midnight.

The Speaker: From constituency 26, Warwick South Central. You have the floor.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, it is morning, just for a minute.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Greetings and salutations.

Mr. Speaker, it has been a long day.

The Speaker: Long day.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: But there was one word that stood out a few minutes ago, and that was the term “political risk.” In that light, I would just say this: Whatever happens to the One Bermuda Alliance in regard to their relationship with the people of this country in the future, you deserve it because you brought it upon yourself. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Member care to speak?

Some Hon. Members: No.

The Speaker: We will return on Wednesday, March the 4th. Wednesday, March the 4th, at 10:00 am.

[Gavel]

[At 12:04 am [Tuesday, 3 March 2015], the House stood adjourned until 10:00 am, Wednesday, 4 March 2015.]

If there are none, those Minutes are confirmed.

[Minutes of 27 February 2015 confirmed]

The Speaker: The Minutes of March 2nd are to be deferred.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Speaker: There are no messages from the Governor.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE SPEAKER OR MEMBER PRESIDING*APOLOGY

The Speaker: I would like to announce that MP S. E. Jackson has asked to be excused today, from Pembroke South West, constituency 20.

PAPERS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS TO THE HOUSE

The Speaker: The Chair will recognise the Honourable Minister of Finance.

Minister E. T. Richards, you have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE (NO. 1) FOR THE FINANCIAL YEAR 2014/15

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, pursuant to the powers conferred by section 96 of the Constitution, I have the honour to attach and submit for the consideration of the Honourable House of Assembly Supplementary Estimate (No. 1) for Financial Year 2014/15.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

Any objections to that?

Thank you. The next matter is in the name of the Honourable Minister for Economic Development. Minister Dr. E. G. Gibbons, you have the floor.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good morning.

The Speaker: Good morning.

ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS (REGULATORY AUTHORITY FEES) REGULATIONS 2015

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Mr. Speaker, I have the honour to attach and submit for the consideration of the Honourable House of Assembly the Electronic Communications (Regulatory Authority Fees) Regulations 2015, proposed to be made by the Minister of Economic Development under sections 6 and 11 of the Electronic Communications Act 2011, and as read with section 44 of the Regulatory Authority Act 2011. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

Any objections to that?

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS AND JUNIOR MINISTERS

The Speaker: No Statements by Ministers.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The Speaker: No reports of committees.

QUESTION PERIOD

The Speaker: We have two oral questions from MP David Burt, from constituency 18, Pembroke West Central. You have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

QUESTION 1: PROCUREMENT CODE OF PRACTICE

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I have two oral questions for the Honourable Minister of Finance. Question number one, Mr. Speaker, is, Will the Honourable Minister please advise this Honourable House of the status of regulations to be made by him under section 33(2)(a) of the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act 1969?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Can you ask the second question? I am answering both questions at the same time.

The Speaker: Would you like to ask the second question then? Yes, why do you not do that, if he wants to answer it? Is that okay with you?

Honourable Minister, let us let the second question be asked as well.

QUESTION 2: PROCUREMENT CODE OF PRACTICE

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, the second question, of course, will be, Will the Honourable Minister please advise this Honourable House the status of regulations to be made by him under section 33(2)(b) of the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act 1969? And Mr. Speaker, I would hope that I could have my supplementaries for the two questions that I asked here.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.
Yes, Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.
As I just indicated, I would like to answer both these questions together because they are directly related.

The Speaker: Is your [microphone] on, Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Yes, it is.

It should be noted that . . . I need to provide some context to this question, Mr. Speaker. I am sorry, but it is a bit of a lengthy answer. But most of it is context.

It should be noted that the Public Treasury Act 1969 was amended by way of the Good Governance Act 2011 by the former Government to provide for the Minister of Finance to make regulations containing Financial Instructions and the Code of Practice issued by the Director of the Office of Project Management and Procurement [OPMP].

This amendment came into operation on the 21st of October 2011. I should note for the record that from the operative date until December 2012, these regulations were not drafted.

Since its former creation in 2011, the OPMP has not been fully established and has been managed by interim directors. I can report that after coming into office, the Government invited the Management Consultant Services Department (otherwise known as MCS) of the Cabinet Office to conduct a review of OPMP to determine the future structure and operations of the department.

The review focused specifically on the intent and purpose of the OPMP, as well as the potential of creating an Office of the Contractor General, and was completed in 2014. This review has delayed the completion and rollout of the Code of Practice, as the office had to be fully established in order to ensure that the Code of Practice was followed by all public officers and the proper oversight provided.

I can report that a draft code has been produced and will be circulated to key stakeholders for comment. It will then be sent to Cabinet for review and final approval. The Government is in the process of implementing the recommendations of the MCS report, after which the Code of Practice will be finalised and approved by Cabinet, and then rolled out to public officers.

Another provision of the Good Governance Act 2011 was to legislate the remaining financial instructions. It was intended that matters relating to procurement would be in the regulations for the Code of Practice, and other regulations would be produced using these components of financial instructions that will define the role and responsibilities of accounting offices in relation to the handling of the budget, the receipt and recording of revenue, and the processing of payments of expenses. It is clear from the foregoing that regulations under sections 33(2)(a) and 33(2)(b) were intended to be issued together.

In conclusion, I can advise that the Government is presently working towards the following:

- fully establishing and properly staffing the Office of Project Management and Procurement. Currently, there is no permanent director in the post;
- finalising the Code of Practice; and

- to complete the drafting and publishing of the regulations for the remaining Financial Instructions.

The Speaker: MP Burt.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

My supplementary is on the first question, which deals with the tabling of Financial Instructions.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. E. David Burt: Will the Honourable Minister please confirm if Financial Instructions are currently under review? Because I was not sure from his response that he gave.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Other than to have them placed in regulations, they are not under review.

The Speaker: All right. MP Burt, yes?

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, if then Financial Instructions are not currently under review, then why does the Minister not just table them, as he has the power to do under the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act 1969, to put those Financial Instructions and give them the force of law, of which they can have under the regulations?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Well, if it was that easy, I am sure that his Government would have done it from the time they enacted this to the time they were voted out.

I have already explained the context of this, and that we are reviewing the whole process with Procurement, Financial Instructions. As the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, the Honourable Member can have access to Financial Instructions all he likes. But insofar as putting them into regulation, not all of them go into regulations anyway. But the process is ongoing, and it will be completed when it is completed.

The Speaker: All right.
MP Burt?

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

My second supplementary is, When the Minister says it will be—

The Speaker: It is your third one, your third one.

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay, third.

The Speaker: Third, yes. And I will allow you four because you asked two questions.

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay, Mr. Speaker. I am still on the first question.

The Speaker: Yes, but you have had two supplementaries on the first question.

The Chair will recognise the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Supplemental?

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Can the Honourable Minister indicate when this process will be completed?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I cannot give a date, Mr. Speaker. But it is ongoing, and we will have it expedited as soon as possible.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.
Yes, MP Roban?

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Can the Minister inform us as to when it is likely that the post established for the Office for Procurement will be made permanent, since he indicated in his [answer] that they were not permanent as of yet?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Again, I cannot give a date for that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right.

Okay. Then, MP Burt, do you want to go to the second one?

Mr. E. David Burt: Yes, Mr. Speaker.
My supplementary on the second question.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. E. David Burt: It is regarding the procurement Code of Practice. The Honourable Minister stated that up until the election, there were no draft regulations produced. Can the Honourable Minister confirm to this House that prior to his Government coming into office, there were no draft regulations for procurement Code of Practice that were produced for his office?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I am not aware of any.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay. Well, one would hope that the Minister will take his time to become aware, because I am certain that there were draft regulations. Now, 27 months have passed since the election. So the question that I would like to ask, Mr. Speaker, is, When were the draft regulations, of which the Minister speaks about, completed?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I do not know.

The Speaker: Yes. Fine.

Leader of the Opposition, you have a supplementary on that?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Supplementary.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Early in the statement, Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Minister said that these draft regulations were completed. And so we would like to know, when were they completed?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I always find it interesting that they ask the question twice and expect a different answer. I just finished telling you I do not know.

The Speaker: So you do not know when the drafts were completed. Yes, right.

[Crosstalk]

The Speaker: All right. Just a minute.

[Gavel]

The Speaker: Yes. Leader of the Opposition, you have a second supplementary.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I would like to know, from the Honourable Minister of Finance, what, if any, procurement rules are being followed by the current Government?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The procurements rules that are being followed by Government are those enshrined in Financial Instructions.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you very much.

MP Roban?

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Just a minute. I want to listen to MP Roban. You have the floor.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Perhaps I am repeating the question already asked, Mr. Speaker, but would the Minister at least give an undertaking to table the existing Financial Instructions so that at least the Honourable House and members of the public know what is being followed, since he says there are drafts? But there must be some sort of body of rules or instructions that are being followed.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, Financial Instructions are not a secret document. They are the rules under which the Government operates, the Treasury operates. Nothing secret about them. So, you know, ask your colleague. I am sure he has a copy. You can get a copy just by asking the Accountant General. It is not a problem.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you, Minister. Yes.

You have a supplementary?

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: MP Foggo, yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Honourable Minister, could you please explain what the OPMP, Office of Procurement, what rules they are following?

The Speaker: I think he just said that, the Financial Instructions.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: You know what? I do apologise. I was not listening to you. I was more focused on something else.

Are there any set of special guidelines within that office that dictate how members who work in that arena behave?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Procurement Office, Mr. Speaker, is set up to try to assist in the fair and transparent giving-out of contracts for Government to the private sector. It operates under Financial Instructions, but it also carries matters to a finer and higher level of detail of trying to assess for Government how all of the various aspects that pertain to contracts being disseminated. It is referred to as a “matrix,” and it has come under rather a great deal of scrutiny by Cabinet because of some unsatisfactory aspects of it. In any case, that is also being reviewed.

But the overarching rules that affect the way that Procurement manages itself is dictated by Financial Instructions. And if anybody wants to get their hands on it, it is very easy to do.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you.
Yes, the Chair will recognise MP Roban.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: My last supplementary, I believe, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. Walter H. Roban: In light of the answer that the Honourable Minister has given, Mr. Speaker, can the Minister inform us if the Procurement Office was consulted about the recently announced airport terminal redevelopment project?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: That was not necessary because we got the necessary permission from the Accountant General not to go that route. And that was also in accordance with Financial Instructions.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Thank you, Honourable Members. Thank you, Minister.

CONGRATULATORY AND/OR OBITUARY SPEECHES

The Speaker: We move now to congratulatory and/or obituary speeches. Are there any Members who would care to speak?

The Chair will recognise first the Minister for Community, Cultural Development and Sport, from Paget West, constituency 23. Minister Patricia Gordon-Pamplin, you have the floor.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask that this Honourable House send a note of condolences to the family of the late Darcy Gimás. Darcy was a former Human Rights Commissioner, and she was actually appointed commissioner in 2013, and during her tenure was absolutely focused on ensuring that an important voice is given to include persons with cognitive and mental disabilities. And she brought that passion with her to the commission. Honourable Member, Minister Wayne Scott, would like to be associated with these comments.

It is only very recently that Darcy tendered her resignation from the Human Rights Commission, indicating that she was experiencing some health challenges and regretted having to step down. It was with pleasure that I was able to send a letter of thank-you for the work that she was able to do. And now on a very sad note, I send a note of condolences to her family on her passing. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Are there any other Honourable Members who would care to speak?

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Premier, from constituency 10, Smith's North. Premier Michael Dunkley, you have the floor.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good morning, colleagues.

Mr. Speaker, I first would like this Honourable House to send condolences to the family of Mrs. Patricia Railton, who passed away a couple of weeks ago, specifically to her children, Robert, Susan and David, passing after an illness. I would like to be associated with comments done by Minister Scott, I believe, a few weeks ago. A good family lost a great mother. And our condolences should be sent on behalf of this House. I think Shadow Minister Commissioning would like to be associated, and Honourable Member from constituency 29, Mr. De Silva, and Honourable Member from constituency 28, Jeff Sousa.

Also, I ask that this Honourable Chamber send condolences to Stanford Richardson on the passing of his wife, Marionette, shortly before Christmas. A wonderful family lost a wonderful mother suddenly to illness. And I would like to send out our thoughts and prayers on a very difficult time for a very strong family and a member of our community who was valued.

On a brighter note, Mr. Speaker, I would ask this Honourable Chamber to send congratulations to Reverend Conway Simmons and his wife, evangelist Joan Simmons, and the AME Church for the dedication garden that was commemorated to them yesterday afternoon at a service at St. Paul AME Church. I am sure many members of this community are well aware that Reverend Conway has preached the Word of Jesus Christ for 50 years now.

And the trustees and St. Paul Church thought it appropriate to recognise that certain commitment that we need in our community by dedicating a Prayer Garden. And I had the distinct pleasure of going over yesterday afternoon and participating in the ceremony. So, congratulations to them on the work that they have done, and to the church on their vision to keep faith alive and everything they did in the community. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you very much, Premier.

Would any other Members care to speak?

That completes congratulatory and/or obituary speeches.

Ms. Wolffe?

ORDERS OF THE DAY

The Speaker: We move to the Orders of the Day, which is resumption in the Committee of Supply for further consideration of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for 2015/16. We will continue this morning with Education.

And I am asking if the Honourable Member from constituency 14, Devonshire North West, would please take the Chair.

House in Committee at 10:29 am

[Mr. Glen Smith, Chairman]

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

[Continuation thereof]

The Chairman: Good morning, Members. We are now in Committee of Supply for further consideration of Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for Year 2015/16 for the Ministry of Education, Heads 16, 17 and 41. Four hours have been allocated to this head. I call on the Minister of Education, the Honourable Wayne Scott, to proceed. Minister, you have the floor.

MINISTRY OF EDUCATION

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

First of all, I would like to thank the Opposition Leader and Shadow Minister of Education for allowing this debate to go early on. We do have some key people who will be out later on in the budget process; so, thank you.

And I would like to move all three Heads, 16, 17 and 41, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, today I am delighted to present my first budget for the Ministry of Education since my appointment as Minister of Education in January 2015. As a result, the Ministry of Education has reverted back to a stand-alone Ministry and comprises the Ministry Headquarters, Head 16; the Department of Education, Head 17; and the Bermuda College, Head 41.

Mr. Chairman, it has been said that education is the best gift one could ever receive because, once you have it, absolutely no one can take it away from you. The Ministry of Education determines to ensure that every child is afforded an opportunity to receive the gift of education, from preschool to the senior high school level, and then be prepared for extended education into the later years at the tertiary level of education as young and older adults if they so choose. My focus will be Children First!

Mr. Chairman, the 2015/16 total allocated budget for the Ministry of Education, which can be found on page B-102 of the Approved Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure, is $127,130,000. This represents an overall decrease of $6,705,000, or 5 per cent, compared to the 2014/15 Budget allocation.

Mr. Chairman, the Department of Education, Head 17, accounts for the largest share of the Ministry's expenditure, at 86 per cent, while the Budget allocation for the Bermuda College, Head 41, represents 13 per cent. The Ministry Headquarters accounts for the remaining 1 per cent.

HEAD 16—MINISTRY OF EDUCATION HEAD-QUARTERS

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Mr. Chairman, I will commence the Budget Debate by detailing the expenditure for the Ministry of Education Headquarters, Head 16. The mission of the Ministry of Education, which is found on page 103, is "To provide strategic leadership, supervision and policy direction that supports quality delivery of teaching; and an inclusive and progressive learning environment to improve student learning and achievement for every child."

Mr. Chairman, to drive the execution of this mandate, the Ministry of Education Headquarters has been allocated a budget of $2,220,000 for the 2015/16 fiscal year. The Ministry Headquarters covers funding for general administration, education grants to external bodies, and scholarships and awards. The higher level of budgeted funding is due primarily to an increase in the level of funding allocated for scholarships and awards.

You will also note that a $1 million charge has been levied on Head 16, thus reducing the bottom-line total to $1,220,000. For the avoidance of doubt, this reduction will ultimately come out of the Education Department's budget, but as it is an administrative exercise, the Budget Office thought it best to be levied against Head 16.

Mr. Chairman, on page [B-104,] salaries increased marginally, which reflects a higher PS Scale subsequent to the review of a job description for the post of executive assistant. Monies budgeted for professional services totalled $114,000 dollars. These funds will be used to cover the cost of vendors who will be providing education services on a fee-to-service basis rather than receiving a lump sum external grant.

Mr. Chairman, in further reference to the $1 million listed under Receipts Credited to Programme, as part of the cost reduction proposals discussed during the recent meetings between the BTUC [Bermuda Trade Union Congress] and the Government, school consolidations was presented as a means for reducing the expenditure of the overall budget in the Ministry of Education. Our commitment is Children First, and thus the quality of teaching and learning in the classroom will not be impacted as we achieve greater efficiency through the consolidation effort.

Mr. Chairman, the last line item reflects $1,670,000, which has been budgeted for the distribution of external grants, and scholarships and awards.

Of this total, $470,000 has been budgeted for external grants. A thorough review of the terms, conditions and criteria for distributing external grants to organisations and individuals was undertaken during the fiscal year 2014/15. This resulted in the development of a standard letter of agreement to ensure that all external grants awarded, whether new or old, are consistent with the mission and system priorities of the Department of Education.

During the 2015/16 fiscal year, all organisations and individuals applying for external grants from the Ministry of Education must meet set criteria before being considered for an external grant, which include:

- submitting fully completed grant application forms;

- providing comprehensive financial information;
- reporting in detail the use of the grant monies by stating the educational purpose of their activity; and
- having good charitable standing as per the Charities Act 2002.

Mr. Chairman, $1,200,000 has been allocated for scholarships and awards, which reflects $200,000 more than in 2014/15. The Ministry of Education is committed to ensuring that Bermudian students have access to quality education at all levels and provides financial support for students undertaking tertiary education. Each year, the application period extends from January 1st to March 31st, and applications are available for download online from the Ministry's website. This year, for the first time, students were able to apply on BermudaScholarships.com.

In 2014, a total of approximately 170 applications were received from students. The scholarship administrator and the Scholarships and Awards Committee worked diligently during the period April to June, meeting twice or three times per week to review applications.

Mr. Chairman, the Further Education Award is awarded to students in financial need who have successfully completed their sophomore, or second year. In 2014, there were 26 Further Education Awardees, with each award ranging from $7,500 to $10,000.

The Mature Student Award is given to persons 35 years old by the 1st of September of the year in which the award is granted and is awarded based on financial need. In 2014, three Mature Students were given awards valued at $15,000 per year, renewable for up to three years.

The Teacher Training Award is awarded to students who have a GPA of 3.0 and above, and their programme of study must be a required subject identified by the Ministry's Human Resource Department, for which future staffing is required. In 2014, three Teacher Training Awards were provided at $15,000 per year, renewable for up to three years.

Mr. Chairman, the University of the West Indies (UWI) is an international university with faculty and students from over 40 countries and collaborative links with over 60 universities around the world. Since 2011, Bermudian students have been eligible for an education subsidy on tuition fees to study at any of the UWI four campuses. The Ministry has been funding four students since 2011, and I am most pleased to share that in 2014 the first student graduated from this partnership with UWI.

[Desk thumping]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: I would like to commend Miss Tyka Edness on completing her course of study. In July 2014, she graduated with a Bachelor's of Science in Physical Therapy from the UWI Mona Campus in Jamaica.

Mr. Chairman, Bermuda Government scholarships are awarded on an annual basis for up to four years of study and are valued at up to $35,000 towards the cost of tuition and accommodation at an overseas educational institution, or at the Bermuda College for a programme offered by an overseas educational institution. These awards are based on academic achievement, and applicants must have a GPA [grade point average] of 3.5 or above. The Ministry currently funds a total of 21 scholars who represent some of Bermuda's best and brightest academic stars, who will return to make positive contributions to the Bermuda community. In 2014, six Bermuda Government scholarships were awarded. Also, three 2011 Bermuda Government scholars received one-year extensions that can afford them the opportunity towards completing their undergraduate degree programme, to graduate this year in 2015.

Mr. Chairman, the Ministry Headquarters engaged in a number of activities during the past year that included the following:

- the signing of the NASA [National Aeronautics and Space Administration] Globe Agreement, a joint effort between NASA, the US Government and the Ministry of Education for the promotion of Eco-Schools in the public school system;
- the enactment of amendments to the Bermuda College Act;
- the development and implementation of a school registration policy;
- extensive public consultation, meetings and focus group sessions supporting the development of policy on Parental Involvement.

Towards this end, and as was laid today, of course, the amendments to the Education Act 2015. This parental-involvement legislation provides for active and meaningful involvement of parents in their children's learning at home and/or school. I would like to point out that most high-functioning school districts have some sort of parental legislation in place. This legislation recognises the importance of having parental involvement as a component of education.

HEAD 17—DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Mr. Chairman, I will now present the budget for Head 17, the Department of Education. I will also speak to the department's plan for the upcoming year. As seen on page B-106, the mission of the Department of Education is that the Bermuda Public School System will deliver a rigorous curriculum to meet the needs of individual students, using challenging learning experiences, appropriate assessments and efficient support that holds all accountable for a quality education in the 21st Century.

The objectives of the department follow accordingly on page B-106.

Mr. Chairman, to fulfil the objectives of the Department of Education, a budget of $109,902,000 has been allocated for the fiscal year 2015/16. This budget is close to $5 million less than the allocation in fiscal year 2014/15.

Mr. Chairman, the Department of Education is structured into three sections:

1. Educational Standards and Accountability, which supervises the 25 public maintained and aided schools and their respective principals;
2. Academics, which monitors curriculum and assessment, early childhood education, school improvement and staff development, and student services; and,
3. Business Operations, which include facilities, finance, human resources and information technology.

Mr. Chairman, during the 2014/15 budget year, the Educational Standards and Accountability Section expanded its focus on improving the quality of teaching and learning to increase student performance and the educational outcomes of all students. Consequently, a systematic improvement plan was implemented that included a Middle School Transformation Plan, a National Mathematics Strategy, a National Literacy Strategy and a Multi-tiered System of Support. The System Improvement Plan brings ongoing support for principals and teachers to better serve and support the public schools' diverse student population.

There were several highlights of the School Improvement Plan during the 2014/15 year that included:

- the development of a new transformative vision for all middle schools in Bermuda;
- instructional frameworks designed for the core subjects, mathematics and literacy;
- interventions programs in Language Arts were acquired for middle school students;
- there was a reduction in students failing core courses in three out of five middle schools;
- system-wide leadership training took place for department staff, school leaders and teachers in the areas of literacy, mathematics, intervention and leadership for the first time in over five years.

Mr. Chairman, the Middle School Transformation Plan was officially launched in July 2014. This plan was developed based on the results of academic audits conducted for each middle school between December 2013 and March 2014. The academic audits were intensive multifaceted analyses of student learning, teaching and leadership, with the objective of improving student outcomes. The three areas of focus were:

1. curriculum, instruction and assessment;
2. leadership and organisation; and
3. culture and community.

The results of the audits were shared with respective middle school leaders in May 2014 and subsequently to the public and other key stakeholders as a follow-through with our promised commitment to transparency and partnership. As a result of the audit findings, a Middle School Transformation Plan was formulated, highlighting 10 high impact actions that will be detailed later.

Mr. Chairman, this Middle School Transformation Plan calls for changes in the culture of classrooms across the system, from the traditional teacher-centred approach to a 21st century student-focused approach. It calls for dramatic improvements in the way educators plan, teach and structure the environments we expect our students to learn in. Mr. Chairman, as I stated earlier, our Children First.

Mr. Chairman, the National Literacy Strategy was implemented in September 2014, while the National Mathematics Strategy commenced in October 2014.

In order to deliver a first-class education in literacy and mathematics for Bermuda's public school students, there is an urgent need to improve the quality of teaching and learning in these core subjects in every classroom. The National Literacy and Mathematics Strategies were designed to provide a strategic three-year plan that will improve the literacy and mathematics outcomes of Bermuda's students by 2017 through the transformation of learning and teaching in our schools.

The remaining component of the System Improvement Plan, the Multi-tiered System of Support, comprises a comprehensive behaviour and academic intervention strategy and special services to meet our students' diverse and special needs. Work commenced on this initiative last month.

Mr. Chairman, overall, the System Improvement Plan builds from the 2010–2015 Blueprint for Education Reform and the Hopkins Report of 2007, in its commitment to transform teaching and learning in the classroom.

Mr. Chairman, the department also continued to build upon the Career Pathways Programme, exposing our children to workforce needs matched with their interests. This programme has been bolstered with the dual-enrolment programme where students are experiencing early college success by earning credit for college courses simultaneous to studying towards high school graduation.

Mr. Chairman, overall, the Department of Education is transitioning from a transactional to a transformational Department of Education. As a transactional department, there is the preoccupation of maintaining business as usual. However, the transformational Department of Education will focus on team-building; collaboration; efficiency in operations; effective communication with principals, teachers, students, administration, parents and the broad community; and continuing to improve the quality of teaching and learning to assure success for Bermuda's public school students, ensuring that we put Children First.

Mr. Chairman, the focus on transformation that the Department of Education is deploying is a three-fold learning organisational model that maintains transforming sections, increasing engagements and redefining roles. All three components are captured throughout the descriptive accounts in the Budget Brief.

Mr. Chairman, the Department of Education is headed by the Commissioner of Education. This post has been vacant since the departure of the former commissioner in April of 2014. The Board of Education has the legislated responsibility to hire a commissioner. The recruitment process has taken longer than expected, but it is anticipated that a commissioner will be in place by the start of the 2015/16 school year.

However, Mr. Chairman, senior officers in the Department of Education continue to be committed to the vision of providing a first-class education of global standards so that our students reach their full potential. Hence, in this spirit of commitment to the vision, and also for the purpose of staff development and growth, senior officers have diligently worked together during the course of the school year to rotate and share the responsibility of ensuring that the Department of Education continues to function effectively, from an operational perspective, in the absence of a Commissioner of Education.

Mr. Chairman, I will now present in greater detail the expenditures of cost centres that fall under Head 17. Let me start with Central Administration, on page B-107. Mr. Chairman, the overall budget for Central Administration in 2015/16 is $5,767,000. This programme provides a core part of the administrative function to support our public schools in the education system.

Mr. Chairman, the monies budgeted for cost centre General Administration, 27000, are $564,000. This expenditure will cover the purchase of educational and office supplies for the school year. Other administrative expenses covered include freight charges, customs duty and shipping costs.

Mr. Chairman, expenditure in 2015/16 for cost centre 27001, which is the Budget for the Office of Commissioner, is $689,000. This cost centre funds the salaries of the Commissioner of Education and his two direct reports, the Director of Academics and the Director of Educational Standards and Accountability. In 2015/16, fewer funds have been budgeted for overseas training, travel, printing costs and consultancy services.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27030, Human Resources, has been allocated $1,027,000 for the 2015/16 budget year. This cost centre funds the salaries of the Senior Human Resources Manager and the staff in the HR [Human Resource] section that comprises two human resource managers, two administrative assistants and a secretary. During the 2014/15 fiscal year, the HR team provided a diverse range of HR services that included the hiring of new teachers, new teacher orientation programme, the distribution of Long Service Awards to BUT [Bermuda Union of Teachers] staff, teacher sabbaticals, organisation of performance appraisal training for principals, and personnel administration and employee relations.

Mr. Chairman, during the 2014/15 budget year, the Human Resource Section was tasked with establishing a Leadership Development Programme for the purpose of effective succession planning and improved leadership skills across the public school system. To date, a combined total of 17 officers within the Department of Education and educators across the public school system have expressed an interest in going through the Leadership Development Programme.

Each participated in a comprehensive leadership diagnostic assessment to determine current strengths and development areas as a basis for developing the Leadership Development Programme, providing direction on targeted skill set needs. The Leadership Development Programme was due to launch in September 2014. Unfortunately, due to staff shortages and competing priorities, the development of the programme has not been progressed much further. It is the intent of the Human Resource Section to resume stakeholder consultations during this month of March 2015, with the aim of completing the design of the Leadership Development Programme before the end of the school year, and then share it with selected participants.

Mr. Chairman, as stated in my remarks earlier, the transformational Department of Education will continue to focus on improving the quality of teaching and learning for the success of our students. Thus, transformation of conducting business in the HR Section will entail introducing impromptu lesson planning as a component of the teacher recruitment process.

Mr. Chairman, any certified teacher, novice or experienced, can be reasonably expected to plan one lesson in their specialised subject area within the time frame of 30 minutes. While the novice teacher who has only completed a practicum will, of course, experience greater challenge with this activity, there is still a reasonable expectation that such a teacher will be able to design a well-structured, rigorous and student-centred lesson. A well-structured rubric for the lesson plan will be devised to ensure consistent ratings by the interview panel.

Mr. Chairman, in closing this section, good quality teachers is a must if our students are going to be prepared with a 21st century education to be competitive at the global level.

Mr. Chairman, funding for cost centre 27031, School Improvement, for the 2015/16 budget year is $1,519,000. This cost centre funds the salaries of four mentor teachers. However, it also provides the primary source of funding for training, retraining and professional development, particularly for teachers, but also for other support staff.

I have already highlighted areas of success and achievement that were experienced resulting from the implementation of our School Improvement Plan. However, I want to share in greater detail how the investment made by this Government has helped to add to the knowledge and skill capacity of our educators to impact teaching and learning, as the single most important aspect of any education system is what happens in the classroom.

The 2014/15 System Improvement Plan focused on key blueprint priorities and provides specific direction for teachers, school leaders and department support. The plan comprised five key areas for school improvement: middle schools, literacy, mathematics, academic and behaviour interventions, and inclusive and special education priorities.

Mr. Chairman, the transformation at the middle school level in the education system commenced in July 2014 with the launch of the Middle School Transformation Plan. It marked the most significant investment in re-professionalisation since the inception of middle schools almost 20 years ago. At the start of the school year, middle school teachers and leaders were oriented to the plan and received extensive training on the dynamic new instructional framework that is now being implemented across all middle schools. Lessons across all middle schools share the same instructional framework posted in each classroom. Each middle school targeted 30-day goals to ensure that the framework is part of the daily routines for every school. The work continues, with the monitoring of progress in each school.

Also, all middle school principals and members of their leadership teams received training in standards-based instruction designed to help all teachers to make an instructional shift. Principal and deputy professional development is currently focused on supervision, coaching and modelling good instruction. Special emphasis is being placed on principals having crucial conversations to lead teachers in the delivery of instruction.

Mr. Chairman, transformation at the primary school level was supported by professional development that aligned with the National Mathematics Strategy. The training began in the fall of 2014 when all primary school teachers, teacher leaders, principals and support personnel participated in an orientation of the National Mathematics Strategy. In February 2015, a group of 30 current and prospective teacher leaders began an 80-hour endorsement programme in mathematics that will emphasise modelling problem-solving and critical thinking. Also, 25 primary, middle and senior principals participated in a 10-hour training module focused on leading mathematics instruction aligned with the National Mathematics Strategy.

Mr. Chairman, teachers and leaders also experienced professional development that aligned with the National Literacy Strategy. In September 2014, primary school teachers participated in workshops focusing on several critical components of effective literacy instruction. In November 2014, all 18 primary school teacher leaders began professional training in [preparation] for conducting training of teachers at their respective schools. In December 2014, content-specialist teachers engaged middle school teacher leaders, learning support teachers and reading resource teachers in levelled literacy intervention training. In February 2015, all primary school principals and teacher leaders received training on the literacy framework and components.

Mr. Chairman, the Literacy and Mathematics National Strategies are the first of their kind introduced in the public school system. While in years past, the Department of Education has focused on professional training and resources, these strategies really define 21st century learning experiences and what is expected of instruction in the classroom. Several systems across the world that have shown growth in literacy and mathematics for students have focused deliberately on using frameworks of good teaching to guide schools.

Mr. Chairman, the MTSS (or Multi-Tier System of Support) programme is another key component of the School Improvement Plan for the 2014/15 school year. It is critical in supporting the success of our students. It is a three-tiered system of support for providing high-quality instruction and intervention for students. This system uses intense instruction and interventions matched to the academic and/or behaviour needs of our students.

In April 2014, officers in the Department of Education, along with school principals, participated in professional development training centred on implementing this comprehensive academic and behaviour intervention system as part of system transformation of teaching and learning.

Based on the philosophy that student achievement improves when classroom and school climates are safe, engaging and dedicated to improving academic, social and learning behaviours of all students, the Department of Education will implement MTSS services across all levels (preschool, primary, middle and senior schools). Our Children will be First in that the MTSS model embeds strategies and routines that contribute to a safe learning environment where instruction is delivered with high integrity and students experience high levels of engagement and success.

Mr. Chairman, the System Improvement Plan builds from the 2010 Blueprint for Education Reform and the 2007 Hopkins Report in its commitment to transform teaching and learning in the classroom. The funds in this cost centre represent a direct investment in the people tasked with improving the quality of teaching, as well as support staff. During the first quarter of the 2015/16 fiscal year, professional development will continue for the Middle School Transformation Plan and Math and Literacy Strategies. During the upcoming school academic year, one of the Ministry's priorities will focus on building the Multi-Tier System of Support programme.

In summary, Mr. Chairman, although the budgeted funding for the line item has decreased, you can see that we are spending this allocation with laser-like focus to ensure a higher level of success for the diverse range of needs that our students have.

Mr. Chairman, the cost centre 27090, Educational Standards and Accountability, has been allocated $1,071,000. This cost centre funds the salaries of three assistant directors who supervise school principals, and six content-specialist teachers.

The Educational Standards and Accountability (ESA) section works to ensure the highest quality standards for teaching and leadership in Bermuda's 18 primary schools, five middle schools, two senior secondary schools and special schools. The team is led by a director, along with three assistant directors who are charged with supporting the growth and development of schools in each of the three zones: East, Central and West.

Mr. Chairman, the ESA team is supported by five content-specialist teachers (CSTs), who are charged with assisting with the improvement of teaching and learning in the core content subjects, math, language and science. They demonstrate this through the provision of instructional coaching and programme support. Some of their work included 115 teachers receiving coaching during the school year, conducting 78 professional development sessions and providing 75 consultation sessions with 37 school and teacher leaders.

During the 2014/15 school year, the major priority of the ESA team focused on performance management for all school principals and the performance management of their respective teachers. This was essential to ensure improvement in the quality of teaching and learning at school sites across the system.

Mr. Chairman, the assistant directors and ESA director also provided school-site supervision via walkthroughs, instructional rounds, meetings, observations, professional development at individual schools and holding regular zone meetings with school principals and their respective teams.

Additionally, to support the efforts of transformation at the middle school level, the ESA team secured the services of the Pearson Education group.

This afforded all middle school principals and their leaders the opportunity to participate in regular professional development training specifically designed to produce system improvement outcomes. The following actions were a result of set objectives that the Pearson group designed in the professional development delivery:

- Middle school principals receive training in Leading for Change, making 30-, 60- and 90-day plans designed to help teachers make instructional shifts.
- Lessons across all middle schools share the same instructional framework posted in each classroom.
- Principals are mandated to observe lessons for 30 minutes every day for the first few weeks and then to shift to 90 minutes per day every day.
- Teacher professional development is currently focused on designing lessons for student achievement and rigour.
- Principal and deputy professional development is currently focused on supervision, coaching and modelling of instruction.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27095, School Attendance, has been allocated $397,000 for the 2015/16 year. This cost centre funds the salaries of an attendance coordinator and six attendance officers. It is their responsibility to ensure that children of compulsory school age are, in fact, in school. The attendance coordinator also operates as the department's registrar by facilitating the annual school registration process for enrolment of children in all government public schools.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27160, Substitutes, has been allocated $500,000 for the 2015/16 budget year. Allocated substitute teachers, who are assigned to specific schools, and on-call substitute teachers (those called in on a day-to-day basis) are funded from this cost centre.

Mr. Chairman, schools have a genuine need of coverage of teachers who are either sick or who need to take time away from school for various personal reasons, or as per their collective bargaining agreement. During the 2015/16 school academic year, the department, in collaboration with school administrators, will look at methods that will continue to streamline the number of substitute teachers, while maintaining the overall quality of instructional teaching in the educational system. Emphasis will be placed on early detection of needs due to advance notice of intended absences, creatively assessing how the needs can be satisfied using current resources available, and then implementing a strategy with continuous monitoring and evaluation of the effectiveness of the strategy.

Mr. Chairman, I would now like to present the expenditures for our Student Services Section. This can be found on page B-107 under [line] item 1702, Student Services. The total budget allocation for 2015/16 is $16,330,000. The Student Services Section facilitates the provision of several programmes that support the diverse special needs of our student population. These include:

- behaviour management;
- school psychological services;
- adapted physical education;
- deaf and hard of hearing;
- visually impaired;
- gifted and talented education;
- special education (also referred to as learning support);
- counselling;
- paraprofessionals;
- autism spectrum disorder (ASD); and
- alternative education and out-of-school suspension.

With the exception of the assistant director and education officers, who are responsible for the management and administration of the section, all other post-holders, such as the special education/learning support teachers, school counsellors and school psychologists, educational therapists and paraeducators, spend the majority of their working hours physically placed in schools.

The Student Services Section continues its efforts to produce and implement a new special education web-based Individual Education Plan (IEP) system that will improve the quality of IEPs and keep better usable aggregated and disaggregated data regarding students with special education needs. The new system will not only aid the improvement of education and services to the student, but it will serve as an effective accountability tool to tell us how as a system we are improving results for students who need IEPs.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27061, Behaviour Management, has been allocated $942,000. This cost centre funds one education officer for Behaviour Management, and seven educational therapists for pre-school and primary schools.

During 2014/15, the education officer for Behaviour Management provided programme supervision to all educational therapists at all levels as staff development. Educational therapists are each assigned three to four pre-schools and primary schools during the school year. Therapists observe each student under their remit who are identified as needing behaviour intervention services and classified based on their level of need.

Mr. Chairman, the Multi-Tiered System of Support (MTSS) is very promising in terms of meeting the needs of every child at every level. For educational therapists, this means that they will be assured that students on their respective caseloads will be, based on the data that will be collected in the MTSS model, true cases requiring behavioural intervention. Educational therapists will be key team members who facilitate implementation of behaviour interventions for our students, which should lead to lower number of student referrals.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27063, School Psychology, was allocated $781,000. This cost centre funds six school psychologist posts who work across all school levels. Additionally, an education officer for Learning Support and Behaviour is funded from this cost centre.

Mr. Chairman, the past year has proven to be a challenge due to staff shortages. One school psychologist retired from the Ministry after a long-term absence since 2012. The process to fill the vacant post is ongoing, as there is a need to restructure this section.

However, the school psychologists managed to deliver comprehensive psycho-educational evaluations and provide consultations, short-term counselling and intervention and preventive services within their respective schools. These deliverables will be further enhanced across all schools that require a psychologist, as a full complement of psychologists will be put in place during the 2015/16 school year.

Mr. Chairman, the Department of Education will be implementing MTSS (or Multi-Tiered System of Support), and Inclusive and Special Education Discussion Paper Priorities during the 2015/16 academic school year. These initiatives will assist the Bermuda public school system with ensuring that there is adequate documentation of intervention strategies and that a problem-solving approach is used to determine when a student is struggling due to innate challenges versus lack of instruction. The school psychology programme is highly impacted and will play an integral role through the diagnosis of students in these initiatives. Thus, this will be a priority for the department to be at full staff capacity next year so that our students receive the services they require.

Mr. Chairman, given the new direction that assessments are taking with regards to technology, there is a need in the future for the psychology programme to have funds allocated for programs and electronic devices that will be required to facilitate 21st century psycho-educational practices.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27064, Adapted Physical Education, has been allocated $288,000. This cost centre funds three adapted physical education teachers who work across all school levels. The teachers provide adapted physical education services and instruction to students, at all levels, with movement challenges and who need additional support to meaningfully engage in daily living skills and participate in the educational programme.

The Adapted Physical Education (APE) Programme is a developmentally appropriate physical education programme that helps students with diverse needs get active and stay active, by providing the adaptive support necessary to integrate them into the regular physical education programme. The adapted physical education lessons are implemented on an individual basis, in small groups, and also within the regular physical education setting. Students in the programme have movement challenges due to disabilities that range from mild developmental delays to severe physical limitations.

Mr. Chairman, the 2014/15 fiscal year marked the second year that the Adapted Physical Education team provided the Preschool Universal Motor Programme (or PUMP). An eight-week motor programme was provided, along with pre- and post-assessment information to all government preschools on the Island. Based on performance data, the first year of the programme was very successful, as there were significant improvements in performance levels across the board. The feedback from the preschool teachers and administrators continues to be very positive. Through this programme, the team provided early intervention services to children who were in need, as well as a boost of instruction and exposure to the entire preschool population. Based on the overwhelming success and general positive feedback with regard to the PUMP programme, the programme will be offered again during the 2015/16 school year.

Adapted Physical Education teachers will be encouraged to participate in ongoing professional development and training to incorporate strategies of Multi-Tiered Systems of Support in regular instruction and as members of the school teams. The purchase of new equipment and the repair of damaged equipment at Dame Marjorie Bean Hope Academy will allow the Adapted Physical Education teachers to effectively provide ongoing services and instructional supports for students who critically need intensive level of therapy.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27065, Hearing, has been allocated $317,000. This centre funds salaries for three deaf and hard of hearing teachers who serve approximately 25 students in the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Programme at all levels, preschool through senior school. Additional budgeted monies are used for content and disability-specific books and materials, hearing aids and equipment, and consultant (audiology) services.

Early intervention is an important part of the work of the Hearing Programme. It encompasses a preschool hearing-impaired programme to support the families and the children who are diagnosed with a permanent, communicatively or educationally significant (sensory-neural) hearing loss. Additionally, babies who are identified through neonatal hearing screening as possibly having a hearing loss are referred for a diagnostic assessment overseas. When a diagnosis is made, the families are referred to Student Services through either the Child Development Programme or the Bermuda Hearing Services. This referral process is critical.

Mr. Chairman, at the preschool, primary, middle and senior school levels, there are four schools designated for hearing-impaired children to allow them to receive higher quality levels of service. These schools are Prospect Preschool, Gilbert Institute, Dellwood and CedarBridge Academy. There are seven students enrolled at Gilbert Institute, one at Prospect Preschool and Dellwood who receive academic and sign language communication support on a one-on-one basis. Their classroom teachers are also provided with information and support. In addition, two students at Dame Marjorie Bean Hope Academy and students at Somerset Primary (one) and Harrington Sound Primary (one) also receive direct one-to-one hearing instruction and services.

During the 2014/15 fiscal year, deaf and hard of hearing staff—that is, teachers and paraeducators—participated in the department school improvement initiative training held in September and October. In addition, the assistant director of Student Services worked directly with deaf and hard of hearing paraeducators to ascertain future training needs and concerns. This year saw an increase in students who were referred by local and overseas audiologists. The current numbers indicate that students in our system continue to need ongoing support of deaf and hard of hearing services despite social impacts that influence older students to use less assistive technology.

Mr. Chairman, during the upcoming 2015/16 fiscal year, the Multi-Tiered System of Support will present an increased opportunity for deaf and hard of hearing staff to provide intervention services training and consultative training to general education teachers. This year, paraeducators and teachers will be provided with specific training and professional development to enhance their skills in the deaf and hard of hearing field, in terms of identification of needs, writing appropriate goals and objectives, collaborating with other teachers, and the use and implementation of assistive communication technology.

Mr. Chairman, I would now like to move on to line item 27066 on page B-107, which is the Vision cost centre. This has been allocated $292,000. This centre funds salaries for three teachers of the visually impaired who teach medically diagnosed students who are visually impaired, blind or have low vision. The teachers are responsible for all levels and teach the Cambridge Curriculum, as well as compensatory skills to help these students function and thrive in a regular classroom environment and, ultimately, in the world. Students in this programme continue to benefit from school, family and community support.

The funds also cover the cost of assessment materials and Braille equipment to support the needs and provide vision instruction and services for a caseload of 72 students.

Mr. Chairman, vision-specific training opportunities were provided for the teachers and paraeducators in September and October 2014 during scheduled professional development days. Overall, the 72 students in the Vision Programme were provided with the necessary support, as indicated on their Individualised Education Plans and vision assessment recommendations. We are pleased to report that one vision teacher was provided funding to attend an overseas workshop that focused on vision assessments. The knowledge and tools acquired from attending this workshop helped tremendously in enhancing the Vision Programme for students.

Mr. Chairman, the training and development of a current vision paraeducator was provided through sabbatical services last year. This staff member will return to a vision teaching position to ensure appropriate caseload management for all students. Training for the vision team and individualised training for the vision teachers and paraeducators will continue so that specific needs of our vision students can be addressed and appropriately maintained.

Mr. Chairman, the cost centre 27069, Gifted and Talented, has been allocated $246,000. This cost centre funds the education officer who supervises the programme and a Gifted and Talented Resource Coordinator. The dip in expenditure reflects the loss of one post resulting from the hiring freeze and a decline in the monies budgeted for overseas training. However, the department will continue to maintain the level of programme services it currently provides to students.

Mr. Chairman, the Education Officer for Gifted and Talented Education provided programme and clinical supervision that included delivering gifted instructional support to teachers who had identified gifted students in their regular classrooms. Additionally, ongoing job-embedded professional development was offered to principals, teachers, students (and parents at some schools), using the Renzulli Learning System and Enrichment Clusters programme. With their new gained knowledge, teachers who participated in the training produced two integrated units for instruction for use with Primary 4 and Primary 5 students for an entire term, using the Cambridge International Curriculum objectives for math, language and science, the Bermuda Social Studies Curriculum, dance, drama, music and visual art specifically for gifted and talented students.

Mr. Chairman, West Pembroke Primary School implemented Enrichment Clusters for their schedule for all Primary 2 to Primary 6 students during the first school term. Students participated in interest-based learning opportunities that consisted of groups of students working with school personnel and experts from the community. Students who participated in the Website Creation Enrichment Cluster were awarded the Young Innovators Award for display of their knowledge and end product, which were student-created websites.

Professional Development using the Renzulli Learning System has seen a 7 per cent increase in teacher usage, as it is being implemented to intentionally embed within daily instruction. The system affords students with a powerful learning experience via a technology tool. At present, 3,560 students have account access to the system, which offers differentiated learning options for all students and offers enrichment for students who are gifted. The upcoming school year will see all students within the Bermuda public school system have access to a Renzulli Learning System account through the implementation of a system-wide enrichment program model.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27071, Office Support, has been allocated $517,000. This centre funds the assistant director of Student Services, an administrative assistant and four support teachers. This increase for this cost centre was due primarily to the salaries of the four support teachers, who were paid initially from the budgets of their respective schools, but during the year were correctly shifted to this cost centre, as reflected in the 2014/15 revised estimates that increased to $454,000.

Mr. Chairman, the cost centre 27072, Counselling, has been allocated $2,776,000. This centre funds the salaries for one education officer, Counselling; 15 preschool/primary counsellors, 10 middle school counsellors and one alternative programme counsellor. The salaries for 10 counsellors and two heads of Student Services at the senior level fall within their respective school budgets.

Mr. Chairman, the education officer for Counselling provided programme and clinical supervision to all preschool, primary, middle and alternative school counsellors during the 2014/15 school year, that focused on adherence to the counsellor performance standards. Additional professional development for counsellors included educational sessions on the Multi-Tiered System of Support, non-suicidal self-injury and multi-cultural counselling competencies.

The department also took advantage of training offered by the Family Centre and the Family Intimacy Centre on utilising the Child Behaviour Checklist, a tool used to assist with treatment planning; and professional practices and self-care.

Middle and senior school counsellors accessed the American Counselling Association's webinar series on Suicide and the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders Fifth Edition (DSM-5). The DSM-5 is the 2013 update to the American Psychiatric Association (APA) classification and diagnostic tool. The DSM serves as a universal authority for psychiatric diagnosis and treatment recommendations.

Mr. Chairman, during the school year, 36 counsellors and two [Department] Heads delivered all four sections of the delivery component of the Comprehensive, Developmental School Counselling Programme. This included providing over 3,400 classroom guidance sessions pertaining to developing positive self-concept, positive interactions with others, academic achievement and career planning. Individual planning meetings with students continued, with a renewed focus on academic performance and an emphasis on linking school performance to career success. Additionally, the professional school counsellors made over 9,500 parent contacts and facilitated more than 11,500 individual counselling sessions.

Mr. Chairman, all counsellors have implemented a plan to assist and advocate for students who are failing two or more classes. Counsellors continue to assess students' attainment of Core Guidance Curriculum competencies in the areas of decision-making, taking responsibility for actions, career planning and self-awareness.

Mr. Chairman, the overall feedback from both parents and students emanating from individual planning counselling sessions has been encouraging and is having a positive impact. As an example, one parent response was: I found the following helpful: We were encouraged to think about our son's future goals and what his life would be like after high school. An example of a student response was, I learned that I don't just want to just pass S1. I want to pass with a satisfying GPA. I commit to going to tutorials for math and Spanish. This meeting helped me to be more organised in terms of going to tutorials.

Mr. Chairman, our school counsellors are doing an excellent job in the preparing of our students to think beyond where they are now and in understanding that good study habits, exercising self-discipline and making better decisions today positions them for a successful, bright future tomorrow.

Mr. Chairman, I turn now to cost centre 27073 for the Summer Programme, which has been allocated [$299,000.] This funds the cost of teachers, textbooks and supplies for the department's summer intervention programme. Formerly referred to as "Summer School," the Summer Intervention Programme provides intensive instruction for students who have not met the targeted academic standard to help prepare them for senior school.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27074, Learning Support, has been allocated $4,113,000. This centre funds three education officers for Special Education and Learning Support, in addition to 40 learning support teachers for preschool, primary and middle school. This includes four learning support teachers who teach at Bermuda's only special school, the Dame Marjorie Bean Hope Academy. The decline in funding is a direct result of reduced funding for travel.

Mr. Chairman, this year, cost centre 27076 reflects the funding for the salary of the education officer for Early Childhood Education. And that cost centre, 27076, is Early Childhood Education, Mr. Chairman. Later, I will speak about the Child Development [cost centre 27125] and After-Preschool Programmes [cost centre 27700] under [line item] 1712 on page B-109, which provides for the detailed activities of Early Childhood Education.

However, the position of Education Officer for Early Childhood Education will ultimately be moved from [Student Services, line item] 1702 to [Early Childhood Education, line item] 1712.

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27079, for Paraeducators, has been allocated $3,593,000 for the 2015/16 budget year. Last year, the Department of Education committed to increasing the monitoring and supervision of paraprofessionals with more scrutiny applied to the development and review of criteria and paraprofessional placements.

Mr. Chairman, for the first time in several years, paraeducators met in September and October 2014 for a collaborative training opportunity and were surveyed regarding professional development needs, job descriptions, and overall awareness and connection with the Student Services Section. Valuable feedback was obtained based on conversations, question-and-answer period and written surveys. It is intended that this feedback will help refine and shape the role of paraeducators and the services they provide our students.

Mr. Chairman, the Student Services Section is experiencing an increase in requests and demand for paraeducators to meet the diverse needs of our children in the educational system. This means that our paraeducators now require more training and accountability. Specialised training will be provided in Learning Support, Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), Deaf and Hard of Hearing, and Vision programmes.

During the month of March 2015, the Student Services Section will undertake an annual review of paraeducator services to ensure appropriate placement and determine the extent of need for continued services and support. In June 2015, annual evaluations will be conducted. Additionally, in the new budget year, a proposal will be drafted for implementation of a new paraeducator handbook and guidelines to address the observed needs for standards, evaluations and annual professional development requirements.

Mr. Chairman, the funding allocated to cost centre 27083, Autism Spectrum Disorder (or ASD) is $702,000 for the 2015/16 budget year. This centre funds all salaries for Autism Spectrum Disorder teachers and those paraeducators who service students with autism within the ASD programmes at four schools (three primary schools and one middle school). In addition, the funding covers operational costs for equipment repair and maintenance, and educational supplies.

Mr. Chairman, many students on the autism spectrum require more intensive services, including therapies that cannot be adequately provided in the regular classroom setting. ASD classrooms currently reside at the West Pembroke, Prospect and Paget Primary Schools, and the Dellwood Middle School. Due to the high number of students with autism at Dame Marjorie Bean Hope Academy, we will open a new ASD classroom, as well as provide autism training for all teachers and paraeducators at the school because our Children are First in the transformation of the public school system. Currently, 29 students are supported by the ASD programmes at the five school locations.

This fiscal year saw an increase in student progress and achievement. There is a general sense that behaviour management has improved, and students in the ASD programmes are meeting success in various ways. In addition, the numbers of students who demonstrate autistic behaviours are increasing at a steady rate. There is the opportunity for our Student Services Section to meet with one of the two [key] autism advocacy charity organisations on the Island. The relationship building, cross training and collaboration will improve overall partnering with the organisation, parents, and the school system. Autism Awareness Month continues to be a highlight for the Island to promote and teach autism awareness and build independence for the students in our ASD programmes and throughout the public school system.

Mr. Chairman, during the 2015/16 fiscal year, the ASD team will work to collectively promote autism awareness and improve educational, environmental and social conditions of the students in the programme and throughout the public school system. Autism Diagnostic Observation Schedule (ADOS) screening and assessment, an opportunity that will be implemented by the team at the Child Development Programme (CDP), will ensure appropriate evaluations of students with autism and earlier intervention.

Specific professional development opportunities and training will be provided for all staff related to autism-specific instructional strategies, behaviour modification techniques, and communication exchange programmes. In addition, the upcoming purchase and implementation of a new Unique 2 You curriculum will help enhance student opportunities and provide teachers with an accessible, interactive, standards-based tool that will accommodate the diversity and needs of our student learning.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN

HOUSE VISITORS

The Chairman: Minister, could you have your seat a second?

I would like to recognise the former Senator of Education, Nalton Brangman. We also have Senator Marshall here also today. Thank you.

Minister, take the floor.

[Committee of Supply on Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16 continuing]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, the cost centre 27084 for Alternative Education and Out-of-School Suspension has been allocated $1,342,000. This funds both the Alternative Education Programme and the Out-of-School Suspension Programme.

Mr. Chairman, the Alternative Education Programme was developed for at-risk youth with severe behavioural challenges who were not showing academic or social success in the regular school environment. This student population is being serviced through tutorial sites in an attempt to meet their individual learning and behavioural management needs. There are currently 41 students enrolled in the programme, down from 69 last year. While in the Alternative Programme, students are monitored daily, receive counselling services, as well as psychological support and other services, if required, such as drug abuse counselling or anger management. Through hard work and dedication, they have remained in school. The goal is to support student achievement and develop socially accepted behaviours.

During the 2014/15 school year, middle and senior school students with severe behavioural challenges will have two types of services available to them. Students who cannot cope behaviourally at the school level are placed in an alternative setting around the Island that offers the GED, fully certified vocational certification or fully accredited high school diplomas. Students whose behaviours are too extreme and cannot be placed in an alternative setting or remain at their schools, for the first time have an educational placement that enables them to pursue either their regular high school diploma or the GED. Students also have the opportunity to receive City and Guilds Work Placement Certification at the S1 and S2 levels.

The Out-of-School Suspension Programme is a product of mandated compliance with the Education Act so that suspended students are in line with the legislation. The programme delivers curriculum to students who have been removed from school for committing infractions such as fighting, or possessing and/or using weapons or drugs.

The programme eliminates the practice of students being suspended to their homes with no educational supervision. Reports on each student's completion of assigned tasks from their sending school are sent to each principal. The introduction of weekly reports is probably the first in our system of education. Not only do the reports inform on the progress of each student, but they enable the student's school and parents to monitor the student's progress step by step. Recommendations for reintegration then should come as no surprise. Students also engage in an exit interview with the school counsellor and the educational therapist assistant on their last day.

During the 2014/15 school year, the Department of Education expanded services to meet the needs of this growing population. As student suspension and mental health needs increased, the need to provide intensive alternative education options were required. The Alternative Centre for Student Advancement currently serves a maximum of 10 difficult to place and manage students. The Learning, Accountability, Professional Development, Self-Awareness (LAPS), is a preschool and primary school reintegration programme that supports a maximum of six students at that level who demonstrate extremely disruptive and harmful behaviour in the regular classroom.

Mr. Chairman, students in these programmes have such intense needs that additional support can enable the staff to work more effectively with each child. To date, the synergy among staff, as well as their leadership qualities, is becoming stronger as each recommits and dedicates self to the programme and the success of the students. We say thank you to the staff.

Mr. Chairman the Multi-Tiered System of Support is very promising in terms of meeting the needs of every child at every year level in the public school system. For each behavioural programme, this means that they will be assured that students will be, based on the data that will be collected in the MTSS model, true cases requiring behavioural intervention. This will ensure that students receive the needed behavioural support through the positive behavioural interventions and supports component. Thus, this may in the future lower the number of students referred.

The Alternative Centre is currently in the process of becoming a pilot site for the National Alternative Education Association, based in the United States.

Mr. Chairman, I would now like to focus on [line item] 1703, the Finance and Corporate Section.

Mr. Chairman, the cost centre 27002, Finance and Corporate Services, has been allocated $730,000. This cost centre supports the staff in the financial administration of the department. They include a department comptroller, financial services manager, a salaries supervisor, a salaries clerk, three accounts clerks, and a messenger. This section is responsible for providing strategic financial advice to senior management, cost-effective and responsive financial services, procurement and contracting services, and corporate planning solutions to the Ministry's management, employees and schools. This includes payroll administration and processing, scholarship and grant disbursements, and financial reporting.

Under the direction of the comptroller, this office coordinates the payment of salaries for approximately 1,150 educators and department staff and pays all suppliers and vendors for goods and services purchased, as well as organises the collection of receivables.

Mr. Chairman, the cost centre 27003 for Office Accommodation has been allocated a budget of $862,000. This cost centre funds the annual rent, office maintenance, electricity and communication costs of the Waller's Point, Southside building, as well as its receptionist. The lower budgeted funds for this cost centre are due to reduced expenditure for electricity costs and telephone equipment rentals.

The cost centre 27040 for Educational Stores has been allocated $615,000. The funding supports salaries for the store's manager, a storekeeper, two truck drivers, two labourers, a cleaner, as well as the cost to purchase curriculum-based materials and cleaning and maintenance materials for schools. The decrease of $81,000 in budgeted funds is partly due to the hiring freeze of one of the labourer posts.

Mr. Chairman, the funding for cost centre 27041, School Transport, has been allocated as $423,000. The cost centre funds the salaries for three bus drivers and two bus attendants, who provide transportation to children who attend the Dame Marjorie Bean [Hope] Academy; two grounds-men who maintain school sports fields; and one Labour, Transport and Safety Officer. The centre also funds the costs to maintain the department's motor fleet.

The Labour, Transport and Safety Officer, who works closely with the department's Facilities Manager, participated in two IFMA (or Internal Facility Management Association) seminars, which are steps towards achieving the FMP designation as a Facility Management Professional.

Mr. Chairman, I now wish to discuss cost centre 27042, Building, Grounds and Equipment. This cost centre has been allocated $1,166,000. The cost centre funds the salary of the facilities manager. The remainder of the budget covers the cost of repairs and maintenance for facilities at all educational and administrative sites that fall under the Department of Education. These include preschools, maintained primary, middle schools, our special school, the Child Development Programme and the Alternative Education and Out-of-School Suspension Site.

Mr. Chairman, the facilities manager is currently undertaking an assessment of security needs across the public school system for the development of a new security schedule for the 2015/16 school year. Additionally, the facilities manager will be seeking to work with the Department of Energy to identify systemic energy-saving measures to be implemented in the department and across all public schools.

Mr. Chairman, the facilities manager participated in two Internal Facility Management Association seminars, which are steps towards achieving the FMP (or Facility Management Professional) designation. This designation will ultimately equip the facilities manager with the in-depth knowledge of facility standards and guidelines to follow along with the core competencies of facilities management.

Mr. Chairman, to conclude my presentation on expenditure for the Finance and Corporate Programme, I will now move to cost centre 27050, Information Technology Support, which has been allocated

$2,792,000. Major reductions in expenditures included the cost of telephone data lines, overseas networks and funding for temporary IT contractors. The IT Section provides IT support for all schools, programmes and administrative sites that fall under the Department of Education. This cost centre supports salaries for the IT Manager and 10 staff, who together provide information technology support services to approximately 6,000 users, as well as parents or guardians of all primary, middle and senior school students who use the ParentConnect web portal. They also support hardware and software maintenance of some 2,500 computers and 1,000 peripherals across the Bermuda public school system.

Mr. Chairman, during the 2014/15 fiscal year, the IT Section facilitated a number of initiatives to improve the delivery of IT services across the education system. These included the following:

- reduced the number of Internet connections representing to achieve cost savings;
- upgraded the speed of the Internet circuit to 50 MB;
- commenced the migration of virtual servers to new hardware;
- installed new networking equipment and added capacity [to] the disk-based backup to meet the growing data needs of the public schools;
- replaced problematic servers in the primary schools and seven network switches damaged during Hurricanes Fay and Gonzalo;
- installed 37 SmartBoard projectors purchased at the end of 2013/14;
- upgraded Literacy Pro for all schools to support the Literacy Initiative and Scholastic Reading Counts.

Mr. Chairman, last year, the IT Section purchased the Impero Classroom monitoring software that was installed in two Labs at one of the middle schools. This software allows the lab teacher to monitor and control what students are doing on their PCs, directly from his or her PC. The teacher can also perform tasks such as disable the Internet, restrict access to a specific set of websites during the lesson and disable printing.

Mr. Chairman the main focus for the 2015/16 budget will be to maintain the current IT equipment installed in the schools and concentrate on core infrastructure upgrades to support future technologies. Also, IT equipment will be purchased to outfit the Sandys Middle School Library when the interior renovations have been completed.

Mr. Chairman, on page B-108, we turn to [line] item 1704, which is the programme for Preschools. The 2015/16 budget for all preschools is $4,932,000. Salaries are funded by 90 per cent of the preschool budget. [Also,] 10 per cent of the budget is for operational costs such as electricity, part-time cleaners, phones, office equipment rental, and drinking water. Most of these costs are fixed expenses.

Mr. Chairman, there are 10 preschools in the Bermuda public school system. At the beginning of the school year, 395 children were registered. Currently, 403 children are enrolled. Preschools range in size from two classes at St. David's Preschool to eight classes at Warwick Preschool. Preschool classes continue to be capped at 10 students per teacher, and preschools with 30 students or less are run by preschool administrators who also teach a class. However, we anticipate a decline in enrolment for the cohort of children entering in September 2015 due to a decrease in the birth rate.

The Government continues its commitment to the transformation of Early Childhood Education (which is zero to eight years). The leadership and direction needed for the Early Childhood Programme has been provided, and a strong emphasis will now be placed on modernising preschool environments and on methods for implementing curriculum. The Creative Curriculum/Teaching Strategies Gold Assessment Tool has been mandated for all preschools, ensuring a common set of learning expectations. The Creative Curriculum study kits that have been purchased by many preschools use an inquiry approach with a focus on investigative and inquiry learning.

Mr. Chairman, a model preschool, with a focus on classroom environment, was created during the past year for teachers to be positioned to envision what an inquiry classroom for pre-schoolers looks like. The goal is to have Bermuda's preschools reflect the rich cultural values and learning potential of Bermuda. All preschool administrators are engaged and have committed to developing a deeper understanding of the inquiry strategies and intentional teaching provided in the Creative Curriculum, and to provide professional learning to their staff.

During the 2015/16 school year, the Creative Curriculum will be implemented more effectively through the purchase of training and study kits. The inquiry framework will guide professional learning in preschool through P3. As such, protocols that will guide assessment practices for preschools and early primary school will be developed.

Mr. Chairman, our Children are First, and their educational foundation is critically important. Therefore, to improve teaching and learning in preschool and deepen the implementation of the curriculum, professional development and coaching will be provided as needed.

Mr. Chairman, I will now move down the page of B-108 to line item 1705, Primary Schools. The total budget allocation for our 18 primary schools is $30,408,000. The increase in the budget represents a combined effect of the absence of furlough days, plus vacant posts due to the hiring freeze.

In September 2014, enrolment for the 18 primary schools was 2,594 students. Historical enrolment numbers show that, since 2004, there has been a steady decline in primary school enrolment, from 3,138 students to 2,637 students in 2011. During the past three years, or since 2012, primary school student enrolment has averaged approximately 2,600 students each year.

The department continues its intensive work in the primary schools to provide imbedded support to schools in the areas of English, mathematics, social studies and science. The teacher leaders, who provide content and teaching support to their colleagues in these core subjects, as mentioned previously, received coaching, professional development and consultation sessions from the department's content specialist teachers during the past year.

Mr. Chairman, in February 2015, staff at the Department of Education undertook a review of the primary school curriculum, with the overall goal of improving the effectiveness of curriculum delivery at the primary level for the 2015/16 school year. This initiative stemmed from the need for consistency and accountability in the delivery of the school curriculum. The data are being analysed, and a big-picture view will be obtained on how the curriculum for all subjects is being delivered at the primary level for the core subjects of mathematics, language and science; and the encore subjects that include social studies, physical education, art and music. The major components of curriculum review included:

- the quality of instruction in delivering the curriculum;
- school organisation and structure in delivering curriculum;
- the inclusions of 21st century skills and technology;
- the quality of student services to support all students in being successful;
- understanding of the student experience with the current curriculum.

Mr. Chairman, we endeavour to put our Children First. Therefore, the results of this curriculum review at the primary school level will provide us with the data and information needed to make informed decisions, moving forward; to have an effective, consistent curriculum delivered at the primary level; and to provide that strong foundation for our students as they progress on their educational journey.

Mr. Chairman, I now guide us to the bottom of the page, B-108. And the final line item on that page, cost centre 27120 for the Dame Marjorie Bean Hope Academy, was allocated a budget of $572,000. A total of 19 students with specialised needs are currently educated at the school, with support from their families, the community and the Department of Health.

Mr. Chairman, I previously shared that there has been an increasing number of students with autism at the Dame Marjorie Bean Hope Academy. The delivery of special services to meet the diverse needs of our students is important. Therefore, in this regard, we will open a new ASD classroom at the school.

Mr. Chairman, I ask that we turn the page to page B-109, line item 1707 relating to Middle Schools. The Bermuda public school system has five middle schools, two of which are aided schools. The total budget allocation for Middle Schools is $17,088,000.

In September 2014, enrolment for the middle schools totalled 1,028. Student enrolment at the middle school level has also been on the decline. However, since 2009, the annual student population for all middle schools has been averaging just under 1,100 students each year.

Mr. Chairman, last year, the Department of Education embarked on an ambitious multi-year plan to transform the face of middle schools. Factual data was collected via audits of the educational and social state of middle schools, and the results indicated that there were systemic deficiencies that needed to be addressed.

In July 2014, the Department of Education officially implemented the Middle School Transformation Plan and outlined 10 High Impact Actions that will be implemented during the 2014/15 school academic year to improve all student learning and teaching over the next three years. These actions are directly aligned with well-researched characteristics of successful middle schools.

Progress to date for the execution of the 10 High Impact Actions across our middle schools is as follows:

1. Develop a 21st century vision for middle school education. This was completed in August 2014;
2. Provide school leadership teams with specific training to lead school improvement. This is ongoing;
3. Utilise a common bell schedule with standard times and opportunities for student learning, intervention, teaming and advocacy. This was completed in August of 2014;
4. Implement a structure for the delivery of high-quality lessons across all schools and subjects. This was completed and established in September 2014, as standard;
5. Eliminate ability-tracking, to ensure that all students have access to high-quality learning experiences. This was completed and established in fall 2014, as standard;
6. Provide focused professional development on creating active, rigorous and engaged learning experiences to all teachers and leaders. This was [started] in fall 2014 and is ongoing;
7. Ensure all students have academic interventions if they fail classes within the first quarter. And this is ongoing;
8. Establish a mandatory standard which clearly defines readiness for transition into and out of middle school. This is expected to start in June of 2015;

9. Establish comprehensive behaviour intervention programmes in every middle school. Orientation training started in January 2015; and
10. Raise the qualifications standard for all middle grade teachers within three years. This is expected to start in May of 2015.

Mr. Chairman, the execution and successful implementation of the Middle School Transformation Plan will involve a collaborative effort. The Department of Education will provide the required support to schools and professional development training. Each school principal and their leadership team are responsible to ensure that the transformation occurs at their respective school site for the improvement of teaching and learning, school leadership and social climate.

Mr. Chairman, [line item] 1708, on page B-109, refers to our two Senior Secondary Schools, the Berkeley Institute and CedarBridge Academy. Together, the senior schools service close to 1,200 students, with just under 200 staff. During the 2015/16 fiscal year, our senior schools have been allocated a combined budget of $23,366,000. Each school is provided an annual grant for the operational management of their respective school and the school curriculum.

Mr. Chairman, during the past and current school years, our senior students have experienced a number of achievements worth mentioning. However, not all can be shared at this point. Nonetheless, I will highlight a few just to give you a taste of their accomplishments.

- At the Berkeley Institute in November 2014, more than 100 awards were presented to Berkeley students for their academic achievement, community service, and special awards for citizenship and character.
- The Berkeley Institute has six students currently participating in the Dual Enrolment Programme at the Bermuda College and enrolled as full-time students. If they continue this course of study, these six students will earn an associate's degree plus their secondary school diploma in the same year.
- The Berkeley Institute also excelled in the Arts and Technology when one of their students won an award for his five-minute documentary, Bermuda Is Another World, at the 2014 United Nations Youth Conference Film Festival competition.
- Mr. Chairman, at the CedarBridge Academy last year was a ground-breaking year for students in the functional academic programme (designed for our children who are provided special services to succeed). This programme is based on the UK Entry Level Curriculum. For the first time, students successfully completed the programme and were accepted at colleges in the United Kingdom to commence their studies in September 2015.

- Also, there were four students who graduated last year as elite athletes. The criteria to be an elite athlete is as follows: Students must play on several sports teams during their four years of senior school and earn a cumulative GPA of 3.2 or higher. These students are not only awesome athletes, but also students who have demonstrated high levels of academic excellence.
- CedarBridge Academy has four students participating in the Dual Enrolment Programme at the Bermuda College who are enrolled as full-time students. They are taking a full complement of college-level courses and experiencing the introductory life of a college student.

Mr. Chairman, our senior students are doing extremely well, and we must celebrate their accomplishments.

Mr. Chairman, I would now like to turn to [line item] 1709, Curriculum Assessment, which has been allocated a total of $3,052,000. This cost centre funds the Cambridge International Curriculum-related initiatives, Education Officers for Curriculum and Assessment and the Career Pathways Programme.

Mr. Chairman, this will be the fourth year that the Department of Education will be offering the Cambridge International Curriculum, and we are seeing good fruit as a result of the implementation of this curriculum. The data now show that our students are entering the Bermuda College more prepared and enjoying greater success in their studies.

Mr. Chairman, during the upcoming school year, the department will review and upgrade the Bermuda school curriculum in the key subjects of business studies, world history, design and technology, and physical education and health as part of a larger, comprehensive revision of the current curricula.

Mr. Chairman, the cost centre 27010, Literacy Initiative, has been allocated $181,000. These monies fund the salaries of two primary school co-teachers who assist literacy coordinators to deliver the Literacy Collaborative Programme.

Mr. Chairman, the investment in literacy continued during this school year with the launch of a National Literacy Strategy in September 2014. The department's content specialist teachers for language arts received full training in Levelled Literacy Intervention, and the tools and knowledge they acquired from this training will be shared to enhance the learning of all middle school students. Primary and middle school teacher leaders were engaged in a series of literacy training and coaching professional-development workshops. By the end of the first school term this upcoming school year, all students with specific literacy needs should have been identified and the relevant literacy intervention strategies developed for each student.

Mr. Chairman, the implementation of the Cambridge International Examinations at P6, M3 and S2 are funded from cost centre 27020, Assessment and Evaluation. Additionally, it funds the salary of a senior education officer, research, measurement and evaluation. This centre was allocated a budget of $534,000 for the 2015/16 budget year.

Mr. Chairman, at the senior level, students were registered for IGCSE [International General Certificate of Secondary Education] and AS level examination in June and November 2014. The IGCSE is a requirement for students to receive the Bermuda School Diploma (BSD). A total of 1,200 external examinations were taken by students ranging from M3 to S4 in the areas of English, mathematics and the sciences to include biology, chemistry and physics.

At the primary and middle school levels, the checkpoint examinations were used from Cambridge to provide benchmark data for the transition points at primary (P6) and middle (M3) levels. As the students at primary and middle school levels are taught skills and concepts in English, mathematics and science, students from all public primary and middle schools sat the Cambridge Primary Checkpoint (P6) and Cambridge Secondary 1 Checkpoint (M3) evaluations. In April 2014, a total of 383 students in P6 and 350 students in M3 sat Checkpoint examinations.

Mr. Chairman, detailed analysis of the exam results has indicated that our students have challenges in both mathematics and literacy. As such, system-wide national improvement strategies in these two core subjects have been implemented to support teaching and learning from the primary to senior level.

The Chairman: Minister? You have got one—okay.

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: I spoke in detail earlier about the National Strategies for Literacy and Mathematics that were introduced in September and October 2014, respectively. Mr. Chairman, just last month, February 2015, a curriculum audit of a sample of our primary schools was conducted to create a Primary School Improvement Plan. This plan is intended to raise the quality of teaching and learning at the primary school level. The Curriculum and Assessment team will ensure that all schools are maximising the assigned curriculum in 100 per cent of the areas by the end of the 2014/15 academic school year.

The Chairman: Thank you.
Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Good afternoon, Mr. Chairman.

I ask that we rise for lunch.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Colleagues, we will adjourn the House, and we will return at two o'clock, when we will resume this head.

Proceedings suspended at 12:31 pm

Proceedings resumed at 2:00 pm

[Hon. Dennis P. Lister, Chairman]

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

[Continuation thereof]

The Chairman: Good afternoon everyone.

[Gavel]

The Chairman: For the sake of our radio audience we are about to resume in Committee to continue the debate on the individual Heads for the Ministry of Education.

Minister Scott has already moved all three of the Heads, but Minister you have the floor to continue.

MINISTRY OF EDUCATION

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

As we resume, Mr. Chairman, just to remind you I am on [line item] 1709, cost centre 27520, Design, Development and Implementation on page B-109.

The Chairman: Correct.

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27520, [line item 1709]—Design, Development and Implementation has been allocated $2,103,000.

This cost centre funds salaries for five Education officers who support the implementation and ongoing development of the Cambridge curriculum, social studies and non-core subjects, examinations, and the Career Pathways Programme, in addition to an office administrator, two secretaries, a test scoring clerk, and the athletic administrator who supports the administration of interschool sports through the Bermuda Schools Sports Federation. This cost centre also funds administrative support, curriculum supplies to support the implementation of the curriculum, and the salary of a Sports Administrator who runs the Bermuda Schools Sports Federation [BSSF].

Mr. Chairman, cost centre 27524, [line item 1709]—the Career Pathways Programme started in September 2013. The budget of $234,000 remains the same as last year and funds two Career Pathways Programme Coordinators who administer the programme at both senior schools. The philosophy of the Career Pathways Programme is one that allows senior school students in the Bermuda Public School System to develop academic, technical and employability skills through career pathways in preparation for careers and college.

Mr. Chairman, we recently celebrated our students in the Career Pathways Programme who were successful in passing industry level examinations for certifications in the Nurses Aid course of study currently delivered at the Bermuda College, and the Bermuda Insurance Institute in relationship to the Associates of General Insurance. Students were also successful in completing the City & Guilds Employability Skills course.

The ACCA certification and the Bermuda Hospitality Institute's START programme are two new certifications that were introduced this fiscal year. The ACCA is an accountant certification that will expose students to fundamental principles in bookkeeping while the START programme will prepare students for employment in the hospitality industry in the upcoming season.

Mr. Chairman, the Career Pathways Programme is designated for S3 students with approximately 300 students participating. The hiring of two coordinators for the programme to assist with work placement, the recruitment, and maintaining of good healthy relationships with industry partners has added value to the programme. The coordinators, working out of the two senior schools, allow them to have direct contact with students and guidance counsellors. Ongoing professional development for the coordinators during the year included participation in a two-day workshop at the Bermuda College facilitated by a representative from City & Guilds.

Mr. Chairman, due to its success, the Career Pathways Programme is now expanding to the middle school level. Meetings began late 2014 in an effort to introduce M3 students to the programme. Planned activities include working with middle school counsellors in the areas of work shadowing, life skills, interviewing and career fairs.

Mr. Chairman, the final programme on page B-109 is [line item] 1712—Early Childhood Education. This programme funds the Child Development and After School Care sub-programmes. Early Childhood Education represents the foundation for student success. Both conventional wisdom and Nobel-prize winning research tells us that investments in early learning provide exponential benefits to children, their families and the economy. The budget for this programme $1,799,000.

Mr. Chairman, we are pleased to report that an assistant director of Early Childhood commenced in April 2014. With past experience in North America as a superintendent for Early Learning and Childcare, the assistant director will provide the leadership to ensure that our early childhood programmes are aligned with 21st century practices. Also teaching practices will be developed to enhance the early childhood experience so that children get the best start in life for future success.

Mr. Chairman, during the first school semester, the assistant director conducted an environmental scan of the Early Childhood Programme that included site visits and focused conversations with administrators and the coordinator of the Child Development Programme (CDP), preschools, and primary schools. The findings from the environmental scan will be used, along with input from local experts in the field of early childhood education, to form a discussion paper with recommendations for the early childhood programme.

In September 2015, a consultation process with parents and families, community leaders, early intervention professionals and child care providers will be planned to gather feedback for the development of strategic policies to support a five-year Early Learning Policy. The implementation of the policy will benefit our children and provide a true continuum of early learning to give them success in school and beyond.

Mr. Chairman, [cost centre] 27175, the Child Development Programme (CDP) has a total budget allocation of $1,577,000. This cost centre currently funds the coordinator, testing psychologist, three supervisors, one secretary, and 10 staff who provide direct assessment and early intervention support to children and their families.

In collaboration with the Ministry of Health, this programme provides early detection of developmental concerns in children from birth to four years of age, and early intervention support services to address identified concerns such as learning, psychological, motor or social deficits. In addition to providing this support for children and their families, the CDP has an overall goal of providing children with a strong foundation for lifelong learning, health and well-being.

Mr. Chairman, during 2014/15 the Child Development Programme expanded the developmental screening to include children from two to four years of age. This screening will be available to parents on a full calendar year basis. Also, the Child Development Programme has been working on the self-study component of the accreditation process with the goal of achieving accreditation in 2016 based on early childhood education standards. As part of this process, a strategic plan will be developed and implemented. Additionally, the Individual Family Service Plan (IFSP) electronic case management system is near completion. Staff training will be provided so that IFSPs can be developed for all families during fiscal year 2015/16. The development of IFSPs allows the Department of Education to meet early childhood standards which is the point of accreditation.

Mr. Chairman, the final line item on page B-109 is cost centre 27700—After School Care. This cost centre funds the wages of part-time employees who provide supervision and organised activities to children at four preschools and one school for students with special needs. The 2015/16 Budget at $222,000 was reduced based on enrolment in the afterschool programmes which is as follows:

- Devonshire Preschool—25;
- Prospect Preschool—25;
- St John's Preschool—25;
- Warwick Preschool—60;
- Dame Marjorie Bean Hope Academy—19.

The staff to child ratio is 10 children to 1 adult; however, staffing ratios are increased when children with special needs require one-on-one support. The allocation of staff allows some flexibility to hire additional personnel based on student need.

Mr. Chairman, I now refer you to page B-110. I will note that we have covered each of these aspects as this page provides an aggregate of the detail we have just been through in each of the line items.

The first table on page B-110 compares the 2015/16 estimate of [$109,902,000] to the original budget for 2014/15 of $114,900,000 and shows the differences between the two years by expenditure category. The variances of note for the expenditure categories are as follows:

- Salaries are higher by $765,000 as a result of discontinuing the furlough days, and the reduction of filled posts through attrition.
- Other Personnel costs are lower by $229,000 and this is largely related to the decrease in funds budgeted for the Long Service Awards.
- Training costs are lower by $2,284,000 against the original estimate, but only $300,000 lower against the revised estimate due to a change in the method used to conduct professional development, and subsequently reduced allocations in money for the Professional Development of department and teaching staff across the school system. This is reflected primarily in the School Improvement and Professional Development Programme (cost centre 27031); the Office of the Commissioner (cost centre 27001); and the Gifted and Talented (cost centre 27069). A significant amount of professional development training occurred during the 2014/15 fiscal year.
- The decrease in funds for Transport by $41,000 is due in large part to the reduction in overseas freight and associated costs.
- Travel costs are higher by $135,000; as [it is] associated [with] costs for specific professional development training slated for the upcoming 2015/16 fiscal year.
- Communication costs decreased by $498,000 in part due to lower projected costs for Information Technology Support as a number of projects were completed during this budget year.

- Professional Services costs are $45,000 higher. This increase is mainly attributed to examination fees.
- Rental costs are marginally lower at $874,000 primarily due to lease negotiations and reduced equipment rentals.
- Repair and Maintenance costs declined by $159,000 as a result of lower funding for security services and a one-off operating security initiative undertaken in 2014/15.
- Energy costs decreased by $251,000 reflecting intended energy efficiency savings in keeping with the mandate of the Department of Energy.
- Materials and Supplies expenditure is $129,000 lower as a result of increased efficiency in school supplies.
- Grants and Contributions are $1,962,000 lower due to reductions in the allocations to all Aided Schools.

Mr. Chairman, I now refer you to pages B-112 and B-113 which provide a listing of the number of full-time equivalent employee posts (FTEs) for the 2015/16 fiscal year in the Department of Education.

Mr. Chairman, the Budget Book reflects 1,162 FTEs allocated to the department for 2015/16, with a net change of 13 FTEs. The reduced number of FTEs reflects primarily unfilled vacant posts as a result of the hiring freeze.

The department continues to review the total number and allocation of FTEs to ensure efficiency and effectiveness across the public school system.

Mr. Chairman, I now turn to pages B-113 to B-116 where the Performance Measures for the Department of Education are listed. These measures have been revamped and in most instances better reflect the programmes and initiatives currently being undertaken by the Department of Education.

Mr. Chairman, this concludes my presentation on Head 17, the Department of Education, I will now move to the final head, Head 41, Bermuda College.

HEAD 41—BERMUDA COLLEGE

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Mr. Chairman, Bermuda College is the only tertiary level institution in Bermuda. The mission of the college is setting Bermuda's students on the path to success through the provision of comprehensive academic and technical education along with professional training, personal and academic support services, quality facilities and interactive partnerships with local and international entities. As an accredited community college, Bermuda College is particularly committed to the success of Bermuda's students offering transfer programmes leading to success at the university level. It also provides professional, technical and training programmes leading to success in the workplace; and preparatory programmes leading to success in the classroom.

Mr. Chairman, the Bermuda College receives an annual grant from the Ministry of Education, and for the fiscal year 2015/16 has been allocated $16,008,000.

The Bermuda College President is Dr. Duranda Greene and the college is governed by a board chaired by Mrs Jill Husbands. Other board members are:

- Mr. Dane Commissiong (Deputy Chair);
- Mrs. Karla Lacey;
- Mr. Andrew Richardson;
- Mrs. Kathleen Sharpe Keene;
- Mr. Zikomo Simmons;
- Mr. Peter Sousa;
- Mr. Bryant Trew;
- Mrs. Romelle Warner;
- Mr. Paget Wharton;
- Dr. Dawnnelle Walker (ex officio);
- Dr. Walwyn Hughes (ex officio);
- Dr. Geoffrey Rothwell (ex officio);
- Ms. Nikari Furbert (ex officio);
- Permanent Secretary for Education (ex officio)

Mr. Chairman, I will first share the 2014/15 highlights of the Bermuda College. On July 22, 2014 Bermuda College celebrated 40 years of setting Bermuda's students on their paths to success. The 40th anniversary celebrations began with a BC2BC Walk from the former Roberts Avenue campus to the Stonington Campus. Other anniversary events included: the Winter Wonderland in December—a community event which saw hundreds of individuals emerge on the campus to take in the festive celebrations; a tag day and a 40th Anniversary Golf Tournament scheduled for March 28 with proceeds going towards the 40th anniversary scholarships and awards.

During the fall of 2014, Bermuda College welcomed 42 public high school students to the college as part of the Dual Enrolment programme. Eleven of these students were full-time students at the Bermuda College taking at least 12 credits. Bermuda College also continued to provide courses for the Department of Education as part of its career pathways initiative including: City & Guilds Employability Skills Certificate and the Certificate for Nursing Assistants.

This past year the Division of Professional and Career Education (PACE) introduced a series of online courses to meet the needs of the local workforce including medical terminology, medication management and Google Analytics to name a few. PACE also introduced the Streetwise MBA programme which aims to help small business owners add resiliency to their operations. The programme is sponsored by several local organisations and has attracted interest from a wide-ranging group of small businesses including: security, hardware and several boutique retail and service organisations. In working with the Department of Workforce Development, PACE also provided industrial training for custodial staff during 2014.

Mr. Chairman, Science Week continues to be an integral part of the Bermuda College calendar. Science Week 2015's public forum featured Dr. David Chapman. His topic entitled "Unexpected Yet Understandable: Development as a Barrier to Renewable Energy in Bermuda," was timely given the work that is being done on the Island to increase the use of alternative energy sources. The forum was sponsored by the Division of Liberal Arts and remains a popular highlight of the Corange Science activities promoting the sciences. Although the middle and senior school students events were scaled back as a result of the public schools being closed, students from home schools and private schools participated in the Science Demo Day and the Master Class. Other events held during Science Week 2015 included a live presentation of the popular "Live, Love, Eat" culinary arts show with Chef Teneika Eve; and an alternative energy expo at the Technical Education Building which showcased energy-efficient cars, energy-efficient air conditioners and solar energy products. The Nursing Department also sponsored an Information Session on the many career pathways available through the nursing profession and showcased the Nursing Simulation laboratory.

Two new Honorary Fellows were inducted into the Bermuda College Company of Honorary Fellows. Dr. Melvyn Bassett and Ms. Arlene Brock were both celebrated for the significant contributions they have made in their respective fields. Ms. Brock joined her father and brother as an Honorary Fellow.

Output Measures

Mr. Chairman, Bermuda College graduated 95 students with associate degrees, diplomas or certificates:

- Division of Applied Science & Technology—6 graduates;
- Division of Business Administration—48 graduates;
- Hospitality—9 graduates;
- Division of Liberal Arts—32 graduates.

In addition, 12 individuals received their baccalaureate degrees through the long-standing partnership that the Bermuda College has with Mount Saint Vincent University as follows:

- Business Administration—12 graduates;
- Child and Youth Studies—3 graduates;

There were also four graduates from the University of West Indies teacher certification programme offered. These were the first graduates from this UWI-Bermuda College partnership.

This past December, 104 persons earned external certificates or professional designations from external programmes and workforce development training offered through the Division of Professional and Career Education (PACE). These included:

- American Management Association (AMA) Certificate in General Management—3;
- AMA Certificate in Human Resources—6;
- Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA) Diploma in Accounting & Business—1;
- ACCA Introductory Certificate in Financial & Management Accounting—5;
- ACCA Intermediate Certificate in Financial & Management Accounting—1;
- BOMI Facilities Management—1;
- Certificate for Childcare Assistant—9;
- Certificate for Dental Assistants—4;
- Certificate in Nail Technology—9;
- Certificate for Nursing Assistant—44;
- Chartered Institute of Legal Executives (CILEX) Level 2 Certificate in Legal Studies—7;
- City & Guilds Certificate in Hairdressing—8;
- International Driving Licence (ICDL)—2;
- World Instructor Training School Personal Trainer Certification—4.

Mr. Chairman, in the fall of 2014 the college enrolled 1,108 students representing a decrease of 6 per cent or 64 students. However, it should be noted that there was a 6 per cent increase in full-time students and a 9 per cent increase in full-time equivalents over fall 2013. The number of traditional students, those under the age of 25 years, increased to 699 which was a 9 per cent increase from fall 2013. Hence, the college is realising its objective of increasing full-time enrolments and its number of traditional students.

During 2014/15 the college has been preparing its Self-Study report for reaccreditation by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) having received its initial accreditation in 2010. The Site Visit will take place between March 22 and 25 with a visiting team of six individuals who will review all aspects of the college.

Expenditures

Mr. Chairman, in 2014, Bermuda College received $16,851,000, or 80 per cent of its operating budget from its Government grant. Revenue of $4,241,857 from other sources included:

- student tuition and fees for credit courses;
- revenue generated by PACE;
- bookstore revenue;
- rental income including Coco Reef;
- examination revenue.

This amount, together with the government grant, made up a total revenue figure for the 2014/15 budget year of $21,092,000. During the fiscal year 2014/15, approval was granted to eliminate the discounted tuition at the college over a two-year period. As a result the discount on tuition decreased from 50 per cent to 25 per cent. This translates to approximately $200,000 additional revenue during the 2014/15 fiscal year for the Bermuda College. To ensure students were not hindered from attending Bermuda College as a result of the increase in tuition, Bermuda College provided $72,000 in financial aid to qualified students.

Mr. Chairman, during this period, salaries accounted for $11,753,880, or 56 per cent of the budget; and this represented a 3 per cent decrease in salaries when compared to 2013/14. The decrease in salaries was a result of a 5.5- and 4-day furlough taken by staff and faculty, respectively. As part of the college's continued commitment to reducing its operating costs, it had a comprehensive energy audit conducted on its facilities by an external agency at a cost of $20,000 during this past year.

In December, the board granted approval for Bermuda College to replace its current student information and financial systems with new systems to increase efficiency and decrease costs. To this end, the college has commenced the implementation of Campus View Student Information System and Great Plains Microsoft Dynamics financial reporting package. The initial costs incurred during 2014/15 were $140,500 out of the total cost of $553,231. The end result of the implementation of the new system will be the efficient and timely production of accurate and useful information for analysis and decision-making purposes.

Maintenance and improvement of the physical plant of Bermuda College continued as part of the college's commitment to providing a safe and healthy environment for students and employees. During the past year additional CCTV cameras were installed ($18,000); the library building was fumigated ($39,605); additional smart boards were installed in classrooms and new furniture purchased for the art room ($34,000); and major upgrades were initiated on its air conditioning system ($121,750).

In addition to planned expenditure, the college incurred substantial storm related damages attributable to hurricanes Fay and Gonzalo amounting to $213,575. The college is still waiting settlement of its insurance claim.

Mr. Chairman, Bermuda College continues to utilise internal stakeholders as part of its annual budget process. The Budget Committee includes representatives from the Student Government Council, faculty, support staff, members from the Executive and a selection of budget managers. The goal of the Budget Committee is to prepare a balanced budget to present to the Board Finance Committee and then to the board for final approval.

Salaries continue to form the majority of the college's budgeted expenses and the college continues to review its operations seeking ways to decrease its payroll costs. To this end, the college will decrease the number of days that it operates when classes are not in session. Bermuda College will also continue to decrease its payroll costs through attrition and the freezing of non-essential positions. An early retirement option for persons over the age of 60 is also being considered as well as conducting a review non-teaching services to determine if they should be outsourced.

During the 2015/16 fiscal year, Bermuda College will implement the recommendations resulting from the recently completed energy audit to decrease its energy costs and continue its process of reviewing its operations and procedures in order to increase efficiencies while lowering costs.

Mr. Chairman, expenditure in the amount of $412,731 will be made to complete the implementation of the new computer information systems during the 2015/16 year. Classroom upgrades will continue along with other maintenance and improvement projects.

As a result of the decrease in the grant of 5 per cent, other major capital expenditures will once again be deferred including fumigation of buildings, the installation of a lift and automatic doors, and renovations to the Prospect Training Room.

It is anticipated that the termination of the discounted fee structure will result in increased student revenues for fiscal 2015/16 in the amount of $200,000. Bermuda College will seek to increase its revenue generated from the Bookstore and the rental of its facilities. It is also expected that additional revenue will be generated from workforce development contracts. The college will also be exploring other areas of revenue generation during 2015/16.

Mr. Chairman, during the next fiscal year, Bermuda College will continue to implement the action items included in its Strategic Plan with continued emphasis on its mid-term goals.

The college will establish partnerships with overseas institutions for student exchanges which would not only benefit Bermuda College students but will also internationalise the campus by introducing academic and cultural exchange experiences for overseas students.

Bermuda College will continue to work with the public high schools to increase the number of students in the Dual Enrolment programme while expanding the programme to private and home school students.

Bermuda College will continue to forge alliances with professional credentialing and accrediting agencies for workforce development and professional certification, such as: Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA); Certified Management Accountants (CMA); Certified Public Accountants (CPA) for accountants; Chartered Institute of Legal Executives (CILEX) for legal executives; Building Owners and Managers Institute (BOMI) for building owners and managers; and City & Guilds for the applied sciences.

Working in collaboration with the Ministry of Economic Development, the Bermuda College will establish and introduce the Bermuda College/Regulatory Compliance Association (RCA) programme to increase the number of qualified Bermudians in the asset management field. The courses will be delivered by the RCA and will include fund accounting, operational processes, compliance and regulation.

During the 2015/16 fiscal year, Bermuda College will go through reaccreditation with the American Culinary Federation for its culinary arts programme.

Mr. Chairman, as I close I wish to thank the board, the executive, administration, faculty and staff of Bermuda College for their work throughout this year and I look forward to working with them in the coming year.

Thank you Mr. Chairman, this concludes my remarks on the Bermuda College and thus my overall presentation of the 2015/16 Budget for the Ministry of Education.

The Chairman: Thank you, Minister.

Does any other Member wish to speak?

I recognise the Shadow Minister Ms. Foggo. Ms. Foggo there is an hour and 22 minutes left for this debate.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Firstly, let me say hello to the listening public and I would like to acknowledge Dr. Greene; the PS for Education, Mrs. Valerie James; the Acting Commissioner, Dr. Lew Simmons; and Directors, Mr. Lou Matthews and Mr. Freddie Evans. And I would like to thank you for coming—

[Inaudible interjection]

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: I am sorry—Dr. Matthews and Dr. Evans. I do know they are doctors, yes. I do apologise.

I am happy to be able to contribute in this debate because, as I think most people know, Education is my passion.

First off, I would like to basically speak to the Ministry, which is Head 16. Looking at previous mission statements and this mission statement, which basically all highlight the need for quality teaching . . . I will read the 2013/14 Mission Statement with your allowance, Mr. Chairman, and 2015/16.

The 2013/14 Mission Statement was, "To raise the quality of teaching and learning so that public schools become the number one choice for parents.” The 2014/15 [Mission Statement] was “To foster an inclusive and progressive learning environment that promotes excellence, improvement, constant development and success.”

And this year’s Mission Statement, which I would dare say builds on those last two, is “To provide strategic leadership, supervision and policy direction that supports quality delivery in teaching; and an inclusive and progressive learning environment to improve student learning and achievement for every child.”

The reason why I wanted to mention the mission statements, Mr. Chairman, is because the Ministry under the OBA Government has highlighted the fact that leadership is crucial. And indeed we have heard in recent months the Ministry push their objective for transformational education both when it comes to inclusion and when it comes to middle school development.

As has been highlighted in former reports, such as the Hopkins Report, leadership is vital to ensure success throughout the educational community. So under this head, basically I have to ask the question, if leadership is strategic for success, one would think that by now a commissioner would have been put in place.

Now, I definitely am in support of the directors who have served in that position because it has provided them with crucial experience, and as they continue to rotate in and out of that position and any others who will serve in that position, hopefully, will gain likewise experience. But it still speaks to the fact that there is no permanent head. I do applaud the fact that there has been a permanent, Permanent Secretary—pardon the play on words—with Mrs. Valerie [Robinson]-James.

I also want to applaud the fact that the OBA has gotten it right. Education deserves to be a Ministry in and of itself. It should never have been linked with a different division because education is crucial. I dare say, education is the cornerstone of any society because the role of any educational institution is to ensure that its children and citizens are equipped with the various skills in order to assume productive lives within that society, or even elsewhere. And so having a Ministry that can focus its attention on the educational needs within a society is the right thing to do.

However, let me just point out that—and I hope it is not true, I understand and I heard the Minister allude to this that a commissioner will be installed in very short order. And I would hope that that commissioner is indeed coming from the workforce that is already in play and not coming out of the private sector as I hear—and I could be incorrect—coming from the private sector to be installed at the Ministry of Education. And I think that having directors serve in that capacity has, at the very least, provided them with the requisite skill set to assume the position of commissioner.

I would also like to say that in previous years, where we had other commissioners, at least one of them . . . had they been subjected to the same guidelines that have been put in place to qualify as a commissioner, would not have qualified. And if it was deemed that that particular commissioner served well in that capacity, I would dare say that those who have like experience but may not meet up to the criteria which has been put in place, should likewise be able to qualify [for] that position. And I felt duty-bound to point that out because I do believe that we have the expertise within our shores, and I have to emphasise that.

Going back to the mission—not the mission statement, but one of the points that has been highlighted in your statement, Mr. Minister, is the fact that the OBA Government plans to put in place plans that they say will “radically transform education.” And as I quickly pointed out earlier, just a few minutes ago indeed, those two main areas that you said are crucial to ensure quality education is inclusion, and indeed it is crucial to reform the middle school.

I would just like to point out that under the theme of inclusion the OBA stated in their policy that all children have the right to a quality education, which means the right to enrol, access, and participate in a quality education that meets their needs. Having said that, I am in a quandary because . . . for two reasons in particular. Even though the Minister has, as he went through the line by line items, pointed out where monies have been reduced or increased, the overall effect of those actions have left the Ministry of Education with a reduced budget to the tune of $127,130,000.

If all the necessary changes are crucial for our students, I guess, to enjoy the sort of outcomes that you are looking for with the transformation reform that you are [talking] about implementing, one would (at least I do anyway), I would question whether the budget that I see before me is sufficient.

One of the reasons why I question that, Minister, is because the very key person who has overall responsibility for budgets, which is our Minister of Finance, uttered in the public domain that the educational system (and I am going to paraphrase some of his words because I did not write down exactly word-for-word what he said, so I do not want to assign any sentiment inappropriately) but he did say that it was basically in need of dire fixing. He said it is a “systemic” issue—that is one word that he used—and having said that, if that is indeed the case, then one would think that appropriate budget allocations would be put in place to ensure that the required expertise, the required numbers of staffing, and the like would likewise be put in place to . . . so that we can say to the best of our ability that we have done what is needed to be done to sort of ensure the outcomes that we are looking for.

I do not think we can say that, especially when I (having been a practitioner working within the school system and within schools that saw budget allocations reduced) know from a practical point of view how it makes it extremely difficult, Minister, to try and . . . when you are teaching, with the teaching and learning instruments that one needs to try and ensure the outcomes that we are looking for. Everybody wants students to have success. Everybody wants to ensure that we have quality, first class teachers who are there providing tuition to our students.

The other reason why I said that is because—and for me this stands out—there was mention of consolidation. And in fact there is a line item 26100 that sort of speaks to that that did confuse me, and you may have spoken to that, Minister, but I may not have caught it at the time because it has zero allocations from 2013/14, 2014/15 and the revised 2014/15, but then it shows a deduction of $1 million. I remember hearing you say something about that, and so when you get up to answer questions you can clarify that.

But because school consolidation was highlighted here, I have to ask when we had registration for pre-schools in January, the end of January, I have to ask how that will impact what has been highlighted throughout some of your documents when you talked about inclusion and you talked about reform and you spoke about other areas and not just Special Education, but it highlighted the fact that measures needed to be put in place even at the pre-school level.

And for me this strikes me as odd because, Minister, if we do not have sufficient funding in place, if we do not have the sufficient staffing numbers, especially at the fundamental levels where as you have mentioned earlier you need a teach to student ratio of 1:10, if you are consolidating at that level and those numbers are indeed compromised, what other measures are being implemented so that you can very accurately measure that these actions have either (with whatever other programmes you plan to put in place) have encouraged, improved statistics or have had the other effect, which is to have a detrimental impact.

Whenever we are talking about changing systems and the like, those are the types of things that should be first and foremost because whatever changes are implemented have to ultimately directly impact student learning. And we want to make sure that if there is an impact that it is a positive impact.

So the question begs with consolidation, how will transforming . . . how will . . . sorry, I am getting ahead. My thoughts are getting ahead of myself.

[Inaudible interjections]

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Yes, in particular.

How will this transformation impact pre-school? I am going to change what I have here. And I dare say having read through that document what really bothered me is the fact that two points were highlighted. And it pointed out that the decision was based purely on the declining numbers and on decreased budget allotments. And to me those are . . . I just, I lifted that right out of the document. Right. And those should never be criteria for implementing change. It should never be the impetus for it. The change should be based on wanting the desired outcomes, and if that means increasing the budget, increasing the staff numbers, then that is the way to go.

Education is one of those Ministries, in my opinion, that any country should be loath to . . . I guess, reduce the budget. And when I look through history, when you look at countries which have become world leaders and the like, at the foundation of that—whether we are talking about the industrial revolution, whether we are talking about the introduction of computers, whether we are talking about the introduction of other technological tools—there seemed to be a direct correlation between how the country fared and the advances that countries enjoyed. So, for instance, if you had the technology, that technology was such that it gave that particular country an advantage. And we have seen some of that in some dire circumstances, like world wars and what have you, and how that impacted results. But I just wanted to point that out.

So it is important—Education is important—and we should be doing everything to ensure that the required tools which are needed are, indeed, in place. And we should never be willing as a society to operate in a manner which, from my experience, has always had a detrimental impact, because it made it very difficult in the working environment of education to try and bring about the results that one wanted to bring about without the proper resources and tools and money allocations in place. So I needed to point that out.

I have to ask, why are we racing to perhaps do things like that? It requires further investigation, Minister.

I think at that point, what compelled me to ask that question is because, again, and it could be hearsay, but I will just briefly mention it to you because I think you should know, Minister, you know I was told that there was a meeting with principals, where principals were asked to identify staff that they may know . . . that they believe they no longer require to get the job done. And to me, that does not, to me, reflect the proper way of going about trying to ensure that whatever changes are being put in place will have the desired outcomes.

Further on that note, I just want to point out and I guess I am looking at basically the overall budget allocations under Head 16 and the move for your transformational reform. Your former recent Premier said that we—meaning the “we” as the Government—have the responsibility to ensure that (and he was quoting because I do not want anybody to accuse him or even me of plagiarism)—he was quoting the US Senator Jeffords who said, “We have a responsibility to ensure that every individual has the opportunity to receive a high quality education from prekindergarten to elementary and secondary, to special education, to technical and higher education and beyond.” And he highlighted the fact that the OBA Government indeed echoes those sentiments wholeheartedly.

But we also note, Minister, that to try to bring about those outcomes we need an adequate infrastructure. Minister, let me just say this, to ensure that Education is the one area, in my opinion, that we should be loath to cut. As I said before, we have many instances in history that point to that.

So with respect to consolidation I ask you Minister to have a rethink on that, and if you are going to consolidate, definitely do your homework and definitely make certain that whatever is put in place is going to lead to the outcomes that you are looking for. And if the two do not correlate it should not be done.

When I look at scholarships and awards and grants to external bodies there was an overall deduction. I want to thank you for the increase in allocations to the scholarships and awards. Previously, some of those awards were further . . . yes. We saw the Further Education Awards, which was reduced to $40,000 has now been returned to a figure of $270,000. By ensuring that such monies are in place many people, especially those (and I heard you talk about some of the initiatives at Bermuda College and the like) many young professionals in the workforce who find themselves in a position where they must re-professionalise, at least have a hope of relying on—and I should not say rely like that—but being able to turn to the Government for monies to make certain that they can do the necessary things so they are still marketable in the work place, or so that they can retain whatever positions they have in the work place.

The Government Scholarship Awards has dropped slightly and I wonder, Minister, if that means in general that you are going to have fewer scholarship recipients this year. You do not have to answer now, you can—

[Inaudible interjection]

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Government Scholarships under Grants and Contributions, page C-16, from the estimate in 2014/15 it was $825,000. What you put in place this year is $780,000. I am looking at them line by line.

[Inaudible interjection]

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: [Page] C-16, it is a reduction. And I wonder if that means that that will translate into fewer young Bermudians being able to secure scholarships and grants to go overseas.

Anyone who is in Education will be thankful that there is more money put in place, but I heard you say, Minister, that $45,000 was spent last year on Teacher Training Awards, but the budget allocation was only $30,000 and that has been doubled, so hopefully a good portion of teachers will be able to take professional courses and the like that they feel will make them better equipped in the classroom . . . or in whatever positions they have within education.

Minister, as you know there are tons of pages to go through to get to my point . . . yes, I asked that question. When I look at Head 17 (and I may go back and forth between the heads) which speaks directly to the Department of Education and the mission statement is: “The Bermuda Public School System will deliver a rigorous curriculum customised to meet the needs of individual students, using challenging learning experiences, appropriate assessments, and efficient support that holds all accountable for a quality education in the 21st Century.”

Then I look down at the Department Objectives, which basically are to provide comprehensive student services, to support schools in improving the quality of teaching and learning, and to provide leadership expertise, again, Minister I find myself ultimately asking the same question, How are you going to realise those outcomes when there is almost a million fewer dollars to work with? It just, for me, again having worked within the institution, reality has taught me that that . . . I will not say it is impossible, but it is difficult.

Given the Ministry’s initiative for reform, which will include structural changes, which will, as you pointed out, require further training, will basically have to take into account the type of students that we have. And we find that we have many students in our society now who have various challenges. They come from home environments where the result is that they are confronted with all sorts of psychological issues and behavioural issues, and the teacher is tasked with having to address that while, indeed, being responsible for ensuring that instruction is delivered in a way where it meets the needs of the students. So I wonder, again, how do you marry that together in a manner that the OBA Government, at the end of the day, will be able to pat themselves on the back?

What stood out for me . . . well, let me just ask this question. With the reduced budget, Minister, when you are talking about [cost centre] 27090, which is Educational Standards, with the reduced budget [it] suggests that perhaps the current standards read and operate that sufficient has already been done, but when you talk about continued changes to bring about the transformational reform, I have to ask, how do you think that will fare? When I measure it up, I am not satisfied that the outcomes that you are looking for will be realised.

Regarding substitutes, which anyone who has taught knows—and there are quite a few people in this Chamber who have been teachers, who have worked in the education arena—substitutes are crucial because the last thing any teacher wants or any school wants is for the environment to be upset to the point where instruction cannot be delivered. And substitutes are crucial. Even though I notice that the numbers are the same pretty much, I wonder how you are able to manage that with such a big reduction in the budget. So I find that very curious. And for me I foresee where you are going to come back to these Honourable Chambers to have to do supplementaries for Education because I cannot see with what is put in place that people will be able to operate sufficiently well under such tight budget restrictions.

Looking at [cost centres] 27061, 27064, 27065, 27066, which have to do with young ones who have physical issues, whether it be hearing, seeing, or they have behavioural issues . . . given the budget allocations and what I heard you highlight in your Budget Statement, I have to ask, with your plans for inclusion, how will you ensure that such changes indeed, again, are going to be beneficial?

UNESCO says that inclusion, which served as part of the framework against which you have drafted your policies . . . Hold on, let me just read it. It says, “. . . a process of addressing and responding to the diversity of needs of all learners through increasing participation in learning, cultures, and communities, and reducing exclusion within and from education.”

It speaks to what inclusion is. “It involves changes and modifications in content, approaches, structures and strategies, with a common vision which covers all children of the appropriate age range, and a conviction that it is the responsibility of the regular system to educate all children.”

It goes on to say that “inclusion is concerned with providing appropriate responses to the broad spectrum of learning needs in formal and non-formal educational settings. Rather than being a marginal issue on how some learners can be integrated in mainstream education, inclusive education is an approach that looks into how to transform education systems and other learning environments in order to respond to the diversity of learners. It aims towards enabling teachers and learners both to feel comfortable with diversity and to see it as a challenge and enrichment of the learning environment, rather than a problem. Inclusion emphasises providing opportunities for equal participation of persons with disabilities . . .” (And I pointed out some of them already.) “whenever possible into general education, but leaves open the possibility of personal choice and options for special assistance and facilities for those who need it.”

Based on that definition of what inclusion is and the policy statement that your transformational reform document will be based on, again, I wonder, Minister, how we are going to be able to ensure that such an environment is provided to the benefit and the advancement of our students.

I have to point out that given that particular definition of inclusion and the fact that we on the other side, like you, understand that there is need for change, we indeed have gone out to the people and articulated some of the ways in which we hope that a change is implemented and what we believe will bring the necessary . . . or the desired outcome.

So I do understand that this is a work in progress and some of the objectives that have been highlighted in your document have already been implemented and will continue to be, I hope, modified when necessary to bring about the outcomes that you are looking for.

But when looking overall, at what you are aiming to bring about and the budget here that I am looking at, I have to wonder—again, if the programme is already sufficiently addressed, the changes that have been implemented to bring about the outcomes that you are looking for and I have to say that from where I sit it looks like the Ministry is moving away from the very direction and policy changes that it is hoping to implement because I just do not see how the two will pan out.

So I have to ask where, in areas like . . . that you have highlighted, just how this funding that has been put in place can ensure that it is going to bring about the changes that you are looking for.

Just looking at Learning Support—

[Inaudible interjection]

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Okay. What time did you say that we are finishing, Mr. Chairman? Because I do not want to . . . if I have to—

The Chairman: Forty-one minutes.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: I do want to give my colleague (as long as he can stand up next) some time to speak.

The Chairman: Okay.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Okay. Even looking at the areas of Learning Support and Early Childhood Education and looking at the [cost centre] for Paraprofessionals, with less funding in place, with inclusion of special needs students which necessitates that a [paraprofessional] be available, I just have to say, Minister—in the normal classroom setting with your vision of inclusion—we have students who rely heavily on [paraprofessionals], in the classroom without the necessary help, which in my opinion is going to translate into a paraprofessional being there to ensure that the student is not impeded in any way in the classroom. The funding, again, does not, to me, speak to that.

I am just going to jump to the Summer Programme which is [cost centre] 27073. I am actually skipping some stuff because I do want my colleagues to be able to speak. When I look at some of this—27073—the funding for the Summer Programme, there has been an allocation of $299,000 with no staffing numbers in place.

Now that caused me to reflect on how the Summer Programme operated when I actually taught the Summer Programme for biology, and other science subjects. And again, normally that programme runs for about three weeks, sometimes three and a half weeks, and the student has to digest and master quite a bit of work in order to be able to successfully perform on whatever testing materials they will . . . which will measure mastering.

In the past, there have been modified programmes put in place but many have argued that such programmes do not really cover the material that should be covered, and therefore, when a student receives a passing grade many feel that that grade does not reflect the same level of work or even mastery that . . . when a student actually does the subject during a normal school term.

Now, when I say that, I am not ignoring the fact that usually students who are in summer school did not pass a particular subject during the term and have indeed had some exposure to that subject, but what I am saying is that strict guidelines should be implemented and courses should be pre-established so that one can . . . so that it allows for a much smoother running of the Summer Programme. And indeed from beginning to end the objectives are very clear, very orderly, laid out to ensure that the student gets more of an in-depth exposure to the subject and in a way that where he or she did not pass during the regular school year, will indeed pass, but where one can feel assured that learning has taken place to the level of mastery. And so I felt duty-bound to point that out.

I am going to skip to some of the Performance Measures. Looking on page B-115 where you had the percentage of classroom lessons demonstrating proficiency in areas such as planning, instruction and environment. What are you measuring this against? Because this becomes very subjective.

I recently was able to provide, I guess you can say, instruction in terms of drafting summary exams in biology, and my concern was that some of the objectives which may not have been explicitly written out for a professional, should indeed have been understood because there are certain materials you cannot teach without teaching certain content. And so looking at this and knowing that what one person feels is sufficient may be totally lacking to another teacher, for instance, I have to ask what guidelines are you putting in place to be able to evaluate that?

The objective to ensure that those who sit the IGSCCE will . . . you would like to increase it 10 per cent each year, and of course, anybody who is in education wants to see that. But I have to ask what programmes, support systems, training and the like, again, will be implemented so that those become deliverables?

When looking at the pass rates and the most recent that I had, and I heard you call out some statistics, Minister, but I . . . not having the benefit of a brief in front of me I was not sure for which year level and, indeed, for which year. But the last printed outcomes for 2013/14 we saw an 89 per cent rate whereas in the previous year there was a 96 per cent pass rate. For Primary 6 we saw for English—56, math—41, science—64 and that is the Cambridge exams. And measuring that against the previous year, in math we saw a reduction in performance and in English we saw a reduction.

When looking at the middle school there are some increases, from 23 per cent to 27 per cent, for math a 43 per cent pass rate when compared with 27 per cent in the previous year, and science 51 per cent. So, yes, there are areas that we definitely need to improve and I would hope that with your transformational reform, particularly in the middle school, that something will be in place to ensure a better performance.

For the Early Childhood Education you write “Improvement in the standards of services as evidenced through the international accreditation of the Child Development Programme.” The budget allocation was $109,000. You only had one employee, Minister, and I just wondered with given how ambitious your transformational reform is how, indeed, one person is going to be able to ensure that this programme will realise improved results.

Minister, I do not want to repeat some of the comments that I made last year, but overall, again, I have to say when we are looking at the Department of Education and the respective schools, I see that there is a reduction of 13 staff members—some from the preschool, some from the elementary—and some schools have more numbers, but overall I hope that we have the requisite staffing in place to ensure that our students get the best instruction, best tuition, and are able to perform proficiently in all areas with all of the tools and programmes that you are suggesting will be implemented for those who are highlighted as having special needs and even for the so-called (I hate to use this word, but just for want of a better word) “normal”—the so-called normal student—the child who operates.

So quickly moving on to Bermuda College, looking at the aims and the mission statement of Bermuda College and much of what they have been able to accomplish up there, I say congratulations to Dr. Greene and her team.

However, where I see programmes such as the programme that has high school students and they are able to take college courses, and we have a situation where you have reduced funding, I am hoping that in no way this negatively somehow becomes reflected throughout the institution. Again, I say all of this because education in my opinion is paramount in any country and it should never be an area where we, in my opinion, short-change our people. And so I see a reduction of a million dollars, other areas where the college is able to through various revenue streams increase that particular budget, I am hoping that the college will be able to continue with their mission statement and their aims and provide the quality education that they, indeed, provide.

I have one suggestion and I am not going to say that this is a novel idea, but I am hoping that the college with their sister institutions will be able to realise a situation where (and it may already happen) professors from the University of the West Indies and the like will be able to come over and guest lecture, and our students will have the benefit of their instruction. And I am hoping . . . because the more exposure, I feel, that our students get, the better off they are.

The other idea that I came up with and I am not going to say it is not done, but when it comes to particularly your trade programmes at Bermuda College and your technical programmes and the college . . . I see a reduction in funding for certain areas that are related to that. In terms of apprenticeship or hands-on work, to me, such areas as your trades courses lend themselves to being able to enrol the student body that is there to help carry out some of the works, some of the aims of the college, in meeting its mandate to ensure that the institution has the requisite structure, is . . . whatever repairs and stuff can be done, and perhaps that can, by having students working at that, they get their apprenticeship within that institution and it goes towards their grade.

I do still envision the Bermuda College becoming a four-year college. It does have programmes where students get their four-year degrees, which is excellent. And I am hoping that that can be grown a little further. I was elated when the Nursing Programme came on board and I would like to see other like programmes implemented because when you look overseas at other jurisdictions that are not as sophisticated as ours (and I am not saying ours is that sophisticated) but [they do] not have the capital that we have, I believe that we are able to with ingenuity, putting the right programmes in place, using the right resources and expertise that we have at our fingertips, we can grow our Bermuda College into a four-year college, bachelor institution in a few areas. And we can grow its ability to provide research for those students who go beyond the bachelor level into the masters and doctoral areas.

I believe in our education system at every level. I believe we can have a first-class education system, which is second to none. And I believe if we devise the right budgets and provide the right programmes and have the requisite staffing in place that that will be realised. Bermuda deserves nothing less than that.

Thank you.

The Chairman: Shadow Minister, thank you for your contribution.

Does any other Minister or Member wish to speak?

We recognise Mr. Walton Brown.

Mr. Brown you have the floor. Mr. Brown there are 23 minutes left to this debate.

Mr. Walton Brown: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

We may need to really work on the format of this so-called debate, Mr. Chairman. If you can let me know when 10 minutes are left, I would appreciate it.

First of all, Mr. Chairman, let me commend the Government for bringing back a level of civility to the granting of scholarships. The money was put back in. There was a dark period where you lost your moral compass; it is nice to see that you have it back.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walton Brown: Well, it is good because we recognise the importance of scholarships and what it means for young people and opportunities. When the money was taken away it represented a loss of opportunity for a number of young people. So I congratulate the Government—

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Walton Brown: I understand all that. Like I say, the money you allocate indicates the sentiment that you attach to certain things. The money is back in. Take the congratulations and let us move on.

Now, Mr. Chairman, we have a number of challenges in our public education system and how we allocate our funding is going to reflect how we intend to address those challenges. My colleague has addressed a number of issues and I will speak only for a short period of time, really with a view toward presenting some questions for the Minister to answer.

I was one of the small minority of people who supported the appointment in early 2013 of Dr. Heatley. He left under a cloud. It has been two years since that time, Mr. Chairman, and we do not have a full-time Commissioner of Education. The idea was to assure a Bermudian was going to be trained up and qualified, identified and selected. Two years later, Minister, why are we not in a position where you can say you are going to appoint someone now as the Commissioner of Education?

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walton Brown: Sorry. He came into 2013 with a view toward identifying and training a Bermudian. So it has been a two-year period.

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Walton Brown: So the question is, Why not appoint someone? We have eminently, well-educated individuals who have now had a two-year period to learn more of the ropes, and I would like to see someone appointed.

Time does not permit me to be all that precise about heads, Mr. Chairman, but the Head that refers to the Commissioner's Office and Curriculum, in particular. I wrote it down but my eyesight is not that good. We had a very well-developed curriculum that looked at Bermuda. It was meant to be applied for all the schools, it was meant to be the foundation on which young people would gain an understanding about their country. I know Ms. Leona Scott left Education a year or so ago, maybe two years ago now, she developed that programme—an excellent programme—I spent a lot of time with her, but I know that teachers are not teaching it.

I know that a lot of principals do not require that it be taught. So I want to know whether or not the Minister will give an undertaking that with the money spent on the development of this curriculum that there will be a firm commitment to ensuring that our young people can get exposure to a Bermuda-based curriculum in tandem with the Cambridge requirements and other such things.

But how can you have people going through an educational system and not learning about the country? I spoke to two teenagers recently, one in private school, one in public school, I said, Who runs the country? They said, The Governor. Well, maybe they are right, actually, based on recent decisions. I said, Who is the Premier? [They said,] Premier? They did not know who the Premier is. How do you have a 13-year-old doing research and history on the Civil Rights Movement in the United States that does not even know who runs the country—private schools and public schools?

So that needs to be addressed, and it is unacceptable that in 2015 we are not looking at the kinds of resources that our young people need in order to be truly effective.

Mr. Chairman, we know that one of the keys to great improvement in education is to have an increased level of principal autonomy. When principals have the authority and the resources to manage and run their schools, there tends to be an improvement. When you have an over-bureaucratized system with a whole series of things laid out that everyone must need to do [with] no accounting for variation in leadership style and individual issues within particular schools, principals get hamstrung.

I know the previous Minister and Ministers before recognise the importance of principal autonomy. What steps is the Government taking or prepared to take to ensure that there is a great degree of principal autonomy? Because that is one of the key factors involved in helping to bring about student . . . increased performance.

Just as a side note before I get to my final point, Mr. Chairman, I guess last week (maybe last week or this week) I posed a question to the Minister to tell us based on the objectives in this book on the Ministry of Education, is there also an objective to increase the percentage of students who enrol into public education? What is the measure of success of public education? We know we have a challenge because we have an abnormally high percentage of students enrolled in private schools in Bermuda. Well-developed countries, rich countries, have a very small percentage, on average between maybe 10 [per cent] and 15 per cent. We have closer to 50 per cent. That is an indictment of public education.

One of the measures of improved confidence in public education will be increased enrolment as a percentage of public education. Can the Minister say whether or not increasing the percentage of students in public education vis-à-vis private education is one of the objectives of the Ministry?

And then, Mr. Chairman, getting to Bermuda College. Bermuda College is very well run. Yes, I am a champion, as the Minister knows, of Bermuda College, and I do it every year.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Walton Brown: Yes. And you know it is amazing, it is very well run under the leadership of Dr. Greene who was once a Burgess, but I think her skills improved dramatically when she became a “Greene” as opposed to “Burgess.”

[Laughter]

Mr. Walton Brown: Perhaps, I do not know. We will leave that one alone.

The college remains one of Bermuda's best kept secrets. During this time of great hardship and economic hardship it is much more cost-effective for our young people—and not so young people—to go to Bermuda College to get a quality education. It has the New England Association of Schools and Colleges accreditation. I understand the re-accreditation is taking place now. And we do not have enough confidence in it, it seems, because if you could save $30,000 a year and go to a school where you are going to get credit—full credit—for your courses and your programme throughout North America and other parts of the world, why would you not do it? So that needs to be put in place. I am hoping the Minister can speak to that and say what steps he is prepared to take to try to encourage greater awareness and understanding of that.

Then also, a question for the Minister through the president of the college. One of the impediments to getting foreign students to come to Bermuda has always been—and of course there are other Ministers who want to bring more people to Bermuda so here is an idea—one of the impediments to Bermuda College getting more foreign students was the cost of living in Bermuda and the cost of accommodation. And there was a time during a previous chair of the college where there was an interest in having a student dorm built, because if you do it right you can get very good prices for students—local as well as overseas students. And that would potentially be an attraction to Bermuda.

I understand that in previous years there were queries from overseas about Bermuda College. Once they found out what it cost to live here, they backed away. So is anything taking place at the college now at the board level to look at the issue of student dorms?

Then finally, about the research centre; this is a long-standing issue for me. I taught at Bermuda College for 12 years, all I ever wanted to do was see a research centre. A research centre can do a lot for the country. It can be a revenue earner for the Bermuda College. It can give the faculty a wider range of skill set and opportunities. Is there any appetite for examining the viability of a . . . at a minimum, social science/policy research centre, which could save the Government a lot of money, generate revenue, and put the College in a much stronger position?

Mr. Chairman, as a prior agreement with one of my colleagues on the other side, the Honourable Grant Gibbons, I am going to have a seat in the hope that the Minister can address some of those questions.

The Chairman: Well, he has to catch my eye, but thank you, Mr. Brown for your contribution.

I noticed that Mr. Burgess is up.

Mr. Burgess, you have the floor.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, very quickly, a few questions. Is the Minister in a position to let us know at this point what schools will consolidate and what schools will close?

Also on [pages] B-108 and B-109 there is an increase of just over a million dollars for the pre-schools, primary schools, and middle schools, and yet we are going to have this closure.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Oh, the furlough day. Okay, that is wonderful.

And also with the senior schools, you have got a 7 per cent decrease of $1.8 million, can you explain that?

Now, Mr. Chairman, just taking over where my colleague left off regarding the commissioner. That nonsense started under us [of] putting in a requirement that no one here can achieve. And I am hoping that this present Government will do the right thing and hire one of our Bermudians because I am tired of getting on this floor and telling you, reminding people that we spent a lot of money to send our children to school to come back with all sorts of degrees and they still cannot achieve the job that they are well trained to do. Now, we need to make sure that that job goes to a Bermudian. And do not be like Government House that disregards the qualifications of the people of this country.

One other thing, we know that Cup Match is dear to our heart—it is the national sport—and if you look in the senior schools, Mr. Chairman, the senior schools—cricket is nonexistent. We have some good senior people around here that can spearhead that programme in the schools. When we were going to school you had a lot of competition in soccer and cricket. Again, and even in some of the elementary schools you have got people in charge of the programme that do not even know cricket. Right? And so I know you are an athlete. You are a former champion in cycling (but you cannot beat me), but we need to look at that cricketing because it is a national sport. If you do not do something about it, the sport will gradually die.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Mr. Burgess.

Minister, would you like to use the last 11 minutes we have left?

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Yes.

The Chairman: Go ahead.

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Please.

I will do my best, Mr. Chairman, to answer the questions that were asked. If I cannot get to everything, I would ask that if the Members would like to come to me afterwards I would gladly answer because I think this is very important.

The first thing that the Shadow Minister talked about was a rumour [heard] that there was a commissioner lined up to come from the private sector. I do not know where that came from, but that is false. There has been—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: I am just confirming that. But I think, importantly, and I think a lot of the questions that were asked were framed based on the $127 million budgeted to Education, and is that sufficient funding to achieve our desired outcomes. And I actually believe it is.

When you look at the thought that spending more money equates to better education, the facts just do not support that assumption. The facts just do not support that assumption that spending more money will give you better outcomes. As a matter of fact, back, I believe, in 2006 Bermuda spent $150 million on Education and—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Back in 2006.

Under the former Government we spent $150 million, and if there was a direct correlation between money spent and outcomes, we would have had stellar outcomes, but that was not the case. So it is not about—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Right. And Hopkins Report in 2007 because of the outcome.

So I think that, again, the facts just do not support the assumption that more money equates to more education.

Now I will say that the allocation of funding is what is very critical and we are working very diligently to ensure that the allocations of our funding is adequate and is spent as close to that child as possible. Because when you talk about Children First, Mr. Chairman, you have to ensure that you are addressing the children's needs. And if you are spending dollars that are not directly affecting the outcomes of those children, then those are dollars that we can look at reallocating. And that is something that I commit to the people of Bermuda to spend my time doing. And I know that my team certainly shares that same view.

There was a question of the $1 million charge under [cost centre] 26100 and what I had stated [is] that even though that is allocated under Head 16 because it is an administrative function, it is ultimately something that will come out of Head 17, the Department of Education.

But to answer a question that was just asked by the Member who just sat down, the Honourable Member Burgess, with regard to which schools will consolidate and all of that, we just do not have that information yet. We are actually putting information together. We are having public consultation, as a matter of fact I have a meeting tomorrow with the PTAs and the principals, let us look at the data. And public consultation for this sort of thing need not take six months or a year or two, let us look at the data, let us make a decision.

If we are serious as a country about getting the outcomes that we want for our children and putting our children first, then we need to ensure that we are spending dollars in an effective manner so that we can achieve those. And that is looking at what is in the best interests of the child.

I would argue that when you look at class sizes, and as a matter of fact, it goes right on to the next question that was posed by the Shadow Minister with regards to preschools and there is a ratio right now of 1:10, will that be compromised if and when we look at consolidation? And I would say absolutely not.

You know, transformation within our schools has already started. And when you look at our pre-schools with the new curriculum, et cetera, we are already doing that. But part of the effective development of a child . . . so the curriculum is critical to have a relevant, valid curriculum, the instructional expertise is critical, and if we have to provide professional development to do that then so be it, and then accountability because it is an improvement loop, not a gotcha. So if we are doing those things, then you also have to look at the social development of a child, and class sizes and school sizes are very important to that social development. So if you look some of our better performing primary schools, as an example, they ironically happen to be the primary schools with the largest population because the—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Well, there is a larger student population and with . . . and if you are looking at having effective student to teacher ratios, certainly you are going to have more teachers in a school that has 250 people than in a school that has 100. But the children that are in that school with 250 have a much better opportunity for social development than students that are in a school with 100. So if we are serious about looking at effective outcomes, then this is something that we must look at.

Let us be clear (because this was a question that was asked by the Shadow Minister), yes, the budgetary constraints primarily have been the sentinel event that has started us looking at this process. However, I would actually say that that is a very good thing because we tend to just go along with doing the things that we have always done and sometimes you need that wake-up call to really look at things.

So as a country when we look at, again, if we accept that facts do not support the assumption that spending more money directly equates to better student outcomes, then we need to actually look at the opportunity that we have now. If we are looking at providing effective outcomes and developing our children and we accept that the social development is important as well, we have an opportunity as a country to . . . let us look at right-sizing this, or let us look and see whether or not it is or is not. Let us at least have the conversation, look at the data, and make some decisions based on that.

That actually is a very responsible and exciting thing to do because, you know, we actually do have a goal just to . . . because this flows into a question by the Member Walton Brown, is there a goal to increase the population in public schools? Well, no, that is not a stated goal, per se.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: But no, that is not a stated goal. The goal is to let us create an excellent public school system. I believe if we do that, by default, it will be a first choice, not the other way around. All right? And I think that that would be a great problem to have actually, if we created our public school system that was that good that people would sit there and it is like, Wow, why would I even consider spending money to go to private school because we have excellent schools here? And there are school districts around the world—public school districts—that do that, and they do that very well.

Scholarships, yes, we were talking about scholarships and I will point out that, and I think it was corrected by the Member Walton Brown, the Shadow Minister asked a question with regard to the scholarships because it looked like it decreased. Scholarships have actually increased, so scholarships are just under $1.25 million. If you look in the Budget Book, however, there are items that show up in the capital expenditure that say “scholarships,” but the capital expenditure items tend to be more of . . . and I will wait to get the Member’s attention so . . .

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: I understand, but I want to make sure that the Shadow Minister understands this. So you have got . . . the scholarships have actually increased to just under $1.25 million, which is a good thing. As a Government we recognise the need to do this, and we have done it. If you look in the back of the [Budget] Book under the Capital pages, on page C-16, it also has an item that says “Government Scholarships.” So it could be a bit misleading. But those items are geared more towards kind of fee for service or part of external grants and such. So that is why that looks different.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Well, actually, no. They have the same name, but it is different account codes, so it is actually misleading in the capital expenditures because the capital expenditures are fee for service programmes, which we have actually—

The Chairman: Minister, you have 59 seconds.

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Okay.

So instead of just putting basic external grants, you want to ensure that with a lot of these programmes that are extraordinarily valid that you do fee for service.

So with regard to Educational Standards, there was a question asked specifically on Educational Standards. And I think if you look at the actual for 2013/14—

The Chairman: Thirty seconds.

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: —there was just under a million dollars spent, our current run rate is approximately the same, so we are actually still budgeting for what we need in this coming school year.

So let me just say—being, clearly, I do not have enough time to answer any more of these questions—that our goal is—

The Chairman: Ten seconds.

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: —Children First and we will be doing everything that we can towards that end.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Minister, would you like to just move your heads?

Hon. R. Wayne Scott: Yes, Mr. Chairman, with that I would like to move Heads 16, 17, and 41.

I thank the Opposition for a good debate on this.

The Chairman: That completes the debate on the Ministry of Education, Heads, 16, 17 and 41.

[Motion carried: The Ministry of Education, Heads 16, 17 and 41 were approved and stand part of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the year 2015/16.]

The Chairman: We now move on to the Ministry of Transport, Heads 48, 30, 31, 34, 35, 57 and 73.

Minister Crockwell.

MINISTRY OF TOURISM DEVELOPMENT AND TRANSPORT

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you and good afternoon, Mr. Chairman.

HEAD 48—MINISTRY HEADQUARTERS

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Starting with Head 48, Mr. Chairman, the function of the Ministry of Tourism Development & Transport Headquarters is to ensure safe, efficient operation of the departments and special operations units within the Ministry. Headquarters also ensures that the policies of the Bermuda Government relating to the Ministry are enacted. In addition, it helps ensure the cooperation of other Government Ministries which are impacted by Ministry of Tourism Development & Transport initiatives and activities.

The Ministry of Tourism Development & Transport Headquarters oversees and coordinates the activities of the following departments:

- Head 30—Marine & Ports Services;
- Head 31—Airport Operations;
- Head 34—Transport Control;
- Head 35—Public Transportation;
- Head 57—Civil Aviation;
- Head 73—Maritime Administration.

The Ministry of Tourism Development & Transport Headquarters can be found on pages B-157 to B-159 of the Budget Book and is divided into three cost centres as follows.

Administration, [cost centre] 58000. The original 2014/15 budget was $25.1 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $23.5 million, a variance of a $1.6 million decrease. The full-time equivalents are four.

The Administration team is primarily responsible for the day-to-day administrative activities within the Ministry's headquarters which include the coordination of the various services provided within the Ministry. In 2015/16, the Administration section will oversee annual operating grants to the Bermuda Tourism Authority of $21.7 million and Government Golf Courses of $750,000 (located on page C-18 of the Budget Book), which together comprise 97 per cent of the Ministry's total budget.

Mr. Chairman, with the introduction of the Cruise Ship (Casino) Act 2013, which came into effect on the 1st April 2014, the Administration section is responsible for the management of the application process and the issuance of permits that enable the cruise ships to open their casinos within the prescribed operating hours.

Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to advise that our Ministry generated over $600,000 in revenue from the issuance of permits from the period of 1st April 2014 through the 31st of December 2014. However, I must mention that this revenue is captured under government miscellaneous taxes; therefore, it is not identified as a revenue cost centre in our Ministry. [The] $600,000 may be considered a relatively small amount of revenue within the context of the total government revenues, but the policy decision is a good example of what can be achieved by working closely with our business partners to create mutually beneficial initiatives and programs.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to highlight one of the very important projects that our Ministry headquarters, with the able assistance of Management Consulting Service, is working on. This project is entitled "A New Way of Doing Business" and it can be defined as a model review of the Departments of Civil Aviation and Maritime Administration.

Mr. Chairman, the Departments of Civil Aviation and Maritime Administration are currently operating under a model that inhibits the growth of both registries which results in less revenue for government.

The model is not conducive to address and best manage the global labour shortages in both industries. In addition, the current structure limits productivity due to existing agreements, limits our ability to offer globally competitive wages and benefits for highly technical posts. The government's internal bureaucracy hinders the recruitment and hiring process, negatively impacts compliance audit results, positions both registries to be less competitive globally in a highly competitive and lucrative industry and, potentially compromises the "World Class" registry status Bermuda currently holds.

Mr. Chairman, the Government's public policy is NOT aligned with the commercial services both departments perform. In today's global marketplace for aviation and maritime administration products, the Bermuda Government can no longer manage both departments as if they are delivering public services. These government departments must change to a business model and manage their services comparable to a commercial entity, which will improve efficiency, increase revenue for government, excel in customer service and ensure the Bermuda Aircraft and Ship Registry are strong competitors in these lucrative and highly competitive markets.

The demands of DMA and DCA's clients and regulators, who oversee the work of DMA and DCA, are beyond the current service delivery capacity of both departments and are placing a strain on government's internal systems, such as human resources and finance.

Mr. Chairman, the client base of both departments are outside of government. They expect a high standard when it comes to client service and delivery. Currently, internal government administration and financial processes are not conducive for these clients who expect to be dealt with in a business driven time-frame. "Time is money" and the current business and operating model of both are not meeting international best practices.

Mr. Chairman, under the Public Sector Reform initiative of Government, changing the model of how the Department of Maritime Administration and Civil Aviation conduct business qualifies as a public sector reform. There is a clear and undeniable business logic for a change in the business model to enable both DMA and DCA to function as a business entity, which will ensure efficiencies and enable both to be strong global competitors in Maritime Administration and Civil Aviation industries. This change will support our objective to globally position Bermuda as the number one choice to register ships and aircraft and enable both DMA and DCA to excel in customer service for their registry clients.

Mr. Chairman, our Ministry will continue to progress this project during this fiscal year.

Transportation Planning Team, [cost centre] 58010, which can be found on B-158. The original 2014/15 budget was $180,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $175,000, a decrease of $5,000. The full-time equivalent is one.

Mr. Chairman, the role of the Transportation Planning Team (TPT) is to provide research support to the Ministry and departments, to continue implementation of the proposals contained in the National Transportation Management Report (2002), to promote and explore new initiatives within the Ministry and to review and ensure the efficiency and integration of transportation services of Bermuda.

The TPT is also, and importantly, responsible for helping ensure that Bermuda's air services and cruise ship strategies are sustainable, involving a high level of coordination with all on-Island stakeholders and negotiating with cruise lines.

Regulatory & Policy/Hotel Administration, [cost centre] 58020. The original [budget] for 2014/15 is $280,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $233,000, a decrease of $47,000. The full-time equivalents are three.

Mr. Chairman, It was identified early on that the function of the Regulatory & Policy/Hotel Administration section would need to exist outside of the newly created Bermuda Tourism Authority. As a result of the section's absorption by Headquarters, there were personnel efficiencies identified, resulting in the reduction of three full-time equivalents (FTEs) and corresponding reduction of $240,000 in operating costs when compared to the operation under the former Bermuda Department of Tourism.

Mr. Chairman, this section is responsible for the hotel licensing and inspection process which includes a team that works within regulatory guidelines to ensure that all licensed hotel properties maintain the appropriate standards. It is also charged with overseeing the hotel concessions process from the application stage of a new hotel development and/or major renovation to the issuance of "opening date certificates" which certify that the planned redevelopment is complete and that relief guided by each order can commence. Regulation and Policy also oversee the timesharing administration and the hotel bed and unit inventory tracking.

Mr. Chairman, the Ministry established an in-house hotel development process that includes cross-ministry involvement whereby hotel developers channel their activities through the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport and we consult directly with all relevant Ministries at the Economic Development Committee level. This process has helped developers by minimising the burden of dealing with ministries individually as applications are addressed simultaneously which expedites the process. The Ministry working in tandem with the Bermuda Tourism Authority will continue to work with current and potential hotel development investors with a view to increasing hotel room inventory and attracting world-class hotel brands.

Mr. Chairman, we have seen an upturn in hotel development and concession applications. We are encouraged by the hotel developers that are still progressing with their projects. Additionally, even with the economy in its current state, Bermuda remains attractive to prospective developers. In addition to the projects already in channel, including the St. George's Development Site (known as the Club Med site), Fairmont Hamilton Princess and its new Princess Beach Club at the former Sonesta Beach property, Pink Beach Hotel, Morgan's Point, Coral Beach and Tennis Club, Fairmont Southampton, and a few more on the horizon including the Ariel Sands and Bermudian Beach Club, known as Grand Atlantic.

The total budget for the Ministry Headquarters (Head 48) for the fiscal year 2015/16 is $23.51 million, a decrease of $1.6 million from the 2014/15 original estimates.

Salaries and wages for the eight full-time equivalents account for $802,000 which represents 3 per cent of Headquarters' budget. The annual grants to the Bermuda Tourism Authority of $21.7 million and the Government Golf Courses of $750,000 represent 92 per cent and 3 per cent, respectively, of Headquarters' budget. Professional Services account for $84,000 and Travel Expenses $110,000, each equating to less than 1 per cent of the total 2015/16 budget.

Mr. Chairman, I would like provide an update on cruise ship initiatives currently under way in the Ministry.

The Ministry, along with the Bermuda Tourism Authority, has developed a positive relationship with the premium/luxury cruise ship companies in attracting their brands to come to our shores, and for 2015 we will see some of the world's top-rated cruise lines sail here. This will include Oceania Cruises making three cruise calls to Bermuda, Silversea Cruises making three cruise calls, Regent Seven Seas Cruises making one call, Princess Cruises making two calls, and Crystal Cruises making one call. We will also see the return of the German-speaking ship AidaLuna, who will visit Bermuda on three occasions, and the Club Med 2 making one call.

After a two-year absence we will also see the return of Holland America Line's Veendam, which will be making six calls to Hamilton this season from Boston. We are excited that Holland America will be returning to Hamilton.

Mr. Chairman, Norwegian Cruise Line will once again return with the Norwegian Breakaway in 2015, with a total of 26 calls from New York City. The Norwegian Breakaway alone is anticipated to bring to Bermuda over 100,000 cruise passengers, making a financial contribution of $30 million to our economy, including government fees and expenditures made by cruise passengers and crew members.

Royal Caribbean will deploy the Liberty of the Seas in 2015, making 21 calls from Cape Liberty, New Jersey. The Liberty of the Seas will replace the smaller Explorer of the Seas and is projected to bring 82,000 passengers to Bermuda making a financial contribution of $20 million. Royal Caribbean's Grandeur of the Seas will return with 12 calls from Baltimore and Celebrity Cruise Line's Summit will return with 19 calls from Cape Liberty, New Jersey.

In total, we are projecting 135 cruise calls in 2015, five more than the 130 we had in 2014. We are projecting approximately 370,000 cruise visitors will sail to Bermuda in 2015, which will be significantly higher than the 356,000 experienced in 2014, a 4 per cent increase in cruise visitor arrivals. So we anticipate a very robust and successful cruise ship season in 2015.

Mr. Chairman, each cruise passenger arriving in Bermuda pays a passenger and a cabin tax to government (projected to be $22 million in 2015), while cruise visitors make purchases in local retail establishments and purchase shore excursions in support of our taxi, minibus and water sport sectors. They also extensively use our public transport system, resulting in increased revenues. The secondary impact of the cruise segment on our economy is significant, with many tour operators relying on cruise visitors for their livelihood. In total, the cruise ship segment is projected to make a financial contribution in excess of $90 million to our economy in 2015.

In consultation with the Bermuda Tourism Authority, we continue to meet with cruise lines in an attempt to secure small ships for Hamilton and St. George's, recognising that there are increasingly fewer ships capable of docking in those ports. Finally, we are also working with the BTA on securing cruise ships for the America's Cup in 2017. Although early in the process, the overall strategy is to offer America's Cup themed cruises as well as the possibility for cruise ships to be chartered for the month-long event. These discussions are in the early phases, and we hope to have more detailed plans as the year progresses.

Mr. Chairman, in 2014 we implemented a new transportation plan at Royal Naval Dockyard. The plan relied on input and cooperation from taxi and minibus operators, the bus and ferry systems, the cruise lines and the West End Development Corporation. That plan will be further refined for 2015. Much of the effort will be in providing quality transportation services for our visitors, including scheduled ferry and bus services, sightseeing bus service, beach shuttles and taxi and minibus tours. In 2014, the West End Development Corporation assumed responsibility for managing passenger movements from Royal Naval Dockyard to Horseshoe Bay Beach and that will be continued in 2015. This creates employment opportunities for Bermudians who choose to enter the transportation sector and provides much needed relief for the public transport system.

In order to provide more lift from Dockyard to St. George's, the Department of Marine & Ports Services will once again lease the Millennium from Rhode Island Fast Ferry. Leasing a vessel will enable us to enhance ferry service for our commuters and visitors travelling from Dockyard to Hamilton, while reducing the "stress" placed on the existing and ageing fleet.

The Transport Control Department will allocate Traffic Officers to be at Dockyard when the cruise ships arrive. Their role is to manage the private transportation services, including the taxi and minibus operators, who have a major role in ensuring that our visitors are moved efficiently and effectively.

The private sector has a major role to play in providing transportation services and we continue to work with them in ensuring that they are provided their fair share of business.

Working with the Ministry of Finance, we will be increasing the rate of the transportation passes, which are commonly used by visitors to the Island. This will help reduce the subsidy to provide public transport while encouraging more of our visitors to use private transportation such as taxis and minibuses.

Thank you Mr. Chairman. This concludes my brief on Ministry Headquarters, Head 48.

I am now moving to Head 30, Department of Marine & Ports Services.

HEAD 30—DEPARTMENT OF MARINE & PORTS SERVICES

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell:

Mr. Chairman, one of this department's primary roles is to facilitate the movement of shipping commerce in and out of Bermuda's ports. This is undertaken through the provision of marked navigational channels, provision of pilot and tug services and coordination of channel and port infrastructure development work to ensure that the needs of the cruise and cargo ships are maintained in collaboration with the Ministry of Works and Engineering.

The department is also responsible for the coordination of international search and rescue operations in this area of the Atlantic, and oversees seaport security compliance in accordance with international standards designed to counter the spread of terrorism.

The department also manages the allocation of mooring positions to local boats as well as undertaking the annual registration of private vessels. Additionally, more detailed safety inspections and the licensing of commercial passenger carrying vessels or island boats also occurs annually. The final, perhaps higher profile element of the department's activities is the operation of the "Sea Express" Ferry Service that directly compliments public transport services through the efficient, mass carriage of local commuters and visitors Island-wide.

The operating budget for the Department of Marine & Ports Services for 2015/16 is $19,726,959 against estimated revenue of $5,860,000.

Mr. Chairman, the breakdown of estimates, as found on pages B-160 to B-164 of the Budget Book, is set out under three [line items] as follows:

[Line item] 3006, West End (Dockyard). This program operates in direct support of international shipping calling at Bermuda through:

- The provision of tug services assisting cruise ship and cargo ship berthing and un-berthing operations;
- The maintenance of marked channels, light-houses and other marine aids to navigation;
- The operation of a tender service to cruise vessels that go to anchor; and
- The operation of slipway and maintenance facility support services for the department's vessels.

[Line item] 3006, [cost centre] 40040, Navigational Aids. The original 2014/15 budget was $743,000. The estimated for 2015/16 is $706,000, a decrease of $37,000. Full-time equivalents are nine. Revenue is expected to be $500,000.

The Aids to Navigation Section maintains some 200 channel markers, the Island's two light-houses as well as offshore beacons and small boat markers to the international standards.

This is accomplished with a team of skilled and dedicated staff who receive training from the US Coast Guard and a US-based supplier of aids to navigation systems. The section also assists with the operation of a line boat assisting ship berthing at Dockyard, small boat wreck removal around the Island, minor dredging work and marine oil pollution response when required.

Mr. Chairman, in 2014 this section undertook the installation of the last of the SB-2200 maintenance free, polyethylene plastic buoys in the Narrows Channel. This section also started with the upgrade to the Crescent Beacon in the North Channel which, when completed, will have a weather station in operation in this location for use of the larger cruise vessels that are entering our waters, giving them up to date information of the weather at this critical turning point of the North Channel for safe navigation.

Meanwhile the department will continue to retire older steel buoys in the Dundonald Channel and the branch off towards Two Rock Passage, using a new SB-1800 maintenance free polyethylene plastic buoy designed for more protected harbour approaches. The department is also working closely with Works and Engineering on channel improvements and new beacon upgrades to replace buoys during the upgrade. Revenue to pay for this service is generated by ships paying a lighthouse entrance fee, port dues and light tolls which are estimated at $519,000 for 2015/16, down from $544,000 the year prior. Some 73 per cent of the cost to provide this service is therefore directly recovered.

[Line item] 3006, [cost centre] 40140, Tug Service. (We are still on page B-160.) The original budget for 2014/15 was $1.532 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1.471 million, a decrease of $61,000. Full-time equivalents are 18. Expected revenue is $1.128 million.

The tug service provides berthing and slipping assistance to international shipping calling at our various ports. The threat of an accident resulting in damage to a ship and/or our port infrastructure and the potential for marine pollution requires that at least one tugboat to standby when ships are manoeuvring in port. The only ships routinely exempted from this practice are the three smaller containers ships calling at Hamilton. Our tugs also provide an offshore towing and salvage rescue capability which remains important given Bermuda's isolated geographic position in the Atlantic and the potential threat from passing vessels potentially grounding on our environmentally sensitive outer reef.

Mr. Chairman, the department maintains three harbour tugs with the sister tugs Powerful and Faithful having a bollard pull of 40 tons as well as fire-fighting, oil dispersant and oil recovery capabilities, while the third tug, the Edward M. Stowe, has a lower 32 ton bollard pull and generally serves as a relief tug when one of the larger tugs is undergoing maintenance. The future of the tug fleet remains under review given the age of the individual vessels and potential increases in maintenance costs all balanced against the capital investment in new tugs. An additional consideration has also been the relatively low power of all of our tugs compared with the size of the largest cruise ships now calling at Bermuda in order to safeguard their berthing and unberthing in extreme wind conditions.

Two modern, more powerful tug boats with a minimum bollard pull of 70 tons remain an identified requirement in Bermuda's port capabilities moving forward.

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Madam Chairman, I am now on [line item] 3006, [cost centre] 40210, Tender Service. The original 2014/15 budget was $438,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $382,000, a decrease of $56,000. Full-time equivalents are four. Estimated revenue is $60,000.

Madam Chairman, the tender Bermudian is primarily used to supplement our regular ferry service during our peak tourism and cruise ship season running from April through November. The tender also occasionally transports passengers to and from shore when cruise ships are at anchor in the Great Sound or Grassy Bay. Ongoing maintenance costs are increasing due to the age of the vessel. However, considering the passenger lift capacity of 750 persons against the fuel burnt, this vessel is still economically viable to operate.

The tender is also available for hire to the general public and is popular for weekend and evening summer cruises given her 450 passenger carrying capacity for social events.

[Line item] 3006, [cost centre] 40260, Dockyard Maintenance. The original 2014/15 budget was $3.25 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $2.91 million, a decrease of $337,000. Full-time equivalents are 25.

Madam Chairman, the Dockyard Maintenance section provides mechanical and engineering support to the department's vessels. The marine cradle at Dockyard is now the only slipway of that size remaining in Bermuda making it critical to the department's needs but also a resource for the largest private vessels operated locally that might need to use the cradle for emergency repairs or scheduled maintenance. A charging mechanism is presently being created with the help of the Government Estates Section to facilitate private use.

A cause of concern from a tourism image and basic health and safety standpoint is the proximity of the department's heavy maintenance work which is in close proximity to pedestrian and retail activities. The department's heavy maintenance is being interrupted under certain wind conditions resulting in work having to be done outside of normal working hours and also on weekends. With the South Basin reclamation project scheduled to get underway early in the next fiscal year, this problem will be solved when the maintenance activities of the department are relocated to an area already identified within the south basin development.

Madam Chairman, I am now looking at [line item] 3007, Central (Hamilton Office) and [cost centre] 40090, Ferry Service, still on page B-160. The original for 2014/15 is $8.89 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $7.93 million, a $0.96 million decrease. The full-time equivalents are 72. The estimated revenue is $1.79 million.

Madam Chairman, the "Sea Express" ferry service represents a comfortable and efficient means of public transport supporting the local commuter and visitor markets. The department continues to operate six high speed catamaran ferries and three harbour ferries with additional ferry lift between Dockyard and Hamilton also being provided by the previously mentioned tender Bermudian.

Ferry capacity was further bolstered in 2013 by the hire of the 400 passenger ferry Millennium and this initiative has been continued for a third year to assure that cruise ship passenger lift between Dockyard and St. George's is assured in order to sustain ailing businesses in St. George's. Despite budgetary pressures, in 2015 the department will undertake to incrementally increase ferry capacity on this route at the request of the Corporation of St. George's and the Chamber of Commerce. Meanwhile scheduled services between the West End and Hamilton will occur in much the same way as 2014 with minor adjustments being undertaken to optimise ferry departures in line with cruise visitor and local commuter demands.

Public transportation is highly subsidised but wherever possible all efforts are being made to control costs with an emphasis on overtime reduction and fuel efficiency. Currently, a passenger load study is being conducted with the view to utilising the Paget/Warwick class ferries to run the Blue Route on winter weekends as opposed to the fast catamarans. This will result in vast savings as we will now be burning 24 gallons of fuel per hour as opposed to 110 gallons of fuel per hour.

Madam Chairman, it needs to be stated that to operate within budget a compromise in ferry service levels may be required if ridership levels do not improve and flexibility in fleet operating methods and crewing will need to occur. Examples of this include a change of work practice involving pilots, crews and mechanical support staff all working a seven day per week roster given the demands imposed on us by cruise ship itineraries and tourist volumes on-Island at any given time—at least during the cruise ship season. In addition, a reduction in crew from three to two persons on the Paget/Warwick ferry route is imperative to immediately create cost-savings, and without such smaller cost-saving initiatives occurring, more aggressive changes in other areas may be required.

The cost of operating this service is estimated at $8 million, with anticipated revenue of $1.7 million. It should be noted that the nature of the bus and ferry ticket, token and pass fare collection system results in most ferry revenue being collected by the Department of Public Transportation as opposed to the Department of Marine & Ports.

[Line item] 3007, [cost centre] 40150, Boat and Mooring Registration. The original budget for 2014/15 is $234,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $265,000 a $31,000 increase. Full-time equivalents are three. Estimated revenue is $1.43 million.

Madam Chairman, the Boats and Moorings Registration Section is staffed by two full-time officers and one temporary clerk. These three people are responsible for the annual licensing of all private boats, commercial tour boats and moorings in Bermuda. This includes the physical inspection of all passenger-carrying island boats against an industry Code of Practice to ensure that they are fit for passenger carriage. There are approximately 8,500 private boats, 5,000 moorings, and 270 commercial, rental and charter boats to be processed each year.

Additional duties for this section include incident investigation and mooring dispute resolution, inspections of foreshore encroachments, management of small boat channels, and the processing of applications for commercial operators, as well as moorings, pylons and floating dock applications. Responsibility for small boat wreck removal also falls under this section, and with the two back-to-back hurricanes in October of last year there are more wrecked boats than ever littering our shores. However, until there is a budget for this undertaking the section will continue to struggle to deal with this growing and pervasive problem.

Last year's launch of boat and mooring registration payments through the department's website was well received and proved to be convenient and efficient for all who used it. It is hoped that this year more customers will be aware of and partake in relicensing via this method.

The digital mapping of all moorings Island-wide has been completed. The map is now available for public viewing on the department's website and has already proven extremely beneficial to the assessment of new mooring applications and in resolving mooring position disputes, particularly after the two hurricanes in October which saw many moorings dragged out of position. The priority now is to keep this information up to date so that it remains relevant. This will require consistent and frequent monitoring. Phase 2 of this initiative, planned for this year, is to map all floating docks and pylons in order to regularise any that are not licensed.

Madam Chairman, last year we proposed advancing the department's mooring management plan with the implementation of a mooring licence fee assessed by the length of the vessel for which a given mooring is designed. Whilst we believe this is a much more equitable method of calculating mooring fees, we realise it will require greater oversight and management than we are currently staffed to provide.

Madam Chairman, with only two full-time staff overseeing 5,000 moorings, and over 250 charter and rental vessels, the section will be challenged to advance with these, and other, important initiatives. The number of charter vessels is expected to double and even triple in the lead up to America's Cup. It is hoped this section can retain a full-time clerk and take on another marine services officer to assist with the varied and demanding workload the section experiences. In light of the current situation, we will seek to make the internal adjustments with personnel to advance these initiatives.

[Line item] 3007, [cost centre] 40200, Administration. The original 2014/15 budget was $2.25 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $2.14 million, a $0.11 million [decrease.] Full-time equivalents are eight. The expected revenue is $22,500.

Madam Chairman, this programme relates to the administrative duties and personnel functions of the entire department. Responsibilities include:

- Staff human resources oversight;
- Department accounting services;
- Administration support relating to shipping and ferry public transport policy execution;
- Examination of local pilots and island boats operators;

- Inspection and licensing of private boats and commercial charter boats;
- Regulating resort diving (SCUBA) operations;
- Allocation and registration of all moorings;
- Investigation of marine accidents; and
- Drafting of marine legislation.

Looking at [Line item] 3008, East End (Fort George), still on [page] B-160, and under [cost centre] 40100, Maritime Safety and Security. The original for 2014/15 was $2.14 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $2.11 million, a $31,000 decrease. Full-time equivalents are 10.

Madam Chairman, services provided by this section relate to maritime safety and security obligations under the United Nations Safety of Life at Sea (SOLAS) Convention. Such functions are centrally coordinated from the Bermuda Maritime Operations Centre located at Fort George which operates in direct support of various Government agencies with local and overseas marine interests including the Bermuda Police Service, HM Customs, the Bermuda Regiment, the Department of Environmental Protection, Maritime Administration, Airport Operations and Civil Aviation.

The Maritime Operations Centre operates around the clock with a total staff of nine. This facility provides the functions of a Rescue Coordination Centre, a Coast Radio Station (known to mariners as Bermuda Radio) as well as providing Vessel Traffic Radar Surveillance and the Registry of Satellite Distress Beacons which are fitted on Bermuda registered ships and aircraft operating worldwide. All vessels calling at Bermuda are scrutinised prior to entry into port and detailed information about visiting ships and yachts as well as their voyage history is collected for reasons of safety and international seaport security combined with local border security concerns.

Madam Chairman, Bermuda has an aggressive programme of coastal monitoring that, despite a lack of costly vessel and aircraft patrol capabilities, has led to many successes in collaboration with the Bermuda Police Service and HM Customs and the Government continues to invest in maritime safety and security measures in line with recommendations contained within the National Security Review.

Cruise and cargo dock seaport security measures are also the responsibility of this section and the designation of restricted areas around such port facilities requires a mix of physical security equipment and contractual oversight of private security personnel in order to fulfil international port security obligations. Specialist technical support of coastal surveillance radar equipment, X-ray baggage screening equipment, metal detectors, and CCTV equipment covering port areas is all undertaken in-house by highly trained personnel within this section.

Madam Chairman, in a small country such as Bermuda, specialist capabilities must always be shared in the public interest. And nowhere is this better demonstrated than with the collaborative approach taken with the Island's marine search and rescue response operations. While the Rescue Coordination Centre is central to any local or international response effort, an interagency collaboration using all available marine search and rescue units within Government departments is required when a distress case occurs and time is short to affect a successful rescue.

[Line item] 3008, [cost centre] 40180, Pilotage Services & Offshore Search and Rescue. The original budget for 2014/15 was $1.83 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1.82 million, an $18,000 decrease. The full-time equivalents are 18. Anticipated revenue is $0.89 million.

Madam Chairman, this service provides pilot services to international shipping calling at Bermuda thereby ensuring that visiting ships are able to safely navigate Bermuda's narrow channels into port. The service also facilitates offshore cargo and crew transfers in cases where a ship that diverts to Bermuda is too deep to enter port. Such offshore transfers are particularly challenging when an injured or sick person must be stretchered off a ship under emergency circumstances and in inclement weather.

Madam Chairman, Bermuda undertakes responsibility for marine search and rescue response out to a distance of 30 miles from shore. The pilot service vessels St. David and St. George are the backbone of this service together with their three-man boat crews. Rigorous crew training must be undertaken to ensure that crews are able to safely operate offshore and normally in poor weather conditions.

Madam Chairman, projects for 2015 include the following:

- continued assistance to Works and Engineering in relation to the ongoing review of channel modification options to accommodate larger cruise ships; and
- continued progression of the night pilotage initiative to potentially allow cargo ships to enter and depart port at night.

While no channel modification work was required to accommodate the Breakaway, certain risks during periods of high cross winds during transits of the North Channel do remain for many of the largest ships already calling at our shores. The benefits from wider, deeper channels will definitively mitigate the threat of manoeuvring errors resulting in grounding that might possibly cause cruise ship damage and potential widespread environmental impacts from pollution.

Such channel work will also open the door to a night pilotage option for various classes of smaller cargo ship and possibly even cruise ships that are presently limited to arriving and departing via the channels during daylight hours only. The design analysis, cost projections and overall project management of such channel work is a collaborative exercise that is ultimately led by Works and Engineering given the scope of the capital works involved.

Madam Chairman, that concludes the brief for the Department of Marine & Ports Services. But I have much more. I see you are riveted.

HEAD 31—DEPARTMENT OF AIRPORT OPERATIONS

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I am now moving, Madam Chairman, to the Department of Airport Operations, which is Head 31, and can be found on page B-165.

Madam Chairman, the L. F. Wade International Airport has continued with improvements to various areas of the terminal facility, its aerodrome and airfield infrastructure, its surveillance radar and other navigational aid systems. These ongoing improvements are necessary in order to maintain Bermuda's compliance with local and international aviation regulatory requirements.

Madam Chairman, in October of 2014, the L. F. Wade International Airport suffered significant storm damage to its terminal building and other facility assets throughout the airport campus, as a result of Hurricanes Faye and Gonzalo. Despite the impact and severity of both storms, the Department of Airport Operations (DAO) was able to return to a sense of normalcy following only three combined days of closure that led to suspended flight operations.

I would like to acknowledge the efforts of the staff at the DAO and other airport personnel, the Bermuda Regiment and the Royal Navy, who all worked tirelessly to reopen the airport and re-establish our connection to the rest of the world. The damages sustained in these storms are one of the reasons that underscore the importance of developing a robust, purpose-built terminal facility that could better withstand nature's fury.

Madam Chairman, to that end, the DAO completed its Master Plan in 2006 and its terminal complex study in 2008 for an airport redevelopment. In 2014, the Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC), a Crown company of the Canadian Government, and the Government of Bermuda, signed a non-binding Memorandum of Understanding that seeks to build upon the airport's initial master planning process and deliver a world class, signature airport terminal building through a public/private partner initiative.

The MOU is intended for both parties to continue to foster collaboration and carry out analysis and due diligence to determine whether or not the airport redevelopment project is financially viable and of mutual benefit. As such, the DAO shall continue to utilise its resources and personnel along with the financial, legal and engineering services of professional advisers, to fully evaluate the CCC proposal and make a recommendation on the way forward.

Madam Chairman, have you noticed how quiet it has become? Dinner must be served.

Madam Chairman, the success of the airport redevelopment project will be driven in part by an anticipated revival in air services following the announcement of Bermuda's successful bid to host the 2017 America's Cup and the advancement of numerous hotel development projects. In the interim, however, the airport continues to be challenged in its efforts to safeguard the Island's scheduled air services for 2015.

Whilst we believe the tourism sector is heading in the right direction, the overall total number of air passengers has softened year over year as a result of the declining number of Bermudian residents. This reduced demand has led to airlines having to adjust its winter schedules in order to ensure the year-round financial viability of its Bermuda services. However, despite the reduced winter schedules by some airlines, the airport has been successful in ensuring that for 2015, Bermuda maintains the equivalent level of direct service to each one of the gateway cities that was served in 2014.

Now looking at Operation & Maintenance & Airside Service, it can be found at [line item] 3102.

Madam Chairman, in December 2013, the DAO entered into an agreement with Boeing Digital Aviation, a business division of aviation giant, Boeing, to study the management and further modernisation of Bermuda's airspace. The study, completed in August 2014, outlined a multi-year plan that would see Bermuda collaborating with the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to become a certified Air Navigation Service Provider (ANSP). This certification would allow Bermuda to expand its area of airspace for air traffic control management services from its present five-mile radius, out to 50 miles and potentially out to a further distance at a later stage.

Madam Chairman, the study identifies opportunities to accelerate the already fast pace Bermuda has taken in modernising its air traffic management system by developing Performance Based Navigation [PBN] procedures for arriving, departing and en-route traffic. This enhanced modernisation shall enable airlines to realise greater efficiencies and improved operational safety. Many advanced types of commercial aircraft, including those manufactured by Boeing and flown here every day, stand to optimise their in-flight navigational performance capabilities when traversing through Bermuda's advanced airspace.

Madam Chairman, financial year 2015/16 will see the continuation of Phase II of the Visual Slope Segment Penetration (VSSP) project which calls for the installation of additional airfield lighting, the completion of geotechnical and environmental impact reviews, safety enhancements to the aerodrome, and the installation of approach lighting barrettes on Runway 3-0 at the Clearwater end of the airfield. The public shall recall that in 2013, the airport completed the first phase of the VSSP capital improvement project in order to comply with new International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) regulations that require arriving aircraft to increase its descent angle when on final approach over Ferry Reach, in order to ensure that the approach path is free of newly-defined physical obstacles. This necessitated the repositioning of lighting systems and runway markings, along with the installation of runway centreline lighting and the recalibration of navigation aids.

Madam Chairman, according to international weather minimal criteria set by ICAO and the FAA, completion of the first phase of the VSSP project now ensures that the L. F. Wade International Airport is equipped with the necessary lighting and navigational aid equipment essential for a full Category 1 approach. Prior to the completion of the upgrades, our navigational aids and minimal lighting capability dictated that an arriving aircraft would have to circle until visibility on the approach improved to at least 1,200 metres. With the new runway centreline lighting, aircraft can now safely land at our airport with visibility as low as 800 metres, which represents the type of conditions one could expect during a heavy downpour, as an example.

Madam Chairman, the airport will also look to undertake jointly with the FAA, the restoration of the VHF Omni-directional Radio (or V-O-R) system at a cost of $1 million of which DAO will be responsible for covering 25 per cent. The VOR is a fixed-based ground radio instrument used by in-flight aircraft to provide navigational aid. This instrument is also very useful when visual reference of the ground is lost. It was constructed in 1986 on the southern shoreline of the airfield and has since been besieged by the corrosive effects of the salty marine air and as such, is in need of repair. The ability of the FAA to initiate repair plans was hampered by recent US funding constraints and sequestration which imposed severe operational restrictions. However, in September 2014, following continuous lobbying efforts on the part of the DAO, the FAA's Operations Review Board approved funding and established a timeline for repair of the VOR.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Point of clarification, if the Minister—

The Chairman: Yes, thank you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 24.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Just . . . only because I am an aviation buff. I just wanted to help the Minister out. It is actually V-O-R, it is not the word, the acronym.

The Chairman: Oh. It is an acronym.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: It is not the word "VOR," that is all.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you, Honourable Member.

[Pause]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, I am just trying to figure out where I was.

Madam Chairman, the V-O-R is a fixed-based ground radio instrument used by in-flight aircraft to provide navigational aid. (I will just repeat some of it.) This instrument is also very useful when visual reference of the ground is lost. It was constructed in 1986 . . . The ability of the FAA to initiate repair plans was hampered by recent US funding constraints and sequestration . . . However, in September 2014, after lobbying we have established a timeline for repair of the V-O-R.

The construction phase will commence December 2015 and is expected to be completed by May 2016 and returned to operation by July 2016 following a flight check.

Madam Chairman, the airport continues to partner with the FAA in order to further integrate state-of-the-art global satellite-based technology as part of the next generation programme entitled “NextGen”—a comprehensive initiative designed by the FAA to update its highly complex air traffic control system. This programme will enhance safety and improve fuel efficiency; reduce environmental impact—noise and emissions; while expanding operational efficiency and the rate of flight arrivals and departures. These deliverables will be met through the introduction of PBN [Performance Based Navigation] which will realise reductions in miles flown with stabilised, vertically and laterally optimised flight paths for every approach.

Still on page B-165, [line item] 3102, [cost centre] 41210, Airport Security and Flight Safety.

Madam Chairman, the Government continues to take its responsibility seriously in ensuring the safety and security of airport agencies and the travelling public. As such, the regulatory criteria for maintaining the integrity of the security fence line and airport baggage and passenger screening processes are continually being met through the training of our service provider personnel and the ongoing monitoring of daily operations. Airport safety management systems and change risk management processes continue to serve as essential tools for further identifying and mitigating operational risks.

Madam Chairman, the safety and security of aircraft and passengers continues to be of paramount importance to international regulators. Airport baggage and passenger screening is a mandated requirement being achieved through the engagement of an approved and qualified aviation security firm on a multi-year contract.

[Line item] 8769, Terminal Building and Properties. Madam Chairman, despite economic challenges, the DAO continues to find creative ways to engage the private sector in investing in the overall improvement of the L. F. Wade International Airport terminal facility. Most recently, the DAO entered into a contract with “Look Bermuda” to curate and install art inside the terminal building at no cost to the Government. The first phase of the “Airport Art” project calls for the installation of large scale art installations on open wall spaces throughout the terminal in order to help enhance the travellers’ experience and their first and last impressions of the island. The photography will highlight Bermuda’s natural and cultural assets by showcasing the biodiversity of the Nonsuch Island Nature Reserve and its surrounding waters. The Nonsuch Island sponsored art installation has received much commendation and has instantly brightened up public areas within the terminal building.

DAO Financial Summary. Madam Chairman, the Department of Airport Operations has been allocated an Operating and Maintenance (O&M) budget of $19,331,000 under the 2015/16 Medium Term Expenditure Plan, which amounts to a significant decrease of $1,230,000, or 6 per cent when compared to the 2014/15 O&M budget of $20,561,000.

The change highlighted above is spread over the following programmes:

[Line item] 3101, [cost centre] 41010, Baggage Handling. The original 2014/15 budget was $269,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $263,000, a $6,000 decrease. The full-time equivalents are five. This decrease relates to employees accepting time in lieu for overtime.

Baggage handling expenses are primarily wages of the skycaps serving our arriving and departing passengers.

[Line item] 3101, [cost centre] 41040, Safety and Quality. The original 2014/15 budget was $524,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $530,000, a $6,000 increase. Full-time equivalents are six.

The minimal increase is for airport duty officer premium and overtime.

Safety and Quality expenses are primarily salaries of the safety and quality manager and the five airport duty officers.

[Line item] 3101, [cost centre] 41050, Air Terminal. The original 2014/15 budget was $2.02 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $2.09 million, an increase of $76,000. Full-time equivalents are eight.

Air Terminal Operations involves managing all aspects of the air terminal and its outlying buildings. These facets include rental management and other revenue generating opportunities, and salaries for traffic officers and Terminals management.

Madam Chairman, the following three cost centres—Air Traffic Control, Meteorology and Ground Electronics represent aviation operations and infrastructure maintenance that are outsourced to BAS-Serco.

[Line item] 3102, [cost centre] 41060, Air Traffic Control. The original 2014/15 budget was $1 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $0.84 million, a $0.16 million decrease.

This cost centre is managed entirely by BAS-Serco and the air traffic controllers direct the flow of aircraft on the ground and within the Bermuda airspace.

[Line item] 3102, [cost centre] 41070, Meteorology. The original 2014/15 budget was $2.35 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1.85 million, a $0.5 million decrease. This cost centre is managed entirely by BAS-Serco and provides meteorology services for the airport, the EMO and the Island at large and thus appears to have no DAO full-time employees. That weather service has become quite popular here lately, Madam Chairman.

[Line item] 3102, [cost centre] 41090, Ground Electronic Services. The original 2014/15 budget was $1.1 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1.07 million, a $39,000 decrease. This cost centre is managed entirely by BAS-Serco and this programme provides ground electronic services support and maintains airport equipment from airfield navigational aids to parking machines.

[Line item] 3102, [cost centre] 41160, Airside Operations. The original 2014/15 budget was $619,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $476,000, a $143,000 decrease. The full-time equivalents are two. The decrease is due to reduction in overseas consultancy budget and the service shall be performed by our in-house manager of air operation.

Airside operations ensure compliance with international airport regulations pertaining to the aprons, runway, taxiways, airfield lighting, navigational aid equipment, minimum obstacle clearance and air traffic control.

[Line item] 3102, [cost centre] 41210, Security. The original 2014/15 budget was $4,831,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $4,823,000 a decrease of $8,000. The full-time equivalents are two.

Airport security screening contract administration has improved and being maintained, thereby causing no significant shift in government's cost.

Security ensures the safety and security of the airport, its passengers and staff along with baggage and passenger screening.

[Line item] 3103, [cost centre] 41150, Maintenance and Engineering. The original 2014/15 budget was $3.6 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $3.3 million, a decrease of $263,000. The full-time equivalents are 12.

Maintenance and Engineering manage and support the airport runways, taxiways and aprons; the terminal building facilities including plumbing, electrical, and mechanical services.

[Line item] 3104, [cost centre] 41190, Finance and Administration. The original 2014/15 budget was $4.26 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $4.07 million, a decrease of $183,000. Full-time equivalents are seven.

This decrease is due on the prospect that oil prices will remain low and shall yield a reduction of energy cost while we continue to maximise on discount offered and energy efficiency.

Finance and Administration provides budgeting preparation and implementation; financial recording and control of expenditure; revenue; the billing and collection of $10.8 million in aeronautical and non-aeronautical revenue and human resource and administrative support services for the Department of Airport Operations.

Madam Chairman, this concludes my remarks on the Department of Airport Operations.

HEAD 34—TRANSPORT CONTROL DEPARTMENT

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I am now moving to Head 34, which is the Transport Control Department. Madam Chairman, the Transport Control Department (known as TCD), administers the operation of all motor vehicles on the roads of Bermuda. The department monitors and regulates the size, functionality, physical condition, and quantity of all vehicles by carrying out the following activities:

1. overseeing the management of the Vehicle Safety and Emissions Inspection Programme, which is currently contracted to the Bermuda Emissions Control Ltd.;
2. administering the registration and licensing of all motor vehicles;
3. executing the examination, registration and licensing of all drivers;
4. regulating traffic by monitoring drivers and motor vehicles, and;
5. implementing road safety programmes.

Periodically, the department inspects public garages, filling stations, and cycle liveries to ensure compliance with their permits. TCD issues special permits, such as one-day permits, which allow one to drive an unlicensed motor vehicle upon application for the same.

Madam Chairman, the Transport Control Department has been allocated a total expenditure budget of $5.2 million for the 2015/16 financial year. This is a decrease of $549,000 from 2014/15. Salaries and wages, totalling $2.46 million make up 46 per cent of the total department budget.

It is anticipated that in 2015/16, the department will collect $27.2 million in revenue (you can find this on page B-177). It should be noted that this amount does not include revenues generated by the department through traffic violation notices which are collected by and managed through the Bermuda courts. The estimate of expenditures is shown on page B-177.

Cost centre 44000, Examination. The original 2014/15 budget is $618,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $627,000, a variance of a $9,000 increase. Full-time equivalents are eight.

Madam Chairman, the functions of the Examination Section are carried out by eight staff members: manager, technical services, one senior examiner, five examiners and one trucks clerk. Due to the Early Retirement Incentive Plan, one examiner post is frozen for two years.

The Examination team is responsible for auditing and oversight of the vehicle safety and emissions inspection programme as well as administering all driving and riding tests to certify that applicants are fit to operate vehicles on Bermuda's roads. The examiners are also responsible for writing-off private cars prior to their disposal. This assists the department in maintaining the motor vehicle register.

Whilst there is a minor increase in the overall budget, there is actually a decrease since last year's budget included repairs and maintenance to the sections equipment, general stationery supplies and cleaning materials which have all been rolled into the Administration budget where they are more suited. Also, there is an increase in salaries due the manager post being filled in 2014.

Cost centre 44040, Registration. The original 2014/15 budget was $1 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $804,000, a decrease of $270,000. The full-time equivalents are 11.

Madam Chairman, the Registration Section is responsible for registering and licensing all vehicles, licensing all persons who operate vehicles, and collecting revenue for all transactions conducted within the department. The functions of the Registration Section are normally performed by 18 staff members, including: one manager, one registration officer, one assistant registration officer, and 15 clerks. However, the number of clerks was reduced by three to 12 in 2014 due to budgetary cuts. Those three employees were seconded to the Administration Section to fill a labour resource gap.

Further cuts this year result in the manager of registration post not being filled. This means that the responsibilities and tasks of the manager will fall on the director. Also, there would be no direct leadership for the section. The reduction of the three registration clerks and the registration manager will have a detrimental impact on customer service levels. Customers will have to wait longer periods of time to complete transactions and section staff members will not have a direct report which in itself is not good for the staff or overall operation. There will also be delays in registration and licensing requests and queries that would have normally been handled by the manager. So the public, the motoring public, will have to be patient.

This budget does not include printing and office supplies which have been rolled up into the Administration Section budget. There is also a decrease in funds available for driver's licences as well as licence plates. Therefore, as driver's licences are core to the department's operations, licence plates will not be available through the department after the existing stocks are depleted.

Cost centre 44090, Road Safety. The original 2014/15 budget was $184,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $148,000, a decrease of $36,000. There is only one employee. The Road Safety Council grant will be cut from $50,000 to $10,500.

Madam Chairman, the goal of the Road Safety Programme is to promote road safety awareness through education, training and public events. Notwithstanding the drastic cut to the Road Safety Council grant, the Council will continue its road safety awareness "Do Not Drink and Drive" programme on a smaller scale, taking advantage of publicity opportunities and any initiative that does not require financial resources.

The Road Safety Council advises the Minister on Transport matters pertaining to road safety and devises strategies and programmes to address prominent problems. Reporting directly to myself, the Council also coordinates the Project Ride Programme.

The functions of the road safety programmes are administered through the road safety officer, which is a post which answers to the Director of the Transport Control Department.

Madam Chairman, you may recall (and it's worthy to mention) the Road Safety Council coordinated a Road Safety Summit on February 11th, 2015 under the theme, "How do we make Bermuda's roads and road users safer?" The Summit was attended by 48 representatives from the relevant Government Ministries, the Opposition, the Bermuda Police Service, the insurance sector, CADA, Road Safety Council, Bermuda Health Council, and the Corporation of Hamilton among others. It was agreed that Tourism Development and Transport through the Road Safety Council will take the lead to immediately progress three recommendations from the Summit:

1. establish a continuous working group to implement road traffic safety concerns and initiatives set out in the Bermuda Police Service Road Safety Strategy (we have identified persons that we want to serve on this committee or working group);
2. to have roadside sobriety checks; and
3. speed cameras and other traffic-calming deterrents to encourage drivers and riders to slow down.

In line with the reduction of the grant, Madam Chairman, as you will know, the Bermuda Police Service has recently rolled out its safety strategy. And we are hoping that because it is a very comprehensive strategy that it will help reduce the impact of this reduction.

Cost centre 44110, Traffic Control. The original 2014/15 budget was $686,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $529,000 a $157,000 decrease. The full-time equivalents are eight.

Madam Chairman, the Traffic Control Section is responsible for the management and enforcement of traffic, issuing permits for the movement of oversized containers, heavy loads, unlicensed vehicles, and casual Sunday permits. There are normally 10 positions in the Traffic Section: one special investigations officer, one senior traffic officer and nine traffic enforcement officers, all who work with the Bermuda Police Service as a support in traffic enforcement.

Due to budgetary cuts, the vacant senior traffic officer post as well as one traffic officer post will not be filled. This will result in the lack of leadership and oversight for the Traffic Section as well as a decrease in revenue opportunities as the department's resources for writing parking tickets and traffic violations will be minus one person.

The TCD traffic enforcement officers are deployed on street patrols along with managing the Electronic Vehicle Registration system to ensure all vehicles operating on Bermuda's roads are compliant with legislation. They are responsible for ticketing abandoned vehicles and moving abandoned cycles.

To ensure that visitors receive a first-class transportation experience, traffic enforcement officers are also responsible for maintaining the orderly flow of public service vehicles at Bermuda's ports. The reduction in staff and the reduction in funds for overtime on weekends and public holidays will result in fewer resources at the ports which may result in some chaos during peak periods. In addressing this potential issue, consideration is being given to other options to manage the flow of traffic in Dockyard at our major cruise port.

The officers of the Transport Section also work closely with the Public Service Vehicle Licensing Board and the Trucks Advisory Committee to monitor and enforce the use of public service and commercial vehicles. The bodies deliberate on the issuance of associated permits to those persons operating vehicles, such as: trucks, community service vehicles, taxis, limousines and tractor trailers.

The senior traffic officer is the key officer responsible for implementation and follow-through of the decisions of the Public Service Vehicles Licensing Board which includes any and all matters pertaining to public service vehicles; purchasing, transferring, licensing, et cetera. Not filling this post will have a negative impact on the department's ability to process any transaction pertaining to a public service vehicle. Therefore, we will closely monitor this situation.

Cost centre 44210, Administration. The original 2014/15 budget was $3.1 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $3.1 million. There is a decrease of $95,000. The actual figure is the original was $3,189,000; the estimate was $3,094,000; which resulted in a decrease of $95,000. The full-time equivalents are eight.

Madam Chairman, the Administration Section is responsible for the overall operation and administration of the Transport Control Department. There are eight positions in the Administration Section. They are the director, the administration services manager, the secretary, the accounts administrative officer, the accounts clerk, a switchboard operator, a customer service representatives and a receptionist clerk.

This is one additional post over last year. Two employees from the former Department of Tourism transferred to this Section; one filled the vacant receptionist clerk position and the other filled a new customer service representative position. Three of the posts are filled with secondees from the Registration Section. These include the accounts clerk, secretary receptionist and switchboard operator.

Many of the costs associated with the functioning of the department, such as: staff training costs, supplies, support services, communication charges, repair and maintenance, the management of the safety and emissions programme and utilities are consolidated under the Administration cost centre. This year the budget for all office supplies and equipment maintenance from other sections was rolled into the Administration Section. It should be noted that the overall budget for these items has decreased substantially.

Forty per cent, or $2 million, accounts for professional services including the management of the safety and emissions programme as well as IT support for the e-TCD, the Driver and Vehicle Registration System (DVRS), the Appointment Management System (AMS) and the Electronic Vehicle Registration System (EVR). All of which are critical to ensuring smooth operations and excellent customer service.

[In summary], Madam Chairman, over the last five years the Transport Control Department was recognised for improved customer service, especially short transaction times with boasts of 5 to 10 minutes. Budgetary cuts last year resulted in long waits at the department for licensing and registration transactions (sometimes up to four hours) and delays in processing commercial and public service vehicle applications. I regret to advise that the continued budget cuts will result in the same situation.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to all of the staff members of the Transport Control Department for their efforts and commitment to quality customer service during these trying times. I would like to extend special thanks to Director Jasmin Smith, who will be seconded to the ACBDA for the next few years.

Madam Chairman, that concludes the brief for the Transport Control Department.

HEAD 35—DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I am now moving to Head 35, the Department of Public Transportation, which can be found on page B-180.

Madam Chairman, the Department of Public Transportation—and I would like to acknowledge the Director who is in the Chambers, Mr. Dan Simmons—oversees an Island-wide operation that services 11 bus routes, some on 15-minute schedules.

These services are currently being provided with an ageing bus fleet, whose weighted average age is now 9.3 years. I am pleased to announce that in fiscal 2014/15, we received 16 new replacement buses, the first replacement buses since 2009. This will improve the efficiency and reliability of the fleet, and will serve to offer an enhanced service experience to the travelling public. These buses come equipped with video cameras and recording devices to enhance operator and public safety.

DPT provides a variety of services, including a weekday commuter service, school bus services, charter services, and sightseeing services. DPT also provides special mass transit for various events throughout the year. These events have included the PGA Grand Slam of Golf and the Bermuda Institute of Ocean Sciences (BIOS) event for all Bermuda students and others. In the not too distant future, we anticipate service provision for the America's Cup competition to be held in Bermuda.

The current operating bus schedule at DPT was initially implemented in 1998. Since then, a significant number of "runs" have been added to the schedule in support of development around the Island. As part of the effort to cut costs and save money, DPT has reworked the existing schedule, reducing some of the schedule headways on selected routes, reducing the number of rosters and expanding the number of operators that are available to cover sickness and vacations without resorting to overtime pay. These changes alone are anticipated to save hundreds of thousands of dollars per year.

DPT will institute the new revised schedule at the start of the summer schedule in June and make similar adjustments to the winter schedule to be implemented at the beginning of school in September. You will know, Madam Chairman, that for the last 10 years administrations have been trying to implement a new and more effective and efficient bus schedule. These revised schedules and associated work rosters will benefit DPT workers by preserving jobs, reducing departmental expenditure and that of the public purse. These changes include but are not limited to:

- Modified Trips: Trips that now start and end at Grotto Bay will continue on to St. George's. In like manner, trips that start and end at Barnes' Corner and Somerset will continue on to the Royal Naval Dockyard providing additional ridership travel choices and the convenience of reduced transfers.

- Rostering all existing work: All scheduled work will be incorporated to the extent possible in new rosters along with an expansion of the number of cover operators. This will substantially reduce the current levels of overtime pay.
- Acquiring and maintaining the optimum level of bus operators to minimise the cost of overtime.
- Maintain service for low volume routes on week days and Sunday mornings.
- DPT's goal is to implement the revised schedule as the summer schedule in 2015.
- All bus routes emanating from the West End of the Island now start and end at the Royal Naval Dockyard.

The estimates of expenditure can be found on pages B-180 to B-183. We are now at [line item] 3501, [cost centre] 45000, Auxiliary Bus Services. The original 2014/15 budget was no money allocated. The estimate for 2015/16 is $190,000 which is an increase of $190,000. The full-time equivalents will be three.

The budget allocated is for the funding of three employees previously budgeted for in 45010, Bus Operations. So it is just a transfer, Madam Chairman, of employees.

[Cost centre] 45010, Bus Operations. The original 2014/15 budget was $10.1 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $9.5 million, a decrease of $545,000. The full-time equivalents are 160.

The 2014/15 budget was inadequate to fund the required operations and staff levels required to satisfy the current schedule, the then-existing grey schedule and other events, resulting in a projected cost over run for the year. The decreased budget allocation mandates more efficient rosters in order to achieve the targeted reductions in expenditure. Along with a new schedule, legacy work practices and procedures are being improved to make DPT more efficient to achieve the required savings mandated the 2015/16 budget.

Bus Operations is the core of DPT's operation which employs, again, 160 staff. This represents a reduction of 14 vacant posts from 2014/15 as our contribution to Government's cost-saving measures. This section provides the manpower for scheduled and unscheduled operations, sight-seeing and charter work, and special events transportation.

[Cost centre] 45090, Repair Services. The original 2014/15 budget was $4.8 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $4.6 million, a $227,000 decrease. Full-time equivalents are 47.

The decrease in budget is in part attributable to minor changes in personnel funding. The major decrease is in the funding for diesel fuel.

Madam Chairman, the Repair Services section is responsible for the maintenance and repair of all vehicles. This section is also responsible for the fuelling of other Government vehicles, the cleaning of the buses and for carrying out a preventative maintenance programme. The preventative maintenance programme is an integral part of this section as this programme is responsible for ensuring that the out-of-service vehicles are kept to a minimum. The fleet for which they are responsible totals 110 buses and approximately 10 auxiliary vehicles. The average age of the buses in the fleet is 9.3 years, significantly higher than the ideal of less than 7 years.

Madam Chairman, during 2014, we have had the assistance of a technician from MAN who has assisted us greatly. These technicians, while here, pass on invaluable knowledge to our staff. During the year, three qualified local technicians left for more lucrative employment outside of Government. To mitigate this loss, we engaged two recently retired employees to rebuild and service engines as necessary, in order to meet our obligations through the cruise season. We have experienced substantial difficulty in attracting qualified technicians locally, and may need to recruit overseas. In the meantime, we are sponsoring the technical development of three Bermudians via a co-operative arrangement with the National Training Board.

Madam Chairman, this section also has responsibility for minor repairs to DPT facilities which are currently in need of substantial repair and refurbishment after being damaged by the hurricanes that devastated the Island last October.

Now going to [cost centre] 45115, Inventory Management. Still on page B-180. The original budget for 2014/15 was $1.6 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1.1 million, a decrease of $459,000. Full-time equivalents are three. This decrease in the budget is due to the freezing of the store manager position as well as the decrease in the Purchase of Inventory budget.

Madam Chairman, the Stores/Spare Parts Section's main responsibility is to supply the Maintenance section with tires, consumables and service parts on a timely basis to repair and maintain the bus fleet.

[Cost centre] 45120, Administration section. The original budget for 2014/15 was $2.1 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1.9 million, a $269,000 decrease. The full-time equivalents are three. Madam Chairman, the freezing of the assistant director technical position, the minimised level of security services and the lowered contractual commitment to WEDCO for the Dockyard depot are the main reasons for the decreased budget.

The Administration Section budget covers utilities such as electricity, communications inclusive of telephone and fax charges. Fleet insurance, local training, print production costs, fare media, security, cleaning services and general office supplies are captured under this section.

[Cost centre] 45200, Management Support Section. The original budget for 2014/15 was $818,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $724,000 a $94,000 decrease. Full-time equivalents are 12. The reduction in budget is attributable to the freezing of two positions.

The Management Support Section provides support services to the director, assistant director and other management level staff. Services include human resources/personnel, payroll, accounts payable, accounts receivable, banking, cashiering, revenue collection and recording, and other support services.

Revenue for 2015/16 (which can be found on page B-181) is estimated to be $7.9 million. DPT continues to sell advertising on the back windows of the buses as an opportunity to further expand revenues.

The overall Department of Transportation expenditure budget for 2015/16 is $18 million, a decrease of 7.2 per cent from 2014/15.

Madam Chairman, in fiscal year 2015/16, DPT will re-examine the introduction of different classes of smaller vehicles to service existing routes that generally have a lower ridership, but remain important to residents that rely on the public transportation service. The opportunity also exists to have discussions with the private sector transportation providers to determine if they could support and augment the public system.

Madam Chairman, I would like to take this opportunity to personally thank the bus operators for their services and efforts as they have continued to put forward a good effort under some very trying conditions of late.

Madam Chairman, the depot on Palmetto Road is 28 years old and is showing its age and is in need of repairs, therefore, our Ministry will continue to work very closely with the Ministry of Public Works to have the necessary repairs completed during this year. I had the occasion a few weeks ago to walk around the depot along with Minister Cannonier during one of our recent downpours and I can attest that there are way too many leaks there causing mould and an unpleasant working environment. And so I would like to restate my appreciation to the workers who are committed under some difficult circumstances.

Madam Chairman, that concludes my remarks on the Department of Public Transportation.

HEAD 57—DEPARTMENT OF CIVIL AVIATION

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I am now moving to the Department of Civil Aviation, which is Head 57. It can be found on page B-184. And I would like to acknowledge in the Gallery, Madam Chairman, the Director Mr. Thomas Dunstan. Well, I did see him walk in, he is probably coming around to this side now, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, the Department of Civil Aviation continues to maintain and develop the Bermuda Register of Aircraft and Flight Crews. The department is also responsible for the development of policy and regulation of civil aviation activities in Bermuda. This includes all matters relating to the licensing, certification and regulation of aircraft, flight crews and aerodromes, together with all air navigation services aspects and the regulatory oversight of the L. F. Wade International Airport. The department further advises the Government on matters relating to the economic regulation of air transport and air services development. In this activity, the department works closely with the UK Department for Transport.

Madam Chairman, the Bermuda Register of Aircraft continues to enjoy a high reputation internationally as a safe, well-regulated register. Approximately 773 aircraft are now registered—up from 702 last year and 662 the year before—representing a consistent growth. Sustained growth is occurring in the registration of large commercial aircraft, reflecting the status of Bermuda as the preferred jurisdiction for certification in this sector of the industry. However, with the majority of these aircraft operated by Russian airlines and the Russian economy in a downturn, we expect to see a slowdown in growth over the next year in this sector.

Registrations in the private category aircraft have been retracting over the last few years, mainly due to increased competition with other jurisdictions. Some stabilisation of this situation has been realised in the third quarter of 2014/15. Whilst Bermuda's excellent credibility and high standards of regulation are highly regarded in the offshore aircraft registry industry, we must continue to invest in and support the department to maintain these along with the vital revenue stream.

Companies or private individuals seeking to register their aircraft have many registers worldwide to choose from and we are mindful of this competition. We are confident that there are a variety of benefits which point to Bermuda as the jurisdiction of choice for the registration and financing of aircraft, including:

- tax advantages for incorporating in Bermuda;
- highly respected legal system which permits a right of appeal to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council;
- the ability for International companies to deal in various currencies;
- high standards of regulatory oversight;
- preservation of high residual values for aircraft registered in Bermuda;
- highly qualified and commercially-minded personnel;
- acceptance of internationally recognised airworthiness and operational standards of other jurisdictions;

- VP-B and VQ-B, are low-profile registration marks, representing the designated letters for Bermuda registered aircraft;
- the full range of supporting professional advisors that Bermuda offers such as legal, accounting, managerial and operational requirements associated with aircraft registration and financing; and
- register of Aircraft Mortgages and Aircraft Engine Mortgages available to facilitate the registration and security interests of these mobile assets.

The department's total number of full-time employees (FTEs) is currently 30. The Budget Book reports an estimate of 40 posts which includes 10 vacancies.

Mr. Chairman, the department's specific responsibilities include the following:

- Aviation Safety. This encompasses the airworthiness and operational safety of aircraft registered in Bermuda, including the licensing of flight crews and aircraft engineers and the certification of aircraft.

The department further licences Bermuda's air traffic controllers and regularly undertakes safety audits of the Department of Airport Operations for compliance with international standards at the L. F. Wade International Airport (BDA). The areas audited include air traffic control, airport rescue and firefighting services, meteorology and ground electronics. Inspections are also carried out on the airlines operating to Bermuda to ensure compliance with safety standards including the carriage of dangerous goods. The DCA is also responsible, under the Governor's delegation, for ensuring that search and rescue services are provided. This requires periodic assessments of the Bermuda Maritime Operations Rescue Control Centre. Systems and processes continue to be reviewed and updated or revised to make the department more effective and user-friendly whilst enhancing efficiency.

- Aviation Security. Madam Chairman, the UK Department for Transport (DfT) will transfer the responsibility for aviation security oversight in the Overseas Territories to Air Safety Support International (ASSI) effective 1st April 2015.

Current account estimates are found on pages B-184 to B-186.

Madam Chairman, the budget for the Department of Civil Aviation, for the financial year 2015/16 is for expenditure of $9 million on current account, against estimated revenue of $26.9 million. This clearly demonstrates that this is a very important department to the Government. The total number of full-time employees required is 42 in order to meet the demands of the aircraft register's safety oversight activities as they stand today. The current level of funding permits the filling of 37 full-time employees.

The department's budget is set out under four cost centres: Airworthiness, Policy and Administration, Operations and Registrations.

Cost centre 67000, Airworthiness. The original 2014/15 budget was $5.7 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $5.13 million, a $576,000 decrease. The full-time equivalents are 16. And the anticipated revenue is $26.47 million.

Madam Chairman, the Airworthiness cost centre, includes all regulatory functions related to the inspection of private and commercial transport operations, aircraft maintenance engineer licences, aircraft maintenance organisations and continuing airworthiness maintenance organisations for compliance with safety standards. This section is also responsible for assessing foreign National Aviation Authorities in whose states and under whose control, Bermuda registered aircraft operate.

The anticipated reduction in expenditure primarily relates to inspection costs. Operators of commercial aircraft who successfully attain OTAR 39 approval have their aircraft inspection schedule reduced from twice yearly to annual.

Expenses under this cost centre include the salaries of one head of airworthiness, one senior airworthiness safety inspector, one airworthiness manager—European region (London office), two airworthiness safety inspectors (London office), one technical officer (London office), three airworthiness safety inspectors (locally), two airworthiness officers, one technical officer, one safety oversight advisor, one safety oversight officer, and two airworthiness administrative assistants. Other expenses are consulting services, provision and receipt of training, transport and travel, contractor payments, operation of the satellite office in London and courier services. The majority of overseas consulting costs, airfares and accommodation costs associated with aircraft and the inspection of maintenance organisations are fully recoverable.

Cost centre 67010, Policy and Administration. The original budget for 2014/15 was $3 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $2.69 million, a decrease of $302,000. The full-time equivalents are 12. The decrease of $302,000 represents a portion of the decrease in local consultant costs and travel while overseas consultant costs have increased due to an increase in the mandatory funding to Air Safety Support International (ASSI).

Madam Chairman, this cost centre, Policy and Administration, relates to the administrative duties of the department. Expenses under this cost centre include the salaries of the director, head of finance and administration, one financial analyst, four accounting assistants, one office manager, two administrative support clerks, one information manager and one administrative assistant. It also includes rental costs, training, transport and travel, consulting services, IT infrastructure, telephone, postage, courier services, promotions, cleaning services, office supplies, subscriptions, facsimile, printing, software maintenance, and insurance.

Cost centre 67020, Operations. The original budget for 2014/15 was $1.2 million. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1 million, a $201,000 decrease. The full-time equivalents are seven. And the anticipated revenue is $414,000.

Madam Chairman, this cost centre regulates and inspects private and commercial transport operations, including flight crews, for compliance with safety standards; conducts assessments of foreign National Aviation Authorities in whose states and under whose control, Bermuda registered aircraft operate; regulates and conducts oversight of L. F. Wade International Airport for compliance with international standards of safety. Expenses under this cost centre include the salaries of one head of operations, one flight operations inspector, one flight operations technical assistant, one aerodromes inspector, one licensing assistant—operations and two licensing officers. Other expenses are the provision and receipt of training, transport and travel, consulting services and courier services.

Cost centre, 67030, Registration. Madam Chairman, we are still on page B-184. The original budget for 2014/15 was $234,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $189,000, a decrease of $45,000. Full-time equivalents are two. Revenue anticipated is $49,000.

Madam Chairman, this cost centre, Registrations, relates to administration and management of the Bermuda Aircraft Register; promoting the continued growth and establishing new markets for the Aircraft Register. Also included is the administration and promotion of the Bermuda Register of Aircraft and Aircraft Engine mortgages. Expenses under this cost centre include the salary for one head of registrations and one registrations officer, training, transport and travel.

Madam Chairman, in summary, the Department of Civil Aviation is considered an outward-facing department within the Government of Bermuda's structure. Its clients are external to Government, and it must comply with international regulations, conventions and standards in order to offer aircraft registration and related business services. The department continues to strive for the highest standards of safety regulatory oversight. Resource restrictions, especially financial, are challenging to this department, given the need for it to operate in a rigid international regulatory environment with standards and conventions that must be adhered to.

Continued resource expansion is critical for the department in order to maintain safety, meet the objectives of the business plan, remain competitive with other jurisdictions and, most importantly, sustain compliance with the International Civil Aviation Organization standards and recommended practices.

In order to ensure appropriate safety, regulatory oversight is being conducted in accordance with international regulations. And to maintain this vital revenue stream for the Bermuda Government, the Ministry will continue to support the Department of Civil Aviation in its need for resources in the most efficient ways possible. A review of the current business model was completed by Management Consulting Services in December of 2014, and the department will continue to progress this initiative. Madam Chairman, this concludes my remarks on the Department of Civil Aviation.

HEAD 73—DEPARTMENT OF MARITIME ADMINISTRATION

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Madam Chairman, I now move on to the Department of Maritime Administration, which is Head 73. The budget for Head 73, the Department of Maritime Administration (DMA), can be found on pages B-187 to B-189 of the Budget Book.

Madam Chairman, the Department of Maritime Administration is committed to providing the highest-quality standards for its Registry of Shipping. The department's mandate is to ensure there is effective control over administrative, technical and social standards of seafarers for ships on the register, in accordance with Bermuda's international obligations.

The remit of the DMA is as follows:

- registration of ships;
- safety of life at sea;
- prevention and control of marine pollution;
- maritime security;
- standards of seafarers;
- seafarers' documentation.

While some of the local shipping-related functions are delegated to other national authorities in Bermuda, the DMA remains responsible for the safety, pollution prevention, standards of seafarers and maritime security relating to foreign vessels arriving in Bermuda waters, under the relevant International Maritime Conventions to which Bermuda is a party.

Madam Chairman, Bermuda Shipping Registry has been in existence for nearly 300 years, serving Bermuda ship owners and eligible overseas ship owners. It is a leading international shipping register and a British Red Ensign Group (REG) Category 1 (Cat 1) shipping registry, which can register ships of any tonnage, size or type, with no restrictions on the age of vessels. Bermuda-registered ships fly the British Red Ensign and comply with the provisions of the relevant international maritime conventions and treaties.

The Bermuda Shipping Registry is internationally recognised as a modern, reputable, quality and user-friendly shipping register. Currently, the Bermuda Registry comprises ships of all types that include state-of-the-art large passenger ships, gas tankers, oil tankers, chemical tankers, bulk carriers, container ships, large offshore support vessels, oil-drilling vessels, and private and commercial yachts. The Department of Maritime Administration administers this large, sophisticated fleet of ships through its headquarters in Hamilton, Bermuda, and its satellite office established in London.

Cost centre 83000, Registration of Ships.

- original for 2014/15 is $2.6 million;
- estimate for 2015/16 is $2.4 million, a decrease of $218,000;
- full-time equivalents (FTEs) are 11;
- anticipated revenue, $4,791,000.

Madam Chairman, the total current expenditure for the Department of Maritime Administration is estimated to be $2,435,000 for the financial year 2015/16, which represents a decrease of $218,000 below the original budget for 2014/15.

This figure of $218,000 represents an 8 per cent reduction implemented in the department's expenditure, as required under the Government's initiative for reducing Government's overall expenditure during the financial year 2015/16.

The bulk of this budget is salaries, fees and professional services. Professional services spend is primarily utilised for contract surveyors at ports around the world. We recover this sum in full, plus approximately 15 per cent incidental expenses in addition, from our clients. The balance is for ordinary operating expenses.

Madam Chairman, the registration of ships is the central function of the Department of Maritime Administration. The Registration Division is managed by the Registrar of Shipping, assisted by the Assistant Registrar and other members of the team. In order to facilitate ship registration in global time, with no time boundaries, the registration service is made available to our national and international customers over 360 days of the year, 24-hour basis.

While ship registration service facilitates Bermuda ship owners to register their ships under their national flag, it also earns substantial revenue to Bermuda in many ways. Every ship registered in Bermuda is owned by a company registered in Bermuda, or there is a registered local entity representing that ship in Bermuda. Local law firms and banks provide the legal, corporate, financial and administrative support for registration of companies, ships and mortgages, for which substantial fees are charged and taxes are paid. A number of ship-owning or ship-managing companies operate their ships from Bermuda, employing a large number of local Bermudians. With the signs of an improving global economy, it is the right time now to get actively engaged in promoting the Bermuda Registry to attract a share of quality ship owners to our shores.

Madam Chairman, by registration, a ship acquires the nationality of a state and becomes entitled to fly the flag of that state. This concept is enshrined in the United Nations Law of the Sea Convention 1982 [UNCLOS 82]. Bermuda is a party to this Convention through the United Kingdom (UK). When a ship is registered in Bermuda, she acquires the Bermudian nationality and she comes under the jurisdiction of Bermuda. The ship will be required to comply with the Bermuda maritime rules and regulations relating to maritime safety, pollution prevention, maritime security, seafarer's standards, crimes at sea, private law provisions, et cetera. Once the ship is de-registered from the Bermuda Shipping Register, it loses the Bermudian nationality, and Bermuda's responsibilities on that ship cease from that instant. It is also important to note that Bermuda administration can reject any ship from registering in Bermuda if it is deemed unsuitable. Similarly, a ship on the register may be removed if it is deemed unsuitable or unsafe to remain in the register.

Madam Chairman, in International Maritime Conventions, the term "administration" is defined as "the Government of the State whose flag the ship is entitled to fly." In Bermuda, the Department of Maritime Administration (known as DMA) is the entity empowered under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act 2002 to discharge the responsibilities of the Bermuda Government as the flag state for the Bermuda-registered ships. Under the same Act, the general responsibility for the operation of the Maritime Administration is vested in the Minister responsible for shipping; accordingly, DMA functions under the general instructions issued by the Minister.

DMA, in discharging its flag state functions, ensures that ships which desire to join the Bermuda flag, or ships which are already operating under the Bermuda flag, meet the relevant requirements of the Bermuda national maritime laws and the International Maritime Conventions, which are extended to Bermuda by the UK. The compliance with the required statutory standards is verified by conducting technical surveys and inspections on ships and auditing the operational and management systems of the owners and managers who operate the ships, by appropriately qualified and experienced Bermuda marine surveyors. The Ship Survey and Inspection Division of the department consists of the chief marine surveyor and four marine surveyors resident in Bermuda, and four full-time marine surveyors employed in the DMA satellite office in London. Additionally, five part-time contract surveyors assist the DMA, operating from the UK and Europe. All costs involved with these survey and audit functions are recovered from the ship owners in full.

Madam Chairman, the department's Revenue, which can be found on page B-188, is projected at $4,791,000, consisting of shipping registration fees of $186,000, service fees of $1,401,000, annual tonnage fees of $2,194,000 and survey fees of $1,010,000. The revenue projections are based largely on current trends.

Madam Chairman, the revenue collected by the DMA is based on the Merchant Shipping (Fees) Regulations 2012. These fees are comparable to fees charged by most of the other international registers. The DMA conducts regular analysis to monitor the trends in the fee structure in the marketplace to keep up to date with the changes.

Madam Chairman, the DMA had difficulties in recruiting marine surveyors to join the Hamilton office for a number of years. Last year, the DMA took the initiative to open a DMA satellite office in the UK and to employ four surveyors to operate from the UK. I am happy to inform you today that the steps we have taken have worked well for the DMA, as well as its clients based in the UK and Europe. With this arrangement, the cost of providing survey service by the DMA to its clients has substantially been reduced, especially in the area of cost of airfares and in travel time. The survey fees collected from the clients during the period the 1st of April 2014 to the 31st of January 2015 is approximately $1,307,000. This is a substantial increase of income in survey services, approximately by $541,000 over the previous year, and this is expected to increase further. Having learned from this experience, the DMA will be considering further expansion in its services in the UK, Europe and the Far East in the future.

Madam Chairman, shipping is an international service industry, and its economic and financial conditions are dependent upon the performance of the primary industries and the vagaries of the global economic conditions. After years of stagnation, a slight recovery of the global economy has been noted, and the order books for new ship constructions are gradually filling up, indicating a boost in the shipping sector. The DMA has been fortunate enough to gain some benefits of the global economic recovery in that a fleet of 14 modern tankers joined the Bermuda Registry last month. In order to facilitate the registration of these 14 ships, four new shipping companies were also registered in Bermuda, providing additional revenue to the Government's coffers.

Madam Chairman, the mandate for Bermuda to operate an international shipping register is granted by the UK as the signatory to the International Maritime Conventions to which Bermuda has become a party through the UK. Ships engaged in international voyages are required to maintain safety, pollution prevention, maritime security, seafarer's working and living conditions on ships, as stipulated in the International Conventions developed by the International Maritime Organization (IMO) and the International Labour Organization (ILO).

In order to maintain the required standards, the Maritime Administration must undertake regular technical surveys, audits and safety inspections on ships on the register and issue statutory certificates. Equally, in order to maintain the quality and standards, it is also the responsibility of the DMA surveyors to impose sanctions when deemed necessary on Bermuda ships, ship owners and managers who fail to comply with the Bermuda laws and regulations. The DMA has in its Bermuda office a team of highly qualified and dedicated ship surveyors comprising a chief surveyor, two engineer surveyors, one nautical surveyor and one naval architect surveyor, and one safety management auditor. This technical team is supported by the Registrar of Shipping, Assistant Registrar, two technical officers, two clerical officers and a receptionist.

Madam Chairman, Bermuda is a Category 1 member of the British Red Ensign Group of Shipping Registers comprising the UK, Isle of Man, Gibraltar, the Cayman Islands, and the British Virgin Islands.

In order to understand clearly how the British Shipping Registry works, it is necessary to clarify the relationship of an overseas register with the UK Government. Shipping registries of the UK Overseas Territories (OT) and Crown Dependencies operate under the Merchant Shipping (Categorization of Registries of Relevant British Possessions) Order 2003, as amended in 2008. This Order is implemented by the UK Maritime and Coastguard Agency (the MCA) in consultation with the UK Department for Transport.

Under this Order, the UK Secretary of State has oversight of the Overseas Territory shipping registers. The governor of the territory acts on behalf of the Secretary of State UK, through the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) for the oversight of the shipping register. In order to meet its responsibilities, the Department for Transport carries out monitoring visits to Overseas Territories' shipping registries at four yearly intervals on behalf of the Secretary of State.

Madam Chairman, the Isle of Man, Bermuda and the Cayman Islands have similar tonnage and ship types, but Bermuda has the lion's share of passenger ships and gas tankers. As opposed to cargo ships, passenger ships must be surveyed annually, and these surveys must be conducted by Bermuda Administration surveyors and cannot be delegated to classification societies. Therefore, it is important that Bermuda Administration have in its employment a sufficient number of appropriately qualified surveyors to meet the survey requirements of the whole Bermuda fleet.

Madam Chairman, as you may be aware, Bermuda Maritime Administration was under the focus of the UK Government since 2012 after its monitoring visit. During the monitoring visit, serious deficiencies relating to resources, especially the surveyor requirements and important maritime legislation, were found, and this resulted in the UK Government imposing sanctions restricting taking on new ships into the Bermuda Register. A similar verification audit was conducted in 2013, but the results were not satisfactory. Following the recruitment of necessary surveyors and rectifying other deficiencies, a verification audit was conducted again by the Maritime and Coast Agency in March of 2014. Having verified that the necessary corrective actions have been satisfactorily implemented, the said sanctions were subsequently lifted. However, it must be stressed that the Bermuda Registry suffered for two years not being able to expand the fleet and lost a number of opportunities for taking in new clients.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN

HOUSE VISITOR

The Chairman: Member, as you take a moment, I would like for you to have a seat, please.

The Chair would like to recognise the presence of Mr. Jon Brunson who is in the Gallery. Welcome.

Minister, please proceed.

[Committee of Supply on the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16 continuing]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you.

Madam Chairman, Output Measures can be found on page B-189. Madam Chairman, the registry currently has 170 ships on its books. There are 28 passenger ships, 50 gas tankers, 14 oil tankers, 21 chemical tankers, 16 bulk carriers, 18 container ships and another 23 other types of ships. The gross tonnage of the combined fleet is approximately 12 million, with a net tonnage of just under 6 million.

The number of yachts on the register is 231. There are 10 large commercial yachts and 221 pleasure yachts. These have a gross tonnage of 58,000 and a net tonnage of 19,000.

Madam Chairman, during the early period of 2014/15, the global economy was still stagnant; however, towards the latter part of the year, first signs of recovery appeared. But being a service industry, the effect on the shipping will lag behind the primary industries. There are encouraging signals that ship-building industry is gearing up for producing more ships, but the current downturn in the price of oil will have a marked effect on existing tanker and new building programmes. Bermuda will benefit from some of the new constructions for which owners have made their intentions for registering under the Bermuda flag [known to us]. On the other hand, Bermuda lost 13 bulk carriers, which had reached the end of their economic life and were sold by the owners for scrapping. As stated earlier, Bermuda had some good opportunities for attracting new tonnage to the Register, but lost them as there were restrictions on expansion of the fleet size.

Madam Chairman, I wish to highlight the following three major achievements obtained under the Department of Maritime Administration:

1. As stated earlier, successful completion of the UK MCA monitoring audit and lifting of sanctions on Bermuda Registry. I have already mentioned this topic earlier, but I wish to mention it again because it is important for us to understand that if we had failed in that audit, Bermuda would have lost its status as a REG Category 1 Shipping Registry and would have been downgraded to a Category 2 Register that can register ships only up to a maximum of 400 gross tons, in which case all passenger ships, tankers and other ships of over 400 gross tons had to deregister from Bermuda. So I would like to thank the Director, Captain Pat Nawaratne, who is in the Chamber today, for the hard work of his department by his leadership.
2. Opening of a DMA satellite office in London. On the 14th of May 2014, the opening of the DMA satellite office was inaugurated at the Bermuda Government's UK Office in London. While I was attending other business in London, along with my Permanent Secretary, I had the opportunity of meeting with the distinguished invitees to the reception hosted by the Director of London Office on behalf of the DMA. The invitees from the shipping industry consisting of lawyers, ship owners, ship managers, ship builders, ship financiers and officials from the UK Government were very appreciative of the DMA's initiative, and this would no doubt bolster the image of Bermuda in the UK and in Europe.
3. Implementation of one of the major International Labour Organization Conventions that came into force in August 2014. This convention, named The Maritime Labour Convention, 2006, was a landmark convention which was a consolidation of 34 existing labour conventions, some dating back to 1920. In order to give effect to this convention, the Government of Bermuda had to amend the Merchant Shipping Act 2002—and introduced 10 new sets of regulations under the above Act—and amend six existing regulations. Parallel to introducing legislation, the DMA trained its surveyors and auditors for conducting the labour inspections on ships. I am pleased to state that, using its own resources and with some assistance from the UK MCA, Bermuda completed the inspection programme and issued statutory Maritime Labour Certificates to all Bermuda ships within the stipulated time period.

Madam Chairman, the DMA has the following plans for the upcoming financial year:

1. DMA will host the 2015 Annual Red Ensign Group Conference in Bermuda. This conference is concerned with the development of REG common policies, strategies and legislation relating to interpretation and implementation of IMO, ILO Conventions and other treaties. The requirements for training and professional development for REG surveyors, auditors and inspectors are discussed and strategies developed to address this need. It also includes discussions on registration matters and common approach for promoting the REG shipping registries. The location for this prestigious conference rotates each year, and it is the turn for Bermuda to host this conference in Bermuda in this year. The REG Conference was last held in Bermuda in 2006, and it was a success. This year's conference will be held in Grotto Bay Resort in June of 2015 and will be attended by delegates from both Category 1 and 2 REG registries. As customary, a high-level delegation from the UK Department for Transport, the FCO and MCA will be attending this conference.
2. Promotion of Bermuda Shipping Register:
 - (a) Attending the London Shipping Week and Conference in September 2015.—This is an event initiated by the REG Marketing Forum with a view to boost the tonnage of individual REG registers and the common REG British Register as world-class registers. It is expected that a high-level delegate from the Bermuda Government will attend this event, similar to other REG registers.
 - (b) Attending the Cannes Yachting Festival 2015.—Bermuda's Large Commercial Yacht Register is being developed to cater for the needs of the large yacht-owning community. Cannes Yachting Festival will offer Bermuda a good opportunity for marketing Bermuda's large yacht register. This event will follow immediately after the London Shipping Week 2015, hence the overall cost for attending this promotional event will be reduced.
3. Training—IMO adopted the new IMO Instruments Implementation (III) Code, commonly known as the "Triple-I Code" [III Code]. This IMO code was adopted in December of 2013, and it is concerned with the standards for inspection of maritime administrations of IMO member states. This system makes the earlier IMO inspection regime, known as the Voluntary IMO Membership Audit Scheme (VIM-SAS), mandatory. It is expected that mandatory inspections under III Code will commence in 2016; hence, preparations for this important inspection must be started as early as possible. [The] III Code inspection involves the three partners of a state—coastal state, port state and flag state. In order to undertake preparatory work for the inspection, the relevant stakeholders will need to be educated and trained in the respective activity areas of the state party to the IMO Convention. Towards this cause, the DMA will arrange a training course in Bermuda to be delivered by an external service provider towards end of 2015.

4. And the final objective is securing office accommodation for the DMA. The current office sphere occupied by the DMA staff at Global House is far too small and unsuitable for operating a Category 1 International Maritime Administration. The Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport and the DMA will endeavour to address this situation within the first quarter of the forthcoming financial year.

Madam Chairman, you will be pleased to know that this concludes my presentation Estimates of Expenditure and Revenue for the Department of Maritime Administration, Head 73, and for my overall presentations of all of the heads under this particular Ministry.

Before I take my seat, Madam Chairman, I would like to recognise in the Gallery, to my left, the Permanent Secretary of the Ministry, Mr. Francis Richardson, who is a very dedicated and hard-working civil servant. I would also like to recognise all of the directors. I have mentioned some previously, but I would like to recognise them all: Director for Marine and Ports, the Commander Richard Russell, who is in the Chamber; Director of Airport Operations, Mr. Aaron Adderley, who is also here; Director of Transport Control Department, Mrs. Jasmin Smith. I mentioned [she] has now been seconded to the ACBDA; Director of Public Transportation, Mr. Dan Simmons, who is here; Director of the Department of Civil Aviation, Mr. Thomas Dunstan, is here; Director for Maritime Administration, Captain Pat Nawaratne, is here; and also Comptroller for the Ministry, Ms. Julie Grant, who is present.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Minister.

Are there any Members who would like to speak to the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure, Heads 48, 30, 31, 34, 35, 57 or 73?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 24, Warwick South East, Shadow Minister of Transportation, Mr. W. Lawrence A. Scott. And I would like to remind you, if you could identify what head you are on so I can follow duly. Thank you very much.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Thank you very much, Madam Chairman.

I just wanted to thank the Minister for a thorough brief. Over the course of the past year, my Shadow Ministry team and I have been following his progress and the moves that he has been making throughout the Ministry with a specific focus on, as we came into the Budget season. There are a couple of things that the Shadow Ministry team brought to my attention, and some things that I have some concerns on and which I would like to ask questions on and actually discuss with the Minister.

I am going to start with Head 35.

The Chairman: Hold on a moment. Let me just pull it up. Do you happen to have the page there?

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Okay. Let me just get it here.

The Chairman: Page [B-]181, I believe.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Sorry. Yes. Head 35, Department of Truck . . . of PTB [Public Transport Board].

One thing that the Minister did note, he did talk about the fact that there were some new buses that were brought on board and that they do have cameras and everything, which should increase the safety of . . .

The Chairman: Member, I just want to . . . At Head 35, Public Transport?

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Yes.

The Chairman: Okay. That is on page B-181, for anyone who is following.

Please proceed.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: All right. Thank you.

The Minister did talk about that for the safety of the drivers there were cameras in the new buses. And that is something that we did discuss last year, and he said it was coming on this year, so I am glad to see that he did follow through.

But there are a couple of other safety concerns, because there have been numerous assaults, many of them verbal, some of them are physical, with passengers, and having operators receive medical treatment. But yet, what I would like to see is the Minister put forth some public announcements, some warnings and also [make] the public aware that the Ministry will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law anybody who is found verbally assaulting or physically assaulting any of the operators, and if he could go so far as to go into the Omnibus Act regarding the fines to increase the fines for such actions. Also, it seems as though the grievous bodily harm to operators in the course of duty is not mentioned in the Omnibus Act.

So if the Minister could provide that type of legislation, I think that that would go further into providing safety and security for our operators.

You know, there are also reports reaching the Shadow Ministry that on Friday nights workers are reporting having rocks thrown at the buses on Kitchener Road. And so there are things like that. But even though you have these safety concerns, you have the cameras on the buses, it is a little worrying. And I am just going to ask the Minister for clarification if he could explain to us why it seems as though the security or the night-time security at the bus depots has been cancelled or is no longer in place. And if this is true, or it is accurate that the security has been pulled, how long has it been since they did have security guards there? And how long has this been in effect? [I am] wondering now if he is going to reinstate the security. And if he is going to reinstate the security, where would he . . . Well, how much would it cost exactly? Could he go into more detail about that, and how it stacks up to what he spent on safety and security for last year?

It also seems as though, when it comes to the bus depots, in some bus depots at night there is only one light working, which is something that I feel needs to be addressed, not just for security reasons, but also for preventative reasons, because it is pretty hard to drive a bus or park a bus into a place that is full of other obstacles at night with no lights.

It was also brought to my attention that there have been . . . Well, once again I did talk about the lights, and I had to go to the St. George's terminal, and that lack of proper markings in the bus depots or the bus parking lots . . . Because for me, going back to the security, one of the solutions that we were thinking on this side was that, given some of the latest incidents that we have seen with overtime and having to pay the costs associated with it, when it comes to security, if the Minister is unable to find it in the budget to fund security guards or whatnot, why not take some of those operators who have been designated to be on light duty or could only perform light-duty operations and responsibilities, to have them redeployed? And redeploy your assets so that these members on light duty could actually perform the security watch.

I feel as though, you know, at least on the surface of it, it would seem a good idea, because these members and these operators would actually have a very vested interest. These are their colleagues whom they will be looking out for, their own equipment that they would be driving. So they might even do a better job than an outsourced entity.

Staying on Head 35, I notice that the Minister did talk about the massive flooding in the men's room in the main headquarters. And that water then leaks down into . . .

The Chairman: That would be under Maintenance.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Yes, thank you, Head 35.

Then it would leak down into the cafeteria. Now, I noticed that he did say that there were leaks. He did address that. And I am glad to see that. But I am just wondering, how long? Because there was no timeline given to be able to fix these and address this to where the workers would then be in an almost leak-free environment, where water is not leaking down, it is not mixing with anything else and creating unwanted smells and whatnot throughout the building.

But I also wanted to know . . . right now on rainy days it seems as though workers are now on a covered patio which does not fully protect them from the elements. And then having to fix these leaks, once again, how long is that going to take? And how does it negatively impact the workers? I just want to know how severe is the leaking, and if he can let us know exactly what costs are being diverted or being budgeted to fix these leaks.

Then also, if he can let us know what the . . . Well, sorry. He did let us know that some of the discolouration on the tiles was mould. And if he could let us know how do they plan on getting rid of the mould. And how many of the sections of the building are inoperative right now?

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: No. How many sections of the building are currently inoperative based on the state that it is in?

What I want to . . . just looking here . . .

[Pause]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Now, going to the St. George's terminal, it seems as though there is only one bathroom in the St. George's terminal, one toilet to serve the 25 operators daily. And the state of that bathroom seems to be reported to us as being deplorable. Now, is the Minister aware of this? If he is aware of it, how is he going to fix it? And once again, how much is it going to cost?

Because we are getting conflicting reports that the workers in St. George's are seemingly supposed to be in what is constituted as a condemned building and that the original tenants were moved out. And now that the workers are there and the bathroom is so bad, they actually have to go to the nearby rest home and use the bathrooms there. And I do not think that this is an appropriate situation for workers to be in, and I think that, in looking at the budget, we could find some ways to be able to divert funds to make sure that these things are addressed.

When it comes, then I am going to go to the Dockyard terminal. Once again, I have heard reports that (once again, it is the bathrooms) that a driver fell through the floor in the Dockyard terminal. And once again, has the Minister addressed these concerns?

When will they be addressed, if they have not been already? And how much did it cost?

I am on PTB, staying on Head 35, and I am actually moving to the dispatching of buses. It seems as though there are a number of buses that have been dispatched or that are in the yard and—

The Chairman: Member, are you able to guide me as to what line that might be?

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Right now, I would be on page B-180. It would be under [line item] 3501.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: And I would classify this as bus operations, which is [cost centre] 45010.

The Chairman: Got it. Thank you.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: And it seems that there are buses in the yard that, during the summer months, sit there. Obviously, we know that buses are mostly glass. Therefore, it gets very hot inside the buses, and the air conditioners do not seem to be working. Therefore, bus drivers have to go inside these buses, sit in them, wait for them to try to cool down, under natural circumstances, which takes a long time. Then you have bus drivers who are sitting in the buses that [I just] mentioned [where it is] about 110 degrees sometimes during the peak of the summer.

So, without air conditioning, I think that is somewhat intolerable, and we need to be able to find ways to fix this. I think that the simplest way, the fastest way is to make sure that buses have working ACs, at least during the summer. During the winter, maybe the heat may be a little of a luxury and something that is most wanted.

Also, reports are getting back to us that there are buses which drivers report they feel are unsafe to be driven onto the roads. Yet, due to the lack of buses that are out there, because there seems as though a large number of buses are out of service, they are now being somewhat forced to take those buses out there. If we could actually get some clarification on what the Minister is planning to do there, because it seems as though having a lack of buses that are in operation and, basically, when it comes to finding workers to do it, that is causing a problem out there, and that is something that I am getting a lot of e-mails and phone calls about recently. I am assuming that a lot of the cancellations that we are experiencing now as a country, when it comes to the buses, is in relation to this. So I think that this should be a priority for the Minister to fix.

As it stands right now, if we are having troubles with routes and cancellations and ensuring basically that it is sustainable, that it is on time right now during our off season, when we start to increase the workload on the bus system I shudder to think what could happen. It would leave a negative impact on our tourism product because we then have long lines with tourists, long lines with visitors. I have had residents and constituents who have been coming to me saying that they have been made late to work because of these bus cancellations and no notification. We have had children who are late to school, and the list goes on.

What I am noticing is that . . . I bring all that up with the bus maintenance because last year at this time we stood here and we talked about it. I did raise a concern about the bus maintenance, and the Minister had cut the . . . I do not have the number right in front of me from last year, he had cut the budget by 8 per cent. Now, when I asked him about it, he said, Well, the buses are newer. We are going to be bringing on those new buses. And because the buses are newer, that will mean that they are going to be needing less maintenance.

It seemed to sort of ease my fears temporarily there, but it seems as though that did not work, because I am noticing, under Maintenance, which is [line item] 3502, that the Minister has cut repairs by $227,000, or 5 per cent. So if we are having issues now, how are you going to justify cutting the budget even more by basically a quarter of a million dollars and anticipate, you know, to have working buses, have buses that are fully operational and have buses that the drivers are not concerned about taking out?

Once again, I am still on page [B-]180, which is Head 35. I notice that the Minister said that he had taken a tour of the PTB facility, and I am glad that he said that because it brings up what I was worried about, which was the shop floor. The shop floor seems to be . . . I have reports that it is very slippery. It has not been power washed in some time, [and so it is] slippery. A slippery shop floor seems to me, just on the surface, a safety hazard. And once again, I am just focusing on the safety of the workers. It seems as though there are lifts that are not working or lifts that are leaking. And reports are coming back that no one is able to fix them.

If we can see how much . . . if part of the training budget is allocated for sending Bermudians out to be trained or having a trainer come in and fix these lifts that are leaking. And then also, it seems that there is a fuel pump that has not been repaired, which causes a backup of buses at the peak time.

So, once again, I think all these things are contributing to what they call in aviation the Swiss cheese effect. All these holes are starting to line up, and now we are getting the incidents and the cancellations as a result. So once again, I think that it is very important that the Minister sort of make sure that all these assets are taken care of and all these i's are dotted and t's are crossed.

Now, I just wanted to talk about the canteen that used to be there inside the building. That would be, Madam Chairman . . . I would actually be putting this under, once again, Repairs and Servicing, because of the fact that the kitchen was shut down. And when that was done there was nowhere for the workers to eat. And what has happened since then, since no one has been using it, no one has been up-keeping it, reports are getting back that it has become infested with roaches and other bugs. Therefore, what we are suggesting is that we have the Minister put out an RFP for like local food vendors, local food entrepreneurs, have them come in, take that canteen over. And then even the Ministry could use that as somewhat of a revenue generator, charge rent for it. And out of the rent, they just basically, the food vendor would turn it into a business and that would help alleviate some of these issues that we are having with infestations.

Also, I am just wondering if the repair [cost for the damage] from the two hurricanes has included all of the cracked windows that were reported in the main headquarters. And also, another question when it comes to the central terminal is . . . the central terminal seems to be having reports of a rat problem and that rats are coming through holes in the doors by the cashier's booth. So, we would not want at night somebody's child to go missing because of these rats or anything like that. So if the Minister could sort of [consider those things] and get those things under control there.

Once again, it seems as though in the Dockyard terminal we have a one-way-in/one-way-out type of situation. I am wondering if the Minister is aware of that. And if he is aware of that, how is he planning to address that? Because we do not want one bus trying to go out while another bus is trying to go in on the same road. I think we have an idea how that would be—

The Chairman: Member, again, you have that under Maintenance?

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Yes. I would put that under Maintenance because there is work that has to be done because it is a one-way-in/one-way-out [situation], so you would have to build something or find a way to add a road or widen the road. So I would put that under Maintenance there.

But also, once again, I have already touched on the flooring. The other thing that I would like to talk about is up there [in Dockyard], Works and Engineering and WEDCO, I think, need to be persuaded by the Minister to work promptly and urgently with the security matter of lighting. It seems as though the reflection of the lights up there in Dockyard is making it difficult for the bus drivers to see when they are parking.

The Chairman: Okay. But, Member, do try to stick to the Budget Debate. And that is a great recommendation. But let us try and stick to this one. And perhaps—

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Well, that would have come under (what I just talked about with the lighting), I think, Bus Operations, which is page B-180, [line item] 3501, and then [cost centre] 45010.

The Chairman: But then there would have been no need to discuss another . . . you had mentioned another entity. So that is the only reason why I raised that.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Oh, okay. Okay, no problem. It is just that the terminal was up there in the WEDCO facility right next to WEDCO. And the Minister did mention in his brief about walking around with the Minister of Works and Engineering. Therefore, since they are all intertwined, I just felt as though I wanted to give you a big picture and allow you and the listening public to be able to follow along very clearly and paint that picture very clearly in their mind. But I do take your point.

Moving onward, I would like to go back to the PTB garage. It seems as though the garage there, the air conditioner has been out for quite some time. And I could imagine working in a garage during the summer months could be very unfavourable, to put it politely. So, therefore, if the Minister once again could just address that situation and let us know what is going on. It seems as though right now there are approximately 50 buses out of service, or basically around 50 per cent of the entire fleet that is out of service. So we are just wondering how the Minister is planning on bringing these buses on board and bringing them on line and putting them back on the roads so that we can—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Madam Chairman, or point of clarification.

The Chairman: Yes. The Chair recognises the Minister.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes. I just want to correct the Honourable Member, because I know he has made this comment before. We have never had 50 per cent of the fleet out of service. I think the highest we have reached this year was 38 per cent [sic].

The Chairman: Thank you.
Member?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Oh, I am sorry, 38 buses. What percentage would that be, about?

The Chairman: Thirty-eight buses out of a fleet of 110, I believe?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: So the highest, I believe, has been 38 buses, out of a fleet of 110.

The Chairman: Okay. Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 24.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: All right. Thank you very much, Madam Chairman.

What I am going to do is move on to . . . I noticed that the Minister did talk about, under Management Supplies, which is page B-180, [line item] 3503, and [cost centre] 45200 . . . No, sorry. [Cost centre] 45115. And that parts get brought in. But it seems as though he says the parts are being brought in for preventative maintenance, but the reports coming to the Shadow Ministry and myself are that there are not enough parts to be brought in to address the overheating of buses and the ACs and the AC issues.

It seems as though, instead of addressing some of these issues, that there were mechanical governors put on the buses to restrict the performance of the speed of the buses. But they have not helped the problem, but they have exacerbated it, where it actually causes the buses to overheat a little bit more to the point where the potential of a bus catching on fire has increased. And we have actually seen that. There were reports of buses on fire. There was one in Southampton not too long ago.

Once again, I think that maybe the Minister could explain that and go into a little bit of detail about how, if he has brought in parts, but it looks like the parts that are being brought in are not adequate enough, but yet he has still cut the inventory management budget by $459,000, or 29 per cent. So if we have buses that are not on the road, if we still have 35 per cent, approximately, of these buses [off] the road, how is he going to get those 35 buses back on the road and reduce that percentage of out-of-service buses if he is cutting the budget for repair and maintenance, cutting the budget for supplies and parts? I do not think that just having these 16 new buses is going to do it on its own.

Once again in talking about the parts, it seems as though there are specialised tools needed to fix some of these buses. I was just wondering if that is part of the budget, to bring in these specialised tools, to supply these specialised tools with the . . . And also, with the specialisation in tools, if he is going to include the training in that. Now, maybe I do not know how he has planned for training, if he is going to send . . . because I think the numbers work out that you need approximately 20 people to go out and train on these new 2014 buses. If he is going to bring in one person and that one person is going to train everybody, or are they going to do what is called a train-the-trainer, where they send one person out to the manufacturer, they train him and he comes back and he trains everybody else?

Just once again, it seems as though there is no real working procedure to ensure that buses are parked properly. And the improper parking of buses seems to be resulting in unnecessary damage to the buses, which then puts them out of service or has them go to repair, and so on and so forth.

So now, once again, I wanted to just provide a couple of things that talk about the bus passes. If you want to talk about passes just for revenue summary, it is on page B-181. It would be Revenue Centre, [line item] 8679, under Passes.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: It seems as though the student passes and the bus passes have been causing somewhat of a controversy for a little bit of time now, because you have individuals who are trying to use the passes who do not qualify for either. And I am mainly talking about the student pass. They do not qualify for the student pass. But it seems when there are challenges made [by] the bus drivers they do not get the . . . there is no real consequence to those people who are found not qualified to be using the student pass. I have noticed that there is a projected reduction in revenue of $368,000, or 8 per cent. Maybe if we were able to provide some heavier or sterner consequences for this we could start generating a little bit more revenue for it and for the government as well.

Once again, in the interest of doing a little bit more with less, it seems as though there are a couple of department heads within the PTB, where there are not enough workers, or reportedly there are not enough workers for the department heads to basically justify having a department head. So therefore, maybe we could get rid of that department head position and then have the funds and wages from that utilised more effectively to purchase parts, as I mentioned before, for the required small jobs. I would probably suggest maybe focusing on making sure that the air conditioners are up and running, that the water dispensers for the windshields for the buses are in operation, and that the shades for the front and side of the windows are in place. And more importantly, that the brake lights are replaced on buses 2K04, 2K112, 2K102, 9705 and licence plate 9702.

Now, if that has already been done, just let me know. But those were reports that were coming back and things that I had seen myself.

But also (once again going back to health and safety) it would be in the interest of operator safety, just maybe . . . and I do not know the logistics that are needed for this, but it is just an idea, [we should] have pictures of those individuals who are banned from the buses being put up so that individuals know that their actions previously have jeopardised the safety of a bus operator, and maybe we could do that one as soon as possible. That would be most appreciated.

It seems as though, once again, I said that not all buses that have been reported to be damaged or reported as being unsafe are being taken out of service. If that is something that could be done and maybe have a check and balance to where, if the bus drivers, if I was a bus driver, I report, Hey, I don't think that this bus is ready to go out, that I could get a little something that shows that it has been taken out of service just to know that my . . .

I have talked about the canteen.

[Pause]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Now, what I would like to do is, I think that that brings me to the end of Head 35. And I am going to go on to Head 34 on page . . . Yes, Head 34, which is the Transport Control Department [TCD], which is [page] B-176.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: I just want to ask for your indulgence right now, Madam Chairman, I just want to jog your memory, because last year this time I took the opportunity to introduce or present a suggestion to the Minister, which we in the Shadow Ministry refer to as the pay it forward programme. And the pay it forward programme, if you wanted me to make it more specific, would be under Head 34, page B-178, which would have been cost centre 44040.

We can all agree that the fees for licensing a private car can range anywhere from $288.35 for a Class A all the way up to $1,595.05 for a Class H. And in these economic times today, I think there are a lot of people out there who would find it hard to be able to spend maybe a couple of thousand . . . Well, I will use myself as an example. I do have a Class H. So after I put insurance on top of that and I have to go take my car to mechanics, some people find it hard to spend approximately $3,000 to have the car licensed and insured and put on the road.

I did mention last year about the pay it forward programme, where I know that TCD has a wonderful programme. Right now we can sort of write in. You ask for a waiver to allow you to license your car for six months. With transparency and declaring my interest, I have actually had to use that from time to time, because this struggle is real, Madam Chairman. Therefore, what happens is this programme that they have in place right now, as much as it is a good programme, I think it just brings our people back to zero. It just brings them back to zero. It does not allow them to get ahead.

The pay it forward would mean that we . . . It is something that you would put on top of this programme where, Okay, I have asked for a six-month dispensation. And on top of that, now I can . . . I have checked with my sources in TCD [and found] that the IT capabilities are such that I could then pay the six months and sort of start paying ahead. So I could say, Okay, I have got my six months. But now I got a little bonus at work, or I saved up this money here, let me go to TCD and I could put the equivalent of another two months.

Now, we do not want to go day by day. But at least one twelfth, or one month at a time, you could go pay it forward. Therefore, by the time you get to when your car is supposed to come off the road, you could go to TCD. You would have a balance that is allocated by the licence plate number, or so on and so forth. And that way, it allows our people to get ahead.

Now, I do remember bringing this up last year to the Minister. And it seemed as though it was favourably looked at. And he did say that he was going to look at it. He did say he was going to look at it, and I just wanted to know where we are with that because, you know, it would be nice to see if he was able to find a way to implement that, that programme.

Now, while I am on Head 34 (page B-176), there is another programme that I was thinking about and that the Shadow Ministry would like to present tonight, which basically is when it comes to the public service vehicles. It has been brought to my attention that many public service vehicle owners are now getting letters from the Tax Commissioner's Office saying that they owe hundreds or maybe even thousands of dollars in back taxes. And more times than not, these back taxes are in the context of payroll tax.

So, in putting our creative solution thinking caps on, the Shadow Ministry came up with an idea that maybe what we could do is have the payroll tax, which is basically going to be a flat fee, collected, or give the public service vehicle owner the option of being able to collect or pay their payroll tax for the year at the time that they license their car.

Now, the way that this works and the way that this makes things advantageous is, once again, as you said, that it is a flat fee. Therefore, for those public service vehicle owners who have multiple operators, they can go pay the fee. Let us say the fee was $100 for the year. They can say, I've paid the payroll tax. Therefore, now they find creative ways of getting it back from the operators. And this way it allows for more flexibility for the public service vehicle operators to find ways to pay their payroll tax. It allows for a more secure way of the government to get what is . . . Let us put it this way. It allows for Caesar to collect what is Caesar's. Therefore, we would not have anybody getting, as my manager at JetBlue [Airways] would say, these nasty-grams from the Tax Commissioner saying that you are overdue. And actually, it could be seen as somewhat of a corporate version of the pay it forward programme.

So, now this is . . . just still staying on TCD, I still want to just formally put out there . . . because I have spoken to the Minister about this before, off record. But just work at, if he could bring forward legislation, which I would be willing to work with him on, for an amendment to the Motor Car Act involving Bluetooth, just basically, just nothing too significant, just to update it because it seems as though back when we did pass the . . . I was not part of the legislature then. But back when the original Act was passed, allowing for . . . no, sorry, banning cell phone usage, Bluetooth was not that big. It was sort of in the minority of things. But now everything, and even cars, comes with Bluetooth. Maybe we need to just incorporate that and make sure that it stays with the spirit of the original Act.

I do not want to spend too much time on that, because under Head 34 I want to talk about road safety. And I would like to thank the Minister for hosting a Road Safety Summit not too long ago. One thing I did notice, and I did bring to the attention of not just the Minister, but to all who were in attendance at the Road Safety Summit is that . . . and let me give you some background information. At the Road Safety Summit it was agreed upon that the root cause of our national health crisis on our roads is basically the culture in which we . . . the culture of impaired driving which we have. So we have to find ways to either directly, indirectly and creatively tackle this root culture.

I applaud the Minister for bringing the roadside sobriety checkpoint (I mean, roadside sobriety testing). But as I have let him know directly, I feel as though it is a good start, but it does not go far enough. I think what we need to do is actually complement the roadside sobriety testing with roadside sobriety checkpoints. And then, after that, after we get that implemented, maybe Alcohol Bureau of Control. But I want to just focus right now on the roadside sobriety checkpoints, because I feel as though that actually tackles the root cause and the culture of what we are trying to do.

Just to make it clear to those out there in the listening public, a roadside sobriety checkpoint is not necessarily to catch people who are driving impaired. It is actually to change the mindset. If you know . . . Because when it comes to having roadside sobriety checkpoints, and I will take the Australian model which has been very successful. It was implemented back in 1973 and has been very successful ever since. What they do is they make sure that it is well publicised.

For example, let us say on Wednesday, you would have the Government, the Ministry, the police service start advertising through public service announcements, through radio ads, through the news, the TV news and in the newspapers that (for instance, a hypothetical) they would have a roadside sobriety checkpoint at the end of East Broadway between 10:00 pm and 3:00 am. Therefore, they will be looking and checking for impaired driving.

Now, the fact is I know that, so that would be on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. The fact that I know that there is going to be a checkpoint, before I go out I will be in the mindset, if I am going to drink, that I am going to drink responsibly. Instead of having three drinks or five drinks, I might just keep it down to one, because I know I am going to have to go through a checkpoint. Therefore, it is about just the awareness. I do not want people to think that roadside sobriety checkpoints are about out-to-catch-people. It is just mainly to change the culture, make us more aware.

Also, if we could, another thing is put some money or budget some money towards making a more robust (what is that called?) Project Ride. [We should have] Project Ride a little bit more robust than it is now, and transform Project Ride into a graduated licensing programme. Now, I do not want to spend too much time on that.

But I want to now keep under Transport Control Department, Head 34, [line items] 8473 and 8474. And what I want to do is bring this up because that is talking about car licensing. And I bring that up under the auspices of the America's Cup. Because I was thinking about, when it comes to America's Cup, you then are going to have . . . And I can tie this in with the sobriety checkpoints because it would be nice to have the sobriety checkpoint legislation put in place prior to the America's Cup really getting kicked off here. Because with the America's Cup, there is going to be a lot of celebrating. And with celebrations come libations, and so on and so forth.

So, when you then have the America's Cup here and you are going to have more people drinking, we want to encourage them to be responsible when they drink. And America's Cup is bringing in 80-plus vehicles. I am not arguing the justification of the 80 vehicles or not. My argument today is the same argument I have had before, which is that I do not really see the avenue in making or allowing that the average Bermudian would have in getting to be part of the America's Cup. And what I want to say, and I will use the cars as an example, where I would like to see that the Minister could provide a way in which the average local could become what is considered a designated corporate partner.

Now, how does this relate to transportation? Let us look at the cars. They are bringing in the cars. And if the Minister was to work with, let us say, the taxi dispatch companies to create a Transportation Authority, now they could say that, you know, we have a Transportation Authority. That would then be the one that would be made up of a conglomerate of all the different representatives and stakeholders in the different taxi dispatching companies. The reason I pick the taxi dispatching companies is because they already have a working knowledge of . . . they are subject-matter experts [SME] on transportation around the Island. They are subject-matter experts on the Island, themselves having taken the taxi exam.

So, if we bring the America's Cup limousines under this Authority, you know that it is going to be done right. You know you have qualified individuals.

And now what happens is that you have the average Bermudian with a direct pathway to become a designated corporate partner, because this Taxi Authority, which comprises the average Bermudian running it, would be the contract holder. And then they can then go and find . . . Once again, you would have your taxi drivers who could be complaining or could be voicing concern about having direct competition with these limousines. Now, if you bring them under the Authority, with the dispatch companies involved, it sort of becomes all inclusive.

So therefore, you have now local Bermudians, the average Bermudian who is now getting the contract for the—

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Yes. The Premier caught my slip when I said “local Bermudians.”

So, therefore, what happens is that you have the average Bermudian who is coming in and is being able to be directly impacted and have a direct impact and get direct significant financial benefit from the America’s Cup. So now, and then what you do is that you have this business plan, you run the business plan through the Bermuda Economic Development Company, and then have them work with the ACBDA [America’s Cup Bermuda Ltd]. And now you have a very robust plan. You have a very broad and structured pathway to significant financial benefit from the America’s Cup. And all of this is just coming from the Minister of Transport being able to just be a little creative with the way that we handle things right now.

Now, when it comes to the America’s Cup, we are talking about luxury tourism. We are talking about luxury transport. But I am now switching gears, and I am going to actually go to Head 31, which is found on page B-165. And I am talking under cost centres 41160 [and] 41190.

[Pause]

[Mr. Rolfe Commissiong, Chairman]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: What I want to say, Mr. Chair, is that the PLP, agrees with the Government that we need more inward direct investment from international companies and international investors. But now, when it comes to the airport, I am of the understanding that we have a foreign investor who wants to invest in Bermuda and wants to make a large investment of, I would say, millions of dollars into the airport, but now is being hindered in making that investment because of CCC [Canadian Commercial Corporation] and the proposed plan, or the proposed deal for CCC to develop the airport.

Now, I feel as though this sounds somewhat hypocritical, where you have the Government that is talking about, We need more direct investment. We need more international investments in this Island. But yet when we get an investor, they are now pushing them away or at least not making the most of an opportunity that is presented to them under name or guise of CCC (now, it seems the pending CCC deal). But now I just want to take a step back. Because when we are talking about CCC, I remember back in 2013 I really stood on the floor of the House and I brought a motion. And just to jog your memory, Mr. Chairman, my motion was, I move that the Members of this Honourable House take note of the advantages that could be enjoyed through the creation of an Airport Authority.

Now, during that debate, I outlined a plan that allowed for the redevelopment of the airport, the airport terminal and the Causeway. The plan also was robust enough to include an administrative infrastructure whose role could be expanded to absorb more or other transportation-related responsibilities. Now, not only did that plan create a pathway forward for the new air terminal development, but it also allowed us to move forward without running the risk of possible redundancies or neglect of the Causeway.

The thing is that when I brought that motion forward and I spoke on that motion, I received quite a few comments of congratulations from Members on the other side. And the only strange thing that I kept hearing was that I would need to get the Finance Minister’s support in that. And I found that strange then because I thought it came under the Minister of Transportation and Tourism. But I understand now.

Let me just lay out a few facts that are in connection with this airport plan and where I am going with this. The fact that I laid out the plan in 2013, it was mutually agreed upon. There was another fact that. It is a fact that the Finance Minister Richards agreed that my plan was the way to go, because he has incorporated it (the establishment of the Airport Authority) into his airport redevelopment plan. Another fact is that my plan kept the running and control of the airport in the hands of Bermudians. Another fact, Mr. Chairman, is that the OBA’s plan has been plagued with nothing but controversy, such as agreeing to sole source the airport deal with CCC and, arguably, going against Financial Instructions.

And then there was the whole thing when it came to SNC-Lavalin and the connection with CCC while they were being blacklisted by the World Bank. Now, the OBA Government has assured us that SNC-Lavalin is not going to be the one developing the airport. That is good to hear. But it seems as though the saga continues when it comes to the question marks and the comfort that one would feel with the signing over of our airport, untendered and sole sourced.

So I did a little bit more digging and came to find out . . . and, Mr. Chairman, just holding up the documentation in my hand right here, it seems as though for the past number of years CCC has now entered and become a major player in arms dealing. I mean, I have documentation here that says that the CCC reports that are entitled “CCC: a Crown corporation arms dealer.” It says . . . another report is “Canadian Commercial Corporation: a Crown Company as Arms Middleman.” Some of these reports, Mr. Chairman, go on to talk about how CCC went two years without an approved corporate plan due to unspecified and unresolved governance issues.

Now, Mr. Chairman, on the cover of one of these arms deal booklets, the title is, Canada’s Foreign Military Sales: Delivering your requirements: on specification and on budget. Now, Mr. Chairman, I find it very ironic and very coincidental that that is the same line that the Minister of Finance is using to be able to sell CCC to the country. He is saying that CCC will deliver our airport on budget to our specifications on time. Now, my question is, is that—

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: No. The thing is, when it comes to this the Honourable Premier is asking about if I have problems with the tagline. No, I do not have problems with the tagline. I have problems with the fact that we are about to sign our asset over to a company that has governance issues and deals arms to the Middle East and other governments. That is the issue that I have with it.

And then we are going to have a company that . . . now why are we in such a hurry to sign our airport over to CCC who has no money? CCC is just the middleman. So, why . . . We are rushing to sign our airport over for a time longer than the period that we have been in control of it to a company that has governance issues and is selling arms. Does that mean that they are going to have planes landing here with guns? I do not know. Right?

But the thing is that the one person who might know whether that is going to happen would be KPMG, because KPMG is the one who did the report or the economic impact survey for them. Now, why do I bring up KPMG? Because reports have reached my ears that there is a local person involved with KPMG here, a Mr. Thresher, who has been a very big proponent and pushed for the airport deal back since the Jetgate days. So, you know, I find it very strange that all of this is being rushed. You know, I do not like the feeling that I get. I do not believe that this passes the all-important smell test, when you have a company with governance issues—and “governance issues” meaning that they are not good at managing what they have.

If the Canadian Government has issues with one of their Crown corporations and the way that they manage themselves, and this is a company that is managing or getting into the arms race and arms dealing, I do not like what that would look . . . How is the Bermuda Tourism Authority going to help market our country when they say, Oh, yeah. By the way, we are partnered with an arms dealer, and that arms dealer happens to run our airport?

You know what? It actually is even more troubling that the biggest thing that the Government has an issue with what I am saying is that I pointed out the tagline. They do not have an issue with anything else. Right?

Now, Mr. Chairman, I am going to stand here in the context of constructive criticism. So now I have pointed out something that I do not like. I have pointed out something that raises an issue. So now, let me try and—

The Chairman: Member, excuse me one second. All of this is coming out of, in terms of your . . . out of which head, again? In reference to which head?

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: It comes out of Head 31, page 165, cost centre 41190.

The Chairman: Okay. Proceed.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Right? And then, it goes to . . . Now, what I am going to do, Mr. Chairman, is provide that solution. Instead of basically getting into what some can say is a sketchy deal with this airport, because, you know, it is just one question mark, more questions than answers. Why do we not basically find more creative ways? And part of that could be (and I am floating an idea out there) is that the Government could start to raise or create another revenue stream for the airport development programme, which would be the selling of bonds for this.

Now, what this means is it allows for the Government to sell bonds. You say to the average Bermudian, Hey (and I am just throwing hypothetical numbers out there), you give me $1,000 today, which is going to go towards the development of the airport, and in 10 years we will give you back $10,000, or in 30 years we will give you $30,000 back. These are all hypothetical numbers. But the principle remains the same, that you are now giving your average Bermudian a pathway to have a direct benefit and a direct say, or be a direct stakeholder in the development of this airport, which helps build pride in the project. Which means that you are going to have people who are going to be able to ask questions. They are going to have a very direct impact, direct . . . they have something tangible to touch, to see, that they said, You know what? I made this happen.

So, you know, this is a new way of . . . and maybe the selling of bonds could be a new way that we move forward. When the Government does not have it, it asks for Bermudians, asks for locals who have the ability to invest into Bermuda. Once again, this investing into Bermuda, you are promoting patriotism and culture.

[Pause]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Now, and also in part of this, the whole bond issuance . . . And I just want to leave some time for some of my other colleagues who have had some questions and wanted to join in. But another thing is, although, you know . . . And I will declare my interest. I do work at the airport for an airline, for JetBlue Airways. Therefore, I am directly impacted by a new airport. I would directly benefit from getting a new airport. But, Mr. Chairman, I think that right now might not be the right time for a brand-new airport. We have just got the Bermuda Tourism Authority put in place. Let us give them some time to get their legs underneath them and start that marketing machinery going behind them. Why do we not allow for some time for the Bermuda Tourism Authority to build up our tourist numbers instead of building an airport [now]?

Because remember, an airport by itself is not going to attract a single visitor. All right? Therefore, why do we not allow for the airport to start when we start seeing an additional 100,000 visitors coming through the airport. You know, [that would mean] increased departure tax, increased landing fees, and increased revenue for the country. And so now you are increasing your revenue, your tourism-driven revenue. You then have your bond sales on the other hand. And then you have your Airport Authority, which would be self-regulating and become self-sustained.

Now when you have all of that put together, that builds a robust enough programme, a robust enough infrastructure that can support the need for, can support the building of an airport without having to worry about redundancies, without having to worry about local Bermudian jobs.

There is one thing that I have realised, which is that haste makes waste. So what we want to do is . . . why do we not just slow it down a little bit with the airport? Let us make sure all our i's are dotted and t's are crossed before we move forward. Let us not have any question marks like whether or not Financial Instructions were followed, were not followed, whether or not we have to . . . You know, we do not have to get into proverbial bed with an arms dealer in order to get this airport done. We do not have to do all of this. We can do this on our own. We can do this on an above board [basis] and everything like that.

At the end of the day, seeing as we are talking about the Budget and today's economy, I think that we have provided a lot of solutions, moving forward. We have provided ways that we can work together. And once again, I am putting these solutions out for the Minister to take, these ideas out for the Minister to take, because at the end of the day, as I have said, I have said it before and I will say it again: If I were to sum up the plans that we have provided here, it is that the haves can continue to have. But the have-nots in this country, the have-nots have to have more. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Shadow Minister Scott.

Are there any other Members who care to speak to these heads?

The Chair will now recognise the Member from constituency 5, the Honourable Derrick Burgess.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Just very briefly, two questions. It puzzles me, looking at page B-180, under Maintenance. You are decreasing that particular budget by $686,000. That is head, [line item] 3502. And with the fleet of 110 buses, it is not a young fleet. I know you try to buy buses every year. And with the breakdowns that we get, I wonder why you would really want to decrease that [budget]

Also, your salaries and wages have decreased by [$764,000]. Now, I am just wondering, if you plan on cutting staff, are you planning on cutting back on schedules? You know, we certainly would like to know that. And also, a comment about your overtime: Will you put in enough money in your budget for overtime? Because I do know, for your budget for 2014/15, you only put in $150,000 for your overtime budget for the entire year, when you are averaging $189,000 per month for overtime. So I understand why there is no money left. You really overspent your overtime budget. You did not put enough money in there for it. So I am just wondering, how do you plan to manage that? Because $150,000, which does not even cover a month's overtime, and I am not suggesting that overtime should be $150,000 a month, but certainly not for the whole year. That is what was budgeted for that fleet. So I am just hoping that you can clarify that and how you are going to manage that.

There is some concern right now, because last week (I think it was last week Thursday) 31 people were left at the bus stop going to St. David's. I think it was quarter after seven, or whatever time it was, right? Thirty-one people were left there, and no bus. So, certainly, when people depend on public transportation and they do not get it, it certainly is annoying and particularly when they did not even know in advance.

You know, going into St. David's, you cannot even get a taxi going into St. David's or even to St. George's sometimes, I am told. Suzann does not have enough . . . her car is not big enough. I know she would if her car was big enough. And I know Ms. Foggo would do the same thing. But they have got little small cars, you know. So I am just wondering how you can deal with that.

Also on the airport, when they say about this company, this company that my colleague mentioned, about coming in on budget and on time. One thing I think you are missing is, what they do, just like they did the hospital . . . the hospital had a lot of mistakes down there. They had to take out all the wiring, a whole lot of drywall had to come out. That normally would incur a change order, which will increase the budget for any project. But what they do, for example, if the cost to build that particular place, let us say for example it is $300 per square foot, they would inflate it up to $350, so they are putting really the money up front, not necessarily they are going to spend that. And we get ripped off! And they tell you they are on budget and on time because they put so much money up front there that they are going to make a profit anyhow regardless of the mistakes.

So I would ask this Government, you had better watch that. Because the hospital was very expensive. This airport, which we do not need at the time . . . Nobody travels to a country to see an airport. I understand the Minister is trying to stimulate the economy. But you do not stimulate the economy by taking money out of it! There is a better plan. I am sure there is a better plan that we can construct an airport where Bermuda benefits and the money stays in the country. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you, Member.

Is there any other Member who would care to speak to the respective heads under discussion?

The Chair now recognises the Member from constituency 6, the Honourable Wayne Furbert.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Chairman, I thought since we have a lot of accountants in the Chambers, they will not be wasting their time up here, I will ask some questions in regard to some numbers.

Let us look at first of all at Head 48. That is page B-159. The Ministry's travel budget for 2013/14 was $77,000. In 2014/15, it was $89,000. And the revised figure is $143,000, almost 100 per cent increase, almost. I will say 80 per cent increase. But the estimate for this year is $110,000. The question I ask the Minister is, Since we have a Tourism Authority, why is this travel higher than it was before when he had the Ministry of Tourism under his whole belt? And can he give us a breakdown of what type of travelling, and is that just one person, two persons, three persons? So in other words, why more travel now in 2015/16, when the Tourism Authority has been put in place? As a matter of fact, $143,000, I guess that is a trip to Singapore, $143,000.

And I am not knocking the Minister, because I have been there. So . . .

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, I have been to China. Yes. I was Minister of Economic Development and Tourism. But I still do not think I spent as much as the Minister, and he is the Minister of Tourism.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: So, I would like to know why that number, why that number is there. Why is it higher now that he is not the Minister of Tourism? I mean, he is the Minister of Tourism. Why, when he says that he is not travelling as much as he was?

Professional Service—and he may have answered this question. But $392,[000] in 2013, we budgeted for $92,000. And you know how it works, Mr. Chairman. You put these numbers in, because the Minister told us to make it work. But then we show up with supplementaries later on. Every year, every Ministry, every government. So we put the numbers in that make it look nice so we can balance and say that we balanced. But we show up the next day, the next year with our supplementaries. So nothing changes.

I would like to know why Professional Services, $392,[000], but it went down . . . We budgeted for $92,[000] which is what the Minister of Finance told me was going to happen last year, but we go up to [$216,000]. And then this year, we go down $84,[000]. All right. Let us move on.

Let us move on to . . . I do not know much about boats, so I cannot ask you too much about Marine and Ports. But I could ask about the Air Operation, which is something that I was quite familiar with. Here is the biggest joke of all, Mr. Chairman.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Joke? That is not Parliamentary.

And you look at it from every budget the last 10 years, we budget for air terminal. And I know my good friend is going to know what I am going to say. We budget for $2 million. And we are up $6 million. We budget for $2 million this year, and we are going to be up another $5 million to $6 million next year because of the minimum revenue guarantee! No Minister has ever budgeted for that, but we know we pay it out.

The Minister says we know we are going to pay it out. So we are going to pay out another . . . This year it was . . . we got a supplementary of, I think it is $3 million. Yes, $3 million. Last year, I remember it was $2 million when I was the Minister for Tourism. Well, I was not the Minister of the airport. Well, way back I was. But you can look at it every year. Look at the record for the last 20 years. It is like we are denying that we are going to pay it! And we come back and tell the Government and the country . . . And the Minister of Finance should know that!

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Chairman, from time and eternity, no Minister has ever budgeted . . . like we are faking it. We know it is going to pay it out. You know.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: And we are praying for a long time. And I am not sure which . . . and we will have the debate in supplementaries, but we know it is the flight that goes down to Orlando. And people do not want to mention them. I do not know why we do not want to mention them. And then a flight that goes up to Canada. I do not know whether we have now included Air Canada, because they are back. They are back. I would like to know whether the Minister could answer whether they have got the same criteria as . . . It is like a big secret. We do not tell, because we do not want other airlines to know. But everybody knows. Everybody knows. Everybody knows that we pay . . . We are going to have a debate in a few minutes of minimum revenue guarantee, If it is not me, it must be them!

I do not understand the secret. Do you understand that, Mr. Chairman? We are going to debate next week sometime, or week after next, or whatever, and we are going to say we are paying out $3 million for minimum revenue guarantees. A certain airline is going to say, Well, it's not me. It must be one of them! They know they pay it out. But the biggest issue is, why do we not put it in the Budget? It is $2 million to $3 million. So, in 2013/14 . . . I need to bring out the book way back then, B-165.

[Pause]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: It is probably . . . Here it is, Air Operations. Check this out, Mr. Chairman. And I am going back, 2011/12.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes! I do not know why. I do not know why.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Mr. Chairman, it has been consistent for time and eternity, so it is no contingent at all; we know we are going to pay it out somewhere along the line. Put it in the Budget, and if we come out short, it is a surplus. It is a surplus! In other words, we can smile and say, We got the numbers up. The Minister is trying to get the numbers up out of Florida or wherever. And we know. But it has been going on. Probably went back way back when I was Minister of Tourism and Transport, way back in 1994, same thing. I am just saying, I told the Minister of Finance last year, we have got to put it in the Budget! Because you told the country that you are going to have so much surplus. Well, that is a . . . That is a mistake. (I was going to say something else.) It is wrong.

We are telling the country—we are not telling the country that truth. That alone is going to make the numbers go up. And every, every year. This does not change, Mr. Chairman. This supplementary. Go back. We are not going to debate it, but every year the same thing shows up. I have not looked at it. But I bet you we have got overtime for bus operation here. It is always, always . . . It is no secret. And as much as the Minister does not want to pay overtime for this year, it is going to be the same. Just put it in the budget! It is no secret!

So instead of the Minister coming back and . . . I am remembering the Minister of Finance jumping on us about, Why are we bringing the supplementaries? Why are we bringing the supplementaries? Well, why are you bringing supplementaries? Because you under-budgeted. I am telling you right now, put that number in for . . . Well, you are not going to put it in. You are going to say, Well, we have a surplus. But I can guarantee, Mr. Chairman, that next year we will be back here. We will be back here for at least $2 million at the least, at the least, for minimum revenue guarantee. Okay?

Meteorologist: Now, I see meteorologist amounts going down by [$]500,[000], and I understand it has to do with the AccuWeather.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I heard Members say do not cut that budget. As a matter of fact, give more money. I heard people say, Give more money to AccuWeather! I do not know why, Mr. Chairman, they are saying that.

[Laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: But I understand that has the highest rating of any show in Bermuda.

[Crosstalk and laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: AccuWeather has the highest rating of any local show in Bermuda. I understand that letters, e-mails are going out to individuals asking them, you know, [are] they married and everything else. It is unbelievable.

So, if that is what you are saying that we are now giving more money . . . No, less money. No. Why did you cut the budget? You are right. Why cut it? We need more money up in that particular line item.

[Inaudible interjections and laughter]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: But I would ask the Minister, why the drop in that particular line item?

Okay. Advertising and promotion. I am assuming advertising and promotion must be the minimum revenue guarantee. We budget for advertising and promotion. Yes, that is the promotion part. Okay. All right. So, yes, I understand that number. But I would like to ask the Minister if he could explain to the country why he is not budgeting for it. I mean, we hope you do not have to pay it out. But we have been hoping for a long time. We have been hoping for a long time.

The other numbers, Mr. Chairman . . . I am not going to touch on the . . . I think my colleagues touched on CCC and whether any money has been set aside for any type of study. I know that the . . . and it is not in here, but we all know that the departure tax is part of airport operations. And so, that being under the Tax Commission, I cannot touch that yet, of the other head. But I know that at the end of the day . . . because in the Budget Book by the Minister, it said that we are raising the money. We are raising the money because we want to give for the operation going forward, for the individuals who are coming in. So that was part of a deal struck.

And the Minister has a conflict because you have got a Minister of Tourism who wants to get more money and get more tourists in. We will pick this up next week (on Friday, sorry), wants to get tourists in; but yet, we are increasing the cost for tourists to come in, to fly in. And it is expensive.

The Chairman: Excuse me, Member. I just want to notify yourself and the other Members that consideration of these heads will terminate at 8:00 pm. We will end at 8:00 pm.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. We all know that.

So I am going to sit down and give the Minister some time to answer. And I know he is not going to touch MRG [minimum revenue guarantee]. I know he is not going to touch it. It is like the untouchable. But he has got to explain why he thinks that, [without] necessarily naming the [airlines], but [telling us] why he thinks that we are not going to pay it out this year. That is the key.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes. Okay. So I am going to sit down and let any of my other colleagues [ask] questions.

The Chairman: Thank you, Member.

The Chair now recognises the Member from constituency 17, the Honourable Walton Brown.

Mr. Walton Brown: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Just two quick questions: Can the Minister identify which airlines are receiving the guarantee, and for which routes? First question.

The second question relates to the growth of the airline and shipping register. I recognise they are great revenue sources for Bermuda, and we want to grow them. With the registers, though, there is a level of risk that comes along with it. Many will remember back in the 1970s when a Bermuda-registered vessel picked up a large number of Vietnamese nationals and was obligated under international law to bring these nationals to Bermuda.

The Bermuda Government at the time rejected its responsibility and worked out a deal with the UK to take most of these Vietnamese nationals, and we took in a few. That is one aspect.

So my question for the Minister is, What sort of risk assessment has been undertaken with regard to the shipping register on this matter? Because in Asia, I don't know if these vessels are registered in Bermuda. But if they were in Asia, there is a large number of people who are migrants, and of course, in the Mediterranean as well, the risk assessment for that.

With regard to the airline, civil aviation, the airline registry, I understand there has been some concern expressed by our administering power about the preponderance of Russian jets on the register. If that is still the case, I would like to hear an answer from the Minister about that if, that is still the case and if the British are still concerned that we have, in their mind, too many Russian aircraft on the register.

And what is the liability for Bermuda in the event of an accident with regard to a death? I know there was a Russian plane that crashed last year or two years ago in Russia. And we had to send a team. So, what is our obligation in terms of financial responsibility? What are we responsible for covering? Is that provided by insurance or reinsurance? And if the Minister could speak to those two issues, I would be most appreciative. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you, Member.

Are there any other Members who would care to speak to these heads?

No. The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister Shawn G. Crockwell, of Southampton West Central, constituency 31.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I would thank all Members who have contributed to the debate this evening. I would like to first of all deal with the concerning comments coming from the Honourable Member, the Shadow Minister for Transport, particularly as he discussed CCC. Yet again, he couched it in a very negative light by saying, describing them as "arms dealers" in some article that he may be referring to. And I never said it was not true. So you can sit down, okay? I said that the manner in which he was putting it forward and describing it, and the Shadow Minister of Finance is saying it is true.

Well, Mr. Chairman, the arms industry is one of the oldest industries in the world. It is a global business where you have the manufacture of weapons and military technology and equipment, consisting of commercial industry which involves research, development, production and the service of military material. When you look at the trading of arms in terms of for military purposes, it is a $1.5 trillion industry. And the United States is probably one of the largest arms dealers in the world, and the United Kingdom, of which we are still associated with, is one of the largest arms dealers in the world.

So, the issue does not come down to whether or not you sell arms. It is whom you sell them to, Mr. Chairman. So to just get up here and say because they sell arms—

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Shadow Minister.

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Honourable Member is misleading the House. My issue is not the fact that they are just arms dealers. My issue is with the fact that they have governance issues, meaning that there is no corporate plan that is approved; there is no business plan that is approved. So therefore, there is no telling that they are doing everything above board. And if we do not know if they are doing above board in the arms industry, and that is CCC whom we are going to sign the contract with, how do we know they are going to do stuff above board when they come to try to take over our airport?

The Chairman: Okay. Thank you, Member. Thank you.

You can have the floor again, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It was not a point of order. He had his chance. He had what he had to say, and I am pointing out, if the Honourable Member has information that CCC has broken some laws, then bring it to the House. But to come here and say that because they happen to trade in arms, which is not unlawful, which is a $1.5 trillion industry that the major countries in the world do, and say it to try and besmirch the organisation, as the Opposition consistently tries to do, I think is unfortunate, Mr. Chairman.

Now, Mr. Chairman, there were quite a few questions, and I am not going to be able to get to them all. But I want to get to the question about travel that was raised by the Honourable Member from constituency 6. And he asked why there was a revised increase from $89,000 to $143,000. And the primary reason for that increase is because, in this year, we have to sufficiently train or facilitate training for the appointed gaming commissioners. And so we have set aside money for that purpose. Travel is not just specifically for the Minister, but the commissioners will have to be sufficiently trained so that they can execute their regulatory functions. So that was the primary reason for that.

But I have to say, Mr. Chairman, I always have found it interesting when that particular Honourable Member talks about travel. He was Minister for one year. And I could tell you, Mr. Chairman, he travelled more in that one year than I have travelled in two, with no question. And I understand he was doing two Ministries.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes. I understand he was doing two Ministries. That is fine. I am doing two Ministries as well, Honourable Member. Yes, I am. Transport is a Ministry, and Tourism is a Ministry, okay?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: And the fact of the matter is that I will be travelling far less for tourism. I have not travelled this year at all, Mr. Chairman. Okay? But the point I am saying is that, now with casinos and gaming under the remit of my Ministry, which will augment the responsibility, particularly because we are creating this industry from its genesis, Mr. Chairman, there will be required travel to ensure that we get it, and we get it right in the first instance.

But I am just saying that that Honourable Member was on a plane quite often and, you know, to faraway places, to faraway places—China, Dubai, Macau, Singapore, Hong Kong, and others. So let us just, you know, keep it in . . . In one year, Mr. Chairman.

Now, Mr. Chairman, there were quite a few issues raised by the Honourable Shadow Minister in relation to the condition at DPT. I think it is important just to restate that this is a 20-year-old problem. As I look on the other side, I can see a few former Transport Ministers, and they can probably all recall maybe being asked to visit that particular facility. There have been attempts to remediate the problems. There has been significant work done to the roof. And for whatever reason, these problems seem to persist.

We are committed. As I said earlier, the Minister Cannonier and I visited that facility. We were very alarmed by the conditions in which the staff have to work under. We tip our hats to the fact that . . . In fact, there was one room that was leaking, because we went there on a day when there was some serious rain. And they were doing some training. And we walked in there, you would have never thought that it was leaking. They had just gotten on with the work, and they were still doing the training exercises despite the fact that there were, you know, buckets behind them. So we understand that it is a pressing issue. We have made a commitment to come up with some resolutions this year. And so we want them to know that we recognise their concerns. They are valid concerns. And we will certainly address them. And I think the fact that both myself and the Minister for Public Works attended with our Permanent Secretaries spoke volumes.

Mr. Chairman, on the MRG issue. The Minister of Finance has already stated that he would like to see that as part of the Budget, going forward. It has been a consistent liability; we know that. This is something that has been going on for a long time. It is an accounting sort of approach because it is a contingent liability. I am not prepared to disclose which airlines are receiving MRGs. That is because if you look at the agreement, it is a confidential aspect of the agreement, not because of some financial reasons and financial reporting. It has been disclosed in the past, to our chagrin. And I can tell you that the disclosure of former terms of these agreements has caused the Government some serious challenges.

And so, if other people want to do it, that is on them. But I will honour the confidentiality of those clauses.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I just said we will be budgeting for it, going forward. The same reason why it is not budgeted for now is the reason why the PLP never budgeted for it—the exact same reason. It has not changed since you were the Government and when you were the Minister. Okay? I am just saying. And we will put it in the Budget. We are anticipating—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I did not say that last year. But the Minister of Finance has stated that he wants that to be in the Budget as we go forward. But the reason why we do not do it is the same reason why you did not do it for 14 years, okay?

Now, there were some questions in relation to CCC and the fact that there might be some issues of . . . I believe the Honourable Member from constituency 5, and that these types of arrangements, they will cut corners and make mistakes and the like. The comfort we have with this particular project is that they will be responsible for ongoing maintenance. So it is not like they can build it and then leave and the Government will be responsible for maintenance. So it will be in their interest to make sure it is built properly, because if it is not, then they are going to have to pay for any remediation going forward.

[Pause]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I would like to address the question raised by the Honourable Member from constituency 17, in relation to civil aviation. And I am going to try to decipher the handwriting here. But the question was in relation to Russian aircraft on our registry. So I just want to clarify that there are no Russian aircraft on the Bermuda Register. All the aircraft on the register that operate with Russian airlines are Western-built aircraft. They are flown by major airlines out of Russia. But we have not had any additional concerns raised from the United Kingdom Government in this regard. As I said in my brief, the majority of the airlines emanate from, you know, Russian companies. And we are seeing a downturn in their economy, and so we may see a correlating downturn in the registrations.

Okay. Mr. Chairman . . .

[Pause]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes. The question, again from the Honourable Member from constituency 17, who was the last speaker, so I am just now getting those answers. In relation to the expansion of the shipping registry and the potential for refugees, I believe you asked . . . And I am being told that it is a concern that we are looking at as an ongoing problem. All European countries are sharing the responsibility, to minimise that issue. So you did highlight a potential concern.

Mr. Walton Brown: Just for clarification purposes.

The Chairman: I am sorry. The Chair now recognises the Member from constituency 17, the Honourable Walton Brown.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Mr. Walton Brown: Right. There is an absolute obligation, though, on the part of the owners of the vessel to pick up and to rescue anyone who is distressed at sea. Correct?

The Chairman: That was a point of clarification?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes. The Member is correct.

The Chairman: You may resume, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: There were questions in relation to the reduction in the full-time employees—well, I am sorry, a reduction in the expenditure for salaries and wages in the Department of Public Transportation and whether or not this is going to equate to a reduction in staff. I can say that we looked at that reduction primarily to associate it with the freezing of existing posts. I will be clear. I am not clairvoyant, but I will be clear that we do not want to cause any redundancies. I know people are out there complaining that we have seen reduction.

Right now, the reduction in some of the bus routes is due to the fact that we have sickness during this time of the year, and people can understand that. And we are trying to minimise our overtime, which is substantial coming from that particular department. It has been for many years. The overtime has averaged over the last 10 years around $1,600,000. In our current economic condition, we have to figure out a way to address that.

Now, what will significantly mitigate that would be the implementation of the new bus schedule, which we are bringing in in June of this year. We are looking at other creative ways to reduce the utilities of the buses, maybe find minibus service to do the routes that are not done as frequently, that do not require the same amount of capacity. So we are trying to find ways to reduce the cost of these services. But I always say that this Ministry is a service-oriented ministry. And the only way you can reduce costs is you have to reduce service. [There] is no other way to do this.

The Chairman: Minister, and Members, we have now come to the end of our consideration of Tourism Development and Transport at this stage.

Minister, are you now prepared to move the respective heads?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, Mr. Chairman, thank you.

I would like to now move Heads 48, 30, 31, 34, 35, 57 and 73.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister has moved that Heads 48, 30, 31, 34, 35, 57 and 73 be approved.

Are there any objections?

No objections.

The heads are approved.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport, Heads 48, 30, 31, 34, 35, 57 and 73 were approved and stand part of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure 2015/16.]

The Chairman: Now I call upon the Minister of Finance, the Honourable Minister of Finance, to take the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I move that we rise and report progress to sit again on Friday, [6 March 2015].

The Chairman: On Friday, okay.

[Motion carried: The Committee of Supply agreed to rise and report progress, and sought leave to sit again.]

The Chairman: I would just very quickly like to notify Members and the listening public that our Honourable Finance Minister had the great privilege of having the birth of his first grandchild today.

[Desk thumping and cheers]

The Chairman: And I do believe it is a granddaughter, born to his oldest son.

[Desk thumping and cheers]

The Chairman: So, as we see, there are some things that can bring both sides together here, okay, in comity.

House resumed at 8:05 pm

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

ESTIMATES FOR REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

[The Committee of Supply agreed to rise and report progress, and sought leave to sit again.]

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Members. We have completed the Education, and Transport and Tourism Budget items, and now move on to Order No. 2, which has been carried over.

We now move to Order No. 3, which is in the name of the Minister of Health, Seniors and the Environment, the Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Oh, carried over? All right. That is carried over.

Then we move now to Order No. 4, the Second Reading of the Land Tax Amendment Act 2015, in the name of the Minister of Finance. So the Chair recognises the Minister of Finance. Minister Bob Richards, you have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I move the Land Tax Amendment Act 2015 be now read a second time.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.
Any objections to that?

Carry on, Minister.

BILL

SECOND READING

LAND TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the Government wishes this Honourable House to give consideration to the Bill entitled the Land Tax Amendment Act 2015. This Bill provides for a revenue raising measure in support of the Government's 2015/16 budget.

Mr. Speaker, Honourable Members will recall that in the 2015 National Budget, Government announced it will increase the yield from land tax in 2015/16 by adjusting the rate on ARVs [annual rental values] for commercial properties from 4.4 per cent to 5.5 per cent. The amount of additional tax raised is estimated to be $4.1 million. The increase will affect about 3,000 commercial properties, and the average increase will be about $1,500 per annum.

Mr. Speaker, land tax is charged under the authority of the Land Valuation and Tax Act 1967 and the Land Tax Act 1967. It is assessed on the annual rental value of each valuation unit, depending on whether the unit is a private dwelling or a commercial property. The rate on commercial properties will be adjusted to 5.5 per cent from 4.4 per cent. The Tax Commissioner's Land Tax Officer calculates the amount of land tax chargeable on all valuation units, and demand notes are issued to taxpayers half-yearly. The amount of tax is determined by multiplying the ARV by the appropriate tax rates.

Mr. Speaker, this measure has been taken to raise much-needed revenues and to capture a fair contribution from those who own commercial properties. The last time this rate was adjusted was in 2005, when it was adjusted downward to 4.4 per cent. The raising of the tax on commercial properties is part of Government's strategy to spread the tax increases over as broad a spectrum of the taxpaying population as is practicable.

Mr. Speaker, I reiterate . . . (or I do not reiterate, because I have not said this before) the Government deficit and growing debt threaten our financial independence. (I guess I have said that before.) And it has been determined that the deficit will not be broken by spending cuts alone. Increased revenues will be necessary. Accordingly, in the 2015/16 Government Budget that we announced, it will be strengthening the tax base with various revenue-raising measures. This proposal is one of those measures.

Mr. Speaker, Government has tried to be balanced and fair, taking into consideration the situation that we must face as we redouble our efforts to eliminate the Government deficit as soon as possible. There is no question that the requirement to reduce the deficit is urgent, and the proposed change in this rate will assist in providing some additional revenue that is required to reduce the deficit.

The Government recognises that this increase may not be popular, particularly among those who have to pay it. However, if Government does not eliminate the deficit soon, or if we do not convince foreign creditors and rating agencies of our absolute commitment to eliminate it soon, further credit rating downgrades will come. As Bermuda is a premier financial services jurisdiction, it is necessary to maintain our standard of operation responsibly, and more importantly, our financial independence.

With those introductory remarks, Mr. Speaker, I now would like this amendment Act, the Land Tax Amendment Act 2015, to be read a second time.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

The Chair will now recognise the Shadow Minister of Finance, from Pembroke West Central, constituency 18. MP David Burt, you have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I found it interesting that during the Minister's comments, he talked about the last time this individual tax rate was adjusted. And it was actually reduced by the Progressive Labour Party. And I repeat that only for the purposes of finding it interesting that the Minister of Finance, who typically will agree that taxes are not something that is positive for the economy, any increase in taxes is something that is negative for the economy, would find himself increasing taxes.

Now, this is one of three tax increases of which we will discuss today. And there are quite a few. But the trend, Mr. Speaker, remains the same. The reason why the Minister of Finance has to come to us this year for increasing of so many different taxes in an attempt to close the budget deficit is because he got it wrong last year, Mr. Speaker. He got the economic strategy, the budget strategy for the country wrong.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Finance was supposed to come here and tell us that we had a $267 million deficit. But we have a $300 million deficit this year, Mr. Speaker. And why is that? It is because the Minister got it wrong in his last budget. I preface all of these things to say, Mr. Speaker, that if he would have taken advice last year, we may not be in this situation. The fact that our revenues are down, the fact that our economy is weaker is a direct result of the Minister's budget decisions last year.

As the Minister of Finance, if he wants to be responsible for stewarding the economy, he has to at least admit—and I hope that he will admit tonight—that maybe the cuts that he put in his budget last year were a little bit too quick and a little bit too fast. Because he put these cuts in, Mr. Speaker, hoping to reduce the deficits, and guess what happened? The deficit increased. That is what happened! It weakened the economy. It weakened the tax base. It weakened the payroll tax base. It weakened customs duty. It weakened demand. And now we are here at a lower level now, attempting to get back up.

The Minister always talks about the fuel that is needed to fuel the economy. Well, there is a little bit of fuel that came out last year. And that little bit of fuel got us to a point where are right now looking at raising revenue across the board in an attempt to close that deficit.

Now, Mr. Speaker, what I would say, I would hope that at some point in time tonight that the Minister of Finance will at least admit to the country that maybe he got it wrong last year. Maybe he should not have been so aggressive on the spending cuts. Maybe his spending cuts contributed to job losses in the economy. Maybe his spending cuts contributed to a reduction of demand. Maybe his plan for investment to appear did not actually happen, and maybe he should have waited for the investment before he took out the support that was being provided for the economy, before he removed the productive investments, before he took away the spending for tourism, which had tourism arrivals fall to the lowest [numbers] in 48 years, Mr. Speaker.

We would not be discussing all of these things, Mr. Speaker. . . It is my view that we would not be discussing all of these measures if the Minister would have taken advice last year and would not have cut the budget as much as he did! Because the fact that he cut the budget made our economy weaker. And I think that that is something that we will be hearing about and speaking about a lot tonight. We have three Bills, Mr. Speaker. And it is my hope that, hopefully, by the third tax-raising Bill that is going to come to the Parliament tonight, the Minister will at least admit that last year he got it wrong. And because of the fact that he got it wrong last year, we are having to make up time.

Mr. Speaker, had the Minister followed our advice, had the Minister not removed so much support for the economy, had the Minister understood, because the Minister is a student of Keynesian economics, and he understands that in order to get to that virtuous cycle, which we want to get to, a lot of times it requires government support and deficit spending, Mr. Speaker. That is the fact. The thing is, our challenge over the years is that our economic policy has not been consistent. We deficit spend, increase tax, pull back spending, all the rest.

The fact is that, for six years, we are still in a recession. Last year, the economic . . .

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, there was chirping from the other side and the Honourable Minister of Economic Development, who said, Whose fault is that? I am going to tell you whose fault it is, Mr. Speaker. The 2014/15 budget that was presented in the House last year was the Finance Minister's first budget under his complete command. And he has to accept the responsibility that that budget had on the economy. The Honourable Minister for Economic Development can do his best to blame the PLP for what happened in the economy in 2014.

But I promise you, Mr. Speaker, the voters of this country do not blame the PLP for what happened in the economy in 2014. They blame the One Bermuda Alliance, because it is their economic policies that saw 790 jobs disappear last year! It was their economic policies that saw revenues collapse! It was their economic policies that saw us have to increase spending on financial assistance to record levels because of the lack of jobs inside the economy.

So the Minister of Economic Development can do his best to blame it on the Progressive Labour Party. But the Progressive Labour Party has not been in office for 27 months, Mr. Speaker. The Progressive Labour Party has not been making budgets for 27 months. The Progressive Labour Party has not been in charge of running this economy for 27 months. And there will come a time, Mr. Speaker, that they need to realise that when you get the economics wrong, you will end up with a bad economic result. It happened before—

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

The Speaker: Honourable Members! Honourable Members! You will have your opportunity to speak.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, they do not like it. It is riling them up. Because they really thought that somehow they could change the laws of economics. They really thought that, without any international investment coming in, they really thought that everything would be okay. If we cut some spending out of the economy, there will not be any problems. They really thought that we would return to growth.

We heard the projections last year. We are cautiously optimistic that the economy will return to growth. Now this year, they are not predicting any growth. We heard the projections, you know, that we can see a stabilisation of employment. We see employment not going up. We understand, Mr. Speaker. We see it. Those are the facts on the ground.

So, as much as the Members of the Government would like to argue against the facts, the facts are the economy is weaker this year than it was last year. And a contributing factor to the economic weakness has nothing to do with 14 years of PLP governance. It has to do with the budget that was passed last year, Mr. Speaker, the budget that cut Tourism spending, the budget that cut economic spending, the budget that ended rebates, the budget that cut capital spending. All of those things, Mr. Speaker, happened under the One Bermuda Alliance watch. And that is why we find ourselves here with revenue being $26 million less than anticipated, expenses being higher than anticipated and the budget deficit, instead of $267 million this year, is going to be $300 million, Mr. Speaker. That is what we have.

Now, it is my hope that the Minister would have learned from his lesson. But it does not appear that the Minister has learned from his lesson. Because again, we see . . . But this time, not even tax raises, Mr. Speaker. We see tax raises and spending cuts, the very definition of austerity when an economy is still weak and where, as anyone in economics will tell you, that that is not a recipe to return us to that virtuous cycle.

So, Mr. Speaker, when it comes to the issue of land taxes, we on this side recognise that we have to get revenue. We would not have had to get as much if the economy was not made weaker by the Minister's budget last year. But we have to get revenue, Mr. Speaker. So that much is understood. And this tax accomplishes the goal of, I think, spreading the burden. So, I will give the Minister that, on fairness. And we are not going to oppose this tax raise that goes in.

But the challenge that we have, Mr. Speaker, is that the Minister of Finance got it wrong last year. The economy is weaker because he got it wrong last year. And for the future budgets, just as was pointed out by a columnist, Larry Burchall, on Bernews, which said . . . Now, it is not just this year, Mr. Speaker, that the budget is bigger. Because remember, we had projections last year, with the Minister saying the deficits would be this big going forward. And now they are a whole lot bigger, Mr. Speaker. So we see it was the bad economic policy from the start.

Now, Mr. Speaker, if you start poorly, you will end poorly! That is what happens, Mr. Speaker. Last year, we had a choice to make. The Minister of Finance had a choice to make. He made the conscious decision that he was going to be more aggressive than [what] the SAGE [Commission] recommended. That was his decision, Mr. Speaker, his decision alone, because in his crystal ball, he felt that things would get better.

Well, things got worse, Mr. Speaker, and the people who are listening need to remember that it was the Minister's budget that is putting us in the position to attempt to raise so many taxes across the board in an attempt to close the deficit, when if he did not put those cuts in last year, our economy would be stronger and the need to raise taxes would not be as acute as it is. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Southampton East, constituency 29. MP Zane De Silva, you have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I am caught between two minds on this one. And the two minds are this, that . . . First of all, let me declare my interest, Mr. Speaker. That is number one, before the Honourable Attorney General gets up. Well, he is sleeping now. So I did not even have to declare it.

But, Mr. Speaker, I am stuck between two minds. My first comment about this particular rise in taxes, Mr. Speaker, is that this is going to affect our international business, number one. Now, the Honourable Minister did say that he hopes to raise $4.5 million. And it is, on average, about $1,500 per assessment number. Okay. All right. Maybe it is not that much.

But, Mr. Speaker, there was a time when the Progressive Labour Party were in Government, and I remember when we were going to raise FutureCare five dollars, Mr. Speaker—five dollars! Five dollars! And we had Members on the now-OBA Government who were in Opposition who gave us a lot of stick for that, Mr. Speaker, for five dollars! So here we are. And of course, like I said, I am in between two minds. Because on one hand, we know that the Finance Minister and the OBA have found things a little bit more difficult than what they said pre-2012. They are finding out what it is like, Mr. Speaker, the savvy business leaders of Bermuda. They are finding out what it is like to run a government in tough times. They are finding out. So I sympathise with them. And, you know, this is why I am a little stuck, Mr. Speaker.

But for one thing, I think the Honourable Minister, the Finance Minister, has missed an opportunity, Mr. Speaker. And why do I say he has missed an opportunity? Well, Mr. Speaker, not every commercial building is agreed upon using the London lease agreement, not everyone. But, Mr. Speaker, there are several businesses, there are several trusts, there are several commercial building owners who own several, more than one building. Some of them own five, six, seven, eight, nine, Mr. Speaker. I would have thought that the Honourable Finance Minister lost an opportunity where he could very easily have found out who these buildings belong to, who they belong to, how long they have had them, and I am sure that he could have raised a hell of a lot more than $4.5 million, Mr. Speaker, by taxing those who can afford it.

And not only those who own multiple commercial buildings, Mr. Speaker, but those who own multiple homes. There are some people in Bermuda, Mr. Speaker, who own 20, 30, 40, 50 homes! Why do we not look at that, Mr. Speaker, and have these folks pay a nice little portion to the Government? I remember, Mr. Speaker, back, I think (correct me if I am wrong) around 2002, the Progressive Labour Party increased the land taxes on homes. And I remember getting my land tax bill, and my wife and I had a conversation. And she says, Wow! But at least they have a letter, we can object. And I said to her at the time, I said, Look. Sweetheart, it's like this. We can object. But you know what? The Government need money to run the country. They need to collect the trash, they need to look at the roads, need to have social programmes for people who are in need. I said, You know what? I said, I'm not going to write in and object to it, because we can afford it.

Mr. Speaker, that is the attitude that we should have. Even those who own multiple homes around the Island, especially now that they have a Government that is very well connected to some of these owners, they should have that conversation. They should have the conversation. Why not? The Finance Minister knows a lot of these people, Mr. Speaker. Have a conversation! I remember, Mr. Speaker, a CEO of one of Bermuda's top insurance companies. He turned 65 about three years ago. He came to me and said, Zane, I went down to TCD [Transport Control Department] to pay for my licence. They told me, No, no, it's free now. He said, I'd prefer to pay. He said, The same with my land tax. I can afford it. I prefer to pay.

So, Mr. Speaker, why does not the Finance Minister have a good look at multiple homeowners and multiple business owners? Now, I declared my interest, Mr. Speaker. Of course, I am not one of those multi-zillionaires who have several buildings around town, Mr. Speaker. So I do not qualify this time around. I might next time around, but not this time. But, Mr. Speaker, that is where I think the Minister lost an opportunity, which is to go that way with the people who can afford it.

Mr. Speaker, the Finance Minister, as was very articulately outlined by the Shadow Finance Minister, Mr. Burt, just a few minutes ago, last year he got it wrong. And he got it wrong in a very big way. Mr. Speaker, I remember sitting in this House when the OBA took over, their first budget, and the Finance Minister said, We are going to borrow $800 million. Eight hundred million! But you know what, Bermuda? That is going to carry us through three years!

The crystal ball that belongs to the Finance Minister, he bragged about that crystal ball when he was in Opposition. And I said it last week, that I believe he has lost his crystal ball. I think he lost it last year. I think he lost it the year before. I do not know where it went, Mr. Speaker. It is gone, because you know what, Mr. Speaker? The Finance Minister gets up and tells Bermuda that he is going to borrow $800 million, not $800,000, not $8 million—$800 million! Because I am a prudent, smart, savvy Finance Minister!

Well, Mr. Speaker, here we are. We still have another year and a couple of weeks to go, and it is just about shot. That $800 million is shot, Mr. Speaker. It is gone, all except for about $95 million, the Finance Minister tells us. And let us not forget the Finance Minister also said he is going to borrow $125 million more this year, Mr. Speaker! So $125 million more.

So did the Finance Minister get it wrong by not only misjudging the interest rates, Mr. Speaker, because as you know, one of the things that he hung his hat on was that interest rates would substantially increase over the next couple of years. In fact, Mr. Speaker, that has not happened either. The crystal ball twice has been wrong! So, you see, Mr. Speaker, that is why we are here today. And the people of Bermuda need to know this. The smart, savvy businessmen of the OBA who said during their pre-election, We are going to show you how we can run this country! They do not know how to do it! We know how to do it, and this is how we are going to do it. We are 27 months into that Government, Mr. Speaker—$800 million, poof! Gone! We need another $125 million, and we had some supplementaries put here today. Are we going to have some more next year, on top of that $125 [million], on top of the $800 [million]?

Can you imagine, Mr. Speaker, had the PLP Government won that election, and we said that we are going to borrow $800 [million], and it is going to last three years, and we are going to come back in two years and say that it is gone and we are going to borrow another $125 [million]? Where are all that noise, all the . . . I remember before the election, three months before, every week somebody was writing an article about how the PLP could not run this country and how the OBA were going to run it. Mr. Speaker! Boy! Wrong, wrong, wrong, Mr. Speaker. The crystal ball is gone. I see a half a crystal ball on this side, and I hope maybe we can get it back to him, Mr. Speaker.

But, Mr. Speaker, we have to remember this. It is very important. The Finance Minister got it wrong! He got it very wrong! He stood up and he told everybody in Bermuda, This is what we are going to do and this is how we are going to do it! We are smart managers. We are smart money managers. He got it wrong. He got it wrong, Mr. Speaker.

[Inaudible interjection]

[Gavel]

The Speaker: Just a minute. Just a minute.

Honourable Members, let us allow the debate to go on without any disturbance. Thank you.

Carry on.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Mr. Speaker, the Finance Minister got it wrong. His revenues were way down, and his expenses were over budget. Got it wrong, Mr. Speaker? Not easy, is it? Not easy being the Government. Not easy being the Finance Minister. Easy when he is in Opposition, to sit over here and complain and shoot noise and fire every week. But it is a little different now, Mr. Speaker, a little different.

Mr. Speaker, the Tourism budget was reduced by $5 million last year. Now, the current CEO, Mr. Hanbury, has said on several occasions that for every cruise visitor dollar that is spent, the air arrival visitor is 11 times that much. And he even said as much this last week, and that it is 16 times every dollar. So in other words, Mr. Speaker, and the Honourable Finance Minister said in his Budget Statement this week how critical tourism is to Bermuda. But we reduced it by $5 [million] last year, we reduced it by another $1.5 [million] this year, Mr. Speaker, but the return is 11 times better for an air visitor than a cruise visitor! Something is not right with that picture, Mr. Speaker. Maybe I do not get it. What is wrong with that picture?

The Finance Minister takes money from an entity that could possibly turn a dollar of revenue into $11.00 or $16.00 of revenue, and we just take it away from them. Mr. Speaker, the OBA Government, prior to that election, told the voters of this country, We are savvy, smart business leaders. You know what they are saying now, Mr. Speaker? No, no and no. No, they are not, Mr. Speaker. Disappointing? Some. Very disappointing? Many, Mr. Speaker. Very disappointing.

So, Mr. Speaker, we will not object to this tax rise. We will not object to it because, as I said in my earlier speech, we know. We know. We have been there. We know that taxes, some taxes are going to have to be raised because revenues are down. We know that. But the hurtful part is that the Shadow Finance Minister, with his crystal ball last year, told the Finance Minister not to do it! Because it is not going to work! The PLP young Shadow Finance Minister, “the boy,” as he was called, don’t know what he’s talking about! Don’t know what he’s talking about! But look who we have a year later, Mr. Speaker? Boy Wonder, I am going to call him—Boy Wonder! Boy Wonder was right. In fact, I think the crystal ball that the Honourable Finance Minister lost is probably in the pocket of the Shadow Finance Minister, because he seems to have gotten it right, whereas the Finance Minister has gotten it wrong, Mr. Speaker.

And on that note, all I am going to say for the OBA Government and the Finance Minister, is sit back, listen to our Shadow Finance Minister. Think about what he is saying. Think about what he wrote in his Budget Reply. Because there are some very interesting and very serious implications for our country if the Finance Minister does not take heed to some of the things that he pointed out in his statement. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak?

The Chair will recognise the Leader of the Opposition, the Honourable Member from constituency 26, Warwick South Central. Marc Bean, you have the floor.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Good evening, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good evening.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: First and foremost, before I start my contribution on this Land Tax Amendment Bill, I would like to congratulate the Minister of Finance.

Minister? Minister?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Yes. I was not here. So now I am back, and I would like to congratulate you on becoming a grandfather.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you very much.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Yes. And I hope that mother and baby are going from strength to strength. That is a good thing.

Mr. Speaker, my oh my. I understood the idea of the need to rein in spending in this year’s budget. But I would have never thought that we would have had an increase of taxes. In fact, in the lead-up to the budget, I had an opportunity to have one of the numerous discussions/debates with my Shadow Finance Minister. And as he just said, he would have lost his house, Mr. Speaker, because about two days prior to the budget, or actually it was the day before, I said, Hey, David, or MP Burt. I said, I just have this feeling that Minister Richards is going to cut spending and raise taxes! And he said, No way! Why, that would never happen! In Keynesianism . . . that is not Keynesianism. That is not the approach we take!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Yes. So said, so done.

And during the Minister’s brief, he mentioned it, he passed it off as a revenue-generating exercise. Yes, it is a revenue-generating exercise. But it is a revenue-generating exercise that functions like a vacuum to an economy. That is what increased taxes do. The alternative, because he mentioned this particular amendment will raise approximately $4.4 million or around that amount. And I am eager to see what the forecast is for the other two Bills that we have to do.

Because I am sure, if the OBA Government would have listened to us on just one of our suggestions and ideas of diversification, that that revenue would have been raised through fees and/or taxes from one of those diversified sectors of industries, in lieu of raising taxes on, one, land. The next one is going to be labour. And the next one is going to be on transport and tourism! But those are the options that Government has. You either generate more revenues through diversification, or you are going to have to resolve yourself to having to raise taxes.

Now, raising taxes is never good for an economy, especially a depressed economy. My Shadow Minister of Finance feels that additional public spending will add stimulus to the economy. But there is another approach that can add stimulus to the economy that avoids or actually turns off the vacuum of the public sector. And that is actually something that might seem counterintuitive. And that is actually lowering taxes, Mr. Speaker. I would actually like to see us in a place, one day, when we can have full employment and a very productive economy. And then say, Okay. We are full employment, which is only going to come through lower taxes. Then we can have a discussion on how we can adjust our tax rates.

But in order to get to that point, we have to make that initial short-term sacrifice. And so, this is a tax on what we see, commercial property. And it equates, as the Minister said, with 3,000 properties, about $1,500 each, on average, so that is about $120.00 a month, on average, per property. So it is either that $120.00 a month that is going to be passed on to whoever is renting the property and/or the consumer, or the commercial property owner whose property is sitting idle—and there is many a, many a, many, many, many idle properties around today, commercial properties. That is just an additional burden!

And there is no way that can add confidence to the private sector, who at this time are penny-pinching. So this is a tax that will give short-term benefit with additional revenue, $4.1 million, but it can have long-term consequences, very similar to when we raised the payroll tax a few years ago—long-term consequences. Make no mistake, that was a mistake!

An Hon. Member: Yes. And we said as much. Yes, we said it was!

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: For the record, and here we are, we are taxing property. So, I cannot see how this could be a boost to anyone but, or anything but the Consolidated Fund. But I certainly could see how it can be a burden, not just to the property owners, but all those who will come into contact with that property—retailers, customers. It is just added cost, which, again, weakens the economy.

So, from whatever angle one may take, public stimulus or a very open approach of lower taxes so you can float, you can actually reverse the vacuum and float or make the tide turn so it can start going to high, you have to have lower taxes and less regulation, Mr. Speaker. If you are going to cut spending, then the other two have to be there also. You cannot just do one without the other two.

But the last thing you should do is implement austerity measures, which means you cut spending, and in the same breath you raise taxes. I just cannot see how that can have long-term (forget the short-term), long-term benefit to our economy.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak?

If not, then I return to the mover of the Bill, the Honourable E. T. Richards, Minister of Finance.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am trying to figure out where to start.

[Laughter]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Let me start by reflecting on one of the sort of sayings that we had in the investment business. There are a lot of sort of idioms and sayings that go on in trading rooms and investment rooms that are almost like old wives' tales that sound a bit silly, but have some sort of truth in them that has been learned for many, many generations.

When I was listening to the Honourable Members on the other side, the phrase that came to mind was, Catch a falling knife. In the investment business, Catch a falling knife means that, Beware of buying stocks that are going down. But it brings to mind what happens when you physically catch a falling knife. If you catch a falling knife, then you are likely to get cut, and you are likely to bleed and you are likely to get hurt.

Mr. Speaker, when the OBA took over the Government in 2012, we caught a falling knife. We caught a falling knife. I have said it many times, and I will say it again. The economy of Bermuda was in free-fall. It was a falling knife. But it was our job, our duty to catch that falling knife, to get cut, to bleed, but at the same time, to try to stop it from falling. And, Mr. Speaker, when you catch a falling knife, it does not just stop instantly. It keeps falling somewhat before you stop it from falling. And then you can start to raise it again.

You know, a vehicle does not just stop instantly falling down and then goes back up. It has to slow down going down, and then go up. That is what we have here. We have heard a lot of rhetoric tonight, but quite frankly, Mr. Speaker, in my opinion, the Honourable Members who are making all the noise seem to forget what they did to this economy. I mean, I do not know how somebody could hold himself out as an expert at budgeting or any group could hold themselves out as experts at budgeting . . . Yes! We budgeted for $267 [million], and it has turned out to be $299-point-something [million]. Okay? That is the reality. But, you know, I am looking at the budgeted numbers from the former Government, and what we have done pales in comparison! I look at their one, two, three, four, five, six years, the last six years of their administration, they missed their budget . . .

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

[Pause]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

In the last six years of their administration, they missed their budget targets, the first time, $54 million; secondly, $82 million; third, $111 million; fourth, $61 million; next time, $110 million; and lastly, $28 million. Right? Now, if this is a group of people who have got expertise in budgeting, I mean, give me a break! So they are not really in a position to lecture anybody when it comes to budget numbers and meeting or not meeting their targets!

The Honourable Member talked about lessons learned? But that is the lesson that I learned! Their performances are a marker of what not to do—what not to do. So, you know, talk about lessons learned? Yes, those are lessons that I learned. But one of the lessons that the Honourable Members on the other side have not learned, they are talking all this business about Keynesian economics. You know, economic theory is one thing. But, Mr. Speaker, let us move away from the theory. Let us talk about reality.

The reality is this Government has a national debt of about $2 billion! All this stuff about, We could have cut taxes to stimulate the economy! I mean, to use the Honourable Member's phrase, this is all fairy tales! We are a dot on the map that owes $2 billion! This is not chump change! This is a very serious threat. And at no time in any of the discourses from any of the Honourable Members from the other side do we even hear about that! It is like the debt does not exist to them! This is like some sort of textbook MBA theory class, where they get up there and it is a case study. And it does not have any consequences.

This is not an MBA or master's degree thesis or a case study. This is real life, with real debt for every man, woman and child in this country. Every one of them! So, you know, let us not get carried away with all of this theoretical rhetoric. They completely ignore the reality of the debt. And of course, they have a track record that shows that. They just kept borrowing and borrowing, running these huge overruns on the budget and just kept borrowing and borrowing. Talk about lessons learned? They have not learned their lesson from their mistakes yet, from what I am hearing! Have not learned the lesson that debt counts!

And I think I have made my case very clearly in the Budget Statement what the threat of this level of debt does to our future. And until the Opposition come to terms with debt, we cannot have this Economics 101 approach to managing the economy of this country. You have to address the risks, and the greatest risk to our future, to our financial independence is the national debt. I made that case umpteen times in the Budget Statement. I made it umpteen times so that if somebody missed it the first, second or third time, maybe they got it the fourth time—because it cannot be overemphasised. It is the clear and present danger that we face.

That is why we have to raise taxes. It is pure and simple. So, you know, we can have all of this sort of stuff. But it signifies nothing, Mr. Speaker, if you do not address the debt. Because that is what is driving all of this. And, Mr. Speaker, 90 per cent of that debt was the responsibility or is the responsibility of the now-Opposition, then-Government. They took over a Government that had a healthy economy, that had very little debt. They left office with the government accounts in shambles. I mean, there is no other word for it, in a complete shamble with the debt—up to the eyeballs in debt.

This Government was running about a $400 million deficit when we took over. And the Honourable Member says that the deficit has increased under my administration. It has not! It has not! It has come down. It has not come down as fast as I wanted it to. But it has not gone up. That is just complete mendacity—mendacity, Member. Complete mendacity! So, now, let us speak the truth up here. Okay?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: So, that is why we have to raise revenues, because the debt situation here is the most important problem.

The talk about cutting spending and raising revenue at the same time leaves out the most important component of our plan that we presented a week or so ago. And that important component is the stimulus that we are putting in. I have said this on television and anywhere I had a chance, we would have liked to have increased taxes from the time we got here, because we saw that we did not have enough revenue to run the government—did not have enough revenue—but we could not do it the first year. We could not do it the second year, because we were still working on how to stimulate the economy.

We have now figured that out. We have now presented a plan. The other side here, Mr. Speaker, want to either (a) ignore it, or (b) trash it!

An Hon. Member: Or both.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Or both. Well, you know, that is an error of omission, an error of omission. We have put in place very significant stimulus measures, and it is not the Economics 101 stimulus, by Government borrowing more money and spending it in the economy.

Quite frankly, Mr. Speaker, that kind of thing will never work in Bermuda—will never work in Bermuda. Even if this economy were healthy, it would not work in Bermuda. And the reason is because we import everything! You spend a dollar, Government borrows a dollar and spends that dollar in Bermuda. You know, 65 [per cent], 75 [per cent], 80 per cent of that dollar leaves Bermuda in the space of weeks! So where is the stimulus? The only thing we have got is that we borrowed a dollar. And we got, you know, maybe twenty-five [cents], thirty-five cents worth of stimulus, hardly anything.

That is why deficit financing for stimulative purposes in this economy, this small-Island economy, will never work. And for years, the former Government fooled themselves into thinking that all of this money that they were borrowing was stimulating the economy. Well, it was not happening here. They borrowed all this money, and the economy was still tanking. So that is proof positive that, if they had that idea, that that idea was wrong. But again, lessons have not been learned over there. They have not been learned. They are still stuck on, you know, I guess it was Paul Samuelson's Economics 101, still stuck there.

This is the real world, Mr. Speaker. It is not some sort of game. It is not a case study in an MBA class. It is the real world. We owe $2 billion real dollars! And that is the difference between the analysis we do over here and the analysis they do over there. That is the difference.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: We have doubled what? I hear chirping from the other side, Mr. Speaker, that we have doubled it in two years. I do not know what Island he is talking about; it must be Madagascar or, you know, someplace else.

I just know one thing, Mr. Speaker. When they took over the Government, the national debt was in the region of $160 million. And the Government was not running a deficit. When they left office, the Government was running a deficit of almost a half billion dollars a year, plus we had $2 billion in debt. So I do not know what that Honourable Member is taking about. He is not talking about Bermuda.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Okay. So, you know, let us not—

The Speaker: Honourable Members, let us all allow the Minister of Finance to speak.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Seeing that the Honourable Members like that word, I will use it again. Let us not deal with “mendacity”; let us deal with the truth!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order, Mr. Speaker! Point of order!

The Speaker: Thank you. Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: This is the second time the Honourable Member has made that comment, and I think he should withdraw it. He might as well just say we are liars. Now, if we are going to allow—

The Speaker: I do not . . . Tell you the truth, I do not understand what mendacity is.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, mendacity is a liar!

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And he needs to withdraw that!

The Speaker: I did not understand that. Right.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Well, maybe he did, Honourable Member.

[Laughter]

The Speaker: Yes. I played down the wrong line, did I?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, it is just like “prevarication,” just like “disingenuous.” It means all the same thing except it was not calling somebody a liar. I am not allowed to call somebody a liar, and I am not doing that. I am saying that they are mendacious, and that is a fact. Okay?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: There is a claim that the economy is weaker than it was before, or weaker than it was when we took over. This is sheer nonsense! All right? Just sheer nonsense. There is no question that confidence is much higher now than it was in December 2012. And if there was ever any evidence of that, the evidence is in the dollars. The evidence is in the dollars. The investment that we have had in Bermuda and the interest of investors in Bermuda is clear indication that we have caught the falling knife, we bled, but we stopped the knife from falling. And now people realise, Hey, that knife is a lot lower than it was. It is time to invest. It is time to invest because the knife is not falling anymore.

So, the fact that these things are happening here, that we have a list of people lined up to invest in Bermuda, that is the reason, if for no other reason . . . You do not even have to figure it out. Just look at what people who want to put skin in the game are doing. I mean, millions of dollars of skin in the game. If they are willing to put millions of dollars in Bermuda, something good is happening. The fact is, while the Opposition was the Government, those sources of funds dried up.

Now, somebody also mentioned (and it is my last point here) . . . they admitted that when they raised payroll taxes 2 per cent it was a mistake. But it does not appear that they have learned the essence of that mistake. The essence of that mistake, Mr. Speaker, was the lack of consultation. That was the essence of that mistake. [That] 2 per cent was a fairly big number for a rise in payroll tax, but they were desperate because the Government was bleeding big time. It was not bleeding; it was haemorrhaging—haemorrhaging at that time. So I understand why the Minister of the day wanted to do that. But they went about it the wrong way. There was a promise. It was an explicit—not an implicit . . . it was an explicit promise to consult with the private sector before a move like that would be made. And that promise was broken. And the reaction to being blindsided like that was severe.

Now, we are only proposing to raise taxes by a much more modest amount than that, much more modest. So we are doing [something] on both sides. We are cutting spending. And we are raising taxes. Now, if they want to say that that is “austerity,” I do not agree. If that was the only thing we were doing, it would be austerity.

But I will say this: It will be a fairly mild austerity compared to austerity programmes in other countries—very mild! But that is only half of the equation.

The other half of the equation is the inward direct investment stimulus, about $1 billion, that we are putting in place.

Now, I heard the Honourable Member, the Shadow Minister, say, Well, it only amounts to four point—What did you say?

Mr. E. David Burt: Four point six.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Only 4.6 per cent a year.

Mr. Speaker, for an economy that has contracted for six years, 4.6 [per cent] is Nirvana—4.6 [per cent] is Nirvana! So, you know, it may be only this, but it is heck of a lot better than what we have been doing, a heck of a lot better.

So I am quite pleased with the way we have structured this. There have been tough decisions. One of the Honourable Members talked about, Well, you know, we only could see all of these things in place first, and then we will make our move. But to me, Mr. Speaker, that is a statement borne out of inexperience. Because in the real world of investing, you never have all the information in front of you before you have to make that decision. You never, ever, ever have all the data points before you are forced to make that decision.

That is why decisions are tough. You make decisions in the face of uncertainty. That is what you do. So you cannot wait to have all the things lined up before you make them. You have to fire before everything is lined up. Because if you wait for everything to be lined up, it will always be too late—always!

So, I will end my remarks there, Mr. Speaker, and I would like to move that this Bill be now committed.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

It has been moved that the Bill be committed. Any objections to that?

The Chair will ask that the Deputy Speaker please take the Chair [of Committee].

House in Committee at 9:03 pm

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

COMMITTEE ON BILL

LAND TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Chairman: Honourable Members, we are now in Committee of whole [House] for further consideration of the Bill entitled Land Tax Amendment Act 2015.

I call on the Minister in charge to proceed. Minister, you have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, the Land Tax Amendment Bill 2015, seeks to amend the Land Tax Act 1967 to increase the rate of land tax in respect of valuation units other than private dwellings.

Clause 1 is self-explanatory.

Clause 2 amends section 2(b) of the Land Tax Act 1967 to increase the rate of land tax in respect of valuation units other than private dwellings from 4.4 per cent to 5.5 per cent of the annual rental value unit.

Clause 3 provides for the commencement of April 1st, 2015. And I have a slight amendment also, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Does everyone have copies of the amendment?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I think so.

The Chairman: Thank you.

AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 3

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: And the amendment is really for the clause 3 that I just read out. It would delete April 1st and substitute July 1st, 2015.

The Chairman: Are there any objections to the proposed amendment to clause 3? And that is to delete "1 April 2015" and substitute "1 July 2015."

No objections?
Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I move that these three clauses be approved.

The Chairman: No.

Are there any Members who would like to speak to clauses 1 through 3?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Oh. I am sorry.

The Chairman: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 29, Shadow Minister of Tourism. Honourable Zane J. S. De Silva, you have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you. Thank you, Madam [Chairman].

As was stated earlier, Madam [Chairman], I am not going to object, and we are not going to object on this side, because we know the position that the Government is in. I would just like to reiterate to the Minister that I would like him to consider looking at those who have multiple commercial buildings and look at seeing if we can generate some more revenue from some of these multiple owners.

There are many buildings in the city, in particular, that are owned by the same person or the same group of people or the same trust. And I think that this should be seriously looked at. And because of the revenues that are generated from these commercial buildings, Madam [Chairman], I do not think it would hurt them all that much, to be quite honest. And I think that that is something that the Minister and the OBA, the OBA Cabinet in particular, should be looking at.

I think whilst we are looking at land tax, we should look at multiple homeowners, Madam [Chairman]. You know, there are homeowners in this country, multiple homeowners, some of them 10, 20, 30, 40, 50 homes, whether it be trust or individuals or families. And I think that that is an opportunity there. If the Finance Minister is struggling for money . . . this particular tax, the Finance Minister says, is going to raise $4.5 million. Well, think of how many more millions of dollars he could earn for the coffers of the government if he were to look at [taxing] those multiple owners of commercial buildings and multiple owners of homes.

So I think it is something that should be looked at, and I think it should be seriously looked at. Because I think it can raise a hell of a lot of money for our people. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you

Are there any other Members who would like to speak to clauses 1 through 3?

There are no other Members.
Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I would just like to respond to the Honourable Member's suggestion about folks who have multiple properties, particularly multiple commercial properties. They pay multiple taxes! And they pay taxes on each one. So it is not as though they get a break. Although I would give the Member the undertaking that . . . you know, we are having a review of our tax system, and that could be part of the exercise. So, we are having a general review. It is not just payroll tax or not just customs duty. It is a general review. So, that would be part of that.

So, Madam Chairman, I would like to move the amended clause 3 and the other clauses.

The Chairman: It has been moved that clauses 1 through 3 be approved as amended.

Are there any objections to that motion?
No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: Clauses 1 through 3 passed as amended.]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I would like to move the Preamble.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Preamble be approved.

Are there any objections to that motion?
No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I would like to move that the Bill be reported to the House, as amended.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Bill be reported to the House, as amended.

Any objections to that motion?
No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Land Tax Amendment Act 2015 was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed as amended in clause 3.]

House resumed at 9:09 pm

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

LAND TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Speaker: Honourable Members, the Land Tax Amendment Act 2015 has been passed as amended.

We move to the next Order of the Day, which is the Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015, again in the name of the Minister of Finance. Minister Richards, you have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to now read the Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015 for the second time.

The Speaker: Are there any objections to that?

No objections. Carry on, Minister.

BILL

SECOND READING

PAYROLL TAX RATES AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Bill now before the House is the Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015. The purpose of this Bill is to increase the rates of payroll tax as set out in the Payroll Tax Rates Act 1995 and to extend the new Bermuda higher payroll tax relief for one more year to 2016.

As announced in the National Budget Statement, the standard rate of payroll tax is to be adjusted to 14.5 per cent in the oncoming fiscal year, an adjustment—or not adjustment, but an increase of 0.5 per cent. There will be a similar adjustment of 0.5 per cent for the majority of other rate categories.

While the salary cap on the payroll tax structure will remain at $750,000 in the coming year, the rate of tax recoverable from employees will be increased from 5.4 per cent to 5.5 per cent. This is so that the increase may be shared by both employer and employee. The Bill now before Honourable Members provides for this adjustment in payroll tax.

Mr. Speaker, the following categories will not be affected by the increase:

1. an educational, sporting or scientific institution, association or society which, in the Minister's opinion, is carried on otherwise than for the purpose of gain by its individual members;

2. a self-employed person carrying on business as a taxi driver or a fisherman or a farmer or horticulturalist;
3. an employer or self-employed person with an annual payroll of less than $200,000.

The rate of payroll tax for these categories of business will remain at 7.25 per cent.

Mr. Speaker, payroll concessions currently in place for hospitality, restaurant and retail sectors will be partially rolled back in 2015/16, with businesses in these sectors paying a rate of 5.5 per cent. It is up to the employers in these sectors to decide how much of this rollback will be transferred to employees.

Mr. Speaker, it should be noted that the rollback of these particular concessions is applied administratively and are not provided for in this Bill. These concessions were never meant to be permanent, and the Government is now looking to reduce them. Since these concessions have been in place, Government has forgiven $121 million in payroll tax. The yield from the revised rate structure and partial rollback for payroll tax concessions is estimated at $353 million in the coming fiscal year.

Mr. Speaker, this Bill also provides for the extension of the extremely successful New Bermuda Hire Initiative that was introduced in 2013. This initiative is due to expire in March 2015. It is worth noting that this tax incentive has helped create 400 new jobs during its—

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Member?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, as we have stated numerous times before, the Honourable Member is misleading the House. There cannot be creation of new jobs from the payroll tax rebate, as was put in place. These are jobs that exist in the economy that are done. They are not new jobs, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, that is not true.

The Speaker: Carry on, please.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: We have an initiative that requires employers to prove to the Tax Commissioner that this is a new job.

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. E. David Burt: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. The requirement from the Office of Tax Commissioner is to prove that the individual receiving the tax break has been unemployed for three months.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: That means it is a new job!

[Laughter]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Good Lord! The person has been unemployed for three months, and they are being employed. That is creating a new job! All right?

Mr. Speaker, unlike previous years, the 2015/16 Budget includes significant increases in various taxes, including this increase in payroll tax. In strategic terms, there are a number of reasons for this departure.

Firstly, it has been determined that the deficit will not be broken by spending cuts alone. Increased revenues will be necessary.

Secondly, the strategy is based on the expected state of the economy as opposed to the past, or even the current economic situation. With the major stimulus measures already outlined, about 20 per cent of GDP in one to three years, we are confident the economy will be able to withstand the attenuating effects of tax increases on growth.

Thirdly, there are additional expenditures that Government will have to make in preparation to host the America's Cup, expenditures that will have to be financed. They have to be financed from tax revenue as much as possible, instead of being financed by additional long-term debt.

Mr. Speaker, one of the guiding principles of this Government is that we believe in the macroeconomic benefits of low taxes. Low taxes leave more money in people's pockets, thereby encouraging spending and investment, both of which contribute to economic growth. However, taxes should not be so low that the government does not have sufficient money to fulfil its responsibilities, responsibilities such as providing good schools, safe neighbourhoods, affordable health care, sound infrastructure, and care and protection for seniors.

It should be noted that, even with this proposed tax increase and others included in this budget, Bermuda's revenues as a per cent of GDP are one of the lowest among small-island economies and are not high enough to achieve or maintain long-term fiscal stability.

Mr. Speaker, Government therefore has requested the assistance of CARTAC (the Caribbean Regional Technical Assistance Centre), which is an IMF [International Monetary Fund] regional body, to study the feasibility of broadening Bermuda's tax base.

Mr. Speaker, this increase in payroll tax and other taxes should in no way be interpreted as a change in policy with regard to Government's commitment to reduce expenditures. Although we are not budgeting to attain our 5 per cent reduction target for 2015/16, our targets proposed right now are a 33.1 [per cent] reduction in current account spending compared to 2014/15.

Mr. Speaker, the reality is that the current revenue streams cannot pay for the government as it is presently structured and sized, and it is vital that Government continue its fiscal consolidation strategy of reducing primary current account spending over the next several years and enhancing revenue through policies that generate income from economic growth and other revenue streams. This proposal is part of that strategy.

Mr. Speaker, in conclusion, I would like to advise this Honourable House that in the lead-up to the 2015/16 budget, the Ministry of Finance consulted with the Chamber of Commerce, the Bermuda Hotels Association, the Association of Bermuda International Companies, the Association of Bermuda Insurers and Reinsurers on these tax increases in the lead-up to the presentations to the budget. In the spirit of collaboration, the Government considers it important to meet with these key stakeholders on this important matter.

With those introductory remarks, Mr. Speaker, I would now like this Bill, the Payroll Tax Rate Amendment Act, to be read a second time.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

The Chair will recognise first the Leader of the Opposition, from constituency 26. MP Marc Bean, you have the floor.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

We listened intently to the Finance Minister's brief. And again, as I began my remarks for the Land Tax Amendment Act, all I can say is, my oh my. My oh my. We, in the previous debate, admitted for the umpteenth time that we made an error when we were Government when we raised the payroll tax. It was a mistake that I think everyone can see the evidence of.

But here, we have the Minister saying, No, that was not the mistake, raising it. The mistake was that you did not consult. Mr. Speaker, it does not matter how many consultations you have with the business community, or actually the citizens of this country or any country. You could consult till the cows jump over the moon. They will still not be in favour of tax raises. So it is not about whether we consulted or not.

It is the principle of raising tax and raising tax on something we need the most, which is employment! How counterproductive is that? How short-term is that, Mr. Speaker? You are taxing what we are actually seeking! So you are actually putting the green light up for further job losses. Again, it is counterproductive, Mr. Speaker.

I wonder what our revenue would be . . . because the Minister mentioned that the One Bermuda Alliance subscribes to the macroeconomic theory that lower taxes stimulate economic growth. I wonder what our revenue will be with full employment and additional persons on-Island at a lower tax rate? Let us say half of what the payroll tax is today? I would suggest that the revenue will be higher. And because the vacuum, the power of the vacuum is lower, then you will find that the economy will be more vibrant. And some would say, How could that be?

Let me break it down for people who might not be able to relate.

If you are a concert promoter and you charge $100.00 for a concert and 1,000 people come, you are going to make $100,000. But if you charge $50.00 and 3,000 people come through the gate, you would make $150,000, plus all your vendors will make more money because you have got more people at the concert. So, for the promoter who is trying to get rich quick, he would charge $100.00. But a government who is, over the short term, trying to get or raise revenue, they will raise taxes. But in fact, it actually might be wiser to reduce the area of tax that has the most effect or has the greatest effect on the area of our society that needs as much boost from the government as possible.

The Minister of Finance is playing a violin. Mr. Speaker, guess what else he goes on to say? Because if payroll tax was so cool as a result of consultation, then why was Ms. Kristi Grayson (that is her name), Pulp and Circumstance (she represents the Chamber of Commerce), the day before the budget, I would just say appealing for no new taxes or new tax hikes? If you consulted somebody, why is the spokesperson for the Chamber of Commerce lobbying through the Royal Gazette the day before the budget, for no tax hikes? Who did you consult then, if it is not the Chamber of Commerce?

An Hon. Member: Oh! That is a good question.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: That is interesting.

An Hon. Member: Very interesting indeed.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Also, Mr. Speaker, the Minister spoke of government stimulus cannot work on a small Island like this. And, you know, in theory, in principle, government stimulus, some would say is counterproductive to an economy, period—some. So he says that we cannot borrow more money, and Shadow Minister Burt's ideas cannot work, they do not make sense. But what has the One Bermuda Alliance done in terms of their so-called stimulus?

Well, let us see. The first two, and the [one] that probably comes up on the radar screen the quickest is the America's Cup, which, you know, naturally you think we are going to have to borrow $77 million. But no, the Minister said we are going to raise taxes to finance it. He gave a list of all these other areas of where these raised taxes will be allocated towards, but he forgot to mention, or he forgot that he mentioned, two sentences prior, that he was going to raise taxes. This was part of—the raising of the payroll tax is to fund the America's Cup!

But how about Morgan's Point, which is one [on that] list of 20 per cent GDP stimulus, or $980,000? First you had an insurance company come out and said, We are giving Morgan's Point $5 million. And everyone got excited, and the Royal Gazette jumped up on it, and it was part of this confidence fairy that they were trying to cultivate. But lo and behold, the Minister gets up and says that the Government went and guaranteed a multi-million, probably billion-dollar insurance company's investment in Morgan's Point! He guaranteed it! What type of special privileges is that? Humph!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Oh, it is special privileges. It is Government stimulus through borrowing. And then, you gave Morgan's Point directly $125 million guarantee and then increased it up to $160 million! And you have the nerve to get up in here and try to refute my Finance Shadow Minister's idea about stimulus when you are doing the same thing? The Minister of Finance talks out of both sides of his mouth!

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Point of order.

The Speaker: Please take your seat, Honourable Member.

Yes, Minister?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. Guaranteeing money and borrowing money are two different things. He is mixing up apples and oranges, as usual.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you.
MP?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: When your back is up against the wall, your fancy accounting comes to the fore.

[Inaudible interjections and general uproar]

[Gavel]

The Speaker: Honourable Members!

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I know, when we offered a guarantee to Butterfield Bank, we were accused of adding to the debt burden, directly or indirectly. But under the OBA Government, it is some magical type of accounting and economics that apply. But the fact of the matter is that the same thing the Minister tries to refute that my Shadow Finance Minister is, Mr. Speaker—he is doing the exact same thing, Mr. Speaker.

So again, it goes back to the original premise that the ideas of the Minister of Finance over this last year have proven to be void! Proven to be empty! And yet, still they refuse to accept any ideas to diversify the economy. I cannot believe the Minister speaks about revenue-generating initiatives in the form of raising taxes. That is not the sign of a business-minded leader. That is the sign of a status, someone who likes the power of Government, who likes to turn on the vacuum, Mr. Speaker!

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: They are mixing oil and water!

I do not know what ideology they follow. It is a quo fata ferunt, whatever may work, wherever the wind may blow us, wherever the tide may take us. That is the economic policy that we are being subjected to—or not subjected to; I am sorry. That is too strong. That is the economic policy that the Minister of Finance is applying. And he just cannot handle being held to account. As soon as we put up the mirror to say, Hey, it is time to be held to account, Mr. Crystal Ball, Minister Crystal Ball Richards, he then says—

The Speaker: Honourable Member, Honourable Member. The Honourable Member.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: All right. I withdraw that.

Minister Richards is starting to be held to account, what does he do and what do all the OBA bloggers, all of them . . . Oh, when the PLP was in power, when they are doing rae, rae, rae . . . rae, rae, rae. Twenty-seven months later, and you have the audacity to be over there playing a violin! Humph!

Well, that song, that dance is boring. The people are hurting! The people had hope and trust in what you had to say pre-December 2012, and you have been found wanting. You have been weighed up in the scales, Mr. Speaker, of the people of this country and you have been found wanting. You are not all that you cut out yourself to be or what your supporters make you out to be.

So, it would be good if we could humble ourselves and cooperate and add one or two areas of diversification. Then we would not have to turn on the vacuum cleaner and further weaken this economy. I am tired of hearing the excuses of the One Bermuda Alliance. I sit across from them every Friday. And quite frankly, I am not impressed, maybe because I do not read the Royal Gazette too much; maybe because I am so close.

But I am trying to understand how, outside of blaming the PLP and saying that, Oh, you did this and you did that . . . You shirk your responsibility for leadership again when you repeat that narrative! And the people are listening, because they realise that we have a rudderless ship right now. Yes, the captains, they do not have the right navigation instruments right now. It is clear. There is confusion in the cockpit, Mr. Speaker. The wrong coordinates have been punched in, Mr. Speaker.

And with ego and arrogance, they refuse to change course or see their ways. But, no. The business community, they do not have to say a word. They do not have to scream and shout, because if it was us, they would have been crying. But if you were at the Chamber of Commerce breakfast and you looked at the faces of those folks in there, that told the story. A picture, a thousand words it speaks. It told the whole story. They will not say it, yes. Because of political circumstances and expediency, they will not say it. They would rather be burdened with additional payroll taxes. They would rather, as business owners, be burdened with additional costs.

Let us not even speak about the additional costs on labour! What about the worker in this country? I am not even speaking about just the civil service or Government. What about every worker in this country? You are trying to be a vacuum cleaner. Do you not think that they would prefer to have that extra income in their pocket that could spur spending, spur demand?

One thing the Minister of Finance, as a Keynesian, he is demand driven. But yet he is killing demand! Humph! And you are talking about you are sharp and whatnot. There is nothing about the One Bermuda Alliance that is sharp. I did not even have to say it. Actions speak louder than words. And this is just a continuation of it. So, the Progressive Labour Party, on principle, stands against this increase in payroll tax.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Deputy Leader of the Opposition and the Shadow Minister of Finance, from Pembroke West Central, constituency 18. MP Burt, you have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I just am enjoying this debate. I enjoy debating with the Minister of Finance, because I am able to throw his “mendacity” right back at him. Because I find it absolutely amazing that . . .

The Speaker: And I have got to say . . . I have got to say this, Honourable Member. I read the dictionary.

[Laughter]

The Speaker: I went to the dictionary afterwards, because I am a teacher. And we are not going to have that language any more.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: No?

The Speaker: No more. Now that I know, now that I have learned myself up.

[Pause]

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

So, I will look to the Professor Walton Brown on this side to come with another word, possibly.

But what I would say is, Mr. Speaker, that the misleading comments that were coming from the Minister of Finance, it is my pleasure to stand up here and discuss them. Because the thought that the Minister of Finance would talk about this whole big thing, and bang his chest, talking about how we are going to get international investment, and we are going to do it. It was even in his brief he got it wrong! Mr. Speaker, 4.6 per cent on an annual basis is good, yes. But do not say that it is 20 per cent when it is not. We have to understand that! It is simple. Make the case, and let the case stand on its merits. No need to bump up the numbers.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes. Yes, Minister.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Budget Statement clearly said 20 per cent over three years. Clearly! It did not say per year over three years. It clearly said 20 per cent over three years. I know it because I wrote it!

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, thank you. Honourable Member.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

And I know it, because I read it! And let me read what it says.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: It says, “For an economy whose GDP is about $5 billion, a stimulus of almost $1bn, or 20%, is massive.”

Now, if you’re going to go with a $5 billion GDP—GDP for $5 billion is one year, Mr. Minister of Finance. It is not three. So I understand your point. But these are the numbers, okay? And the GDP is not $5 billion; it is $5.6 billion. We want to get our figures correct. We want to get our figures correct. So we will start there, Mr. Speaker, because we hear so many things.

But on this point, because this is the best point of all, we hear this thing about investment, and investors lined up at the door. Well, Mr. Speaker, let us go through this list of investments, shall we? Because if the Minister of Finance is saying that we are going to justify our payroll tax raise because we are going to have all this investment come in, let us go through this list.

The first one, America’s Cup, Mr. Speaker. The Government is spending money and getting a return—a novel concept. But let us not call that “investment.” Let us not talk about it as people that are coming here to build hotels. It is economic activity which will come into Bermuda. It is not a question of investment.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: The investment that is being made for the America’s Cup—

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

The Speaker: All right. Order, order, gentlemen!

Mr. E. David Burt: The investment that is being made in the America’s Cup is the money that is going to be spent by the Bermudian people to build the infrastructure. That is the investment, Mr. Speaker, the $250 million, of which we still do not know where it is coming from, is not investment. It is money that should be a result of hosting the event here, the economic impact. So let us not call it investment.

But, Mr. Speaker, let us move on to the airport.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Honourable Members, you have had your opportunity. Minister!

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Just a minute, Honourable Member.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: You have an objection, then you can certainly make an objection.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I have a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Or a point of order.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Yes.

The Speaker: I recognise the Honourable Dr. Gibbons.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Yes. The Honourable Member is misleading the House. The investment is coming, certainly partly, from Government. But it is also coming, as any Honourable Member can see by going up to Dockyard, there is already a base being built up there that is investment that is coming from one of the teams. They are putting up a building. There are other teams that will be putting up buildings, and there is other investment which will be made by the America's Cup Event Authority and others.

So it is simply incorrect to say the investment, the capital spending, is only coming from the Bermuda Government. That is not true.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you, Minister.

Mr. E. David Burt: Oh, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, but is it not interesting that that money is coming from the money of which we are giving them?

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: So the Minister can make up this story. The Minister can tell and put the nice pretty picture on it. But the whole thought about, because we heard that thing that they are banging down the door looking for investment, that they are banging down the door and they were not doing it before.

Mr. Speaker, the America's Cup is here because we made a better deal and a better offer than the other people. They are not banging down the door because the OBA became the Government. They were not, Mr. Speaker.

Now, let us talk about the airport. Let us talk about the $255 million that is investment of investors banging down the door. Come on, Mr. Speaker! If I were to tell you that I am going to give you a guarantee revenue stream to go ahead and develop a new terminal and give you airport departure tax and give you this and give you that and give you control over the revenues, there are a whole lot of people who would bang down the door for that, Mr. Speaker, because it is a return, a guaranteed return! So the thought that there is any risk that is being taken on by this investor, that they are banging down the door and saying, Oh, the investment environment is so good in Bermuda, we need to come there, and all the rest . . . So this $1 billion, Mr. Speaker, is now going to be cut in half. Now it is 500!

But let us move on, shall we, Mr. Speaker? Let us move on to the rich reserve of $160 million. Guess what, Mr. Speaker? There is a $160 million Government guarantee on that investment. If the PLP wanted to put investment, well, we can extend a $1 billion guarantee and tell anyone who wants to build a hotel that we will guarantee the construction. We would have a whole lot of hotels being built. And then, we may have a whole lot of hotels fail, because it does not fix the problem, Mr. Speaker. You cannot claim $160 million as investors banging down the door when you are giving them a guarantee on their construction costs, Mr. Speaker. Because if they were banging down the door, you would not need the guarantee!

An Hon. Member: Exactly.

Mr. E. David Burt: So let us not even go there, Mr. Speaker.

Then, let us go to the project in St. George's, St. Regis, Mr. Speaker. Now, Mr. Speaker, I will admit I do not know that there is a Government guarantee. One might be coming, though. We never know, because we have found out about the one for Ritz. It did not come here first. We found out somewhere else.

But . . . but . . . but, Mr. Speaker, we know that if you are going to tell someone that you can build a hotel on a vacant piece of land, get a nice long lease and you might get a casino to go with it, then you are going to get some investment into this country. Because what happened is that we did not have casino gaming until 2014. And note that there was no movement until casino gaming! So this whole thing about, We are going to . . . They are breaking down the walls and banging down the door because something has changed . . . Yes, Mr. Speaker. We passed the Casino Gaming Act, which was unanimously opposed when we tried to bring it in 2010 by the Members on the front bench, the same ones, Mr. Speaker, who passed it, by the United Bermuda Party—my apologies. You were once the Chair of the United Bermuda Party, though, the Minister of Tourism. I am not going to let you off the hook that easy. I am not going to let you off the hook that easy.

What I will say, Mr. Speaker, is, so that goes to the whole wonderful argument of this $1 billion and banging down the door. Okay? Because, Mr. Speaker, it is not. So this whole thing about, we are going to get all this investment, and we are going to do it by giving Government guarantees and guaranteed revenue streams in the airport? And this is somehow what we are basing our economic plan on? It is short-term, Mr. Speaker, but it is not long-term, because that $255 million stimulus will turn into a long stream of payments to a Canadian company. We can do the short-term, but there is a question of the long-term.

But, Mr. Speaker, let us move to this whole wonderful thing about the creation of 400 new jobs! Now, we know, Mr. Speaker, that is not correct. And the Minister's explanation of it was even more amusing. Because the fact that he is trying to equate an unemployed person getting a job to a new job in the economy being created is nonsense. Because if there is a job, and someone retires and an unemployed person for three years takes that job because the person is retired, there are the same amount of jobs in the economy, Mr. Speaker! There is no new job being created!

An Hon. Member: Why do you not ask that person who got the job!

[Inaudible interjections and general uproar]

[Gavel]

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, we have heard many times that the Government talks about the wonders of their payroll tax relief, which, by the way, Mr. Speaker, would have been a very big drain on the government purse if it was not for this PLP Opposition, which put in place and suggested an amendment, which was taken up by the Minister, that he should limit it to those persons who are unemployed. Because the regular turnover in the economy would have seen lots of people become eligible for that.

But let us look, because remember when we heard about this figure last year, Mr. Speaker? Last year, Mr. Speaker.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Minister. Minister. Minister, you will have an opportunity to rebut whatever you need to when you get a chance.

Carry on.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I hear the Honourable Minister of Economic Development revving up the Honourable Minister of Finance, saying, Flog him! I look forward to the flogging. Because I am going to give a little bit of flogging myself this evening, Mr. Speaker, because I am going to give it.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: Because the inconvenient truths are that the picture that the Minister is painting is not exactly what it seems, Mr. Speaker.

Now, let me move on to this whole thing about, you know, We are cutting the budget. The last budget under the Progressive Labour Party, the budget deficit was $225 million. Would anybody like to guess what it was under the first OBA? It was $299 million, Mr. Speaker! But we hear, We are cutting the deficit.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Point of order.

The Speaker: Yes, Minister.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. There is no way I am taking the minus-credit for your deficit! That was your deficit, Honourable Member, not the OBA Government's!

The Speaker: Okay. Thank you.
Carry on.

Mr. E. David Burt: Well, Mr. Speaker, it is interesting that he is not going to take credit for our deficit, the [$225] million one. But will he take credit for the $299 million one that he put in place this year?

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay! So last time I checked, 299 was a little bit higher than 225. Oh! Okay, Mr. Speaker. Let me proceed.

Let me go on. Because the next thing, talking about how 90 per cent of the debt belongs to the PLP—nonsense, Mr. Speaker, complete nonsense. Because before the Minister took over, the net debt was at [$]1.5 [billion]. Now the net debt is at $2 billion. And anyone knows that five divided . . . well, I know the Minister is slow at math. So I am going to break it down for him now.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: I will break it down for him right now, Mr. Speaker. That when you have 15 and 20, or 1.5 and 20, that is 25 per cent. So, Mr. Minister of Finance, do us all a favour and get your figures correct.

Now, Mr. Speaker, let us talk, because the Minister spoke about reality. That is what he said. He is like, We are not dealing with an Economics 101 lesson. We are talking about reality. The reality is, Mr. Speaker, that there are 790 less jobs in this economy than there were last year. The reality is there are less local businesses paying payroll tax than there were last year. The reality is there are less exempt companies paying payroll tax than there were last year. The fact is the economy is weaker than it was last year.

And for the Minister of Finance to think that it has absolutely nothing to do with his budget, for the Minister of Finance to think that he can cut tourism spending to the lowest level in 34 years and think that it has nothing to do with the fact that our air arrivals were the lowest in 48 [years] shows that the Minister of Finance is not dealing with reality. Because whether it is an economic textbook or whether it is what actually happens, those are the facts, Mr. Speaker.

Now, let me talk, because we have heard about tough times, Mr. Speaker. Well, guess what? The Minister of Finance made tough times tougher.

An Hon. Member: Tougher! Much tougher!

Mr. E. David Burt: That is what his budget should have read: Tough Times Being Made Tougher. Because the whole thought and question that the Government cannot make investments to boost economic growth is nonsense. I am not saying the Government just runs around and does consumption, because, yes, Minister of Finance, you are correct. The multiplier effect inside of an economy that does not have a large level of domestic production is not going to be as pronounced. But the SAGE Commission said that our multiplier effect was 1.28. So there is a multiplier effect. It exists. That is clear, unless the Minister of Finance wants to argue against his own SAGE report.

But you do not spend for the sake of spending, Mr. Speaker. As I said in my Reply, you have to make targeted investments that yield a return. When we talk about investments that yield return, Mr. Speaker, we talk about investments like the America's Cup. We talk about investments like investments in tourism. Yes, Mr. Speaker, they may show up on current spending. But they boost our economy and give us a return, Mr. Speaker. That is what happens, Mr. Speaker.

So now, let me move on to what I was actually going to say before I got that lesson about reality. Because the Minister of Finance said it was his job to catch the knife. But, Mr. Speaker, after he caught the knife, he just felt it nice to drop it with the other hand and catch it in the other one, Mr. Speaker.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: Because he made it worse! He made it worse, Mr. Speaker. And he has not come here and given any explanation as to why the budget deficit is larger. He has not come up here and given any explanation why they had to revise, grow figures downwards.

He has not given any explanation! He has not taken one bit of responsibility for the fact that the economy is weaker! What does he do, Mr. Speaker? It is the PLP's fault!

An Hon. Member: Well, it is!

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, there we have it. Mr. Speaker, let me continue, please.

What this payroll tax raise shows today is the effects of the poor decision-making of the Minister of Finance. Because the Minister of Finance says that you do not always have all the information when you are there to make the decision. And that is true. You may not always have all the information. But the fact of the matter is, Mr. Speaker, if you get it wrong, at least admit it. If the economy gets worse under your watch, at least take some responsibility for it. Make sure you understand. Because right now, we are looking at raising this revenue figure and we are still not meeting the Minister's targets that he set last year. Because the Minister was expecting somehow that there would be more economic growth than there was! How, when he cut off the things that could have caused any economic growth, Mr. Speaker? How? Really? Reducing tourism spending to the lowest level in 34 years?

We heard the BTA [Bermuda Tourism Authority] talking about, they have got a 16-for-1 return on their tourism investment. A 16-to-1 return, Mr. Speaker! I mean, that is better than putting your money in Morgan's Point, which is guaranteed by the Government! You are getting a 16-to-1 return! So why would we not invest more money in things that give a return? Last year, we heard this wonderful thing about the payroll tax concessions. Last year, I was attacked for suggesting that we roll back the payroll tax concessions. Attacked! What do we see this year, Mr. Speaker? The Honourable Minister of Finance taking my advice!

An Hon. Member: Timing is everything, is it not?

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: Taking my advice, because last year, he said, Oh! You know what will happen? It will cost jobs! So, what has changed, Minister of Finance? Why is it now acceptable to cost jobs, Minister of Finance? Okay. Okay. Okay.

Moving on. Mr. Speaker, I am hearing the wonderful Minister of Finance continue to shout across the bow, the stimulus, the stimulus, the stimulus. Well, Mr. Speaker, we will see about the stimulus. We will see, because yes, we would like things to be better in the economy. Yes, we would like there to be growth in the economy. But the fact is, Mr. Speaker, that the Finance Minister's budget last year put us in the position where we are going to have to raise taxes on everyone this year, Mr. Speaker. Everyone! Everyone who pays payroll tax, everyone who pays BELCO, everyone who drives a car, everyone who has a bike, everyone who travels, anyone who . . . That is what happens, Mr. Speaker, when you get it wrong.

So now, when you are faced here with the repercussions of a bad budget, the problem is, Mr. Speaker, that you do not get to have a do-over. You do not get to go back. You have to build on the bad decisions of which you have made. So now that we find ourselves in a deeper hole than we were supposed to be a part of, now we see that we are having to do things that we do not want to do. The Minister of Finance even admitted that he did not want to raise payroll tax. But we are going to do things that we do not have to do in order to try to appease our creditors.

Now, here is what I will say, Mr. Speaker. The Minister admits that taxes will make our economy weaker. So here we go. It is like déjà vu all over again. We are taxing, as the Honourable Leader of the Opposition said, taxing the very thing that we need—more employment. That is where we find ourselves today, Mr. Speaker. That is what we find ourselves coming up against.

So, he is trying to say things. He is trying to say that, You know, I am forced into doing it. I have to do it. This is just something that we have to do to be responsible. But, Mr. Speaker, I will continue to argue that it is not something that he would have had to do if he would have gotten it right last year. The fact is, Mr. Speaker, that the budget last year put us in this position and forced the Finance Minister's hand. Because I can assure you, when he made his budget projections last year, Mr. Speaker, he was not planning any payroll tax increase. I can assure you of that, Mr. Speaker. Because he was only forecasting a 3 per cent increase in revenue. He was not forecasting this huge increase in revenue of which he is forecasting right now, which he has had to forecast, which he has had to put into place to raise the revenue numbers. That is the truth, Mr. Speaker.

Because when the growth in the economy is not what you want, when you do not have as many tourists coming into your shores, when you do not have as much domestic activity and when you lose 790 jobs, you are going to get less tax revenue, less customs duty revenue, less revenue all across the board, which makes your economy weaker and forces you into the position of raising taxes to satisfy your creditors, to demonstrate some type of fiscal responsibility.

Well, Mr. Speaker, we have been down that road before, and we know how it ended. And we are still here. We are still here, still in this cycle of trying to break out.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I want to make sure that I close with this, because the Minister of Finance spoke about, No one ever talks about the debt. Mr. Speaker, the debt is there. Everybody sees it. Everybody knows it is there. We all have to be worried about the debt.

The Minister of Finance said he repeated it multiple times in his Budget Statement that the debt is our biggest thing that we have to face. And in my Budget Reply, I agreed with him, Mr. Speaker! The fact is, Mr. Speaker, the question is not with the debt. The question is, How are we going to get ourselves to a balanced budget?

Now, there are two competing ideologies. There are two competing facts. The one thing which we can admit is that, yes, investment will help. But the other thing that we can admit is that tax increases are not going to help us. That job losses are not going to help us. That reducing productive investment is not going to create the space for growth. I would like to quote, if I can, Mr. Speaker, one more time. And this is from the pre-Budget Report of 2012. And it laid it out, Mr. Speaker, of what happens when you make cuts.

If I can, Mr. Speaker, I am going to quote. I am reading from my Budget Reply, but it is also from the pre-Budget, which was in 2012, which was tabled in this House. It says (and I quote, Mr. Speaker), "Budget cuts have often reduced productive investment spending rather than cutting into inefficiencies in service delivery, which undermines future fiscal capacity to service debt."

So what that is saying, Mr. Speaker, is if you do not get your budget cuts right, you make it harder to cut debt in the future. That is the situation we find ourselves in. That is the situation we find ourselves in, raising taxes.

We will go on, Mr. Speaker.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. E. David Burt: Go ahead.

"However, transferring spending from ineffective to effective uses can improve the trade-off in later budgets by boosting future growth and future revenue and collections thus increasing future fiscal space. This had led the International Monetary Fund to broaden its focus from fiscal adjustment based on cutting aggregate spending and, unavoidably, jobs, to a broader focus on re-prioritising spending so as to enhance future fiscal space and future options for cutting debt."

That, Mr. Speaker, is the trade-off. That, Mr. Speaker, is the advice that was received by the Ministry of Finance. That, Mr. Speaker, is the advice that this Honourable Minister of Finance has decided that he does not need to follow. He believes that he has it better than all the financial economists, financial economists at the IMF. He believes that he can change the laws of economics. Mr. Speaker, the laws of economics are clear. And the laws state that if you raise taxes, and if you cut productive spending, you will make your economy weaker. So said, so done. And right here today, we find ourselves paying for the Minister's bad decision last year, Mr. Speaker. We oppose this tax increase because it is not the right move for the economy, and we would hope that the Minister of Finance would get some sense and possibly pull back on this decision. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Premier. Premier Dunkley, you have the floor.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good evening to the listening audience.

As the Member who just spoke before me said, I am enjoying this debate. I too am enjoying this debate because it clearly shows major differences in understanding of the economy and how it works.

The further difference, Mr. Speaker, is that Members on that side have a record of failure.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: And so when they do not like the truth . . . they can keep talking. But I am not going to stop.

They have a record of failure. Their record clearly shows (and I will get there in a minute) . . . This Chamber is hot tonight because it is full of a lot of hot air coming from that side, and there is no circulation of air. There have been loud voices with very little substance in this debate.

Mr. Speaker, they are devoid of any economic sense—an Opposition that is devoid of any ideas that hold any water, an Opposition that is devoid of reality, and an Opposition Leader who can just stand there and play childish little games.

Mr. Speaker, I find it interesting, because the Honourable Member who just finished speaking sat in the other side, sat in the House down the hill as the Junior Minister of Finance, and for years argued a failing economic policy. He supported the increase of debt and the increase of deficit every year like it was gold, like it was the right way to go. And now he has flipped that coin and he has changed the other side, Mr. Speaker. It is amazing to me how that can take place. It is amazing. I remember—

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. E. David Burt: Is the Honourable Premier . . . he is misleading the House. Is he saying that I have somehow retracted my remarks from what I said in the past? I do not believe that I have changed anything from what I said before.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.
Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Speaker, if he needs a little bit of help tonight, the Honourable Member, I am happy to help him out.

Down in the Senate, when questions were raised by Opposition Members and Independent Members about debt and the increasing debt and deficit, he refused to even listen and give it the credibility that it had there. We just kept moving forward on the debt.

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

If the Honourable Premier has knowledge of the situation, he should at least give proof and evidence. Because he is talking about something that may or may not have happened in another place, which is not the recollection I have. So I would hope that he would at least be able to back up his talk with some facts.

The Speaker: All right, Honourable Member.
Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: The Honourable Member had just interrupted with a point of order that had no substance to it. The fact of the matter is we can go back and look at the debate.

Every year the debt went up and he did not say anything about it. And I will go through the numbers again, because the record clearly does not show what those Members are trying to say.

But before I get there, let me just reflect back a bit on what the Honourable Member said—because he contradicts himself. And the Hansard will show this in a couple of days. First, he talks about the America's Cup is not an investment. I heard that loud and clear. And then within about 30 or 40 seconds of that comment, the Honourable Member said that the infrastructure was an investment. And then about four minutes, five minutes down the road, he goes, Oh, but the investment in the America's Cup . . . I mean, we were going around in a circle, like a dog chasing its tail not knowing what—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order. Point of order.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: In his attempt to spin, the Premier is misleading the House.

The Speaker: Why is that?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Did he actually listen to what he just said? He agreed with our position!

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: The America's Cup is a stimulus!

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: That's Don Grearson's book.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you. Honourable Member, thank you.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Another weak point of order that . . . the Opposition Leader should just sit there and listen for a bit, like I did when he was talking.

The America's Cup is obviously something that Bermuda is proud to get and will help Bermuda going forward. There is no doubt about that.

The second point about the airport, the Honourable Member and Members on that side want to complain vociferously about the airport. And we are trying to move the project forward, and it is still in the infancy stages. And I have to reflect back on the hospital, Mr. Speaker. What about the hospital, where the former Government wanted to build the new hospital, and then they were going to take part of the Botanical Gardens. And there was a whole [hue] and cry about using the Botanical Gardens, so they had to stop, had to put the brakes on, drop the anchor, whatever you want to say, and develop it another way.

So, we go out into this PPP [public/private partnership] for 30 years and build a hospital that many people question the suitability for the facility that was left there. Where are they saying anything about the $330 million that we have to pay to fund the hospital—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of information.

The Speaker: Yes. You want to give way for a point of information, Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I am, sure.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Would the Honourable Premier remind me, because it might have slipped my mind, did the hospital go out to tender?

The Speaker: Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: It is a point of information. I will just continue on with where I am going. I am sure he can look up the answer to that.

And why do I say that, Mr. Speaker? Because clearly, the airport is something that we need to invest in to keep our infrastructure in an appropriate condition. These guys want to pooh-pooh all these initiatives—

The Speaker: Honourable Members.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: They want to make—

The Speaker: Honourable Members or the Opposition.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: The Honourable Members, yes.

The Speaker: Yes.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Which is concerning, because every single project that we try to move forward, we get criticism, without even any merit to it. And the biggest laugh of all was the guarantee to Morgan's Point. And why do I say that, Mr. Speaker?

Simply, you just have to reflect back to, I think it was about 2007, probably just before the 2007 election, when the former Government decided that they would give permission . . . I think it was probably even an SDO [Special Development Order]. Do you remember those three words that were just put down into three letters, SDO? Those were bad words at that time. They gave an SDO for Southlands, and all of a sudden, because of the [hue] and cry in the community, they had to work a quick deal to trade 35 acres at Southlands for 85 acres up in Morgan's Point, and at the same time, Mr. Speaker—and here is the catch that everybody is forgetting about—they had to—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Hold on, Honourable Opposition Leader.

The Speaker: Honourable Member! Let us listen and—

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I will get to the relevance. I will get to the relevance. He has obviously missed it.

The Speaker: Carry on. Carry on, Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: But he was part of that Government.

The Speaker: Carry on.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: They gave 85 acres up for 35, and said they would clean the place up—they would clean the place up because of all the oil that had been dumped or leached or whatever, got into the [subsoil] up there.

Now, why do people think we have to give a guarantee? Clearly, because there has been some concern about the cleanliness of the property. And it would be interesting for the Opposition to ask the question, How much money has been spent for the cleanup of Morgan's Point? They will not ask those types of questions. Do you know why, Mr. Speaker? Because they made the deal, and they do not want to know what they got into and how they had to spend, because they were just spending money to try to clean it up. Just spending money without any real approach to what we are going to do. Never really knew how much we would have to be spending.

That is why we have to give the guarantee. We have to show that Government supports the project and supports the property that it is on. And if they cannot see that, well, I am sorry. But I think the people of Bermuda can see that. They got into a bad deal. They gave out an SDO and they tried to turn 360 and make it smell like roses. So they quickly made an arrangement, We'll swap some property here. Oh, yeah, and we'll do the cleanup for you, without even knowing what the cleanup would be! What type of foresight and vision is that?

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Member is misleading the House. There were proper environmental assessments to determine how much the cost of the cleanup would be. And that was done after very careful study and after very careful work was done. And they are benefiting from that work right now.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I appreciate that point of order, Mr. Speaker. So I ask the Honourable Member: When I sit down the Honourable Member can stand up and say what the cost of the cleanup was? Or I will take a point of order now so he can tell me.

They did not know! They did not know then; they do not know now. How can you work like that? How can you work like that?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Maybe the Honourable Member who got all the cleanup contracts can tell us.

[Laughter]

The Speaker: Honourable Member?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The Honourable . . . he asked a question. I am going to answer it for him. He said, I do not hear, or Let me hear a point of order if we knew, as the Progressive Labour Party, what the cleanup would cost.

Mr. Speaker, the cleanup for the Morgan's Point area was put out to tender. And it was bid on. And the Government of the day, which was the Progressive Labour Party, knew exactly what the cleanup would cost, because we did receive it.

[Inaudible interjections and crosstalk]

The Speaker: Honourable Members! Honourable Members! Just take your seat for me a minute.

We are not going to have this talking across . . . Take your seat, Honourable Member.

Take your seat!

We are not going to have . . . people have points. If you have a point of order, then . . . not yet, though. Listen to me. What I am saying is that we have the opportunity to make points of order. But let us try and quit, you know, shouting across first and then making our point of order. If you have a point of order, then I will accept it.

I recognise the Attorney General. That is a point of order.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: I am obliged. I am obliged, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: You are making a point of order to the point of order of that Member?

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Yes.

The Speaker: [addressing MP De Silva] Yes. He is making a point of order to you.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: The Honourable Member is misleading the House.

The Speaker: Yes, yes.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Because he is—

The Speaker: He was making a point of order to you, MP.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: He is talking about all the work that was done after the swap was agreed. The Premier is saying that they did not know the price before the swap was agreed.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Right.

Carry on, MP De Silva, with your point of order. You were making a point of order, yes.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes. Mr. Speaker, that is . . . Well, I was point-of-ordering the Premier.

The Speaker: Yes.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Now, the—

The Speaker: He was point-of-ordering you.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The Honourable Attorney General has done a point of order. He is totally wrong. He has no idea what he is talking about. So let us put that to bed.

But with regard to the—

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: No, no. That is un-Parliamentary.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, it is not un-Parliamentary.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: He answered that point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, Honourable Member.

Take your seat, Honourable Member.

Yes.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

So, with regard to the Premier's comment, Mr. Speaker—

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: No, no, no.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I say it again!

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: It is a point of order!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I say again, we did know what the cleanup was going to cost because it was put out to tender and those tenders were received.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you.

I recognise the . . .

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Well, Mr. Speaker, I did not get an answer to my point of order there. Did they know at the time the swap was made?

The Speaker: Sorry?

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Did they know the cost of the cleanup when the swap . . . before the swap was made?

The Speaker: Well, I understand your point of order. I think your point of order was made clear. And the Honourable Member answered. It may not have been what you . . .

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Well, he admits it. You are saying he admitted that. He admitted he was wrong.

The Speaker: Premier, while you are up . . . Honourable Member.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: A point of order on the Honourable Member, Mr. De Silva.

[Laughter]

The Speaker: All right. Carry on.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I think the Honourable Member was misleading the House. I think you will recall the reason we had to do the 2014 Morgan's Point Resort Act was because of the excessive cost of the cleanup, which was unaffordable to Government. So we had to reorient the package of land up there to retain some of the land to be able to do it at a lesser level than what the former Government had agreed to.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, thank you. Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: It looks like they do not want you to speak, Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Well, I did lose my place.

[Laughter]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Like when you are in school, you keep that finger on the spot.

Now, so, Mr. Speaker, I will go back where I was about three minutes ago. So I asked the Honourable Members on the other side, please tell us what the cost of the cleanup was estimated to be. But he cannot, Mr. Speaker. So then that begs, how in—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes. If you can say how much, then say how much it costs. Otherwise, it is no point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, no, it is. No—

The Speaker: Give me the amount; otherwise, it is no point of order!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Mr. Speaker, I will declare my interest first of all.

The Speaker: Give me the . . . you have given a point of order.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The number . . . Mr. Speaker, there were several bids received. They ranged between $35 million and $55 million.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.
Carry on.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Wow! That is interesting—$35 million to $55 million! That is not much of a gap, is it?

Whew! That is like the pier, $30 million to $60 million. So we know how they operated, Mr. Speaker!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Now, Mr. Speaker, therein lies the problem. We sit here, and we get economic lectures from the other side. And the Honourable Member who speaks for Finance on that side says that they are digging a deeper hole. But the only person who knows about digging a deeper hole is those guys who were holding the shovel, who put us in the hole, Mr. Speaker! Clearly, that is the case.

Let us go back and look again. They tried to take my honourable colleague here, the Minister of Finance, and say that he got it wrong, which is amazing to me. Because in the two budgets for which the Honourable Minister of Finance has had his hand on the tiller, his estimates are $1 million out in the right way—two budgets, $1 million out in the right way.

And I ask them to say that I am wrong. Call a point of order and say that I am wrong on that.

There is no point of order, so I am right.

So, let us go back to the PLP—$446 million out in six years. Now, that can be a point of order, too, but I am not getting anything from over there.

So, who are you going to believe? The man who spent $1 million on the right side in his estimates, or the Junior Minister of Finance of the other Government, now the Shadow Minister, who was part of the $446 million? So who is digging the debt? Pointing, just like the Honourable Opposition Leader did when he speaks.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: I am, Mr. Speaker. But sometimes you have to deal with some stuff coming up.

So, Mr. Speaker, I will stand up every day and every night and make them aware of their record. Because you cannot change all of a sudden like you just had an epiphany in December 2012 and you figured it all out. You just cannot! You cannot make it up.

And then we hear the Honourable [Shadow] Member who speaks for Finance and the Honourable Opposition Leader talk about a diversified economy. Well, you know, if we had some substance, if there was some meat on that bone, I guess we could believe it. But it is just the raw bone that they talk about. Deep-sea mining? Really? That is diversification, deep-sea mining? I asked them, we heard the economic debate last week. Not one Member on that side could give some concrete example of where any government, any jurisdiction is making substantial revenue out of deep-sea mining. It is not there! Potential down the road, but it would cost you millions and millions of dollars in investment to get there.

We have not even heard how they want to build that infrastructure, that stimulus or invest in it, whatever word you want to . . . they all mean the same thing. How would they do that? So it is fiction. It sounds nice. It is the type of thing, if you are in grade 11 and you do a school project, it sounds warm and fuzzy. And you probably get an A-minus for it because that is a vision for the future. But it is not reality in diversifying the economy this year, next year or the year after, Mr. Speaker. It is pie in the sky that is good for a science textbook.

Now, the other: Online gaming. Come on, Mr. Speaker. They did not even want to develop that to try to get us to believe that there was something in there. Their diversification of the economy is just something that they pulled out of a grade-11 project, and they expect us to actually buy into that and work and walk with them on that. Not going to happen, Mr. Speaker!

We have to deal with the real fundamentals of the economy.

The economy is weak. The Finance Minister, who has our confidence, and, I would bet, the confidence of the people of Bermuda, in spite of what Honourable Members on that side want to make you believe . . . and one of their ways of trying to make people believe that is to say it often enough and to say it loud enough. That is not convincing people. That is just getting people to change their earpieces or turn away and not listen.

We have confidence in this Minister of Finance. We are going in the right direction, as witnessed by the over $900 million of potential stimulus investment into our economy that will work, Mr. Speaker. I am positive it will work. So, while we look at these taxes tonight and the payroll tax increase, we have a difference of economic policy. Clearly, they have a record. It did not work. By any stretch of the imagination, it did not work.

We have an economic policy that will work. But it will take some time. And we are going to make it work. And I have every confidence that next year when we come back again, Members on that side will change their tune. Because they will see that things have started to change. They will see more revenue being generated. They will see more jobs being created in our community. They will see the positive things, going forward.

I have confidence in those projects that are listed. But you know, if the Opposition is really sincere about holding hands, reaching across that divide, with more than just words up here in the Chamber to make us feel good, you have to actually work with us to make it happen. You cannot be critical of a project as soon as it comes up. You cannot talk about a Pink Beach concession, which we had on Monday night, and then try to tear it down at the same time. Why have a debate, tear the concession down and then not vote against it?

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker. Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Premier.

Yes, Honourable Member.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Mr. E. David Burt: Just as a point of clarification, is the Honourable Minister saying that there was a tearing down of Pink Beach on this debate? Or are you referring to another debate? Because I do not remember—

The Speaker: No. He said . . . I do not think he was talking about this debate.

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay. Just making sure.

The Speaker: Carry on, Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Exactly right. Tear down every project. You cannot remember what you said.

But clearly, Mr. Speaker, they came out in support of the America's Cup, and then they launch a campaign to put fictitious numbers out there about what it will cost and say that it is not going to benefit all of—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Don Grearson is doing his best to distract from this debate.

The Speaker: Honourable Member!

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker, $77 million is a figure that came in this Honourable Chamber, in front of you, from that side of the House. The Honourable Premier is trying to deflect and distract from the debate!

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: He has only mentioned payroll tax once!

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: In all that is said!

The Speaker: Thank you, thank you. This is an economic debate, Honourable Member.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Economic debate on the taxes, yes.

[Laughter]

The Speaker: It is taxes and how the taxes impact economically. You must understand that.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Those points of order are getting quite laughable right now, Mr. Speaker.

Yes, it is an economic debate. And they keep referring to people who are not even in this Chamber and they will not be in this Chamber. I think it is quite funny.

But the reality is that we have a difference of economic policy. And I am comfortable that our team has got it right and we will move forward. But, you know, when you dig such a deep hole, you are not going to climb out of it right away. And they understood that. That is why I think, when the election results came out, they were relieved. Because they did not know how they got into the hole, and they certainly did not know which way was up, because they were keeping, keeping, keeping digging.

And I hear the Honourable Member on that side say, Oh, Lord. Well, it is too late to pray.

[Laughter]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: It is too late to pray, Mr. Speaker, because we are where we are. We will get out of it. If they join hands with us, we will get out of it a lot quicker. But we are not going to get out of it by tearing each other apart. We have earned the opportunity to lead. We are putting policies in place. And they will work. And we need the Opposition to work with us if they are sincere about getting through this.

We do not need to keep fighting back and forth. The community wants to see us work. So I would like to see them get involved. And, you know, they ask about it, Mr. Speaker. They say they want to be involved in some America's Cup committees. But would anybody feel comfortable putting them on America's Cup committees when they just want to criticise the event, tear down the event—

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. Walter H. Roban: The Honourable Premier is misleading the House! We have reiterated our support for America's Cup time and time again!

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: We are not criticising, Mr. Speaker!

The Speaker: Thank you. All right. Thank you.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: The Honourable Premier is misleading the House!

The Speaker: Thank you. I heard it. I heard you. I heard you.

Honourable Premier.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The truth hurts, Mr. Speaker.

So, tonight I think it is important to recognise that nobody likes to increase taxes. The Payroll Tax Amendment Act 2015, I have said it twice now.

[Laughter]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Nobody likes to increase taxes. But the reality is the Honourable Minister of Finance has a clear plan and it will work. As we have said over and over again, the strategy is showing some results. The Honourable Minister of Finance has gone out there, and he has talked to the community about it. Nobody wants to increase taxes, but they accept that it is something that could be considered.

I do not think it will hurt the economy at all, going forward. Would we like not to do it? Of course! Would we like to drop taxes on everybody? Of course we would! I am still trying to figure out the argument . . . well, "argument" is too strong a word. But the fantasy that the Honourable Opposition Leader put out there about going to a concert and having $100.00 ticket and people coming in and all that. It did not make any sense to me, Mr. Speaker, because . . . It did not make any sense to me, Mr. Speaker, because it does not relate to the payroll tax here. They are different arguments altogether.

So, I think all colleagues on this side are fully supportive, knowing that we do not want to increase taxes. But I think as we turn the corner on this economy now, the extra revenue will help us get to the position that we need to get to, Mr. Speaker.

A couple of things I will say as I finish. This financial year coming up, starting at April 1st, will be the first year in seven or eight years where revenue is higher than expenditure. They [could not] say that for a number of years. The Opposition [could not] say that. We are going in the right direction.

Our deficit will have been decreased $110 million in a short period of time. That is progress! Because under the former Government, for the last six or eight years, it was just continuing to go up. And they could not stop it. They could not stop it from going up. They just said, We'll borrow more money. We'll just keep her going. We'll turn it around. And, Mr. Speaker, if you look back at the revenue numbers under the former Government, there were some really, really high revenue numbers. I mean, in 2010/11, they predicted revenue of $1.058 billion. I mean, that is not chump change!

But what did the revenue number actually finish at? It was $990 million. They were not just out; they were in the wrong county! I am not even going to say "parish," because parish is too small. They were in the wrong county, Mr. Speaker! And at the same time, at the same time, they predicted . . . So they predicted a revenue of $1.058 billion, and they predicted an expenditure of $990 million. So they predicted a nice, healthy surplus in there on current account.

But what happened? [Whistles] Switch it around. The revenue was $990 million, and the expenditure went to $1.04 billion. Now, that is good prediction of finances! That is real good.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Now, I ask for a point of order on this; tell me I am wrong. Or tell me they got it right!

But they cannot, Mr. Speaker. And that is a trend that goes on. And I hear the chirping going on over there, Mr. Speaker. But you cannot argue with the truth! You cannot argue with the truth, Mr. Speaker. And that is a record you cannot run from. Even if you take your shoes off and try to run as fast as you can, you cannot run away from that.

This Finance Minister sitting to my left has it right. And we need, as a community, to support him because we will get out of this mess. They have dropped the shovel, and we are going in the right direction. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Premier.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 33.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

A couple of weeks ago, the head of the BTA [Bermuda Tourism Authority] said that dissension is the enemy of success. And what is unfortunate . . . And I am going to take a few moments just to address some of the things that the Premier said. What we have seen tonight is a call-back, a rerun to the PLP era to deflect from the present. And the reason why . . . It is interesting because if you are a child, because I have noticed of late that the One Bermuda Alliance have been very fond of throwing out things like childish, 11-year-old. And there is a reason for that. But when we were children, if we stole a cookie and were caught, how far would we get if we said, Well, Johnny stole a cookie last year? Johnny, who is sitting in jail for stealing a cookie!

On December 17th, 2012, we went before the jury, those of us who were in the Government and those of us who supported the Government. We went before a jury of our peers and were found guilty. Whether we like it or not, the mistakes of the term, whether it was the whole 14 years, one year, whatever, we were found guilty. And then we, like most Bermudians, accept that.

But what we do not accept, Mr. Speaker, and this is something, a challenge I will put to myself as well as my colleagues, whether it is two years, two months, two days, whenever, we must pledge as the Government-in-waiting that we will take responsibility for our action and not pin them on the previous Government. That is the point that I think we need to learn from this period in opposition.

This is part of the maturation process, not just of the Progressive Labour Party, but of our people. But I remember sitting next to the Honourable Member from Paget, Ms. Gordon-Pamplin. And she talked about, you know, whenever the PLP would say, Well, for 40 years you did this, and she would say, You are the Government now. Own it! One Bermuda Alliance, you are the Government now. You have written the past series of budgets. You own these budgets. You ran a campaign where you said you would not have to raise taxes, you would not fire any civil servants, you would not privatise anything. And what else? It was all these sorts of things that were said.

And we ran a campaign that said, You cannot do it. And every day since they got in, we have been proven right. We have been proven right. And, Mr. Speaker . . .

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: I beg your pardon, Mr. Premier?

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Honourable Member.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Mr. Speaker, I pray to God I am not drinking his water. Okay? I pray to God.

And the thing is, this is the issue, deflection, Mr. Speaker. Soon the day will come. As judgment day came for us, judgment day will come for you. And when you say things like, We will create 2,000 jobs, people believe it and they expect results. The budget . . .

Mr. Speaker, I cannot hear myself. The Premier is being disrespectful. Could you please?

The Speaker: I will run business from the Chair, Honourable Member.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Thank you, sir. Thank you. I appreciate that.

The Speaker: Yes. Yes.

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: But it goes back to, again we have seen this deflection. We have seen these things thrown out—childish, immature. And I have to give . . . Look, my Shadow Finance Minister . . . I have been around a few Budget Replies and even helped write a few of them, right? And we are looking at one of the best, one of the best intellects in finance this country has ever seen. And I think it is a pity that we have had to be subjected to what I would consider age discrimination—ageism. Because we have heard it before. We heard the analogies, going back to the Budget Statement.

What I want to know, Mr. Speaker, is why is the One Bermuda Alliance so intent in seeking ways, not just to deflect, but to divide? Because I have not heard genuine, meritorious criticism of what the Honourable Member said. I have heard innuendoes, I have heard deflection. I have heard everything but a debate on the issues.

Now, the Honourable Member, the Shadow Finance Minister, has set the bar very high. And the One Bermuda Alliance has not only failed to meet it; I do even think they know where the bar is. So we have seen this. And you know, I was listening to the Honourable Premier's speech, and I was thinking, you know, I could be reading a book right now. My time could be better spent doing something else because we are not seeing substance.

And the lack of substance in debate . . . And, Mr. Speaker, you will note, unlike some Members, I am not reading.

Some Hon. Members: Ah!

Mr. Jamahl S. Simmons: Unlike some Members, I am not reading. So, Mr. Speaker, what I would encourage the Honourable Members to do, right? I started this speech talking about dissension is the enemy of success. Mr. Speaker, I am going to give a civics lesson for the public. If a politician in government says to you, We cannot move forward because the Opposition is not working with you, they are performing a word that begins with "M" and ends with "Y." Or maybe it is another word that begins with "L" and ends with "E." But they all mean the same; they are providing a falsehood.

The Opposition cannot stop progress of this Government by asking questions, by raising issues, by criticising. So, I am encouraging the One Bermuda Alliance as Government—you are the Government. You are in charge. Own your mistakes. Stop the deflections. Grow up! And we await your day of judgment. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister for Economic Development, from Paget East, constituency 22. Dr. Gibbons, you have the floor.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Let me start by first correcting a misstatement the Honourable Member (I think he is from constituency 33) said. The Premier never said that we cannot move forward if the Opposition does not work with us. I think we would like to have the Opposition work with us, and I think that is part of the issue. But certainly, we on this side are going to move forward regardless of whether the Opposition is working with us or not.

I think the other thing that is important to point out is, we are not trying to deflect by talking about the Progressive Labour Party record. In essence, if you are in Opposition and you are dishing out advice, which is what we heard earlier this evening, then clearly you need to understand that people are going to look at your credibility and what you delivered when you actually were in the driver's seat. And I think that is part of what is going on here, because the Honourable Member who speaks for Finance on that side was very liberal with advice in terms of what we have been doing wrong on this side, what he would do and all the rest of it. So, clearly, Mr. Speaker, anybody who is going to give advice, one needs to look at the bona fides of that individual, particularly when they were in the position where they were in charge.

I am not saying that he was in the driver's seat, but he was certainly sitting next to the driver for a number of years. And he was riding shotgun, however you want to call it. The problem is, now that he is a backseat driver, he wants us to believe in the advice he has given. The challenge is that when he was in the driver's seat or sitting next to the driver, we all know what happened, if we want to look at the economic record here.

And the economic record is very clear that in 2012, if you look at the normal measure of economic growth or decline, which is the GDP, things were heading south at a terrible rate. The GDP, the negative GDP, was declining. It was bad in 2010. It got worse in 2011. And the negative growth in 2012 was heading downhill at a precipitous rate.

It was not until 2013 when there was a change in Government that the GDP, still negative on constant-dollar basis, positive on current-dollar basis, actually started to move in the other direction. We do not know what the GDP is in 2014 yet; we are going to have to wait to see what that was. But what we do know was that in 2012, things were getting dramatically worse. One of my honourable colleagues likened it to the movie Thelma and Louise in terms of going over the cliff. Clearly, if you look at the deterioration from 2010, which was negative growth, worse deterioration in 2011 and dramatic deterioration in 2012, things were going downhill at a rapid rate. It was not until 2013 that things started to come around in a different direction. So, I think that is a really important thing to mention.

Now, in terms of the payroll tax, timing is everything. And while the Honourable Member who speaks for Finance on that side says that we on this side said we were not going to increase payroll tax last year, that was because the Minister of Finance did not believe there was sufficient confidence in the economy and there was sufficient recovery in order to be able to put a further burden on it. But this year, the judgment is that, with the stimulus package—the hotels, the investment in America's Cup, the airport and the rest of it—there is sufficient confidence and there is sufficient future growth that investors and businesses see that a payroll tax, while it may be a bit of a drag on the economy (not that much of a drag, at 0.5 per cent), is not going to be seen as the drag that it would have been last year, or the negative confidence that it would have created last year. So that is the issue.

Let us talk about jobs while we are at it, as well. We hear an awful lot about the loss of 790 jobs from 2013 to 2014. But what the Honourable [Shadow] Member who speaks for Finance does not tell you—and this is very similar to the GDP—is when you look at the job loss from 2011 to 2012, it was almost 2,000 jobs lost in one year. So when that Honourable Member was sitting in the front seat of the car, we lost roughly 2,000 jobs in one year, from 2011 to 2012. When you look at the job loss from 2012 to 2013, it was a little over 1,100. So it was almost approaching half of what it had been in the time that that Honourable Member was in the driver's seat. And this year, it is down to 790.

Are we still losing jobs, Mr. Speaker? Yes. But when you look at the rate of job loss, what was haemorrhaging in 2011/12 when that Honourable Member was sitting in the front seat, to where we are now, Mr. Speaker, even though it is job loss, things look a whole lot better than they did then. And what is even more important, Mr. Speaker, is we are actually starting to see job growth in some very important sectors. And the very important sector is that for the first time this year we saw an increase of 161 jobs in the international business sector. Last year, there was a loss of 110. Before that, it was 199. Before that, it was [a loss of] 2,010. For seven years, we were losing jobs in that sector. This is the first year, Mr. Speaker, we are actually gaining jobs.

So what that says, Mr. Speaker, is despite all the headwinds in international business, that particular sector of the economy is adding jobs for the first time in a very long time. It was losing jobs year after year under that Honourable Member's watch on the other side when he was in the driver's seat.

So, Mr. Speaker, I could go on. I do not think we need to get into the whole economic debate over again. But I think the fact of the matter is, clearly things are now a lot better than they were when that Government was in charge. If you dish out advice, then you have to expect to be judged on your record. And as the Honourable Premier said, that record is a failure over there. So, now that you are in the back seat driving, why should we be paying attention to your advice? Because clearly, when you were in the front seat giving advice, it was a disaster. It was getting worse. And if the Government had not changed, I suspect that 2013 would have been even worse than the 2012 numbers. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 13, Devonshire North Central. MP Glenn Blakeney, you have the floor.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

First and foremost, I think I would like to compliment my Shadow Minister. Because, by far, his contribution to tonight's debate was heads and shoulders above anyone else who has spoken from the Government benches. He broke everything down. He gave the rationale and substantiated his numbers. He alluded to various things he has said two years and more ago. And there has been no rebuttal. Maybe the Finance Minister, when he closes the debate, will come up with something that makes sense on a substantive basis in rebutting the Shadow Minister.

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Deputy Speaker, in the Chair]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Now, when you talk about the economy, Madam Deputy Speaker, you just cannot pin every single thing on the dynamics of the local economy in Bermuda. We got a local economy that is parochial local, meaning that it is Bermuda businesses. And then we have international businesses that operate in the local economy. A number of those business decisions made by those international businesses were not predicated solely upon what they were experiencing from policies of the former Government. Their decisions were usually made by people in the banking institution and financial institutions who went out on a limb, based on their greed, that tanked the whole global economy, which had an invariable knock-on effect on our local economy, the likes of which we have not yet escaped, which has put more pressure on the Finance Minister to get it right.

Which is why we on this side, through our Shadow Minister, came with some alternative options to consider. But yet, Members, particularly disappointing, the Premier, would talk about working together and hurling insults across the floor at us! Like we are the nincompoops, failing to recall regardless of the consensus in this country that gave them the seat of power in 2012. It was by the slimmest margin ever in a general election, a two-seat majority!

So do not play the politics when we are dealing with the serious issues. I enjoy hearing the Honourable Minister of Finance speak, because he always tries his best to come from a position of substantiating what he is doing. We do not agree with it. So if somebody is going to get up and rebut, let us stay on the issue. And what we are saying, fundamentally, is that payroll tax, across the board, on the income earned by gainfully employed people in this country, no matter what side of the political divide, is not the way to go right now when we are still deep in a recession.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: We do not have disposable income. We do not fuel the economy, because we do not have it to spend! And people are living from paycheque to paycheque, and now it is going to be even less. That is the point! And the thesis upon which the Honourable Shadow Minister predicated his speech was that you cannot do simultaneously two things that have a negative impact on economic growth. You just cannot do that. That is the Opposition.

And when you put the burden on the gainfully employed people in this country, the majority of whom are the glue to the country, because they tend to be the middle class, you are making a fundamental mistake! And there goes the confidence! The confidence in investing any additional disposable income they may have been able to save in the good times, they are going to hoard it and hold onto it! They are not going to feel comfortable, because right now there is a level in the country that is unready. It is un-readiness. There is a lack of confidence. They are not giving the benefit of doubt to anything the Government is doing, because they do not trust them, based on their action, not their words!

Actions, such as revoking contracts, turning back on promises in their platform that we hear over and over again relative to term limits, immigration and a number of other things, the referendum . . . I mean, all of these things! When it comes to the political context of making people feel confident in your decisions, it has a bearing, a very negative bearing. And then, the people who have been bearing the brunt of it all for the whole time, they are asked again to sacrifice. And it is this shared sacrifice coined phrase that we hear all the time. But they are the first ones to go, whom the Government will go back to and ask to make more sacrifice.

Look at the furlough day! Look at what happened in good faith around the table of diplomatic protocol between two parties engaged in negotiating and dialogue, where there was agreement. And the furlough did not come as a suggestion from the Government; it was from the organised working representatives in this community! They made the overture. There was an agreement, then an attempt to say, We need to continue to do it. And they are like, No, no, no!

They did not get any increases for several years, civil service members. They took a furlough day to help. Now we are coming back with a payroll tax on the money that they will never gain back! Not until the economy turns around, where there is going to be a lifting of all boats. And taxes, as a conservative would be the first to tell you, is the last thing we want to do in a time when money is tight on the people who we need to keep it fuelling the economy, disposable income through gainful employment and productivity.

And what we did on this side is say, Listen. Let us look at some options. Let us have a good look at some options. Maybe you throw out eight of them and choose one or two. But they are not even prepared to look at any options. All that they do is unceremoniously dismiss them with insults! I am not up here to be insulted every single week. We admit we could have done things a little better in certain areas, and maybe we went wrong. For God's sake, you heard the Opposition Leader. You heard the Opposition Shadow Finance Minister reiterate where we went wrong in certain areas. There is no government in the world, even in the best of times, that has got it all right.

But I will tell you what. A number of people in this community who benefited from the social programmes because of the former Government would tend to disagree. Madam Deputy Speaker, you have to remember there were no job losses significant in comparison to the private sector. The private sector even today continues to consolidate because there is acquisition mode going on right now. So if you acquire a company that has a receptionist, and you have a receptionist, you do not need two. You are not going to get any argument from me on a business decision relative to that.

But this Government was extremely user-friendly to business. We started the concessions—hotel concessions—where there was disingenuousness by those who were the proprietors of those institutions based on the caveats that were put in place to help assist musicians in this country to be employed. And look what they are doing now! They are trying to take careers completely away from local musicians, based on policy. It is the policies of this Government that this community is so concerned about. We come every week representing what we are hearing from those members of the community, 4,000-plus of whom walked on Cabinet grounds for two consecutive days, not because they were happy, not because they trusted the Government, not because they have good faith in giving more benefit of doubt that [the Government] will do as they say.

Because everything that they have said they have contradicted by their actions. And when you now put an incredible burden on the working person in this country who is living from paycheque to paycheque, no fault of their own, regardless of who the politicians on either side of the political divide may want to blame, they are the ones caught up in the net. They are the ones who are suffering the consequence. And they are the ones who have been subjected to hearing the kind of diatribe, in some instances, when it comes to the personal attacks by the Government on Members of the Opposition who are just doing their job, and doing a very good job!

It was this Opposition that, because of revelations, caused a Premier—for the very first time in this country—to resign! Then an attorney general went.

Then the Chairman of the ruling party went. You think people forget? Do you really think people have trust when that kind of thing happens? You promise you are going to reveal a report based on an investigation that was internally done. You did not do it. There was a police investigation launched. We do not know where that is at, but yet the person who resigned in humiliation—

The Deputy Speaker: Member, Member. I just want to remind you that we are not on the motion to adjourn right now. We are on a payroll tax.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: And it all ties into the policy—

The Deputy Speaker: I just want you to—

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: —because the leadership that I am talking about—

The Deputy Speaker: Member. Member.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: —relative to the—

The Deputy Speaker: I just want you to reflect on—

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: I got you. I got you. And I will just finish this point, that that person sits now in the Government on the front benches as a Minister, after having to resign in humiliation! Well, this budget has to deal with his Ministry!

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: He is in a position now making decisions! When there was no confidence for him to lead the country, he is still among equals!

[Inaudible interjection]

The Deputy Speaker: Member! We have a Bill.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: And that body—

The Deputy Speaker: Member. Member! Stay to the Bill.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: And that body collect is the one that make the decisions on the policies that impact this country through taxation! That is my point.

But the background is important, because if you do not look at the foundation and where the roots are planted, you do not know what to expect as far as fruit is concerned, especially if you are not sure what is being used to nourish it! Could be poison! And the tree could die. That is our concern. That is our concern!

So when we try to have substantive debate and stick to the subject at hand, it is very hard when they digress and go down the road to reiterate or reinforce the premise upon which they base their argument in discrediting us in some of the decisions we made when we sat in the seat of power! But now they cannot take it after 27 months when we point out fundamental differences.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Fundamental differences that are serving to put this country in a deeper position today than it was in 2012. We are not better off today than 2012. We are still trying to find our way! Ask the people who have been made redundant this year, last year and the year before if they are better off today than 2012 unemployed.

And when you make tax policies in trying your best to do what is in the interests of the country and those you serve who put you here to make the right decisions, and we on the Opposition have a problem with some of those decisions and articulate it, you do not just ridicule. You then want to go back to the record of 14 years. But you never once give us credit for the eight years where there was abundance, where it was really good! You never . . . you lump the eight in with the fourteen! Well, what about separating it?

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: But you are still running up the debt, Honourable Finance Minister, yourself! You are borrowing again this year!

The Deputy Speaker: Member, just stay focused on me.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Madam Deputy Speaker, the debt is continuing to climb. It is not going down. It is going up! It is going up! And that is what . . . As has been reiterated several times on this side, $800 million over three years of debt! I was not ready to really criticise, and I never criticised during that debate because I did not know. I was hoping that, you know what? We are going to lock out on this one. Because God only knows the country needed it. So, if it made economic sense, okay, let us see how it works. But I was more inclined to believe the prediction, or the unreadiness, I should say, of my Opposition Shadow Minister, who said, Listen. Don't jump up and kick your feet just yet.

Because even though, Madam Deputy Speaker, we were hoping that the interest rates would rise so that the fixed rate we got at a very low level would say, Hey, we did a great thing, it did not work that way. And that is just sometimes the way the cookie crumbles. So now the Finance Minister is challenged even more. He has to do more extreme things, implement more extreme measures, and then justify it.

The problem with it is finding the delicate balance. But when people in the country are losing jobs, the taxes, if you are going to apply them, have to go higher because there are fewer people in the pool. That is basic economics there.

If we had the full employment, we would not have half the concerns. But we do not know how many more consolidations are going to happen with regard to acquisitions. And given acquisitions continue to go the way they are going, we do not know how many more people who are gainfully employed today will be unemployed tomorrow. There is no crystal ball that is telling us that, not here, today, now!

And so, what our Shadow Minister has said has been some of the most conservative ways that we could approach addressing the challenge in steps and stages, not in a balloon way—in steps and stages. If the Finance Minister—20/20 they say is hindsight—would have waited for one year, he would have had a better, more favourable interest rate. Maybe this year he could have taken out another three years from this year. Who knows? Or two years, or two years.

So, Madam Deputy Speaker, I would implore the Government, and particularly the Premier under whose stewardship his front bench is obligated to serve, to just not only listen, but truly consider on merit some of the options and some of the things we are saying, just for cautious reasons so that we do not make it worse than it really has to be. And then if you do not decide, you come back with a fundamental rationale as to why, We did not choose this. We did not choose this, and this is why.

I have not heard that. I have just heard a counter tit-for-tat rhetorical exercise in debate to win the political points and favour of those who might listen and get some degree of understanding. Because if it is an average man out there right now, half of what the Premier was talking about, yes, they understood, but they did not get any comfort out of that. They did not get any comfort from the lips of the person who is leading this country that he had his hand on the throttle and a steady hand on the wheel and like, Regardless of what the Opposition is saying, here is what we are doing, folks. Here is why we are doing it. You know, I understand the concerns that have been raised. I have heard some things that make some good points on school for thought.

But that is not the way. That is where we have a fundamental difference. But where the rubber meets the road is here, and here is why. You know, the Honourable Shadow Minister gave an example. Yes, he said he had a problem with the description of “investment” in the America’s Cup being so described, because he says, We are seeding capital, and that capital that is being seeded is now being used to do some of the things that they need to get done. So it is an indirect stimulus! And there is no other way you can look at it. And that cannot be contradicted.

But I would implore anyone who is in earshot of my voice right now who has a real interest in what is being talked about tonight, go to wherever they need to go online and try and download the Hansard report of the Honourable Member, Mr. David Burt, the Shadow Minister of the Bermuda Progressive Labour Party. And they will get it broken down in pure English, and they will get to see the level of debate that can happen in this place with the kind of intellect and common sense that the Opposition has in holding the Government to account. Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Are there any other Members who would like to speak to the Bill, Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 29, Southampton East, the Shadow Minister of Tourism. The Honourable Zane J. S. De Silva, you have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

Madam Deputy Speaker, a little disappointed tonight in debating this increase in the payroll tax. And my disappointment is really in our Premier. And Madam Deputy Speaker, when our Premier reads notes that were obviously uploaded and sent to him during a debate, it is a sad day. It is really a sad day.

And you could see by the way in which the Premier was speaking . . . Well, of course, I sit right across from him. You could see that he was struggling with it. And that is sad for us here in Bermuda. But I will move on, Madam Deputy Speaker.

Madam Deputy Speaker, there is talk about the airport by the Premier, by the Finance Minister and I believe also by the Honourable Member from constituency 22, Dr. Gibbons. And the Premier in particular talked about the hospital and talked about the cost, and complained about the burden of having to pay back for the new wing at the hospital for the next 30 years. If the Premier has that much concern about the hospital and the pay-back, why does he not have that same concern for the airport? It boggles the mind! It boggles the mind, Madam Deputy Speaker. If they are complaining about that, why would they not complain about the airport?

And there is a big difference. And, Madam Deputy Speaker, the Premier—

The Deputy Speaker: Member from constituency 10, I believe.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Constituency 10 . . . the Honourable Chirping-Bird Premier is talking about . . . Madam Deputy Speaker, what I am reading . . . these are my handwritten notes that I have been making all night. You know well enough, and everyone knows well enough, that I refer to my own notes. I do not read in this House. I will read something in a minute, though. With your indulgence I will read something. It is a transcript. And you will hear that.

But Madam Deputy Speaker, there is a big difference between the hospital and the airport. The biggest difference is this, Madam Deputy Speaker, the hospital—all that money is staying here in the country. The airport—money is going out. That is a big difference.

And Madam Deputy Speaker, while we are on the airport, did you know that in November it was announced that the airport would be built for $200 million? It is now February, three months later, has anybody noticed that the airport price has gone up to $255 million? In three months it has gone from $200 million to $255 million. And, Madam Deputy Speaker, mark this space, I have a feeling that that number is going to get bigger. I really do.

What else confuses me a little, or at least leaves me wondering a bit, Madam Deputy Speaker, is we had a Throne Speech that was read and a few days later we had an announcement about the airport. Now the Finance Minister said that this is the most important project in Bermuda's history—our new airport. The words of the Finance Minister. If that airport construction is the most critical and most important project in Bermuda's history, why was it not in the Throne Speech? The Honourable Finance Minister said he started negotiating in May of that year, so what was the secret? Why was there a secret, Madam Deputy Speaker?

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Point of order, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you. Please have a seat.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 23, Paget West, the Minister of Community, Cultural Development & Sport, the Honourable Patricia Gordon-Pamplin.

You have the floor.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

I would just like to point out to the Honourable Member that he has, I believe perhaps unintentionally—maybe intentionally—but he is misleading the House. I will give him the benefit of the doubt that he is unintentionally misleading the House.

The Honourable Member is confused, but the purpose for which is that it was made abundantly clear that at the reading of the Throne Speech the negotiations respecting the airport were not sufficiently advanced and as a result could not be included in the Throne Speech. It would have been premature; it would have been really jumping the gun. And I think that the Honourable Member understands that. I think he knows that, and I think he is being a little bit mischievous and I believe that that is unparliamentary.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, Member.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 25, the Honourable Zane J. S. De Silva.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

That Honourable Member just made a point of order. Is that Honourable Member . . . I do not want to say the wrong thing . . . does that Honourable Member think that the people in this House and the people in the country that are listening are stupid, Madam Deputy Speaker? I hope not because, Madam Deputy Speaker, how can that Honourable Member make that statement when two days after the Throne Speech the announcement is made. So in other words they are saying that there was significant . . . there was possibly significant information—

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Point of order, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 23, the Honourable Patricia Gordon-Pamplin.

You have the floor.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

Madam Deputy Speaker, I do not know how Members opposite wrote their Throne Speeches, but you can be assured that it takes time to craft your Throne Speech. It takes time for it to be vetted. It takes time for it to go to the printers. All of which would have been into the time that he is suggesting that information was at hand. Had the information been at hand it would have been included. The information was not solidified at the time and as a result, it was unable to be included.

The Honourable Member needs to understand they do things however they do it, if they fly by the seat of their pants that is not our problem. We do things a little bit more methodically on this side and I believe that he is completely misleading the House.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, Member.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 29.

You have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Madam Deputy Speaker, what that Honourable Member just told us and the country is that they are totally—totally—inexperienced and unqualified to be the Government of this country. That is what she just told us.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That has got to be the saddest, saddest explanation, excuse for . . . for . . . oh man, unbelievable. Unbelievable is the only thing I can say, Madam Deputy Speaker, that two days after the Throne Speech they . . . unbelievable. You see it shows the inexperience, Madam Deputy Speaker. I was in Cabinet. I was part of a Government and I can assure you that any Government—any Government worth their salt—starts their Throne Speech the minute the Throne Speech is read for the next year, Madam Deputy Speaker. But of course inexperience, inexperience . . . total inexperience! You cannot expect any more. You cannot expect any more.

But Madam Deputy Speaker, maybe, maybe the reason the Honourable Member Pat Gordon-Pamplin got up from constituency—

The Deputy Speaker: Yes, yes, we do not refer to names. I know it is very difficult. I have a challenge with it. That is from constituency 23, Member.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: But you know what, Madam Deputy Speaker, maybe the reason it was not included in the Throne Speech is because what they did not want to tell us was the real price of the airport, I do not know. Because you had $200 million announced in November, and you had $255 million announced this last week—$55 million—$55 million. Madam Deputy Speaker, $55 [million] in three months. What is it going to be next month? What is it going to be next month?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, oh, oh, really? Oh, okay. All right $55 million I am told, Madam Deputy Speaker, is for a law firm. Wow, okay. But we are told that an RFP process is going to . . . forgetting that is going to save us some money.

The other fundamental difference between the airport and the hospital, Madam Deputy Speaker, is the airport was not put out to tender, the hospital was—a big difference. A big difference, Madam Deputy Speaker.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Deputy Speaker: Just while in the silence, I am just reminding you that this is the Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, yes, Madam Deputy Speaker, and you know what? I am glad you brought that up and reminded the listening audience because they are probably saying, Why are they talking about the airport? Well, why is the Premier? Why is Dr. Grant Gibbons? Why have all Members in this House been talking about it seems like everything else but the payroll tax? You know why? Because the taxes are being increased, Madam Deputy Speaker, because we have a Finance Minister that has failed in his job in the last year. Dr. Gibbons, the Honourable Member, what is his number again?

The Deputy Speaker: The Honourable Member from constituency 22.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, [constituency] 22. I should have remembered that.

But you know what, Madam Deputy Speaker? The Honourable Member from constituency 22 talked about being in the driver's seat and the back seat and how the PLP failed and whatnot. But you know what? His right-hand man, his partner in crime, his buddy, the Honourable Member from constituency . . .

The Deputy Speaker: [Constituency] 10?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: [Constituency] 10 . . . 12 . . . 11. Constituency 11. Right?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: But he was in the driver's seat last year and he failed. In fact, he . . . I do not think he had a seatbelt on. In fact, the Honourable Member from [constituency] 22 did not have his seatbelt on either. Because you know what? That car hit a wall and they both went through the windshield, Madam Deputy Speaker. And why do I say that? Why do I say that? Because what is that Finance Minister's record?

He came in, Madam Deputy Speaker, borrowed $800 million, and in two years it is gone. Poof! Gone! Failed! He also told this Honourable House and the people of Bermuda that he was going to borrow that money because it is a great decision because interest rates were going to rise. Interest rates have not risen, Madam Deputy Speaker. He has failed.

And that is why we are here looking at increasing this tax because he failed. The OBA economic policies are not working, Madam Deputy Speaker. That is why we are here . . . you know, raising this tax. That is why we raised the commercial land tax. Their economic policies are not working, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Let's not reflect on a piece of legislation we have already done.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. All right. Yeah, because . . . okay, well, let us talk about these taxes for now. Yes, ma'am, we will do that.

Madam Deputy Speaker, the Honourable Member from constituency 22 talked about the fall in the GDP from 2010, 2011 and 2012, and it just started to rise up in 2013. First of all, when it was rising in 2013, let's face it; he would like to think he has a magic wand. He would like to think the OBA has a magic wand, but they do not. The reason that the GDP went up in 2013 is because of some of the things that we were doing in 2012 before they got in.

[Inaudible interjections and general uproar]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, yes! Oh, yes! And they knew it. And they knew it. That is why they are laughing. They know it.

But I will tell you what, Madam Deputy Speaker, let me read you, if I may, read you a quote from our Finance Minister—

The Deputy Speaker: Yes, you may.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: —in 2011. This is our Finance Minister (you will have to bear with me I do not have my glasses, I will do the best I can), "I have been stunned by its destructiveness, by its power"—talking about the—

The Deputy Speaker: Would you help me? You said the Finance Minister. Was it the Finance Minister then in 2011? You said it was 2011.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No. [It was] 2011. He was the Shadow Minister then—

The Deputy Speaker: Ah! There you go, you said . . . okay. And you are reading it from?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I am reading it from his Budget Reply.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. And the now Finance Minister said then, he is stunned and he is really "[stunned] by its severity and destructiveness—by the power to bring some of" (talking about the economic crash) "the western society's most prominent financial institutions to their knees, and by the power to have virtually all British and many major Swiss banks effectively nationalized because of the markets' loss in confidence in their capital position."

And he goes on, Madam Deputy Speaker, "And in the United States" (he wrote it himself, he will remember this) "how the mighty have fallen. Centuries old Wall Street institutions, Bear Stearns and Lehman Brothers, disappeared into the night, the latter with the most devastating effect on global financial confidence. Even bigger titans" (even bigger titans) "were teetering on collapse, like Merrill Lynch and CitiGroup. To have these fail was unthinkable." (Hear me, Madam Deputy Speaker) "To have these fail was unthinkable yet, they were on the brink. Then almost out of the blue it was AIG" (a company we are familiar with) "a company so close and familiar to all Bermudians" (the [then-]Shadow Minister said at the time) "to be so hugely vulnerable that Uncle Sam himself had to step into the breach and nationalise it too. So Mr. Speaker, I certainly wasn't smart enough to foresee the utter financial destruction that took place in the latter half of 2008."

This is from the crystal ball man himself.

Now, Madam Deputy Speaker, why did I say that? Because the Honourable Members on the other side continue to say how the Progressive Labour Party put this country in the position it is today. And they talk about 2010, 2011, 2012—let us talk about 2008, 2009, and 2010.

Madam Deputy Speaker, these are the words of the now Finance Minister talking about some of the biggest companies in the world—failed or almost failed. Do you see what I am saying, Madam Deputy Speaker?

So what I am saying to you is that when they say the Progressive Labour Party caused all these problems, and the Honourable Member from constituency 22 talked about the international business in 2010, 2011 and 2012 shed jobs in Bermuda, and last year was the first time that they had an increase in jobs; well, Madam Deputy Speaker, this was happening all over the world, not just in Bermuda. International big finance companies were shedding employees faster than a lizard sheds his skin. Okay? And Bermuda was no different. Bermuda was no different.

So when the Honourable Member says, Oh, now we have got 100 jobs coming—

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 22.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Unfortunately, the Honourable Member is misleading the House. In 2011 most of the other economies had recovered at that point. It was only Bermuda that was heading south at a terrible rate under their watch.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order, point of order.
I would like—

[Inaudible interjection]

The Deputy Speaker: Wait, I would like to be able to hear the Opposition Leader.
The Chair recognises the Opposition Leader.

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: The Honourable Dr. Gibbons is misleading the House.

The Deputy Speaker: The Member from constituency 22.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: It is a false narrative that they are throwing out there that Bermuda is solely responsible for Bermuda's woes when our economic sectors are externally driven. It is a false narrative, a complete false narrative. If that is the case then they should take blame for Bermuda and everywhere else, right now, which they refuse to do. It is a false narrative.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you—

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 22.

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: The Honourable Member is misleading the House in terms of what I was saying. What I was saying was that in 2011 many of the other economies had actually recovered at that point. They were in positive GDP growth. That was my point. Bermuda was not. In fact, it was headed even to a worse economic downturn at that stage, unlike other economies.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.
The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 29.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Madam Deputy Speaker—

[Inaudible interjection]

The Deputy Speaker: No, Member, would—

[Gavel]

The Deputy Speaker: Member, would you like me to hear you, as you are the only gentleman that is standing to his feet?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.
The Chair recognises the Opposition Leader—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I—

The Deputy Speaker: Ah! The Chair recognises—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: —well—

[Gavel]

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.
The Chair now recognises the Opposition Leader.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Minister, Dr. Gibbons, just said, because I asked him [to] name some countries. And he actually referred to countries in Europe—European countries. The European continent is in a deflationary spiral. So that is what I am saying—it is a false narrative. You can even see that information on CNBC or Bloomberg, that the European construct is in a deflationary spiral. There is no growth in Europe. There is not even growth in Germany. It is a false narrative.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.
The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 22.

POINT OF ORDER

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you.
I think if the Honourable Member looks at the GDP data in 2011 he will find that there was growth in many of the European countries. There may be issues now, there have been . . . There may be issues now, but there is still growth.

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I think if the Honourable Member looks at figure 2 in the Budget Statement he will be able to sort that out.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 29.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Finally, Madam Deputy Speaker, we are back.

Madam Deputy Speaker, when we are talking about this airport and we are talking about the reason that we have to raise taxes, the reason that the airport gives us great concern is that the company that the Government is talking to with regard to building, managing that airport had a similar . . . had a very similar deal with the Cayman Islands, or were about to. The UK Government stepped in and stopped it. The UK Government stopped it from happening, Madam Deputy Speaker. And there was a reason for that. And the reason that the deal collapsed in the Cayman [Islands], Madam Deputy Speaker, is because the UK expressed very serious concern because there was a lack of open tendering. That is why—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is why that did not happen.

So what did this company do? Ah, where's another airport? Oh, Bermuda is looking at building one. Let's go see if we can get them to take the bait. So that is where we are, Madam Deputy Speaker, that is where we are.

The concerns were expressed about the loss of direct . . . these are some of the reasons why . . . the loss of direct government revenue and . . . hear me . . . loss of control over a key strategic asset, i.e., their airport. The other thing that concerned the UK Government was the loss—the potential loss—of jobs at the airport. And my learned colleague, Lawrence Scott, has been saying—

The Deputy Speaker: The Member from constituency 24.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: —from constituency 24 has been saying that all along. Well, you see the concern was so severe that the UK stepped in and stopped it from happening in the Cayman [Islands]. And there are good reasons for that, as I just outlined.

Now, Madam Deputy Speaker, before I take my seat, the Premier started singing Kumbaya. You know, he wanted us to sing Kumbaya yet again.

The Deputy Speaker: The Honourable Member from constituency 10.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The Honourable Member from constituency 10, the one that said, Hold it. Let's hold hands. Let's work together. Let's work in collaboration and let's move forward.

Well you know what, Madam Deputy Speaker? What happens is when they have an opportunity to hold our hands and sing Kumbaya they do not. All I am going to mention is one example and that is conscription. We brought a proposed Bill here to end conscription and they turned it down. They turned it down, Madam Deputy Speaker, so you know . . . we will hold hands with them maybe one day . . . maybe one day.

But Madam Deputy Speaker, I am going to finish on this note. And I think it was the Honourable Member from constituency 22 (I have got it now, I have got it, Dr. Gibbons) said, We can't run from the truth. And you know what? He is right. We cannot run from the truth.

[Inaudible interjections and crosstalk]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: He said, We can't run from the truth.

Madam Deputy Speaker, arrivals in the country last year were down 5 per cent, hotel bed occupancy was down 7 per cent. The Honourable Member says you cannot run from the truth, let us not run from that truth either. We have had almost 800 jobs lost last year, Madam Deputy Speaker. You cannot run from the truth. That is what Dr. Gibbons—the Member from constituency 22—told us. Do not run from it. Do not run from it.

And Madam Deputy Speaker, let us finish on this note, I think the Honourable Member, my colleague, from constituency 13, Glenn Blakeney—

The Deputy Speaker: You almost said that.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: [Constituency] 13. I got him. I got him right—

The Deputy Speaker: Unfortunately, you mentioned the name as well.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, yes, sorry about that.

But he got it right, Madam Deputy Speaker. And do you know what he said? The One Bermuda Alliance keeps talking about 14 years of PLP Government. Well, they never forget to dissect that number in half, they never forget to cut it—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Two-thirds, thank you, thank you, Honourable Member.

Because Madam Deputy Speaker, between 1998 and 2008—I have said it a hundred times, I will say it a hundred more—everybody that had a business in this country had record sales between 1998 and 2008. And I have never heard anybody Point-of-order that, Madam Deputy Speaker. And do you know why? It is because it is true.

Everybody in Bermuda that owned a business, Madam Deputy Speaker, between 1998 and 2008 did very, very well in this country. And Bermuda, Bermuda—the PLP—was not responsible for the Bear Stearns collapse, it was not responsible for the Lehman Brothers collapse. No, it was not. No it was not, Madam Deputy Speaker. And we were not responsible for the Bank of Bermuda's collapse either, or Bank of Butterfield's collapse, Madam Deputy Speaker. Okay? You know, we do not talk about that too much, do we? Was anybody from the Progressive Labour Party sitting on the board of the bank when it was on the brink? No. No. No, not at all.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Were they, Madam Deputy Speaker? Who jumped in, saved the Bank of Butterfield and saved 800 Bermudian jobs? The PLP did. That is what we did, Madam Deputy Speaker, that is what we did.

So Madam Deputy Speaker, it is going to be very interesting, it is going to be very interesting going forward to see how the One Bermuda Alliance handle projects like the airport. I hope for the sake of the country that it all works out okay. Because, Madam Deputy Speaker, if the United Kingdom—our mother country—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, yes, the Honourable Member from constituency 32 [sic] loves—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: —loves the UK, he says. The Honourable and Learned Member Shawn Crockwell says he loves . . . he loves—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: He says he loves the UK. Well, I hope he spends a bit of time with them, Madam Deputy Speaker, because if they turned down the Cayman [Islands] for a $200 million project because they had concerns about jobs, the asset and the revenue that was going to leave the country, if the UK turned it down with them, and the same company shows up on our doorstep the following week, I hope . . . I hope . . . for us, for us, Madam Deputy Speaker, that we are going to be okay.

So, Madam Deputy Speaker, if the Honourable Premier wants to hold hands and sing Kumbaya, lead from the front and do not . . . do not . . . you know, bash, bash, bash, bash PLP and then say, Let's sing Kumbaya, let's work together. Okay? So now if you want to work together, if you want to try to move the country forward together—and I am not going to spin it and say we are already turning the corner like the Member from constituency 22 said, We've turned the corner. It's getting better. We're on track, things are looking good, we're great, people are confident—but airline visitors are down, hotel beds are down, the investments they are talking about are all PLP initiatives that they have taken over. Madam Deputy Speaker, let us hope, let us hope that they really want to sing Kumbaya when they shout it from that side of the aisle.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you, Member.

Are there any other Members that would like to speak to the Payroll Tax Rates?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency . . .

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: [Constituency] 23.

The Deputy Speaker: [Constituency] 23, the Minister of Community, Cultural Development & Sport, the Honourable Patricia Gordon-Pamplin.

You have the floor.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

Madam Deputy Speaker, I should be very brief in my contribution to this debate and really remind the listeners and remind Members of this Honourable House that we are, in fact, debating the Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015. Because I believe that this debate has gone far and wide, it has gone all over the place, and I think that it might bode well for us to try to hone in on the purpose for this particular aspect of the debate.

With that said, we are looking at a 0.5 per cent increase in the payroll tax. One of the things that the Honourable Finance Minister indicated was that we have taken the time and made the bother to have the necessary consultation, and as a result, you have not seen the level of push-back that might otherwise have obtained had that consultation not occurred. I believe that we are on the right track.

We recognise that we have a void when it comes to revenue. We realise also that we have to look at additional forms of revenue. That is a given. The Honourable Minister has indicated that we will have someone coming in and looking at our tax base. And as the Honourable Member from constituency 29 had alluded to earlier that one of the recommendations that we had—my Honourable Finance Minister indicated—we will look at that particular aspect on the last Bill, so I will not reflect. But it says that we on this side are willing to listen when recommendations and observations are made that make sense. We are willing to be able to work with Members opposite.

What we are not going to do, Madam Deputy Speaker, is give credit and credence to the fact that Members opposite have decided that we should operate according to their tune. What we are doing is looking at the economy, what we have, and how we can best try to arrest the depth of debt in which we find ourselves, to do something about the $177 million just to service on our debt that we find ourselves in on an annual basis. That is the stranglehold that debt has on us, and we are obligated to find ways by which we can do something to minimise and ultimately to pay off the debt.

At $177 million, Madam Deputy Speaker, if we were able to have that amount of money coming into the coffers that we would have as expendable income, and not having to pay it off the top before anything else is paid, imagine what condition and position this country would be in. We would not be having to press and pressure for things like an extension of furlough days. We would not find ourselves behind the eight ball. We would not find ourselves having to expend as much money on things like financial assistance, because what would happen is that we could utilise that level of revenue, that level of additional money, to be able to implement more programmes and more things that could inure to the benefit of the average person here in Bermuda so that we could start really jump-starting the economy.

So when we look at one-half of one per cent, [0.5 per cent] half of which will be charged to the employee and the other half of which will be charged to the employer, that is one-quarter of one per cent [0.25 per cent] of an increase in payroll tax [each]. Now none of us wants to see payroll tax or any taxes for that matter increase, but when you have no money you have to find some way in which to generate some revenue in order to keep the country afloat. First of all, to pay $177 million dollars—if you have nothing else you at least have to meet that commitment. And then we have the services and goods that are expected of any Government to provide for its people. And that is what we are attempting to do.

So as we look at this Payroll Amendment Act, Madam Deputy Speaker, it is interesting that we hear Members opposite saying, you know, The Finance Minister got it wrong last year. Admit your mistake and let's move on. What did we see in the Budget Reply? And I am not reflecting on the debate but it is important to make reference to the item on page 27, I believe it is, of the Budget Reply from the Honourable Shadow Finance Minister from constituency 18, when he said, This is not a PLP debt, this is not an OBA debt, this is our debt. It is ours. So somehow it is like you guys better say that you made some kind of mistake, but we can say, Oh, it wasn't us . . . It is us, it is our debt—it's everybody's.

I remember making the comment, if you just admit that you were wrong when you raised the level of deficit and went on the (quote/unquote) “drunken sailor” spending spree that caused us to find ourselves in the position in which we now find ourselves, that is forcing us to levy a higher degree of taxation on our people, albeit, one-half of one per cent [0.5 per cent]. You know, I recall the situation when Payroll tax went from 14 [per cent] to 16 per cent—no consultation—one fell swoop, announced it in the budget and what did we have? We had a mass exodus! We had companies that were contracting, companies that decided that they would just pack up and leave rather than be subjected to that level of disrespect by the then-Government.

So what did we do? We learned from their mistakes. Mind you, I have to point out in fairness to the previous Government they very quickly rolled back that 16 per cent down to 14 [per cent] with some half-hearted excuse that said, Oh, it wasn't meant to be permanent. We only meant this to come in for a short period of time. That was never articulated at the time. It was almost like, Let's throw the Jell-O up against the wall, let's try and nail it, and let's hope some of it sticks. But it did not work and it worked negatively to our economy and to the impact on jobs. And that is why we heard the Honourable Member from constituency 22 earlier as he articulated the number of job losses year on year going back, which resulted from the reaction by some of our corporations to that massive tax increase.

We might say that corporations make a lot of money. And let me declare an interest before somebody asks the question. I do work for an international company. But we might say that corporations make significant money and, therefore, they have a lot of money and we can start milking their purse in order to . . . in order for us to pay our bills. Well, let me say that corporations have their shareholders who invest in those corporations and it is to those shareholders to whom they have an obligation to report.

So with that we cannot make an assumption that you can jump from 14 per cent to 16 per cent and because they have bigger bottom lines that they will automatically eat it because invariably, as we have seen in most of the international company arena, they have options. There is no international company that I know of that does not have a branch, a subsidiary, a sister company, somewhere within their group elsewhere. And it is at the press of a button that one can decide that I will operate in Bermuda today or I could be in Ireland tomorrow or Singapore the next day or London or Belgium or any other of the choices that companies set themselves up to give them the options.

So when we look at tax increases, we have to be judicious in the application. And the first thing we do is go and to say to them, We are in dire straits. We need for everybody to feel some of this pinch. We have asked the civil service to take a furlough day, so they are feeling . . . they are making their contribution. We now need you corporations to also make your contribution. Yes, it is a bitter pill to swallow when things are tight.

The Honourable Member from constituency 18—the Shadow Finance Minister—indicated that we followed his advice because last year he suggested that we roll back some of the benefits, tax advantages, for some of the companies that we have . . . the tax benefits, and that we have now followed his advice this year. Well, the economy was teetering and extremely tenuous last year at this time and could not take it. So you are not going to start to impose additional taxes at a time when it is difficult to breathe.

You know, there is a song that is out that says something like, My head's underwater, but I'm breathing fine. Well, we are going to make sure that the actions that we take are not going to put our companies underwater. We have to be able to coexist in this environment, in this economy, for the better good of every single individual—both corporate and personal—and we find ourselves—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of clarification.

The Deputy Speaker: The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 26.

You have the floor.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you.

I would like the Honourable Minister to inform the House who has raised the issue of taxing companies? And are you referring to an increase in payroll tax or capital gains tax?

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I am speaking about the Payroll Tax Act that we are now debating. I was not talking about capital gains tax.

I am saying that we have to coexist in an environment in which we are asking everybody to pay some of their fair share in order to help to get the country out of the deep financial crisis in which we have found ourselves. That is the point that I am making because . . . you know, when I hear things like the Honourable Leader of the Opposition who made the comment that . . . you know, the Finance Minister borrowed $800 million and somehow it was meant to last for three years—yes, it was—and then what do we hear? Poof! It is gone.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order.

The Deputy Speaker: The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 26.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: In typical fashion the Honourable Minister who was not present for the debate has claimed that I have said something when someone else made that statement. So I would ask the Honourable Minister to retract her statement.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the—

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I will certainly retract the statement if it was not the Honourable Member. But somebody—I think it was the Honourable Member from constituency 29—somebody on that side. They all sound alike. They all sound alike from the perspective that what they want to do is to point fingers, throw barbs, throw the darts on this side of the aisle basically to say, Everything you guys do is all wrong.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Point of order. Point of order, point of order.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: That is what we feel.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you. One moment.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: That is what we feel.

The Deputy Speaker: Have a seat please.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: The Honourable Member—

The Deputy Speaker: Wait, please, until I acknowledge you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency—

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: —the Honourable Member is deliberately—

The Deputy Speaker: Member! Can I finish speaking, please?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 13.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker, I apologise.

But the Honourable Member is deliberately misleading the House when she, by her very statement previous to me getting up, completely contradicts herself by doing exactly what she is accusing us of doing.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 23.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I have no clue what that Honourable Member was just trying to say, but it was certainly not a point of order. But it is okay; we understand.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: But let me just move on and say one final thing. I will say one final thing.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Deputy Speaker: Shhhh.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: That we feel on this side of the aisle that every time we attempt to do something that helps to refloat the drowning country that we inherited from the now-Opposition that we get, we feel that we get criticism not for the policy, but for the sake that I believe that Members opposite are still suffering from PTSD. [sic], I believe. I believe.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I am sorry, PTSD—PTSD—I got it wrong. I got it wrong.

But let me just say, that of the $800 million, it is important to point out that part of that money that would have under normal circumstances, perhaps, been able to finance three years' worth of deficits and money that was borrowed in one area at one time at better rates for the actual . . . the cost of the borrowing, that some of that money actually had to go to pay off some of the supplementaries that we had from debt that was incurred that we had inherited that had not yet hit the budget that we then had to provide for.

So let us say that, yes, this is something that everybody is responsible for, everybody has contributed to, but now as we are looking to increase tax by 0.5 per cent for our Payroll Tax, let me say that while we do not relish the idea of having to do it, under the circumstances and in the position in which we find ourselves, I do not believe that we have much option.

Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you.

Are there any other Members that would like to speak to the Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act?

There are no other Members.

The Chair recognises the Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Madam Deputy Speaker.

Madam Deputy Speaker, much has been said this evening. I would like to make a few points, if I can read my own writing (which I do not write very well).

I think that one conclusion that I can draw from the debate so far is that the Opposition still refuses to acknowledge their poor stewardship of the public purse during their tenure. There was much reference made to the good years during their tenure, but I can say unequivocally that the record shows that between 1998 and 2008—a period when the economy was still growing strongly—that in spite of that, they still managed to increase the public debt during that period.

They also managed to increase the amount that government paid for salaries and benefits. They managed to increase that to a greater extent than the economy itself grew. So there has been poor stewardship even during good times and, of course, when the bottom fell out and they did not anticipate it, they would not even acknowledge it for about a year and a half, by that time it was too late, the spending had really clobbered the public purse.

So as my honourable colleague stated, the Minister of Economic Development, that it is hard to give credibility to critics who do not want to admit what they did and do not want to admit the effect that it has had on our stewardship, on our situation, what we have had to deal with. So those are critical points.

Now, we are proposing to raise the Payroll Tax by a half of a per cent [0.5 per cent]. When I am listening to the rhetoric coming from the other side you would have thought we were trying to raise the Payroll Tax by 15 per cent or 20 per cent. The degree of rhetoric bears no proportion to the amount that we are trying to raise this tax. It is a small rise, it is a very small rise, and it is deliberately so. And in spite of the fact that it is a small rise in tax, we went out of our way to consult with our industry partners. And the reason that there was not a great deal of exclamation—weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth, so to speak—the reason that there was acceptance of this is because, unlike the other side when they rose taxes, we not only just consulted with them but we explained the situation so that they understood the predicament that the Government was in—that was the first thing—and how important it was to try to break the deficit. Because they know that the deficit and credit rating of the Government indirectly affects them. They know that. So when the situation was explained to them, there was an acceptance.

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Also, Mr. Speaker, they accepted it because they saw that the Government was making efforts to reduce its expenditure. You see, what the problem was when the PLP blindsided them with that tax increase, what really annoyed business people was that there did not appear to be any attempt on the part of that Government to slim its size, to cut the fat. Instead they thought that they were being asked to finance the fat—finance the fat!

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: And therefore that is what they found to be very difficult to swallow.

So that is the difference between what we are doing here tonight and what happened under the former Government: (a) we have consulted widely; (b) we have given reasons why this has to be done and connect those reasons to taxpayers; and (c) we can show that we are not asking them to finance a Government that is not on its own accord trying to cut expenses.

Because that is the most egregious part of a tax increase, if you increase taxes on the public and you do not make any real attempt to cut the waste. So they are saying, you know, Why are you asking us to pay more money for the waste? That is the problem. So they could see that we are making efforts in respect of those things. And that is why it was met with acceptance.

Now you know nobody is going to jump up and down and say, I'm happy that we're paying more taxes. Nobody is going to say that and that is not what we expected, but I think there was general acceptance that what we were doing was necessary under the circumstances and that we as a Government were doing our part to cut costs. Because they know that as taxpayers they are paying for our costs. So it was an understanding between the Government and the private sector in this respect. And that understanding has caused the public reaction—the general public reaction—that everybody is aware of, that there has been no statements of consternation by major players.

So you know, Mr. Speaker, and people have to understand different people react in different ways when they are unhappy. You know, there were people in January who were unhappy about whatever—quite frankly, I am not sure what they were unhappy about—but they were unhappy and they marched up and down the streets and in front of the Cabinet building. Those folks were unhappy. But when the people who provide income to this country in international business, when they are unhappy you never see them marching. You see them leaving quietly. They head for the exits and they head for the exits quietly. That is what happened under the administration of the former Government. There were no marches on the street from the people who were most upset, they just left quietly. Because that is—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order, oh, my gracious.

The Speaker: Yes, what is your point of order, Honourable Member?

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. You will know as well as I—

The Speaker: Okay, there would have been marches, yes, all right.

Thank you. Thank you.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: We saw marches from international business people?

The Speaker: Not from international business people.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: That is what I am talking about. We are not talking about the man on the moon; we are talking about international business. You saw marches from international business people?

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Mr. Speaker, he is asking me a question so could I—

The Speaker: That is all right, Honourable Member.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: —because they did march to Dr. Brown, right? Remember? And I am sure that some of those folks were international business people.

The Speaker: All right.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I would like to think.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: You saw international business people marching because of the increase in payroll taxes? That is what we are talking about here. We do not have any time for non sequitur here, Member, all right? We are talking about increases in payroll taxes. That is a complete non sequitur, complete.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: So, now, let me make a few reflections on some other things that we are seeing. You know, let me say this, Mr. Speaker, that the one thing that Honourable Opposition are most afraid of . . . they are most afraid of this Government being successful. They are terrified of us—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes?

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is misleading the House for sure. Mr. Speaker, I have said many times—

The Speaker: All right. Okay, Honourable Member. Okay, you say he is misleading . . . please take your seat.

Thank you. Thank you, you say he is misleading. Sit down.

Carry on, Honourable Member.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Clearly not, it is my opinion, not misleading. And I think it is the opinion of everybody over here. They are afraid of us being successful. Therefore, any initiative that looks like it is going to be successful is criticised. Any initiative that has been successful is criticised.

Case in point—the initiative for new Bermuda hires. You can never get anybody over there to agree that this was successful, even though it created 400 jobs. But no, they find some way for it to be perceived by people who cannot see through their rhetoric as it is somehow unsuccessful.

You know, we have got the America's Cup. Well, that has not happened yet, but still we are getting rhetoric that is negative on that. All right? There is misleading about how much it is going to cost. All right? And there are all kinds of things . . . you know, we are giving money to rich people and it is not going to affect the average Bermudian—all this sort of stuff. They are afraid that we are going to be successful!

There is yard after yard of criticism of the airport, why? Because they are afraid we are going to be successful. They are afraid we are going to create many, many jobs for Bermudians at the airport. This business about people being made redundant at the airport is lunacy. What is going to happen at the airport is that the staff at the airport is going to be increased. The investors told us so.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: There will be more people working at the airport than there are now. That is the plan! So we have got this nonsensical thing about creating fear among the staff who work down there of redundancies. So they are just trying to throw something out there to undermine it. So they are afraid—

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: They are afraid we are going to be successful. And do you know why, Mr. Speaker? The pattern has been set for years on that side where they will put their party's future above the future of this country. They are more interested in their party; they are more interested in getting back into power, driving their GP cars, and whatever. They are more interested in that than in the interests of the Bermudian people. We have had that time and time again.

POINT OF ORDER

[Imputing improper motives]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Point of order. Point of order. He is [imputing] improper motives.

Mr. Speaker, you would know, you would know in particular, some of the initiatives that you introduced, some of the social programmes that the former Government introduced that have benefitted this country Island-wide—

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: —international business and business included.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

There have been some statements made about investments in Bermuda, particularly the investment in Morgan's Point, that somehow if an investor invests in Morgan's Point partially backed by a Government guarantee that that investor is taking no risk.

Mr. Speaker, if investing in the Bermuda Government was not risky, then we would be paying the same interest as the United States of America. We do not. We pay a premium on interest on the United States of America and that premium is because Bermuda is riskier—a riskier investment—just the Government is a riskier investment than the United States. We are AA- credit [rating]. The United States is over AAA. They are over AAA.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Member is misleading the House.

The Honourable Member, sorry.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

Mr. E. David Burt: The Honourable Member will know that the United States of America's credit rating was downgraded from AAA.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Honourable Member does not know anything about investments. He just does not know anything.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I mean, that is the most ridiculous thing you have ever said. One credit agency did that—the one—but the rest of them still have them rated at not only AAA . . . the United States gets a lower interest rate than other AAA credits. They are above AAA.

[Inaudible interjections and crosstalk]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Listen and learn, young man. All right?

[Inaudible interjections and laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, yes, Honourable Member.

Mr. E. David Burt: There is only one rating agency that gives AAA ratings, and that one, that gave the AAA rating, downgraded the United States.

Some Hon. Members: Ooh!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: You are saying there is only one credit agency that rates the United States of America?

This is sheer nonsense.

The Speaker: Carry on, Honourable Member.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: This is sheer nonsense, Mr. Speaker.

So—

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Order! Order, Members.

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The point here, Mr. Speaker, is that the statement that there is no risk in an investment that is backed by the Bermuda Government is incorrect. It is an incorrect statement. The risk is the Bermuda Government. The Bermuda Government has a risk. The risk has to do with the debt. The debt is in relation to your stewardship of this country. So the risk of the Bermuda Government is directly related to your stewardship of the public purse.! So that is the risk. Do you understand now?

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Point of order.

The Speaker: There is no . . . there is no, Honourable Member—

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: But, a point of order.

The Speaker: What is your point?

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: He is misleading the House.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, he has his opinion and—

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Well, but the—

The Speaker: —please take your seat.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: —the risk is the policy—

The Speaker: Honourable Member, take your seat!

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: —of the OBA Government.

The Speaker: Take your seat.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: That is the risk.

The Speaker: Take your seat!
Carry on.

An Hon. Member: I think he had a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. So there has a lot that has been said about . . . I am going to get back to the airport now because I am tired of hearing this misinformation on the airport. I am tired of it. I really am tired of it.

What we have here, Mr. Speaker, I will reiterate, that we found a way to finance an airport with little or no impact on the Bermuda Government public purse. I know that the former Government wanted to build an airport. They could not figure out how to finance it—we have. Now we have had, you know, my mother used to say, from the sublime to the ridiculous, but there is no sublime here, there is just the ridiculous. And you know, statements by an Honourable Member about how CCC are arm's traders. You know, I mean, this is just a great example of . . . you throw muck up against a wall and see what sticks.

You know, if the Opposition wants to create jobs in Bermuda, they would be for this airport. They would be before it because to be against this airport is to be against the creation of Bermudian jobs. There are going to be over 600 jobs that are going to be created and 400 long-term jobs are going to be created by the construction and operation of that airport. If they are against the airport, they are against the creation of jobs for Bermudians. It is as simple as that.

Now, I can see the procurement process is different from the standard, but Mr. Speaker, the standard does not have a good track record. It has a very bad track record. And that is the reason we have taken this route to protect the public purse against the risks from the standard procurement process. Let us remember this, Mr. Speaker, the construction of the Berkeley Institute was done under the standard of—

[Gavel]

The Speaker: Honourable Member Blakeney, if you will turn your chair around, I do not like looking at Members' backs.

Carry on, please.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Berkeley Institute was built under the standard process that they are holding up as the Holy Grail, and you know we had these huge overruns.

The project that we are proposing here has safeguards against that. And the safeguards are not the Bermudian safeguards, the safeguards are put up by CCC. So while somebody might say we are not doing things the normal way, we have gone the extra mile to protect the public purse and Bermuda in general against the risks associated with that project. The risks of overruns, the risks of lateness, the risks having to do with a job . . . you know, you put stuff out and jobs never materialise. All these risks are being either eliminated or mitigated.

There is this stuff about how all this money is going out to a foreign entity. Mr. Speaker, this foreign entity is borrowing the money to build that airport. And whatever money goes to that project, most of it, in the first half of the 30 years most of that money is going to pay off that debt. We are not paying it, but it has got to be paid. So this whole nonsense about, you know, we are paying all this money to some foreign company and it is going out of Bermuda. Mr. Speaker, if I as Finance Minister signed a note of $250-odd million to build that airport, the same money would go out of Bermuda. You cannot build an airport in Bermuda without money going out of Bermuda—impossible—because we would have to borrow from abroad.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: So that is . . . somebody said it is a false narrative. That is the ultimate in false narrative.

Again, the motive is to throw muck against anything that looks like it will be successful. That is the motive. So everything you hear has to be heard within that context and then it all makes sense. It all makes sense.

There is the stuff about the Cayman [Islands] and the British closing down the CCC project in the Cayman [Islands]. That is not entirely true. It is partially true, but it is not entirely true, because the Caymanians did not want that deal. The Caymanians did not want that deal.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: No, they did not. Their Premier wanted the deal. The people from Canada went down to meet the Airport Authority in the Cayman [Islands] and they refused to meet them. They refused to meet them. And do you know why? Because they did not want the transparency requirements of a CCC deal. They did not want it.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: That is right. The standards that CCC require . . . they were not prepared to abide by them. So that deal was torpedoed from both sides of the ship. It was torpedoed by the British and it was torpedoed by the Caymanians, too. So that deal did not stand a chance.

But we have worked, Mr. Speaker, with Her Majesty's Government to find a way forward so that they will not impede us in having this capital project that will create hundreds of jobs for Bermudians. We have found a way forward for this. I have said it before and I am saying it again.

So if you have something and it is something that is good, you can eventually persuade people who are perhaps not convinced that it is a good thing . . . you can find ways to persuade them, and we have stuck to this so that we can get an agreement and an acquiescence from Her Majesty's Government that this will go ahead.

So this is what has happened, we have stuck to the wicket because we know how important this is to create all those hundreds of jobs. That is the important thing. And this is going to be a strategic asset for Bermuda for a long, long time. You know, it does not matter who builds it. It really does not even matter who is operating it, because it is always ours. It is always going to be ours. So we can have Bermudians working there and it is going to be good for Bermuda all around. It will be good for our image going forward for tourism and everything.

So the criticism of this airport has only gained currency because yours truly and the Minister of Transport and Tourism have not said very much about it—yet. And why is that? It is the same reason that we announced the deal a few days after the Throne Speech—we are not going to say anything until we have got it all figured out. We are not going to be dribbling all kinds of pieces of information before we are sure what we are talking about. Two days after the Throne Speech I was able to make an announcement to the Bermudian public because at least I knew what I knew up to that point—that we started on a journey. We are still on a journey with the airport, and Mr.

Speaker, we are like an army going forward, we are taking incoming from the other side but we are still moving forward on this airport, still moving forward!

[Desk thumping]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Some other points here, and I will move on after that. I think we have had some comments here that show that people do not understand the investment process. I just talked about it earlier, but I wanted to say something else. It was stated, why would somebody have confidence in an investment and still look for a guarantee or some sort of other thing to back an investment?

Mr. Speaker, that speaks to somebody who does not understand the investment process. You know, if you are a banker or an investor and you can lend money to somebody, you are not going to lend money to somebody if you think the thing is going to fail. It does not matter what they offer. If you think the thing is going to fail and you are not going to get your money back, they are not going to make the investment. But even if they think that they are going to get their money back, they will still ask for collateral. Everybody knows that. If you go to a bank, they are going to ask you for collateral.

And in this case the people at Morgan's Point got a guarantee from the Bermuda Government as collateral because the site was a site that was polluted and they could not use the property as collateral, because it was viewed that the property still may be polluted and that risk made it difficult for them to raise money. But I can tell you, since we have stepped up to the plate for that project with our guarantee, there has been a lot of money coming in offered to those developers to move forward. A lot more than what we are committed to. But collateral will be required. And I have to say this, for our guarantee we have taken collateral—as a Government. We are not giving any collateral. We are not giving any guarantee to those guys for free. I made it very clear to them from the get go. We do not rent out the Bermuda Government balance sheet for free. We will not ever do that. You know the former Finance Minister Cox, she did not do that preferred thing for free and neither should she.

And, you know, here is the difference between ourselves and the former Government, Mr. Speaker. You know, people are talking about the Butterfield Bank deal. I remember. I was sitting over there. The difference between us and them—when the then-Finance Minister and Premier rose at this desk and told this Parliament about what she was going to do, what did her counterpart say? Her counterpart (being me) . . . what did I say? I rose and fully supported her in her initiative—100 per cent—supported her in her initiative to bail out the Butterfield Bank. All right? Because it was good for Bermuda. It was—

[Inaudible interjections]

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: That was inappropriate. That is inappropriate.

The Speaker: Honourable Member—

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: That is totally inappropriate.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, no, no. Please take your seat.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Yes.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Please take your seat. Take your seat and be quiet, please.

Carry on, Honourable Member.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: You know, I could have tried to score political points on that day, to pour cold water all over Ms. Cox's initiative to help out the Butterfield Bank, but I knew that would be bad for Bermuda because I knew that if Butterfield Bank collapsed, the economy of Bermuda would collapse. It was as simple as that. So that is what I had to do, and I did it.

But would any of these guys do that? We have got these good projects going, but everything that looks like it would be good for Bermuda—they throw muck up against it every time. Every time. And that is the difference, Mr. Speaker, between this side of the aisle and that side of the aisle. That is the difference. We are here for the interest of Bermuda, whether we are here on this side or that side, and it has been proven. If it is good for Bermuda, we are for it. If it is not good for Bermuda, we are not for it. No matter whose idea it was. No matter who is in the driver's seat—that is our track record. It is not theirs.

And with that, Mr. Speaker, I move that this Bill be committed.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

It has been moved that the Bill be committed.

Any objections to that?

There are none.

I would like to ask the Deputy Speaker if she would please take the Chair [of Committee].

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

COMMITTEE ON BILL

PAYROLL TAX RATES AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Minister?

The Chairman: Honourable Members, we are now in Committee of the whole House for further consideration of the Bill entitled Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015.

I call on the Minister in charge to proceed.
Minister, you have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, this Bill seeks to increase certain rates of payroll tax as set out in the Payroll Tax Rates Act 1995 [the principal Act], and to extend the special situation set out in section 9(2)(f) of the Payroll Tax Act 1995. I will move all clauses.

Clause 1 is self-explanatory.

Clause 2 amends section 3(1) and (2) of the principal Act so as to increase the standard rate by half of one percent from 14 per cent to 14.5 per cent.

Clause 3 amends section 4(1) of the principal Act so as to increase by half of one percent (from 7.75 per cent to 8.25 per cent) the rate prescribed for the purpose of section 9 of the Payroll Tax Act 1995 (that is for employees in special situations). The rate prescribed for employees falling within the special situation in section 9(2)(f) of that Act is increased by a quarter of one per cent (from 5.25 per cent to 5.5 per cent). However, the rate prescribed for employees falling within the special situations in section 9(2)(a) and 9(2)(e)(i) of that Act remain unchanged (at zero per cent and 7.25 per cent, respectively).

Clause 4 amends section 5 of the principal Act to increase by half of one percentage point the rates payable by employers falling within Class A; paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of Class B; and Class BB (increasing from 9.75 per cent, 7.25 per cent, 10.75 per cent and 12.75 per cent to 10.25 per cent, 7.75 per cent, 11.25 per cent and 13.25 per cent, respectively). For employers falling within Class C the increase is one quarter of a percentage point from 5.25 per cent to 5.5 per cent. However, the rate for paragraphs (d), (e) and (f) of Class B remains unchanged at 7.25 per cent.

Clause 5 amends section 7 of the principal Act to increase the statutory proportion of tax recoverable from employees from 5.25 per cent to 5.5 per cent.

Clause 6 amends section 9(2)(f)(ii) of the Payroll Tax Act 1995 to extend the special situation in paragraph (f) so as to include Bermudian employees who are employed on or before 31 March 2016.

Clause 7 provides for commencement on 1 April 2015.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any Members that would like to speak to clauses 1 through 7?

There are no Members.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, having moved those clauses—

The Chairman: It has been moved that clauses 1 through 7 be approved as printed.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Yes.

The Chairman: Are there any objections to that motion?

No objections.
Agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: Clauses 1 through 7 passed]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I would like to move the Preamble, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Preamble be approved as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?
No objections.
Agreed to.

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I would like to move that the Bill be reported to the House as printed.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Bill be reported to the House as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?

An Hon. Member: Yes.

The Chairman: Since there was an objection, all Members in favour of the motion please, say Aye.

AYES.

The Chairman: All those opposed please, say Nay.

NOES.

The Chairman: I believe the Ayes have it.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015 was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed without amendment.]

House resumed at 12:16 am

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

PAYROLL TAX RATES AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Speaker: The Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015 has been approved.

And we now move to the final one of the day, which is the Second Reading of the Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Amendment Act 2015 in the name of the Minister of Finance.

Minister?

BILL

SECOND READING

MISCELLANEOUS TAXES (RATES) AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I now ask for the Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Amendment Act 2015 to be read a second time.

The Speaker: Are there any objections?
Carry on, Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, Government wishes this Honourable House to give consideration to the Bill entitled the Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Amendment Act 2015.

This Bill provides for a revenue raising measure to support the Government's 2015/16 budget.

Honourable Members will recall that in the 2015/16 National Budget the Government announced that with the pending redevelopment of the L. F. Wade International Airport, the Airport Departure Tax would be raised from $35.00 to $50.00 per passenger and will yield additional revenue of about $5.5 million. This tax is charged under the authority of the Miscellaneous Taxes Act 1976 in respect of every passenger departing Bermuda by air.

The tax is payable by the owner, operator or agent of the aircraft within 10 days of the end of each calendar month.

Certain exemptions apply including a child under the age of two years, consular employees, in transit passengers, and officers and crew of any aircraft.

The tax is charged at the rate of $35.00 per passenger, now to be increased to $50.00 per passenger.

The last time this tax was increased was in 2008 when it was increased from $25.00 to $35.00 per passenger.

Mr. Speaker, the new airport terminal represents a major economic stimulus to our economy spread over about three years. In benchmarking total associated airport fees paid by passengers, Bermuda is well within range following this increase in departure taxes.

Here is a complete benchmark of total airport fees paid by passengers in other destinations, total fees paid by these countries are as follows:

- Jamaica—$82.91;
- Dominican Republic—$82.60;
- Bahamas—$76.00;
- Turks and Caicos—$70.00;
- Cayman [Islands]—$64.65;
- US—$63.00;
- Bermuda—$58.30;
- St. Maarten—$51.91;
- Barbados—$32.20;
- Puerto Rico—$27.80.

Mr. Speaker, this increase is just one piece of the puzzle to make the financial model for the redevelopment of the airport sustainable. Financial modelling and other preliminary work with regard to the airport project are ongoing and I shall update this Honourable House as soon as the formal go decision is made on this project.

With those introductory remarks, Mr. Speaker, I would now like the Bill to be read a second time.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Leader of the Opposition, MP Marc Bean.

You have the floor.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I am grateful for the Minister of Finance in his brief being out front and frank and admitting that this raising of departure tax has nothing to do with deficit reduction, nothing to do with fiscal responsibility, but everything to do with fattening the calf for CCC to make it more attractive for slaughter. And you understand the calf slaughtered, like Kobe beef. This has nothing to do with deficit reduction at all.

So, I mean, that was a question I was going to ask, in fact, I was going to make the claim, but the Minister admitted it. So I think that is interesting.

But before I get into this—

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Point of order.

The Speaker: Honourable Member . . . yes?

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Honourable Member is misleading the House by saying it has nothing to do with deficit reduction. By hiring those extra 600 people who are all paying payroll tax has a lot to do with deficit reduction.

The Speaker: All right.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Oh, boy. Okay.

The Speaker: Carry on.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Okay, if you say so, Minister of Finance.

Mr. Speaker, before I go any further let me just, again, reiterate this false narrative that is out there which says that we—the Progressive Labour Party—would do anything to ensure that the OBA does not see any success. And I find that to be a default victim-like narrative, when all else has failed, they have been held to account and found wanting, now it is we want the OBA to not see success.

But I tell you what, earlier the Minister mentioned in the last debate about Bank of Butterfield and he said that he supported the former Minister of Finance because it was under Dr. Brown at that time, but it was the Minister of Finance, . . . they supported the guarantee for Butterfield Bank.

I asked a simple question because he made it seem like he supported it out of the genuine goodness of his heart. Now, I am not doubting it, but my question across the floor—and you did correct me—was, Well, Minister Richards, did you have any shares in the bank at that time, too? That is a genuine, legitimate question as to what was the motive. Because I could tell you, Mr. Speaker, I remember. I was in the room when you had the Butterfield Board, the Bermuda Cabinet, and you had on speakerphone Rothschild [Inc.] calling the shots. I was there. And I can recall Members, even my colleagues, some who were concerned . . . do you know what about? Their shares and their deposits. And that was the driving motivating factor in the room from the political side to bail out or give assistance to the Butterfield Bank. So I am not afraid—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Yes, because that is human nature. That is human nature.

The Rothschild's [Inc.] were calling the shots. We were brought to the Cabinet, like within an hour or two we called to an emergency meeting. We got there and I said, What's happening? But it had to be hush-hush because we could not let the public know of the current situation within the bank because it could have led to a bank run. So we just kept it quiet. But those of us as we had to grasp that information . . . I saw it. Members were thinking first and foremost, not as a politician or a leader, but as a human being. What? Butterfield Bank's in trouble? My deposits . . . my shares. And then it was, Oh, my jobs.

So let us not front and make it seem like one was being an angel when they supported that. Trust me everyone in Bermuda supported the bail out of Butterfield Bank. Okay?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Well, that is not true. A few of us did not.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: You are absolutely right.

The Minister of Finance says, My Government didn't.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: No, I said a few.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: A few.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: No, actually I can name them on one, two fingers, honestly. I took note of it. I did not forget.

But now let me move forward into my substantial contribution, because this will be fairly short. I hope that this is not a repeat of the last debate when you had the Honourable Premier walk in and just do his best attempt to deflect and make the debate descend. He did not touch on one substantive issue regarding the payroll tax or the tax increase—nothing—Mr. Speaker. And if people are listening they would be like, What's wrong with them people up in the House? Well, look where it starts—

The Speaker: Get on . . . get on . . . get on with this—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Look where it starts, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Get on with this debate.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Well, the Premier will have ample opportunity to give a contribution on this Bill. And let us see, let us see what he is actually produced outside of rhetoric from an iPad.

[Laughter]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Mr. Speaker—

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Honourable Members.

[Gavel]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: As an example, I used a simple analogy about increasing revenues. Okay? And it was a third grade analogy, but the Premier said that it was an eleventh grade analogy but he still could not understand it. It went right over his head. But it was a third grade analogy, it is called the Laffer curve. Ever hear of it Honourable Premier? The Laffer curve, I know it is a supply side ideal or principle, but lower taxes may lead to higher revenues. But I understand . . . third grade, indeed.

Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Minister of Finance in his budget said that international business is contracting, or it is flat (my words, not his, I am paraphrasing). And so then he also wrote and he came up with this new and erudite idea. And do you know what that was? By stating that IB [international business] was contracting, he came up with this novel idea that we need to focus on tourism. And then he says the big idea for stimulating the economy, after 27 months, the big idea is hotel development. Mr. Speaker, that is not Minister Richard's idea, that is Dr. Ewart Brown's idea.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: And so the Minister says, But he couldn't make it work.

But let me ask the people of this country if they think that this strategy being deployed by the Minister will work. He says that in order to focus on tourism and stimulate the economy, we have to have hotel development, but to have hotel development you have to have increasing air arrivals, Mr. Speaker. Would that not be the prerequisite for attracting investors? Of course it is. Of course it is! Nobody is going to build . . . nobody is going to go down the road of mal-investment and build a hotel when there is no one coming through the airport. I mean, and that too, is a grade three lesson, Mr. Premier. No one is coming.

So lo and behold, guess what—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Guess what our crystal ball Minister of Finance does? Tourism is our new focus. Hotel development is our new stimulus and is based on air arrivals. So guess what the crystal ball Minister of Finance does? He increases the cost of travel to Bermuda. He raises departure tax.

Now I said it earlier, let me say it again, that is a sure sign of confusion. When you are doing things, when you have a good intention, but then you realise that the road and how it is paved, and then you start saying one thing and then contradict yourself with something else. It is absolute confusion. If tourism is the new focus, and hotel development is the new stimulus, how on earth do you tax the bloodstream of both strategies? How do you increase the taxes in it?

And we know it is not to reduce the deficit, it is to fatten the calf for CCC.

My, oh my. It is absolute confusion. And I know the people who are listening online in Bermuda or abroad and on radio are saying, Wow, listening to the One Bermuda Alliance I could truly say that their arrogance has actually been revealed like the Emperor has no clothes—their arrogance has revealed itself to be ignorance, Mr. Speaker. They are showing that they do not know what they are doing. That is what I mean by ignorance, they just do not know. That is how it appears.

So in one instance this evening we tax property in a depressed property market, then we tax labour in a depressed market with increasing unemployment, then we go ahead and tax the goose that lays the silver eggs—tourism—not gold, it is silver, but we tax it. And I am sure that the Minister and a few other . . . well, one or two other OBA MPs are going to get up and say, Well, it's the PLP's fault and rae, rae, rae. Well, when, Dr. Brown was pursuing his hotel strategy at least he had higher air arrivals. He was functioning in a better environment. This is a worse environment. And you are actually doing things that are contrary to attracting more visitors to the country. It is absolutely shameful. And that is what happens when you have a party that is confused at its core.

Then Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Minister mentioned something about CCC and this airport. And then he tried to give some roundabout rationale for what happened in the Cayman Islands, which is absolutely unheard of. I have never seen or read that version anywhere.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: No, that is because you just made it up in your head.

[Inaudible interjection]

POINT OF ORDER

[Imputing improper motives]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Honourable Member is imputing improper motives; basically he is calling me a liar. I am not. I know something that he does not know.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Carry on, MP

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I am sure people who are listening are saying, Uh-huh, Minister, right . . . right, right . . . Mm-hmm.

So he says that we did not follow that route or the traditional way when dealing with CCC because the traditional way does not work. The “traditional”—for people who are listening—means the proper transparent tender process. He says that did not work. So what . . . so what did he do? He would take the least transparent route known to any Government—a $250 million no-bid contract. So the right transparent approach to the airport did not work for some reason, but now you are going to the bottom of the barrel and you sole source? Again, that is the mindset of confused leadership.

Let me close by saying this, we are against (again, for the third time tonight) this tax hike. And to know that it has nothing to do with reducing the deficit, regardless of what the Honourable Minister of Finance says, this is just to fatten the calf for his peeps and Mr. Butt and Somers Construction and Aecon and CCC. To know that, and now my ticket when I have to travel is going to increase by $15.00. It might not seem like a lot to those in the OBA, but that is a lot you know, Mr. Speaker. That is a lot.

But we do not . . . let me make it clear. All we do as an Opposition, and I take the compliments that we complain and we try to block you and get in your way and we do not want to see success. That is a compliment of our effectiveness as an Opposition, that is all that is. So I take it as a compliment. But let me make it clear to you all in the OBA. Let me make it clear. We do not have to try to be negative towards you or wish you a lack of success. We do not have to do it. The One Bermuda Alliance is its own stumbling block. That arrogance is actually ignorance, but they are arrogant enough not to understand it, Mr. Speaker. We do not have to do anything to wish you not having success.

I mean, how can you have success when there is a law that cannot be voided and that is a law that says, You reap what you sow. How could we stop it when you are the one that planted peas and now are surprised that you are reaping corn? We had nothing to do with it. All we are doing is holding the One Bermuda Alliance to account, and it drives them crazy. Watch the response when I sit down and watch the low-level gutter politic debate putting people to sleep that comes from the One Bermuda Alliance. And I am sure the Premier is not going to leave because he already gave his best shot and bottom knives cannot cut meat, okay? So that was already proven.

All we are doing is asking questions. Why are you raising taxes? Why? Because your economic policy has failed. Okay, well, why are you raising the departure tax? Nothing to do with economic policies failed, this is just about ensuring in the future that . . . we all know what CCC and this airport is about, Mr. Speaker. Yes. And that is why they are fattening the calf. It has nothing to do with deficit reduction, so it is an absolute shame. It is an absolute shame that after 27 months the best thing that the Minister of Finance can come up with, the best thing he could come up with are strategies that he then brings legislation to counteract. He brings strategies after 27 months, and then, at the same time period, brings legislation to counteract those strategies. That is the sure sign of confusion.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Learned Member from constituency 31, the Minister of Tourism and Transport.

Minister Crockwell, you have the floor.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Recognising the lateness of the hour, Mr. Speaker, I deem it appropriate to comment on this piece of legislation specifically as it impacts a department which falls under my remit. And Mr. Speaker, when this was brought to my attention and brought to the Cabinet, I certainly raised some concerns, as I have heard tonight, as it relates specifically to the impact it may have on those travelling to Bermuda.

Certainly we do not want to have the cost to be prohibitive of individuals travelling to Bermuda and so this decision was not taken in a vacuum, and it certainly was not taken in the absence of sufficient information. And although when you look at the totality of the increase taking the departure tax now from $35.00 to $50.00 and you look at it in isolation it does compare high to our competitor jurisdictions. But when you look at all of the associated airport fees paid by passengers, Bermuda still remains within a competitive range.

If I can just, with your permission, Mr. Speaker, refer to what some of the other jurisdiction's costs are. The total airport fees paid by passengers travelling to Jamaica is $82.91; travelling to the Dominican Republic is $82.60; travelling to the Bahamas is $76.00; travelling to Turks and Caicos is $70.00; travelling to the Cayman Islands is $64.65; travelling to the United States is $63.00; and then for Bermuda, the total airport fees travelling to Bermuda, is now $58.31.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: No, this is with the increase now, it is $58.31.

So, yes, it is an increase but we still are competitive. In fact, we are less than some of our direct competitors like the Bahamas, like Jamaica, the Dominican Republic and others. So the Minister of Finance had this information and, in fact, when he first brought it to the Cabinet, I went and had a conference with the General Manager of the airport and spoke to him and said, What impact will this have on the airport? Obviously, in an ideal world we do not want to see an increase and we do not want to see an augmentation of the cost. But all of that was laid out to me. And he said, Minister, Bermuda will remain competitive.

So the individuals that we are vying for who are travelling all around the world are accustomed to these types of airport fees. So we do not believe that this will have a deleterious impact on individuals wanting to travel to Bermuda.

But the reality is and this is what I do not think the Opposition seems to get, I think they get it but they dismiss it, and the fact of the matter is, Mr. Speaker, is we are not operating in ideal circumstances. So I may say to the Minister of Finance, In an ideal world I want this, but the fact of the matter is we are not in an ideal world. And I have applauded the Finance Minister because he is making things happen under extraordinary circumstances.

It is interesting that every project that we are talking about . . . okay, you want to talk about the airport? Well we can go back and look at plans that were paid for—I do not know how much money it cost to generate those architectural plans—$800,000 under the former administration to build a new airport. And we see in the reply by the Shadow Finance Minister where he says, We don't need a new airport, but the former Government spent $800,000 for plans for a new airport. So it sounds to me like the former administration thought they needed a new airport. So let us be clear. And they wanted to build a new . . . and they could not do it.

We are going to get it done. They wanted to do it! I attended, Mr. Speaker, presentations—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I attended presentations. It was the intention to do it, Mr. Speaker. We know the history of the St. George's project . . . of that development in St. George's. We saw the implosion of the former Club Med. And I know the former Premier and Tourism Minister wanted to get that project done—absolutely. And for various reasons it did not happen.

And here we are now. We have positioned ourselves to get it done. And maybe that just rubs the Opposition the wrong way because they want to focus in on the methodology of getting it done, but the methodology is unique in some circumstances because we are not operating in ideal conditions. And so we have to do things a little differently.

So when we hear the Opposition Leader who is always . . . his presentations quite often are constructed in this prism of conspiracy theories, that this is happening for some ulterior motive, for some ulterior benefit, which is strange. But Mr. Speaker, the reason why this increase has occurred for the airport is to finance the America's Cup, is to offset the cost of the America's Cup. And the Finance Minister said this during his budget presentation.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order.

The Speaker: Yes?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order, the Honourable Minister of Tourism is misleading the House. The brief as presented by the Minister just now on this Bill, the rationale was to ensure that there was adequate revenue streams for the airport redevelopment in relation to CCC. Correct, Minister?

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Oh, not entirely.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Carry on.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, clearly, if you increase the fees at the airport, you are increasing the revenue at the airport. But the fact of the matter is that we have been very fortunate to procure the America's Cup. It will cost us money, Mr. Speaker. We have heard other Members talk about how this is an investment or it is a stimulus. However you want to define it, the fact of the matter is, it is going to cost us money that we do not have, money that we have got to find to make this happen, because it is going to be good for the country.

So when you look at this from a holistic perspective, yes, it is going up, and taking the Opposition Leader's argument that this is directly in contrast to wanting to stimulate tourism. But then think of the fact that the America's Cup is probably the greatest stimulus to tourism. It is an answer to prayer. . . for tourism. You could not have asked for a better event to host in this country for tourism. And so this is a trade off.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: It is a trade off because we do not have, we just do not have . . . if we had it, Mr. Speaker, we would not be doing it. And so we have to operate under the conditions that we are in. Is it ideal? No, it is not ideal. Was I happy about it? No.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The increase on the departure tax. I would have preferred for it to have remained as it was. But when we know that we are going to spend money on the America's Cup, we have to figure ways of how we are going to offset that. And of course the arrangement—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Point of order. Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker: Yes?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: The Honourable Member is still misleading the House. This has nothing to do with the America's Cup. In fact, the last statement he made was about it was contained . . . that statement about the America's Cup and the airport redevelopment and raising departure tax, was in the budget. Mr. Speaker. But I can quote one quick sentence, it says on page 24, "With the pending redevelopment of the L. F. Wade International Airport" (and this is the Budget Statement) "the Airport Departure Tax will be raised from $35 to $50 per passenger and will yield additional revenue of about $5.5 million."

Nowhere in the Budget Statement or the Minister's brief has the America's Cup been mentioned. He is misleading the House.

The Speaker: All right, thank you.
Carry on, now.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I am asking the Opposition Leader to hear me. If I am adding to the conversation—

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: You are embellishing.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: No, I am not embellishing. I am informing the House that as part of the discussions around this increase this Cabinet discussed the fact that we need to raise revenue to offset the cost of the America's Cup. So I am adding to the dialogue. I am adding to the dialogue. Okay?

So if the Finance Minister did not have it in his Budget Statement, then fine. I am advising the House that this is also why we are doing it. But the fact of the matter is that we are in a difficult financial position and so we believe—fundamentally we believe—that better days are coming. We believe that these developments are going to happen. Okay? And so we have to figure out a way to keep things together until we get there. And that is what we are doing, we are trying to keep things together, find a way to make it happen until we get there.

I believe that with the new hotel development that is coming, I believe that with the strategies that have been employed and will continue to be employed by the America's Cup—particularly as it relates to their marketing strategy—it will bear fruit. I do not like to speak . . . I am a man who wants my eggs hatched before I start talking about the chickens. Okay? But I am being told that there are going to be some good chickens as it relates to the numbers in this year. And I am praying that we do not have any unforeseen issues like we had last year with Fay and Gonzalo, Mr. Speaker.

But you know the Tourism Authority . . . was I happy about the reduction in the budget for the Tourism Authority? No. You know, the Minister of Finance, what he gets in this House of Assembly is tame [compared] to what he gets around the Cabinet table, let me tell you, Mr. Speaker, not happy about it. But you know what? We have had to roll up our sleeves, and I have been in continuous meetings with the BTA because they have to figure out how to raise more revenue and how to bridge that gap. And sometimes, when your back is put up against a wall, it is amazing what ideas you can come up with and how you can find a way forward. And I have seen some progress in how that gap can be bridged through revenue-generating measures in relatively short order, Mr. Speaker.

So, yes, we know it is going to be difficult, but we are rolling up our sleeves and we have every intention to make this work.

What we are doing, Mr. Speaker, as the Honourable Member said—the Opposition Leader—is far from shameful. What is shameful, Mr. Speaker, is that they know what condition this economy is in. They know, they were there. Okay? And they were at the helm. And they knew exactly what they were handing over to this Government in 2012. And what is shameful is they will not just step aside for a minute and let us get on with it, Mr. Speaker.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Step aside?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: That is what is shameful—not to abdicate your role, I am not suggesting that, Mr. Speaker—to question the motives of everything that we do. You can question that it was not put out to tender. That is a reasonable argument; we expected that, of course. But for everything to have some conspiratorial, some malicious intent, Mr. Speaker, is getting tiresome. And you know what is interesting? And I have seen this time and time again with the Opposition. They always go too far. And everybody sees it. They may have a good point and then people might say, Hey they are saying something. And then they go so far and so ridiculous that people say, That is just nonsense. It is just nonsense.

Mr. Speaker, as I have said before, we are going to remain focused. The Finance Minister has come up with some innovative ways to get some things done under some very difficult circumstances. As the Minister responsible for the airport, this is not ideal, but I understand it and I believe that it will not hinder or impede our progress going forward.

Thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 29, MP Zane De Silva.

You have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Member who just took his seat finished off by saying that they are getting tired of the malicious, ridiculous claims, the nonsense from this side. And let me say that again, Mr. Speaker. The Honourable Member from constituency 32[sic] just said—

An Hon. Member: [Constituency] 31.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is right. That is your constituency. I do not want to say you said that, Mr. Speaker.

But he just said that they are getting tired of the malicious, ridiculous claims and the nonsense from this side of the House.

Well, Mr. Speaker, do I have to remind the people of this country why they think like we do? We have had Jetgate—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: So here they go . . . same story.

Mr. Speaker, this is why they get tired. They say they get tired, it is ridiculous, and it is nonsense. Is it ridiculous? Is it nonsense that we have a Minister that sits in this place that has broken the Ministerial Code of Conduct on more than one occasion, and he still sits here? And he calls us ridiculous? He calls us malicious?

Mr. Speaker, you have had a Chairman of the OBA party resign because of what? Maliciousness, ridiculousness, nonsense? You have had $400,000 that no one knew where it came from until we revealed where it came from, Mr. Speaker, until we revealed where it came from.

Mr. Speaker, that is why you get those . . . and they say they are tired of it. We are tired of it, Mr. Speaker. Every time we turn around, Mr. Speaker, there is another issue similar to this. Well, I could take my seat, Mr. Speaker, while the big fan would like to stand up and make a statement. I could do that.

The Speaker: Carry on. Carry on, Honourable Member.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

So, Mr. Speaker, you know here we are talking about an increase, an increase to fly to Bermuda. The Finance Minister said in his Budget Statement how critical and crucial tourism is to Bermuda, but we have had a reduction of $6.5 million out of the Tourism budget in the last two years—$6.5 million, Mr. Speaker—a reduction in the Tourism budget.

But here we are having the same Finance Minister and the Minister of Tourism saying how important, how vital it is, how crucial it is for Bermuda. It makes no sense. We are having this major reduction when, quite frankly, they should be increasing the Tourism marketing budget, if you ask me, Mr. Speaker. Take the $11 million profit that the airport generates and give it to the Tourism Authority. Let them go do . . . the Minister talked about they were going to roll up their sleeves and the Tourism Authority are doing their work. Give them some more money.

We have already heard about the difference in a cruise visitor dollar compared to an air arrival dollar—$16 to 1 [versus] $11 to 1. Give the Tourism Authority more money. Not so they can give it out to the private sector businesses, like they did down to Whitfield, Mr. Speaker. We do not want the Tourism Authority dollars going that direction; we want them going overseas to get people to come to Bermuda, Mr. Speaker, that is where we want those dollars going. We do not want it going down to Pier 6, helping out her friends and family, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, Honourable Member, let us . . . let us make arguments that support your . . . come on, let us—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. Well, we do not know, Mr. Speaker, we do not want the tourism dollars going for private sector business, Mr. Speaker. We do not want that, especially when the private sector business has got some dollars behind it.

Now, if you want to give Mr. Smith . . . you want to give Maceo Thomas . . . you want to give him some support to open up a beach bar? Then let us give him—or an entrepreneur—some support, sure, Mr. Speaker. And I know the Minister has already said in this Honourable House that $180,000 went to help a tourist-related business. But that does not wash for me, Mr. Speaker, not $180,000—not in these times—not when we have people out of work like we do.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. I just want to be clear that no one gave anything away. It was a loan, which is being repaid.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

And can we try and . . . if we can, try and travel down the road that has . . . on either side it is one of those gauges that say . . . what is it called, this, the Miscellaneous Taxes Amendment Act?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, that is exactly why I am going this way, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right, Honourable Member.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Because if we did not do these types of things with the taxpayers' money, like giving them out to people to fix a tent, you know, Mr. Speaker, maybe we would not have to be raising these taxes. That is the whole point. That is the whole point, that we are going to raise tax . . . we are here, we are going to raise this airport departure tax, we are going to raise that to raise money.

I am not sure now why we are raising this because the Minister of Finance is saying one thing, the Minister of Tourism is saying another. So we are not really sure on this side what that $15.00 increase is really for, Mr. Speaker. Maybe it will come out later on.

But Mr. Speaker, you know, the Minister of Tourism gave some statistics comparing Bermuda to several islands down in the Caribbean with regard to this airport departure tax. And he talked about Turks [and Caicos], Dominican Republic, and Jamaica, and a few others.

Well, Mr. Speaker, see . . . see . . . why . . . first of all, maybe the Minister has not talked to the CEO lately because the CEO is trying to get away from the Caribbean, and he is drawing analogies to compare to the Caribbean.

So, you know, that is one thing. The other thing, Mr. Speaker, is this: You can say we are competitive with regard to departure tax, but why does the Minister not give us those same statistics for whatever airport he chooses to leave from the US to go to Jamaica, DR [Dominican Republic], Turks [and Caicos] compared with coming to Bermuda? That is where the rubber hits the road, Mr. Speaker. It has nothing to do with comparing the departure tax. It is the cost of the airline ticket from that destination in the US (or wherever) to Bermuda compared to any of the Caribbean islands to the south. And we all know that . . . you know, I see advertisements all the time, Mr. Speaker, New York to Jamaica $150.00; $200.00 to DR [Dominican Republic], and so on and so forth. I see it all the time, Mr. Speaker. And we will talk about this more on Friday, but that, Mr. Speaker, is where our dollars should be going.

We should not be cutting the Tourism budget. And the Minister has already said it is in pains—well, certainly the CEO is in pains—because he had his budget chopped, Mr. Speaker. But that is our problem. And we can talk about promoting fish sandwiches and Dark 'n Stormies all we want, Mr. Speaker, but what is going to bring people to Bermuda is advertising and cheap airline tickets. That is what is going to get people . . . of course, you have got to get hotels, too. A couple of hotels, a casino, cheap airline tickets, we will be all right.

I know that the Minister and I are on the same page in that regard. There is no issues there. But that is where we need to go, Mr. Speaker. Our money should . . . when was the last time you saw an ad on CNN, ABC, NBC or the Golf Channel on Bermuda? I have not seen one.

But Mr. Speaker, I see Jamaica, I see Air Jamaica all the time, I see Bahamas, I see (what is the other one? I see Spirit. This is where we need to go. There are still many people, Mr. Speaker, in the US who do not know where Bermuda is. I am sure everybody in this House gets that from time to time. They have got to. I get it all . . . well, I travel. I probably do not travel more than the Minister. He travels a lot more than me.

An Hon. Member: Yes, you do.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, yes—

The Speaker: Honourable Member, can you tie it into the . . . let's go . . . let's see if we can tighten it up.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Let me tighten . . . you do not like the googly, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker: Not at all. Not at all—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: You want a little fast ball?

The Speaker: Straight balls.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. So Mr. Speaker, let me say this. The Minister said . . . and he is hopeful. Unlike the Honourable Member from constituency 11, the Finance Minister (unlike him) says that the last thing we want the OBA to do is to be successful. Okay? And the Honourable Member from constituency 22 says it all the time as well.

Mr. Speaker, let me state this again for the record. I do want the OBA to be successful. We do not confuse holding the Government to account with them being successful. Because Mr. Speaker, I have said it before and I will say it again, I will gladly stay in Opposition to the day I die if all the Bermuda businesses in Bermuda are busy and successful, and all our unemployed people are working. Keep me in Opposition! I do not think anybody on this side will argue the fact that we will stay in Opposition if our Bermuda people are working, our businesses are flourishing, and we do not have any debt—none whatsoever. So let me—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, I am not joking.

The Minister of Tourism from constituency 31 says I am joking.

No, I am not, Mr. Speaker, because you know what? I want them to be successful. Set that bar so that the PLP, in order to get back in power, has to reach that bar that is up this high. And I kid you not. I will stay here. I will stay here until the day I die.

So, Mr. Speaker, let us be clear, let us be clear. Because we hold the Government to account—do not get angry fellows, ladies as well, do not get angry because we . . . we are elected to help run this country, and we are also elected to hold the Government to account, Mr. Speaker. And we will do so.

If the Honourable Finance Minister comes back to this House with any more ideas about raising taxes, unless he is going to do what I said earlier, Mr. Speaker, you want to raise land tax on people that own 20, 30, 40 houses or 10 or 15 buildings in town, I am for that. Let us do that now because those are the folks that should be paying. The folks that live down in Tucker's Town and Fairylands, Mr. Speaker, double, triple their land tax, they can afford it. That is where we have got to go, not Mr. Smith who lives around the corner, Mr. Speaker. Let us let those that make more . . . should want to pay a little more.

So, Mr. Speaker, we are not going to be able to stop the OBA from raising taxes. And, like I said earlier, we understand the position they are in. We understand it. The Minister failed and we understand that too and he is trying. He is going to try. I hope his predictions are a little bit better this year than last, Mr. Speaker. But they have to change their model because their economic model is not working, Mr. Speaker, and they have to think about changing it. Listen to this young man right here. The Honourable Finance Minister continues to call him "young man" but he should listen to him a little bit more. But I think he might be okay.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise now the Honourable Member from constituency 24, Warwick South East, MP Lawrence Scott.

You have the floor.

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

And even before I start speaking you hear chastising coming from the other side. And to me that actually goes just to prove exactly what we are saying. We are not here to try to make the Government wrong. We are just here to hold them to account, to make sure that they have thought of everything.

The one thing that I have a feeling they have not thought of is the fact that you are raising departure tax, which is going to actually raise the cost of doing business for airlines. I am speaking because I know about the cost of doing business for airlines. I work for an airline. Therefore, if you are raising the departure tax at a time when we have airlines that are doing unprecedented moves, like not coming to Bermuda for the off season, maybe this is not the time to raise the departure tax.

When you have days that only two airlines will fly to the Island, and actually sometimes it is only one airline with two flights to the Island, this is not the time to raise departure tax. And then when you . . . the Government is so quick to say, Oh, the Opposition doesn't know what they're talking about. The Members don't know what they're talking about. But then later on you find out that the ideas that have been floated by us, the ideas that we have put forward, the critiques and the accountability that we have given to them may get into their plans. I am speaking from experience, again, on that too with the Airport Authority. All right?

So it just seems as though you want to talk about how this is the time to raise taxes, or at least the departure tax, but then the thing is have they thought about the fact that we already have a . . . (what is that thing called?) supplementary for revenue guarantees. So now, if you are going to raise the cost of doing business, that means the airlines are going to need more money for minimum revenue guarantees because we are not going to be making the revenue that we need to.

Therefore, you are going to be costing the Island visitors that are coming in because they might not choose to fly to Bermuda because it is too expensive already. Airlines cannot do the $99.00 deals. Trust me, Mr. Speaker, I know. I have gone to my corporate office and said, Hey why don't we promote Bermuda to make our route just that much more successful and let's go back to doing those $99.00 deals. [They reply] Hey, Lawrence, we would love to do that, but we can't.

An Hon. Member: Why not?

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: Because it costs too much to fly to Bermuda. We would be losing money on every ticket we sold if it was $99.00, especially if you are doing a $99.00 ticket and the departure tax is $60.00.

So if you are doing $50.00 from the States, you are doing $60.00 from Bermuda, and you are doing a $99.00 ticket—we cannot do that. So the airlines are now . . . you are tying the hands of the airlines on how we are trying to promote the business, how we are trying to promote the product.

And then, especially when the Minister, and I heard him say that it has a connection to CCC and making it more attractive to them. Now, Mr. Speaker, nobody in this Chamber should have any questions about my concern when it comes to the CCC, because I have been doing my research. All right? And they keep scoffing at the idea about the arms dealing and that the CCC is in arms dealing. That is not my main point. My main point is the fact that they have gone into (and it is reported, it is documented) deals, signed deals, that they were not authorised to do which put the Canadian Government on the hook for $15.7 million.

So, if they are going out and signing deals with other governments that they are not authorised to do, they did not have the right plans, they did not have the authority, how do we know that they are not doing that with us? That is what I am asking. And nobody on that side has the answer to that. They have, Just trust me, just trust me. That is the same reasoning, and saying words we heard before [when] they borrowed the $800 million.

So the thing is that we are also looking at other jurisdictions. And I understand that we might not be as expensive as other jurisdictions, but are we giving the same value for money as other jurisdictions? Because that is what our visitors look at. Our visitors are looking at . . . and I am, once again, talking from experience. Visitors coming back from their stay come to the check-in desk, and I say, How was your stay in Bermuda? You have businessmen that are saying, I am paying "X" amount of dollars per night and I can't get complementary Wi-Fi. You are just going to raise the cost of doing business? You are going to raise the ticket price? You are going to raise the cost for them to come here?

Mr. Speaker, let us look at it like a club. You have one club that charges $10.00 to get in and they have all these different amenities—they have the right music, they have the best bars, the bartenders are on point. And then you have another club that is charging $5.00, but yet you have got rats running across it, you have got spiders and cobwebs, and the music is not too good, they only have three choices for alcohol. Even though the price is lower to get into that one club, are you not going to pay a little more to go to something that has more amenities, you get more value for money?

Right now our tourism product is not where it should be, Mr. Speaker. Right I believe that we need to let the Tourism Authority have a little bit more time to go out there and promote our product. And the Honourable Tourism Minister said that the Honourable Shadow Finance Minister mentioned that we do not need an airport. That is not true. The Honourable Shadow Finance Minister said that we do not . . . that right now is not the right time for investing in a new airport. There is a difference.

Mr. Speaker, I am one of those that would directly benefit from having a new airport. It means I could probably get a bigger office, things would look better, I would have jet bridges, I would have the works. It would be wonderful. But right now, Mr. Speaker, right now with our tourism product the way it is, it is not the right time for a new airport. Right now, Mr. Speaker, is not the right time to be raising departure tax on airlines that are doing their best to make sure that they can make ends meet and continue to make Bermuda profitable. Right now is not that time.

I have Members on the other side that have no idea what happens at an airport, but yet they are still trying to interpolate over here. This is what we are talking about. We need the Government to start listening and stop just putting up blockers, defenders, and putting a deaf ear to what we are saying. The thing is that we do want the Government to be successful because the thing is that just like behind every good man is a better woman, behind every good Government is a better Opposition. So if the Government is successful that means that the Opposition is being successful in doing its job in holding the Government to account. All right?

Then the Members on the other side are going to be quick to say, Oh, they don't want to work with us, they don't want to do anything with us. Mr. Speaker, once again I will speak from experience. I have shared ideas with the Honourable Minister of Transport. I have shared ideas with anybody in the Government that is willing to listen, not because I want the credit but because I want Bermuda to succeed. I speak from a place of passion. I speak from a place of just love for my country. That is why I am here.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to be going to work at the airport in about five or six hours. All right? And that—

The Speaker: I want to go to bed soon, too.

[Laughter]

Mr. W. Lawrence Scott: I am going to be going to work at the airport in five or six hours and the thing is that I am here at some cockroach hour in the morning because I love my country, because this is the right thing to do.

I actually like to hear what the Ministers have to say. I may not agree with it, but I do like to hear it because I hear the same passion on their side. But what they need to start doing is stop thinking that they have all the ideas and that they have all the answers because they do not. In this Chamber—together—we all have the answers, not just one side.

So once again I am going to say that right now is not the time to be raising the departure tax. Right now is not the time to act as though you know it all. And right now is the time to listen to the voice of reason and listen to our critiques and us holding you accountable.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair now recognises the Honourable and Learned Member from constituency 36, who is the only one who has to drive further than me to get home tonight.

[Laughter]

Hon. Michael J. Scott: That is code, I know, Mr. Speaker, for saying, Why on earth is he on his feet! Why doesn't he just let us all get home!

The Speaker: Oh.

Hon. Michael J. Scott: I hear you, Mr. Speaker, but I will be brief.

So I think the issue before us is a question of choices and a question of alternatives. And some of it is about a question of timing. As the Shadow Minister of Tourism and Transport, Mr. Scott, has just indicated, raising the cost of doing business at this time is really what our critique is. This is our constructive criticism.

The modern, informed customers—our clients today, Mr. Speaker—are going to say the same thing. They will either read it online, they will read it somewhere. These are the modern informed customers—consumer being the King and Queen—they go onto websites they make comparisons with destinations' costs, they also end up at the Hamilton Princess or the Fairmont Southampton Princess or . . . any of our properties and they do make comparisons. And they gossip, they talk, and they make choices with their mouths and decide, Well, I am going to click to another jurisdiction if these room nights, these airfares, the cost of the restaurants, are . . . their experience and then they compare it with other destinations.

So this is part of the analysis we are making. We have to make . . . the Minister of Finance in particular has to make choices and decisions—fiscal decisions—about price point increases and tax rises in the context of this kind of consumer. The consumer today does nothing else but just sit at a terminal and make comparisons. And so when this feature factors now into their decision whether to click the mouse, it is a negative, or it can be a negative.

Even the macro operators like the large airline, as the Shadow Transport Minister indicated, they too . . . fiscal space has to be respected. It is a very skittish space. It has to be respected because it is a space where people take decisions based on the propensity for capital to migrate, for the herd mentality to take over. Fiscal space has to be respected. And in these modern conditions you add one factor that impacts on cost points and price points and it gets people making different decisions.

I am reminded, by listening to the debate tonight, that when the Minister of Tourism stood and made this broad proposition that these prices of departure taxes—in isolation—are competitive with other departure taxes from the Dominican Republic and Jamaica, et cetera, it makes . . . it is pointless. It is a completely useless comparison, particularly given—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. I did not compare the departure tax in isolation. I made the comment that it was all of the airport fees combined, and I compared that with some of our—

The Speaker: Yes, yes—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: —competitive jurisdictions.

The Speaker: He did do that, Honourable Member. Carry on.

Hon. Michael J. Scott: That Honourable and Learned Member has misunderstood me completely.

And perhaps I was not being fair; certainly it was the Minister of Finance who listed all of the countries and the figures from $82.00 to our $58.00. And then his colleague, the Minister of Tourism, stood up and did the very same thing. But the fact that our number still—our number at $58.00—comes under Jamaica's at $82.00. We know that the numbers . . . and the weight of air lift going into Jamaica today and throughout all of our history (speaking of competitiveness with Jamaica) they have heavy air lift, far more heavier than ours. And yet they have a higher departure tax, but they are still being . . . we have absolutely no way of comparing ourselves competitively with Jamaica.

They are doing much better than we are on both air lift and the numbers of people going into Montego Bay and Kingston. So the comparison . . . I make the point, I still say that to justify an increase in departure tax by saying that our $58.00 comes under Jamaica's and Cayman's and the DR [Dominican Republic] is a comparison without any meaning or value because those destinations are all doing very well, thank you very much. In fact, they are doing much better than us in terms of—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Michael J. Scott: Yes, in terms of air lift. And therefore people . . . and I am not going to be the only person making this and drawing this calculation and making this conclusion. The travelling public are going to be doing it. And they will say, Well, Bermuda has just given itself yet another reason for us to take the family this time to another destination.

I do not think, just dealing finally with this whole question of whether we are going . . . the Opposition goes too far and we are on a campaign—persistent and continuous campaign—to try and stop the momentum of the Government. Mr. Speaker, governments will come and governments will go. And when Mr. De Silva, the Shadow Minister for Tourism, said he would live in the Opposition forever, he is entitled to say that. But, frankly, I am here to tell him that he has no fear that he will ever live in Opposition forever. I do not care how good the OBA Government manages to get one day, you will go as a Government because that is what happens with Governments. We do not last in Government forever. It is a reality that Governments come and go.

After Winston Churchill won and saved the country from the ravages of a moving German machine . . . after he did that you would have thought that they would have rewarded him with continuation. But no. He was surprised to learn that he was thrown out of office. So, Mr. De Silva, not to worry, we want the Government . . . we could stand and put hand on heart and say we want the Government to be successful. And we do, on this side of the House. We want you to be successful soon and frequently. But that is no guarantee that you will stay.

So it is a flawed calculation to say that that is the reason why we stand and critique you. We are lawyers over here, former Ministers over here, we understand the capacity for you to print in a national statement projects such as these, part of the two-track plan. We understand that your capacity to sell to the world and to the local public this proposition, just by a statement. But the only ones that really have the real prospects are a matter of analysis. And we are able to make the analysis, just by looking at it for 10 minutes, because some of these projects from Regis, Ritz, Hamilton Princess, Sinky Bay, Pink Beach, Ariel Sands, Airport, America's Cup—all of them are projects that we can look at in a glance and give a quick, quick, and fairly realistic analysis and prognosis as to their success.

You go out into the market and you hear . . . our analysis and prognosis is even assisted by people giving us direct information about some of these projects not having a snowball's chance in a very hot place of succeeding.

So, we add to the debate here, we inform you, it is friendly advice, that these are the views. But we do not need to rely entirely on what people tell us. We know that in the fiscal space unless and until . . . the gold standard is the Green family over there at Princess. They have got shovels in the ground. They have got the funding in place. They have got a hotel project which is a pure hotel project of redevelopment and reinvestment and it is taking place. So if that is the gold standard of telling the people through a Government that this kind of hotel project, this type of tourism project, is on its way, when we stood . . . and I do not wish to reflect too deeply on previous debates. Let me say that a Pink Beach (which is here) involves not a pure hotel project, but a private owners' involvement plus a hotel project. It is both credible and legitimate to look at.

But let me not stray from increased departure taxes. This is the issue. This fiscal space demands of us that we not make ourselves uncompetitive with our decisions. And I hope that we would be forgiven for critiquing the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Tourism's support of this measure by the fact that we looked at another prior decision by the Minister of Finance on interest—not on interest rates, but on raising a tranche of loans in this country on the basis that interest rates would rise, when we now discover that interest rates have actually gone in the other direction and have fallen. It is a good reason why we should bring these things to the attention of the Government, Mr. Speaker.

So those are the reasons why we must operate in the context of the modern consumer. I mean, raising the departure tax has impact on the decision of airlines and what they say this will do to their price point. It has impact on the consumer who will decide whether another destination is a better destination for me to click the mouse on and choose over Bermuda.

Whilst I am sympathetic to the need for the Minister of Finance to look for ways to raise revenue, this is the reason why the opportunity must be seized in this House to actually work with us when we make proposals for other methods, alternatives, to finding a clear path through these challenges. The challenge that the Minister of Finance faces is to find revenue. The Shadow Minister of Finance has made a strong case for alternatives. But to go down a path that is actually going to make us uncompetitive does not seem logical to me. It does not seem logical.

But to adopt a programme of spending scarce resources in the local economy, including . . . whether it is the Blue Economy or the Green Economy, it has an equivalent impact—beneficial impact. If we get the engine of the economy turning on a proposal suggested by the Shadow Minister of Finance, you have the economy being successful in an entirely different area, and we are not making a decision that is fairly typical and classic, but it is one of the easy roads—increase taxes. But to do so during a time when we have not . . . on all prognostics coming from the front bench of this Government, that the country's economy has not recovered yet, why would we take a decision that actually adds to the price point of doing business?

[This] is the simple construct and the simple criticism that we make. And we invite the Government to have a look at it. But we cannot fathom why this choice seems to be one that the Government would go with at this time.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise now the Member from constituency 18, Sandys North . . . Pembroke West Central—

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: Oh, you are tired, Mr. Speaker. You are tired. You were times two. He is 36; I am 18, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: [Constituency] 18, yes.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, good evening.

The Speaker: Good evening, good evening—good morning!

Mr. E. David Burt: Good morning. I am certain that you were not expecting to be here this late. I was not expecting to be here this late. I know the Minister of Finance was not expecting to be this late, but nonetheless, Mr. Speaker, here we are.

Now I will do my best not to take up 30 minutes time because I know the Honourable Member for constituency 1 is dying to get back home.

But what I would say, Mr. Speaker, is that there is no doubt and there is no question that on this side we do not support this move because this move is tied to what we view is a flawed policy and a flawed way forward when it comes to redevelopment of our airport.

Now, there is no doubt that the airport itself is an ageing asset. And of course, Mr. Speaker, the reason why I am speaking about the airport itself and not the departure tax is that we know from the Minister's Budget Statement this is about the airport. This is about the redevelopment of the airport. This is, as the Opposition Leader said, fattening the calf for CCC and Aecon to kill. That is what it is about. It is about finding more revenue to make the deal work. That is what we are faced with right here.

As has been said many times from the other speakers, Mr. Speaker, this is not going to solve the problem because it is not going to do what we believe is the most urgent need. And we actually believe or agree with the Minister of Finance when he says that we need to put more energy and emphasis on our tourism, that tourism is going to be what is needed in order to create jobs in our economy.

The question is, Mr. Speaker, how do you best go about that direction? In our opinion the best way about going in that direction is investing in our tourism product and investing in our tourism marketing. There is no doubt, Mr. Speaker, that the building of a brand new airport is not going to bring additional tourists to this country. I said it before, it does matter if it is lined with gold, Mr. Speaker, it is not going to increase the amount of tourists that are on our shores. That comes from tourism marketing. That comes from tourism product development. That comes from giving additional resources to getting people here.

When we talk about hotel development itself, when we are talking about our hotel occupancy being stuck in the low 60s—not even sometimes reaching 60, when we talk about the falling amount of hotel beds, not increasing the amount of hotel beds, what we need is to increase our air arrivals. And increasing departure tax and increasing the cost to come to Bermuda is not something that is going to increase air arrivals.

This policy, this move, is contrary to what we need. And that is why we do not support it, Mr. Speaker, because it does not make sense.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it is interesting because we see a whole lot of revenue-raising going on in this budget. But what happens when it comes to next year's budget, Mr. Speaker? And I bring this point up because I believe it is very important because we have to take a long-term view when we are considering these taxes.

Now, Mr. Speaker, one of the things . . . and I am very pleased that the Minister of Tourism said something because the Minister of Tourism and Transport said that if you raise the fees you are going to raise the revenue of the airport. And that is wonderful because we have been hearing from the Minister of Finance that if you raise these fees the airport is not profitable, it is not going to make money. If you raise these fees the money is not going to go to the airport. Well guess what, Mr. Speaker? The money is going to go to the airport. So all this . . . I do not want to say—

An Hon. Member: Brouhaha.

Mr. E. David Burt: —stuff . . . nonsense, that we are hearing, nonsense that the airport does not make a profit, that CCC is going to take on a money-losing enterprise, that Aecon and Michael Butt are going to come down here and build an airport that is going to lose money, does not make sense. It does not make sense.

And the argument that the Minister said, that because the money from the airport departure tax does not go to the airport, it goes to the Consolidated Fund? Mr. Speaker, all money that goes to Government, if it is not diverted to a separate fund, goes into the Consolidated Fund. That is what it says in the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act. That is what it is.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. E. David Burt: Oh, the Minister of Finance asked me if that is a point. Yes, Minister of Finance, it is a point. And it is a point because you cannot say that the airport does not make a profit because the money from the airport departure tax goes to the Consolidated Fund without recognising that the revenue and the expenses at the airport itself go in and out of the Consolidated Fund. So if you want to say what is going to form part of the deal, say all of it is going to form part of the deal. Because as much as you say Minister of Finance that the airport does not make money, when we look at the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure, Mr. Speaker, and we take into account airport departure tax, expenses and revenue of the airport, versus the expenses of the airport, we see a profit of—this year, Mr. Speaker—$11.5 million.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I am happy to yield for a clarification if the Minister would like to clarify my numbers.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay. Here it is, Mr. Speaker, here we are. I am wrong. Mr. Speaker, I really do not understand.

Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Minister says I am wrong. I am going to try here: Airport Departure Tax—$20 million; Revenue to the Airport—$10.818 million; total $30.818 million. So $30,818 million is the revenue assigned to the airport. Expenses from the airport—$19,331,000.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. E. David Burt: [That is] $30,818,000 minus $19,331,000, yields $11,487,000.

Now I am happy for the Minister to yield because that is from his numbers in his Budget Book, Mr. Speaker.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Point of order.

The Speaker: Minister?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Honourable Member's numbers do not include things that are outsourced.

The Speaker: Thank you, Member.

Mr. E. David Burt: Things that are outsourced? What outsource are we talking about?

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay. Oh, I do believe that the security fees come under Professional Services and they come under the line items of the Department of Airport Operations. I am quite certain I heard that earlier today. But that is okay, that is okay, because the Minister of Finance still wants to convince us that Aecon is going to take over a loss-making enterprise, because the airport does not make any money, for however long they are going to take it over, build us an airport for $225 million and then employ 400 people on an ongoing basis—10 times as many as are employed now—wow! Wow, wow, wow.

Oh, yes, the Minister of Finance is saying that these figures do not take into account outsourced operations, but I see security as a line item and I see meteorology as a line item. So they are there, they are there in Budget Book, Mr. Speaker.

As I said, Mr. Speaker, we know what is going to happen with the airport. We know that these fees are going to pay for the new airport. That is what is going to happen, Mr. Speaker. The challenge is that as a country we understand and know that we are going to lock ourselves into a long-term deal—my goodness they took the crystal ball.

[Inaudible interjections and laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: They took the crystal ball.

Mr. Speaker, I rise and request the privilege—a piece of my property has been stolen from the Honourable Member across, and I would appreciate if you would return our crystal ball back to us.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, going back to the point, because I think this is another important point to make, the question is what are the long-term impacts that this move will have on our budget?

Now we hear the Honourable Minister say that the move to the new airport . . . that the reason for this departure tax increase will have But here is the thing, Mr. Speaker. In the long term it has a long-term effect. He said a minimal impact to our balance sheet and a minimal impact to the Government's finances. Nonsense, Mr. Speaker. And the reason why is if you are taking in $11.5 million less (because right now the airport runs at a profit) that means that your financial situation is worse. That is what it is, Mr. Speaker.

But here is the rub, because if the airport is going to be taken off the books, Mr. Speaker, if the airport is no longer going to be a part of the Government of Bermuda going forward, if it is going to be off to the side and, you know, concessionaired by CCC, they have their own thing—not inside of our balance sheet, not inside of our income statement at all, Mr. Speaker—then that would mean that their revenues go to CCC and their expenses go to CCC.

Now here is where it gets tricky, Mr. Speaker, because if you take the revenues off the books, then that means you are taking $30 million of revenue away. So this year if we are having $930 million of revenue, next year we have $900 million of revenue. But the Minister is predicting that we are going to have $960 million of revenue next year. So that means that he is going to have to raise taxes again by even more than he raised taxes this year to try and meet that figure, Mr. Speaker. That is where it is.

But the other thing is on the expense side, Mr. Speaker, because on the expense side money will disappear from the expense side so we will now be looking at an $870,000 expense line. However, here is the rub, Mr. Speaker. That is not enough. So the Minister has to make more cuts next year in order to meet his targets because outsourcing the airport is not enough. So this is not a one-term deal, Mr. Speaker. This is not a one-year arrangement.

When we are talking about the vote today to increase these taxes to support the redevelopment of the airport, we are talking about a long-term impact to the balance sheet of this Government, a long-term impact to the income statement of this Government, and a long-term impact to the Consolidated Fund. Because when we are talking about $30 million of revenue coming off our books and going to CCC, and we know in the end it is going to be more, because we know $11.5 million cannot build a $255 million facility, even if you are borrowing interest at zero per cent. It is not going to work. The fact is, Mr. Speaker, that somehow some way this money is going to have to get paid back.

So we heard from the Honourable Minister for Tourism and Transport that these are not ideal conditions. And I agree, Mr. Speaker. It is clear these are not ideal conditions. It is clear that there are no easy choices and no easy decisions to be made. Here, however, Mr. Speaker, is the challenge: The challenge is that if we have short-term thinking, and we are constrained by short-term thinking, then we are going to askew the long term. And we need to be very careful about what happens in the long term, Mr. Speaker, because Bermudians do not just live for three years. This country is not just here for three years. Our planning cannot be limited to just three years. We have to look into the future.

The move and the vote of which we are taking today is in support of the airport. It is in support of the rebuilding of the terminal underneath the process of which the Minister set forward. A process which has no RFP, a process which does not meet international value for money test, a process which, Mr. Speaker, is something that many have questioned—and not just Members on this side, but Members of his own party, members of the business community, which are some of his strongest allies. I hear them. I'm like . . . Mr. Burt, I am keeping up on the airport. I can't imagine why it is not going out to tender. This PPP project is going to cost a lot of money going forward. You know, I really like what you're doing. And all the rest.

As the Opposition Leader said, they are not going to say it publicly. They are not going to say it publicly. But that, Mr. Speaker, is what we get because we know that this is not the right way forward and we know that this is going to put Bermuda in a bad situation. And we heard the Honourable Premier earlier talk about the hospital and how we have to pay so much going into the hospital going forward. It is the same thing that will happen with this airport project, Mr. Speaker, the exact same thing—a stream of payments that the Government is committed to going forward. That is the case, Mr. Speaker, and whether they want to say it is different, the fact is that money that would have been going into the Consolidated Fund is now going to go to Canada. That is the fact, Mr. Speaker.

Now, these are not ideal conditions. But it does, Mr. Speaker, rub me the wrong way when I hear that all we want is for the country to fail. No, Mr. Speaker, we want the Government to make the best decisions for the people of this country. There can be an airport deal that we can support. It may even be an airport deal done by CCC. It may even be that Aecon ends up building it and Somers Construction ends up getting the construction contract. However, Mr. Speaker, it should only be that after we are certain we got the best deal possible, after it is certain that it has met value for money test, after it is certain that it has gone out to tender, and after we know that there is no better deal on the table for Bermuda to have.

But under this construct, Mr. Speaker, it is impossible to find out whether or not Bermuda got the best deal—unless they are going to shop the deal around, Mr. Speaker. And I am happy if the Minister is going to tell me that they are going to shop the deal around. Unless they are going to shop the deal around, there is no way that we can know for sure that we could not have gotten a better deal. That is the problem which we have, Mr. Speaker. That is the issue, because even if it could have been a $5 million better deal, $5 million means a lot. And if someone could give it to us for $250 million or $245 million or $230 million, that is money, Mr. Speaker, that is a real difference. And that is what we have to look at when we are talking about value for money.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I would really hope that when the Minister stands up he can give clarity on this issue of how he said that Aecon is going to create 400 long-term jobs, because I am dying to hear it. Mr. Speaker, if he can convince me, then, to be quite honest, I will sit down because I need to hear where these 400 long-term jobs are coming from at an airport which right now only employs 43 people. That is what I want to know. I am dying to find out, especially when efficiencies are going to have to be created, where these 400 long-term jobs are going to come from.

I hope that the Minister will provide clarity. I hope that he would do that. Because the fact of the matter is, Mr. Speaker, that, yes, the airport will bring short-term stimulus with jobs. But if the trade off between the short-term stimulus and the long-term stream of payments, the long-term loss of control of a strategic asset to the Canadian Commercial Corporation and Aecon and Somers Construction, then we have to really question as to whether or not this is the best way going forward for Bermuda.

So I would hope that the Minister would be able to take into account my concerns. I would hope that the Minister would be able to answer the question, specifically the issue that he raised about 400 long-term jobs. And I would hope that the Minister could also explain how he is going to rationalise this in future budgets going forward because the numbers do not work.

The Minister of Finance in his Budget Statement predicted that revenue will only increase by 3 per cent next year. That is in his projections. However, if the airport is gone and the $30 million of revenue is gone, it cannot be a 3 per cent increase because we will not meet his budget targets. So that means that either he is making it up inside the figure or he is not being completely open and honest. I hope that he will take this time to clarify for us what will actually happen in the future years, especially if the airport gets privatised, because it is clear that income and expenses will come off our balance sheet, it will come off of our income statement and go somewhere else.

The figures do not add up as he has presented them and, Mr. Speaker, it is clear that we on this side do not believe this is the right move at this time. We need to take the money and invest it in tourism and hold off on an airport development so we can raise our air arrivals. We do not exist in an ideal situation, as the Honourable Minister of Transport said, so we should make the best of this not ideal situation and put our money where we can get a return. There is no return in a new airport, Mr. Speaker, there is a return on increased investment in tourism.

Thank you.

[Desk thumping]

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

I now recognise the Minister of Finance, Minister Bob Richards.

You have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

This is getting like a broken record, Mr. Speaker. I start out by saying the hour is late, the hour is late, and the hour is late.

First, as it relates to the airport, let me make something very clear. If we sign a deal with Aecon and CCC tomorrow, there will be no need to do anything for the airport until it is built and that is three and a half years from now—three and a half years from now if we did the deal tomorrow. All right? Three and a half years. Therefore, between now and when the airport is built, this increase in departure tax goes into the Consolidated Fund to help to pay for America's Cup expenditure. Okay?

So let us just settle this lot down and all its rhetoric. Those are just the facts. We are not going to build the airport tomorrow. You know, even if we struck the deal tomorrow, it is not going to get built for three and a half years. It is only when the airport is finished that there will be some hypothecation of departure tax.

So that is how we explain the truth, which is, between now and three and a half years from now, Mr. Speaker, we are going to have a huge influx of people coming through the present airport for America's Cup. And when they do they are going to pay a $50.00 per head departure tax, which would really help the Consolidated Fund, thank you very much.

So when we say this will help pay for America's Cup, when I say that, you know, we are going to try to do the America's Cup without deficit financing, this is what I am talking about! Okay. So let us get that straight.

Now raising taxes is going to be the big deterrent to tourism. The relationship between departure taxes and tourism arrivals depends on a lot of things. Mainly, it depends on the elasticity of demand for people coming here. Now, you know, I think we get on funny ground when we start making that comparison to Jamaica, for instance. The type of tourist that goes to Jamaica for $100.00 junket is not the type of person that is going to come here under virtually any circumstance because that is not the segment of the market that we are attempting to penetrate. In the main, that is not the type of market we are trying to . . . we know that Bermuda is always going to be expensive and, therefore, we are trying to make a penetration in the higher echelon of the tourist market.

But there is a point that has been missed as it relates to . . . you know, which comes first the chicken or the egg? Do you get the hotels because more people are coming to Bermuda or do you get more people to come into Bermuda because you have new hotels? We are basing our strategy on the branding power of new hotels . . . the branding power. Once upon a time in Bermuda, I guess, a long time ago now, there were no hotel chains in Bermuda. All the Bermuda hotels were kind of independent. Now we have Fairmont and Rosewood, that is about all. But most of your major hotel corporations have very, very valuable brands and people go to those brands, go to countries where those brands are present.

The deals that we are trying to do with the St. George's hotel and the one at Morgan's Point are going to be branded hotels. And what that means is that if you have, particularly a luxury brand hotel, the elasticity of demand as it relates to the price of a ticket and the price of a lot of other things is a lot smaller. Let me just use an example. You know the most inelastic demand product you can buy is pharmaceuticals. It does not matter how much the drug cost, all right, you are going to pay for it. It is as simple as that. That is a really inelastic demand product. But some other things that you know even if it is just a penny difference, you are not going to buy it and that is a very elastic product.

Now what we are shooting for here is hotel brands, which are luxury brands, where there is an inelastic demand for it. So that means that we will have the ability to put up this price for transportation without any visible effect on the actual volume coming through. So the strategy here as it relates to tourism development has to do with the power of branding. All of your major hotel companies on the New York Stock Exchange or any stock exchange, all right, the most valuable thing for those hotel corporations is their brand. And we want more branded hotels in Bermuda and the brands will suck in the customers. So that is what we are trying to do.

I have got some other notes here. I think I will just skip over them because of the time.

[Pause]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Okay, Mr. Speaker, I will stop there because it is late. I can go on and on for some time, but I mean, I think that the point I am trying to make here is that this airport is a very strategic part of our plan. It is going to be a job creator. It is going to be a job creator for Bermudians. And when somebody says, Well, we want to put money into tourism and then we have the airport, Mr. Speaker, you know the former Government spent a whole lot of money on tourism and where did it get us? It is sort of like the same argument that we did with education—if you throw more money at it, it will get fixed. That kind of philosophy and approach has not worked. Where you just keep throwing money at stuff and you expect it to work all by itself.

That has not been the approach of this Government—to throw money at things. It is much more of a qualitative approach, and an approach to change a system as opposed to just throwing more money at it and expecting things to get better. Dr. Brown threw a lot of money at tourism and it did not do a whole heck of a lot for tourism in Bermuda. Certainly this is—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is certainly misleading the House, Mr. Speaker, because under Ewart Brown we had a record—a record—amount of tourists that came to Bermuda in 2007. So just saying that it did not have—

The Speaker: All right. Thanks.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: —any success is not right.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Most of those tourists were on cruise ships, Mr. Speaker. So, you know, we can have cruise ships and customers come here and buy a t-shirt and they are gone. But that is not what we are after here. We are after air arrivals, people who stay in hotels, and spend a lot of money—

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: That is what we are after.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Honourable Member is misleading the House because he should know from the figures that the air arrival figures in 2007 were 110,000 more than they are currently.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: And what happened after that, Honourable Member? They have just gone down and they went down during their administration. I mean, give me a break. Give me a break! You know, give me a break.

So, you know, they want to say that they did great, but tourism has been in a secular decline for 30 years and we need to take systemic and qualitative methods and initiatives to turn it around. That is what we are doing. It is not going to be good enough just to throw money at it. That is the point. And if they do not want to accept that point, well, you know, we are on different pages.

So the point I have made is how we are going to get money to help pay for the America's Cup, which is what I said in the Budget Statement, that we are going to do it . . . to try and get that money without deficit financing. That is a very important point.

The airport is going to create jobs. It is going to go . . . it is going to be in keeping with what we want to have Bermuda viewed as in terms of a product, in terms of a quality product.

[Crosstalk]

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: So that is also important.

But mostly, Mr. Speaker, we are doing this airport now because we want to create jobs for Bermudians.

And I repeat, anybody who is against this airport is against the creation of jobs for Bermudians.

So with that, Mr. Speaker, I would like the Bill to be committed.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Minister.

The Minister has moved that the Bill be committed.

Are there any objections to that?

Deputy Speaker, please take the Chair [of Committee].

House in Committee at 2:00 am

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

COMMITTEE ON BILL

MISCELLANEOUS TAXES (RATES) AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Chairman: Good morning. Members, we are now in Committee for further consideration of the Bill entitled Miscellaneous Taxes \(Rates\) Amendment Act 2015. I call on the Minister in charge to proceed.

Minister, you have the floor.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Madam Chair.

This Bill seeks to amend section 9B of the Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Act 1980.

I move clauses 1 through 3.

Clause 1 is self-explanatory.

Clause 2 amends section 9B(1) of the Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Act 1980 to increase the rate of passenger departure tax in respect of air travel from $35.00 to $50.00 per passenger.

Clause 3 provides for a commencement of 1 April 2015.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any Members that would like to speak to clauses 1 through 3?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 18, Pembroke West Central, Mr. E. David G. Burt.

You have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, the first thing is that the Progressive Labour Party is on record as not supporting this tax increase for the reasons of what the funds will be used for.

The question that I had, which I asked in the general debate—which the Minister did not answer, so I will give him another opportunity to answer, although I have a feeling that he will not answer—is that in the main debate he said that this airport project will create 400 long-term jobs. And given that the airport right now only employs 43 people, I was wondering if he could explain to us where that thousand per cent increase in jobs is going to come from, especially from a profitable enterprise.

The Chairman: Thank you.
Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: My only response to that is when the Government is in a position and is willing to make a full presentation to the public of Bermuda, that answer will be forthcoming.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any other Members that would like to speak to clauses 1 through 3?

There are no other Members.

Minister, please proceed.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I move all three clauses, please.

The Chairman: It has moved that clauses 1 through 3 be approved as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?

No objections.

Agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: Clauses 1 through 3 passed.]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I move the Preamble.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Preamble be approved as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?

No objections.

Agreed to.

[Gavel]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Madam Chairman, I move the Bill be reported to the House.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Bill be reported to the House as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?

[Inaudible interjection]

The Chairman: There is an objection to that motion.

All those in favour of the motion, please, say Aye.

AYES.

The Chairman: All those opposed, please, say Nay.

NOES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Thank you. The Bill will be reported to the House as printed.

[Motion carried: The Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Amendment Act 2015 was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed without amendment.]

House resumed at 2:04 am

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

MISCELLANEOUS TAXES (RATES) AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Speaker: Thank you, Members. The Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Amendment 2015 has been approved.

We now look at Order No. 7 all the way through to 19, [they] are carried over.

I now call on the Minister of Finance.
Minister of Finance, carry on.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 21

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, I move that Standing Order 21 be suspended so that we can have a third reading of the Land Tax Amendment Act 2015.

The Speaker: Are there any objections to that?
Carry on, Minister.

[Motion carried: Standing Order 21 suspended]

BILL

THIRD READING

LAND TAX AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Bill do now pass.

The Speaker: It has been moved that the Bill be passed.

Any objections?
The Bill is passed.

[Motion carried: The Land Tax Amendment Act 2015 was read a third time and passed.]

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 21

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, again, I move that Standing Order 21 be suspended so that I can read for the third time the Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015.

The Speaker: Any objections?

Okay, I heard some . . . all those in favour, say Aye.

AYES.

The Speaker: Those against, say Nay.

NOES.

The Speaker: I think the Ayes have it.

[Motion carried: Standing Order 21 suspended]

BILL

THIRD READING

PAYROLL TAX RATES AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, I move that the Bill do now pass.

The Speaker: All right. It has been moved that the Bill do now pass.

Are there any objections to that?
The Bill is now passed.

[Motion carried: The Payroll Tax Rates Amendment Act 2015 was read a third time and passed.]

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 21

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: And lastly, Mr. Speaker, I move again that [Standing Order] 21 be suspended to allow me to read the Miscellaneous Taxes (Rates) Amendment Act 2015 the third time.

The Speaker: Any objections to that?
Carry on, Minister.

[Motion carried: Standing Order 21 suspended]

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS AND JUNIOR MINISTERS

The Speaker: The Chair will recognise the Honourable Minister, the Honourable Minister Atherden, from constituency 19, Pembroke West. You have the floor.

FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, thank you for the opportunity to address my honourable colleagues and the public of Bermuda to talk about how distressed I am that our hospital is being used as a residence for seniors who do not need to be there.

Mr. Speaker, you will be aware that the new Acute Care Wing (ACW) at the hospital opened its doors in September of last year. During that time, the patient satisfaction survey results have been very encouraging. Patients are impressed by the new facility and the services that are being offered.

Mr. Speaker, we could feel some pride that we are moving in the right direction in our provision of quality health care for all Bermudians. Now, Mr. Speaker, some six months later, there is a problem. The problem is that all 90 beds at the new Acute Care Wing are full. Not only that, but all of the beds in the General Wing of the hospital are also full, and the Bermuda Hospitals Board is having to add additional beds.

Mr. Speaker, if the beds were full because we had a sudden influx of acutely sick patients, I would understand. But this is not the case.

The problem, and the source of my distress, is that there is a growing trend for the families of these elderly Bermudians to refuse to take them back home. They refuse, Mr. Speaker, to take responsibility for their grandparents, their parents, their siblings—telling the hospital that they are unable to cope with an ageing relative, or do not have the appropriate resources at home.

There are some instances in which the hospital's medical social workers help the family to find alternative placements for their relatives, but we are seeing cases where the family is still refusing to make a decision about placement, which leaves the senior in the hospital.

Mr. Speaker, we have more than 30 Bermudians in the hospital who are what we call "long-stay social admissions." These ladies and gentlemen do not need to be in the hospital; they should be at home with their families in familiar surroundings that provide a degree of comfort that they can rely on.

I have to pause here and say that it is my belief that the vast majority of families on this Island are responsible and caring. They look out for and ensure that their elderly relatives are well looked after. I know that many individuals and families scrimp and save and sacrifice to make sure that they provide for their elders.

But there are others, Mr. Speaker, who do not seem to have the same motivation. Mr. Speaker, I have been made aware of cases where children who are professionals and have good jobs will not help to cover the cost of their parents' residential care and the case where a senior's family have turned their collective backs and said, They are not my problem; you find them somewhere to live.

Mr. Speaker, what this says to me is that we still have much work to do. We want Bermuda to be a community where we can plan for old age, and as a family we work together to allow seniors to age gracefully at home with dignity and independence as far and as long as possible.

Some will say that there is really no harm in this and there is no real cost. But the reality is that harm is being done to that senior, and there is a price that the senior pays for staying as a long-stay social admission in the hospital. Mr. Speaker, there is also a price that the community pays.

Let me give you an example, Mr. Speaker. Let us assume that a 75-year-old senior who is on FutureCare has been in the hospital for more than 15 days because, although they do not need hospital care, they cannot be discharged. Every month this senior is in the hospital costs $34,000. FutureCare pays 20 per cent of that, or $6,800, but hospital subsidy pays the other 80 per cent, or $27,000.

I do not have to remind you, Mr. Speaker, that the hospital subsidy comes out of the Consolidated Fund, which means that the taxpayer is paying $27,000 for every month that any senior over the age of 74 is in the hospital. That is a real unnecessary cost to the public purse.

Mr. Speaker, if we can find a way for just a few thousands of those of dollars to pay for in-hospital care to follow the senior home to provide for in-home caregiver support, I feel that we would realise significant savings on the bottom line.

Mr. Speaker, the hospital is at the point now where they are having to cancel elective surgery because of a bed shortage. That is right—surgeries are being cancelled because there are a large number of people in the hospital who do not need to be there, who cannot be discharged.

Mr. Speaker, I brought this subject to the House today so that the public will be aware of the issues that we are facing. I do not have the answers right now, but I am asking my new Seniors Advisory Council to look into the problems on my behalf.

I recognise that in many cases funding or the lack of funding is the issue. And I recognise that there are patients who are in long-stay beds at the hospital because, while they do not need hospital care, they need more care than they can get easily at home.

We want to find ways to ensure that our seniors can age well and age at home for as long as possible, but it is clear that money and services may be an impediment to ageing at home.

We as Members of this Honourable House are often focused on legislation. But I do not know if legislation is the answer for this problem. There has to be a better way to address this than by trying to legislate caring.

For those Bermudians who have relatives in the hospital, I implore you to visit with them, to let them know that you are thinking about them and that you care. Talk to the hospital staff, meet with the physician team and the medical social workers, and work with them to develop a plan to have your loved ones return home.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The Speaker: There are no reports of committees.

QUESTION PERIOD

The Speaker: And we now move to the Question Period.

Honourable Members, we have on the Order Paper questions from the Learned Member K. N. Wilson to Minister Atherden. These questions will be carried over until Monday, March the 9th. I have had discussion with both Members involving the questions.

We now move to questions from the Honourable D. V. Burgess, the Honourable Member from constituency 5. You have the floor.

QUESTION 1: BERMUDA TOURISM AUTHORITY LOANS

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, will the Honourable Minister please advise this Honourable House what were the loan amounts given to Soma Sailing, ScootCoupe, Funworx and the Shelly Bay Beach Experience by the Bermuda Tourism Authority? And please list the names of the principals involved.

The Speaker: Mr. Minister?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker. Good morning.

Mr. Speaker, ScootCoupe was given $30,000. The recipients were Justin Robinson and Tallent Clark. Funworx was given $30,000. The recipients were Aaron Williams and Iesha Castle. Mr. Speaker, that particular one was featured yesterday in the Royal Gazette. Shelly Bay was given $30,000. The recipient is Mr. Tom Steinhoff. And Soma Sailing was given $15,000 to recipient Alex Jones.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister. MP Burgess?

QUESTION 1: ILS CONFERENCE

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Will the Honourable Minister please advise this Honourable House how many visitors attended the ILS [insurance-linked securities] Conference?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The total confirmed attendees to the conference was 306 individuals, I believe inclusive of the Shadow Finance Minister. The overseas delegates were 174. There were 13 overseas countries represented, from Australia, Canada, Cayman, Finland, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Ireland, Monaco, South Africa, Switzerland, United Kingdom and the United States. The number of room nights which were booked were 398.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister. Do you have a supplementary?

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I do have a supplementary on the first question. I did not know the Honourable Member—

The Speaker: It is too late for that, Honourable Member.

Mr. E. David Burt: But I did not know that he was moving to the second question, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Well, he is going to it, Honourable Member. You now go to the second question. We are on the second question. We are on the second question!

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, with respect, we did not have a chance to ask our supplementary question. I did not know that the Honourable Member—

The Speaker: Honourable Member, you should have been paying attention. I am sorry!

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, when the Honourable Member stood up, he asked his second question. When he stood up to his feet, I did not know that he was going to ask the second question.

The Speaker: That is not my fault, Honourable Member.

Mr. E. David Burt: But, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker: Honourable Member—

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker: Honourable Member, please.

Mr. E. David Burt: I could not stand up at the same time that he was standing up to ask a supplementary.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, you are on the same team. You are not on different teams.

Honourable Member from constituency 5, do you have your next question?

QUESTION 1: BERMUDA TOURISM AUTHORITY BONUSES

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Mr. Speaker, will the Honourable Minister please advise this Honourable House, how many staff members of the BTA [Bermuda Tourism Authority] have received bonuses or are eligible for bonuses, and what are the terms, conditions and criteria relating to these bonuses?

The Speaker: Yes, Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

All BTA staff members are eligible under the performance incentive programme. BTA is a performance-driven organisation. The compensation packages of all BTA employees consist of a base salary established within a market-based salary range for similar positions, and a performance-incentive programme.

Assuming an employee's performance objectives have been met, their incentive will bring them within the mid to upper range for their position, while exceeding objectives enables them to realise a more significant payout. Overall, BTA organisational objectives are also factored into the performance incentive calculation. These include team goals and, for 2015, core competencies.

This method of calculation was developed to best serve the BTA as a performance-driven organisation. The incentive payment is based on varying percentages, from 5 per cent to 30 per cent of the employee's base salary, depending upon the employee's position and responsibility within the organisation.

Mr. Speaker, as of this morning I was advised that no one in the executive of the BTA, including the CEO, has received a bonus. There have been bonuses paid to the staff based on their contract and their . . . and it has been pro-rated.

The Speak: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Yes, the Honourable Member from constituency 29, you have a supplementary?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker. Thanks.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I would like to ask the Minister, he did say that the bonuses range from 5 [per cent] to 30 per cent. Can he be specific in terms of what percentage the executive members get?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, I do not know all of the executives, the terms of all of their contracts. I was asked the question pertaining to the CEO previously, and my answer was that that was 30 per cent . . . Well, I do not think that was the question; I am sorry. He actually gave that information publicly, and it was 30 per cent for the CEO.

The Speaker: Yes, another supplementary?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Another supplementary. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, yes.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Just to confirm, you did say that the bonuses were based on . . . the percentages will be on their base salary. Is that for the executives as well? Is that where that bonus is derived from?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. As I said a few moments ago, that (sorry) . . . It will be based on the employee's base salary, yes.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Honourable Member from constituency 5. You have a supplementary?

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes, supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Mr. Speaker, would the Honourable Minister please inform this Honourable House, what was the total amount paid and how many staff received bonuses?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, Mr. Speaker. As I said, I just got that information this morning. So I do not have the specifics. But I will endeavour to get the specifics of what was paid out to the staff. Again, no one in the executive suite received any bonuses to date.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 6. MP Wayne Furbert, yes, you have supplementary?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, yes.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The Minister said that no executive has been paid to date. I took note of that. Is the money being accrued and will be paid soon?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Speaker, I do not have responsibility for who gets paid, what they get paid. That is a BTA function. It is a Board of Directors function. The Government is not involved in those matters with the BTA.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: So when you ask the question, I would get the answer and provide it for the Honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Minister.

Any other questions?

Thank you, Honourable Members.

We now go to the Ministerial Statement by Minister Atherden. And I will first recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 29, MP De Silva.

QUESTION 1: FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I would like to ask the Minister a question on the second page, the second-to-last paragraph, where the Minister says she has ". . . been made aware of cases where children who are professionals and have good jobs will not help to cover the cost of their parents' residential care . . ." and she goes on.

But my question to the Minister on that Statement, Mr. Speaker, is, Has there been any attempt to sit down . . . If the children are not willing to help with the cost of looking after their parents, or relatives looking after their siblings, or what have you, has there been any move by the Minister to look at maybe making any legislative moves to make sure that family members will contribute to this cost?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, as I said earlier, my Seniors Advisory Council are going to be looking at all the options that are available to us. But as I said in the Statement, I have a real concern about when you want to try and legislate caring. So, we will, obviously, look at possibilities. But it is all about getting the caring first, because if you can get that, then you can get a better result. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 29. You have a supplementary?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Second question.

The Speaker: Or a second question.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Second question, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I saw two other Honourable Members stand up. Did you have supplementaries?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: You can take them first.

The Speaker: Yes, I will take them now because they have supplementaries on the first question.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. Walter H. Roban: My supplementary pertains to the Minister's answer she just gave. In light of the circumstances that the Minister did present in her Statement, does the Minister feel that some of the strategies deployed previously—because this is not a new problem—will help with dealing with this 90-bed issue that she has described in her Statement?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Sorry, Mr. Speaker. Could you ask the Honourable Member to repeat his question?

The Speaker: MP Roban?

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Clearly, the issue is that persons have come in who, Mr. Speaker, find themselves unable to be returned to their homes because of their health circumstances or family circumstances. This is not a new problem with the BHB [Bermuda Hospitals Board].

I am asking, does the Minister feel that some of the strategies that were deployed previously, which did get this issue dealt with to some degree, will be helpful going forward?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I am not sure what the Honourable Member is referring to in terms of some of the previous solutions that have been dealt with. I can reflect back in terms of, this problem has been going on forever in terms of persons who come in there, into the hospital and have issues with respect to being able to be returned to their families. And it is an ongoing problem, and I am not sure what particular solutions the Honourable Member is referring to.

The Speaker: Thank you.

MP Walton Brown, you have a supplementary?

Mr. Walton Brown: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The MP from constituency 17, Pembroke Central.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. Walton Brown: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Is the Honourable Minister aware that there was at least one person, and possibly more, in long-term care in the hospital who has physical challenges but who has protested repeatedly that he is capable of living on his own and just needs support? And that support will be considerably less than the $34,000 that it is costing for this physically challenged patient to be there. I believe this has been raised in the past. I was just wondering if the Minister is aware of it.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I just want to perhaps reiterate. I am aware of the case, and I am aware of a couple of other cases. But I think the point that I wanted to make is that when I talked about trying to see if some of that money could follow the persons to places where they could get care which is less expensive, but the proper care . . .

But all I just want to say to you is that the most important thing that we have to deal with, going forward, is to try and deal with the range of individuals. It is not just seniors. I realise that there are young disabled individuals, and that is one of the things that my Seniors Advisory Council is going to do. Because as I made the Statement, the press conference, I have asked the Seniors Advisory Council to also look at persons with long-term disabilities. Because in the end, they usually become seniors who need care.

The Speaker: Thank you.
MP Brown, another supplementary?

Mr. Walton Brown: Yes, just a follow-up.

The Speaker: Yes. Sure.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. Walton Brown: Is the Minister aware that in the case that she refers to, there is no medical care provided? It is just a rooming house. The person comes into town every day and gardens and so forth. And so it is not a question of medical care or attention. It is just that the person is there and being paid for at a very large amount every month by the state.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I will not go into specifics in the House. And I am quite happy to have the discussion with the individual. But I also know, in general terms, when you get to the bottom of it, you find that it is not as simple as just the person being able to move. Sometimes, it is whether the place they want to go to is registered to be able to get the funding.

But I appreciate the Member's concern, because we are all concerned to make sure that we get this dealt with.

The Speaker: Thank you.
MP De Silva, your second question?

QUESTION 2: FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, yes, Mr. Speaker.
Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Minister, with the current cost of the seniors being $27,000 per month and the former cost being in CCU [Continuing Care Unit] was about $13,000 a month less, which equates to about $400,000, has this amount of money been given any thought as to maybe put into Lefroy House, which new facilities could be built, money borrowed? And I am sure with the savings of $400,000 a month, this should be something the Minister should look at quite seriously.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I do not know where the Honourable Member gets his numbers with respect to the differential. But I am not going to get caught up by the differential. I am going to deal with what I believe is his intent.

His intent was to raise the question of whether there is some opportunity to look at another facility where you could house some of these individuals at potentially a lower cost and save the money. And I want to say to the Honourable Member, those types of thoughts are under consideration and not necessarily just at Lefroy House. I am a firm believer that Government should try and not get into more facilities where it has to get involved. But if we can set up a process or open up the playing field where individuals will move into it and we can get persons to turn around and offer those services.

The Speaker: Thank you.
You have a supplementary?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Mr. Speaker, I get my numbers from doing little simple math. Currently, we are paying $27,000 per month per person. In the old CCU, it used to be $14,000 per person per month. So the difference is $13,000 per month. That is where I got my figure from.

So, my question, the supplementary question is, Has the Minister considered having that reduction of $13,000 per month just from moving the seniors from the CCU over to the new hospital—not the new hospital, but the existing hospital wing?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, as I said, I cannot verify the numbers that the Honourable Member is talking about in terms of what it used to cost. And so, as I say, I am not going to sort of try and second-guess him in terms of a differential.

I am accepting the fact that there is a differential, which is the most important thing. There is a differential, and if we can turn around and look to see how we can move those persons to a facility where we can save more money, I am all for it. And that is what I am looking at. I am not going to get into whether it is 17 and 14, because that is not the real issue. The real issue is that there is a differential.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member? You have another supplementary?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, my last supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister said she did not want to get into the differential of money; she does not know what it is. I can tell you what it is. The number is a difference of $14,000. That is what the hospital charged for patients who were in CCU previously. They were over in the hospital, the existing hospital now, and they are paying $27,000; got that. That is public record, and so is the $14,000.

So, what I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is that I am asking the Minister to talk to this . . . This money comes out of the Consolidated Fund. What I am asking the Minister is if she can ask the CEO of the hospital that, whilst we have made this change from one section of the hospital to the other, if we can have that amount reduced, that claim of $27,000 a month reduced to the claim that we used to pay in the CCU of $14,000?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Sorry, Mr. Speaker. I understand where the Member is coming from. But I think I need to be clear. The persons who I am talking about are not persons who were in CCU. These are persons who have come into the hospital for illnesses in the Acute Care Wing and are not able to be discharged home. They are not persons who were in the old CCU. They are individuals who, if their illnesses . . . Once they have had their illnesses dealt with, they would normally go home. So, to me, I understand if we are looking at CCU and the differential. But I am talking about individuals who are in the ACW and having to stay there because they cannot be discharged to go home.

The Speaker: Thank you.

You had supplementary, MP from Hamilton East, constituency 5? MP Burgess, you have a supplementary?

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes. Mr. Speaker. Would it not be more cost-effective—

The Speaker: Ask the . . . We are going to ask the Speaker the question.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes, I am so used to it, but anyhow.

[Laughter]

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Mr. Speaker, would the Honourable Minister look at to see if giving assistance to families to have these folks at home, basic-ly like day care, it certainly would be cheaper than $27,000 a month.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Sorry, Mr. Speaker. I obviously did not talk loudly enough or I talked too quickly. I think I said that it was . . . I made the suggestion that, "Mr. Speaker, if we can find a way for just a few thousands of those of dollars that pay for in-hospital care to follow the senior home to provide for in-home caregiver support, I feel that we would realise significant savings on the bottom line." I understand that, and I am looking at all of these options.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Another supplementary?

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes, Mr. Speaker. Honourable Minister, how many of these 90 patients have dementia or Alzheimer's?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I am not aware of that number. And the only thing I can say is that I can do a research. But by and large, those persons came into the hospital for acute care issues. And so, I would have thought there would not be a lot. But I do not have a problem trying to do the research.

The Speaker: Yes, you have another question? Now, you have had two supplementaries, Honourable Member.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes, I have a question.

The Speaker: So you have a question, right?

QUESTION 1: FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes.

Honourable Minister, the patients have been moved from the old wing to the new—well, not the new wing, but the newer wing, or the old hospital, not the old-old hospital, but the old hospital.

[Laughter]

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: When will that building, the old-old hospital, when will that be knocked down?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, my recollection is, and if my recollection proves to be not correct, then I will come back and tell the House and the Member. My recollection is that they have actually started to knock down the building, but remember, they are not knocking down the whole building. But the demolition has already started.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Any other questions?

MP Wilson, you had a question? The Honourable and Learned Member from Sandys, constituency 34, Sandys South Central, you have the floor.

QUESTION 1: FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Thank you. Thank you.

I wonder if the Honourable Minister can answer the following question with respect to page 2, the penultimate paragraph concerning the cases of children who have professional jobs, et cetera. Has consideration been given to the Minister with respect to requiring upon admission the seniors who are receiving acute care treatment to have a guarantee signed by their family members and/or credit card also deposited for same, so that in the circumstances when the patient is ready to be discharged and there is no further medical need, then the credit card and/or the guarantee can be relied upon?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Sorry, Mr. Speaker. I think I understood what the Honourable Member was saying, but, to me, we are not dealing with what the issue is. The issue is not the fact that they are not prepared to pay; they are not getting out of there. So subsidy covers them. Subsidy covers them so it is not a question of the fact that there is nobody there paying. They are staying there, and subsidy is covering them. So the credit card and the guarantee are not going to do . . . It is not required. The issue is the fact that subsidy takes care of it, and FutureCare takes care of it.

But going forward, the most important thing is for them to actually leave the facility. It is not a cash issue or a guarantee issue.

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: With respect—

The Speaker: MP Wilson, yes?

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: A supplementary.

The Speaker: Supplementary, yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Actually, it is for clarification, because the question comes directly from the Statement, which says, quote, “Mr. Speaker, I have been made aware of cases where children who are professionals and have good jobs will not help to cover the cost of their parents’ residential care . . .” So my question stems from what is actually in the Statement.

So perhaps the Minister would oblige me by answering the question based on the information that she has given to this Honourable House concerning circumstances where children who are professionals cover the care.

My question, again, is, Has the Ministry considered implementing a process where, upon admission, the person indicates by a credit card as well as provides a guarantee? So, in circumstances where the patient is ready to be discharged and the family has the money and the means, as is in this Statement, then the guarantee is relied upon and/or the credit card is charged accordingly.

The Speaker: Minister.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker and Honourable Member, and just for clarity, the issue becomes when they are ready to be discharged, and normally when it comes up in terms of residential care they need to be discharged. The individual does not have the wherewithal to have them at their own home. And so, they need to go to a residential care facility. That is the point in time where the individual, the family, needs to then step in and cover the residential care cost.

It is not a question of a guarantee or a credit card. If the person does not leave the hospital and go to the appropriate home, then nothing happens. And it is the residential care . . . ACW is not residential care. The residential care that I am referring to is being discharged and going to a rest home or a nursing home.

The Speaker: MP Wilson?

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Supplementary.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Again, relying on the Statement that was made by the Minister, in circumstances where the patient is ready to be discharged from the hospital, there is no further acute ailment, they are ready to go home, and the family says, No, we are not going to take them home because, notwithstanding the fact that we have the money, we are not taking them home. Maybe there is no place for residential care, et cetera.

Cannot the hospital . . . Will the Minister at least humour me and consider as an option that, upon admission, a credit card and/or a guarantor are signed so that if that patient is ready to be discharged and the family are waiting to provide residential care or move the patient somewhere else, but they have the means to do it, every day that that patient is charged or every month that the Consolidated Fund is charged $27,200 a month, let us say for the example, of the senior over 74, cannot a guarantor and/or a credit card be appropriately used to cover that fee? It provides an extra incentive.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I understand what the Honourable Member is saying right there. And that is obviously an option that we can look at. I think the other option that we are also going to look at is, basically, limiting the fact that . . . Because technically, the whole, the crux of all of this is saying that, at a point in time, the person is no longer eligible for the subsidy or the coverage. Until that happens, until that has happened and started, then it is no question of turning around and saying, You are responsible. But that is why we are looking at it. We are looking at saying that, once the illness that got them there has been dealt with, looking at saying there should be a cut-off to say that, Now you are turning around and you are actually (if you will) no longer having it for the illness that the subsidy covered.

So I take your point with respect to credit cards. And if we can get it to that stage where the coverage ceases, then that is something we can obviously consider. And thank you for the suggestion.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.
Yes, MP. You have another question?

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Yes, yes, my second question.

The Speaker: Yes.

QUESTION 2: FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Could the Minister consider the following option with respect to circumstances where, again, the patient no longer has an acute ailment and they are discharged?

And if I can just provide a little background. Upon admission, there is next of kin who is normally indicated on the admission forms, et cetera. Could the Government at least perhaps consider as an option that, upon discharge, the patient is taken to the next of kin? So they have been discharged from the hospital. Whether there is a $75.00 fee for the ambulance, whatever the ambulance services cost, and they are delivered home to the next of kin. And then the next of kin has that responsibility for their parent.

This is just . . . I cannot, Mr. Speaker . . . Forgive me. I just cannot believe we are talking about legislating caring for parents. And perhaps the Government could consider discharging the patient into the care of the person who was listed as the next of kin.

The Speaker: Let the Minister get to the question that you asked.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I hear what the Honourable Member says. And actually, Mr. Speaker, I think that the hospital has to consider that. Because I think we have to recognise that the patient is the patient of the hospital. The hospital would be the entity that would be effectively turning around and saying to the patient's family, As of this day, your family member is ready to be discharged, and as of this hour, that person will be delivered to this facility.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I am going to say that I appreciate that that is an option. And I also appreciate the possible reaction. And that is why I am trying not to have us to get to that situation. Because you know when that happens, there is going to all sorts of people who are going to feel that we are not caring.

So, Mr. Speaker, I am going to try and hope that I can convince family members to become more caring so that we do not have to have that as a last resort. But I appreciate that it is a possibility.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 21, Pembroke South East, MP Commissiong. You have a question.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Thank you, and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

QUESTION 1: FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Would the Honourable Minister indicate whether any studies have been undertaken with respect to this phenomenon of the hospital turning into a de facto residential care facility? And I am proposing that—

The Speaker: Ask your question first.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Yes. I am proposing Mr. Speaker, that if it has not been undertaken, that the Minister consider a study so we can get a handle on how much of this is as a result of the uncaring family narrative and how much of this is being produced by economic challenges that are confronting, perhaps, more low-income clients and their families?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, in response to the question by the Honourable Member, I am not aware of a study that has been undertaken. But I must admit I can reflect back to how long this has been going on. But I believe it is important to have this looked at. As I said, this is something that my Seniors Advisory Council will be looking at, because it is about coming up with a solution to deal with this. And the solution, obviously, has to look at all the factors that are contributing to it. So it will be looked at. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

You have a supplementary or another question?

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: I have another question.

The Speaker: Yes, go ahead.

QUESTION 2: FAMILY RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Thank you again, Mr. Speaker.

Will the Honourable Minister give some indication also whether she anticipates that this phenomenon will increase over the next decade or more as a consequence of the ageing nature of Bermuda's population? Low fertility rates mean that, over the last quarter-century many Bermudians over the next 10 to 20 years will reach an elderly part of our population without having much in the way of family. So, does she think that this phenomenon will increase unless significant reforms are put in place?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, that is possible. But I think the point that I need to make here is the fact that what we are going to try and do is start off initially to talk about, as we said in our vision, ageing well in Bermuda, which is to start to try and have people age at home with the appropriate care support. And then, over time, if they have to progress to a rest home, with funding to be able to take care of that, a nursing home, and then what I called the more skilled nursing.

But what I think is more important is that, as I believe my Seniors Advisory Council will do, they will start to look at all sorts of options. And when I say all sorts of options, there are options that have been used in other places of having care homes, which are group homes where you start off, you know, when you are 50 or 60. And then you age in that facility. And then you [stay] there till you are 70 or 80.

So the phenomenon will be looked at because it is important for us to get an understanding of the population that we will have to cater to. And that is one of the things that the Seniors Advisory Council will be looking at.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, thank you, Honourable Minister. Thank you.

No further questions?

Thank you, Honourable Members. That brings to a close our Question Period.

MATTERS OF PRIVILEGE

The Speaker: There are none.

PERSONAL EXPLANATIONS

The Speaker: There are none.

NOTICE OF MOTIONS FOR THE ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE ON MATTERS OF URGENT PUBLIC IMPORTANCE

The Speaker: There are none.

Introduction of Bills. The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister Gordon-Pamplin. Minister Patricia Gordon-Pamplin, from constituency 23, Paget West, you have the floor.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, did you [skip] over congratulatory and obituary speeches, at the bottom of the page? Or did I miss hearing you?

The Speaker: No. You know what? No, no. I did not say it. Hang on.

[Pause]

The Speaker: You know, I certainly did. It was right at the bottom of the page.

CONGRATULATORY AND/OR OBITUARY SPEECHES

The Speaker: Honourable Members, if there is anyone who wants to give one, then I will go back to that, with the agreement of the House. Any objections to that?

All right. I recognise now the Honourable Member from constituency 23.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, very briefly, this weekend on the 8th of March, celebrates International Women's Day. And the Department of Human Affairs has determined that this is appropriate to salute women in shipping, which is an unusual sort of vocation for many women. It is deemed, historically, to be a male-dominated field. But they have put a brochure together which highlights 12 Bermudian women whose livelihood and their focus is in the shipping industry.

There were a couple on the list who actually are presently employed by Maritime Administration, either presently or very recently past. But I would ask that . . . I will give the list to the Clerk, and ask that we send a letter of congratulations from the House to these individuals who have acquitted themselves well in this particular field which historically has had the glass ceiling, as far as women are concerned. Mr. Speaker, thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak? The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 4, the Deputy Speaker. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, you have the floor.

Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser: Thank you, and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, over 18 years ago, UNESCO recognised a specific day for World Book Day. Now, yesterday happened to be World Book Day, which is in celebration of authors, illustrators and, of course, reading and books. Mr. Speaker, I would like a letter of congratulations to be sent to Nikita Robinson, at HOTT 1075. Mr. Speaker, annually, she has dedicated a lot of time and effort into organising World Book Day in Bermuda. And of course, we would like to associate with that the whole House. Nikita was able to coordinate a goal of 1,562 books to be distributed Island-wide. I had the opportunity to go to Hope Academy. And not only did I read books, but some of the young students also helped me read books to the rest of the children at school. After we read books, we rolled around on the ground as we pretended we were the armadillo that had to climb over the mountain and down again.

Mr. Speaker, it was an awesome experience. I know that she had sent out heartfelt thanks to all those individuals who participated. I know the Premier was also at Happy Valley, and I believe perhaps some other Members in the House participated and do continue to participate.

And I would encourage all parents to recognise the need for words in our children's lives. It creates another world for our children, so one can go into the world of imagination. And as they grow older, it is into the world of reality, as is our history.

So, Mr. Speaker, I would like a letter of encouragement and congratulations sent to recognise the efforts of Nikita Robinson. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Member care to speak?

Yes. The Chair will recognise the Honourable Deputy Leader of the Opposition, from constituency 18, Pembroke West Central. MP David Burt, you have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I would just like to rise to associate myself with the remarks by the Deputy Speaker, that congratulations be sent to Nikita Robinson and the Inter Island Communications family of stations. It was a wonderful event. I, like many other members, I am certain, got a chance to participate and to read to students. I was at St. John's Preschool, my old preschool, yesterday morning. And it was a very fun experience. So I appreciate her for making the effort, and it is very good of her to continue to do this work, because reading, of course, is very important. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Member care to speak?

Honourable Members, at this point, I am going to do something different, something that has never been done before, you know, since I have been in the House. Hold on now. Hold on. Hold on, guys.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: But, I think it is important to respect (not that we have not respected before) Members who have come and have passed. But I would like to see that each time a Member, a past Member of this House, a person who passes, who loses their life, that we give recognition to them by standing and honouring the service that they have made.

In this case, which will be the first one, as far as I know, is the passing of Dr. Vincent Bridgewater, who served in this House and also who served in the Senate. So, I would ask that if Members would stand for a moment of silence in recognition of the service that that Honourable Member played to Bermuda.

[The House rose and observed a moment of silence]

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

HOUSE VISITOR

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Members.

Also, just before we move on, I would like to recognise in the House, we have a Youth Parliamentarian, Destiny Taylor, from CedarBridge Academy. She is the President of the Student Government at CedarBridge Academy.

[Desk thumping]

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

GOVERNMENT BILLS

The Speaker: Now, Honourable Minister Gordon-Pamplin, you have the floor.

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

FIRST READING

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I am introducing the following Bill for its first reading so that it may be placed on the Order Paper for the next day of meeting: the Financial Assistance Amendment Act 2015.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there any objections to that?

Thank you, Minister.

There are no other Bills.

NOTICES OF MOTION

IMMIGRATION POLICY REFORM— ESTABLISHMENT OF A JOINT SELECT COMMITTEE

The Speaker: The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 17, Pembroke Central, MP Walton Brown.

Mr. Walton Brown: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I give notice that at the next day of meeting, I propose to move the following motion:

BE IT RESOLVED that this Honourable House, in an effort to develop a set of proposals for a substantial reform of immigration policy, agrees to establish a Joint Select Committee to develop such proposals; and that this committee have its proposals and its conclusions agreed by at least two-thirds of its members; and further, that Part IV of the Parliament Act 1957 apply to the deliberations of the committee.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Any objections?

So, that will be placed on the Order Paper.

ORDERS OF THE DAY

The Speaker: Now we move to Orders of the Day.

We are in resumption in the Committee of Supply for further consideration of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for 2015/16.

In that case, I am going to ask (that the Honourable Deputy Speaker please take the Chair for the Committee of Supply.

[Pause]

House in Committee at 11:13 am

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

The Chairman: Honourable Members, we are now in Committee of Supply for further consideration of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16. Heads this morning will be Heads 10, 11, 12, 38, 58 and 28, Finance.

I call on the Minister from constituency 22, the Minister of Economic Development, Dr. the Hon. E. G. Grant Gibbons, to proceed. Minister?

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, let me start by moving the following heads, and those are Heads 10, 11, 12, 38, 58 and 28. And those are the Ministry of Finance Headquarters, the Accountant General, Customs (just the revenue portion), Office of the Tax Commissioner, Interest on Debt and the Sinking Fund.

Madam Chairman, as I think most Honourable Members know, I am standing in for the Minister of Finance this morning. I have been, as it were, pressed into service. And I just wanted to say that I spoke to the Honourable Member this morning, and I think, as others will know, he had been suffering from a shoulder injury the last couple of days. I think people have seen him moving his shoulders. And unfortunately, my understanding is that he took some medication which he reacted rather badly to. So I think he is on the mend. And as I said to him this morning, we wish him a speedy recovery.

HEAD 10—MINISTRY OF FINANCE HEADQUARTERS

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Madam Chairman, the 2015/16 Budget Estimates for Ministry of Finance Headquarters, Head 10, may be found in section B of the Estimates Book on pages B-82 through B-85, and in section C on pages C-9 and C-16.

Madam Chairman, the overall purpose of the Ministry of Finance is to supervise the economy of Bermuda generally and to provide an overall framework for the financial management and control of government activities.

The Finance Ministry comprises five departments led by Ministry of Finance Headquarters and includes the Accountant General, Customs Revenue, Social Insurance and the Office of the Tax Commissioner. Allocations to cover the interest on government debt and contributions to the Sinking Fund are also included in the Ministry of Finance budget. The Ministry has a total staffing establishment of 130 posts and an aggregate current account budget of $259.9 million, and is responsible for collecting $710.3 million, or what works out to 76 per cent of all government revenue. A snapshot of key information for the Ministry of Finance is shown on page B-82 of the Estimates Book. Department current account allocations are as follows:

- Head 10—Ministry of Finance Headquarters, $4.407 million, which is a decrease of $753,000, or 15 per cent;
- Head 11—Accountant General, an allocation of $76,541,000, a decrease of $5,767,000, or 7 per cent;
- Head 12—Customs. (And I think Honourable Members will be aware that the Customs Budget has been moved to National Security, while the Ministry of Finance maintains responsibility for the Customs Tariff and revenue collections. So the expense lies with National Security and responsibility for the revenue lies with the Ministry of Finance);
- Head 28—Social Insurance has been allocated $6,016,000, which is a decrease of $317,000, or 5 per cent;
- Head 38—Office of the Tax Commissioner has been allocated $3,126,000, a decrease of $114,000, or 4 per cent;
- Head 58—Interest on Long Term Debt has been allocated $117,619,000, which is an increase of $4,119,000, or a 4 per cent increase; and finally,
- Head 59—Sinking Fund Contribution, the allocation here is $52,250,000, which is an increase of $4,557,000, or 10 per cent.

Madam Chairman, I will just take a couple of minutes and go through some of the senior officials in the Ministry of Finance Headquarters. They are, as many Members will know, as follows:

- Financial Secretary is Mr. Anthony Manders;
- Assistant Financial Secretary with responsibility for Policy is Mr. Tyler Moniz;
- Assistant Financial Secretary with responsibility for Economics & Finance is Mr. Stephen Gift;
- Assistant Financial Secretary with responsibility for the Regulatory Unit is Mrs. Pamela Burrows;
- Assistant Financial Secretary for the Treaty Management & Administration Section is Mr. Wayne Brown; and finally,
- Director of Budget is Mrs. Tina Tucker.

Madam Chairman, it is most fitting that the Minister of Finance, having delivered his third Budget Statement on Friday, February 20th, which actually marked the official start of the Budget Debate, finds himself or would have found himself here again today to address the Ministry of Finance Budget items.

I think as we all know, the Ministry of Finance plays a pivotal role. Budgets are formulated based on the needs of the country and are not only about the numbers. The Budget Statement for the 2015/16 Financial Year continues what is, in effect, a multi-year national recovery plan, and in that context, it represents a work in progress, preparing the way for future growth and prosperity.

To achieve that, Madam Chairman, we implemented a two-track strategy to grow the economy and return government finances to a sustainable position.

With the presentation of the 2015/16 budget on February 20th, Bermudians saw the vision of the two-track strategy morph into a strategy, and the strategy manifest itself into reality. The Budget Statement clearly displayed how Bermuda will meet its goals of returning to overall growth—and the jobs and opportunities it will generate—while breaking the back of the government deficit, paving the way for public debt reduction.

Our main focus has been to invigorate the engines of economic growth because of their potential to improve more people's lives more quickly than anything else.

The Ministry of Finance has been working to restore investor confidence to attract foreign dollars back to our shores, opening the Island to job- and revenue-creating activities and creating new possibilities for Bermudians to make a living.

In terms of government finances, we are implementing budget control systems, monitoring performance and reducing spending.

The goals and objectives, Madam Chairman, of the Ministry of Finance are as follows:

1. to facilitate balanced economic growth and development;
2. to provide strategic direction and an overall framework for financial management and control of government activities; and
3. to safeguard Bermuda's economic interests in the face of challenges and threats in the changing global economy.

The detailed objectives, or core functions, are as follows:

First, to facilitate balanced economic growth and development by:

- development and diversification of the financial services sector; and
- by providing support for small businesses.

Secondly, providing strategic direction and an overall framework for financial management and control of government activities by (a list of things):

- optimising the yield from government's revenue base;

- assuring the alignment of resource allocation with policy priorities;
- instituting and adhering to the principles of prudent budgeting and the Medium Term Expenditure Framework; and
- using output and performance measures to evaluate programme expenditure.

Thirdly, to safeguard Bermuda's economic interests by:

- meeting international standards of financial supervision and regulation;
- establishing and maintaining economic intelligence networks; and
- establishing and maintaining strategic economic alliances.

Madam Chairman, other key department objectives are as follows:

- to prepare, implement and closely monitor the National Budget;
- to arrange all government borrowing requirements at the most competitive rates;
- to maintain effective relations with credit rating agencies;
- to oversee and manage the public pension funds;
- to ensure and support the fair, coherent and predictable development of financial services regulation; and
- to be proactive in treaty negotiations with respect to tax information exchange agreements.

The Ministry's core functions are discharged through five broad programme areas. And they are:

1. Policy Planning and Management;
2. Fiscal Planning and Control;
3. Business Development and Regulatory;
4. Economic and Financial Intelligence; and
5. Treaty Management and Administration.

In discharging its functions under the overall policy direction of the Minister of Finance, the Honourable Mr. Richards, the Ministry of Finance Headquarters seeks to achieve the following outcomes for Bermuda, and they are:

- a Bermuda that maintains its position as a domicile of choice for international business;
- a Bermuda where citizens have confidence in Government's stewardship of the public purse;
- a Bermuda where funding and resources are available for key programmes and initiatives;
- a Bermuda where citizens regard Government's policy responses to economic and financial challenges as appropriate and in the national interest.

Madam Chairman, in seeking to fulfil this mandate, the Ministry of Finance Headquarters has a staff establishment of 14 permanent full-time posts, and its total budget for 2015/16 is $4,407,000.

Ministry of Finance Headquarters' budget allocation in 2015/16 reflects a decrease of $753,000, or 15 per cent, compared to the original estimate for 2014/15. The budget for Ministry Headquarters includes an operational element for each of the five programme areas within Ministry Headquarters, plus grant funding to the Pension Commission.

Let me start with cost centre 20000, which is found on page B-82, under Policy Administration. And that is Policy Planning & Management. And Members will see in the Budget Book a decrease of some $640,000, or 27 per cent, compared to the previous year's estimate.

Madam Chairman, the policy planning and management unit provides overall direction and management of Ministry Headquarters and supervisory oversight of the four departments in the Ministry of Finance, namely, the Accountant General's Department, Her Majesty's Customs Revenue, the Office of the Tax Commissioner and the Department of Social Insurance.

In addition, this unit undertakes strategic planning, manages the Ministry's public relations, coordinates initiatives in economic diplomacy, and organises the review and development of economic and financial policy. The budget for this unit in 2015/16 is $1,714,000, or some $640,000 less than the budget allocation for 2014/15. The budget decrease of $640,000 reflects the removal of professional services to assist with the establishment of the proposed Efficiency and Reform Authority and the cancellation of the CCRIF windstorm insurance cover as of this coming June, June 2015. And this achieves gross annual premium savings of some $300,000.

Madam Chairman, Honourable Members may recall that the Government agreed to a proposal from the BTUC [Bermuda Trade Union Congress] to defer the tabling of the Public Bodies Reform Bill to enable a working group to find a reduction of 5 per cent in the cost of operating government other than by privatisation, outsourcing or mutualisation. Due to this decision, there is no need to include funding for an Efficiency and Reform Authority, which was a key component of the Public Bodies Reform Bill. However, it should be noted that policy development and drafting are continuing on this proposal.

Madam Chairman, like most small states and territories, Bermuda's economy is highly vulnerable to external events, underlining the need for financial and fiscal prudence. This vulnerability is, for now, compounded by Bermuda's continuing budget deficits and high and rising level of Government debt. This is only one of the risks and uncertainties ahead for Bermuda. There are others, including the near certainty of rising global interest rates (or a renewed global economic downturn). This adds to the urgency of addressing the deficit and reducing debt.

An important feature of the 2015/16 budget is that it provides a clear analysis of Bermuda's vulnerabilities and the risks the Island faces from present and prospective debt levels. More importantly, the budget announces a concrete, credible and visible action to reduce debt and sets a clear fiscal framework for the future. This plan is an extension of the Government's Medium Term Expenditure Framework (otherwise known as MTEF) announced in the 2014/15 budget. Members will recall that the MTEF involved the introduction, from the 2014/15 budget cycle, of rolling three-year budget and forward estimates to establish hard multi-year budget ceilings for each Ministry. The MTEF was the first step in enabling the Ministry of Finance to begin to fulfil its commitment to changing the trajectory of deficits and debt over the medium term.

This 2015/16 budget will have a significant positive impact on confidence and investment, as it clearly shows that the Government has a plan to reduce the deficit and return our finances back to a sustainable position. Some of the critical commitments and statements announced in the budget are as follows:

- a clear statement that debt reduction will require tax increases as well as expenditure cuts;
- the announcement of various tax increases in order to strengthen the tax base. More importantly, the commitment to look at the options for a broader tax base, with advice from the Caribbean Regional Technical Assistance Centre (CARTAC), and then consult on the options;
- the firm commitment to reduce the deficit to zero within three years;
- the decision to establish an independent committee to review, monitor, assess and publicly report on the fiscal progress of the Government;
- the commitment in due course to apply a rule to use borrowing only to finance capital spending;
- the equally clear commitment to go beyond a balanced budget and take the action needed to achieve the 80 per cent debt to revenue and 10 per cent debt service to revenue targets.

Madam Chairman, the Ministry of Finance is confident that the 2015/16 budget will provide a renewed level of confidence in Bermuda amongst the rating agencies and potential investors. However, ongoing work is required to achieve our fiscal targets.

Madam Chairman, the 2015/16 budget also contains a growth element with the announcement of over $900 million of inward direct investment from various capital projects and economic activities from the America's Cup and other projects. Madam Chairman, this list of projects, representing inward direct investment, is the essence of the Government's stimulus package. In two years, the Government has changed the reputation of Bermuda as being unfriendly to investors to an investor-friendly environment where global businesses feel comfortable to invest in our country once again.

Madam Chairman, there is one more element to our stimulus efforts, and that is the support and encouragement for our partners in international business.

The largest share of the $1,714,000 budget for the Policy Unit is professional services and salaries. The salary provision for the Policy Unit is $512,577, and this covers four posts including the financial secretary, assistant financial secretary for policy and two administrative officers. This amount reflects an increase of $23,579 due to the furlough proposal ending.

Madam Chairman, in last year's budget, there was a provision of $300,000 for Bermuda's annual premium to the Caribbean Catastrophe Risk Insurance Facility (otherwise referred to as the CCRIF). Madam Chairman, you may recall that following the devastating hurricane season in 2004, CARICOM [Caribbean Community] heads of state invited the World Bank to establish a fund that could assist countries in their region that suffer substantial damage due to hurricanes. The World Bank took up the project in January 2006, and the CCRIF started operations in 2007. Bermuda provided a capital contribution of $500,000 in CCRIF's start-up year, in addition to an annual premium, and has continued participation in the facility.

In 2014, the Ministry of Finance, and as well as Ministry of Public Works, with assistance from a qualified insurance consultant conducted a comprehensive review of the Government's insurance risks, policies and the securing of coverage relating to those risks. The principal components of this review were cost and value for money.

The key tasks that were undertaken in this review, amongst others, were:

- review, assess all insurance policies, evaluate policy coverage and the terms and conditions and renewal dates;
- review claims process—that is, the notification, conditions precedent, appointment of adjusters, as well as settlement and other issues;
- analyse premiums and claims history including Hurricane Fabian losses;
- review the most recent insurance survey and risk reports;
- consider the appropriateness of individual insurance purchased;

- review deductible levels and assist determining risk appetite levels;
- assess value of insurance broker and consider alternative options for insurance placement;
- consider the cost/benefit analysis of utilising some form of captive insurance structure to retain risk; and
- assist in the development and issuance of the insurance RFP and 2015 insurance renewals.

Honourable Members are advised that a report has been submitted to Government by the consultant, containing various findings and recommendations. The Government has accepted most of the recommendations and is currently in the process of implementing these recommendations. Based on a recommendation from the consultant, the Government of Bermuda has decided not to renew its tropical cyclone peril cover with the CCRIF, which will expire on the 1st of June 2015.

Madam Chairman, this was not a decision that was taken lightly. During the course of the insurance review, Bermuda experienced direct hits from Hurricanes Fay and Gonzalo. While the impact of these hurricanes was unfortunate and costly, the Government did get the opportunity to see the claims process at work. In short, the performance of the broker, primary insurer and claims adjusters was first-class, and by April of 2015 the claims should be agreed and paid. This experience has engendered considerable confidence that our traditional property insurance coverage meets our needs and there is no need for the CCRIF product. (The Minister has actually got a little note in the sideline here that, apparently, we actually received no claims money from the CCRIF for the recent hurricanes.)

The Ministry is keenly aware that Bermuda was a founding member of the Caribbean Catastrophe Risk Insurance Facility (CCRIF), and it is with great reluctance that we have arrived at this conclusion. The Ministry of Finance wishes the CCRIF continued success.

Further, Madam Chairman, as part of its strategic policy work in support of the National Budget 2015/16, the Policy Unit in the Ministry of Finance Headquarters was involved in the various policy initiatives included within this budget. Some of these policy measures are as follows:

- reducing the deficit by strengthening the tax base by increasing payroll tax, land tax on commercial buildings, corporate service taxes, customs duty on fuel, airport departure tax and other miscellaneous fees, mainly in the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport;
- setting the standard rate of payroll tax at 14.5 per cent, which is an increase of 0.5 per cent, and providing a similar increase of 0.5 per cent for most other tax rate categories.

Setting the rate of tax recoverable from employees at 5.5 per cent in 2015/16, up from 5.25 per cent—this is so that the increase may be shared by both employer and employee;

- partially rolling back payroll tax concessions currently in place for the hospitality, restaurant and retail-sector businesses to a rate of 5.5 per cent;
- the yield from the revised rate structure and partial rollback for payroll tax concessions is estimated at $353 million in 2015/16;
- raising the duty rate on fuel by five cents per litre in April 2015 to achieve additional Customs revenue of about $9.6 million;
- improving the yield from land tax by adjusting the rate on ARVs [annual rental values] for commercial properties from 4.4 per cent to 5.5 per cent. The amount of additional tax is estimated at $4.1 million; and
- raising the corporate service tax rate from 6 per cent to 7 per cent to achieve additional revenue of about $1 million.
- with the pending redevelopment of the L. F. Wade International Airport, raising the airport departure tax from $35.00 to $50.00 per passenger, which will yield additional revenue of about $5.5 million; and
- extending the successful new Bermuda hire initiative to March 31st, 2016. It is worth noting that this tax incentive, passed in the spring of 2013, has helped create 400 new jobs since then.

Madam Chairman, major changes are ongoing in order to improve the way we approach the handling of public money. The Policy Unit will continue to oversee this transformation of the management of the public finances. Although there have been some improvements, there is always room for further enhancement. Accordingly, ministries will continue to enhance their monthly reports pertaining to their expenditure versus budget allocations so that slippage can be arrested before becoming problematic.

This Government is committed to changing the trajectory of deficits and debt going forward by implementing various measures.

Madam Chairman, I will conclude this snapshot of some of the work that is carried out by the Policy Unit within the Ministry of Finance Headquarters by noting that this unit is responsible for coordinating all of the legislative items that support the National Budget. The process includes providing drafting instructions to the Attorney General's Chambers for Bills, Orders and Regulations; coordinating with other ministries where necessary; and preparing legislative briefs to assist Ministers and Junior Ministers in steering the legislative items through the approval process in the legislature. There were more than 15 items of legislation associated with the 2015/16 National Budget.

Also, during the past fiscal year, the Policy, Planning and Administration Unit conducted a comprehensive review of government's insurance and risk management. This review and the resulting RFPs realised over $3 million dollars in insurance premium savings—that is over $3 million in insurance premium savings. An officer from this unit was also a part of the Budget Reduction Working Group formed with members of the BTUC.

One of the major objectives of the Policy Unit for fiscal year 2015/16 is to work with the Caribbean Regional Technical Assistance Centre (that is, CARTAC), an IMF [International Monetary Fund] regional body, to study the feasibility of broadening Bermuda's tax base.

Madam Chairman, I am now going to move to [cost centre] 20010, Fiscal Planning and Control, on page B-82, which shows an increase of $18,000, or 4 per cent. Madam Chairman, the Fiscal Planning and Control Unit, or the Budget Team, is primarily responsible for the management, collection and collation of Consolidated Fund budget data, the monitoring and control of overall government expenditures (on both Capital Account and Current Account), and the achievement of government revenues. The unit is also tasked with the responsibility of reviewing and developing the government's annual Capital Expenditure Plan. The budget for this unit in 2015/16 is $517,000, which reflects a 4 per cent increase compared to 2014/15. The primary reason for the increase relates to the ending of the furlough proposal.

The Budget Team provides advice and guidance to department heads and controllers on both the formulation of ministry budgets and on budget monitoring and control. The team provides two formal training sessions each year, designed for ministry and departmental staff that have responsibility for budget preparation and/or budget monitoring and control. As part of the budget monitoring and control exercises, all ministries and departments are required to review expenditure performance and to confirm, on a monthly basis, their current and capital account expenditure performance with the budget office.

In 2014, as part of the ongoing implementation of the Medium Term Expenditure Framework, the Budget Team received technical assistance from CARTAC. A Public Financial Management Advisor visited Bermuda from September 25th to October 2nd, 2014. The visit followed a previous technical assistance mission in late 2012 that set out recommendations and an action plan for the implementation of strategic budget reforms—in particular, multi-year and programme performance budgeting aimed at strengthening fiscal discipline and improving the prioritisation and effectiveness of budget allocations. The primary purpose of the 2014 mission was to review progress of the reforms and identify areas for technical assistance.

Madam Chairman, the mission met with the financial secretary, assistant financial secretary, the budget director (and her team) and the accountant general. A mission work schedule was agreed at the commencement of the mission. Initial discussion with the Budget Team focused on ongoing implementation of the medium term framework, performance measures and the Governmental transition, post-election. A number of technical meetings were held with Budget Department staff to review application of the initial CARTAC 2012 mission recommendations.

An exit meeting was held with the Budget Director and Financial Secretary on October 2nd, 2014, which presented findings and recommendations of the mission. The general finding of the mission was that Bermuda has made good progress in implementing multi-year budget estimates in accordance with the recommendations set out in the November 2012 report, which bodes well for our budgeting process. The Budget Office will use the action plan and recommendations from the mission to improve our budget preparation and planning.

Madam Chairman, in 2014/15, the Budget Office closely monitored budget performance, and due to this constant oversight, current account spending was restricted to $955.1 million, which is only 1 per cent higher than the $945.8 million originally budgeted in 2014/15. Almost half of this overspend was from uninsured costs associated with Hurricanes Fay and Gonzalo. Also, revised capital expenditures for the year were restricted to $59.4 million, or $2.6 million (that is, 4.2 per cent) below the budget allocation of $61.9 million.

The Budget Office is constantly encouraging all managers to commit to higher levels of financial rigour. It is their strong view that it is in the country's best interest for all senior executives in the public service to maintain a disciplined grip on the budgets that are under their charge. The introduction of budget checking in the ERP [Enterprise Resource Planning] System has also assisted with enhanced budget monitoring. This capability has facilitated stronger control over the use of budgeted funds by ensuring that ministries and departments have budgeted funds available before committing to the procurement of goods and services on behalf of the Government of Bermuda.

Madam Chairman, budgeting and financial performance starts at the very top of the government structure, which is with the Cabinet. Previous governments appear to have operated whereby Cabinet decided what services the Government desired to provide to the public, and the spending budget became the total of all those services. This approach has been one of the key factors behind the fiscal crisis that the Bermuda Government finds itself in.

This Government takes the opposite approach. Our approach is based on the cash inflows we expect to have available to spend. We then allocate spending limits to each ministry so that services provided to the public fit within the overall budget limit. This is what is meant by living within one's means. We are still living beyond our means at present and must work towards re-establishing that prudent benchmark without inhibiting the economy in the process.

Madam Chairman, at its highest level, the decision-making process that shapes the budget is simple. If the objective is to reduce the annual deficit, then you can do one of three things: You can increase revenues by raising taxes and/or imposing new taxes; you can cut government spending; or some combination of the two. In this budget, we have chosen to take both actions to reduce the deficit. The result is the first current account surplus, excluding debt service, in seven years! Let me reread that. The result is the first current account surplus, excluding debt service, in seven years.

Madam Chairman, during the 2013/14 Budget Debate, it was announced that the Government was proposing that the 2014/15 National Budget provide Bermuda with a foundation for what will become a three-year revolving framework, one that will embed long-term structural reforms into the current account strategy, reforms that will allow us to adopt a multi-year approach to public sector financial planning.

As we prepared for a period of change, it was noted that the challenge for public expenditure management will be to ensure that service delivery policies are aimed at the right segments of the population and that performance meets the expectations of the citizens.

Madam Chairman, to transition to this model, we needed to adopt a medium-term plan that would enable us to consolidate and generally rebuild our revenue base, identifying new sources of income while underpinning existing sources. This required efforts on three fronts: better budget preparation, better and more transparent budget execution, and systematic budget monitoring—the whole underpinned by clearly articulated sector strategies; efficient delivery agencies; and monitoring by oversight entities and the legislature and, most importantly, the public.

Madam Chairman, as promised, we have now moved to a Medium Term Expenditure Framework (MTEF). This is the name given to Government's medium term plans to eliminate the deficit and ultimately reduce the debt. The full implementation of a Medium Term Expenditure Framework involved the introduction, from the 2014/15 budget cycle, of rolling three-year budgets and forward estimates to establish hard multi-year budget ceilings for ministries. This was done to enable the Ministry of Finance to begin to fulfil its commitment to changing the trajectory of deficits and debt over the medium term.

To achieve the Finance Ministry's strategy for fiscal consolidation (that is, deficit reduction), the Ministry set an ambitious target of cost savings on current account expenditure of 15 per cent, in real terms, to be achieved by the end of three years. This plan has been a challenge, but it must be accomplished by all ministries working together. If fiscal consolidation is not successfully implemented, there is a material risk of a credit ratings downgrade.

Madam Chairman, the 2015/16 fiscal year represents the second year of the Medium Term Expenditure Framework, and despite adjustments mentioned in the 2015/16 budget, the Government has not been able to meet the expenditure target as required by the MTEF. Spending is budgeted to be reduced by 3.5 per cent, while the MTEF calls for 5 per cent. This is unfortunate and undermines the credibility of this Government pertaining to public commitments on cost reductions. This will not play out well with the rating agencies and our creditors. However, Government remains committed to the MTEF and will seek to reduce current expenditures by 4.6 per cent in 2016/17 rather than the original 3 per cent called for in the MTEF.

A salary provision of $419,691 accounts for 81 per cent of the Budget Team's allocation for 2015/16. The provision covers the posts of director of budget, principal budget officer, budget officer and budget assistant. This amount reflects an increase of $18,869 due to the expiry of the furlough proposal on March 31st, 2015.

For the fiscal year 2015/16, the department has set objectives to:

- continue the open budget process;
- effectively implement the medium term framework;
- enhance budget monitoring and reporting to Cabinet;
- bring all supplementary appropriations current.

Furthermore, to increase transparency and international credibility, Government intends to establish an international, independent committee to review, monitor, assess and publicly report on the fiscal progress of the Government. Several other islands have also adopted similar outside assessors, and it has helped bolster credibility and confidence. This monitoring committee will be established under the aegis of the Financial Stability Board regime already under development at the Bermuda Monetary Authority.

I move now, Madam Chairman, to [cost centre] item 20020, which is the Regulatory Unit. And on page B-82, you will see that it includes an increase of some $5,000, or 2 per cent. Madam Chairman, the Regulatory Unit is the lead regulatory division within the Ministry of Finance Headquarters in relation to the financial services sector and the lead unit within the Ministry Headquarters for anti-money laundering and European Union [EU] financial market and audit policy. Established in 2012, the unit is the newest and most senior technical regulatory division within the Ministry. The head of the unit, the Assistant Financial Secretary, plays a key role in supporting the Ministry's strategic goal to protect our economic security. The Assistant Financial Secretary carries out the Minister's financial services policies through the Ministry of Finance, the Bermuda Monetary Authority, the National Anti-Money Laundering Committee and specialist global partners.

The budget for this unit in 2015/16 is $320,000, some $5,000 more than the budget allocation for 2014/15. This increase largely reflects the expiry of the furlough policy.

Now, the circumstances and issues the Regulatory Unit employees face are some of the most challenging and complex within government. The tasks the unit must address are significant and varied and critical to the country. The unit's plan responds to these challenges through various goals focused on advancing the unit's priorities and reflecting the outcomes the people of Bermuda deserve. Madam Chairman, these goals are as follows:

- Goal 1 is to ensure and support the fair, impartial, efficient, and transparent development of regulation at the national and international levels.
- Goal 2 is to strengthen capacity to secure regulatory solutions to economic security issues.
- Goal 3 is to strengthen public diplomacy and support bilateral and multilateral engagement.

The Regulatory Unit's main objective is to protect our economic security through coherent, transparent and predictable application of the financial services policy towards the financial services sector.

The Regulatory Unit assists the Minister of Finance and the Financial Secretary by providing policy advice, governance and administrative services on all financial services regulatory policy matters of the Government, and involves a close working relationship with a wide range of stakeholders. The Regulatory Unit is involved in virtually every policy and management area—from regulatory reform and financial stability to anti-money laundering and trade and development issues. The scope of the Regulatory Unit's activities is as follows:

- to support the Minister of Finance and the Financial Secretary in coordinating the financial services regulatory policy initiatives of the Government;
- to oversee the Ministry of Finance component of the financial services legislative programme, together with the Bermuda Monetary Authority and the Ministry of Legal Affairs;
- to provide policy advice to the Financial Secretary and the Minister of Finance on anti-money laundering policy initiatives, together with the National Anti-Money Laundering Committee, pursuant to section 49 of the Proceeds of Crime Act 1997;

- to provide policy advice to the Minister of Finance and the Financial Secretary on matters related to the regulatory component of financial services, audit and trade in services directives issued by the European Union, together with the Cabinet Office, London Office and EU counsel;
- to support the Financial Secretary on matters related to the Economic and Development Committee;
- to facilitate implementation of the Public Access to Information regime for Finance Headquarters, as per the 2014 Throne Speech; and
- to provide policy advice to the Insurance Advisory Committee on matters related to the insurance sector.

Madam Chairman, in this environment of declining resources, the Regulatory Unit is uniquely positioned at the intersection of the financial services industry, regulatory and law enforcement agencies, as well as domestic and global partners. The unit is able to network these various perspectives to bring a comprehensive insight in the development and protection of our economic security. This unique position allows the unit to develop and support multiple partnerships that have a broad domestic and international impact.

In order to achieve its priorities, and pursuant to the Ministry of Finance legislative agenda, the Bermuda Monetary Authority business plan, the Ministry of Finance EU engagement strategy, and the National Anti-Money Laundering strategy, the unit will undertake the following key strategic ownership goals in 2015/16, as follows:

It will lead efforts to coordinate the Ministry of Finance legislative component of the EU Solvency II insurance equivalence exercise, together with the Bermuda Monetary Authority and the Attorney General's Chambers. This will include amendments to the insurance regime where required.

It will lead efforts to coordinate the Ministry of Finance component of the enhancements to the corporate service providers' regime, together with the Bermuda Monetary Authority and the National Anti-Money Laundering Committee. This will include amendments to the Corporate Service Provider Business Act 2012 where required.

It will lead efforts to coordinate the Ministry of Finance legislative component of the European Union Audit Directive, together with the Bermuda Public Accountability Board and the Attorney General's Chambers. This will include amendments to the Bermuda Public Accountability Act 2011, together with the enactment of various rules and regulations.

It will lead efforts to coordinate the Ministry of Finance engagement component of the Ministry of Finance EU engagement strategy, together with the Cabinet Office, the Bermuda Monetary Authority, and EU counsel. This will include preparation for an annual visit by the Minister of Finance to meet with key European Union stakeholders. This work also includes working with public and private sector stakeholders, participation in strategy sessions, and expansion of analytical support efforts to public and private sector stakeholders.

It will work with the Financial Secretary and the Assistant Financial Secretary (Economics and Finance) to coordinate the Ministry of Finance component of the banking special resolution regime, together with the Bermuda Monetary Authority and the Attorney General's Chambers. This work includes the enactment of a Bank Special Resolution Regime Act.

It will work with the Financial Secretary and the Assistant Financial Secretary (Economics and Finance) to coordinate the Ministry of Finance component of a new banking model for Bermuda. This work includes amendments to the Banks and Deposit Companies Act 1999.

It will contribute to and support the implementation of Bermuda's Anti-Money Laundering strategy, together with the National Anti-Money Laundering Committee. This work includes the provision of strategic and policy advice to the committee on matters related to the standards set down by the Financial Action Task Force.

It will support the Government's goal of engaging with priority countries and international bodies to strengthen mechanisms for Bermuda's bilateral relationships and overseas footprint. This work includes working with the private sector, as well as the Washington Office, the London Office and the Bermuda Monetary Authority on matters related to financial services, development opportunities and geo-political risk management.

It will lead the implementation and management of the Public Access to Information regime for Finance Headquarters. Common requirements identified by the Cabinet Office will be incorporated into the Ministry's organisational framework, which will be operational on the 1st of April 2015.

It will work with the Financial Secretary and the Tax Commissioner to advance initiatives designed to protect the public purse. This work includes amendments to seven pieces of legislation.

And it will create greater administrative efficiency to ensure that all services to government agencies are provided in a timely, quality-oriented, customer-focused, efficient and effective manner.

Some of the Regulatory Unit's milestones in 2014/15 included the following:

They completed the Ministry of Finance component of the enactment of four Bills and/or statutory instruments in the areas of financial services and au-ditig. They also contributed to several cross-ministry legislative/policy proposals covering matters related to enforcement, external affairs and financial services.

They continued participation in the development of the Bermuda Government's Anti-Money Laundering and Anti-Terrorist Financing [ML/ATF] strategy, together with members of the National Anti-Money Laundering Committee. This work included analysis of Bermuda's effectiveness in preparation for an IMF visit in 2016. This work also included advice on amendments to the Proceeds of Crime Act 1997, the Bermuda sanctions regime, as well as matters related to the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force.

They continued participation in the Bermuda Government's coordinated engagement strategy in Europe by providing technical and strategic advice on matters related to the EU Solvency II Directive, the EU Audit Directive, the EU Asset Management Directive, as well as matters related to tax transparency. This work included meetings with the UK's EU representation team, the European Commission, the European Parliament, and the Economic and Monetary Affairs Committee as part of a joint briefing exercise led by the Bermuda Monetary Authority. These meetings are integral to the domestic insurance framework and the EU Solvency II Directive.

They continued participation in the Bermuda Government's response to the G7 (formerly, G8) Beneficial Ownership and Transparency initiative, together with the Cabinet Office, the Chair of the National Anti-Money Laundering Committee and the Bermuda Monetary Authority. This work includes strategic, technical and PR [public relations] advice.

And they participated in the UK: Bermuda Anti-Bribery Forum hosted by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and Her Majesty's Justice Department. This work included a detailed briefing about the UK legal framework, as well as a discussion about the policy framework for Bermuda.

Now, with the backdrop of changing market conditions and regulatory transformation, the unit's primary [role] going forward in the next year will be to continue to influence how the Ministry of Finance is able to contribute to the formulation and implementation of international standards (and related legislation) to address Bermuda's macroeconomic needs. In doing all this, the unit will maintain our network to protect and promote the Bermuda brand and serve the Bermudian people worldwide.

A salary provision of $228,074 accounts for 71 per cent of the Regulatory Unit's allocation for 2015/16, which covers two posts including the Assistant Financial Secretary (Regulatory Unit), and one Administrative Officer. This amount reflects an increase of $10,492 due to the expiry of the furlough proposal.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN

HOUSE VISITOR

The Chairman: Thank you, Minister, if you could just take your seat for a quick second.

The Chair would like to recognise, in the Gallery, Jon Brunson. Welcome.

[Desk thumping]

[Committee of Supply on Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16 continuing]

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I now move to [cost centre] 20030, which is the Economic and Financial Intelligence line item, which indicates a decrease of $43,000, or 9 per cent. And that is on page B-82 of the Budget Book.

The Economic and Financial Intelligence Unit provides research and analysis of economic and financial conditions to facilitate sound decisions on public policy and fiscal management. Responsibilities of the staff in the unit include economic forecasts, economic modelling, projections of gross domestic product and the development of key economic indicators. Analysis and commentary on economic and financial statistics are provided, and an annual and mid-year review and outlook are produced. The budget for this unit in 2015/16 is $460,000, which is $43,000 less than the budget allocation for 2014/15. The reduction is mainly due to the cancellation of a contract for one of the credit rating agencies.

Economic forecasting in a small, relatively open economy is always problematic, especially since changes in aggregate demand and supply usually have quite substantial effects on output, as they are magnified around the economy. Accordingly, risks to forecast are always high. However, the Economic and Financial Intelligence Unit met these challenges head-on and have worked with the Caribbean Regional Technical Assistance Centre (CARTAC) to establish a detailed macroeconomic projection framework that encompassed both short-term and medium-term projections. These projections are meant to provide the Government with projections of fiscal variables based on underlying movements in economic activity and to enable a more accurate forward estimate of government revenue.

Madam Chairman, the unit also manages the relationship with credit rating agencies and is responsible for government debt management policy. The Government is satisfied with its credit ratings and currently holds credit ratings of A1 from Moody's (which is the fifth-highest rating), AA- from Standard and Poor's (the fourth-highest rating) and A+ from Fitch

(which is the fifth-highest rating). Madam Chairman, it should also be noted that we have, in general, maintained our credit ratings when various other countries have been downgraded significantly.

Madam Chairman, in this difficult financial climate, it is necessary for the Government to trim public spending. In this vein, we have made the decision to cancel our credit ratings contract with Fitch ratings agency, as our loan covenants only require that we use two rating agencies.

Madam Chairman, last year, the Minister of Finance announced that the Ministry was in the process of strengthening budget formulation by introducing multi-year budgeting. As part of this multi-year budgeting process, the Ministry of Finance reviewed its borrowing arrangements and practices used to finance ongoing budget deficits.

The review identified the fact that it would be prudent for Government to issue bonds in 2013/14 sizeable enough to cover multi-years of government operating deficits. To this end, in July 2013 Government borrowed $750 million in the international bond markets, and in December 2013 borrowed an additional $50 million in the Bermuda dollar market. This was strategically done to take advantage of favourable low interest rates and was part of the Ministry's multi-year borrowing strategy.

The Government still believes this was the right decision, despite interest rates remaining low. Transactions to raise funds in the capital markets involve significant cost, including legal, underwriting, printing and other fees and road show cost. If anything, the Ministry has saved on these fees by doing one sizeable transaction rather than three smaller transactions.

And the Minister has a note in the margin. Apparently in previous years, the former Government used the local banks through an RFP process to do some of its financing. And these were much smaller tranches, or amounts of loans, senior notes. And they resulted in much higher transactional and also interest rate costs because the Ministry at that point did not access the international markets where the size has a direct bearing on, many times, both the interest rates you achieve and also the transactional costs, as a lot of the legal and other fees that are involved with that tend to be fairly high when you are doing smaller transactions. So overall, the Minister has noted here that the larger transaction allowed the Ministry to access the international markets, and the rate that was achieved was a much lower rate of interest that anything that had been achieved, at least in previous years, as a consequence of the larger size. And he also believes, obviously, that the transaction costs saved were quite significant.

Madam Chairman, the Ministry of Finance has long discussed using the domestic capital market for some of the Government's financing needs, and indicated in 2013 that if rates of interest were competitive, Government proposed to finance some of its borrowing requirements with the issue of a local bond. This policy choice was intended to spur more economic activity in Bermuda, to stimulate local capital markets and to provide Bermudian investors with an opportunity to feel that they are being part of the development of our country's affairs. The issue supports the local markets, as the Government bonds are listed and traded on the Bermuda Stock Exchange.

Madam Chairman, as previously mentioned, the Minister is pleased with the results of the December 2013 bond offering of $50 million in the Bermuda dollar market, as it was the first local public bond offering by the Government of Bermuda for many years. He was also particularly delighted with the competitive rate attracted by this issue. This transaction created a new source of funding for the Government and expanded local capital markets. It also provided a new investment product and opportunity locally, which keeps capital here on the Island.

As mentioned in the 2015/16 budget, Government will need to borrow approximately $125 million, and again, if rates are competitive, Government proposes to finance some of its borrowing requirements with the issue of a local bond.

Madam Chairman, as at March 31st, 2015, gross public debt will stand at $2.185 billion, and debt, net of the Sinking Fund, will stand at $2.025 billion. There was no new borrowing in 2014/15. The 2014/15 deficit was financed by drawing funds from the Sinking Fund. As at March 31st, 2015, the Sinking Fund balance is projected to be approximately $160 million.

As at March 2016, it is estimated that gross public debt will stand at $2.31 billion, and debt, net of the Sinking Fund, will be $2.192 billion.

Madam Chairman, in 2013, the Government set up debt related targets, or rules, that were appropriate for an economy the size of Bermuda's. These rules committed the Government to keep public debt at such levels that the net debt/GDP ratio would not exceed 38 per cent. Additionally, Government recognised the desirability of achieving a net debt/revenue ratio that would not exceed 80 per cent and a debt service cost/revenue ratio that would be below 10 per cent. The Minister stated these were targets we would work toward over the medium term. The Government reaffirms these limits, and with determined action, they are achievable.

As of March 31st, 2015, the net debt/GDP ratio will be 36 per cent, the net debt/revenue ratio will be 231 per cent and the debt service cost/revenue ratio will be 18 per cent. There is much work to do to bring our situation into line with our targets.

Madam Chairman, the unit provides advice to various government boards and is closely involved in the administration of numerous customs duty relief regimes, including duty relief provided to hotels, restaurants and retailers. The unit also administers the MOUs [Memoranda of Understanding] the Ministry of Finance has with the Bermuda Hotels Association and the Restaurant Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

In addition, staff in the unit oversee the public pension funds, along with the Bermuda Public Funds Investment Committee.

Madam Chairman, worldwide demographic effects are having an impact on the sustainability of pension schemes and health care systems. This phenomenon is also having a major effect on public sector plans in Bermuda. To address this issue, the Ministry of Finance established the Pension and Benefits Working Group, under the Public Sector Reform Initiative. The purpose of the Pension and Benefits Working Group (or PBWG) is to review all public sector pension plans, namely, the Public Service Superannuation Fund (PSSF), the Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pension Fund (MMLPF), and the Contributory Pension Fund (CPF) and other Government sponsored benefits, namely, the Government Health Insurance Plan, and to make recommendations to Cabinet in order to ensure the sustainability of these plans and benefits in a manner that is responsible and fair to both the pensioners and members of the plans and Bermuda taxpayers.

To this end, the benefits provided under the PSSF and MMLPF were amended in 2014 with the removal of the automatic cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) as at June 30th, 2014. In dollar terms, the immediate removal of the COLA provision reduced liabilities of the PSSF by $426 million, while the MMLPF liabilities were reduced by $8 million. The Ministry of Finance will continue to direct the work of the Pension and Benefits Working Group to ensure the sustainability of the public sector pension plans.

Madam Chairman, the lead-up to the end of 2014 saw a continuation of themes that had developed throughout the final three months of the year. These were a continued rally in US and Asian equities at the expense of Europe, a further decline in core government bond yields, a strengthening US dollar and falling commodity prices. The price of oil fell at a precipitous pace over the second half of the year, as it became apparent that OPEC would not scale back on production. The price of a barrel of Brent Crude declined by 42 per cent over the last quarter of 2014, driven by both an increase in supply and a decline in global demand. Even after a poor start in January and wobbles in October and December, the US equity markets climbed 11.4 per cent and ended the year close to record levels. The solid gain pushed the bull run for stocks into its sixth year, the longest such streak since the 1990s.

The US Federal Reserve ended its bond purchases in October and is inching closer to its first rate increase since 2006. At the same time, other central banks around the world started to introduce more stimulus as growth in their regions slowed. The Bank of Japan stepped up its efforts to revive the country's economy, as did the European Central Bank. China also lowered a key interest rate.

Madam Chairman, against this backdrop, I can report that as of December 31st, 2014, the Contributory Pension Fund's assets totalled $1.7 billion, versus $1.67 billion in 2013, while the Public Service Superannuation Fund's assets totalled $563.4 million, versus $544.3 million in 2013.

For 2014, the Contributory and Superannuation Plans posted returns of 3.2 per cent and 3.4 per cent, respectively. Three- through ten-year returns for the funds all outperformed the actuarial required return of 6.0 per cent.

Madam Chairman, during the 2014/15 fiscal year, this unit continued to work on implementing a deposit insurance scheme in collaboration with the BMA.

The introduction of a deposit insurance scheme in Bermuda would complement the existing supervisory regime, thus strengthening the local financial safety net which will help promote financial stability.

For the fiscal year 2014/15, the department has plans to work with the Attorney General's Chambers and the Bermuda Monetary Authority to establish a statutory framework for a special resolution regime for banks licensed in Bermuda.

Madam Chairman, the purpose of the special resolution regime (SRR) for banks is to address the situation where all or part of the business of a bank has encountered, or is likely to encounter, financial difficulties that are not able to be resolved by any other means. The SRR therefore seeks to establish a comprehensive bank insolvency framework that would meet international standards, and it is designed to operate independently from Bermuda's general insolvency law.

The proposed Bill will embed many of the provisions of the UK Banking Act 2009 and will provide the Government and the Bermuda Monetary Authority with the necessary stabilisation powers to transfer part or all of a failing bank's business to a private sector purchaser, assume control of part or all of a failing bank's business through a bridge bank and acquire temporary public ownership of a bank where required. The proposed special resolution regime consists of—

- a) stabilisation options,
- b) bank insolvency procedures,
- c) bank administration procedures and
- d) miscellaneous matters.

Madam Chairman, the development of Bermuda's banking sector has entered a critical stage where new and arising opportunities and challenges co-exist. As for challenges, the banking sector is confronted with a more complicated and competitive environment, with increasingly diversified demands for financial services and heightened difficulties in striking a balance between serving the local economy and preventing risks. Meanwhile, there is still a long way to go before a successful strategic transformation can be achieved, since systemic problems remain unsolved in the aspects of unemployment, foreclosures and an economy that is in a recession.

Historically, there have always been rules and regulations put in place to protect domestic banks from foreign competition, and there was a saying: What is good for the local banks is good for Bermuda. However, that saying no longer holds true. Bermuda banks are now only local in name, as their ownership composition has changed.

With this in mind, the Economic and Intelligence Unit plans to work with various stakeholders on legislation that will facilitate the expansion and diversification of the local banking sector. The Unit's objective will be to amend the Banks and Deposit Companies Act 1999 (BDCA) such that there would be different licences/classes of banks.

Madam Chairman, other notable tasks to be achieved by the Economic and Financial Intelligence Unit in the upcoming fiscal year include:

- reviewing the Government's debt management policy and making any changes deemed appropriate;
- completing the necessary work needed to develop a deposit insurance scheme in collaboration with the BMA;
- continuing to develop its econometric model for not only the forecasting of key economic indicators, but also Government medium term fiscal data;
- working with the Government Employee Health Insurance Committee to assist in redesigning the health plan;
- conducting a review of our pension arrangements to determine whether public and private pensions are set at appropriate levels; and
- continuing the review of all Government pension plans to determine sustainability of the funds in conjunction with the SAGE Commission recommendations.

The salary provision of $291,603 covers two posts including Assistant Financial Secretary (Economics & Finance) and the Economic Advisor. This amount reflects an increase of $13,183 due to the expiration of the furlough proposal on March 31st, 2015. The other major item of cost in this unit is a provision for consulting services for special studies and fees for the credit rating agencies, of $100,000.

I shift now to the Treaty Management & Administration, [cost centre], 20040, which shows on page B-82 a decrease of $43,000, or 9 per cent. Madam Chairman, the Treaty Management & Administration Unit was added to the policy teams in the Ministry of Finance Headquarters in January 2007. The budget for the unit in—

The Chairman: Member, Member.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Yes.

The Chairman: Just as you are starting the last line on this particular, would you yield to the Premier? So you have only three more—

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I would be happy to. It is a nice break.

The Chairman: Thank you.
Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes. Good afternoon, Madam Chairman.
I move that we adjourn for lunch.

The Chairman: It has been moved that we adjourn for lunch. Thank you.
There is no objection to that motion?
We will adjourn to lunch and resume back in Committee.

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: At two o'clock.

The Chairman: At two o'clock.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

[Continuation thereof]

The Chairman: Thank you, Members.

We resume in Committee of Supply for further consideration of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the year 2015/16.

I call on the Minister in charge to proceed.

Minister, if you would just catch us up to where you were before you begin.

Thank you.

MINISTRY OF FINANCE

HEAD 10—MINISTRY OF FINANCE HEADQUARTERS

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I think as Honourable Members heard this morning I have been pressed into service and I standing in for the Minister of Finance who was not feeling terribly well earlier on due to a shoulder injury.

Madam Chairman, we are on the Ministry of Finance Headquarters, which is Head 10 and page B-82 in the Budget Book.

I was just about to start [cost centre] 20040, Treaty Management. And you will note there that there has been a decrease in their allocation of $43,000, or about 9 per cent.

Madam Chairman, the Treaty Management and administration unit was added to the policy teams in the Ministry of Finance Headquarters in January 2007.

The budget for the unit in 2015/16 is set at $446,000, as I said, a $43,000 drop, or 9 per cent lower than in 2014/15. The primary reason for this decrease is the removal of the funding for one post in the unit which will not be filled this year.

Madam Chairman, the Treaty unit is responsible for negotiating Tax Information Exchange Agreements (or TIEAs, as they are often called), other agreements relating to Tax Information Exchange and associated agreements, with member countries of the EU, G20, Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) and white-listed jurisdictions. The unit is also responsible for relationship management regarding tax matters with the USA, the European Commission and members of the European Union. Additionally, the unit manage and administer requests for information received under the provisions of Bermuda's tax agreements.

Since Bermuda's commitment letter to the OECD in July 2000, there have been many changes and developments with respect to the nature of the OECD's work on tax competition and its resulting impact on the nature of Bermuda's commitment to international cooperation and transparency in relation to tax matters. Honourable Members will be aware that in 2000, Bermuda participated in the OECD's development of a model tax information exchange agreement that was adopted in 2002.

The G20 has increased its targeting of small jurisdictions, and while they are doing so under a so-called "level playing approach" subjecting themselves to the same standard they seek to impose on us, we can be forgiven if sometimes we question that based on some of the things we see from time to time. What this translates into Madam Chairman, is that we cannot afford to let down our guard.

Bermuda's international tax relationship policy is to be and will remain fully compliant with globally supported international standards for cooperation in exchange of information for tax purposes. In keeping with this objective and evolving transparency and exchange of information principles in the international tax cooperation arena, and as part of our efforts to combat tax evasion, Bermuda has taken the following steps:

1. In 2013, we joined the Multilateral Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters (the Multilateral Convention) which is, in effect, a multilateral TIEA with over 80 countries to exchange information for tax purposes on the by-request basis. Bermuda's participation entered into effect on March 1, 2014.
2. In 2014, we signed the Multilateral Competent Authority Agreement (the CAA) between tax competent authorities of the 80 countries that are participants in the Multilateral Convention whereby the CAA is legally enabled under international law pursuant to Article 6 (Automatic Exchange of Information) of the Multilateral Convention.
3. In 2013, we signed the US FATCA [Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act] IGA [Intergovernmental Agreement] Model 2 with the US Treasury.
4. In 2014, we joined the OECD Global Forum Peer Review Group. A body which assesses every international financial centre's compliance with TIEAs.
5. In 2014, the Treaty unit led Bermuda to achieve a TIEA compliance OECD rating of "Largely Compliant," the same good rating as the UK, the US and some of the other members of the G20/OECD and EU.

Madam Chairman, today Bermuda has tax information exchange agreements with over 80 countries, inclusive of 41 bilateral TIEA agreements with 90 per cent of G20, 76 per cent of OECD and 52 per cent of EU member states.

With respect to the multilateral TIEA, the Multilateral Convention, Bermuda's 80 partner jurisdictions include all G20 countries, all OECD countries except for one and all EU countries except for two, but only because those three countries have not yet signed the Multilateral Convention.

Madam Chairman, despite the good work accomplished by the Treaty unit in 2013/14, there have been unjustified attacks, particularly in Europe, about how much so-called "tax havens" are draining the treasuries of certain G8 nations. Compliance with international cooperation in tax matters is one of the most effective strategies to combat this threat, accompanied by private bilateral activity including at the political level (i.e., ministerial level) with our key partners.

Madam Chairman, the previous and ongoing work of this team in the Ministry of Finance Headquarters has placed Bermuda in a strong position and has made sure that we are globally recognised as complying with the highest international standards on tax transparency and compliance.

There are currently, three posts in the Treaty unit including Assistant Financial Secretary (Treaties), Treaty Adviser, and Research Officer. Although negotiating and signing TIEAs and DTAs will remain an important strategy in Bermuda's bilateral relations, there has been a material change in the primary focus of the Treaty unit from negotiating and signing TIEAs and DTAs to handling exchange of information requests in a timely manner. Due to this change, the Treaty unit is currently going through a period of restructure. The staffing restructure being proposed will result in some cost savings. The salary provision for the Treaty unit in 2015/16 is $260,500. This amount reflects a reduction of $90,447 due to the removal of the funding for one post due to the restructure. The post of Treaty Research Officer is currently being filled on a consultant basis. Additionally, the unit receives administrative support from one of the current administrative assistants in the Ministry. The other major recurring item of cost in this unit is for travel for attendance at OECD Global Forums and the legal fees for lawyers who represent the Ministry during any challenges from law firms on exchange of information request.

Madam Chairman, I am now going to get into a line item analysis of Head 10, Headquarters' operational budget.

Madam Chairman, the estimated cost of operating Ministry of Finance Headquarters in 2015/16 is approximately $4.407 million, 39 per cent of which is accounted for by salaries ($1.724 million). The salary allocation is $24,000, or 1 per cent lower than the 2014/15 allocation due to the removal of one funded post in the Treaty unit which is partially offset by the expiry of the furlough proposal. The salary allocation is apportioned between the functional units in Ministry Headquarters as follows:

- Policy Planning & Management—4;
- Fiscal Planning & Control—4;
- Regulatory Unit—2;
- Economic & Financial Intelligence—2;
- Treaty Management—2.

For a total of 14 and there are actually five vacancies at the current time and that adds up to about, as I said, $1.7 million.

[Mr. Rolfe Commissiong, Chairman]

The Chairman: Excuse me, Member, which page are you on now? For the sake of my benefit.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I am on page B-83 under Subjective Analysis. Okay?

The Chairman: Yes. Page B-83.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: And I am just tackling Salaries, which as you can see is $1.724 million and I am going to move on to Training—

The Chairman: Thank you.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: —and there is no change there. I am moving on to Travel, which is budgeted $129,000 and a decrease of [$15,000] in the coming budget year, which is about 10 per cent.

The allocation makes provision for the attendance of the Minister of Finance and senior officials at various Commonwealth and other conferences, and representation at international forums including the World Bank Economic Forum and IMF meetings. Let us see, I am going to skip some of the other data on travel.

Communications, Mr. Chairman, there is no change there—budgeted $41,000.

Advertising & Promotion, which is budgeted at $5,000 is an increase of $2,000. And a lot of this is now done by the Business Development unit within the Ministry of Economic Development, so that is a pretty low number.

That brings me up to Professional Services, again on page B-83, which is budgeted as you will see for the coming year at $1.25 million, a decrease of some $366,000 from last year's estimate, or some 23 per cent.

Now, the Professional Services vote is allocated across the following programme areas in Ministry of Finance Headquarters: Policy Planning & Management ($990,000), Regulatory unit ($40,000), Economic & Financial Intelligence ($119,500), Treaty unit ($75,000) and Fiscal Planning ($25,000). The material decrease is due to funding being removed for the establishment and operation of the Efficiency and Reform Authority. Also the Ministry has to provide the Bermuda Public Accountability Board with funding to cover consulting expenditures associated with the cost for the Canadian Public Accountability Board to undertake inspections of Bermuda based public accountants.

A core sum of $250,000 is earmarked for maintaining effective relationships in Washington, DC and an additional $470,000 is allocated to a similar work in the United Kingdom and Europe. With the ever increasing external threats to our economic survival it is crucial that we aggressively engage with the relevant entities. The international environment for Bermuda is currently hostile, through no fault of our own. These consultants help the Government to actively engage in the appropriate places, in the appropriate forums, and in the appropriate manner to get the Bermuda story out there. As an example, our EU consultant played a key role in getting Bermuda off the French blacklist in 2014.

I am going to skip a couple of pages here, there we go. I am going to skip five pages. The Shadow Minister is pleased.

We are now up to a grant which is to the National Pensions Commission. This is [cost centre] 20070, National Pensions Commission. And I am going to actually contract this one a little bit as well. I think as Honourable Members will know the Pension Commission is a corporate body established under the National Pension Scheme (Occupational Pensions) Act 1998 and has a number of functions, which are basically to administer the Act and the regulations and a whole series of other things here which they are responsible for, in fact, for oversight and regulation of the various pension schemes under that Act.

The proposed grant for the Commission for 2015/16 is $950,000, a 5 per cent decrease from the grant provided in the 20014/15 budget.

In 2014, the Commission completed a major review of the National Pension Scheme (Occupational Pensions) Act 1998 and related regulations, with the assistance of its advisory committee which is made up of various representatives of the pension and related financial services industries. Recommendations will be made in 2015 by the commission on changes to the Act in order to update a number of its provisions, such as the introduction of regulatory fees paid by plan administrators, non-compliance fees and enhanced regulatory powers.

Honourable Members will recall that the National Pension Scheme (Financial Hardship) Regulations 2010 were introduced to help Bermudians with a real need to get access to a portion of private sector pension funds based on prescribed criteria for hardship. The regulations were further amended in 2011 to permit rental arrears as an additional category of financial hardship. In 2012, the commission also became responsible for the administration of financial hardship applications for civil servants under the Public Service Superannuation Act 1981.

And I will just provide a couple of the data points here, there are quite a few of them.

Under the Financial Hardship Application statistics there were essentially 1,636 applications received; 1,426 were approved; and the total amount approved was some $13 million under that.

Under the types, there were 503 Educational Exemptions; 223 for Loss of Principle Residence; 592 for Eviction from Home for Rental Arrears; and 108 were for Medical Expenses.

I am also pleased to provide the following statistics on the commission:

- The National Pension Scheme contains an estimated 24,140 plan members;
- There are a total of 2,991 employer plans (2,972 defined contribution and 19 defined benefit);
- The total assets under the National Pension Scheme is approximately $2.8 billion consisting of approximately $2.3 billion in employer plans and $500 million in individual approved plans;

- There are 632 approved plans.

I am going to skip some of the data on amendments to plans and that sort of thing.

HEAD 11—ACCOUNTANT GENERAL

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I am going to shift over now to Head 11, Mr. Chairman, which is the department of the Accountant General, and is on pages B-86 to B-91 of the Budget Book.

Mr. Chairman, the Accountant General's (ACG) Department was established under section 4 of the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act 1969.

Their mission is to support the Ministry of Finance in financial management and control of government activities; To develop and maintain excellence through quality service and financial control for decision making under the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act 1969.

The Core Functions of the ACG are as follows:

1. Accounting and reporting on the following funds:
 - a. Consolidated Fund;
 - b. Contributory Pension Fund;
 - c. Government Employees Health Insurance Fund;
 - d. Public Service Superannuation Fund;
 - e. Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pension Fund;
 - f. Government Borrowing Sinking Fund;
 - g. Confiscated Assets Fund;
 - h. Government Reserves Fund;
 - i. Unemployment Insurance Fund.
2. They are also responsible for cash management and forecasting, administration of investments including monitoring of pension funds under investment which as we said earlier is about $2 billion;
3. They are responsible for reconciliation of government's bank accounts;
4. Execution of payments for goods and services;
5. Receipting of government revenues including fees and taxes;
6. Administration of the Government Employees Health Insurance plan;
7. Administration of employees' salaries and wages;
8. Administration of employees' benefits and pensions;
9. Risk management and insurance;

10. Management of government's accounting platform;

11. Representing the Minister of Finance on:

- a. The Government Employee Health Insurance Management Committee; and
- b. The Public Funds Investment Committee.

The Current Account Estimates can be found on pages B-86 through B-91. And I am going to skip through a little bit here and just say that, as you can see, the overall amount that was allocated was $76.54 million and the total revenue was $1 million. Capital Acquisitions were $0.15 million and there was no Capital Development at all.

In terms of numbers they are: 68 established posts and I do not believe that has not changed. Actually, it is down . . . I will get to that, it is down slightly from the previous year's estimate.

Mr. Chairman, the functions and responsibilities of the ACG are critically important in the role of governance. The office is a key one in terms of helping to undergird the fiscal controls and processes that are in place with respect to the management of the public purse. To this end, the Accountant General's Department has assisted in placing Financial Comptrollers in each ministry and in key revenue-generating and large-sized departments.

While the Accountant General's Department does not itself carry out or oversee capital works, system enhancements have been implemented to assist ministries and controls continue to be refined. Financial Instructions and applicable legislation are continually reviewed and updated. Legislation enabling the Office of Project Management and Procurement to provide oversight of all capital projects is in place. This is intended to ensure that best practices are adhered to along with enhanced monitoring of controls, by both the ACG and the Internal Audit Department, with a view to continuing to strengthen controls over procurement and capital expenditures in particular.

The department is strategically divided into two programme centres, as follows:

- Consolidated Fund Administration, which is on page B-86, which oversees all the activities of the Consolidated Fund; and
- Fund Administration, which oversees all the activities of the other funds which the department administers, and I went through those earlier on and they include the Public Service Superannuation Fund (PSSF).

[Line item] 1101, the Consolidated Fund Administration, was the first of the two programmes. It shows a $7.9 million allocation for next year and that is a decrease of some $777,000, or 9.2 per cent from last year's estimate.

The decrease is primarily due to the following:

- decrease of three full-time equivalent staffing positions;
- a reduction of consultants' budget; and
- a reduction of overtime budget.

I am going to shift now down to the [line item] 1102, Benefits Fund Administration. And as you will see there is an allocation here of some $68.6 million, which represents a decrease of $5 million, or 6.8 per cent from last year's estimate.

This decrease primarily reflects the suspension of a portion of government's matching contribution for the Public Service Superannuation scheme. There is also an expected decrease in government's contribution for pensions arising from attrition in the Public Service as well as savings from the current Voluntary Early Retirement Programme.

Now under this Fund Administration [line item] you will note that there is a [cost centre] 21010, Superannuation Fund. And the allocation here was for $24.6 million, which is a decrease of $5.2 million, or 17.4 per cent from last year's estimate.

As the employer, the government ordinarily matches its employees' contributions to the Public Service Superannuation Fund (PSSF). The fund invests the contributions for future pension payments to vested retired government personnel. The rates of contribution are 8 per cent of salary for employees and 9.5 per cent for uniformed services personnel. A portion of the government's matching contribution will be suspended for 2015/16, resulting in a projected $5 million decrease in expenditure versus 2014/15. The suspended matching contributions will remain owing to the PSSF and will be made up in future years.

[Cost centre] 21030, Government Employee Health Insurance Fund. The allocation here is $34.7 million, which is an increase of $436,000, or 1.3 per cent.

As the employer, the Government matches its employees' contributions to the Government Employee Health Insurance Fund. This fund utilises the contributions to pay the health claims of government employees and retirees. Employee and employer contributions are scheduled to increase by 19 per cent, effective 1 April 2015. The increase in premiums is necessitated by the rising cost of health care. The current combined employer/employee premium for GEHI [Government Employee Health Insurance Plan] is currently $553.70 per adult employee per month. The increase combined contribution will be $658.70 per adult employee per month.

The above increase in cost of contributions is offset by a decrease resulting from certain uniformed services being deducted for their share of contributions in 2015/16. In prior years, the employee portion of their contributions was borne by the Government in addition to the matching amount. Commencing April 1st these services will be on equal footing with the remainder of the public service, by having the employee portion deducted from their compensation.

The result of these two offsetting actions is that overall Government cost for GEHI is largely unchanged.

[Cost centre] 21020, Contributory Pension Fund. The allocation is $8.1 million, which is a decrease of $211,000, or 2.6 per cent.

The Government, as the employer, matches its employees' contributions into the Contributory Pension Fund. This fund invests the contributions for future payment of Social Insurance to all retired persons. The decrease is primarily due to the expected decrease in Government contributions from attrition and a hiring freeze within the Public Service. The current combined employer/employee contribution for the Contributory Pension Fund is $64.14 per employee per week.

[Cost centre] 21040 which is the Ministers and Members Pension Fund has an allocation of $1.25 million, a decrease of $50,000, or 4 per cent.

Again, the Government, as the employer, matches the Ministers' and Members' contributions into the Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pensions Fund. This fund invests the contributions for future payment of pensions to all Ministers and Members. The rate of contribution is 12.5 per cent of salary for Ministers and Members. The 2015/16 estimate is reasonably consistent with 2014/15.

Mr. Chairman, I will now provide a subjective analysis of the various object codes of the department. That is on page B-87.

Salaries. You will note there a decrease of $1.1 million, or 17 per cent, and that decrease is primarily due to the 2014/15 budget request being overstated by $950,000. This has been corrected in the 2015/16 estimates.

Wages. A decrease of $10,000, or effectively 100 per cent, in other words, it is being eliminated. This small decrease is due to the elimination of summer student wages previously funded by the department. For 2015/16, all summer students will be supplied by and budgeted for by Workforce Development.

Employer Overhead. A decrease of $5.1 million, or 7 per cent. This represents the cost of the Government's share of employee benefits. These benefits include Social Insurance, the Government Employees Health Insurance scheme (GEHI), the Public Service Superannuation pension scheme (PSSF), and the Ministers and Members of the Legislature pension scheme.

The decrease in employer overhead of $5 million dollars, or 98 per cent, is due to Government's suspension (as I mentioned) of a portion of its matching PSSF contribution for 2015/16. It must be noted that while the above change in PSSF contributions accounts for the bulk of the difference in employer overhead budget, there are also significant changes in the makeup of the GEHI budget.

There is a net increase of $360,000 in Government's cost for GEHI for 2015/16. The increase is comprised of a couple of elements and those are: Effective 1 April 2015, Government and employee GEHI premiums will increase by 19 per cent, increasing Government's cost by a projected $6 million. This increase in expenditure has been offset by the cessation of Government's funding of the employer and employee portion for police and prison officers, resulting in a projected $4 million savings for Government. Also effective 1 April 2015 is a change in fee structure for non-employed spouses, creating an additional $1 million in projected savings.

Other Personnel Costs. A decrease of $789,000, or a 49 per cent decrease. This decrease is due primarily to the reclassification of Ministers and Members pensions that were earned before 1988, and those are paid from the Consolidated Fund. This is now budgeted under employer overhead.

It is also important to note that when the pension plan for Members of the Legislature was established in 1975 there was no separate fund established and the plan was unfunded since that time, with all benefits being paid from the Consolidated Fund. It was not until April 1, 1988 that a separate fund was established Training. Not too much to talk about there.

Professional Services, a decrease of $186,000, or 17 per cent. This decrease primarily reflects a reduction in the amounts budgeted for outsourced consultancy services. There continues to be a requirement for overseas expert system development assistance, but other potential professional services have been removed from the budget for 2015/16.

Rentals, this represents the cost to lease the department's office premises at Andrews' Place, [Church Street.] The 2015/16 budget amount of $358,000 represents the annual lease cost, a correction of the prior year budget amount.

Repair and Maintenance. Not too much to mention there.

Materials and Supplies. Cost reductions due to better approximate actual expenditures anticipated expenditures [for 2014/15 and 2015/16].

Other Expenses. A decrease of $105,000, or 7 per cent, due primarily to the elimination of duplicated budget items requested in the 2014/15 budget year.

Receipts Credited to Programme. A decrease of $1.9 million or 54 per cent. This line item represents the cost to administer the various funds that the department is responsible for including: the Public Service Superannuation Fund, the Ministers and Members of the Legislature Fund, and the Government Employees Health Insurance Fund. These administration costs are borne by the respective funds through a "recharge" mechanism, which results in receipts credited, effectively eliminating those costs of administration from the department's bottom line expenditure.

In the 2014/15 budget, Receipts Credited to Programme were significantly overstated due to duplications within the budget. This did not impact the bottom line 2014/15 original net expenditure for the department, but is addressed in the 2015/16 estimate, hence the decrease.

Debt Charges. A decrease of $235,000 represents interest on overdraft balances. And this is because a decision has been made to fund all interest on debt from [Head 58], which is the Interest on Debt in 2015/16.

Revenue. A decrease of $4.5 million or 82 per cent. The $4.5 million decrease in anticipated interest is due primarily to the projected reduced interest earned on the Sinking Fund balance as excess funds continue to be drawn down over the course of the 2015/16 financial year.

I am going to skip the Capital Estimates and the Grants, there is not a whole lot there.

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: You want me to do the Capital?

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Okay.

Capital Estimates is $100,000 a decrease of $50,000, or 33 per cent. Enhancements to the functionality of the system will continue during the 2015/16 and subsequent fiscal years.

Let us see . . . Departmental Information, just a brief word on this.

Mr. Chairman, as noted above, Government has a robust system of controls. Government's Financial Instructions (FI) provide the basis of the accounting controls, processes, and procedures by which Government operates. The controls under FI require Permanent Secretaries and Department Heads (Accounting Officers) to ensure payments made in respect of contracts for goods, services and capital projects are provided based on properly authorised analyses, sufficient quotes, and supporting documentation. With the implementation of the JD Edwards E1 system, the department continues to enhance and strengthen the internal control environment to improve financial information and reporting system. As a result, these strengthened controls will now be of a higher quality and provide greater transparency and reduce audit risks.

In addition, the processing of financial transactions and provision of information has become more streamlined as a result of revisions to business processes made possible by the features now available in the current ERP system.

Let me see, I am going to skip a little bit under Business volumes here . . . let us see, this is probably worth mentioning.

The Financial Reporting Section continues to make strides towards bringing the audits of the Public Funds up to date.

Currently, the financial statements for four of the 10 Public Funds under the Accountant General's responsibility have been prepared up to fiscal year end 2013/14 and submitted for audit. These include the Consolidated Fund, Government Borrowing Sinking Fund, Government Reserves Fund, and the Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pension Fund (MMLPF). Financial statements for the Contributory Pension Fund, Public Service Superannuation Fund, Government Employees Health Insurance Fund, Unemployment Insurance Fund, Bermuda Department of Tourism Overseas Pension Plan, and the Confiscated Assets Fund are being prepared, reviewed, and are in the process of being submitted to Audit.

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I will skip over—

[Gavel]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I will skip over some of the 2014/15 accomplishments except to say that the audited Consolidated Fund was completed for the year ended March 31, 2014.

There is a section on Bermudians in the accounting profession and I think . . . the department continues to develop management accountant trainees and assist them in obtaining accounting designations.

The Accountant General's Department recently underwent a management consulting MCS review. Those recommendations were to support efficiency and performance.

In 2014/15, the Cabinet approved the department's revised organisational structure and implementation of the revised structure commenced by:

- revision of job descriptions;
- eradication of temporary posts;
- hiring into the new and revised posts using a methodical and gradual approach; and
- only partial implementation has been achieved to date.

Let us see . . . New Budget Measures. I think I will skip the objectives here for 2015/16 and some of the other notes here. So that actually completes Head 11 for the Accountant General.

HEAD 12—CUSTOMS REVENUE

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I am now going to shift over to the Head 12, and it is half a Head (as strange as that sounds), Mr. Chairman, because I think as we explained earlier the Ministry of National Security is responsible for essentially the expenditure side and the Ministry of Finance is responsible for the revenue side. So if you look on page B-92 you will find the Revenue Summary. The Ministry of National Security Minister has done it already, on Monday, I guess.

So on page B-92 you can see there that the Total Customs revised projected revenue for 2014/15 is $179,479,000 and the projection for 2015/16 is $190,938,000.

And the major revenue sections are as follows, and I am going to touch on a couple of them, but particularly Customs duty.

You will see there that line item 8007, or Customs Duty, represents an increase of $13.3 million, or 7 per cent.

Duty collections for 2015/16 are forecasted to decrease by $13.3 million when compared to the original estimate for 2014/15. It is expected that Duty collections will increase, however, from the revised 2014/15 forecast, which was $175.2 million. The increase reflects the adjustments in the duty rate increases on certain key items such as oil imports. It is further anticipated that we will see the beginnings of an economic improvement during 2015/16 which will translate into increased imports of goods and, therefore, an increase in the duty collected.

With regard to Other Revenue Sources listed there on that page, forecasted revenue sources other than Customs Duty, are expected to contribute a total of $4.3 million which, based on our forecast for 2015/16, would equate to 2.3 per cent of the revenue collected by Customs. There is little information to indicate that receipts in these areas will change significantly from the revenue levels received during the 2014/15 fiscal year to date.

The only exception to this is with respect to the Wharfage revenues. Wharfage revenues are, in fact, a service fee levied to compensate the Government of Bermuda for the agency work carried out by the Customs department on behalf of the Corporations of Hamilton and St. George's in the collection of wharfage. An increase on the revised 2014/15 wharfage estimate is expected, in connection with the expected improvement in economic conditions during 2015/16.

I will just very briefly mention some of the other line items here for those who are listening.

- The Customs Duty from the General Post Office is $804,000 which is an increase of $54,000;
- Yacht Arrivals—$142,000 an increase of $65,000;
- Services to Ships (Customs)—$287,000 is budgeted, an increase of $32,000;

- Wharfage—$750,000 is budgeted, a decrease of $150,000;
- Container Fees—$785,000 is budgeted, a decrease of $61,000;
- Customs service charges is $307,000 an increase of $37,000;
- Courier Package Fees—$721,000 an increase of $93,000;
- Light Dues—$145,000 an increase of $19,000;
- General Licences—$240,000 an increase of $63,000;
- Penalties—$140,000 a decrease of $12,000; and
- Sundry Receipts—$12,000 which is a decrease of $17,000, or 59 per cent.

HEAD 28—DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL INSURANCE

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Moving right along. We are now up to Head 28 which is the Department of Social Insurance [DOSI]. And as you will see, Mr. Chairman, that is on page B-93 of the Budget Book.

Mr. Chairman, the Director of Social Insurance, along with the staff, is responsible for the day-to-day administration of the Bermuda Government's Contributory Pensions Scheme as well as benefits to war veterans of the Second World War.

The mission statement of the department is: Through education, best practices and the use of technology the Department of Social Insurance will partner with every resident to enable them to become financially sustainable at retirement.

The department is committed to develop and maintain excellence through quality service and financial control for internal and external decision-making under the authority of the Public Treasury (Administration and Payments) Act 1969.

The benefits of the Contributory Pension Fund and War Pensions and Gratuities continue to benefit the community as an additional form of financial assistance. The core functions of the department are to:

- I. To administer the Contributory Pensions Act 1970. Under this Act, all employed and self-employed persons over age 18, or age 26 in the instance of full-time students, who work for more than four hours per week are required to pay contributions. There are two major classes of benefits paid out of the scheme:
 - a. Contributory benefits for old age pension and gratuity, widow and widower's allowance and gratuity, and disability pension; and
 - b. Non-contributory benefits for old age pension and disability pension.
- II. The other function is to administer the Pensions and Gratuities (War Service) Act 1947. Under this Act, benefits are payable to Bermidian war veterans and their survivors, who served during World War II. Currently there are 210 persons enrolled in the programme.

I think you see there on page B-93 that the amount budgeted for 2015/16 is $6.016 million, which is a decrease of $317,000 from the estimate in 2014/15.

The Contributory Pension operations within the department are 100 per cent funded by the Contributory Pension Fund (CPF). Items are paid through the Consolidated Fund (CF) and then recharged to the Contributory Pension Fund in accordance with section 3(3) of the Contributory Pension Act 1970.

The War Pensions and Gratuities are 100 per cent funded by the Consolidated Fund.

The approved budget for financial year 2015/16 reflects some restructuring to the War Pensions Gratuities programme.

Currently, in early 2014/15, the Department of Social Insurance underwent an evaluation of staff resources by the Management Consulting Services (MCS) which revealed the need for additional staff to permit the delivery of core services. These MCS recommendations have been submitted to the Ministry of Finance for further Cabinet approval. All costs will be 100 per cent funded by the CPF.

The Compliance section has been under resourced for many years and is no longer able to effectively carry out both compliance and debt collection functions as required by the existing legislation. The department intends to launch new debt collection initiatives, on a trial basis, in an attempt to stem the growing levels of overdue accounts in relation to employer contribution commitments.

The department is upgrading to a new pension administration system called the PX3000. The existing system currently in place is over 25 years old and is unable to meet the processing demands required for the department to operate efficiently and effectively given the high level of sophistication, customer service and management oversight that is required in this day and age. Full implementation is expected on April 1, 2015.

The department operates under five main cost centres:

- 38000—Senior Management and Administration. I will not read out the things they do, but effectively the Administration section provides overall direction and management of the Department of Social Insurance. This cost centre includes the director, assistant director and the director's administrative assistant along with all administrative expenses. All administrative charges for this cost centre are recharged to the Contributory Pension Fund.
- 38010—War Pensions and Gratuities. The War Pensions section is responsible for the administration of benefits to war veterans under the Pensions and Gratuities (War Service) Act 1947. And, again, all expenses for this cost centre are funded by the Consolidated Fund.

As of 2014/15, the following objectives were accomplished:

- All pharmacy claims were processed electronically;
- All pension payments were processed electronically; and
- All benefit files were stored digitally.

The total budget estimate for the 2015/16 financial year is set at approximately $6 million. During the 2014/15 financial year, the programme was reviewed with the aim of minimising costs without materially reducing benefits. As a result, the War Veterans Commission implemented the following changes:

- Reduced rest/home care benefit [;
- Assigned FutureCare insurance]. In many respects, there were enhanced benefits for war veteran recipients not currently covered such as:
 - limited psychotherapy sessions;
 - clinical psychologist visits;
 - psychiatrist visits;
 - dental benefits [basic care];
 - vision benefits [exam/eyewear up to $200];
 - prescription drugs [will continue to be covered 100 per cent above the maximum of the FutureCare ceiling of $2,000 per annum];
 - [speech therapy sessions];
 - [chiropracist visits];
 - [home medics services].

Mr. Chairman, this is important. This programme has grown from a cost of $238,000 in 2007 to $7.1 million in 2014/15. Yes, you heard me correctly—from $238,000 to $7.1 million in the space of about seven years. Since fiscal year 2007/08 Government has paid approximately $52.9 million towards the War Vets Programme. The Government will continue to seek more cost-effective measures to run the programme in 2015/16.

[Cost centre] 38025, the Benefits section, is responsible for the administration of benefits to members of the Contributory Pension Fund (CPF) under the Contributory Pensions Act 1970 and the Contributory Pensions and Workmen's Compensation (Reciprocal Agreement) Act 1970. And as you would have guessed they were responsible for processing applications and a series of other things including paying gratuities, and I will not go through all of those.

All administrative charges for this cost centre are recharged to the Contributory Pension Fund.

In terms of additional information on benefits paid for the Fund; total benefits paid for the 2013/14 period was $134,126,892 compared to [$129,337,104] in 2012/13 which is an increase of [$4,789,788], or 3.7 per cent over the 2012/13 financial year. The department continues to process a steady number of pension applications as people born during the Baby Boomer period, and I think you can relate, Mr. Chairman, are now retiring.

[Cost centre] 38040, the Compliance section, as you would imagine, is responsible for monitoring the compliance of employers and employees to the provisions of the Contributory Pensions Act 1970 and the Health Insurance Act 1970. And they deal with a number of things from receiving and investigating reports and also looking at outstanding receivables and the prosecution of delinquent employers.

All administrative charges for this cost centre are recharged to the Contributory Pension Fund.

A couple of data points here: the number of instalment plans outstanding is 212; the average number of inspections completed were 166 per month; and the number of compliance issue enquiries via walk-ins for the month was about 52. So they are pretty busy.

In the area of Compliance, from July 2013 to July 2014, total debt increased by [$4,354,043] from [$46,186,534] in 2013 to [$50,540,577] in 2014. This represents a 9 per cent increase over the previous year.

The department continues to work with companies to establish practical ways of reducing their outstanding debt.

The Attorney General's Chambers Debt Enforcement Unit (DEU) has been very [useful] for the collection of outstanding contributions for the Department of Social Insurance. In most cases it is the employers that the Department of Social Insurance are unable to contact and who are delinquent over 90 days that are referred to the Debt Enforcement Unit.

In Contribution Year 2014, 34 employers were referred to Debt Enforcement Unit to assist with collecting outstanding contributions totalling [$1,706,098]. Of those 34 employers, four accounts were paid in full and 13 employers were on active payment plans. The remaining 17 employers fall into one of three categories; basically, initial payment, sporadic payments, or those who have not responded at all. In Contribution Year 2014, the amount of outstanding contributions collected was $560,582.

[Cost centre] 38045, the Contributions section is responsible for the administration of member records and accounts for employers and employees participating in the Contributory Pension Fund under the Contributory Pensions Act 1970.

All administrative charges for this cost centre are recharged to the Contributory Pension Fund.

Total non-government contributions paid to the Fund for the 2013/14 period was [$85,878,702].

This represents a 2 per cent decrease from the prior year of 2012/13 which totalled [$87,630,075].

Switching over to page B-94, under Subjective Analysis, the Salaries and Wages section had a decrease of $124,000 which is attributed to exclusion of salary of three temporary staff; a decrease of $15,000 is due to cancellation of employee activity day. (That sounds upsetting.)

Training . . . not much to say there.

Travel. A decrease of $26,000 is due to the reduced budget for CARICOM conferences.

Professional Services. A decrease of $51,000 is due to lower forecasted medical expenses for war vets.

Repair and Maintenance. Not a lot to say in there.

Materials and Supplies. A decrease of $23,000 is due to discontinued printing of some benefits forms as well as birthday cards for people turning 65.

Receipts credited to Programme. This amount represents the cost to operate the Contributory Pension Fund (CPF) initially paid through the Consolidated Fund. A recharge to the CPF is made in accordance with the Contributory Pension Act 1970, section 3(3).

In terms of highlights for 2014/15 . . . let's see, I have got quite a few here. What I will mention is just the first one: That an actuarial review of the CPF is underway as required every three years under section 35 of the Contributory Pension Act 1970. The review aims to indicate the financial condition and long-term sustainability of the Fund and to investigate the potential financial implications of future contribution and benefit increases for the Fund.

There are a series of Objectives for 2015/16 and those are (and I will just pick out a couple of them here):

- Begin Phase 3 of the pension system development which includes various electronic interfaces;
- Implement the War Pensions Commissioners' decision to apply monthly pension benefit to rest home or nursing home fees paid by the Government starting April 1, 2015;
- Refine the DOSI digital records management system;
- To improve the department's website; and
- Work with the post office to make use of kiosks located in post offices to enable the public to check their social insurance contributions. And actually that is quite important to make sure that employers are up to date there.

In terms of staffing changes, and that is on page B-94, with the increasing volume of inquiries and pension applications, two temporary additional personnel have been retained to help the department meet the needs of the public. One benefits processor post remains frozen due to early retirement taken by the employee in 2013. This post is scheduled to be released this year. The unfreezing of this post is necessary to achieve the department's mission to make sure the [internal] and external customer is adequately addressed..

In terms of significant process changes or new initiatives:

- There is an issue to create a debt recovery unit to specifically target the collection of outstanding contributions owed to the CPF.
- There is going to be a cross-ministry initiative to develop supportive strategies to close existing gaps in legislation that allow persons to avoid payment of obligations to the government.
- They will continue to establish satellite offices once a month to reach out to the community in the West and East End of the Island, thus providing a convenient form of service delivery.
- We talked about the Post Office kiosks.

And so I guess I will finish up, Mr. Chairman, on this. The department will complete the implementation of the new pension administration system within the department in conjunction with initiatives carried out with the Accountant General's Department's pension system. This will maximise economies of scale and provide for more accurate and efficient processing for employees of the civil service.

The department will make further enhancement to the Department of Social Insurance website with the aim of providing a platform for whistle-blowers to report violations in a seamless and anonymous manner.

The department will also focus on a print and radio media campaign to engage the general public and raise awareness of rights and responsibilities.

And finally, a key objective of the department will be the ongoing staff training on both current compliance monitoring and enforcement techniques.

The Performance Measures are on page B-95 and I will not go through those, Mr. Chairman.

HEAD 38—OFFICE OF THE TAX COMMISSIONER

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: That brings us up to Head 38 which is the Office of the Tax Commissioner.

A couple of points: The Office of the Tax Commissioner (OTC) is the Government's largest revenue generating department and is estimated to generate $517 million, or 56 per cent, of government's total revenue in 2015/16.

There are a whole series of tax legislation here, which I will not go through, but they include things like payroll tax, corporate services tax, betting duty, land tax, stamp duties, foreign currency purchase tax, hotel occupancy tax, cruise ship departure tax, airport departure tax, passenger cabin tax, there are a slew of them here and I am not going to go through all of those.

But going on with key points, the department generated $152.00 of revenue for every current account dollar spent in 2014/15 and it is expected to generate approximately $165.00 of revenue for every current account dollar spent in 2015/16.

I think, as most Honourable Members will know, payroll tax is the single largest revenue earner for the Government generating $336 million in fiscal 2014/15. The 2015/16 budget includes a nominal increase for most payroll tax rates with the exception of small businesses, farmers, fishermen, taxi drivers and not for profit societies and associations. The existing payroll tax concessions will also be modified in 2015/16 to introduce a reduced payroll tax rate for the retail, restaurant and hotel industries of 5.5 per cent. These changes will result in estimated payroll tax revenue for 2015/16 of $353 million.

The mission statement of the OTC is “to promote the highest levels of taxpayer compliance with the Taxes Legislation by providing quality and efficient service, effective taxpayer education and responsible enforcement and in so doing, contribute to the economic and social well-being of all Bermudians.”

There are a number of core departmental objectives here which are in the book and I am not going to read through them, but they include the collection of taxes in accordance with the legislation and responsible and effective enforcement activities, education of taxpayers, and to ensure that revenue is available to fund government programmes through the collection of taxes.

Let me now move to the various programme centres, again, page B-96 and the department is divided into four cost centres as follows:

- The Administration team (48000) provides the overall direction and management of the office, which includes strategic planning, staff development, training, as well as general office support.
- The Stamp Duties team (48050) is responsible for the administration and collection of stamp duties under the Stamp Duties Act 1976. This includes the adjudication and processing of a variety of legal instruments including, but not limited to, conveyances, transfers, leases and mortgages, as well as administering the Primary Family Homestead Exemption programme.
- The Audit and Compliance team (48070) is responsible for ensuring that taxpayers are compliant with the Taxes Acts throughout the life of the taxpayer, starting with their initial registration. The team conducts audits and inspections of taxpayer books and records, and is responsible for knowledge management and taxpayer education.

- The Operations team (48080) oversees the major activity of collecting and reporting on payroll tax, land tax, passenger taxes, hotel occupancy tax, betting duty, timesharing taxes, corporate services tax and foreign currency purchase tax.

The Operational Budget, on page B-96, basically the budget for the year, as you will see there in total is $3.126 million, which is a decrease of $114,000 from the previous budget year.

Savings for 2015/16 were achieved by freezing two vacant posts: knowledge manager and stamp duty assistant.

There was a decrease on page C-11 of the Capital Account of $356,000. The Taxes Information Management System (TIMS) project continues to make steady but watchful progress. Originally projected timelines have been adjusted resulting in funding adjustments as a few milestones have not been achieved as originally anticipated. Delays have resulted primarily from data clean-up challenges as there is a general lack of internal resources [and excess capacity to work on specific project tasks].

In terms of the overall Subjective Analysis on page B-97, the Office of the Tax Commissioner's departmental operating expenditure budget has been reduced by 4 per cent for 2015/16 after adding back the savings previously achieved from the furlough days in 2014/15. The reduction was achieved mainly by freezing and not funding two vacant posts as well as slashing other operational expenses such as advertising, travel, training, professional services, materials and supplies.

Explanations for significant differences are as follows:

- Salaries were increased by $104,000 or 5 per cent due primarily to the elimination of the mandatory furlough days. A new post (administrative support clerk) was approved in 2014/15 however it is unlikely to be filled due to the recently implemented hiring freeze. Thus an additional $49,000 in savings may be achieved in 2015/16.
- Training. I do not think I need to talk about training.
- Travel decreased by $5,000.
- Advertising and Promotion is decreased by $45,000. This was simply reduced to try and reduce the budget.
- Professional Services, worth commenting on, this was decreased by $114,000, or 45 per cent. The OTC will engage in creative ways to minimise the need for consultant services in 2015/16. The OTC engages the services of an overseas stamp duty consultant to provide expert advice on complex stamp duty matters.

The OTC will minimise the need for these external services in 2015/16 by referring to internal resources which may be available in the Attorney General's Chambers. Local consultant services needed for the maintenance of our existing tax information system cannot be eliminated however, but there will be efforts to minimise these costs.

In terms of the Revenues analysis, I think it is worth touching on a few of these, and they are on page B-98.

- Payroll Tax Revenue is anticipated to increase by 6 per cent or $21.3 million. The standard rate of payroll tax will be increased by 0.5 per cent to 14.5 per cent in 2015/16. Most other tax rate categories will also experience a similar increase of 0.5 per cent. Additionally, the payroll tax concessions or relief programmes currently in place for the hotel, restaurant and retail sectors will be partially rolled back in 2015/16 with taxpayers in these sectors paying a rate of 5.5 per cent.
- Corporate Services Tax is expected to increase by $967,000, or 21 per cent, as a result of the rate increase from 6 per cent to 7 per cent in 2015/16.
- Betting Tax is projected to decrease by $525,000, or 32 per cent. The projected decrease is a reflection of the actual receipts experienced to date in 2014/15 and this has indicated that individuals have less disposable income available to engage in betting activities.
- Land Tax is expected to increase by $4.2 million, or 7 per cent, as a result of the increased rate for commercial properties from 4.4 per cent to 5.5 per cent in 2015/16.
- Hotel Occupancy Tax is expected to increase modestly by $950,000, or 9 per cent.
- Airport Departure Tax we raised from $35.00 to $50.00 per passenger in 2015/16 and will result in increased revenues of $5.5 million, or 38 per cent.
- Stamp Duty Revenue is expected to increase by $1 million primarily as a result of an anticipated increase in the real estate market during 2015/16.
- Other Miscellaneous Taxes, and there are quite a few of them, the outlook is relatively stable.

Switching briefly to the employee numbers on page B-98, there are currently 29 full-time positions, with two posts frozen and not funded until March 2016 in order to achieve the required expenditure reduction for 2015/16.

The office is comprised of 24 Bermudians, one non-Bermudian and has two vacancies, and those are a tax inspector and an administrative support clerk.

A Stamp Duty Consultant is retained on a periodic basis to assist with the modernisation of the Stamp Duties Act 1976 and to provide specialist advice on complex matters for adjudication.

The new Tax Information Management System (TIMS) project continues to progress. The Stamp Duty Module has gone live, with the Land Tax Workflow System and Improvements to E-Tax still in progress. The remaining phases of the project are expected to continue through to 2016/17.

Just very briefly on the Tax Information Management System (TIMS), the project was tendered in 2009 (that gives you a sense of how old it is) and a successful developer was engaged. However, due to the unexpected vacancy of the then-tax commissioner, the project was halted for approximately two years.

There are a number of major components of the new system, but they are really there to replace legacy and manual systems.

The reasons for this are:

- That this will provide a Tax Management Information System based on technology capable of fully supporting integration with other systems throughout Government. Obviously that is important.
- This measure will provide for the development of additional channels for tax payers to both file and pay their taxes.
- It will also provide reporting and case management tools capable of assisting in collection of outstanding receivables and collaborating across departments to aid in the collection process.
- And probably most importantly, this measure will allow the office to move away from a paper-based document and manual processing system to a more efficient and secure electronic document and record management system.

So we have talked about the phasing there. Let's see. I am going to skip over some of these issues here, and a couple of social programmes . . . we have got a section on approved training schemes.

The Designation of Primary Family Homestead. This continues to be a popular social initiative which provides relief from estate duties, and the office has worked diligently to address what is apparently a significant backlog here because of internal resources.

Stamp Duty relief for first time homebuyers. To encourage first time home ownership by Bermudians, this relief is given on purchases of properties with a maximum value of $750,000, under the required conditions.

I am going to stop there on the Tax Commissioner's Office, Mr. Chairman, because I would like to be able to give the Honourable Member some time. I did advise him at lunchtime that had he not given three hours but four hours he would have had more time at the end. And I am sure the Minister of Tourism would have been pleased to give up one of his hours if he would like to negotiate a trade here.

[Laughter]

HEAD 58—INTEREST ON DEBT

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I am moving now to Head 58, the Interest on Debt, and that is found on page B-100 of the Budget Book.

And as you will see there, Mr. Chairman, the Interest on Debt allocation for 2015/16 is $117.6 million. The estimate of $117.6 million represents the ongoing debt service cost for the following debt instruments. And there are actually a lot of them here and I am not sure I am going to read all of them, but it is sort of interesting, because as we were saying earlier a lot of these are fairly small tranches or fairly small debt instruments. And as we were saying earlier, when you do a small instrument oftentimes it costs a lot more money because of the transaction fees and legal fees and things of that sort. But anyway here they are:

- US$140 million, Government of Bermuda Unsecured Senior Notes, due in 2022 with an interest rate of 5.73 per cent, annual interest of $8.0 million;
- US$30,000,000, Unsecured Senior Notes, issued on May 21, 2009 and maturing on May 21, 2016 with an interest rate of 6.98 per cent (fairly pricey), annual interest of $2.1 million;
- US$100,000,000, Unsecured Senior Notes, issued on May 21, 2009 and maturing on May 21, 2019 with an interest rate of 7.38 per cent, annual interest of $7.4 million;
- US$60,000,000, Unsecured Senior Notes, issued on November 10, 2009 and maturing on November 10, 2016 with an interest rate of 5.27 per cent, annual interest of $3.6 million;
- US$80,000,000, Unsecured Senior Notes, issued on November 10, 2009 and maturing on November 10, 2019 with an interest rate of 5.93 per cent, annual interest of $4.7 million;
- US$500,000,000, Unsecured Senior Notes, issued on July 20, 2010 and maturing on July 20, 2020 with an interest rate of 5.603 per cent, annual interest of $28 million;
- US$475,000,000, Unsecured Senior Notes, issued on July 3, 2012 and maturing on January 3, 2023 with an interest rate of 4.138 per cent (the yield on 10-year treasuries I think had declined quite a bit at that point), annual interest of $19.6 million;
- US$750,000,000, Unsecured Senior Notes, issued on August 6, 2013 and maturing on February 6, 2024 with an interest rate of 4.854 per cent, an annual interest of $36.4 million. I think, as the Finance Minister said, this was the lowest spread ever by Bermuda over US 10-year treasuries and he was very pleased with that placement and that was done in the institutional market;
- BDA$50,000,000, (which was associated with the $750,000,000 but a Bermuda dollar tranche) and that was Unsecured Senior Notes issued on December 16, 2013 and maturing on December 16, 2023 with an interest rate of 4.75 per cent, and that has an annual interest of $2.4 million.

The remaining expenses for 2015/16 relate to the estimated interest cost that will be incurred on Government's long-term borrowing requirements for this budget year which is estimated at $5–$6 million, and ongoing expenses of and incidental to the various securities, such as trustee and exchange fees.

The weighted average cost of borrowing currently stands at 5.1 per cent.

Members are advised that the annual interest expense of $117.6 million for fiscal year 2015/16 is anticipated to be about 12.6 per cent of government revenues. What this means is that for every $1.00 collected 12.6 cents is paid on interest expense. The interest expense to revenue ratio for developing countries related similar to Bermuda is 4 per cent and the same ratio for advanced industrial countries is about 5.2 per cent. It is noted that Bermuda's ratio is far worse than the countries compared and has grown by over 500 per cent since 2009 when this ratio was 1.9 per cent.

Let me repeat that—it is noted that Bermuda's ratio is far worse than the countries compared and has grown by over 500 per cent since 2009 when this ratio was 1.9 per cent.

Mr. Chairman, this is one of the consequences of running high deficits which lead to higher debt levels and higher interest expenditures. The increase in our current interest expense ratio over the last few years raises serious concerns over sustainability. Interest payments now exceed spending in all other Ministers except for Education, Health and the Environment, and National Security.

This large and rising interest cost crowds out spending in critically important areas such as education, social services and national security. Paying debt service has to be the top priority of any borrower because if you default on your debt service, you are by definition insolvent, regardless of whether you have other assets. So, all other types of spending have a lower priority than debt service.

The Government's target debt service/revenue ratio is set at 10 per cent. It is important to note that debt service includes the annual Sinking Fund Contribution. Therefore, when including the annual Sinking Fund Contribution the debt service/revenue ratio will stand at 18 per cent for the upcoming fiscal year. We will work toward reducing this ratio to the 10 per cent target level over the medium term. This will be accomplished by growing the economy coupled with continuous cost containment on the part of government.

Mr. Chairman, when raising funds in the capital markets, the most important objective is to provide the government with stable financing at minimal cost under the prevailing market conditions.

With the successful issuance of our last two offerings in the public bond market, the Government currently has various potential debt financing options.

These offerings put Bermuda in an excellent position to return to the international debt capital market if needed. The success of the offering provided excellent visibility for Bermuda. These efforts not only enhance the country's presence and profile in the international debt capital markets, they also open a new and diverse global investor base to the Government of Bermuda and other Bermuda-based assets and borrowers.

The market backdrop remains extremely supportive and favourable for Bermuda and we still have ongoing access to debt financing at extremely attractive rates.

Given the above, the Government anticipates that we could currently raise funds at an all-in yield below 5 per cent.

The Government will carefully consider all options in the local and international debt capital markets in order to source funding at minimal cost under the current market conditions.

In July 2013 the Government borrowed $750 million in the international bond markets, and in December 2013 borrowed $50 million in the Bermuda dollar market. This was done to take advantage of favourable low interest rates and was part of the ministry's multi-year borrowing strategy.

Mr. Chairman, it is important to emphasise that the Minister of Finance and the OBA Government recognise the importance of proper medium term financial planning and we are unequivocally committed to the elimination of Government deficits. Steps toward that objective are still a work in progress. However, in the meantime it is forecast that the Government will likely run operational deficits in the next three years.

Mr. Chairman, this multi-year borrowing strategy is in sync with the Ministry of Finance's introduction of multi-year budgeting.

Mr. Chairman, the Government remains committed to prudent and sensible borrowing. This borrowing strategy allowed the Government to lock in historically low rates and to take advantage of strong current global demand for investment grade assets.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. That concludes the presentation for the Ministry of Finance and the Honourable Member has about 25 minutes, I think.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY CHAIRMAN

HOUSE VISITOR

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

I first want to acknowledge the presence of Senator Vic Ball, who is in the Gallery.

Secondly, I am sure that the substantive Minister was glued to his radio at home and we hope that he gets well soon.

The Chair now recognises the Shadow Minister for Finance the Honourable, Mr. David Burt, of constituency 18.

You have the floor sir.

[Committee of Supply on Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16 continuing]

Mr. E. David Burt: Yes, thank you very much, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, as the Honourable Minister noted I have only 25 minutes (probably 23 now), and if I am going to give time for someone to answer questions then I need to speak very quickly, which Members should know that I do not necessarily have a problem doing.

Let us go ahead and start, I guess on one of the first issues, because I think it is very interesting that the Minister of Finance always talks and the OBA Government always talks about their two-track strategy of . . . you know, reducing public expenditure and growing the economy. But that two-track strategy is seemingly a one-track strategy because we are just continuing to see economic contraction. So there might be a point in time when this two-track strategy comes into place.

But what I found also interesting was the Minister's introductory remarks where he said that the responsibility of the Ministry of Finance is not to manage the economy. Wow! That is new. Because I remember that before, when the One Bermuda Alliance and the United Bermuda Party were in Opposition, it was always like, you know, the Minister of Finance has to—

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Point of order, point of order.

The Honourable Member may be unintentionally misleading the House, but what I said the overall purpose of the Ministry of Finance was is to supervise the economy of Bermuda generally and to provide an overall framework for the financial management and control of Government activities.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister. Shadow Minister, you have the floor again.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. And I apologise. The Honourable Member did not share his brief with me so I had to take very quick notes as it is. So I have got a lot and I am going to keep going, but the thing is I also found it interesting that he mentioned in his introductory remarks about how the Ministry of Finance is giving support to small business. But I did not hear anything about support to small business, so I hope that he will clarify what exact support he is giving to small businesses.

Now, we also heard about making sure that funding resources are available for programmes and these, I am assuming, are priorities. But we saw in this last budget that the Ministry of Finance—or, more specifically, the Minister of Finance—has not been able to find money for the priority programmes which have been identified by the Government. And you know, no one needs to look any further than the amount of reversals that we have seen in the last 24 to 48 hours to realise that the Government is having a problem prioritising its spending and its actual budget priorities.

So what I would say is . . . it is interesting also because when we talk about prioritising spending we see that there is a reduction in the amount of money for the Public Bodies Reform Act or the Efficiency Review Team (as it was called), yet policy drafting is still continuing on the Public Bodies Reform Act. I thought that was very interesting. So the work is still continuing, yet the money was taken away. So I am hoping we can get some clarity on that.

What I find also troubling is that one of the things mentioned inside of the pre-budget report of 2012, and something that I spoke about at length, Mr. Chairman, in my Budget Reply, is that it is most important for the Government to focus on efficiency. So even if the Government has decided that it is not going to privatise items, it might want to at least continue on the important work of identifying efficiencies within individual budgets. Because, surely, the Ministry of Finance—especially the One Bermuda Alliance—should realise after their string of policy reversals over the last 72 hours that you cannot cut across-the-board and expect it to work when you are attempting to find these . . . when you are attempting to find the savings.

What you find is you will shut down the recycling centre on Wednesday, but you will open back up on Thursday. You will say you are shutting down middle schools one day, and then the next day you say you are not, so . . . you cannot do these across-the-board cuts. It does not work. The Government of Bermuda (at that time the PLP Government) was given the advice that it does not work, and I hope that the Ministry of Finance will continue in looking at focusing on the efficiencies, examining the various government departments and taking the advice and lessons [which say] that across-the-board cuts do not work.

Just a quick question then. The quick question is on the Work Permit Exemption Fee, [line item] 8288. We saw this increase . . . there was expected [to be] a lot more money this year than there was last year, or the revised figure went up. So the question I would have for the Honourable Minister is, Can he tell me, on page B-83, [line item] 8288, Work Permit Exemption Fee, the original revenue figure was supposed to be $350,000 and the revised revenue figure is up to $660,000, which would seem like you issued quite a few more exemptions than you probably anticipated issuing—either that or you raised the price of something. But I would like the Minister to tell us how many Work Permit Exemptions have been issued.

I would also hope that the Minister could give me a breakdown of Professional Services Vote on page B-83, specifically, what is spent on consultants. There was $250,000 to the US, $470,000 to the UK—so there are lots of Professional Services there. Who exactly are these consulting contracts going to? I think that [would be] very helpful.

I am not necessarily going to go back into one of the things, because I think we have litigated enough—the question about the 400 new jobs. But the 400 new jobs that the Minister mentioned under Head 10, I would hope that he would be able to give updated statistics (and I see the Tax Commissioner is here). I was hoping that he could give updated statistics because we have been hearing about these 400 jobs it seems for the last year. Have there not been any new jobs? How many people are now taking advantage of the programme currently? Before, every three months, at the end of the quarter, the Minister would come here and he would tell us. But those updates stopped a long time ago. So it would be nice if we could get updated figures because I know that when there was a claim of 400 last year there had to be a revision down to 200 because it ended up that a lot of people were not actually eligible for that programme.

We are 3:45 right, Mr. Chairman? That is when we end—3:45?

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. E. David Burt: Okay. Moving on if I can to the Accountant General on page B-87, there was a question about Service Fees, and that is [line item] 8191.

The original was $750,000 and the revised figure was zero. Now the Minister of Economic Development may not be aware, but the Minister of Finance and I have a decent working relationship where I send questions in advance. And some of the responses were provided, so I know the Minister has these. But it said that these items were moved.

The question that I have is that there was a projection of $750,000 to be received by Service Fees, how much Service Fees were actually received, or what was the revised amount for the Service Fees? Because I understand that it might have been moved to a different head, but the question is . . . how were these Service Fees and where were they received? What were these Service Fees originally intended for—the [line item] 8191, Service Fees?

I do believe and think and understand that it was supposed to be for credit card processing fees because the Government was given authorisation to add money on top of credit card processing fees. I think that is what it was, so I am just trying to find out how much money was actually earned in Service Fees if it was recorded somewhere else just so we can have an understanding on that.

Moving on to further questions, there just seems to be a discrepancy, and I am hoping that the Minister can possibly explain where this discrepancy comes from, because in the Budget Statement, when it was talking about the increase in fuel, the increase in fuel was not attributed to raise additional revenue of $9.7 million. So I am just . . . I just want to be clear. What is the division between the increase in fuel on the total amount of $10.5 million increase in Customs Duty? How much of that is attributed to fuel and how much of that is for the regular part of the economy, because the Budget Statement said $6 million something and now this is saying $9 million something. So I am trying to figure out what the actual difference is under the fuel stuff.

Under Social Insurance, I guess the question would be that we have not seen a Social Insurance increase since 2011. So that is now . . . we are looking at four years since there has been any increase to seniors who are on fixed income out of the Contributory Pension Fund. And as we know for seniors that are on FutureCare or for seniors that may be on HIP, for seniors that may be on other products, we know that that money is automatically taken out of their pension funds. We know those amounts are going to go up.

The question is if the Minister had any thoughts on when seniors or members who receive money can expect an increase to their pension fund? I understand that there is an Actuarial Review currently going on, but would the Ministry of Finance give any idea on any credence or any thought to the plans as proposed by the Opposition which could possibly see increased money go into the Contributory Pension Fund by setting the Contributory Pension Fund at a percentage of revenue, as most other countries have, as opposed to a fixed fee? So I would hope the Minister could answer that.

I did get a response regarding the breakdown of the Payroll Tax Concessions. I certainly do have a question on it. But I am not going to question the technical officers as deeply as I could because I am sure they have the figures best, but I was just hoping that the Minister could provide for our consideration what the breakdown between the Payroll Tax Concession rollbacks are and the actual amount of yield that will come from an increase to the Payroll Tax. We are looking at getting an increase of . . . in taxes of about $20-something million. How much of that is from the Payroll Tax Concession rollback and how much of that is from the actual increase?

The other question is, Has the Ministry of Finance done any analysis as to what the negative impacts of this rollback would be? In other words, I know that the hotels were constantly lobbying, but are they considering that this is going to have any negative impact upon their operations? And is there any view that it might actually weaken any of the companies and possibly cause any additional job losses?

And those are my questions right now, Mr. Chairman. Just to go briefly back to Head 11 because I think that it is important that we talk about the overall direction of the Ministry of Finance and what is being done inside the Ministry of Finance. I think that it is very important that we have to consider that if our goal is to make sure that we reduce budgets in the long term, if our goal is to understand that in the long term we need to become more efficient, I would once again challenge the Minister of Finance (I know he is not here, but . . .) the Minister of Economic Development to look back at the experiences that happened with the Progressive Labour Party Government and look back at the experience that happened in other governments.

Mr. Chairman, I can promise you that the Minister of Finance is not the first Minister of Finance to inherit an economy that is in recession that has a deficit. He does not have to attempt to reinvent the wheel because the fact of the matter is that this stuff has been done before. There is a way that you can make sure that you increase your budget targets, but that is not by cutting domestic demand inside the economy by cutting budgets and making cuts across the board, which we find out from experience, do not work.

We have spoken about what happened last year with the budget cuts, and now we see this year again the Government is doubling down on the strategy which they had last year, which caused more weakness in the economy. We saw businesses close, we saw 790 jobs lost—we saw that continue. So we do not believe that that is the correct strategy to go with.

One thing I would also ask, Is the Minister of Economic Development now prepared to state how much the Ministry of Finance's bet on long-term spending, where they bet that interest rates would go up and they have not gone up, is there any idea of how much that has actually cost the Treasury? When the Minister made the announcement he said it would save the Treasury $20 million to $40 million. Given that the interest rates did not go in the direction in which he wanted, is he prepared to say how much the Treasury may not have spent if we would have gone a different direction? And I think that is all I have.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Shadow Minister.

Is there anyone else who cares to speak to these heads?

[Pause]

The Chairman: We are allowing the Minister to get his notes from his technical officers.

The Chair now recognises the Minister from constituency 22.

You have the floor, Minister.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, let me see if I can work my way through some of the questions that the Member who speaks for Finance on the other side proposed.

First of all, he asked what the Ministry of Finance was doing for small business. And I think I went through that under the Office of the Tax Commissioner. And basically there, as I think we are all aware, an increase of 0.5 per cent, but that was for most Payroll Tax rates, but that was with the exception of small businesses—farmers, fisherman, taxi drivers, and not-for-profit societies and associations. So I think small businesses get a natural tax break and that has been maintained.

With respect to the Public Bodies Reform Act, I think what the Minister of Finance is saying in the brief is that, while drafting is still in place, the actual body or organisation which was going to review that is not being set up yet, and, as a consequence, there are no costs associated with that. But I think there is some ongoing background work done on the actual drafting.

The Honourable Member took a few minutes to talk about his proposition that across the board cuts do not work. I think it would be wrong to suggest that there have been across the board cuts. I think every ministry was asked to go back and look to see where they could essentially effect savings. There are a number of areas which, as we know, have actually increased slightly, there are other areas which have been decreased quite a bit, but the overall issue here is that until we can eliminate this deficit we are never going to be able to pay down the debt, but worse, we are going to continue to increase the debt. So there is no—

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: —provision here for across the board cuts.

Mr. E. David Burt: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Member has yielded for the point of order.

What is the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Mr. E. David Burt: The point of order is that the Honourable Minister of Economic Development may be misleading the House, because the Minister of Finance made it very clear in his public statements that when he went to Cabinet, and no individual Cabinet Minister offered up any savings out of their budget, he cut them all. That is an across-the-board cut.

The Chairman: You may resume, Minister.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I think we are going to have to sort of agree to disagree.

I think clearly the Minister of Finance went to Cabinet and said, Look, we have to reduce our deficit. We have to . . . every ministry has to basically play its part there. But in essence the guideline was 5 per cent, but as the Honourable Member will know, having looked through the budget, not every ministry and not every department actually made 5 per cent, and there are reasons for that. Clearly, we were all hoping for some help with an extension of the furlough day, but as we know the Government cannot impose that, that was a negotiated agreement between the BTU and the Government beforehand.

So I think to simply cast across-the-board cuts, suggests that somehow there was an amount lopped off everywhere and that is simply not the case. I would like to say that people, while under pressure to reduce spending due to reducing the overall cost of government, clearly tried to use more of a scalpel than a meat axe. So I think it is fair to say that I do not agree with the Honourable Member's proposition that it was quite that way.

In terms of the Work Permit Exemptions, how many? I have a number here of 33 exemptions, $660,000 was the total, $20,000 each, and I believe that came out of the Ministry of Home Affairs. So hopefully that answers that question.

On the Professional Services, I may have to get back to the Honourable Member on that. I know for a fact that one of those was the annual retainer (which has been there for many years) for lobbying by Ken Levine who has been . . . sorry. Yes, okay. I do have . . . I am obliged to the honourable Financial Secretary here for a list. I was starting to say that at least one of those services at the Washington office was the retainer to our lobbyist up there, Ken Levine, who has been employed for I think pretty close to 30 years now by both the former United Bermuda Party Government and also by the former PLP Government.

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: No, he actually was not hired by me, but I worked with him a lot when we were doing the base transition stuff and trying to get fees and reimbursement for some of the environmental damages. But anyway the list of things here:

- the special project work in the economic report from the regulatory unit was $22,000;
- there is under the policy planning and management section, EU strategy consultant by the name of Alastair Sutton, $320,000;
- under the UK strategy, again, with respect to defending Bermuda's position against the onslaught by larger countries (including the UK) some $180,000 to Cubitt;
- there is a special projects allocation of $100,000;
- economic diplomacy, Ken Levine, and there is a retainer, and then costs, and that is $250,000—

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Yes, the retainer. Every year in order to be able to keep him on board there is a minimum retainer. I think it is about $100,000. But in addition to that, when you effectively work with him or use him as the Premier did recently, in terms of meeting people and setting up meetings and essentially engaging staff, you are paying him sort of a . . . I will say "cost and charges" in addition to the retainer.

Let us see, with respect to the Economic and Financial Intelligence area, rating services, there is an allocation of $166,000 and I think that is for fees paid to probably Moody's (if I had to guess) and Standard & Poor's, and Fitch as well. They charge you to rate you. I think—

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: —they charge you to downgrade you, I think is probably an accurate way of looking at it. And hopefully it will start to go the other way at some point, but certainly we have got a couple of years to get that in place.

And then, finally, under the Treaty Management and Administration section there is a legal consultancy treaty management allocation of some $100,000 as well.

Okay, let us see . . . the Honourable Member was asking a question about page B-87, Services Fees, under [line item] 8191, asking whether that was a credit card fee or not. I am told that the credit card fees were never implemented and as a consequence that is probably why there is zero allocation there. Okay?

[Inaudible interjection]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I do not know the answer [to] why not? I am sorry, it is not my Ministry and I am an itinerant Minister right now, but we can find out for you though.

With respect to the increase in fuel, the Honourable Member was asking whether the $9 million increase was reflected in the Customs Duty figure. And the answer to that was, $9.6 million was actually there as a consequence of fuel, and the rest of it was budgeted in for increased economic growth.

With respect to the issue of Social Insurance and the increase, I think the Honourable Minister of Finance is going to have to answer that question. That is above my pay grade so I am going to leave that for him.

With respect Payroll Tax Concessions, how much was from the actual rollbacks with respect to some of the hospitality areas and retail, and how much was due to increases in taxes? And I am not sure if we have a number for that or not.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN

HOUSE VISITOR

The Chairman: Members, while the Minister is getting his information from his technical officers, I just wish to acknowledge the presence of the former MP and Cabinet Minister, Mr. Arthur Hodgson, who is in the Gallery.

[Desk thumping]

[Committee of Supply on Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16 continuing]

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Payroll Tax revenue from increased rates is estimated to be $339.1 million. The revenue from retail at 5.5 per cent is estimated to be $8.6 million; from the hotels at 5.5 per cent, $5.1 million; and from restaurants $438,000. So the overall increase is $21.36 million.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Chairman, just as a point of information, could the Minister just repeat those figures again, just one more time, just like that?

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: What I can do is actually give you the sheet here so you can have those as long, as you promise not to retrieve them later.

[Laughter]

Mr. E. David Burt: You know that is going to happen.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: And I think the final question was (I was scratching it down) something to do with impact on job losses. I think you were referring to asking about whether . . . No, I remember now.

I think we had a little bit of a sermon from the Honourable Member who speaks for Finance on that side about doubling down on cuts. I think, Mr. Chairman, there is an implication that somehow (and we have seen this quite a bit) the decrease in spending by government is having an impact on the economy. I suspect it does to some degree, but I think what we have said pretty repeatedly over the last week or two is that when you have an economy in freefall, which is one that we have inherited from the former Government, it takes a while to turn that around.

And when you look at things like job losses, those were as much as almost 2,000 a year back in 2010/11, [then it] dropped to a little over 1,000, and now to something like 790. So sometimes, particularly when you have an economy which is heading dramatically in the wrong direction, simply reversing all of that in a year is simply not possible. So I think that to somehow suggest, as the Honourable Member is doing, that that is all due to the budget I think is simply a bridge too far. That is an extrapolation which the Honourable Member is certainly . . . should not be necessarily making, although he clearly is.

I think the bottom line here, Mr. Chairman, is we have a two-track strategy. The Minister of Finance has clearly outlined both a revenue side, an increase in revenue side, and also a reduction of government spending, which is essential to be able to reduce that deficit because while we continue to run deficits the debt continues to go up, and we are going to be in even more difficult shape. So it is imperative to reduce that deficit spending.

Mr. Chairman, how much more time is there?

The Chairman: Member, that is it. We have come to the end of the consideration of the Ministry of Finance.

Member, are you prepared to move the relevant heads?

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: I assure you, Mr. Chairman, I would be delighted.

The Chairman: You may proceed.

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I would like to move Heads 10, 11, 12, 38, 58, and 28.

The Chairman: Members, please note that the Acting Minister has asked that Heads 10, 11, 12, 38, 58, and 28 be approved.

Are there any objections?
Those in favour, say Aye.

AYES.

The Chairman: Those opposed?

NOES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.
The Heads are approved.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Ministry of Finance, Heads 10, 11, 12, 38, 58, and 28 were approved and stand part of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the year 2015/16.]

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE CHAIRMAN

HOUSE VISITOR

The Chairman: Members, at this time I would also like to acknowledge the presence of former Senator Neville Tyrrell who is in the Gallery.

[Desk thumping]

[Committee of Supply on Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16 continuing]

The Chairman: At this time we will be proceeding to the consideration of the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport with the focus on Tourism at this point.

And the Chair will now acknowledge the substantive Minister Mr. Shawn Crockwell, the Honourable and Learned Member from constituency 31.

Honourable and Learned Minister, you have the floor.

MINISTRY OF TOURISM

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, thank you, Mr. Chairman and good afternoon.

Mr. Chairman, we are about to debate Head 33, Tourism, and specifically the grant provided to the Bermuda Tourism Authority. Head 33 can be found on page B-157 and the Grant, Mr. Chairman, can be found on page C-18.

Mr. Chairman, before I commence with the actual brief I would like to first of all acknowledge in the Gallery this afternoon my Permanent Secretary for the Ministry, Mr. Francis Richardson. I would like to acknowledge Dr. David Dodwell who is here, who is the Chairman of the Board, former Member of this Honourable House, former Minister of Tourism. And I also know in the building and probably making his way to this side of the Chamber is Mr. Andy Burrows, who is the Chief Investment Officer.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

Just let me help out the Minister. Mr. Andy Burrows is in the Gallery.

The Chairman: Thank you, Shadow Minister.

[Crosstalk]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I would like to invite Mr. Burrows to come around, thank you.

I also would like to recognise Ms. Erin Smith, the Director of Research and Business Intelligence. I hear already . . . I am not even five minutes in and I have had a point of order, Mr. Chairman, and I have had interpolations already.

Mr. Hanbury is in Charleston on business at this moment and he was unable to be here.

HEAD 33—TOURISM

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Chairman, I would like to start off by reminding this Honourable House the justification for establishing and creating the Bermuda Tourism Authority.

Mr. Chairman, you would always know that—well, you would know in particular—that the One Bermuda Alliance took a position that we felt that the problem and the challenges with tourism in Bermuda were not that we did not have passionate Ministers and we did not have passionate staff at the Department of Tourism, and people who were committed to reviving tourism. We fundamentally believed that our challenges were based on the structure of how we managed tourism and managing what essentially is a business through government. And we know that government, when it comes to businesses, is not always the most efficient entity. And so we thought that the best approach was to address the structural problem, and we wanted to create an authority that would be independent from politics, Mr. Chairman.

When I became the Minister I was the fourth Minister in five years. And I am no tourism expert, Mr. Chairman. I was the Shadow Tourism Minister so that gave me opportunity and gave me time to get familiarised with the industry and do research and the like, Mr. Chairman. My predecessor was not a tourism expert, although he was involved in some tourism business because of his restaurants, and he is still involved with having an Airbnb. And we know that he sang very well at tourism events. “Very well” may be debated, Mr. Chairman, but we certainly know he sang at these events.

[Laughter]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: And we have had a medical doctor. We have had an individual from finance. So at the end of the day if you look at the structure—that is just the leadership—and every year when you had a new Minister you may have a new direction, a new focus, we saw changes of tag lines, we saw changes in marketing strategy.

What happens sometimes . . . for example, we can reflect on events that may just be a particular idea of a minister. We know that the former Minister had an idea for an event and you would want to support it. And then we can all recall the Beyoncé concert, Mr. Chairman. These are things that happened at the caprice, if you will, of different Ministers. And so we just did not think that that was good for leadership. If you cannot have consistent leadership, then you know that you are going to have challenges with that particular industry.

Mr. Chairman, also when you have politics involved then you are going to have acrimony. It is just the nature of politics to object. And I will raise my hand, Mr. Chairman. I was guilty of it. And I thought I did a pretty good job in the Opposition. And now as the Minister of Tourism I can say, and I know that the Honourable Member who was my predecessor said to me when I first became the Minister—I do not believe he has held to that promise, but he said to me—I’m not going to criticise on the numbers because I’ve been there and know that sometimes the numbers do not always tell the right story.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Well, he did not; but he handed it off to his colleague from constituency 29, Mr. Chairman.

But politics by its nature creates an acrimonious discourse. And, you know, when the Chairman made the comment which was referenced and was actually in the Reply of the Shadow Tourism Minister when he said that dissention is the enemy of success, and he has been criticised for that, he was not saying that he does not want or he does not invite constructive criticism. He was saying that by the nature of politics, if we are looking for a reason to criticise . . . and we know what it is like, we have been in the Opposition.

I know what it is like to get a directive from my Leader [saying], Look at this Bill and see what is wrong with it. That is what Opposition is all about. But politics should not be in tourism. We should not be looking for ways to criticise tourism. At the end of the day, we are all a part of the revival of tourism. And so this is one of those industries . . . and I think it is going to take time, we hoped that once we made that transition to the Tourism Authority that, because it was separate and distinct from government, that hopefully there was immediately going to be a toning down of the temperature as it related to the discourse on tourism. It has not happened yet, but I believe that it will happen. I think it will take time as we go forward.

Now, Mr. Chairman, we welcome constructive criticism. Certainly, the BTA welcomes it. I know the CEO welcomes it, the chairman, it helps us to grow, it helps us to stay on the right track, but I would just encourage that we try to avoid criticism for criticism's sake.

Now, Mr. Chairman, as I just stated, we identified the primary challenge being structural. I believe that before we were going to see the types of results that we wanted to see that we had to address and fix the structure. I believe that we have done that. And the Shadow Finance Minister has endorsed, in my opinion, the fact that we have fixed the structure. If not using such a strong term as "fixed," I certainly believe that the Shadow Finance Minister concurs that we are certainly on the right track.

With your indulgence, Mr. Chairman, I would like to refer to the Reply to the Budget on page 14. And I hope that this will form the tenor, Mr. Chairman, of this debate today, because I am referring to the PLP's Reply to the Budget. And on page 14 the Shadow Finance Minister said, "[I] have had the chance to meet and interact with the leadership and staff of the Bermuda Tourism Authority. They are an excellent team who approach their mission with professionalism and they are doing good work. Though we questioned the need for its creation, the team at the BTA have our full support"—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I am quoting, I do not know why the Honourable Member . . . he said . . . I am just reading, "We are confident that the BTA will succeed in their mission to execute the National Tourism Plan and increase visitor arrivals, but only if they are given the required level of investment."

And Mr. Chairman, the Honourable Member said we did not; but the Honourable Member is not privy to all of the strategies and the plans going forward. But I appreciate that what I consider to be a statement of endorsement of the work that is being carried out right now by the Tourism Authority. They are a professional body. They are doing good work, Mr. Chairman. In that office, 90 per cent are Bermudian, and we all should be proud—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

I know what the Honourable Member is—

The Chairman: Hold it, Member.

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 6.

You have a point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The Honourable Member is . . . the point of order is that [the Opposition] has never criticised the . . . the team at the Tourism Department. There are certain policies that they put forward that we may not look at, but we do not criticise the staff at all. We have professional staff under every ministry.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: They were not professionals either.

The Chairman: Thank you, Shadow Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Chairman, the Honourable Member will have an opportunity to speak. It is very irregular to be doing points of order when I am making my budget presentation. I have not seen it so far during this budget, and I did not say anything wrong. And for the Honourable Member to say that the Opposition has not criticised the BTA is laughable . . . it is laughable! I mean, Really? The Opposition has not criticised the BTA?

Mr. Chairman, I am concurring . . . I am concurring with what I believe is a very accurate endorsement by the Shadow Finance Minister about the work that is going on at the BTA and we all should . . . this is Bermuda's organisation, Mr. Chairman—staffed by Bermudians who are passionate about tourism, who work long hours. The Honourable Members in this Chamber know, go to Cup Match one year and see how they are there all day in the heat, servicing our tourists while they are there and representing us on the hotel association for the entire time, there providing service to our guests. These are committed and dedicated people giving up our most popular holiday to serve.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: And they did it before. And quite a few of the members are transitioned to the Tourism Authority. And I am saying that I am inviting everyone to embrace the Tourism Authority. This is our organisation that we have tasked—whether you supported the creation or not. They are there now and they are doing good work.

We should embrace them, Mr. Chairman, because they are the ones responsible for the revival of tourism, but they are not going to do it alone. And we intend, Mr. Chairman, that they have adequate financing.

I would like to start off, Mr. Chairman, by an introduction to the Bermuda Tourism Authority. Mr. Chairman, on the way to restoring growth in the local tourism economy the 11 month-old Bermuda Tourism Authority (BTA) must first restore confidence among those already invested in the tourism industry.

As a Destination Marketing Organisation, known as a DMO, the Bermuda Tourism Authority is focused on much more than marketing to potential visitors.

According to Destination Marketing Association International, destination marketing is a serious engine to drive job creation and economic growth through travel and tourism. The importance of destination promotion to the visitor economy is well documented, but destination promotion also acts as a catalyst of economic development in a broader sense.

It has been well documented that destination promotion fuels development across the entire economic spectrum. In addition to generating jobs and tax revenues by attracting visitors, the activities of DMOs (like the Bermuda Tourism Authority) drive broader economic growth by sustaining air service, creating familiarity, attracting decision-makers, and improving the quality of life for residents.

The results of a study done by Oxford Economics continues to demonstrate that those markets which coordinate destination marketing and economic development are better positioned to compete for new investments and corporate relocations, as well as build a more talented workforce.

About six weeks ago, Mr. Chairman, I, along with 320 others from the local tourism sector, attended a first-of-its-kind Bermuda Tourism Summit. The goal was to outline the BTA's vision for 2015—its sales and marketing strategy, its business intelligence strategy, and the overall ethos for rebuilding tourism in this country.

Mr. Chairman, I want to outline for you some of the responses received from tourism industry stakeholders who attended the one-day summit: A tourism entrepreneur wrote: "Feeling inspired and re-focused to kick off 2015. Thanks for laying down a solid foundation."

A hotelier said: "The BTA, for the first time in my [15-year] history, has been able to get more people enthusiastic about tourism than ever before . . . The summit was well thought out and provided a great opportunity for all to come together and get really excited about the future."

An event planner said: "Thank you for your perseverance and creative initiatives which now allows us to believe again and encourages us to work harder to put Bermuda back on top."

And lastly, Mr. Chairman, the comment was made, "overall I would say that the seminar was great, allowing the BTA to talk to stakeholders."

That last comment, Mr. Chairman, was from an Honourable Member of this House who sits among my Opposition colleagues.

Mr. Chairman, I use all of these comments as an exhibit. It is an exhibit that proves, among tourism industry stakeholders—the men and women with skin in the game—that there is confidence in the BTA, and that confidence is strong, and I believe it is getting stronger.

We have not heard people speak with this level of confidence and optimism in tourism in a very long time. This is what progress sounds like. I was encouraged to hear the Honourable Shadow Finance Minister say one week ago that he too has confidence in the team at the BTA.

Regardless of political affiliation, confidence in the BTA is being earned. Confidence in the Bermuda Tourism product is starting to return.

Mr. Chairman, once tourism stakeholders believe, then the general public will follow. And investors will also believe. And our visitors and vacationers will believe.

A year ago, on what was a smaller tourism budget than the previous year, I stood in this Honourable House and outlined seven ambitious Year 1 objectives for the Bermuda Tourism Authority. I am pleased to report today that all seven are either accomplished or firmly in hand.

Mr. Chairman, I think it is appropriate to update Members on that progress.

A year ago I said the BTA would fully operationalise the organisation. It has done so. Using the National Tourism Plan as a guide, it has assembled 37 full-time staff who are highly qualified, highly motivated and results-oriented and, as I said earlier, 90 per cent of which are Bermudian. And if you were to go there, Mr. Chairman, you would find that the staff there, they are a reflection of Bermuda. They work hard and deserve our full support.

A year ago I said the BTA would implement a new sales and marketing strategy. So said, so done, Mr. Chairman. The new strategy was implemented late last year and although it takes about eight or nine months to fully measure marketing results in the tourism industry—eight or nine months—the early indicators look positive. The Bermuda marketing strategy has also been the talk of the trade press including the New York Times and Adweek—not insignificant publications.

A year ago I said the BTA would focus efforts to improve quality throughout the tourism value chain. That is firmly in hand. The National Service Standards Programme is underway building hundreds of tourism ambassadors across the country so that our service to visitors is a step beyond our competitors. When service quality is high, customers perceive higher value, which is imperative for our high-cost product.

To set tone for new sources of funding as part of the BTA's future sustainability. This was laid out as a 2014 goal, Mr. Chairman. This is an area in which much work is still required but, the tone has been set. For example, after much preparatory work in 2014, the BTA will establish new revenue generation in the next budget year.

To develop and enhance existing product and experiences while also creating and supporting new initiatives in both areas was another 2014 goal. This has been achieved. The BTA educated the public on its strategy, then invited entrepreneurs to submit their own home-grown ideas that would help the country deliver on its tourism strategy. The end result was more than $813,000 invested in local entrepreneurs. In all there were 41 successful applicants, 17 of them are brand-new ideas.

To build a new strategy for investment in Bermuda tourism was also a 2014 objective. Mr. Chairman, the BTA has secured a Chief Investment Officer (Mr. Burrows who is here) and he is building a concierge service that will make it easier for investors to understand our market and therefore feel more confident about investing in our product. As you know, there are already several exciting development projects in the pipeline. And I can say, Mr. Chairman, from my experience with the St. George's project, Mr. Burrows has been invaluable—the experience he brings from the private sector, his experience as a former banker—at times proved to be critical as we discussed the very salient and important aspects of a hotel development.

At the last budget debate I told this Honourable House the BTA would work to maximise the spending power of the cruise ship passenger to generate a greater economic impact for the country. This mission is in hand, Mr. Chairman. In 2014, cruise ship passenger spending has indeed increased on a per passenger basis and overall. The total spend went up 29 per cent to $54 million in 2014. Meantime, for every dollar a cruise ship passenger spends, an air visitor spends $8.00. Last year, for every dollar a cruise ship passenger spent, an air visitor spent $9.00.

This move represents a 23 per cent improvement. This is a positive development, Mr. Chairman. But make no mistake: ultimately, we would like to see both visitor spending numbers go up in 2015. Increasing air visitor arrivals and air visitor spending remain the top priorities of the BTA.

Mr. Chairman, these seven points are evidence that we have a results-oriented team in the Bermuda Tourism Authority and it is creating the progress we need to set conditions for growth in the local tourism industry. And they are generating these results while spending less taxpayer dollars—the fewest in 34 years. And I think that is critical. I take a point by the Shadow Finance Minister that if we want to see tourism grow we have to invest in it, and certainly I can do all I can, but the Government is fettered as it relates to our budget. But we have to understand and put this in the context of what the Tourism Authority has achieved with their finances. I have heard people say, Well, the Government is giving millions of dollars to the Tourism Authority. We have historically spent millions of dollars, Mr. Chairman, on tourism. In fact I was told that, I believe, over the last 20 years or the last 30 years, we have spent a billion dollars—a billion dollars we have spent—one billion on tourism. And we have experienced on that one billion spend 20 years of decline.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 29.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The Honourable Member is misleading the House, Mr. Chairman. The Honourable Member just said that we have experienced 20 years of decline. Not true. In 2007, under Dr. Ewart Brown, we had a record amount of tourists that visited Bermuda.

The Chairman: Thank you, Member.
Minister, you may resume.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I believe the Honourable Member is . . . when he says “record number” he may be talking total—combining cruise and air—but he is certainly not talking air.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: No he is not. I have it right here, 2007 was not the highest year. Okay? So—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: If you go back—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Okay, well I am just saying your colleagues are saying yes, but total—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Okay, I do not know if we are going to have a debate as to whether or not tourism has been declining for over 20 years, but if we are, we are the only people debating it. Because everybody else in Bermuda realises that for the last 20 years tourism has been on the decline. And over 20 years you had three administrations—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: More than 20 years. Now we have a Member saying more than 20 years. So I do not know why there was a point of order. We have experienced decades of decline in tourism in this country, and we have spent a billion dollars on tourism!

Mr. Chairman—

Mr. Zane J. S. De Silva: Got the man man right next to you.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: And the man man is helping to turn it around.

And what the BTA is doing with far less funding is admirable. And I recognise that it would be ideal to have more to spend, but sometimes it is not the amount you are spending, it is how you spend it. And sometimes it is not . . . you know, it is the efficiency of management, sometimes, that gets results, Mr. Chairman. I was only highlighting the fact that, as was highlighted by the Shadow Finance Minister, that this year and last year the tourism investment has been the lowest that we have seen in decades. And so what they have accomplished to date—setting up the Authority, getting it going, being that professional body that is doing good work—that was aptly articulated by the Shadow Finance Minister—they deserve credit for that with the budget that they have received.

Mr. Chairman, the BTA mission statement—

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Mr. Chairman, could I just . . . if the Member does not mind yielding, I am sorry to—

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 13, the Honourable Glenn Blakeney.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Yes, just a point of information or clarification, if he does not mind (he might not have this statistic). We have heard you quantify over 30 years what has been spent. Do you have any numbers regarding the return on that investment? In other words, what has been the gross or net revenue over 30 years?

The Chairman: You may resume, Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Actually, I am glad . . . I do not have those figures with me, but I am glad the Honourable Member raised [the question of] revenues because we need to start looking at tourism differently. Not only . . . I mean, we have always and we have historically looked at it straight on air arrivals and numbers, but sometimes it is good to see whether or not the revenue from tourism is going up, because you could have fewer people but more revenue.

Now, I do not have those numbers, but the comparison was in relation [to how] we have historically measured tourism based on arrivals. And we know what the imbalance is, Mr. Chairman. The imbalance is that we have gotten far more cruise ship passengers over the last 15 years, but they do not spend as much. So the revenues have certainly gone down, the contribution to GDP has gone down substantially, Mr. Chairman, but I think that the Tourism Authority is also looking at how to augment the revenue we generate from our tourism as well.

Mr. Chairman, the BTA mission statement has not changed as the organisation goes into its second year of operation.

The mission of the Bermuda Tourism Authority shall be to increase income earned by the Island through tourism and ensure the industry is economically, socially and environmentally sustainable.

In addition, the BTA's vision is unwavering:

- The BTA will be an independent, modern, and leading tourism enterprise which will be dynamic, entrepreneurial, and vibrant.
- The BTA will be the singular voice that continually evolves Bermuda as a world-class tourism destination. And we cannot say that they have not been vocal about what they have been doing—they have their own website, they have very frequent op-eds in the newspaper, they have been out there articulating to the community what they are doing.
- The BTA will partner with the Government of Bermuda to grow tourism and create jobs.
- The BTA will develop creative and innovative ways to make Bermuda a highly desirable destination for visitors and tourism investment.
- The BTA will be results-oriented, accountable, and transparent to its stakeholders.
- The BTA will allocate its resources strategically, take select risks and move quickly to capture the opportunities afforded by growing global tourism demand.
- The BTA will pursue strategic initiatives and actions that add value to Bermuda tourism.
- The BTA will empower its people to be customer focused, proactive, solution-oriented, and make decisions that are in the best interest of Bermuda as a tourism destination.
- The BTA will have a fun and positive workplace culture that generates pride in Bermuda.
- The BTA will be impassioned in its communication to the world that Bermuda is open for business.

Mr. Chairman, Bermuda's tourism sector has seen near zero compound annual growth in total visitation over the past three decades, with total growth of 7 per cent over 30 years. Over the same time period, global tourism experienced total growth of approximately 270 per cent, a 200 per cent differential—I am sorry, a 263 per cent differential. Bermuda has also experienced a significant shift from air arrivals to cruise arrivals. Given today's lower economic benefits for the local tourism industry associated with cruise visitors compared to air arrivals with an air to cruise dollar spend ratio of $8.00 to $1.00 (for example, lower lodging and food and beverage spend per person), this transition has led to a material decline in tourism industry benefits for Bermuda such as contribution to GDP, employment, hotel supply and demand, and availability of airlift.

Recognising the consistent decline in tourism performance, the Government of Bermuda commissioned the development of the National Tourism Plan (NTP) in 2012. Mr. Chairman, I will emphasise I was in the Opposition at the time, the Honourable and Learned [sic] Member from constituency 6 was the Minister—

[Inaudible interjections and laughter]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Sorry, the Honourable Member was the Minister of Tourism at the time.

I attended the presentation at the Berkeley Institute. It was a very thorough presentation, and during that debate we voted unanimously—it was a unanimous vote. The Honourable Member on that day thought he was “learned” because he called for names thinking that that was going to be the checkmate, but he got the entire support of this House. And as a result, the National Tourism Plan has been placed in the Tourism Authority Act. And the Tourism Authority is statutorily required, Mr. Chairman, to follow and implement the National Tourism Plan. And to date I have not heard any concern or criticism about that at all, they are going about the business of trying to implement the Plan. I will refer to the National Tourism Plan as the NTP.

The NTP defined key goals anticipated to enhance Bermuda’s competitiveness as a tourism destination and attract investment to Bermuda’s tourism industry.

The goals of the 2012 Bermuda NTP are still relevant for 2015 and include:

- building a unique and competitive position for Bermuda;
- reducing seasonality;
- rebalancing air versus cruise arrivals;
- increasing visitor expenditure;
- improving quality throughout the tourism value chain;
- creating jobs and building pride;
- business development and attracting new investment;
- building economic, social and environmental sustainability.

The key objectives for tourism in Bermuda for 2015 are increasing total visitor arrivals, which is very key. Most importantly we want to increase air visitor arrivals, we know that we generate more revenue from the visitors who stay in our hotels, eat in our restaurants, and the like; and increasing room nights in hotels and vacation rentals.

For each department of the BTA there are also specific departmental goals. They include:

1. Executive Office and Business Intelligence:
 - a. higher management efficiency of BTA board and committees;
 - b. fully integrate “performance objective” management culture throughout BTA;
 - c. improve communication with on-Island stakeholders and general community; and
 - d. expanded use of business intelligence across the BTA management matrix.
2. Operations:
 - a. initiate rollout of National Service Standards for hospitality industry;
 - b. achieve Destination Management Organization certification through DMAI;
 - c. full PATI compliance;
 - d. unqualified 2015 audit; and
 - e. end fiscal year within budget parameters.
3. Sales and Marketing:
 - a. build year-round demand within targeted geo/demographic markets;
 - b. execute integrated marketing and sales strategy;
 - c. execute strategy to layer group and leisure demand;
 - d. build capacity to better leverage external partners; and
 - e. create new visual/inspirational marketing assets.
4. Product and Experience:
 - a. develop signature experiences for shoulder seasons;
 - b. secure new future calls by cruise ships to St. George’s;
 - c. emphasis on the St. George’s product/experience;
 - d. assure product/experience investments align with Sales & Marketing objectives; and
 - e. Improve visitor information services on-Island.
5. Investment:
 - a. rewrite concession legislation to spur investors to consider Bermuda;
 - b. improve and expedite the investment process;
 - c. establish relationship with major and niche hotel brands; and
 - d. strengthen support for existing on-Island hotels and hospitality businesses.

I want to say here that the Economic Development Committee of the Cabinet works closely with the BTA as it relates to hotel investments. It works closely with the BTA in terms of how we can improve our concession structure. We have received multiple presentations from the BTA, and it is our goal to create new legislation, Mr. Chairman, that will make Bermuda more attractive and competitive for investments going forward.

Critical Success Factors for BTA: Mr. Chairman, in 2014, air arrivals accounted for 39 per cent of visitors while cruise arrivals were 61 per cent. Bermuda has experienced a significant shift from air arrivals to cruise arrivals over the years. In 1980, air arrivals accounted for 81 per cent of total arrivals and cruise arrivals made up only 19 per cent. Over the past two decades air arrivals have decreased 54 per cent from 491,000 in 1980 to 224,000 in 2014. Given the lesser economic benefit for the local tourism industry associated with cruise visitors compared to air arrivals (with an air to cruise dollar spend ratio of $8.00 to $1.00), this transition has led to a material decline in tourism industry benefits for Bermuda such as contribution to GDP, employment, hotel supply and demand, and availability of airlift.

Additional factors which contributed to the decline include seasonality, expanded competition from other markets, and barriers to investment which have further hindered Bermuda's growth.

According to the World Tourism Organisation (UNWTO), International Tourism arrivals grew by 4.7 per cent in 2014 compared to the previous year. With many countries still recovering from the global recession of 2008, this is a testament to the resilience of tourism growth. The UNWTO forecasts international tourist arrivals will grow between 3 [per cent] and 4 per cent again in 2015.

Bermuda's tourism industry is highly reliant on travellers from North America, with 84 per cent of all air visitors in 2014 originating from the United States (71 per cent) or Canada (13 per cent). That number I believe has gone up over the last couple of years. The demand for international vacations from North American residents is a key factor in the health of the local tourism industry.

Mr. Chairman, the Bermuda Tourism Authority was created in 2014 as the new governing body for tourism tasked with executing the NTP. The NTP and the BTA plan objectives are aligned in their pursuit of tourism growth. As Bermuda's Destination Marketing Organisation, the BTA was designed to build a unique and competitive positioning for Bermuda as measured by new investment into tourism products and experiences, increased tourism arrivals and reduced seasonality, increased visitor expenditure, job creation, and overall tourism experience quality improvement. The NTP and BTA plans were created with economic, social and environmental sustainability in mind.

The following critical success factors are vital to Bermuda's tourism governance model:

- The BTA is the lead entity for all travel and tourism business in Bermuda, set up as a non-departmental public entity (similar to other corporate bodies and quangos in Bermuda) with oversight from the Minister of Tourism Development and Transport on behalf of the Government.
- The BTA is a key collaborator specific to the tourism industry with stakeholders such as the Economic Development Committee of the Cabinet, Labour, BDA, Chamber of Commerce, Bermuda First, the Hotel Association, the evolving Gaming Commission, Department of Parks, and Department of Public Works.
- The powers of the Minister over the BTA are clearly defined and made publicly available to provide stakeholders with transparency of governance.
- The board of the BTA has an advisory function and policy development mandate that includes members representing key areas in tourism across public and private sectors (for example, the Chamber of Commerce, Bermuda Hotel Association, and International Business); consideration was given to diversity when electing board members; board member terms are staggered to avoid any abrupt, material loss of intellectual property.
- The CEO of the BTA is a non-political executive and corporate employee of the BTA (he is hired and fired by the board of directors) who is responsible for the execution of the tourism strategy as determined by the board; the CEO has no financial interest in a tourism business or entity in Bermuda to avoid conflicts of interest.
- To avoid disruption from politics, the BTA considers forming partnerships with private entities that will assist in carrying out initiatives created by the BTA regardless of what political party is in power.
- In order to further avoid conflicts of interest by BTA executives, regulatory powers remain within government and were not transferred to the BTA.
- The BTA's public reporting and communication protocol are being adhered to and include:
 - a) an annual report of its activities, financial statements, and performance measured by key tourism metrics;
 - b) tourism research reports that provide market transparency;
 - c) periodic surveys among tourism stakeholders for feedback to highlight measures needed to improve the tourism industry in Bermuda; and

d) any other reports or communication beneficial for the coordination of tourism activities and investments in Bermuda. The BTA will be PATI compliant.

- The BTA will be making a concerted effort to establish independence from the government's funding. This will allow the BTA to execute the strategic tourism plan and its own initiatives without the restraints of a traditional government related budgeting process.
- The BTA is considering alternative funding sources including: taxes, fees and other earnings; considering support from the private sector; and as I said, maybe in the last sitting, that the BTA has already started that process. In fact, they started that process some time ago. They formed a committee that is specifically empanelled to look at ways that they can raise additional revenue.

You may recall when we debated the Act it had a wide ambit that gave BTA opportunities to generate or raise revenue. I know that I have met with the Chairman and the CEO as well as Mr. Burrows on a few occasions to discuss how we can figure out a way to generate more funding for the BTA. And I can recall on many occasions the Opposition Leader saying very passionately, and he has been critical of the fact that Government is providing this grant to the BTA, because he believes that it should be the private sector who has the skin in the game because it is ultimately [the tourism industry], once it is on a revival that will ultimately benefit, [including] the private sector—hotels and restaurants.

I mean, tourism under-girds international business. So everyone, Mr. Chairman, has a stake in seeing the revival of tourism in this country. And so we believe that we have to come up with innovative ways to get as many people involved. For far too long we have relied on funding from Government only, and it is not just the Government that benefits from a successful tourism industry.

Measuring the impact and success of the BTA was established as a key organisational priority over the past year. The BTA continually monitors overall tourism performance, economic impact, and market trends. The BTA is committed to assessing and reporting on the effectiveness of the new sales and marketing strategy as well as its operational efficiency as measured by timely and on-budget execution of activities, reporting accuracy, hours of training received, employee retention, and various other key performance indicators (KPIs).

Mr. Chairman, I would like to acknowledge the presence of Mr. Glenn Jones in the Gallery, he is the Director of Public and Stakeholder Relations. And I think that we all agree that he is doing a fantastic job. I think that was an excellent acquisition by the BTA, and I am glad to see that he has stayed beyond his initial terms of reference.

Organisational structure and responsibilities: Mr. Chairman, the BTA is meeting its objectives by providing core functions through the operation of the following divisions:

- Sales and Marketing. Sets and executes the sales and marketing strategy to build unique and competitive positioning, resulting in an increase of demand and awareness for Bermuda.
- Product and Experience Development. Manages tourism product enhancement identification and develops tourism product delivery strategy to maximise performance of existing tourism products and add new tourism products on the island of Bermuda.
- Research and Business Intelligence. Conducts research on customer behaviour, trends, and satisfaction and on-island expenditures. The division also measures brand and advertising performance in key markets on an ongoing basis and is responsible for measuring and forecasting the performance and economic impact of tourism in Bermuda.
- Operations. Responsible for operation and administration of the BTA. The division provides an environment of business excellence and efficiency by performing the administrative functions for the entire organisation. It ensures that the organisation works to best practise standards, that its employees are well motivated, and that the business support elements are fully functional and effective. In addition, this division is responsible for training standards and local Bermuda stakeholder and resident engagement in the industry along with raising tourism appreciation. The division also is responsible for the funding and support of the Bermuda Hospitality Institute (BHI) which is located in the BTA's new offices.
- Investment. Responsible for the strategy that seeks investment, and also facilitates and manages the tourism investment process.

Mr. Chairman, each of these divisions has clearly defined objectives as well as an approach and action plan to reach both near and long-term goals of the BTA. The divisions are collaborating to achieve the broader goals of the BTA. The core values of the organisation emphasise a collaborative, entrepreneurial, dynamic and efficient environment.

Hotel licensing continues to be a function of the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport.

The Product and Experience Development division of the BTA liaises regularly with the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport for updates on the licensing status of the local hotel inventory.

Mr. Chairman, the BTA consists of 37 full-time employees with two additional full-time positions planned in 2015 to fully accommodate the responsibilities of the BTA. As a point of information, the original staffing plan for the BTA recommended 48 full-time employees.

Bermuda Tourism Authority number of employees by division:

- Sales & Marketing Division. There are 17 employees with the plans to add two new employees in 2015, making a total of 19 employees.
- Product & Experience Development Division. There are six employees.
- Research & Business Intelligence Division. There are two employees.
- Investment Division. [There are] two employees.
- Operations Division. Includes the CEO and the Executive Assistant and has 10 employees.

Mr. Chairman, looking now at sources and uses of funds. The year 2 annual budget will follow the Government of Bermuda fiscal year of April 1, 2015 through March 31, 2016. The BTA is adhering to a calendar year fiscal period.

The BTA receives funding from two sources: a government grant and tourism authority fee collections.

The BTA's funding is granted every April, at the start of the government's fiscal year. For 2015, the BTA will receive a government grant of $21,700,000 to fund tourism activities on the Island of Bermuda, a 6 per cent decrease over the government allocation to the BTA in the prior year 2014/15.

Collected on a monthly basis, the tourism authority fee is currently 2.5 per cent of room revenues. Hotel guests are charged 2.5 per cent of the hotel room revenues which hotel proprietors are responsible for charging and collecting from hotel guests and paying to the Tourism Authority. It is estimated that the Tourism Authority fee collections will generate $3,600,000, or 14 per cent, of total funding.

And Mr. Chairman, if I can just recognise the work of the Chairman, specifically, before we made the full transition, when I became the Minister, there were substantial arrears as it related to the collection of this 2.5 per cent fee. The Chairman and I discussed it [and] we made it a priority that hotels have to be paying their fees. We know that there are concessions out there to assist the hotels, but he took it on and within a relatively short time he collected almost full compliance from the hotel sector. So that was significant work by him. And there were parliamentary questions actually recently that gave specific details on those figures.

The BTA has prepared initial allocations for its proposed grant of $21.7 million. This information was compiled over the past two weeks and is as follows:

- The Investment Division will be allocated $1,172,633, representing 4.6 per cent of the total expenses.
- The Product and Experience Development Division will be allocated $2,968,026 representing, 11.7 per cent of the total expenses.
- The Sales and Marketing Division will be allocated $15,874,558, representing 62.7 per cent of the total expenses.
- The Research and Business Intelligence—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Have a seat now Member. What is your point of order?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am just asking whether the Minister—

The Chairman: Member, is there a point of order?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes, it is.

The Chairman: What is your point of order?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The point of order is I am just asking the Minister for—

The Chairman: That is not a point of order. Have a seat.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Well . . .

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and the Honourable Member can ask me questions later.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of information then, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Member. What is your point of information?

POINT OF INFORMATION

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: I am just asking because normally we have numbers in front of us when we are debating . . . tourist figures. We do not have these numbers in front of us and I am just wondering whether the Minister will give us these numbers because he is talking fast and we could not hear it.

The Chairman: Okay. So you have a point of information now?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Yes.

The Chairman: Okay.
Thank you. All right.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I would have no problem providing the specific numbers to the Honourable Member after the debate. If the Honourable Member . . . I heard the Honourable Member—my Shadow—saying I am talking too fast. If he would like me to slow down I can be like my colleague and slow down . . . if—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Minister, just on that particular point, if you could repeat that, that would be great.

The Chairman: Member?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I will repeat it, Mr. Chairman. Again: The Investment Division will be allocated $1,172,633—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I will endeavour to get a copy to the Honourable Members in short order.

- [Again:]The Product and Experience Development Division will be allocated $2,968,026, representing 11.7 per cent of the total expenses.
- The Sales and Marketing Division will be allocated $15,874,558, representing 62.7 per cent of the total expenses.
- The Research and Business Intelligence Division will be allocated $818,057, representing 3.2 per cent of the total expenses.
- The Operations Division will be allocated $4,466,727, representing 17.7 per cent of the total expenses.

Now an overview of the divisions, (and someone is making a copy now Honourable Members). Mr. Chairman, the following is an overview of the BTA divisions:

Sales and Marketing Division

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: 2014 Accomplishments: Shortly after their April 1st beginnings, the BTA participated in the Bermuda Day Event in Washington, DC, which welcomed members of the US Congress, diplomats, representatives from leading non-governmental organisations [NGOs], US business leaders as well as various leaders of Bermuda's government and business community.

In June of 2014, Victoria Isley joined the BTA team as the new Chief Sales and Marketing Officer and immediately began to re-align the marketing strategy for Bermuda Tourism.

A new public relations and social media firm, Turner PR, began working for Bermuda Tourism on June 2, 2014. Throughout the year, 31 US journalists were hosted on-Island generating a $4 million value in positive press coverage for Bermuda. Facebook followers in 2014 increased to 143,894 by the end of the year (an increase of 49 per cent). Twitter followers increased to 13,546 by the end of the year (an increase of 47 per cent).

Also in June, an event hosting 50 travel agent clients was held in Newport, on the Spirit of Bermuda, prior to the Newport to Bermuda Race.

New Partner Marketing guidelines were implemented, where the BTA negotiates a match from the partner (which could include airline, tour operator and media partners). The match can be a combination of cash or "in-kind" services such as:

- access to their customer database;
- advertising directly to their consumers;
- assistance with flight costs;
- point-of-purchase displays and distribution opportunities;
- creative/graphic design services from the partner;

This strategy aims to:

- maximise demand for travel to Bermuda, creating incremental business for BTA's partners and the Island;
- increase air arrivals and bookings to Bermuda;
- maximise revenue for Bermuda and its partners by selling experience and service first, supported by incentives as needed;
- generate inquiries and opt-ins for Bermuda's database for future communication;
- move consumers through a continuum from dreaming about a vacation, to research/planning, booking, experiencing and sharing;
- drive bookings via Bermuda website, OTAs, travel agents, et cetera;
- leverage all available media channels with each selected partner to increase reach and frequency;
- ensure amplification via social sharing and integration;
- ensure reach to key geographies, including New York and Boston DMAs;
- create custom content that BTA will own at the end of the promotion (for example, images, video, et cetera);

In July, the BTA worked with Canadian airline partners Air Canada and WestJet on a co-op campaign to drive visitation from that market (there were two separate campaigns).

A travel trade eNewsletter was launched in July, to keep travel partners updated on all new developments and to ensure Bermuda is top-of-mind.

In August, the X Factor competition, UK competition, was filmed on-Island.

In partnership with British Airways and Fairmont Southampton, the BTA hosted the X Factor judges houses with Louis Walsh . . . and the groups category in August 2014.

Also in August of 2014, Monaco, Switzerland, UK and Ireland DMOs hosted their final Torchbearers event at Fairmont Southampton with more than 100 delegates. The event included senior employees from some of North America's most qualified incentive and meeting planning companies, as well as select corporate end users that have the ability to influence site selection with corporate clients.

BTA sponsored destination experiences and activities, including an evening function at the Royal Naval Dockyard. BTA's partners demonstrated how flexible the destination can be when faced with challenges. A full sit-down formal dinner was deconstructed into a fun interactive food experience at Commissioners House when power was lost at the original venue the night before.

In September, Mr. Chairman, Bermuda hosted ASTA [American Society of Travel Agents].

The BTA presented to 200-plus travel agents and partners during ASTA general session aboard a Norwegian cruise line.

Thirty-plus attendees participated in hotel site tours to Elbow, Cambridge, Rosewood Tucker's Point, Grotto Bay, Southampton Fairmont, Hamilton Princess, Rosedon, the Reefs and Newstead, Royal Palms, Edgehill Manor, Rosemont, Oxford House and ClearView.

The BTA also produced a "Taste of Bermuda" event held in the Victualing Yard showcasing 40-plus Island partners including attractions, hotels, retail, and experiences

[There were] 40-plus vendors throughout the Island who offered reductions in their attractions; for example, 50 per cent off Crystal Caves and Free BUEI.

Transport companies offered on average 20 per cent or more off their rates during that time.

The BTA also organised golf and tennis tournaments at Port Royal and Elbow Beach.

In September the BTA led a week-long sales mission in Toronto, joined by hotel partners, which included meetings with travel journalists, tour operators, travel agents and consumers:

- There were 12 media representatives in one day.

- [There were] 100-plus travel trade representatives over three events.
- [There were] 300-plus consumers at events with Maritime Travel.

The X Factor show aired in October 2014, it:

- achieved 60 minutes of primetime editorial TV coverage;
- generated 440 social media mentions of Bermuda and X Factor during the show's airing time;
- pre and post coverage was achieved across print and online media in titles such as London Evening Standard, OK!, Daily Mirror, Mailonline, Hello! and Metro;
- Bermuda show achieved an advertising equivalency of nearly $13.5 million;
- British Airways reported a 20 per cent increase in enquiries immediately following the show and a 32 per cent year-on-year increase in room nights booked in October 2014.

The BTA sponsored and participated in the North American Tour Operator Summit, hosted by the Bermuda Hotel Association, in October. This event was attended by 22 tour operator partners where meetings were held with local hotels and BTA representatives.

Also in October, the BTA organised a UK Sales Mission with local hotels, and in attendance was IMEX America, the leading exhibition for incentive travel, meetings and events. Meetings were held with 60-plus current or potential partners.

During November, the BTA lent its marketing support to the hotels' Endless Summer promotion and helped to influence $4.1 million in visitor spending during the winter months.

Also in November, BTA established a partnership with Associated Luxury Hotels International [ALHI] to bolster the sales efforts for group business to Bermuda.

In December, Bermuda was announced as the host for the 35th America's Cup in 2017.

The BTA played a pivotal role by providing hotel room block coordination, marketing, technical and production support throughout the bid process.

Towards the end of 2014, the BTA used the brutal winter in the northeast to Bermuda's advantage with a customised digital feature that showed the live temperature readings in the consumer city alongside the temperature in Bermuda. For example, if the weather was 60 degrees or above in Bermuda and 32 degrees or below in New York or Boston the online ad showed the real time weather in both locations and a "Book Now" call to action.

In summary, the BTA has launched a new marketing strategy. The new strategy focuses on experiential travel—telling rich, authentic stories about Bermuda across multiple platforms and mediums. The BTA is leveraging partnerships with media outlets, industry partners, on/off island market influencers to develop high-quality content across video, photo, print, social and digital channels. The strategy is truly inspired by Bermuda. Bermuda is incredibly rich with stunning settings, authentic experiences and great storytellers.

New marketing efforts rely more heavily on visual channels, and traditional advertising is being supplemented by influencer programming, using both on- and off-Island individuals to reach targeted audiences. Initiatives include a mix of digital and print channels and targeting consumers at every stage of their decision-making journey—from dreaming, planning, booking, visiting and sharing their experiences. The BTA worked with partners such as Travel + Leisure and AFAR, YouTube channels Sensation, Tastemade, and Garden & Gun. All of this content, in turn, is used by the Bermuda Tourism digital channels to tell the same authentic story and extend the reach.

Mr. Chairman, we are now looking at the 2015 goals and objectives.

- to build year-round demand within targeted geo/demographic markets;
- execute integrated marketing and sales strategy;
- execute strategy to layer group and leisure demand;
- build capacity to better leverage external partners;
- create new visual/inspirational marketing assets.

Mr. Chairman, the Sales and Marketing team will achieve its year 2 objectives and set the stage for long-term success by continuing to identify the most effective routes to target consumers, and by innovating and redeveloping the sales and marketing approach. The sales and marketing approach focuses on creating sustainable tourism growth in line with the NTP, living by the “Why,” “How” and “What” for the destination, and assisting in the identification and development of the appropriate products, experiences and talent to support growth. The Sales and Marketing team is curating a cohesive and all-encompassing brand promise that goes to Bermuda’s authentic experiences.

The Sales and Marketing division is closely liaising with the Product and Experience Development division to effectively communicate the product and experience offerings of Bermuda and ensure the congruency of sales and marketing campaigns. The Research and Business Intelligence division is providing consumer insights and tracking needed to provide strategic direction to various sales and marketing campaigns and projects.

Mr. Chairman, the current roles within the Sales and Marketing Division are as follows:

- Chief Sales and Marketing Officer;

- Executive Assistant / Office Manager;
- Director of Sales Development;
- Director of Marketing;
- Director of Public Relations (vacant);
- Front Line Ambassador;
- Customer Service Representative;
- Partnership and Promotions Manager;
- Marketing Coordinator;
- Creative Services Manager;
- Digital Manager;
- Production Manager (vacant);
- PR Project Manager;
- Tradeshow and Events Manager;
- Graphic Designer; and
- Four Business Development Managers.

Mr. Chairman, the responsibilities of this division include:

- Marketing:
 - Create and execute a marketing plan that promotes the strategic vision of BTA.
 - Identify aspirations of the defined market segments and communicate said aspirations to the other divisions of the BTA.
 - Focus BTA sales and marketing on market segments with most ROI potential.
 - Seek out and maintain synergistic relations and partnerships that enhance the reputation of Bermuda, improve awareness, refine image, and increase demand.
 - Oversee trade shows and events, ensuring marketing information is on message.
 - Review website development as well as social, and provide feedback on a regular basis.
 - Assist in the day-to-day management of third party agencies or representation companies.
 - Manage the database marketing strategy.
 - Work with hotels to build innovative packages and tactical promotions for current business lines as well as to create new opportunities.
 - Monitor ROI on all aspects of sales and marketing plan, set measurable performance metrics and measure success against those metrics.
- Sales:
 - Identify sales territories, target groups and market segments and delegate responsibilities to division leaders.

- Set strategy, and execute on action plans and key performance indicators.
- Provide feedback on key sales trends and competitor activity.
- Sell marketable experiences and activities packages in line with target audience demand, meeting their price point and expectations.
- Set qualitative and quantitative sales and strategy objectives.
- Monitor and report sales activity and results on a regular basis to ensure our return on investment.

Mr. Chairman, the 2015 budget for the Sales and Marketing Division allocates $15,874,558, representing 62.7 per cent of the fund.

These funds will be used to raise awareness of Bermuda and create demand for the island as a tourist destination. Sales and Marketing will go through a review of strategy and activities, which may impact funding with the reassigning of specific allocations over the course of the financial year.

The main areas of expenditure of the division are as follows:

- Vendor expenses (including PR, Advertising and Social Media) will account for $7.4 million, or 46.5 per cent of the division's budget.
- Sales will account for $1.65 million, or 10.4 per cent of the division's budget.
- Partnership Marketing and Promotions (including Airlines and America's Cup) will account for $3.8 million, or 23.9 per cent of the division's budget.

Achievements in 2014 for the Product and Experience Development Division.

This division established and executed product development investment programmes.

By the end of 2014, two rounds of experience investment applications were conducted. In total, almost $2 million of BTA support was provided to 74 approved submissions: $930,000 in BTA funding was approved in the first round; $813,000 was confirmed in round two, which took place through September and October.

The majority of supported experiences target the shoulder/winter months, now re-positioned as the peak season for arts, culture and sport, and 16 of the second round experiences supported are totally new. This outcome is in line with the strategic objective of helping reduce seasonality in visitor arrivals. It also presents target visitors with new experiences that are market-driven. Another key objective, for example, focused on visitors' desire to enjoy local culture and food, interactive activities and interaction with local residents.

Experiential travel, Mr. Chairman. Round one, for implementation from April 2014:

- The total number of experience investment applications was 135.
- Total approved for support was 33 (and these are broken down as follows):
 - Sports—21;
 - Arts and Culture—11;
 - Natural Resources—1.
- There were nine applications approved for marketing support.

Round two, for implementation from January to December 2015:

- The total number of experience investment applications was 73.
- Total approved for support was 41 (broken down as follows):
 - Sports—10;
 - Arts and Culture—14;
 - New Experiences—17.
- There were seven applications approved for marketing support; and
- There were four applications approved for capital support.

An important new step in round two was providing capital funding support for some applications. This facilitated implementation for new experiences that are highly aligned with BTA's goals, which otherwise may not have been made available to visitors.

Survey results of applicants from round two show that the process refinements that were applied (based on round one feedback) have been effective. The streamlined web-based submission tool for applicants increased efficiencies for applicants and the BTA, without compromising detail of submissions. The BTA introduced phased processing and applicant interviews for deeper evaluation of shortlisted submissions. The BTA also conducted further outreach and education with potential applicants to ensure a clearer understanding of the National Tourism Plan [NTP] objectives and BTA goals. This resulted in a higher quality of applications in round two, showing much greater alignment with BTA's objectives.

Completed process to identify and deliver product enhancement opportunities. The new product development strategic framework was fully established. The framework sets the objectives, strategy and process to identify opportunities for new or enhanced products and experiences. Process and evaluation is based on overall alignment with NTP objectives, and the learning and refinements from the 2014 experience investment applications process. Other inputs to help identify and confirm new/enhanced products are:

- product inventory and gap analysis results;
- new and existing consumer research, to gain better insight into visitor expectations;

- market positioning assessment, in consultation with the Sales & Marketing team;
- stakeholder engagement (public and private sector);
- measurement and quality improvement—ongoing measurement and analysis of return on investment [ROI] and return on experience; establishing baseline for division's KPI [Key Performance Indicator] metrics.

Additional product and experience enhancements identified and confirmed for development work for pilot and/or launch by quarter two in 2015:

- Bermuda Water Trails (this is a new product)—create themed water trails that will provide visitors with an authentic, educational and quality experiences while leveraging and repurposing Hub 5 (Offshore Bermuda) as a new business opportunity.
- Bermuda Arts Month (another new product)—with the extensive art and cultural experiences available on Island, the BTA will work with local partners to highlight and promote new and existing local art experiences. Titled as “Bermuda Art Month,” the series of unique experiences available during this month will kick off the 2015/16 Arts and Culture Season calendar in an exciting new way.
- School Sports Training (a new product)—this will be a signature joint partnership with the National Sports Centre and designated sports focused tour operators with proven track records of delivery to market Bermuda's wide array of sports assets to teams looking to travel to a destination for training. Initially targeting collegiate/prep school teams for spring training in Bermuda with new accommodation/transport/activities packages and to grow this on a year-round basis. Sports will include lacrosse, field hockey, rugby, soccer and swimming and will be expanded as other partnerships materialise (for example, sailing, rowing, and golf).
- Forts Tour (this is also new)—in partnership with the Corporation of St. George's, the BTA has a new twice weekly Forts tour scheduled until the end of quarter one in 2015. This guided and interactive tour describes some of Bermuda's rich fortification history which features storytelling at Gates Fort, Alexandra Battery and Fort St. Catherine.
- Railway Trail experience updates—to implement physical and infrastructure upgrades, as well as excursion and service opportunities, along the Railway Trail; a working group established to address specific actions required, with representatives from relevant government departments. Four sub-groups have been established to focus on sustainability, signage and maintenance, experiences, and repurposing of the trails. Each subgroup has created a timeline of specific projects to work towards with a rollout date of new railway experiences set for March 2015.

Mr. Chairman, I do not know how often you get out to the Bailey's Bay area, but you need to come visit, and especially visit the new railway trail (I am trying to remember the exact name of that trail where they just built that bridge going across)—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Friends of Hope, I have been told is the name of it.

Mr. Chairman, I have been told that since it has been opened it has had over 100,000 people traverse that trail. And I can tell you that whenever I drive by (because I live very close to that trail on Fractious Street) I can see people lined up. It is extraordinary every weekend.

I went and took a walk on that trail and I can say it is probably one of the most picturesque trails in the world. It was stunning—stunning views, Mr. Chairman. And when visitors walk on that rail it is breathtaking. And so I invite all of those who have not experienced the trail . . . and you know what I have found, Mr. Chairman, that as Bermudians we do not experience our products enough. We cannot then be proper ambassadors to our tourists because we do not know what the experience is. There are many people who have never been snorkelling at Church Bay, and I can tell you it is extraordinary to go there and have that experience.

For a long time we have had this belief that tourism excursions are for tourists. But I would urge Bermudians to get involved, do it, become a scuba diver, get scuba diving certification, go out there and enjoy Bermuda's wrecks, go down to the caves and enjoy what Bermuda has to offer, and when you do so, then you will be able to better articulate and market Bermuda to our guests both here and abroad.

Inventory of experiences. The Product and Experience Division also completed compiling the existing range of products and experiences in each hub identified in the NTP. The results have been used to complete a gap analysis, overlaying the product inventory with BTA consumer research to help identify product or experience gaps relevant to Bermuda's target visitor. This also contributes to product development strategy and liaison with Sales and Marketing regarding marketing potential. The process involves using existing and new tools, as well as commissioned research (as required), including:

- Updated visitor exit surveys;
- Specific on-site satisfaction surveys of visitors at BTA-supported events and experiences;

- Review Pro, to measure customer satisfaction and aggregated/individual ratings of a sample of Bermuda hotels which continue to score well on overall service, but lower on value.

During quarter four, the Product and Experience Division worked with Research and Business Intelligence to develop and commission online visitor expectations survey; for example, regarding beach experience and entertainment.

Cruise Ship Strategy. Meetings were conducted with key decision-makers and counterparts at cruise lines in the US, UK, and Europe. This included Royal Caribbean together with representatives from Celebrity and Azamara cruises; Norwegian Cruise Lines; Fred Olsen Line (UK); and AIDA Cruise Line (Germany). The primary objective was to identify partners for regular small ship service to St. George's, and also possibly Hamilton. Opportunities for themed sailings for the America's Cup during regular Bermuda itineraries were also discussed, as well as providing charters to facilitate additional visitor accommodation for the races. Presenting BTA as a new on-Island partner was well received and good interest in the initial proposals regarding small ship service and America's Cup opportunities. Dialogue will continue through quarter one of 2015, and will also cover facilitating America's Cup-specific visitor experiences.

St. George's (Hub 1). The BTA has facilitated new product and strategic planning with town stakeholders, to support BTA cultural tourism strategy development. The first segment of strategic planning process to facilitate collaboration and new ideas among Hub 1 stakeholders engaged 27 representatives from the various stakeholder groups. Consensus around vision for Hub 1 was achieved and the three-year plan provides direction, timelines and detailed action steps for ongoing stakeholder collaboration, product/experience enhancement, cultural asset management and marketing.

The broad range of cultural organisations within the Hub has embraced the plan. Public meetings to share it with the wider Hub 1 community have been held. A steering committee was set to ensure plan implementation. BTA will be represented on that team.

Visitor Information Centre (VIC) upgrades. Infrastructure improvement was undertaken for the St. George's VIC with new layout/design and facilities to increase quality of service and standards for visitors. The BTA completed a full review of the VICs on the Island, which are Dockyard, Hamilton, and St. George's (a VIC is a Visitor Information Centre), in line with current best practice for visitor information services and evolving traveller needs. Key underlying goals are to ensure a high standard of customer service and greater efficiencies are consistently maintained, as well as to potentially generate revenue for the BTA.

Mr. Chairman, let me state that it is the objective of the BTA to take over all of the VICs that we have by the end of 2016. We have fully assumed control of the VIC in Dockyard, and that is because right now it is the primary hub of our tourism, specifically during the cruise ship season there are . . . a large volume of tourists which come through that area. We wanted to ensure that we could create better efficiencies for our tourists, certainly to generate revenue for the BTA, and we are looking forward to making sure that we have that area as operational as possible for the America's Cup, which is going to see very large volumes of individuals in that area.

Cultural Ambassador Programme. Established strategy, achieved St. George's/WEDCO buy-in, and a preliminary framework was developed.

In 2014 we saw a number of high profile sports tourism events take place on-Island. Some highlights are as follows:

- Argo Group Gold Cup;
- Newport to Bermuda Race;
- PGA Grand Slam of Golf. As you know, Mr. Chairman, that will not be coming back.

We enjoyed eight years of hosting the PGA Grand Slam of Golf and I think we did an extraordinary job. We got quite extensive exposure as a result of those events. I believe that Hawaii hosted it for eight years as well, Mr. Chairman. We still maintain a good relationship with the PGA of America and hope that one day they may consider us again. I do know that the BTA is looking at other golf events to bring to Bermuda. I think that golf is an extraordinarily important product for Bermuda. I think we have some fantastic golf courses, and I understand that you are a very good golfer, Mr. Chairman.

[Laughter]

The Chairman: Honourable Member you would be 100 per cent incorrect. I do not enjoy it at all.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Oh, okay. But it is a great sport, Mr. Chairman, I should take you out sometime.

We have wonderful views at Port Royal and of course if you want to go to Tucker's Point, Mr. Chairman, and as you know the first Grand Slam was at the Mid-Ocean Golf Course. And we have some fabulous golf courses at Turtle Hill; they host the Bacardi International there. And we have been told by some great golfers that it is one of the most challenging and picturesque golf courses that they have played on.

So golf is an important product for Bermuda. And I know that the Authority is looking at how to expand that and make golf a primary product during the winter months. I know that we had a Golf Summit, Mr. Chairman, which was well attended. There were the industry leaders in golf—both locally and there were some overseas experts—that were down looking at it and trying to help us to better structure and market our golf product.

- Canadian Accredited Independent Schools Boys Youth [Soccer] Tournament.
- Round the Sound Swim.

Mr. Chairman, I do not know if Members have been to the Round the Sound Swim. I went because my daughter participated in that competition. She has participated twice. She is 12 now but she swam in it when she was 10 and 11. And when she was 10, her first time, she actually decided off-the-cuff to do it . . . like a few weeks before, and she came second in her age group, the first time she went. She is competitive (she gets that from her father). The next year she came in first, Mr. Chairman.

But it is a fabulous event which brings . . . I was amazed at how many former Olympian swimmers that actually come to Bermuda. And it is during a time that could be . . . in fact, the three times that I have attended there is always a little rain. (You know, it is during that time of the year.) But they come here, they love it, and it is a very challenging event. And I think that there is opportunity to grow that event because the individuals that come thoroughly enjoy it.

[Continuing on with some 2014 sports tourism events:]

- International Association of Golf administrators Conference;
- Queen of Bermuda Triathlon;
- Women in Golf tournament;
- World Rugby Classic (which is an annual favourite);
- Bermuda Squash Challenge;
- Gosling's Invitational Golf Tournament;
- Announcement of Bermuda as the America's Cup 2017 host venue; arrival and presentation of the Cup to the people of Bermuda; team visits and initial planning for relocation. And for all those who were involved on that historic day it was a fantastic day to be in Bermuda, to be a Bermudian, to see the thousands of people that came out in celebration of Bermuda hosting the 35th America's Cup.
- Bermuda Marathon Weekend. Confirmed first multi-year agreement will be for two years for investment, based on proven delivery of return on investment and economic impact; 1,000 visitors and approximately $1 million economic impact. This now provides the model for such agreements moving forward under the new investment process.
- The Bermuda Triple Crown fishing tournaments, another popular event with 450 visitors and in excess of $4 million economic impact; began exploring possible expansion of partnership with this experience provider.

Mr. Chairman, the America's Cup (AC). Quarter four of 2014 was the culmination of 10 months of work by the ACBDA bid team, which included two representatives from the BTA, that resulted in Bermuda being chosen as the host venue of the 2017 America's Cup. As a result, Bermuda will also host an America's Cup World Series event in October of this year. Meetings and input covered: infrastructure, site plans, logistics, budgeting, marketing, carrying capacity, transport plans, legislative changes, super yacht policy, race course analysis, on-Island hospitality, marketing activation, public relations, entertainment options, commercial leads, and economic benefit analysis. (I feel like I need to repeat that.) Those were the terms of reference, Mr. Chairman, those were all of the areas that needed to be addressed, that needed to be presented to the America's Cup Event Authority and we had to persuade them that Bermuda was the preferred destination.

The process also included multiple site visits and meetings with the America's Cup Event Authority Team and negotiations to finalise the Host Venue Agreement. Mr. Chairman, I do not like to . . . sort of highlight and isolate individuals because you end up not acknowledging everyone, but I think it would be remiss of me not to acknowledge the hard work of the Minister of Economic Development, the Honourable Dr. Grant Gibbons, who was the Minister responsible for this bid. We have it now and so it has become common parlance, we all talk about hosting the America's Cup, but it was an extraordinary achievement for such a small jurisdiction like Bermuda. And he probably will be remembered for generations for being able to achieve this.

I would like to recognise Ms. Victoria Isley. I have been told by multiple individuals involved (she is head of our New York Office and in charge of sales and marketing), that her presentations as it related to hospitality, as it related to what we are able to provide—capacity and the like—was invaluable. And as well, I would like to mention again Ms. Jasmin Smith who did such a good job, Mr. Chairman, that I am paying the price for that because she has now been seconded to the ACBDA which will be a loss to the Transport Control Department. But Mr. Chairman, I do not know if it is common knowledge (so I am not going to say it) but you and I know that there will be a very suitable replacement in short order.

Mr. Chairman, to enhance the culinary experience for visitors, a plan was put in place to give Restaurant Weeks an update. Restaurant Weeks added new features aimed at promoting Bermuda's food culture and increase awareness overseas and locally via social media. [There were] 30 out of the 44 participating restaurants—the highest number of total participants to date—which provided Bermuda-inspired menus and fusions of local ingredients incorporated into meals.

The new People's Choice feature encouraged participants to vote for their favourite Bermuda-inspired menu and share their experience through a voting process online. Through the extended online exposure/engagement diners and chefs received prizes via the People's Choice Award. And I think they have just finished the process for the dining.

But, Mr. Chairman, I actually took advantage of Restaurant Week and I do not know how many Honourable Members did so, but I would encourage . . . and you know what? Most restaurants when I went there were filled. They were busy so I think it is a good arrangement for restaurants and it is a good deal for diners. And I was going to—and you cannot go to all of them obviously in a week—but I tried to go to a few and I was rating them myself. I actually did not realise about the online voting because I would have voted.

I have to say that (and I am probably going to get myself in trouble) you know, when you are the Tourism Minister and you go out to dinner, at times you are treated very well. But every restaurant I went to was a great experience. But I have to say, because they were restrained to having a Bermudian menu and using Bermudian ingredients and the like (it was a Bermudian theme), it was not like when you go to a restaurant you have the full ambit of the menu.

I went to Harry's and had a second-to-none experience, Mr. Chairman. It was absolutely five star during Restaurant Week. And if I had a chance to vote I would have voted that they were . . . it was absolutely stunning! And I think that we take for granted the quality of our culinary experiences in Bermuda. We have some excellent restaurants, Mr. Chairman, I think they need to be recognised for that. We have been spoiled, Mr. Chairman, I think that we do provide an excellent service when it comes to our dining experience.

The 2015 Goals and Objectives:

- develop signature experiences for shoulder seasons;
- secure new calls by cruise ships to St. George's;
- emphasis on the St. George's product and experience;
- assure product/experience investments align with sales and marketing objectives;
- improve visitor information services on-Island.

Mr. Chairman, the Product and Experience Development Division of the BTA will achieve its Year 2 and long-term goals by continuing to identify and implement opportunities for enhancement of existing tourism product and/or experiences (including tourism events, attractions, activities, sights, monuments, beaches, infrastructure, services, et cetera), or development of new tourism products and experiences anticipated to grow tourism demand throughout all seasons for Bermuda.

Opportunities are being identified through either external partners and entrepreneurs (co-sponsorship program) or the internal initiatives of the BTA. Approved projects receive co-funding from the division's proprietary Product and Experience Development Fund. Investment decisions reflect the BTA's entrepreneurial culture and focus on measurable returns on investment.

The Product and Experience Development Division principally impacts tourism development in the following ways:

- Funding: The Product and Experience Development Division coordinates an application process for tourism stakeholders to receive funding from its proprietary Product and Experience Development Fund for qualifying products and experiences, including real estate and operations, sports and sports experiences, and culture and leisure experiences. The application process occurs on an annual basis in the third quarter of a calendar year.
- Serving the private sector: Through its internal resources, the Product and Experience Development Division assists the private sector in regard to coordination, strategy, training and services related to privately developed products and experiences.
- Coordination with the public sector: This division works closely with government departments such as Parks, Immigration and HM Customs (to name a few) in order to deliver the best experience to Bermuda's visitors.

Mr. Chairman, the Product and Experience Development Division closely liaises with the Sales and Marketing Division to identify market needs and aspirations as well as identify consumer preferences and word of mouth via focus groups and social media (like Twitter, Instagram, Facebook). The Product and Experience Development Division also liaises with the Investment Division to coordinate foreign capital investments into tourism products on Bermuda. Ongoing product and experience development projects are coordinated with the Sales and Marketing Division to ensure proper market positioning of new experiences and products. The Research and Business Intelligence Division provides consumer insights needed to provide strategic direction to various product and experience development areas and segments.

In close collaboration with the Investment Division, the Product and Experience Development Division works with the Government to update hotel concession legislation as needed to support the division's objective of bringing new hotel product to Bermuda for the benefit of the local economy. Concessions to be targeted may include full, partial or temporary relief or deferral of customs duty, land tax, hotel occupancy tax, payroll tax, licensing fees, or immigration related fees.

Mr. Chairman, the current roles within the Product and Experience Development Division are as follows:

- Chief Product and Experience Development Officer;
- Sports and Events Development Manager;
- Culture and Leisure Events Manager;
- Assistant Product Development Manager (2);
- External Coordination Manager.

Mr. Chairman, the responsibilities of this division include the following:

- Translate customer expectations into strategic requirements for on-Island experiences.
- Build trusted relationships with key partners and stakeholders, to build trust and align on strategic initiatives.
- Build and maintain a strong knowledge and inventory of Bermuda's existing tourism products and experiences.
- Analyse Bermuda's existing tourism products and experiences relative to market and competitor tourism product trends and offerings; develop strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats.
- Develop and cultivate relationships with key industry stakeholders specifically inter-government relationships to source and/or support product and experience development opportunities.
- Identify, manage and develop all tourism events and product development strategies in Bermuda through coordination with the individual product managers.
- Strategically explore product and experience development for new demand niches.

The Product and Experience Development Division will be allocated $2,968,026, representing 11.7 per cent of the allocation.

The main areas of expenditure of the division are as follows: Product and Experience funding will account for $1.6 million, or 52.4 per cent of the division's budget. Vendor expenses will account for $0.25 million, or 8.6 per cent of the division's budget.

The Research and Business Intelligence Division [line item] 2014 Accomplishments. New metrics and key performance indicators [were] developed for monthly measurement for Bermuda Tourism including quantity of visitors, source and revenue performance of the Island's hotels. Metrics are now available monthly on BTA's website. More in-depth metrics are available quarterly and include visitor expenditure and satisfaction.

Processing of air visitor landing card data was fully transitioned to the BTA which allows the BTA to have arrival data available more quickly to monitor trends in arrival origin, purpose of trip and demographics of travellers. This also enables the Sales and Marketing team to get more frequent uploads of e-mail addresses for timely contact with visitors.

Implemented two new data tools that assist the organization in the areas of Sales and Marketing and Product and Experience Development

- nSight. Allows tracking of hotel demand (searches) and conversion (bookings) by demographic region as well as customer profile.
- ReviewPro. Aggregates all online travel reviews about Bermuda and can be used for training and standards, product improvements, and identifying strengths for use in marketing.

Quarterly local opinion polls were conducted in 2014. In-depth results of the poll were shared with the staff and are used by the Communications team to formulate their strategy for communication with the public and key stakeholders.

Exit surveys for cruise and air were transitioned to tablets, saving time and money on data collection/entry. This also allowed the BTA to make instant adjustments to the questionnaire as business needs arose.

It rolled out an on-site event and attraction survey programme. All events and attractions receiving funding from the BTA where at least 30 surveys were able to be collected, included a consumer element in the post event report including: satisfaction, likelihood to recommend, type of visitor, length of stay, demographics, et cetera.

It completed a hospitality and tourism forecast for 2014–2024 based on analysis of Bermuda's current position, overall market trends and known future hotel developments.

It collaborated with the America's Cup committee to assess the economic benefit for tourism in hosting the America's Cup in 2017.

It assisted the Investment Division by approximating the losses associated with the decline in tourism over the last 23 years, specifically: visitor spending, taxes, hotel inventory and employment.

It assisted all BTA divisions looking to gain feedback from visitors, stakeholders and industry partners by programming and managing online surveys.

Competitive Destination Analysis completed and revised competitive set implemented based on destinations with similar hotel products, prices, climate, geographic source markets and personas (demographics of people) travelling there.

It conducted research for discussion paper on vacation rental market in Bermuda.

It launched Online Visitor Panel—screening to date almost 10,000 former and current visitors to Bermuda in order to utilise their opinions and feedback as needed on an ongoing basis.

Transportation research was conducted amongst recent visitors covering topics of public transit as well as taxi service.

2015 Goals and Objectives:

- Expanded use of business intelligence across the BTA;
- Identify, manage and execute research and business intelligence projects;
- Tourism statistics collection and maintenance, identifying and implementing efficiencies;
- Update tourism forecast for 2015–2025;
- Communicate research and business intelligence within the BTA and to stakeholders in order to develop strategies;
- Implement mechanisms for measurement of arrivals related to America's Cup events and activities;
- Integrate Business Intelligence and CRM (Customer Relationship Management) systems;
- Conducting on-Island research to gauge perception of BTA and Bermuda's tourism industry among its residents.

Mr. Chairman, this division constantly works with other divisions, not just reactively but proactively in monitoring trends. Business intelligence and research work as tools to help shape strategic decisions, tactical choices, and achieve business objectives. A consistent research strategy and coordinated approach to information sharing is essential among stakeholders. It provides a platform to share information about current trends, new market opportunities, and changing traveller profiles. It should provide up-to-date awareness of market trends, competitive developments and relevant specific market issues.

The Research and Business Intelligence Division collaborates with other divisions within the BTA to guide strategic decisions. The BTA takes advantage of opportunities to share research findings, optimise existing research, and establish new relationships to gain additional market intelligence.

Mr. Chairman, there are currently two positions for this division: Director of Research and Business Intelligence; Research Assistant Manager.

The current responsibilities of this division include:

- Plan and direct research and business intelligence projects to support Bermuda's tourism product development, marketing and investment strategies;
- Evaluate results of research and prepares recommendations to marketing, investment and product/experience development;
- Report on key market trends and changing market conditions, highlight opportunities and threats in order to facilitate informed decision-making by the business;

- Establish an efficient framework for obtaining and disseminating valuable intelligence, and creating high quality, accessible, and timely research for the benefit of all industry stakeholders;
- Maintain and enhance database of all tourism research and statistics;
- Monitor performance in context of competitive landscape.

The Research and Business Intelligence Division budget. Mr. Chairman, the Research and Business Intelligence Division will be allocated $818,057, representing 3.2 per cent of the fund.

Current consumer and market research will account for $0.4 million or 48.2 per cent of the division's budget.

Information Technology software and support will account for $0.1 million, or 10 per cent of the division's budget.

Mr. Chairman, can you advise me on what time this debate started?

The Chairman: At 3:46 pm. I was actually just going to ask you, Honourable Minister, if you are actually intending that we have a debate. You have been speaking for two hours, so—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes, it is a five-hour debate.

The Chairman: It is a five hour debate, yes. Just getting clarification.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: So what time is the debate concluding, Mr. Chairman?

The Chairman: In three hours, at 8:46 pm.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Okay. So there are three hours left?

The Chairman: Yes.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The Operations Division. 2014 Achievements. During 2014, the Operations Division focused on infrastructure establishing controls and procedures around all key financial processes and the "standing-up" of the BTA organisation as well as Destination Marketing Organisation [DMO] accreditation, industry awareness, stakeholder relations, completing documentation and solidifying standards and procedures in preparation for a number of 2015 initiatives, including our first year-end audit, PATI compliance, and the introduction of the National Service Standard Programme.

Human Resources:

- Employees were transitioned and/or recruited and successfully on-boarded;
- A performance measurement process was finalised and BTA employee scorecards completed for all divisions;
- A BTA employee portal was implemented to track all HR activity.

Information Technology. The BTA Information Technology plan, which included BTA current and future technology goals, was completed.

This covered the voice, data and video migration for both Bermuda and New York BTA office locations. The New York office IT equipment was refreshed, completing the IT transition process initiated when the BTA commenced operations in April of 2014.

Training and Standards. The BTA's National Service Standard Programme (NSSP) was presented to stakeholders for input and feedback throughout quarter four and is currently being implemented. The programme has received industry-wide support from all sectors. Administered through the Bermuda Hospitality Institute, the NSSP includes a customised certification program leading to the obtainment of a Bermuda Tourism Ambassador designation for individuals who complete the necessary requirements. Designed to be employer driven in the first year, it is also included as a requirement for recipients of BTA funding through Product and Experiences. To date, nearly 400 employees from nearly 30 companies and organisations have registered for the program and are on track to be certified by April 1st.

On-Island Communication and Stakeholder Relations. As part of the organisation's commitment to transparency, the BTA formalised its schedule for the release of performance data to our stakeholders and the public, and included the introduction of a quarterly conference call with local media to share and facilitate a wider distribution of this information.

Stakeholder Communications. The BTA reaffirmed their commitment to, and devised a written plan for, bipartisan communications with political and civic stakeholders.

Each step in the plan is based on topic relevancy and timing and will ensure the BTA is engaged in continued dialogue with industry stakeholders, as well as representatives from both sides of the political divide, to share information and listen to ideas and feedback about the direction of the industry. And Mr. Chairman, as you would know, the BTA invited representatives from the loyal Opposition to attend their offices and I believe that they attended a staff meeting.

I also attended a similar staff meeting and if they had the same experience that I had, it was most impressive to have the New York office beamed in through the television there [via] the technology, and everyone was well prepared and organised and I was very impressed with the level of professionalism and dedication there. And I was quite pleased that the Opposition went because sometimes you can create, when you do not see and feel something, you can create the image in your mind and quite often that image could be distorted.

It is good to get in there and see the operations first-hand. And I also know that the BTA was invited to the PLP caucus as they were invited to the OBA caucus and gave fulsome presentation on their marketing strategy going forward. And I believe they did the same thing to your caucus as well, Mr. Chairman. And so this just demonstrates their willingness to involve all stakeholders, because the Government as well as the Opposition—we are all stakeholders in this process.

Recognising the shortage of publicly available credible statistical information on the Bermuda tourism economy, performance and other statistical data has been compiled and posted on BTA's corporate website.

The posting of such information aligns with DMO best practices.

The BTA's On-Island Tourism Appreciation Campaign introduced multiple "#lovemybermuda" videos during 2014. The campaign features both locals and visitors expressing what they love and are able to enjoy in Bermuda. The Instagram handle #lovemybermuda forms the basis for easy recognition and is the foundation of a community outreach campaign developed to engage, encourage and call to action through social media channels and public events. The series can be viewed on the BTA's YouTube channel.

Destination Marketing Accreditation Programme. The BTA completed the submission process to gain DMO (Destination Marketing Organisation) Accreditation. DMOs include Convention and Visitor Bureaus (CVBs), Authorities, Tourism Boards & DM's. Of the more than 2000 estimated DMOs operating worldwide, less than 300 are accredited.

DMAP:

- Independent international accreditation programme;
- Established industry accreditation standards;
- Evaluates compliance with the standards;
- Recognises programmes which demonstrate compliance.

To receive accreditation, BTA has to meet 57 mandatory standards across 16 domains including: Governance, Finance, Human Resources, Destination Development, Innovation, Sales, Marketing, Brand Management and Stakeholder Relationships. There are 27 additional voluntary standards throughout the same domains which, while not mandatory, provide significant support to an organisation's application.

The BTA is on track to receive this distinguished accreditation in the second quarter of this year. So they are working towards this, Mr. Chairman.

The Bermuda Tourism Authority Crisis Management Plan was updated in advance of two hurricanes in the fourth quarter and used extensively to prepare our operations, stakeholders and partners sitting on the Emergency Measures Organisation. The plan served the organisation extremely well and was further tweaked following the storms.

Stakeholders were impressed with the level of communication they and the media received from the BTA in advance of, during and after the storm—particularly as it relates to conveying the message that Bermuda was quickly back open for business following the storm. And Mr. Chairman, on the two hurricanes that we had this year in early October, you know, we have heard comments about the fact that the air arrivals were low in comparison to our other years. But I think that it is only fair, Mr. Chairman, to look at it within all of the proper factors and that is:

1. We were transitioning to a Tourism Authority during that year and clearly during a transition there is going to be less attention than what you would normally have. And so it was not the normal type of marketing that you would have at that time. In fact, I believe I said previously that Ms. Victoria Isley did not come on board until June of 2014.
2. And then to have two major hurricanes—a Category 1, which was Hurricane Fay; and then a Category 3, Hurricane Gonzalo—hit us within two weeks is very extraordinary . . . and direct hits at that, Mr. Chairman. And so the impact is not just when the storm hits and thereafter, these types of storms are predicted weeks in advance. People are tracking them weeks in advance and so we saw a precipitous drop of bookings in September, which was still the third quarter and it had a major impact after the storms hit.

I just know if we are going to have an honest debate on this particular year, I think it is important that we look at all of the major factors—these were major events that happened last year. And the anecdotal evidence that I received from quite a few hotel proprietors, Mr. Chairman, is that they lost quite a bit of business as a result.

2015 Goals and Objectives:

- Embed National Service Standard for hospitality industry;
- achieve DMO certification through DMAI (which I just mentioned, that is the Destination Marketing Association International);
- full PATI compliance;
- unqualified 2015 audit;
- end the fiscal year within budget parameters;
- effectively and efficiently managing the organisation from a financial, technical, human relations and administrative perspective so that the BTA can fulfil its mission and manage the BTA budget.

Mr. Chairman, the Operations Division will achieve its Year 2 objectives through budget tracking and funding development, efficient management of internal operations of the BTA across the Bermuda and New York offices, and development of key reports including the annual report, audit, and maintaining a positive, performance-driven employee culture. It is maintaining a first-class working environment while always identifying operational development opportunities and executing strategies to improve operations which will be crucial in maintaining and enhancing operational efficiencies.

The division liaises with the Product and Experience Development, Sales and Marketing, Research and Business Intelligence and Investment Divisions, monitoring the overall BTA budget and operations, and ensuring effective interoffice communication. The Operations Division is implementing a tourism training programme based on best practices. It is fostering pride in tourism through initiatives and campaigns. In addition, the division is responsible for providing operational funding to the BHI which continues to operate with its own independent board. The BHI is co-located with the BTA in order to better align the programme with the BTA mission and objectives.

The Operations Division is also leading the BTA's effort to become a certified DMO. This would put Bermuda in very elite company among other members of DMAI. Just for your background, Mr. Chairman, DMOs are non-political marketing enterprises designed to generate positive economic impact for a given destination by growing the numbers of leisure and business travellers and increasing the amount they spend when they travel.

The current roles within the Operations Division include:

- Chief Operations Officer;
- Front Line Ambassador;
- Director of Finance;
- Director of Public & Stakeholder Relations;
- HR Manager;
- General Accountant (BDA);
- Accounting Assistant (US);
- IT/On-site support (US).

The responsibilities of this division include:

- Human Resources:
 - Ensure the culture and vision of the BTA are manifested throughout the organisation, particularly in the way employees are retained and managed.
 - Instil a human capital development and "coaching" culture through training, development, compensation and benefits, employee relations, performance evaluation and recruiting.

- Finance:
 - Maintain and adhere to statutory requirements including all applicable acts, taxes and laws impacting financial reporting or integrity.
 - Ensure effective internal controls environment.
 - Create regular finance updates to leadership and other ad hoc reporting needs.
- Information Technology:
 - Provide technical and network support to all divisions.
 - Provides on-site technical support and maintain hardware and software inventory.
- Administration:
 - Ensure the physical environment of the BTA is fully supportive of the efficiency and culture of the organisation.
 - Manage administrative and operation functions of the US office with the direction and policies established by the CEO and the Board.
- Tourism Training and Standards:
 - Implementation of the National Service Standard Programme which will deliver 400 trained front line industry employees by start of quarter two of 2015.
- Stakeholder Communications and Tourism Appreciation:
 - Manage public perception of BTA and the tourism industry in Bermuda.
 - Advocacy and stakeholder communications.

Mr. Chairman, the Operations Division will be allocated $4,466,727, representing 17.7 per cent of the total allocation. The main areas of expenditure of the division are as follows:

- Real Estate will account for $0.7 million, or 15 per cent of the division's budget.
- Training Standards and Communications programmes will account for $0.6 million, or 14.6 per cent of the division's budget.
- IT services, payroll, benefits are also allocated within the division's budget.

The Investment Division [line item] 2014. Accomplishments. Mr. Chairman, I heard an interpolation just now, but what we have got going on Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman: Member, do not be distracted.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: —is far more effective than we have seen in many, many years, Mr. Chairman.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Oh, it is certainly not the Platinum Period, Mr. Chairman.

The investment division formally came into being on 17 June 2014 with the hiring of a chief investment officer. [The year] 2014 focused on completing and finalising key legislative framework for submission to the Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport for review and adoption. The outreach to both local and international investors and operators were a core activity and focus. Activities included:

- Attendance at investment and development conferences.
- On-Island meetings were held with the five principal hotels to understand key challenges and opportunities.
- Proposed incentives for new and existing developments were presented to the Bermuda Economic Development Committee.
- Drafted a Cabinet Decision Paper for the new incentives act.

2015 Objectives:

- Rewrite legislation to spur investors to consider Bermuda.
- Improve and expedite the investment process.
- Establish relationship with major and niche hotel brands.
- Strengthen support for existing on-Island hotels and hospitality businesses.

Mr. Chairman, the Investment arm of the organisation is achieving its goals by bringing the new vision of Bermuda to the global investment community including international investors, private equity joint ventures, hospitality funds, and high net worth individuals. Proactive identification, analysis and marketing of feasible tourism investment opportunities is generating momentum in attracting capital for new product, service and real estate concepts. Attendance at investment forums as well as the organisation of events with targeted potential investors is providing networking benefits to communicate investment opportunities in Bermuda.

To further lower the in-bound investment hurdles into Bermuda, the Investment division is assisting foreign investors as an "investment concierge" to navigate local rules and regulations, bureaucracy, market data and research, and investment opportunity identification, effectively reducing their due diligence costs and broadening their market reach.

Finally, the Investment division of the BTA has begun setting up a capital fund programme to make its proprietary capital available for the debt or equity funding of strategic tourism projects in Bermuda.

Roles and Responsibilities. The current roles involve the Chief Investment Officer and Special Projects Intern.

The Responsibilities of the Investment Division:

- Develop and implement overall investment strategy to increase the attractiveness of Bermuda from an investment perspective.
- Coordinate with relevant government entities to develop investment opportunities (for example, Ministry of Economic Development, the BDA, and the BLDC).
- Coordinate with government and industry leaders to increase access to investment opportunities and create a stronger investment climate for tourism in Bermuda (for example, hotel concessions act revision, new tax incentives and exemptions).
- Develop and cultivate relationships with current and potential future investors, including leading local and international investors in public and private sectors.
- Market investment opportunities to parties internal to Bermuda (for example, BTA Board of Directors, Ministry of Economic Development) and external parties.
- Develop and monitor the “red carpet” and “one-stop shop approach” to attracting global hospitality and leisure investors and developers to Bermuda, as well as assisting investors and developers move a project through government channels and approvals.
- Oversee the successful and timely execution of investment transactions including lender selection, due diligence and process management, legal documentation and negotiation.
- Provide strategy financial and legal oversight for value enhancement activities including renovations and asset repositioning projects (for example, hotel room capital expenditures).
- Set up and manage BTA’s budding capital investment fund to invest in qualifying tourism investment opportunities in Bermuda.

Mr. Chairman, The Investment Division will be allocated $1,172,633, representing 4.6 per cent of the total expenses. The main areas of expenditure for the Division will be the Capital Fund, which will account for $0.5 million, or 43 per cent of the Division’s budget.

The Board of Directors (and we are approaching the end, Mr. Chairman). Governance: The BTA governance resides within the Board of Directors. The board is the highest level of approval, responsible for oversight and approval of all major, financial, strategic, legal and risk management decisions. The board is comprised of eight individual members, six who reside on the Island of Bermuda and two members residing in the United States.

Board members have three-year terms and may serve two successive terms. The board is served by an external corporate secretary. The CEO reports directly to the Board of Directors, specifically to the Chairman of the Board. The Chairman has a direct reporting responsibility to the Minister of Tourism Development and Transport. The board is responsible to the Minister for the overall performance of the BTA. The board’s responsibilities include:

- Ensuring good corporate governance, including effective risk management, legal compliance, strategic direction and appropriate structure of the BTA.
- Setting the BTA’s strategic direction, including approving strategies and targets and establishing policies.
- Accountability for monitoring BTA’s business operations.
- Communicating with the Minister of Tourism and other Ministers as deemed appropriate.
- Complying with general government policy as directed by the Minister and according to the BTA’s statutory obligations.
- Ensuring that the performance of the BTA’s functions, and the exercise of the BTA’s powers, are consistent with and designed to give effect to the current Business Plan, the current Annual Operational Plan, and the National Tourism Plan.
- Selecting and monitoring the performance of the CEO.
- Reviewing the performance of CEO.
- Fulfilling the BTA’s long-term vision of becoming self-funding by identifying alternative funding sources.

The following committees have been chartered by the Board of Directors: Revenue Generation Committee (I mentioned this earlier, Mr. Chairman). One of the BTA’s stated goals is to achieve fiscal independence from the Bermuda Government and this Committee has primary responsibility for achieving this goal. The committee will:

- 1) develop and periodically review and assess a set of guidelines to govern activities of the BTA aimed at generating revenue and achieving fiscal independence;
- 2) draft a plan to achieve fiscal independence from the Bermuda Government over a stated timeframe and have that plan approved by the board annually;
- 3) work with BTA staff as needed to implement the committee’s plan;

- 4) establish key performance indicators to measure progress toward the plan's goals and to adjust the plan as needed; and
- 5) report to the board at least annually on the progress of the committee's work set against its stated plan.

Audit and Risk Committee. The purpose of the committee is to establish formal and transparent arrangements to ensure accurate corporate reporting and risk management and internal control practices. The committee will:

- 1) develop and periodically review and assess a set of guidelines to govern activities of the BTA;
- 2) make necessary recommendations for improved controls and mitigation measures;
- 3) work with BTA staff as needed to implement the Committee's controls and measures;
- 4) report to the board at least quarterly on the activities of the Committee in relation to the release of BTA financials to the board; and
- 5) approve and review the annual report and financial statements prior to approval by the board and subsequent release of this information to any key stakeholders external to the BTA.

Compensation Committee. This committee will review best practices within destination marketing organisations (DMOs) to assure that BTA's compensation and benefit packages are competitive with other similar DMOs. Additionally, the committee will periodically conduct compensation surveys to align employee compensation with other DMOs who have budget parameters similar to the BTA.

Mr. Chairman, the composition of the board members includes the following Bermudian members:

- David Dodwell (Chairman);
- Jessica Mello (Deputy Chairperson);
- Mr. Phil Barnett;
- Mr. Peter Everson;
- Mr. Paul Telford;
- Ms. Allison Towilson.

Board members include the following non-Bermudian members:

- Earl Graves Jr., President and CEO of Black Enterprises (which is a media company);
- Allison Reid, Senior Vice President of Real Estate, Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide Inc.

Mr. Chairman, the chairperson appointed by the Minister must have travel and tourism background [and will serve] a term of three years. He may be re-appointed for a further term.

The terms of the board members (including deputy chairperson, there are seven):

- initially appointed by the Minister in collaboration with chairperson and then to be appointed by existing board members;
- represent key areas in tourism and public and private sectors;
- consideration is given to diversity;
- limit of two terms at a maximum of four years each;
- staggered term structure with two members appointed for two years; three members appointed for three years; and two members appointed for four years. This will prevent a material loss of intellectual property from the board at any time.

Committee members are governance focused in nature. The number of members [is] determined by board members as seen fit, [and are] appointed by members of the board; and term is determined by Board.

Mr. Chairman, the outlook for tourism in Bermuda for 2015 is promising and with the hard work of the team at the BTA an increase in arrivals and a positive impact on the tourism and wider economy will be achieved.

We are fortunate, Mr. Chairman. The chairman of the Tourism Authority formerly sat on the Tourism Board appointed by the previous Minister. He has been in tourism for many years. His property has received numerous awards, Mr. Chairman. But beyond that I can say that I have never met someone who works so hard, is so committed, Mr. Chairman. I get e-mails at all times of the day from the chairman . . . early in the morning . . . I hope I have his energy when I get to his stage as well, Mr. Chairman, because he loves Bermuda, is passionate about tourism, and we are lucky.

I say to him all the time that certainly one of the best things I did after becoming the Minister was appoint him as the chairman. And we are also very fortunate, Mr. Chairman, to have all of the staff that we have at the BTA. But we have an outstanding CEO. This man has an amazing résumé. He turned tourism around in Washington, D.C., after the 9/11 attacks, Mr. Chairman—a tremendous task.

And whomever I bump into internationally when I mention his name, particularly in the United States, they know who he is. And so we are fortunate to have him, we are fortunate to have Ms. Isley as well, someone else who came with impeccable credentials, Mr. Chairman. All of the executives that I mentioned earlier, are dedicated, hard-working staff at the BTA. The BTA is our organisation. Tourism is the future of Bermuda. And I encourage all of Bermuda to rally behind the revival.

Thanks you, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister, for that very thorough presentation.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 29, and the Shadow Minister for Tourism, Mr. Zane De Silva.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to finish where the Honourable Minister . . . I would like to start where the Honourable Minister finished off.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, I am not going to do that.

Okay, all right. I certainly agree with the Minister that the team at the BTA is a good team. In fact, they are an excellent team. As he said I had the honour and privilege of meeting with them on several occasions. So there is certainly no disagreement there, Mr. Chairman.

And let me state for the record that we on this side support the Bermuda Tourism Authority in everything—

[Desk thumping]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: —in everything that they have done and continue to do. So let us not be confused.

The challenge we have, Mr. Chairman, is with the structure. That is all we have. We have a challenge with the structure. If the Bermuda Tourism Authority raised all their money, Mr. Chairman—all of it on their own—that would be okay, that would be fine. But they do not. They receive funds from the taxpayer. And the taxpayers of this country deserve to know where their money is going. That is all we say, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, if you look in the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for this year you will see nothing in terms of a breakdown as to where the money is going from the Government to the Bermuda Tourism Authority. Now the Minister gave a nice detailed breakdown. It would be nice if he would put those in . . . summary . . . he gave a summary. But it would be nice to see it in the [Budget] Book, Mr. Chairman, so that not only us in this House but the taxpayer—the Bermudian people—can see how their tax dollars are being spent.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of clarification, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Member, you will yield?
Honourable Minister.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I just want to make the point that this is a grant. And grants are not new in government budgeting. We provide multiple grants—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I said point of information.

The Chairman: Or clarification.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: We provide multiple grants and we do not provide those types of details for any grant, as the Honourable Member would know. So I hear what he is saying, but it is a grant and you do not have that type of detail with grants.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

The Chair recognises the Honourable Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I hear the Minister, Mr. Chairman, but this is a Government that sticks [out] and beats their chest every week about transparency, transparency. Where is the money going?

I mean, Mr. Chairman, the Minister quite clearly stated that the BTA gave out $813,000 to tourism-related businesses earlier last year. Now, you see, that is fine. But when we ask the question, where did that money go? How much went to each entity? Nope, it is not forthcoming. And some of the people in this country would like to know. They would like to know.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Minister.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. Mr. Chairman, information is provided on the website of the BTA in terms of how much money is dispersed.

Mr. Chairman, I have been asked numerous questions in this Honourable House for specifics. Just this morning I was asked in relation to specific programmes the amounts and the principals, and that information was provided.

The Chairman: Thank you, Minister.

The Chair recognises the Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The drip-feed process is what we are getting, Mr. Chairman. Drip-feed . . . drip-feed. We asked back in this Honourable House . . . Mr. Chairman, I could bring out my Hansard when the Minister brought that information to this House with regard to the $813,000. He gave an amount and he said a “range” of where it was going. We asked the question then and since . . . and he did give this morning some specifics. But let us . . . If you are going to post it on the website, post everything—every amount for every entity that receives funding.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of information, Mr. Chairman.

I have been advised—

The Chairman: You may want to . . . yes.
The Chair recognises the Minister.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Thank you. I have been advised that the BTA has been providing detailed financial reports on a quarterly basis on the BTA website.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.
The Chair recognises the Honourable Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, Mr. Chairman, I tell you what, if that is the case I will gladly apologise and pull that. But I tell you what, Mr. Chairman, I am yet to find—

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Honourable Member, your point of order is?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The Honourable Member is misleading this House.

The Chairman: Which Honourable Member?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The Honourable Minister.

The Chairman: Yes?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Detailed information is not provided on the website—detailed information.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member.
The Chair recognises the Honourable Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And we did not get a point of order to that, which is exactly what I said five minutes ago.

You see, Mr. Chairman, the Minister should go on the site from time to time and have a look for himself, rather than rely on information that may not be absolutely correct.

Mr. Chairman, I thank the Honourable Minister, he did give me a printout, and I thank him for supplying that information with regard to the breakdown of some of the money. And it is the Investment Division, the Product and Experience Development Division, Sales and Marketing, Research, Operations.

Mr. Chairman, one of the questions . . . and see this is . . . when I talk about we should have a breakdown in the Budget Book, it says for Sales and Marketing Division will be allocated $15.8 million, representing 62 per cent of the total expenses. See, the challenge we have over on this side, Mr. Chairman, is . . . I got you, $15.8 million for sales and marketing. But how much of that $15.8—and this is a question I will put to the Minister. How much of that $15.8 [million] is actual marketing money? I am not talking about wages. I am not talking about admin costs—marketing dollars. Is it one million? Four million? Five . . . 10, 15? How much of it is actual marketing dollars? That is an important figure. It is an important number, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, these divisions that the Minister very nicely handed out to us total about $25 million. And out of that $25 million, Mr. Chairman, we have five staff that make a quarter of that amount—five staff—which is about 20 per cent—about 10 per cent. If you add in all the extras it is about 20 per cent.

So, Mr. Chairman, that of course is not including . . . for the sake of the Minister I have not included bonuses in that. It is about $1.3 million. The top five executives make about $1.3 million, okay? And if you put in the bonuses and you put in the taxes and things you are probably looking like it is about . . . you know, 10 per cent of the budget.

So, Mr. Chairman—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Minister.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: And, Mr. Chairman, I will confess, one of the reasons why I did law was because I did not like math.

The Chairman: That cannot be your point of order.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: No, no, but, Mr. Chairman, $1.3 million is not 20 per cent of $24 million.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, no, I said 10 per cent.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yeah, yeah, yeah, that is why he is a lawyer.

What I did say . . . what the Minister did not hear me say—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Chairman, did he say he had a point of order?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: —that was—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: It is the 10 per cent, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Gentlemen. Will you both take your seats?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Okay.

The Chairman: So I am going to recognise the Honourable Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I just think we need to be careful because I understand the Honourable Member, his point that he is trying to make. But it is not 10 per cent.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: How much is it?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: It is less than 5 per cent, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr.—

The Chairman: Wait a minute. No, have a seat, Honourable Member.

We are going back and forth.
Member, you may proceed.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Point of order, Mr. Chairman, I have a right for a point of order.

The Chairman: You do.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Absolutely right!

The Chairman: What is your point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: The Honourable Member is misleading this House.

The Chairman: Yes, how so?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: That he excludes the information for all the other benefits that go with this, the $1.3 [million] is for . . . he excludes health insurance, all those type of things.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Chairman: Shadow Minister, would you like to proceed?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

What the Honourable Minister missed when I was giving a breakdown . . . he was talking so he was not listening. So I will repeat for his edification.

What I said was that the top five executives make $1.3 million, and if you throw in the bonuses and if you throw in their taxes and these things they could get up to 10 per cent—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I did. But you were not listening. You were talking, I watched you. And then you got up and gave a point of order.

Listen, Minister. I listened to you for three hours. So you have got to listen . . .

Well, I went to the little boys' room once or twice, but I sat here and listened to you. So if you are going to do a point of order, if you are going to sit there, you must listen.

So the only reason I bring that up, Mr. Chairman, is because that has been a focal point for some time . . . the amount of money that is spent on certain things in the Tourism Authority office. And, Mr. Chairman, I just want to bring out one stat when it comes to . . . because, again, we have to do our own guesstimates as best we can in terms of doing comparisons.

I looked in the Budget Book for 2012/13 and there were 49 staff at the Department of Tourism and the salaries were $4 million a year—approximately $81,000 per person. That is what it worked out to be. The BTA staff at present are at about $160,000. Now, I stand to be corrected, because we do not have the exact number, but just doing a little mathematical educated guess, I would say.

So, Mr. Chairman, when we are expecting our people—our civil servants—to take furlough days and we are expecting everyone (as the OBA likes to say, shared sacrifice) to share sacrifice, that is what I would like to see. That is what we would like to see on this side, some shared sacrifice when it comes to how money is spent in that regard, Mr. Chairman.

One thing I did take note of, Mr. Chairman, was when the Minister said that he has many challenges—the BTA has challenges, he has challenges. That is the Minister, and I understand that. But one thing that he said that I have to make note of—and I cannot wait to get Hansard because, you know, I love Hansard. I look at it . . . and every time we get it, I go through it with a fine tooth comb. I love Hansard. It is one of my hobbies. But the Minister said that many countries are still struggling from the world recession.

Now, Mr. Chairman, you heard since this debate started how the world recession has long been over. Bermuda is the only one in recession. We heard that loud and clear. So I thought it was very interesting that during this debate and because of the challenges that we face in tourism the Minister says that there are many countries still struggling because of the world recession. So a good note for not only us to make, but for the public who listen to our debates on a regular steady basis.

Mr. Chairman, I would like to move on (just give me a second to flip through my notes). I hope the Minister made note on the actual marketing figure because that is important, very important going forward, Mr. Chairman. And I am going to keep that question on the side because I know . . . I am hoping that he has time. We certainly have a bit of time. I am hoping he has time at the end of the day to answer a few questions that might be raised.

Now one thing, unless I missed it, Minister, but I did not hear you talk about the Diaspora and the fact that we used to . . . we used to participate in the ADHT [African Diaspora Heritage Trail] programme very heavily in the past. And if the Minister can, [will he] let us know what is happening with the Diaspora and what the plans are? Does the BTA have any plans for us to participate? Have we pulled out of it? Has it stopped? Do we not participate in that anymore? Because I will inform you, Mr. Chairman, and the Minister and the BTA, that St. Lucia . . . just this last week St. Lucia announced that they are looking at the Diaspora market to pump up their tourism numbers. And it is for good reason.

If you know the history of it (I am sure you do, Mr. Chairman) that does have potential to draw tourists to Bermuda. So I do not know if the funding has been cut, if it has been wiped off the agenda, if it has gone down the priority list . . . I do not know. I did not hear the Minister mention it in his brief and I thought that it was very important.

Now not only do I think the Diaspora is important, Mr. Chairman, but so does the Minister because in a ministerial brief during the budget of 2012/13, and again in 2013/14, the Minister himself said in his brief (and I have a copy of it here) . . . he said, with your indulgence, Mr. Chairman, “You may recall that Bermuda is the home of the ADHT Foundation, an organisation that is vital to the continuance of development of the Diaspora Trail, as well as on the local level, teaching and preserving a part of our country’s history.” That is from the Minister himself.

Now, Mr. Chairman, for a statement like that to be made by the Minister and then for this foundation to be . . . and again, I stand to be corrected. I did not hear anything in his speech with regard to the ADHT or the Diaspora, so maybe . . . again, I will put this over with my questions to be answered and hopefully we can get an answer on that, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, one other thing I wanted to mention was the Minister talked about the staff and them working over Cup Match. Now, I did not hear the Minister say that they worked gratis. I did not hear him say that they worked for free. And Mr. Chairman, I know some of this former staff at the Department of Tourism. I did quite a bit of work. I acted for the former Tourism Minister, Premier Brown, many times, so I am familiar with a lot of the staff. And I agree. We have a lot of hard-working staff, not only in Tourism. I am sure the BTA staff, they fall in that category too. They are working hard, we know that. And so do . . . in the Department of Health, I know that those girls worked one night when I was there as Minister at 6:30–7:00 at night they were still working—on Valentines’ Day (not that they did not have any dates, you know). They were dedicated to their work.

So I just wanted to say that, you know, the Minister seemed to really dwell on that point that they working up at Cup Match whilst everybody else was having a good time. And we appreciate—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Minister.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Chairman, I do not know if the Honourable Member misunderstood me, but I was not just talking about the employees of the BTA, I was making the comment—

The Chairman: What is your point of order?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: —that the Honourable Member is misleading the House.

I think he misunderstood me. Employees, historically in Tourism . . . talking about how passionate we are. In the Department of Tourism, we have been doing this for years. And it has been continued on with the BTA. So I was not just singling out employees of the BTA.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

The Chair recognises the Honourable Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

But it certainly seemed like he was not just talking about them, but he did not mention anybody else. He talked about them; so I am talking about them. And whilst we appreciate what they do, they get paid for it, Mr. Chairman, as do many other Bermudians who work holidays day in and day out.

I worked over Cup Match, Mr. Chairman, for about 15 or 20 years in the cycle rental business with my stepfather. Every Sunday, every public holiday I was working. The only difference was I did not get paid. But you know, that is how it goes.

But, Mr. Chairman, I would like to continue on if I can, on marketing. And I just want to bring out a few things. The Honourable Minister talked about Cup Match. And I know last year there was a challenge with Cup Match. I think the organisers of Cup Match had requested a sum of money, and whether it was the Minister or whether it was the OBA Cabinet, I know that the offer they made was some . . . I think it was 75 per cent less than what they requested. Let us throw the number out there: I think it was 75 per cent, Mr. Chairman. And I think the offer came from the OBA to give them 25 per cent.

I hope that the Minister and the Bermuda Tourism Authority, especially since they like to hand out money to entrepreneurs, people in the tourism-related business . . . a tent gets blown away and we give them $180,000 to fix it—$180,000 to fix a tent! And, Mr. Chairman, we cannot give $75,000 to Somerset Cricket Club or St. George's for Cup Match, which is another heavy-related tourist festival atmosphere.

So, Mr. Chairman, I would implore the Minister and the Tourism Authority to give that some serious consideration this year. Everyone in this House has been to Cup Match, Mr. Chairman. Everyone. For them to not get the support that they felt they required. And I think they turned it down at the end of the day, Mr. Chairman, if I remember correctly, because I think they were insulted, quite frankly.

Mr. Chairman, I certainly know that . . . the Minister did not go into detail, but he talked about golf and how important that is to Bermuda. And he will know that I am an avid golfer. I cannot play as well as I used to, Mr. Chairman, but I can still knock it about. But we have ambassadors and world-class golfers like Bill Longmuir, Barry Lane, who were in Bermuda last year and I understand they are coming back this year, Mr. Chairman.

Again, I would point out and ask the BTA to look at talking to these gentlemen when they come to Bermuda. They are both from the UK and spend a lot of time in Europe. In fact, Barry Lane (I do not know how he finished two weeks ago) . . . Barry and Bill both not only made the cut, but I think Bill at one stage was in 6th place and Barry was in 1st place on a Senior Tour event in Europe. All they do these days is play in the audit tournament. But most of their business is doing corporate business and they mix, play and associate with some very influential people, Mr. Chairman.

I think if we are going to input money and invest money in products and entrepreneurs and different marketing avenues, I think that these two fellows, in particular, should be in that picture. They have been around a long time and know a lot of people.

Mr. Chairman, again, I do not know if the Minister touched on this, and if I missed it, he can certainly let me know. The Tourism Authority used to—and maybe he can correct me and help me out here. We used to have an entertainment subsidy that we gave to the hotels. I am not sure if that is still ongoing. If it is not, then I think we should because I think that is important for the hotels to . . . and I know it is close to your heart when it comes to locals entertaining our visitors, Mr. Chairman. So I would hope that that is something that is on the agenda. If it is not on the agenda, it should be put back on the agenda because that is something that we used to do, and I think it bore a lot of fruit for Bermuda.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I have got to take this time to . . . if we are talking about marketing, I think we have to get Bermuda where it . . . one of the things we have to concentrate on, maybe the BTA is doing it. I know that one of the things on the agenda is convention business, golf business and all sorts of other social media programmes. But we have got to try and pinpoint families when it comes to Bermuda and try to develop Bermuda as a dream destination. If Las Vegas can do it, we should be able to do it, Mr. Chairman. Because Las Vegas now realised that there is a market for families.

Mr. Chairman, British Airways made an announcement today. I do not know if you received it. I certainly did. They made an announcement today that they are going to start another flight to Turks and Caicos [Islands]. All of our partners or friends and family down in the south seem to be doing well. Most of them had increases in tourism visitors last year—most.

I tell you what, the entire Caribbean as a whole had a record year in terms of visitors. They had a record year, most of them between five . . . I say most, but not all of them had increases. But many did and there was between 5 [per cent], 18 [per cent] and 28 per cent increase in tourist arrivals, Mr. Chairman.

What I think we have to do is find out why British Airways flies over Bermuda to go to our competitors in the south. Now, I think it was the CEO who said that he was going to concentrate on the US. And I do not disagree with that. And I know our numbers were up coming from Europe this last year. But we have to find . . . yes, they were, yes.

So what we have to do is we have to find out why . . . constantly we have visitors flying over Bermuda, past us, to go to our competitors. We have to do that.

Mr. Chairman, whilst I am on airlines, I understand that the Tourism Authority has cancelled the Airport Tourist Exit Survey. And they have cancelled the physical survey—sitting down and talking to our tourists that are leaving. And they are going online. Now, we know that social media is taking over and whatnot, but I think that is a mistake, Mr. Chairman. I do not think that you can get the feel, and I do not think you will get the participation from our tourists and their experiences here like talking to them face to face.

I think that if what I have heard is true, then I think that that needs to be changed. As you know, Mr. Chairman, you can go online and fill out, or you may not at all. But one thing is, if you have got someone sitting in an airport, most times they do not have too much to do. So what are they to do? Sure, I will. I have seen them. I am sure everyone in this House has been to the airport and seen the folks who do the surveys talking to tourists on their way out. So if that is the case, we need to change up.

Now, let us talk about the budget for just one moment. And let us . . . Mr. Chairman, our Shadow Finance Minister talked a little bit about tourism during his Reply and a few things he said I think are worth repeating. And I will read one of the things that he said on page 13: “Mr. Speaker, 2014 was a bad year for tourism as we saw air arrivals sink to the lowest level since 1966. This, however, should come as no surprise as last year saw government spending on tourism promotion dip to the lowest level in 34 years.”

Even the Minister talked about how tourism figures have been in the doldrums for 20, 30 years. But yet the Finance Minister decides to cut the Tourism budget by $1.6 million—$5 million last year, $1.6 million this year. And you might have heard me say earlier about pinning the tail on the donkey.

Mr. Chairman, we want the tourism product . . . the Minister said it. The tourism product is important; it is vital. The Finance Minister also said how vital tourism is to Bermuda. How the life can the advertising budget be cut? [It is] $1.6 million out of the budget this year; $5 million last year. We are doing it . . . I cannot say that backwards, but we are doing it “donkey” backwards. Mr. Chairman, we are doing it backwards. We cannot expect to say that this is a vital part of our existence, a vital part of our future, a vital part of our sustainability, and then we cut the marketing budget.

The UBP/OBA chastised us many times. And I have to say UBP because in 2007 there was no OBA. And most of the OBA Members now—not most, but many of the OBA Members now—were part of that UBP that chastised the Government (when we were Government), chastised us for hiring the company by the name of GlobalHue. They chastised us for that, Mr. Chairman. But it just so happens that under that marketing agreement—

The Chairman: Honourable Member, you want to hold on just one second?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Sure thing.

The Chairman: You can proceed.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

It is funny when you hit home you always get the chirping from next door. But, Mr. Chairman, let me repeat that. In 2007 we had the highest amount of visitors ever to come on this Island—ever in our history. It was a record year for visitors and that was because we had a company by the name of GlobalHue that did our marketing. Yes, a world renowned marketing company.

Now, Mr. Chairman, if the BTA was a business and you and I bought it tomorrow and we looked at some of the statistics of Bermuda what do you think we would look at? Well, when did we have our most successful time? Well, it was 2007. But what were we doing then? What was our marketing strategy? Has the BTA talked to GlobalHue? Have the OBA talked to GlobalHue? Probably not because the rumour is that he is a friend of Dr. Ewart Brown’s.

Well, Mr. Chairman, I would say put that myth aside for a moment. If I was the BTA I would talk to and get GlobalHue down here. Maybe while the CEO is overseas now he can make a little nip across . . . maybe the Minister can find . . . he knows how to get a hold of Dr. Ewart Brown. Call him. Find out his number and get a hold of him. Set it up, if we really want tourist numbers to increase in this country, if we really want them to increase.

And just to emphasise the point that the Shadow Finance Minister, David Burt, made, he said look at the historical numbers, Mr. Chairman. In 1990 Bermuda invested $27 million in tourism. That is more than we spend today, Mr. Chairman. More than we spend today. And if you adjust for inflation it would take $49 million today to have the same impact that the $27 million had 25 years ago.

Now, you do not have to be . . . the Minister said that he did not do math. He was not good at it, so he became a lawyer. Well you do not have to be a math scientist to figure that one out.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: You really want to make a point of order?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I do, yes.

The Chairman: What is your point of order?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I did not say I did not do well in it; I said I did not like it.

The Chairman: Thank you, Minister.
You may proceed.

[Crosstalk]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, he did not do as well in math as he did in his lawyer's work.

But, Mr. Chairman, we talked about earlier the departure tax and what effect that is going to have on the Tourism Authority's challenge and marketing strategy going forward.

Mr. Chairman, why did United cancel flights to Bermuda for the first time in our history? It is all economics, in 'it? They cancelled for the first time in the our history! United Airlines cancelled flights to Bermuda, the first time in our history. But then we have United cancelling flights, we have Delta cancel flights, Air Canada cancelled flights, tourism numbers are down 5 per cent, visitors are down for last year—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: —hotel beds are down 7.5 per cent.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And see, as soon as I start putting those numbers out there, I think of who is in charge. I start thinking about who is in charge, Mr. Chairman. And it is the CEO of the Bermuda Tourism Authority, Bill Hanbury.

As I have said many times already, I do not have an issue with paying somebody a good wage for producing results. I have an issue, Mr. Chairman, as some of us in this House have run businesses, I have an issue with paying top dollar and not getting results. I have an issue with that. I have a big issue with that.

But here we are. We have cut the budget. We have cut it by $1.5 million when we should be increasing it maybe by $10 million, $11 million or $12 million. And you know I said just a couple of nights ago we should be taking the $11 million profit down at the airport and giving it to the BTA and letting them market our country, okay? But we turn around and, in spite of that, we increase the departure tax by $15.00 a head and then we wonder why airlines are flying over Bermuda and going to our competitors.

Mr. Chairman, when our budget is the lowest it has been . . . and the Minister is like bragging about it—our budget's the lowest it's been in 30 years—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Minister.

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is now intentionally misleading the House, okay? He cannot find any statement where I have bragged about it. I have been clear in this House that I fought for more funding, but we do not have it. If we want to start having this debate . . . and the Honourable Member knows why we do not have it—because we are broke—

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: —because of the PLP.

The Chairman: Honourable Minister.

The Chair recognises the Honourable Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I tell you what, he might have had battles in Cabinet, but he said here—and Hansard will show it—just a couple of hours ago how . . . and this is what he said, We have a budget, (right?) that is the lowest in 30 years.

And this is what else he said, We're doing more with less.

Do you remember that, Mr. Chairman?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I do, I wrote it down.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order.

That is when the Honourable Member must have gone to the bathroom—

The Chairman: And the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER
[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. If he wants me to repeat what I said, I was giving credit to the BTA being able to perform as well as they have and in accordance with the compliments given to the BTA by the Shadow Finance Minister that they are doing good work, that they are operating with professionalism and they are doing it with a reduced budget.

Is it ideal? Is it ideal, Mr. Chairman? No.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: But it is the reality.

The Chairman: Thank you.

The Chair recognises the Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: They are doing more with less, but, unfortunately, Mr. Chairman, unfortunately—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, I did not say that—

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Minister.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Mr. Chairman, I did not say that. I said they are doing an excellent job with a reduced budget.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.
The Chair recognises the Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. They are doing a good job with a reduced budget. Okay. All right . . . 5 per cent airlines are down, hotel beds are down—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: All the numbers are down, Mr. Chairman. All the numbers are down.
Well, you know—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The numbers are down . . . the numbers are down.

[Gavel]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Mr. Chairman, you know what? Quite frankly—

The Chairman: Honourable Member, have a seat for a second.

I know we all respect each other when we speak and we are going to continue. So the Chair recognises the Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you. Thank you, thank you.

No matter how you slice it, no matter how you slice it, no matter how you slice it, Mr. Chairman, our visitor numbers are the least amount in 44 years. But you know what I say? And . . . I go to the top and this is no slight to the BTA. I said I really applaud them for the work they are doing. But when I look at failing numbers and non-performance—

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order.

The Chairman: Your point of order?

The Chair recognises the Honourable Minister.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. He said our visitors were the lowest—the air arrivals. The air arrivals—not the total numbers. When you talk about 2007 you are talking about totals.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Got you. I agree, I agree.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I agree with the Minister. Yes, air arrivals are down. Thank you for pointing that out. So air arrivals are down—the lowest amount that we have had since 1966.

So percentages are down, air arrivals are record low, bed counts are down. Let us give the CEO another $100,000 a year and maybe he will improve.

You know, you see . . . and then what really boggles my mind, Mr. Chairman, is I hear things like this being said by the CEO and the Chairman of the Board. He is guilty too of this comment: The economy is turning around. Bermuda is back in the tourism game. Things are getting better, confidence is returning, tourism is on the rise.

Mr. Chairman, I could show you newspaper clippings from the CEO and the Chairman . . . here it is . . . look . . . the turnaround has begun. This is from David Dodwell on August 11, 2014. So the turnaround has come, tourism is on the up, we are excited. I would not be so quick to come out in public and say I am excited. I would be excited when I get my pay cheque every week, Mr. Chairman. But should we accept that? No. When our people are being asked to take furlough days we are issuing $180,000 for a tourist-related company to fix a tent!

We are paying some board members $20,000 a year! That is what we are doing. What happened to the days when we had board members that worked for the love of their country, like we have many other board members that sit on many government boards that work every week? And I will put my hand up. I used to sit on a board, Mr. Chairman. And I will tell you what, I used to work and put in 20, 30 hours a week, Mr. Chairman.

There are many Bermudians that care and take their board positions seriously. How many board members in this country would like to get $1,000 an hour for meeting? How many?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, they did not make that much. No, sir, they did not get close.

But, Mr. Chairman, let me say this. Where could that money be going? That money should be going into marketing. And if people really cared about their country they would say, Listen . . . because they only had 12 meetings last year. Twelve meetings, $20,000. Do the math. Pick the number how many hours they sat in a meeting. Do the math, Mr. Chairman, $300, $400, $500, if it was an hour meeting; $1,000 . . . $2,000 per meeting? And we are telling people in this country to take furlough days?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And the Honourable Member mentioned Port Royal. Well, you know what?

An Hon. Member: That's coming.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is coming. And, like I said, I cannot wait for that one, Mr. Chairman.

But you know what? The Honourable Member Pat Gordon-Pamplin just said Port Royal, but she did not have any problem giving the late Louise Jackson a $30,000 contract for six months. What did she do in that six months?

Talk about Port Royal now! Come on!

An Hon. Member: Bait and switch.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: You see? Yeah, bait and switch, yeah—$30,000 for six months—

The Chairman: Honourable Member. Honourable Member, you might want to re-focus on tourism.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. Yeah.

Well, I am, because you see that is how it all ties in, Mr. Chairman. I want to focus on tourism, but they are not getting the money they want—$30,000 here for one of my friends to be a consultant, because I do not know what I am doing? I want to hit the road running, she said at the time. But you are going to have someone that is going to guide you that has never been a Health Minister or Senator for Health.

Do you see what I am saying, Mr. Chairman? But that is why I say this all has an effect. Like they always say that the Progressive Labour Party's financial watching of the purse strings . . . okay?

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Point of order, Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: I recognise the Honourable Minister, Pat Gordon-Pamplin.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I was hoping the Honourable Shadow Minister would have some—

The Chairman: And your point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: My point of order is the Honourable Member is misleading the House.

I thought that he would have some correlation between $30,000 and $6 million at Port Royal.

The Chairman: Member.

The Chair recognises the Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is an idiotic statement, Mr. Chairman, because she does not know what she is talking about.

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. Zane J. S. De Silva: Now . . . now, we can agree . . . we should leave Port Royal alone—

Hon. Mark J. Pettingill: Point of order, Mr. Chairman. That is just entirely inappropriate—

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Honourable Member.

POINT OF ORDER

[Inappropriate or unparliamentary language]

Hon. Mark J. Pettingill: That is entirely inappropriate and unparliamentary language.

The Chairman: Member, you may want to withdraw that comment.

Hon. Mark J. Pettingill: He needs to withdraw that.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I may want to, Mr. Chairman. But the Honourable Minister, if she knows, she should not be even talking about Port Royal—

The Chairman: Member—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: She should not be—

The Chairman: Member—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Because it is before the . . . but I will pull that back. I will pull that back.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: But I think the point was driven.

But, Mr. Chairman, let me move on. The Honourable Minister talked about, and he highlighted the Bermuda Tourism Authority using Twitter, Instagram, Facebook, which I will have to confess, I am not a techy, I do not do Twitter. I do not do Instagram and I do not do Facebook, Mr. Chairman. My children do, a lot of my colleagues do, but I do not.

But, Mr. Chairman, having said that, and I do not know if this Minister . . . I do not know if this Minister or this Bermuda tourism board . . . and I will declare my interests, first of all, because I want to talk about an entertainer by the name of Collie Buddz.

An Hon. Member: Declare it.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I just declared my interest. You are not listening. You know?

[Pause]

[Mrs. Susan E. Jackson, Chairman]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, I did. You know, you have got a Minister . . . you have three Ministers . . . no, you have a former Minister—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. Yes, yes, yes, it is not the point.

Madam Chairman, Madam Chairman, let me say it again. I will declare my interest and talk about Collie Buddz, my son-in-law. Okay? Now I have said it. Well, the good thing is that now I have got everybody's attention, because I think we all know who Collie Buddz is.

Well, let me just give you a few numbers. Collie Buddz has 69,000 Twitter (what do you call them?) followers. He has 31,000 Instagram followers, and he has 385,000 Facebook followers.

An Hon. Member: Or Likes.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Or Likes. I will stand to be corrected, because I know the Honourable Member Nandi Outerbridge, and the Honourable Member Lawrence Scott, are telling me, you know, the right phrase for it. It is Likes on Facebook.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Friends? Okay. All right. Okay. All right.

But like I said, I am not the super-tech guy and I do not use it.

But Twanée Butterfield (and I do not have to declare any interests here), she has 643 Twitter followers and 3,100 Likes on Facebook. Now, that's nothing like Collie Buddz, but she is growing. So what I am saying is . . . and I do not think they have made any approaches to date.

I know that the Ministry of Tourism used to do some deal with it, because I say to him, because we do have conversations from time to time. He is not in Bermuda much these days. We talk about some family things from time to time, too. But, you know, I do not think he has a relationship, a current relationship with the BTA [Bermuda Tourism Authority]. Maybe he does, and you can tell me if I am wrong, Minister. But I do not think so.

But if you have someone like Collie Buddz, who is in Europe at the moment and is performing week in and week out . . . And, Minister, I will give you a copy of his schedule. It is an unbelievable schedule. (I feel sorry for my daughter and my two grandchildren.) But he has a really unbelievable schedule this year. But for an entertainer who has 69,000 Twitter followers, 31,000 Instagram and 385,000—that is almost half a million, rounding it up, using math—almost half a million, right? Almost half a million Facebook followers, Minister. And we do not have any relationship with him? And our up and coming—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Jeff has who?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, he has got that many followers for his egg-and-fish deal; that is why. I do not know how many he has now.

But Twanée Butterfield, who is up and coming, has 6,500 Twitters and 3,100 Likes on Facebook. Why do we not talk to some of our home-grown talent, who the Minister says . . . The Minister says he wants to help our entrepreneurs. Let us talk to these two very successful Bermudian entertainers. In fact, here is his schedule here. I will not read it out, Minister. I will leave it here. If you want to collect it from me afterwards, feel free to do so.

Now, Cousin Derrick, I hope you do not mind me—

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Go right ahead.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. All right.

Now, Madam Chairman, the Minister, the Honourable Minister, talked earlier about the value of a cruise visitor comparing it to the value of an air visitor. And, Minister, I listened very carefully. Year before last, you said that for every one dollar the cruise visitor spent (I am talking about not last year, but the year before), you said it was eight dollars, the comparative income from an air visitor was eight dollars. And last year, you said it was nine. Now, I heard you very clearly.

Now, the problem I have is that . . . and I would like this clarified. Maybe the PS [Permanent Secretary] can help you out. But the CEO, the same guy we are paying $400,000 or $500,000 a year for, has said on two separate occasions that that ratio is 1:11; and then he said it is 1:16. You were saying that last year it was 1:9. Now, we have to get this right, number one. I think you, as the Minister, have to want to know what that correct number is, because you have said one thing, and the CEO has given two different figures on two different dates. And I could tell you that in the Royal Gazette, on November 14th, 2014, he said 1:11, and on February 24th this year he said for every 1 it is 16. I have copies of those right here for you, Minister, if you would like to see them.

So, now my question to the Minister and to the Tourism Authority is, if . . . Now, I am going to use the numbers from the CEO because I have to believe that the Minister is not correct. If the CEO is correct in saying that the ratio is $16.00 for every air visitor compared to $1.00 for a cruise visitor, why are we cutting our budget? We should be putting $15 million to $20 million more in marketing tourists. If it is as vital as the Minister said, and the Finance Minister said, if I can quote, Madam Chairman, the Finance Minister . . . (and I do not have . . . Yes, I do. Hang on.)

The Finance Minister said, "Another way to buttress our financial independence is to be successful in our efforts to revitalise our hospitality sector. The Government regards this as a national economic imperative . . ." That is from the Finance Minister. If it is a national economic imperative, why the heck are we cutting our budget for tourism and the marketing? It makes no sense. If I said to the Honourable Member from [constituency] 13, Glenn Blakeney, Look. If you played hot music from seven in the morning to twelve, you'll make $10.00 a minute. But if you went from twelve to four, you'll make $100.00 a minute, where do you think his concentration is going to be?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you very much.

But that does not seem to be the concentration here by the OBA Government. If you are telling me that an air arrival visitor spends $16.00 compared to $1.00 from a cruise ship visitor, you have got to do some more work. I am not a marketing chief. But I will tell you what. Pay me $500,000 a year and I will make those numbers work.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I am for the country, Honourable Member. I am for the country. That is why I am bringing these things about, because I want our country to be successful. I want tourists in this Island. If we can give $77 million for the America's Cup, let us pump up another $10 [million] or $15 million for marketing. If the return is what it is, we will get that return back pronto, I would think. Sixteen dollars as opposed to one? And we are cutting the budget? Just makes no sense.

Now, whilst I am talking about advertising and marketing, why do we not have . . . and we have got the BTA hard-working team here, and it is good that they are here. Why do we not look at advertising on CNN, ABC, CBS and, my favourite, the Golf Channel?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And the Wealth Channel. Thank you, Honourable Member Roban.

What is wrong with the Wealth Channel? Because you and I watch it, and we only dream about some of those things, I know. But a lot of the wealthy people watch those channels, too. But what I am saying is there are still many people who do not know where Bermuda is. I think, Minister, you may even have said that at one stage. I mean, it is true. We all hear it. I talk to visitors. I travel a lot. I tell people I am from Bermuda. They say, Oh, yeah. Where is that? No. We are up north.

So, what I am saying to the Minister is, let us look at getting on some of our major TV channels. I see Air Jamaica, I see Spirit. I see . . . What is the other one that goes to Bahamas? Well, I am not an airline man. But what I am saying to you is we do see them. And I know that Mr. Burrows watches the Golf Channel, and I think the Minister might even tune in a little bit, too. But like our major golf tournaments . . . you know, the PGA used to be watched by 80 million households worldwide.

We do not have the PGA anymore. Let us find out if we can advertise when we have the major tournaments. That is when all the golfers tune, even the non-golfers. And if Tiger is playing, it is 40 per cent more; we all know that. You know that. So if Tiger plays in the Masters, what the Minister should be doing right now . . . I think, maybe Mr. Burrows, maybe Mr. Dodwell is working on it already. Maybe we will see some action at the . . . I do not know. That is a tough one to get into right there. That is like the Super Bowl ad.

But what I am saying is, let us look at doing that. Let us look at doing it, man! It is right there in front of us. We have too many people saying they do not know where Bermuda is.

Again, my last note on this particular point is GlobalHue. I have to mention that company name because that is when we had our most success. And we have to look at doing that. I do not think we could go wrong with having a conversation. I know you are smiling, Minister. Do not worry. I have no interest in GlobalHue. In fact, I do not know who the principals are. I do not know. I did not go to Howard, so, you know, you cannot put me in there. No, you cannot.

How is the time running, Madam Chairman?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: It is 7:12. Okay. I think I got it. I got it. Because I know my colleagues want to have a little chat, too.

Now, Madam Chairman, I have to . . . We do not always get time to comment as we would like, and this is the opportune time. And I think it is important that we set a few things straight. In May last year, we had a conversation in this House about the wage of the CEO. And I said in the House at that time . . . it was May 30th, in fact, when we had the conversation. And I said at the time that the CEO, I reckoned, was making around $400,000 a year. It was denied—was denied by the Minister.

Now, we all know that February 26th this year, the CEO came out and told everybody what he was making, almost. Because we did not get the details of the bonus, except we got them today. The Minister said it is 30 per cent—could get 30 per cent of his base salary, which, again, that tells me that he could be in line for $100,000 bonus.

Now, one thing I did not appreciate was that the CEO said that he decided, after permission from the board, that he would make this announcement to turn down the political rhetoric—his words, turn down the political rhetoric. Now, you see, my issue with that, Madam Chairman, is this: If you are American and you are working in a foreign country, you have to make a declaration with the Department of Justice. Understand what I am saying. You have to make a declaration with the Department of Justice of what your wages are, how do you earn your money and how much you earn. Okay?

The only problem I had with that announcement coming out when it did is because maybe, maybe—and the political rhetoric that the CEO talked about calming down . . . I do not know if that was the case. Maybe, maybe the CEO knew that we know how it works. And sooner or later we are going to find out, not from the Minister, but we will find out on our own how much he makes. Because if you go to the Department of Justice, you can find out what anybody who works overseas makes—anybody, if they honestly declare what they are making.

So I took big issue with that, especially when he said to turn down the political rhetoric, because I took that, and some of my colleagues did too, as a bit of an insult.

But let us not forget . . . And I will say this over and over, and I hoping that one day I can say, Well, you know, that wage is justified. And I said it last week, and I will say it again, that the CEO of the Bermuda Tourism Authority makes more than our Premier. He makes more than our Premier. And he makes more than our Governor, and he makes more than the President of the United States—the CEO of the Bermuda Tourism Authority.

I had a conversation with my colleague, Honourable Member Wayne Furbert, earlier. I said, You know, I don't have an issue with paying someone big dollars. But I have an issue for non-performance. I do have an issue with that. And that is where I am at right now. Until we see anything different, I will not change my tack. And I will not be satisfied. And no other Bermudian should be satisfied. If you are paying somebody $500,000, $400,000, $600,000 a year, I want results.

The OBA can talk about the chief of staff down at the hospital all they like. But I will tell you what. First of all, he was dealing with lives. He turned around that hospital, turned it upside-down, inside-out. It is running like a Swiss clock. They received accreditation year after year after year. Never before in our history have we had it. That is why you pay somebody like him $500,000 and $600,000, because he produced!

You remember the race issue we had down there? Do not forget the tale of two hospitals. Do not forget that. I remember once upon a time, and all Members in this House will agree, there was a time when we saw . . . we never saw a week go by without a complaint about that hospital in the newspaper. But it all died away. And we paid two fellows very big dollars, but they turned it around.

Actually, the hospital was struggling very badly. And as the former Health Minister knows, that hospital, certainly when I was there, and I think when she was there, too, that hospital was turning over a surplus, something that we had not done for many, many years. And that surplus allowed us to upgrade our . . . It allowed us to build the hospital we have today, to be honest. That is right. Oh, yes, it did. Oh, yes. And it will continue to pay for it. You know the fee increase will pay for that hospital.

You can call me crazy if you like, but those are facts. Those are facts. And former Health Minister Michael Scott would tell you, too.

[Inaudible interjections and laughter]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: So, Madam Chairman, I think I mentioned it earlier, but if I did not mention it, the entire Caribbean had a 5.3 per cent increase in tourism last year—5 per cent increase—while we went the other way. And I hope, again I will keep saying, I hope. And I generally mean it for the sake of our country. And I have said it here before, and I will say it again, that we want the Minister to be successful. We want the BTA and we want the OBA to be successful. Yes, we do. We do want you to be successful. And let me explain that.

I do, yes, I do. I have a business.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, we all do. I am speaking for my team. We do. Because, and I have said it before . . . if we stay in Opposition for the next 20 years and every Bermudian has a job and every business flourishes, the OBA can stay in power. I am okay with that. We will continue to hold you to account. We will continue to hold you to account. But right now, we have people out of work. And just today—just today we heard that Robinson's closed down. Robinson's Gas Marina closed down today.

An Hon. Member: They said they were opening back up.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, they did? Okay. But what I am saying is they are struggling. They are struggling. Yes, they are.

But I would love to see . . . I will sit over here and fire at you guys every week, you know. If everybody is working and every business is flourishing, absolutely! Oh, yes. Absolutely.

But what concerns me is this lack of funding for us. We have Aruba, visitors were up 10 per cent last year. We had a Marriott just open up in Haiti. And, by the way, in case anybody did not know, Digicel invested $45 million in a 175-room hotel in Haiti. Digicel did. Okay?

Now, there is a corporate partner taking an interest in that country. I would like to see some of the business in this country maybe taking a similar stance, especially since we have some of the wealthiest countries in the world.

Minister, did you know that 2.24 million Chinese tourists visited the US last year? That is a 24 per cent increase. That again is another market that we should look at. Now, I know you went over to Singapore. You should have gone a little bit further. I know that Dr. Brown caught some stick for going to China for, I think it was 36 hours.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, no. He went to China for 36 hours. He flew over there and flew right back. That is a man . . . you guys can talk about his travel, but that was not a man who went over there and for any jolly for 36 hours, I can assure you. I think that you guys who went to Singapore had a little bit more fun in Singapore than he had in China. Okay? And, of course, it did not cost $50,000 either. Okay? It did not cost $50,000 for three people, I can assure you that. But, Minister, China—have a look at China. Okay? Have a look at China.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: You will not know unless you try. If you do not go—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I do not know. You will have to ask him about that. You will have to ask him. But he did try. He did try. And he went to India, as you stated. He went to India. And we had a conversation about India.

The Finance Minister said, Why did we go to India? What are we going to do with India? They are interested in trading. Well, talk to Glen Smith about that! Glen is bringing in electric cars from India.

The Chairman: The Honourable Member.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The Honourable Member, very Honourable Member at that; yes, he is. Yes, he is.

An Hon. Member: Are we talking about tourism?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, we are talking about tourism. Yes, we are. But why not India? Yes.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Do you know why I mention India? Because India, you might know, is playing a big part in a hospital in one of our competitor islands, are they not, Minister? Do you know about that one? Yes, you do, in Cayman.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, you are right. Okay, I am glad you have been there. Why do you not tell your Minister? Okay.

So what I am saying to you is that India has played a major part in building that hospital. And they are looking at medical tourism.

[Pause]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: So, Minister, medical tourism. Chairman, Mr. Dodwell, medical tourism. Let us have it. Give it a shot.

Just in case you did not know, Minister, because you said, or I think another Honourable Member said, Where are the Chinese tourists? Well, apparently, I have just been handed a note that we have had an increase in our Chinese tourists. I do not know, it might have been Sir John Swan's contingent that came over recently; I do not know. But we have had an increase in Chinese tourists.

[Laughter]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: So there you go. And they could have come from Canada, because you know there are a lot of Chinese in Canada; yes, there are.

But now, Minister, Madam Chairman, we talk about marketing. We talk about the budget being cut. The budget was cut $1.5 million this year, $5 million last year. One of the things that . . . and the parliamentary questions have been asked. But I have to ask the question. No, let me explain something.

The BTA was formed. Understand that the Minister wants to keep it non-political. But I cannot believe that we spent the amount of money we did moving offices. We pay $220,000 a year in rent at the moment. We spent $330,000 that we know of fitting out those offices. And we have a lease, I think, that goes to 2020 or 2021, Minister. ([Is it] 2019?) That lease goes to 2020.

Now, $218,000 a year, plus, plus, plus, plus. So we spent $500,000 on that move. How much advertising could we have received? Now, the first thing that we will hear from the Minister and the Government is, Well, we wanted it to be completely separate and we wanted nice new offices. You get everybody furnished. We know. We have all moved houses and bought new furniture. We know how it feels. But you know what? You are also talking to a guy who, when I bought my first house, I slept on the floor because I could not afford a bed.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, okay, we all did it. I am telling you my story. And I am telling you why I am going to make the comments I am.

And when I moved in that house, Madam Chairman, I had plywood on the windows because it did not have any windows. It did not have gutters to catch rain. The plumbing was all messed up. My son slept in the kitchen. We did not have any space in the bedroom.

So what I am saying to you is this: When things are tight, you learn to make do. And Honourable Members are laughing, making fun. But I tell you what, this is $500,000 they spent in the first year—$500,000. How many Bermudians . . . how many furlough days would not have had to be taken if we had that $500,000 in the pot? Okay? So that is why I brought up that subject, and it is very important. And how much more money do we see that we feel could be directed elsewhere for our people, for programmes, for the civil servants that are not being put to best use by the Bermuda Tourism Authority?

[Inaudible interjection and laughter]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I tell you what, Madam Chairman . . . the Honourable Minister mentioned Beyoncé. I tell you what. I tell you what, Madam Chairman. I think that was money well spent! Well spent!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, yes. See, you can always tell when you are hitting home. You could always tell when their feathers are getting ruffled. You could always tell because you know what? The truth hurts. The truth hurts, Madam Chairman. The truth hurts!

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: We have a CEO who is making $500,000 a year. You have $500,000 spent on the Tourism office. That is a mil. That is a mil right there. You have the Tourism Authority, someone's tent falls down, you give them $180,000—boom! Just like that.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Point of order, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 23.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: I think the Honourable Member is maliciously misleading the House. The Honourable Member indicated that there was $180,000—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order! Point of order, Madam Chairman! Point of order!

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: —given to a—

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Point of order! Point of order! Point of order!

An Hon. Member: You have to take a point of order.

The Chairman: Please yield.

POINT OF ORDER

[Unparliamentary language]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I think the Honourable Member is using unparliamentary language, like I did a few minutes ago, and needs to withdraw it!

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Madam Chairman, the Honourable Member has indicated that a business entity was given money to fix its tent!

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Point of order, Madam Chairman.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: A business entity was not given money, Madam Chairman.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Point of order. Point of order. Point of order!

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: They were loaned money—

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Point of order! Point of order! Point of order!

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: —which has to be repaid. Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Yes. Point of order.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Yes. Madam Chairman, there are rules in this House that we all must follow.

The Chairman: Yes.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: And the latest point of order must be acknowledged. You cannot let someone just go on like that.

The Chairman: Please proceed.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: The point of order is we cannot up here be using unparliamentary language. And that language needs to be withdrawn.
Come on!

That is not what we are supposed to do. If not, the House is going to get into a whole lot of foolishness. All you are doing is letting somebody else . . . somebody else will come along and use the language. Let us bring it where it should be. The standards should be observed.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Shadow Minister of Tourism. You may proceed.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you. Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, the bottom line is, Bermuda needs new hotels. That is what we need. And again—again, I saw the list, as everybody else did, of the Finance Minister's Budget Statement, and we saw the projects he listed. Of course, I have an issue with him and the OBA Members saying it is $930 million coming into our economy. Maybe America's Cup might be coming. But we do not have anything concrete with some of those others. And we know where most of those started. They started under the PLP Government. So, Madam Chairman, Bermuda needs hotels.

What I would like to point out is, as these projects do come online . . . and I am hopeful. I am hopeful that they will come online. In fact, I know that we will have some that come online.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, I do.

But, Madam Chairman, let me say this. As we get applications that go into planning, let us not be the country of No, no, no. And why do I say that? We had Ritz-Carlton many years ago. Some of the older Members may remember that. But we had a lot of No, no, nos. We had Tucker's Point. We had Park Hyatt. (What is the Four Star Pizza . . . Thomas?)

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Marico Thomas wanted to put a—

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Marico? Okay. Mr. Thomas from Four Star Pizza. Everybody knows him.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, that is his brother? Okay. All right. Belcario, Belcario Thomas. I think I have got it. Thank you. Thank you. "B", Belcario.

But he wanted to put something very different down on the beach. What did we say?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, it was Warwick Long Bay, Warwick Long Bay. What happened? All of a sudden, the environmentalist guys said, No, no, no, no, no, no, no, no, no. No, the environmentalists, they shut it down.

So what I am saying to you is this. Right? In fact, you know, what I am saying is . . . But I am talking about, more specifically, our hotels. What I do not want, as the Minister, because I genuinely believe that he is working hard to pull off some of these hotels, and I do wish him the best. And he will know. We do not talk often, but the one time, two times I did talk to him, I even said, Look. I have somebody who is interested. Give him a call. You remember we had a coffee one day, and I said, Look. Make this call. I did not do that because I wanted to get on the front page and say, I told Minister Crockwell to do this. No.

And I tell you what, Minister. I do not know if I even told you this. I had the President of Bridgestone Tire for all of South and Central America come to Bermuda a couple of months ago.

[Inaudible interjection]

[Gavel]

The Chairman: Excuse me. Only one person speaking.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Brought him here, put him up and tried to encourage him to hold his convention here. That is what I did. And you know what? We are going to have a conversation about that. We are going to have a conversation. Because I want people to come here in numbers, too, Minister. Okay?

But what I wanted to say about hotels is this. BEST's [Bermuda Environmental Sustainability Taskforce], Stuart Hayward, in particular—leave our hotel developers and our Minister and let them do their work. I am tired of seeing developers and projects want to go ahead in this Island, and lo and behold, Stuart Hayward's head pops up. No, no, no, no, no! And I said it back then when he was objecting to Park Hyatt down in St. George's. I said it back then, I will say it again. If you ask me to make a choice between a tree and a job for my people, I am taking the job for my people! Plant a tree later somewhere else. Go on a tree planting campaign.

In fact, speaking of tree planting campaign, Minister, Chairman, BTA execs, why do we not start a coconut palm tree campaign in Bermuda? We have more casuarina trees than you can shake a stick at. Palm trees are beautiful! They are island-y. Remember years ago, we had the cedar disease, right? And took away a lot of our trees. And the casuarinas popped up everywhere. Let us put the palm trees . . . Let us go on a palm tree campaign. Let us go on a palm tree campaign.

So, you know, let me just say this. I will put BEST and Mr. Hayward on notice. Let you and your team and developers in this country go to work. Leave them alone! Have your advisors leave you alone. If Stuart Hayward had been around in the 1930s, we probably would not have any golf courses today. I am serious.

Now, Madam Chairman, the Minister talked for three hours, thereabouts, two and a half hours. Thank you for giving us some time, because I know my colleagues want to talk, too. So I have got to speed up a little bit because I still have a bit of work here. But I did not hear anything about Grand Atlantic. And I have not heard anything about 9 Beaches. When are we going to get an update on that, Minister? Last I heard, we had Ministerial Statements talking about Grand Atlantic. I have not seen any Ministerial Statements on 9 Beaches. But where are we? Where are we on that? Are we pushing that? Has that challenge at 9 Beaches been overcome? Is that going to be on the market soon? Are we going to push that to somebody?

You are smirking like you are. I hope I am right. I hope I am right.

Now, the other thing I would like to talk about, since we are on development, is Morgan's Point. Now, many of us in this House will know that about (I do not know) 10 days, 12 days ago, there was a meeting at Dalton E. Tucker [Primary School]. That was one of the most highly attended public meetings I have seen for a while. And I think that was for several reasons. One is Bermudians want to know. And there are a lot of people looking at employment.

Now, the Minister was on the radio this week, he was on Magic on March the 5th (just to be exact). And . . .

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, you did, didn't you? I heard him.

And one thing that got my attention was when the Minister said that he meets very often with the group at Morgan's Point. And I think you even said (unless I am wrong) that you met with them two weeks ago. And I think you also said that Senator Baron speaks to them on a weekly basis.

So my point is, Minister, if you had this much communication going on with you and your team, why were you not at the meeting at Morgan's Point?

Why were you not at the meeting at Morgan's Point, Minister? One of Bermuda's possibly biggest tourist iconic dreams that we have had in a long, long time, and you do not go to the public meeting? That just . . . I mean, there were hundreds of people there, Minister. I am sure you were told.

One thing is, I did see a couple of your colleagues there. But you know what, Minister? I will tell you what. When I was Minister, there were certain functions that I did not miss, and you cannot miss. You cannot miss. No matter how up to speed you are, you cannot miss. You have to show not only the developers, but you need to show the people of this country that you are interested. If you had hundreds of people come to that meeting who are interested, a lot of people said, Where's the Minister? Why isn't he here tonight? I do not know. I do not know. I do not know. I do not know. Minister, I have a problem with that.

Now, one other question I have for the Minister, I think he said yesterday (and you notice I am saying I think) that the guarantee that was given to Morgan's Point was collateralised. (And the Minister says, Yes, it was.) Well, one of the questions I have, and I will put it over here with my question list looking for answers, is I would like to hear, if the Minister wants to reveal it, what the collateralisation was.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Now, Madam Chairman, as I alluded to earlier, on page 8 of the Budget Statement the Finance Minister outlined some projects. And those projects totalled $930 million. What we do not have . . . And he keeps referring to that, and Members opposite refer to that quite often. I am sure they will in the future. Well, I have not seen any proof of this $930 million being solid and concrete. It is smoke and mirrors to me—smoke and mirrors, smoke and mirrors, smoke and mirrors.

Madam Chairman, let me say this. Gaming has been passed. Another promise broken by the OBA, by the way, because we never had a referendum. We had a couple of thousand signatures that were presented down here. Premier says, No, you don't! Nope! Not doing it! Not doing it! Then they tried to say that is because of the threat from the PLP, thought that we were going to undermine it. You talk about smoke and mirrors!

Madam Chairman, gaming and the America's Cup alone are not going to be our salvation—are not going to be our salvation. We put $77 million into the America's Cup, and what I would like to suggest to the OBA is this: If we have hotel developments that we put in our Budget Statement, what is the main problem? What are they struggling with? Why have they not started building yet? Because they are having problems finding money.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order.

The Chairman: What is your point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. He is incorrect with his statement. He does not know . . . and I do not know why he is speculating on these issues.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, I am here to tell you that I am going to shoot that down right now. I am a former Minister. I was former Minister without portfolio responsible for hotel development and liaising with developers. And I can tell you that some of the people on that list made presentations to me when I was in Cabinet. Okay? In the Budget Statement. Made presentations to Cabinet when I was in there. And you know what seems to be the problem? I do not know if things have changed in the last two years. But it was raising money.

You will know. Everybody in this House will know. We gave a lease to Carl Bazarian down at St. George's. What happened? Okay. What happened? He could not raise the money, in spite of being told that he had it in place. You have experienced that, Minister. You even said so a couple of months ago. You said you are finding out how difficult it is. It is difficult, isn't it? Yes, it is.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, it is not beyond the little man. But it is difficult. It is challenging. Ask your Chairman, Mr. Dodwell. He made a huge investment up there, beautiful Reefs Hotel. And what he added on is fantastic, almost unmatched. The views from up there . . . I have been up there. I had my massage, sat out on the porch and drank my tea, Mr. Dodwell. It is a fantastic facility! But you know what? It takes money. And I am sure he had some of the challenges that some of the other developers had.

I have been down to Tucker's Point. I stayed at Tucker's Point. I woke up in the morning and watched the sun rise. Beautiful place! But challenges with finances . . . and it all goes back. It all goes back to that big bang recession, big bang in the financial world. Okay? And we have been suffering ever since.

And you, Minister, are trying your hardest to bring tourists here. Got it! People like Mr. Dodwell, people like Tucker's Point, Newstead [Belmont Hills Golf Resort & Spa], what do they need? They need people. They need visitors. So, yes.

What I am here to tell you, Minister, is this. If we can find $77 million for the America's Cup, let us see if we can look at the Government of the day, OBA, look at maybe trying to help out, rather than give out (what do you call it?) for Morgan's Point . . .

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, I do not know if it is a guarantee, because the Finance Minister said something else. It was a letter of comfort, a letter of comfort.

Now, the Minister said that he had some collateral earlier today on Magic [102.7], earlier this week. He had some collateral for Morgan's Point. But what I am saying is, yes, you have got collateral. Why does the Government not look at lending some of these potential developers, give them a hand? If it is $10 [million], $15 [million], $20 [million], $30 million to get a hotel out of the ground, we can work around that. You know, the Minister of Finance pulled out his magic ball. I am sure he can make it work. So let us look at that.

But of course, what is hindering that, I think, is, again, the failure of the Finance Minister's prediction that that $800 million would last three years and it is a good thing for him to do. And it is gone. It is gone. That $800 million was supposed to last three years. His crystal ball blew out. And as my . . . If he would have listened to our young Shadow Finance Minister last year he would not be in that predicament this year. But sometimes, you know what? What you do not hear, you will feel. And that is what the OBA are feeling right now.

Speaking of that debt that we have, you know, when the OBA came into office the debt was $1.4 billion. It is now $2 [billion], and going upwards. We are told now by the Finance Minister that he is looking at borrowing another $125 [million] to $129 million this year after $800 million two years ago. That is a billion dollars in two years—a billion dollars in two years! Can you imagine if the PLP said, We are going to borrow a billion dollars?

I remember we used to come up to this House and say, Look. I remember when we raised the debt ceiling from 1.1 to 1.4. What happened? There was an uproar. An uproar! The Honourable Member Cole Simons said, Yes. You guys had a billion in two years. Where is the Chamber of Commerce? Where is the Employer's Council? Where is the ABIC and ABIR [Association of Bermuda International Companies and Association of Bermuda Insurers and Reinsurers]?

And then they say that the PLP are unfriendly. They say that the PLP are unfriendly. You know who says we are unfriendly? Somebody by the name of Landow, lives in Maryland, says we are unfriendly. That is who says we are unfriendly. He thought he had that deal going. We thought it was all a done deal. Yes, sir. Club Med, they are going to get down on that site, they are going to build this hotel. Hey, you guys, look! Hey! Here's $400,000! Here's $400,000, fellows! Yep! I'm going to come down there. I'm going to build a hotel!

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Yes. What is your point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Imputing improper motives]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is imputing improper motives. And he is out of line. Now, if we are going to go down that road, we can go down that road. Okay?

[Pause]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Madam Chairman, all I know is that Mr. Landow has said publicly that he sent that money to the OBA.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. That is not correct.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I will yield to the Minister. Tell me where it went, then.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. That money went to the OBA's consultant, and he said that in the newspaper, Mr. Stephen DeCosta. Okay? And you know what he did for that money? He blogged, and he blogged and he blogged. And he blogged for months. He blogged for months.

An Hon. Member: You travelled with him.

[Inaudible interjections]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, I travelled with him. Oh, yes. And that is how I got a lot of my information. That is right. Uh-huh.

[Laughter]

An Hon. Member: What did you pay him?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I paid Stephen DeCosta nothing. Nothing!

The Chairman: Relevance to the debate?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: But we know he got paid by you. That is right.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Fahy was the one who gave permission to open up the account.

[Gavel]

[Crosstalk]

The Chairman: Relevance to the debate, please. Get back to the debate.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, yes, yes. Thank you, thank you, thank you.

But see, that . . . Madam Chairman, thank you for bringing us back on point, because that is it. Yes, let us stay on the debate. I am talking about hotel development. We had someone who was willing to come to Bermuda, but it got messy, did it not? We had a Premier resign. We had a chairman of the party resign. All these things are happening over what? A possible development! That is what it was over. And the OBA says that we were an unfriendly Government. Well, it is issues like this, things like this that happen, that deter developers.

You think the world of developers did not know what was going on, did not hear what was going on? I could show you an e-mail from one, said it was a joke.

An Hon. Member: Bazarian.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, it was not Bazarian.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I do not know. I do not know. You tell me. You seem to know Bazarian more than I.

But I will tell you what. I will tell you what. I did receive an e-mail from someone that bid on that project. Do not even know them. If they walked in here, I would not know them today. Shadow Minister, it is a joke. RFP process was a joke—was a joke. I am not hearing this as facts. This is from a billionaire that bid on that project. He did not get it, did not even get a chance to present.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: So?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The Minister says, So.

You have a possible hotel developer, a billionaire who wants to develop in Bermuda, and I said to the Minister, you did not give him an interview, and he says, So?

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Madam Chairman. Point of order, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: What is your point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member is misleading the House. He does not know what the proposed project was. He has no idea of what was in that proposal. He has no idea why the individual did not get shortlisted. So if someone who is disgruntled sends him an e-mail, he thinks he has got accurate information?

Come on, Shadow Minister.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is a poor attempt at a point of order.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Do you know the information?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Madam Chairman. Madam Chairman.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Do you know the information?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, I do!

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: No, you do not!

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Madam Chairman!

The Chairman: Honourable Members, please be seated while there is a point of order.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Madam Chairman. Thank you, Madam Chairman.

You have a Minister who does not know. That is what you have. You have a Minister who does not know! You have a Minister who said, So what if we did not interview him? You had a shortlist of five developers who are going to look at building maybe a $200 [million] to $300 million project, and you do not personally interview them?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Another nonsensical comment. Nonsense! He did not make a shortlist. Madam Chairman. You know, this is . . . See, this is the mindset of the OBA. That is why we cannot get developers here, because of that mindset.

[Inaudible interjections and crosstalk]

[Gavel]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The same individual, this is the same individual, the Honourable Sylvan Richards, who called workers down at St. George's club lazy! The same Member, called them lazy! The two workers who were down at St. George's, this is the same former Minister who called them lazy.

See? And that is the type of attitude that deters developers from coming to Bermuda and spending their money.

And while we are on it, let's talk about the Waterfront for a moment. You had a contract, signed, sealed, bid on, everything done above board. And what do we do? The OBA bring legislation in here, yuck it from me. Do you think developers who are looking at this Landow Jetgate affair down at St. George's . . . they are looking at the Waterfront, they are looking at a contract signed and sealed, a government comes in, changes the law and takes it from him? Do you think the worldwide developers in this space are not watching?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: My, my, my. My, my, my.

Now, Madam Chairman, while we are on hotel development, let's talk about Desarrollos for a moment and the agreement with Desarrollos. Now, I am hoping—I am hoping, again . . . Like I said, I am hoping that the Minister is going to bring something to this House and to the people of Bermuda soon.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I will.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And the Minister says he will, and I hope so, because on May 23rd, 2014, the Minister gave an exclusive period until October 2014 for the Desarrollos group. On October 22nd, the Minister gave the Desarrollos another 60 days exclusivity to work out the details.

Now, Madam Chairman, on December 12th last year, in this Honourable House, the Minister confirmed that he had reached an agreement with this Desarrollos group, and this is what he said. The Minister said that construction will start in June this year.

And he said it will be complete by October 2016, Ministerial Statement read in this House right here.

So my question is to the Minister, Where are we now?

An Hon. Member: We are in March.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: We are in March. The Honourable Member, yes, we are in March. Thank you. Because for a minute there I thought I was in February 2013, because we are in March, as the Honourable Member just said, 2015. We are three months away from June.

Now, the Minister said on December 12th that the construction will start, not may or it might. It will start in June 2015 and it be complete October 2016.

Now, maybe I missed it. But I have not seen any planning documents. I have not seen any applications for planning in the newspaper or otherwise. Now, if you are going to build a couple-hundred-million-dollar project and we do not have any plans yet . . . no plans have been submitted. Now, I am hoping the Minister is going to really smash me on this one and say, Listen. Shadow Minister has got it all wrong. I said it is going to start in June, and guess what? They are starting in June!

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: No, I am hoping he is going to say they are starting in June. But, you know, we are going to have another issue with this Ministerial Statement. Let us hope Hayward does not get hold of it, because you will not start this year. But I have another issue with it. And this is the issue I have. Because even if we start in June, remember, the Minister said in his Ministerial Statement, October 2016 it will be complete.

Now, let me just run by it for those who may have missed that Ministerial Statement on December 12th. They are going to build 16 hotel residences, 24 golf villas, 16 three- and four-bedroom residences, spa, fitness centre, casino (maybe—my word, but it was in his original Statement. That is what they requested), pools and restaurants. Okay? So now . . . I know a little bit about construction.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Yes, your point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: I do not have the Statement before me that the Honourable Shadow Minister is referring to, but my recollection was that we talked about the phases. The villas and everything he just talked about is not the first phase. The first phase is the hotel, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: See, Madam Chairman, when I was Minister, I kept all my Ministerial Statements right here. Nobody could ever call out a Ministerial Statement on me. But maybe he will learn that in due course.

So let me say this. I do have his Ministerial Statement, and there was no mention of phases. And I will table it when I am done. Okay?

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, tell your Minister that. That is exactly what I am saying.

Now, Madam Chairman, this is my . . . See, this is my next concern. My next concern is this. I know a little bit about building. Now, if you said to me right now, Look Zane, here is a piece of property. Here are the plans. Start now. Build me a three- or four-bedroom home right now. Hmm. I tell you what. Unless you bring in crews and other work day and night, a year later you will not be finished, Minister. You will not be finished. Okay?

You made the Statement in the House that in October 2016 all these 16 residents, 24 villas, they will be finished, they will be complete by 2016. You can check with your PS. He can google it and do all that stuff and whatever you are going to do. I have got your Ministerial Statement, and there is nothing here about phases. And I told you that that morning about my concern. And I still have that concern.

Now, the other thing that has come by later is that the Minister has said, in another Ministerial Statement, that Starwood Hotels & Resorts are going to manage the hotel. Now, I have not seen a press conference. I have not seen St. Regis here. I have not seen Starwood here. But I also understand—and I could be wrong—they have an exclusive for another development.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Point of order, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Yes. Point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

[Misleading]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: The Honourable Member does not know what he is talking about. He is misleading the House.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The Honourable Member does not know what he is talking about. He is misleading the House. You know, what kind of point of order is that? I will tell you what. I tell you what. I tell you what, Madam Chairman. I tell you what. If St. Regis . . . And see, the Honourable Member, instead of being so defensive, needs to calm down. I said, I think, unless I had it wrong, before I started talking about St. Regis.

But . . . but—

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Oh, no, I do not have it wrong. Your Ministerial Statement . . . is that wrong? Oh, yes. Oh, yes, sir. Okay? And it is just like, you know . . . humph! You know what? Hmm . . . Okay. We will leave that, because . . . How much time have we got left?

[no audible response]

Mr. Zane J. S. De Silva: We have got 45 minutes. I am going to try to give my colleagues a little time.

But, Minister, will we have an announcement? Will we have some information on Desarrollos before you . . . Well, let us on this side try to give him a couple of minutes. So if he could answer one thing, tell us where we stand on Desarrollos. I am going to skip that one.

Vacation residences, I wanted to talk about that very quickly. I am running out of time. Vacation residences. I went to the summit, and I applaud the Minister for putting on that summit.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Well, the BTA . . . Minister, I am going to give you credit, because, you know, you do not get too much. So I am going to give you credit for that one. The only problem I have is that during that summit, we had a conversation about vacation rentals. There have been some other conversations since, and I have some concerns. I think this is the time because we are talking about our tourist product. [When] we are talking about vacation residences, we are talking about our people. And there are many people in Bermuda who rent out their residences.

The concern I have . . . and maybe the Minister can clear this up, because it has certainly been reported in the daily. It has been reported by the Bermuda Tourism Authority. And I can print this out. This is . . . oh, this is from Glenn Jones. He sends it out to the stakeholders. And I have got to give Glenn Jones some congratulations while I am at it. I have to give Glenn Jones some congratulations.

[Desk thumping]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: And maybe I need to congratulate the Minister and David Dodwell, and the CEO, too, for hiring him. Because I tell you what. I tell you what, Glenn Jones has been the communication. I think has been a big saviour for the Minister and the BTA. He has no problem in communicating with people. And I even tried a little trick shot on him to get some information. He said, You better write the CEO on that one. So you cannot trick him. You cannot trick him. But, no, I think . . . seriously, though, I think he does a fantastic job, and I take my hat off to him.

But let me get back onto the vacation homes because in this document, in this press release by the BTA, they talked about the vacation homes. And they talked about a White Paper. Now, correct me if I am wrong, colleagues. But a White Paper is a little bit different than a Green Paper, is it not? A little bit different. A White Paper is . . . this is it. This is it, we will not have any discussion. Why, Minister, are we saying . . . or maybe the CEO has not been brought up to speed with parliamentary stuff yet, White Paper, Green Paper. Maybe he is the one who is saying White Paper.

But on these residences, we are being told in one of these releases, “‘If current trends are any indication, the demand for vacation rentals will steadily increase around the world, and by extension, in Bermuda,’ said the BTA’s Chief Operations Officer Karla Lacey, who is overseeing the preparation of the White Paper on Vacation Rentals.” Now, that is from the BTA brass—White Paper.

I would like to implore the Minister and the BTA that, if you are going to look into vacation residences, do not come up here and ram it down our throat. Produce a Green Paper so that we can have a discussion on it. Why do I say that? Because there are many Bermudians, who rent their homes out to tourists, who rely on that income to pay their mortgages. Okay? That is what they do. They rely on this income to pay their mortgages. And Honourable Member Cole Simons will know that, and certainly Honourable Member Wayne Furbert will know that. Okay?

The other reason these residences are very good for tourists is that a lot of tourists cannot afford hotels. They cannot afford the hotel prices! But I know Honourable Member Wayne Furbert . . . How much a night?

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: [It is] $150.00.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: A hundred-and-fifty dollars a night, compared to . . . how much is it at the Reefs? Maybe $800, $600? I do not know. I do not know. I know that Princess Southampton and Fairmont, you are lucky if you get it for $300. Do not try to book it in the summer. You are looking at $600.

So what I am saying is that these residences—and I will get to the end of it in a minute. The other thing is with residences, they are better for families. You see, when families come to Bermuda . . . and as I said earlier, Minister, I think that is something that the Tourism Authority and you should look at. Make Bermuda more family-friendly. Try to promote it as a family [destination]. And you know what? I am sure the Minister does not care if they stay at Grotto Bay, if they stay at the Reefs, if they stay at Coco Reef, or if they stay in Wayne Furbert's tourist accommodation. He just wants numbers in Bermuda—as we all do. So, we should encourage—we have to encourage—the BTA and the Minister, if you are going to look at vacation residences, then you have to keep these things in mind.

The other thing that is good about hotel . . . And I am bringing these points up because if you all are looking at bringing a White Paper, I have got to line up some of these points and make you think a little bit, I hope. With these vacation residences here in Bermuda, tourists interact with Bermudians more than they would in a hotel.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: The visitors, yes, yes, yes. Thank you, Kenny. Right.

But they do. They interact with Bermudians more if they stay there. They will spend more on taxis or rental bikes, and they will shop at grocery stores, whereas the people who stay in hotels do not do that. But these people who stay in residences, these are the types of things that they do, and it is good for the economy. It is good for our people. It keeps people employed. They also go out to eat in restaurants. And they will go around to different restaurants, whereas if someone stays at the Southampton Princess . . . Oh, okay. I'm here at the hotel. I'll just eat here while I'm here.

So my suggestion and my plea to the Minister and the BTA is, leave them alone. Leave them alone. If you start to regulate and over-regulate these homes it is going to make life difficult for them. And we do not want to do that. We have a shortage of hotel beds now. Now, if the Minister is successful in bringing in all these tourists they are going to need somewhere to stay. Let us not over-regulate our vacation residences so that people get deterred and say, Look, I am not doing this. Let us not make life difficult for them.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: That is right. And you know what else? These vacation homes do not get hotel concessions either, you know. Okay? They do not. They do not get hotel concessions. Bermuda homes do not get them. So let us keep that in mind.

And let me tell you another biggy. All these Bermuda homes that rent out their rooms to tourists do their own advertising. They have to pay out of their pocket to advertise Bermuda to bring people here. So if we are going to talk about regulating them, let us be careful. And the Chairman of the BTA . . . [let us be careful] because there is a conflict there. You have a hotel. I would suggest that you keep that close in mind. I would not ask him to step down yet for that decision. And I am hoping that he will do that anyway. Okay. And the chairman says he always does it. That is good to hear.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, recusing himself. Yes.

So, I say this, Minister and BTA: Look, if you want to talk to the Bermuda vacation rental owners, then have a chat with them. Do not talk about bringing a White Paper here and just making a decision like that. Do not do it. Do not do it. It is not fair. It is not fair.

Now, Minister, you talked about the Railway Trail down at Bailey's Bay and how beautiful it is. And you even asked someone if they had been down to visit that beautiful vista and look at how . . . And I think you said it is one of the prettiest places in Bermuda. I disagree. And Honourable Member Bascome would tell you Ferry Reach will give you a close run. And of course, I am a Somerset boy, so I say Fort Scaur and all that. So we can have that debate.

But you know what I have noticed lately? There are many trees along the roadsides where the water is close by. And Shelly Bay is one of them. I do not know what you got . . . I have not been down to St. George's Ferry Reach lately, Honourable Member. Maybe you have. But South Shore Road, and if you drive . . . and I do every morning. I drive past Five Star Island every morning. If you drive down Five Star Island and you head towards town, you have got hell to see the Great Sound because the trees are too high. And I think . . . Hey, look, you know what? Seeing is believing. If our tourists are travelling around in taxis and you are going past these areas, you need to see it, especially in the summer mornings when it is like glass out there.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Now, I am talking to the Minister of Tourism, but I am also talking to the Minister of Public Works. You could do your part to help this Island be more beautiful for our tourists. Okay?

Now, Madam Chairman, I am going to leave everyone else a little bit of time. But let me finish on this. I started by talking about advertising, and I am going to finish on advertising. There are still too many people who do not know where we are. And if we can squeeze some money, maybe out of this $77 million for America's Cup, I think we have to look at CNN, ABC, CBS and the Golf Channel, and the Wealth Channel, too (from my colleague, the Honourable Member Walter Roban).

Our major emphasis has got to be on new offerings for our visitors. It has to be. It has to be. Bermuda is still seen as old and unexciting. Hopefully, we will get a casino. We will have some entertainment, and we will change things. We will get a couple of hotels. We have to get a couple of hotels built.

We have to . . . Bermuda Tourism Authority, Minister, you have got to get some restaurants and entertainment on the beaches. We have to. Everywhere you go in the Caribbean, it is there. And I have travelled a lot in the Caribbean. And I have not been to a Caribbean beach yet that does not have some kind of entertainment bar, you know, for tourists on it. We are behind. Why are people flying over Bermuda going down south? Because that is what they get. And we have to get there.

Convention business, Minister. I hope that is on the agenda. I think you talked about it briefly in your brief. We have to put more emphasis on that. And, Madam Chairman, I just want to finish on this note. I want the Minister and the Bermuda Tourism Authority to be successful. All I want them to do is watch how you spend the taxpayers' money. Put it to the best use possible. And, Minister, see if you could talk to some other Ministers and see if you can squeeze some more money for marketing, because you are going to need it. Thank you.

The Chairman: The Chair recognises the Member from St. George's North, constituency 1.

Mr. Kenneth (Kenny) Bascome: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

First of all, let me state kudos to our Honourable Minister of Tourism for taking the initiative to have introduced a new Tourism Authority. As an individual who works directly in the industry, it is a bold step. We understand that tourism has been in decline for about three decades. So that step alone is a step in the right direction.

I have listened to this Honourable Member, and that is the problem with our tourism product. We are all over the place. We have to determine that the Eastern Seaboard of the United States is our oyster. It is our oyster! I understand that we are not known in many homes along the Eastern Seaboard, so that is the focus that we need to take. But once again I am going to say that the United States and the Eastern Seaboard is Bermuda's oyster.

Now, the Honourable Shadow Minister talked about the small guest properties. I believe that that is an avenue that needs to be pursued, and I believe that we can get that to where we need it to be in the tourism industry itself.

Now, Madam, I would say to you that I do not like the word "tourists". You continually hear me make that point. Everything else is "visitor," a visitors' industry partnership. So why can we not do away with that word "tourism" and find some way to use "visitor" in our promotion? As an individual who talks with visitors on an ongoing basis, I ask them, Where are you visiting from? And they say, We are tourists. And I say, Hold it for a minute. You are a visitor. You are a guest in my country. And they will tell you that it brings a whole different feeling to them.

We just have to market Bermuda for what it is. Everybody keeps talking about entertainment; that is an avenue. However, we cannot cater to mass tourism. And everybody looks at the cruise ship visitor as an individual who does not put anything into our economy. However, I look at the cruise ship visitor as a potential repeat client. And I believe that if the hotels looked at those thousands of people who are coming here on the cruise ship as potential clients, there is an opportunity for them to pick up those cruise ship visitors.

I can tell you that I have friends who are well-heeled, and they come to Bermuda on a cruise ship. So when people say that the cruise ship visitor does not spend this, does not spend that, [I say] they contribute to our economy, and they put a nice nest egg in the government's coffers. So I am going to say again that the Eastern Seaboard is Bermuda's oyster, and that is where our marketing dollars should be.

In one breath we say, There is no money here, there is no money here. However, I believe that if you have a strategy and you use what you have in a manner that you hit the market that you are looking to hit, we would have people knocking down the doors to come to Bermuda. And I have said to the Minister, and I continue to tell Bermudians that we need to just go back to basics. When we brought the agents to Bermuda and we let them feel what Bermuda has to offer, we could possibly get back to a comfortable level.

We will never get back to the heyday. We are not what we were 40 years ago. But we still are a very unique destination. And no one can sell this Island like it sells itself. I have the opportunity on a daily basis to interact with our visitors. And my first question is to ask them, Have you been here before? And they say no. And my next question, What is your impression of my Island? And I can tell you, Madam Chairman, 99 per cent of the people who visit Bermuda are totally blown away. And I make this statement all the time: Only Bermudians do not like Bermuda. Because every visitor with whom I come into contact, rants and raves. They have never met a people who are so hospitable as we Bermudians are.

I am saying again that we, as Bermudians, need to realise the value of this wonderful place in which we live. And I am going to say it again: We need to focus, focus, focus, focus, focus. When Mr. Hanbury first arrived I arranged for him to come to the Town of St. George's. Mr. Hanbury, Mr. Garth Rothwell, the current mayor, and I did a little walkabout. And we kept him for about two and a half hours because he had to go. He then went back to the Minister and said to the Minister, He made me meet everybody in the Town of St. George's. But that was the whole objective, to cause him to understand the value of the community of St. George's.

You will recall when I made my first Statement, I said, I represent the elusive Town of St. George's. And all the intellectuals giggled, because they were under the opinion that I wanted to say "illustrious." But I said "elusive" because it appeared that when it came to the economic well-being of this community, that St. George's was never in the equation. And they all tell me that I never jump up. And I have told them, I have access to the Ministers. And that is the objective of my being here. And I will make this comment: It is an honour that the people of St. George's have given me . . . And I am going to say this again, that we are the jewel in the crown. That is the little Town of St. George's.

We have a number of guest properties that have now come on line. And I believe that is the backbone of our rebuilding of our tourism industry. And to my Honourable Minister I will say once again, congrats to you for taking the initiative to introduce the Bermuda Tourism Authority. And with that, Madam Chairman, short, brief and to the point, we need to focus, stay focused on the Eastern Seaboard of the United States. And with that, I will sit down.

Thank you, Madam Chairman.

[Desk thumping]

The Chairman: Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you. Pembroke East, constituency 15.

Mr. Walter H. Roban: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Just a few brief comments on the Tourism portfolio. I am particularly interested in speaking directly to page C-18, under the Tourism Authority Grant, [line item] 6835, concerning the investment that we are making in tourism. I would like to just reiterate a point that I have made in this House before to the Minister, and I did not hear in his brief anything related specifically to this, but I am going to assume that this is a part of where the Tourism Authority will go. And I think it has got to do with one word: authenticity.

Authenticity, I think, is crucial for our tourism product. Bermuda needs not to try and emulate anyone else. We need to look inside ourselves. And just to briefly segue to the comments of the Honourable Member who just took his seat, I love Bermuda. In fact, I love Bermuda in the summertime. I do not like to even vacation anywhere else. I like to be here. I will vacation in the Easter time or the end of the year. But summertime? This is the best place to be, as far as I am concerned.

I love my Bermuda in the summertime. I think it is the most beautiful place in the world. And I have been to a number of places around the world, particularly that are tropical-oriented, and I love this country. And I do hope that we will continue to grow strength to strength to bring authenticity to the Bermuda product. I think that has been one of the components that has been missed for many years.

We have, unfortunately, as a part of our development, brought in a lot of non-Bermudian components, and also activities and personnel. I do believe that the Bermudian personnel were the people who built the success of tourism in every aspect. They are who made Bermuda Bermuda. Yes, we have a lot of expertise from overseas, and that is a part of the component of any international tourism destination—people from all over the world. But if Bermudians are not at the forefront of the product we lose that authenticity that is crucial. So I do hope that authenticity is a focus of the Bermuda Tourism Authority in the work that it does—not emulation, not duplication.

The other point I would like to make is that I have stood in this House a couple of times and requested that the Minister and his team be reconciled towards particularly our [Bermudian] food and, in particular, not just highlighting the major restaurants. And I heard the Minister talk about Harry's [Restaurant and Bar] and some other places. And frankly, I do not believe that those are the most important promoters of the Bermuda product when it comes to food. And it is fine to have a number of events which we are trying to now focus on Bermuda cuisine and the talent behind the cuisine. But I frankly do not think that is enough.

We have got to do some different things around food, in particular. Bermuda has its own food culture. It has its own flavours. It certainly has its own seasonal products that it uses to make all types of dishes, whether it be the cassava pie at the end of the year and some of the summertime . . . or now we are going into spring, we have a lot of other vegetables that Bermuda dishes are made with. We have our paw paw casserole. We have guava products. We have all types of things that emulate the seasons that Bermudians have relied on over the years to create. We have fantastic things we do with fish.

I say all that because our smaller eateries have never really been a part of the focus of our product. Fine, the Little Venices and the Harrys and all these very fancy places seem to be the focus in most of our promotion. Yes, the Art Mels (which just happens to be in my district) is what I am talking about, places like that. Certainly during Cup Match, we focus on the stalls and that. Well, that is a culture I think we need to spend some of our time as a country promoting and emulating. We need to push those. We need to do things like what Barbados has done with Oistins [Fish Fry] and Baxter's Road. We need to do like what Nassau has done with Arawak Cay and other parts that focus on the exciting food culture of these countries. We need to do what St. Lucia has done with Gros Islet.

That is what we need to do around food. And to some degree these things have developed naturally. But perhaps that is not going to happen. So we now need to focus. We need to promote our small eateries as a part of the journey that a visitor can have, an experience, so they can see the real Bermuda food, the real Bermuda culinary culture. It is not in the fancy restaurants, because they are not serving Bermuda food in the way that I like Bermuda food. I go to those small places, like the SeaSide Grill down on North Shore, like the other places just like Art Mels in St. George's and in Thyme. Those places need to be also a part of the food experience for our visitors and promoted in a way, just like we sort of like promote the Little Venices and these other fancy places that, frankly, do not serve Bermuda food in the way that Bermudians like it.

So I hope that the Tourism Authority can focus on these things so that people can see the authenticity of the Bermuda experience, not only in food, but in so many other things.

Thank you very much.

The Chairman: The Chair now recognises the Member from . . .

Mr. N. H. Cole Simons: [Constituency] 8.

The Chairman: Thank you. From constituency 8.

Mr. N. H. Cole Simons: Good evening, Madam Chairman.

I am going to start off by thanking the Minister for the opportunity to speak. And I would like to also commend the Bermuda Tourism Authority for their achievements to date. I know it is a difficult task to start an organisation, because obviously, you have to have your plans in place. You have to get the stakeholders on board. And it takes time to build your capital base. I have heard people talking about, How come we are giving so much money to the Tourism Authority? Well, the reality is that for any organisation to get off the ground it is going to need some seed capital. It needs that seed capital, and once they are off the ground, once they get their sales campaign [going], you wean them off the seed capital and they become self-sustaining, self-sufficient.

So far, achievements that I would like to commend them on are basically looking at the . . . Number one, that it is fully operational within one year. I mean, last year, we did not have the Tourism Authority. Now it is up and running. It is well oiled. Does it have more work to do? Yes, it has more work to do, Madam Chairman. And we in this country must stand behind them. They also should work closely with the Bermuda Business Development Agency, because we will not be separating the business visitors from the regular visitors, because they are all visitors to our country and we should have an integrated strategy.

We also want to commend them on the completion and implementation of the sales and marketing strategy. Again, the first year and this is done, this was a monumental task. Again, I want to commend them on the quality of services, the National Standards Programme and the tourism investors. These are setting standards for which we can go forward in years to come. You know, this is our new product offering.

As the Honourable Member [said], they have identified their core market, and they have identified where they want to stand in the market. As a consequence, they have crafted their product. They have crafted the experience that they want to offer the tourists and guests who come to this country.

I would like to hear more about the new CEO, Chief Investment Officer, and the concierge services division. The previous speaker, Mr. Zane De Silva, said, Well, we don't have hotels. Why don't we have hotels? And I made some notes, Madam Chairman. And my notes are simple. Before we get hotels, we need to be attractive to investors. The investors want to know that they can invest their money in a jurisdiction that is safe, that is dependable, that is receptive, that can provide them with a return on their investment, that is inviting, that the labour laws and the union environment is positive and that they feel that their investment will get value for money and is safe.

Once we address those concerns, Madam Chairman, we will have many hotels. But it is incumbent upon us to demonstrate to our investors that we are an attractive place to do business and an attractive place to make direct investment because we know that capital moves quickly. And people are competing; jurisdictions are competing for direct investors globally. And it is important for us to demonstrate and separate us from other jurisdictions so that we are attractive to direct investors.

So it is important that we underscore the importance of having an attractive, inviting, well-regulated environment so that direct investors can feel confident that, when they make their investment in Bermuda, it is going to be rewarding and that when they are ready to leave Bermuda, there is an exit plan that they can adhere to and their capital is safe. Once that is all in order, then I would tell you right now, we would see more and more hotels in this country.

A few more issues that I would like to address, and this is just from my travel this year. I would also ask the Government, when the economy turns around—I am going to say "when" the economy turns around—and when we turn around our finances, that we consider, like Barbados . . . I was staying in the Barbados Hilton in July or September (one of them), and I asked one of the managers, Who built this hotel? And they indicated that the hotel was built by the Government of Barbados and rented to the Hilton chain.

Recently, I was in Trinidad. I stayed at the Hyatt Regency. And again I asked, Who owns this hotel? Who built this hotel? And again, the answer was the Government of Trinidad. And it is leased and has the management agreement with the Hyatt Regency hotel chain. So again, this is an option that we can examine when we are in a more robust financial position to make inward investments, and also make capital investments for the tourism industry.

You know, we do not have to look at outside investors as the only option. When we have capital in the banks for the Government, when we reduce our deficit financing, when we have some reserves, there is no ungodly reason why we cannot build a hotel. It is just as easy to build a hotel as it is to build a school or to build a hospital. And so if we want to increase our beds, if we want to set the standard on the type of hotel and quality of hotel that we have, this is something that we can manage ourselves. And if Barbados can do it, if Trinidad can do it, I do not see why we cannot do it.

The Minister spoke about the World Trade Organization. And he indicated that international tourism [as reported by] the World Trade Organization, that international tourism grew by 4.7 per cent from 2013 to 2014. And in 2014/15, it expects the growth to be 3.4 per cent. Now, I am a businessperson. I have been in business for 25 years. And what I say is this: If the World Tourism Organization expects tourism growth to be 3 [per cent] to 4 per cent, then I would expect the Tourism Authority to ensure that our tourism industry grows at a similar percentage. And they can use that expected growth by the Tourism Authority as a benchmark for performance and accountability.

Yes, we are investing this money into the Tourism Authority. But as an investor, from a Government investing in the Tourism Authority, we too should expect returns, performance returns. And I would like to see that our tourism growth [be on] track [with] the recommended growth that is targeted for 2015 by the world tourism office in regards to expected international growth for 2015.

The other issue that I would like to address is the small guest houses. We have heard about the America's Cup. We have heard the Minister talk about bringing Bermudians along, having more stakeholders involved.

The Chairman: Member, 10 minutes left. You may want to give way for the Minister to talk.

Mr. N. H. Cole Simons: Yes, I will. Give me two minutes.

In the past, Bermuda's tourism was built on mom and pop shops, small guest houses, people renting rooms to tourists. Someone said to me the other day . . . and, again, the Honourable Zane De Silva said, people cannot afford $400 a day or $800 a day. But we should be able to service a number of clients.

And guest houses . . . I mean, you can get professionals, empty nesters, and they are open to making some money for pension. They can invite tourists to come stay with them. All I ask from the Tourism Authority is to set the standard, the level of service that these private accommodations can make available to our guests. It is fine to have them come in, but again, if we are going to pride ourselves as a first-class tourist jurisdiction, as a first-class tourist destination, then our product should be first class, irrespective of whether it is a five-star hotel or a mom and pop guest house that has six or seven rooms that have been allocated for tourists.

I could say a bit more, but as I am conscious of the time I would like for the Minister to respond to some of the comments made earlier. So I will sit down and, again, thank the Tourism Authority for the work that they have done. Do not be distracted by the noise. Do not be distracted by the noise. Keep focused. Your Government will support you. And, yes, it is going to take awhile for you to be self-sufficient. But as long as you utilise the capital that we make available to you and give this country value for money, you will have my support and the rest of the country's support. Thank you.

The Chairman: The Chair now recognises the—Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Myself. You have to recognise me.

[Laughter]

The Chairman: The Chair now recognises the Shadow Minister of Economic Development, from Hamilton West, constituency 6.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I am . . . How much time does one have left?

The Chairman: About seven minutes.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Okay. Seven minutes. I will talk six and a half.

Let me just say this. The Honourable Member who . . . I hope he . . . I just heard him talk about the small properties. He has an obligation and right to talk with his caucus, so I do not expect any silly legislation coming to this House based on, I heard what the Honourable Member Cole Simons talked about. We have built this country on good service.

There are certain individuals out there who cannot afford $975.00 a night. I saw in Tucker's Point for July, almost $700.00 for the Reefs in July. [But] they can afford $150.00. I declare my interest. I rent three units, or two units. Okay? And they come there, and you look at my record over the years. But I know that there are certain individuals within the hotel industry (because I was the Minister) who did not like them. I know because they told me. You might want to know how I know—because they told me. They wanted to charge a fee. They want to do all these things.

In the olden days when the mom and pop were renting their bed and breakfast, it was predominantly rented by (predominantly) white Bermudians. Bermudians did not have it. Now that predominantly black Bermudians have found a way to make a couple of more dollars, because they are hurting during this time, the Minister, or certain individuals within the BTA, want to charge them because they think that it is interfering with their business. That is the problem.

So I am expecting that Honourable Member, when he goes to call, because he speaks very loud and clear, do not touch the . . . I had the problem of making sure that they are clean. I see that we have complaints in hotels. So I expect there to be complaints within small properties.

But we have never concentrated, no Minister has concentrated predominantly on small properties. We have always sunk our money within the bigger properties—predominantly one big elephant that we all know. We have never . . . So we have the small-owner properties, Ruth Paynter, the one up there in Warwick, all falling apart. Where is any money being concentrated on them? Not as BTA . . . and they pay a fee. They pay a fee! And you want me to pay a fee. I know you want to take care of me. So, that is the first one.

The second one, the Honourable Member was talking about a hotel coming to Bermuda. There is only a limited amount of space where we can build hotels. They are not coming here because of all this nonsense the Honourable Member is talking about. They are coming here because 60 per cent do not work. If it was 75 per cent, 80 per cent occupancy, they would be flooding here. Macau 95 per cent occupancy rate for the whole year, and they are here. But they are not 60 per cent. They have got to ask whether they will get a return. That is why capital is not coming here. It is return. Okay? So that is the issue.

Even if we build all the hotels we are talking about, we will not be back [to what it was] in the 1980s as we were under the famous Jim Woolridge. And I have a gentleman in the audience, Mr. Woolridge, who did a fabulous job when he was in tourism. It is even a fact some of you guys are taking him as a consultant. He was good, and even good now.

So, this idea about . . . I mean, the Minister of Finance mentioned five or six properties that were supposed to be built. We do have that many properties left to build besides 9 Beaches. And they are not building, so [investors] cannot [believe] the Government. They cannot find funding to build anything at 9 Beaches. So they cannot [believe] the Government. Talking about these investors coming in, they left us. You know.

So, Minister, you have a responsibility also. You have failed to deliver the financial statements for the Tourism Board of 2012. That report was supposed to be filed in September of 2013. It has not been filed yet, and it is 2015 . . . has not been filed. I do not know whether the statement has been audited or not, but they have not been laid before this Parliament. You have failed in your duty for doing that.

The Minister of Finance cut your budget. You cannot believe in tourism and then cut that budget by that number. If you do not need it in this year, what do you do with it last year? Something is being cut. Something is being hampered. You cannot be telling me that $1.6 million? It is not a salary. Talking about salary—$4 million is what we spent in the Ministry of Tourism in 2012—$4 million. Out of four executives, over $1 million, a quarter of a per cent. A quarter of a per cent of our budget is bigger than for five people in that BTA than we had in the whole Ministry of Tourism for 49. You cannot tell me that is not . . . cannot be right.

Minister of Tourism, who is monitoring this plan? You are talking about you are following the plan. Who is monitoring it? Because as of 2015, our visitor expenditure is supposed to be 678. What actually is it? Tax income revenue for tourism is supposed to be, 2015, $59 million. What is it? Can somebody on that side tell me exactly what it is if somebody is monitoring those numbers, if they are following the plan? The hubs . . . are the hubs in place, one, two, three and four? They are not in place. They are not in place. I know they are working on them. But I have not heard much talking about St. George's, the Honourable Member—

The Chairman: You have a one-minute warning.

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: One minute?

Mr. Bascome jumps up. He complained when we were the Minister. What the heck have they done for St. George's? And I hope the hotel is being built. But we have heard those stories before, too, Minister. We hope they are. Okay?

But I am going to give the Minister, just say the benediction, and then we will go home. Thank you.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Madam Chairman, I move that Head 33 be approved.

The Chairman: It has been moved that Head 33 be approved.

Is there any objection to that motion?

An Hon. Member: Head 33 or 48?

The Chairman: Oh, 48. Head 48, sorry.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Head 48 is the Ministry. We did [Head] 48 already.

I move Head 48 be approved.

The Chairman: It has been moved that Head 48 be approved.

Is there any objection to that motion?

[Motion carried: The Ministry of Tourism Development and Transport, Head 48, was approved and stand part of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure 2015/16.]

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: And, Madam Chairman, I move that the Committee rise, report progress and ask for leave to sit again on Monday, March 9th, at 10:00 am.

The Chairman: All right. It has been moved that the Committee rise, report progress and ask for leave to sit again.

Is there any objection to that motion?

Agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Committee of Supply agreed to rise and report progress, and sought leave to sit again.]

House resumed at 8:47 pm

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

The Speaker: Members, we have approved Heads 10, 11, 12, 38, 58, 28 and 48. And we will resume in the Committee of Supply on Monday.

We move now to the second Order of the Day, Order No. 2. and Order No. 2 is the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015, in the name of the Attorney General and Minister of Legal Affairs, Minister T. Moniz.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Mr. Speaker, at the request of the Shadow Attorney General, we have reversed the order so that we are going to do the Protection of Birds Bill first.

The Speaker: Okay. Wait a minute. Say that again, Honourable Member.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Do the Protection of Birds first.

The Speaker: Yes, right.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: And then Bermuda Bar.

The Speaker: Okay.

Is there any objection to that?

All right. There is no objection to that.

So, therefore . . .

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Mr. Speaker, just a point of information.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, please take your seat.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Please, please, Minister. Thank you.

Because the Shadow Minister of Legal Affairs, I think he had a call and had to run out, he did ask. But if we could reverse it and go in the correct order. I do not know what it was about.

The Speaker: And I am not understanding what you are saying, Honourable Member.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: I am saying—

[Inaudible interjections]

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: But yes. For the Shadow Minister Scott. That is what I just said. He had . . .

The Speaker: We just agreed to—

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Oh, okay. I am sorry.

The Speaker: Goodness, Honourable Member.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: I was not paying attention, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes!

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: I was trying to explain this. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you, Minister. Thank you.

[Inaudible interjections and laughter]

The Speaker: Honourable Members, I know it is late.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Sorry, Mr. Speaker.

[Crosstalk]

The Speaker: We will now . . . if I can have Members' attention. I need Members' attention! It seems like people have to pay attention.

[Pause]

The Speaker: So, it has been requested and agreed upon that we do first the Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015. So, I therefore now call on the Minister of Health, Seniors and the Environment. Minister Atherden, you have the floor.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I move that the Bill entitled the Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015 be now read the second time and committed.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

Are there any objections to that?

Then, Minister, please carry on.

BILL

SECOND READING

PROTECTION OF BIRDS AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker and Honourable Members, I rise before the House today seeking to amend the Protection of Birds Act 1975 in order to allow better conservation of Bermuda's bird species.

Mr. Speaker, despite being a small oceanic Island, Bermuda has a high diversity of birds. Many hundreds of species have been recorded in Bermuda, most arriving as migrants or accidental visitors. These migratory birds stay for a time, then move on, while others stay and eventually become true residents that live in Bermuda continuously. Several have stayed so long that they have become endemic, such as the Bermuda petrel, better known as the cahow, and the White-eyed Vireo.

Mr. Speaker, birds are one of Bermuda's most predominant, visible and prolific types of terrestrial wildlife. Some bird species enrich Bermuda's delicate ecology, while others can impact it in negative ways. As stewards of our environment, the Ministry of Health, Seniors and Environment is tasked with the conservation of our native wildlife, with the aim of providing the best conditions possible for it to thrive in. Inherent in the concept of conservation is the need to manage. Wildlife management can be defined as the science and art of managing wildlife and its habitat for the benefit of the soil, vegetation and animals, including humans.

Management strategies include protection and restoration of critical habitats, increasing threatened species populations, rehabilitation of injured wildlife, and decreasing population of problem species in order to reduce negative impacts to threatened species and the environment, as well as human safety, health and food production.

To date, we have been very successful in a number of these strategies, most notably in our efforts to save the Bermuda cahow and longtails. We have also made a good start in controlling some of our worst pest birds, most notably feral chickens and pigeons, and have developed a very successful programme to rehabilitate injured wildlife, including birds at the Bermuda Aquarium, Museum and Zoo. But there is room for improvements. One critical element is the need for an effective legislative framework to best allow those activities to happen.

Mr. Speaker, the Protection of Birds Act 1975 is one of the only pieces of legislation that gives power to manage Bermuda's terrestrial wildlife. The Act provides the Government powers to protect and preserve all of Bermuda's resident and migratory bird populations, with some exceptions. The Act specifically identifies the following as not protected: farmyard, or domesticated birds; exotic birds in captive collections; and four pest bird species—the American crow, kiskadee, starling and house sparrow.

Mr. Speaker, the Act was originally developed to stop the capture and caging of songbirds from the wild and to deter taking eggs for private collections. It also provides power to create nature reserves. Mr. Speaker, the Act needs to be amended in order to recognise a number of new issues that have arisen since the time of its inception and further the Government's commitment to address the problems of invasive species in Bermuda. I will endeavour to illustrate these as follows.

While the Act permits the humane control and destruction of any protected birds that pose a risk to agriculture and fisheries, public health or public safety, the Act is silent on the management of non-protected birds and species that are having a detrimental impact on Bermuda's environment. For example, the feral pigeon is widely recognised as a pest bird, causing much nuisance to farmers; is a vector of salmonella; and competes with longtails for nests.

Also, the feral chicken, which originally was a farmyard animal, has now become a pervasive pest throughout Bermuda. Since commencing its free pest-control service in October 2012, the Department of Conservation Services has received over 650 requests for assistance through its online feral bird control. There is a request form on www.conservation.bm. This has resulted in the permanent removal of over 22,500 feral chickens from every corner of the Island.

Currently, the Act is not clear on the status of these birds, but by adding these species to the Act, the Bermuda Government will declare that it is serious about managing these unwanted birds and empower those responsible for their management.

Mr. Speaker, therefore, it is seen as necessary to expand ministerial power to authorise the destruction of a single bird or any group of birds having a demonstrable negative impact on Bermuda's natural environment, in addition to negative impacts related to human health and safety, agriculture and fisheries.

Furthermore, it will be necessary to expand the list of pest birds to include both the feral pigeon and the feral chicken. Mr. Speaker, the Act does not allow conditions to be set for the control and destruction of birds regardless of protection status or reason. As such, it is proposed to amend the Act to allow the Minister power to set conditions as required in the destruction of problem birds such as methodology, duration and reporting. It should be noted that a permit would not be required for the destruction or preparation for destruction of any non-protected domesticated bird as food for human consumption or as animal food.

The conditions for control and destruction will ensure that any such actions taken will always be subject to the authority of the Minister, who can assure that such actions are undertaken systematically and humanely, and are required to maintain the overall health of Bermuda's environment.

Mr. Speaker, currently, the Act restricts the Government's capacity to manage bird species, allowing only the Conservation Officer of the Department of Conservation Services to undertake necessary management. It is proposed to expand power to permit the management of birds to include not only conservation officers, but also other government personnel or persons the Minister deems fit to take such measures for control and destruction of nuisance birds.

This will enable that entities such as the Department of Airport Operations can undertake adequate measures to reduce potential for bird collisions with aircraft, which is essential for public safety. Mr. Speaker, under section [3], the Act allows the taking of birds for scientific research, public aviary and museum purposes, but not for rehabilitation. Many rare wild birds, such as the Eastern bluebird, Sialia sialis; the grey catbird, the Dumetella carolinensis; as well as migratory sea birds, are regularly found injured. With expert assistance, these birds can be rehabilitated for release back into the wild.

Mr. Speaker, it is proposed to amend the Act to provide powers to the Minister to authorise Government personnel, private companies or persons the Minister deems fit to rehabilitate any bird species, other than a pest bird; to set conditions such as ensuring all work is carried out according to best practice, objectives, method, periods; and require for incident and release reporting for scientific purposes and disease monitoring. No licences or fees are proposed for such authorised personnel.

Mr. Speaker, officers and their equipment are often interfered with during the course of their duties. There is a need to deter this. It is proposed that the Act be amended to set appropriate penalties for persons interfering with protected birds, authorised personnel and their equipment. It is proposed to increase the existing fine from $200.00 up to $2,000.00 for offences committed under the Act, in order to make it commensurate with similar legislation.

Mr. Speaker, the amendments to the Act recognise the synergies with the Protected Species Act 2003, Agriculture Act 1930 and the Care and Protection of Animals Act 1975. The Protected Species Act 2003 has recently been amended to allow for the rehabilitation of injured species. However, this only covers five endemic bird species. It is envisioned that the Protected Species Act 2003 will have priority over the Protection of Birds Act 1975 in respect to those species.

Mr. Speaker, in addition to amendments to the Protection of Birds Act, the Firearms Act 1973 is being amended to clarify that authorised officers seeking to destroy pest birds in accordance with the Protection of Birds Act, who have been issued a firearms licence to do so, can use such firearm and obtain an ammunition licence for that purpose. Thus, the Minister responsible for the Protection of Birds Act will approve the need to control a bird species, while the Commissioner of Police continues to retain all authority to licence a firearm for any purpose.

Mr. Speaker, the passing of these amendments in conjunction with the recently amended Protected Species Act 2003 will create a more synergistic and complementary system that will increase the Government's ability to preserve key species and control pest species that are posing challenges to not only our natural environment, but to human health and the Island's economic well-being.

With these brief remarks, Mr. Speaker, I now invite other Honourable Members to participate.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Devonshire North Central, constituency 13, the Shadow Minister of the Environment and Infrastructure. MP Glenn Blakeney, you have the floor.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, and good evening to you. Good to see you back in the seat.

The Speaker: Thank you. It is good to be back in the seat.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Well, Mr. Speaker, although there are pesky birds that we often hear chirping from across the floor, I am glad they are not included on the list to be destroyed. So, we do not have a problem with this Protection of Birds Amendment Act. And the Honourable Minister made some very good points in substantiating why this is appropriate legislation.

Of course, we would have all known several years ago about the threat in various places around the world as a result of bird flu. And it was not just as a result of migratory birds landing in a jurisdiction; it was people who were in a contaminated area of the world, travelling on planes and the like. And it was a real serious, serious concern for human health. And indeed, a number of people succumbed to the disease.

So, when you have a small place like Bermuda, where there is the migratory bird flying across the Island, you never know what you can expect. But here right on the Island, we have known for several years . . . In fact, when I was in a former place with this Ministry under my remit, we started the culling in the shooting of birds, and it was quite a challenge. Because you had people who are endeared to feral chickens. You know, I went about the Island from time to time just looking in certain areas when I got first-hand complaints from people, maybe a number of who still exist, who were complaining among the 650 that you mentioned wanting assistance.

But I remember one day driving down to the Clearwater area, because one of the big concerns there was the potential threat to aircraft taking off and landing, with feral chickens that could inhibit and consequently be a major concern for aircraft utilising our only airport. And I drove down close to the Clearwater beach. And there was an elderly couple there in a car with both doors open, and the chickens, the feral chickens . . . And it looked like there were hundreds. It kind of frightened me for a minute because I did not see anybody in the car until I drove up close, and the chickens started to fly through one side, out the other. And they were feeding the chickens crumbs, bread-crumbs, like it was a routine, an activity.

[Inaudible interjection]

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: No, definitely not. But you know, I did not even say anything to them because, being elderly and looking like it was something that they were used to doing, because it seemed like the chickens had befriended them as well, I just left well enough alone and decided that the airport at the East End would be the first point of attack to get rid of these feral chickens.

So, you know, it could be a very serious problem. The other thing is that these chickens also go into the garbage, into the plastic bags. And they pick at the food that might be thrown out and that kind of thing.

I would have a few questions, and I probably would bring them up again during the course of Committee. But the specific arms that would be used, you know, that is something that is not really addressed in the legislation or not specified.

Also, there is nothing addressing what the criteria would be to qualify someone who might want to apply to shoot the birds. So, what kind of arms would be used? I know usually that a BB gun, or air guns are the norm. But I do not know if there has been a think about that and if there is any consideration as to the specific firearms that will be allowed to be used, if it is anything other than an air rifle or something like that. Also, [what about] the criteria that is going to be used if there is someone who sees it as an entrepreneurial opportunity, you know, how would they qualify? We have gun clubs, rifle clubs in Bermuda. So I am sure there are eminently qualified marksmen to hit a pigeon or a bird. Also, we have the Bermuda Regiment, where there is arms training there. So, someone who has done their time in the Bermuda Regiment, and they might, you know, say, This is a great entrepreneurial opportunity, and want to know, how do they qualify to help destroy these thousands of birds? So I would like to know what the criteria would be for that.

I think it is a good thing that there is provision for exceptions to be made and that the Minister has these discretionary powers. Because, of course, there could at any one time be an emergency situation or an urgent situation that has come to the attention of the Minister, and they do not need to go through any bureaucratic process. So it is a timely piece of legislation. And it is not something that is contentious from this side. So, I would end by saying that the deterrent of [the current] $200.00 fine for offences in the principal Act is certainly not adequate. So the raising of that to $2,000.00, I think, is a very strong message and a deterrent. So that is something that I am glad to see that is included in the piece of legislation.

I think with those brief comments, I would not have anything much more to add, save and except that I would also support the certain species of birds being used for scientific research. I think that is a great way to utilise a piece of legislation that would give scientists an opportunity to do necessary research that could help not just people here in Bermuda, but maybe set some global precedents with regard to discovering a unique disease or finding a way to cure an existing disease. So that is an excellent consideration, I think, included in the legislation as well. So with those few comments, Mr. Speaker, be assured that we do support this piece of legislation.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Member care to speak?

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from Warwick West, constituency 28, MP Jeff Sousa. You have the floor.

Mr. Jeff Sousa: Yes, good evening, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good evening.

Mr. Jeff Sousa: I just wanted to rise just for a couple of minutes this evening to say that I am very supportive of these measures. We have all seen the damage that chickens and bantams have caused Island-wide. And of course, we know that we have these thousands of birds. And the figures we hear are unbelievable. And this was caused by past hurricanes. But we have this issue, and I know that the chickens are causing great damage to our farmers, who have enough difficulty worrying about pests and disease, as well as storms and things like that.

Also, the pigeons and ducks are causing great nuisances to many of the hotels. And we certainly do not need that.

Legislation like this needs to be addressed all the time. All of us love to see cardinals, redbirds, [chick-of-the-villages], which is the White-eyed Vireo, in our gardens. And we actually, you know, today if you look at things like this, at one time the cardinals were a pest to farmers. Today, we buy sunflower seeds to encourage cardinals to come in our garden, because, of course, in Bermuda, we do not have skunks and foxes and mammals and stuff, so we have birds, which is really important.

But I do feel that . . . (My colleagues are trying to hear me on, but it is all good. My birthday is in a couple of hours.) You know, I do really . . . And of course, I salute organisations like the Bermuda Audubon Society for the great work that they do in the community. And I do feel that shooting, culling the birds is the most humane way to do it versus drugging them. You know, I do not feel that that is a good—poisoning them, I should say, that is not a good thing to do. But I do see the damage, obviously, being in the horticulture landscaping trade. We as horticulture landscapers have to treat the feral chickens no different than, you know, slugs and caterpillars; they cause the same death.

But as I said, we have to constantly look at legislation like this because things change. We can remember, I believe it was probably before the 1960s when kiskadees were brought into Bermuda to actually, as an environmental . . . to keep down the lizard population. So things change all the time. But I am very supportive of these measures, and I would thank the Minister for bringing this forward. Thank you.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 3, St. David's. MP Foggo, you have the floor.

Ms. Lovitta F. Foggo: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I just would like to weigh into this as well, because first of all, I think . . . And I am speaking for every Bermudian when I say we all know the type of pest that the feral chicken has become known as on our Island shores. And it is unfortunate that we are here today having to put legislation in place that will allow for us to better maintain the population of that particular bird. But as the Honourable Member who just took his seat stated, we must change with the times. And indeed, legislation should always be reflective of the community within which we live.

And so, Mr. Speaker, here we are today, putting in measures that some may find . . . Some may even call it "draconian" because they love all living creatures. But they are measures which indeed are needed in order to control a pest which does decimate gardens when they are allowed to run free, pests which we find are scavengers. And on our Island shores, a tourist community, sometimes we see some of the effects of their scavenging. And it is not a pretty sight, Mr. Speaker.

These measures, I think, are very specific measures which for the most part will be very targeted in terms of reducing the numbers of feral chickens, and we do not have to be as concerned as we would if we were using poisons or what have you that would likely impact other aviary species. And we do not want to do that, because as the Member who just took his seat said, you know, we have birds like the cardinals, the bluebirds and other birds that, I guess, we are happy to see flying around at any given point in time. And we want to certainly make certain that any competitors that they may have are not going to be in a position where they can harm their numbers.

So, Mr. Speaker, when you even look at, as a community thing where I am sure I know I receive numerous phone calls, too many to mention . . . I would think, because my Honourable Member who sits in the seat for constituency 4 is a neighbour, if you will, to me, I am sure she has been plagued by those same type of phone calls, because the numbers of feral chicken were so out of hand. And even after measures were put in place, and those numbers were reduced. When I drive around today, I see that those numbers are increasing again, and I know that they are, because I am beginning to have those telephone calls again.

And so, it is a necessary evil, if you will. And I am happy that we are again putting measures in place which, for the most part, will not have a detrimental effect on the environment, but will bring about the desired results that we are looking for.

So, I was happy to weigh in on this, and you do have our support over here.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair now recognises the Honourable Member from constituency 4, St. George's South. The Deputy Speaker, MP Roberts-Holshouser, you have the floor.

Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Indeed I have received phone calls about chickens. But also pertaining to this Bill, this particular Bill that we have before us today, and contrary to what we have heard, I actually receive phone calls of, How dare you! and Why must you kill? I love crows. The pigeons are so cute. So, Mr. Speaker, there is another mindset out there that does not quite understand the concept of this legislation and why it is necessary.

So I obviously, as I normally do, had to do a little bit of research and a little bit of homework, and even have come up with an additional recommendation. So, Mr. Speaker, one of the things I did while doing the research, I clicked, or a friend of mine, together we clicked on a YouTube video. And it was of someone's home chicken coop. They had this pet chicken in a coop. They had the door flap open, and they were filming. And, Mr. Speaker, down flies a crow, and the crow was sitting on the chicken coop, obviously a little bit nervous and hesitant; he knows someone is around. And after a few minutes, you watched the crow go into the chicken coop and sit on the edge of the chicken coop with the chicken's egg in his mouth before he flies away.

So one of the things that caught my attention was the fact that . . . I did not know that crows ate eggs. So, indeed, that is one of the challenges that our natural birds or the birds that we are trying to protect suffer the consequences of.

Mr. Speaker, it is not just the crow that we have listed; it is the few others. And of course, we have had individuals speak of pigeons. But, Mr. Speaker, one of the things that I discovered was, we are well aware of the erosion in our cliffs, as a Member mentioned earlier; he mentioned erosion. But the erosion to our cliff face has reduced the number of nesting facilities for our longtails. And as a result of the decrease, they are also in competition with the pigeons, who are looking for those same nesting places. So, as a result, we have this competition between the longtailed birds with our pigeons, which we see continuing to grow in number.

Of course, the other predators to our longtails, who find themselves nesting in areas that are closer to land, of course, are the rats. And that is another predator of the eggs.

Mr. Speaker, one of the things that, of course, I have taken an extra fancy to is our cahows. Now, of course, cahows are unique in Bermuda. They survived, as they found that they would better survive if they found their homes on more remote islands in the early days of the creation around Bermuda, because one of the predators were pigs. So by nesting in the cliff faces (and that is our cahows), they found that their nests and their eggs were better protected.

Mr. Speaker, both the cahow and the longtail only produce one egg, whereas pigeons, on the other hand, produce considerably greater numbers of eggs and hatchlings. In fact, in I believe in a two-year period, they can produce up to 400 pigeons. So, consequently, we see their numbers increasing far faster than our cahows or our longtails.

Mr. Speaker, one of the parts of research is always new knowledge. And one of the facts that I have discovered was that there were surveys in different parts of the world, Italy included, that have had great success in using a product that was used for birth control. Now, Mr. Speaker, what the birth control does, of course, it interferes with the egg hatchability. Now, I believe that that will work toward a natural reduction in the number. And in conjunction with the type of culling that this legislation brings forward, I think it would be beneficial. San Diego saw, within a 28-month period, an 88 per cent reduction or decline in the number of pigeons that were being hatched.

So, Mr. Speaker, I believe that, in conjunction with the culling, if we looked at the possibility of purchasing some products like, I believe one of them is OvoControl, which is a product that was used and it has been approved by the United States to use for the reduction of hatchable eggs. It is something that Bermuda should look to as we move closer and closer to meeting the reduction of the pest birds.

Mr. Speaker, before I take my seat, of course, I have mentioned the cahows and how important they are to us. January was the beginning of their hatching season. For an adult, they spend most of their time over the ocean, and then they return to their birth place. Mr. Speaker, I would like to encourage individuals across the Island to go onto the website, which is www—

[Inaudible interjection]

Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser: Oh, you can actually see the live stream to actually watch the cahows in their nests for the most part of the day. It is www.nonsuchisland.com. If you click onto the cahow portion, you can actually watch the live feed. For the most part of this evening, the mother has been nesting on top of, basically on top of the chick.

But, Mr. Speaker, it is the cahow that we need to protect. We went from, in the early 1960s to having 17 to 18 nesting pairs to, yes, an increase since 2009 to today of upwards of 118 nesting pairs. But they need to be protected; Mr. Speaker, or else we will continue to see the decline. So, Mr. Speaker, with that, obviously, I support the legislation that we see before us today and, in addition, would like to recommend perhaps birth control. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you very much, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Member care to speak?

Then the Chair will recognise the Minister. Minister Jeanne Atherden, you have the floor.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I am just looking at the individual responses with respect to the questions that have been raised.

It is interesting to hear the speaker from—

The Speaker: Constituency 4?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Constituency 4. That is a novel idea, and I am sure that I will make sure that the members of the Conservation Department investigate whether it could be utilised in Bermuda.

There were a couple of questions raised in terms of the firearms and the criteria. Just to indicate that, with respect to the types of firearms to be used, they use a calibre of firearm that is powerful enough to remove the pest humanely, but one that minimises the risk to the public and property. I have been indicated that, typically, it is a .22-calibre single-shot air rifle. So, you know, obviously, we are trying to make sure that it is going to be something that can do the job, but nothing more than that. And as we indicated before, there is a criterion for licensing. The commissioner will review each application on a case-by-case basis. But remember that the Minister has to actually make the recommendation initially to make sure that the person has a background and is such that we would want to say that they have a background and also some experience in terms of the type of pest that they are actually going to go out and hunt.

So the use of firearms will be strictly controlled. And we want to make it clear that it is the last course of action. Because they use traps. They use bait, as well as other things. So it is not like that is the only thing that we use to actually control the [pests]. So I think we just want to indicate that this allows us to expand it and look at another option, which will help us keep these pests under control.

I think, Mr. Speaker, all the other comments tended to relate to what we were doing, why we were doing it. And if there is anything else that I have not answered, please speak up. But I think I did cover everything.

The Speaker: I guess you will be in Committee, anyway, so.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Okay. Mr. Speaker, then I would like to move that the Bill be committed.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

The Minister has moved that the Bill be committed. Are there any objections?

There are no objections. So I would like to ask the Deputy Speaker to please take the Chair [of Committee].

House in Committee at 9:26 pm

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

COMMITTEE ON BILL

PROTECTION OF BIRDS AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Chairman: Members, we are now in Committee of the whole House for further consideration of the Bill entitled Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015. I call on the Minister in charge to proceed. Minister, you have the floor.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: This Bill seeks to amend the Protection of Birds Act 1975 to define “pest bird,” enable the Minister to issue licences for the treatment and rehabilitation of protected birds, expand the powers of the Minister to authorise any person to control or destroy any birds in certain cases, create an offence of obstruction, increase the penalty on conviction of an offence under the Act, and to make related amendments to the Firearms Act 1973. I would move clauses 1 through 3. Or shall I move them all? Shall I move them all?

The Chairman: You can move them all.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I will move them all. Okay. All right.

Clause 1 provides the citation for the Bill.

Clause 2 repeals the definition of “conservation officer” and inserts the definition of “authorised officer,” which includes any person authorised by the Minister under section 4. This clause also inserts the definition of “pest bird,” which is “any bird or species of birds, not being a protected bird, having a detrimental impact on the environment, agriculture, fisheries or other human activity, public health or public safety and which are listed in the Schedule.” This clause also adds the Protected Species Act 2003 and the Endangered Animals and Plants Act 2006 to the list of Acts from which the principal Act shall not derogate.

Clause 3 amends section 3 of the principal Act to include the treatment and rehabilitation of protected birds as a purpose for which the Minister may issue a licence.

Clause 4 amends section 4 of the principal Act to expand the powers of the Minister to authorise, subject to conditions, the control or destruction of protected birds by enabling the Minister to authorise in writing any persons who carry out such activities and also provides for such authorisation to be given in relation to pest birds.

Clause 5 inserts a new section 4A into the principal Act, which enables the Minister to amend the Schedule of pest birds after having regard to the degree to which any bird or species of birds is having a detrimental impact, and to make such an order subject to the negative resolution procedure.

Clause 6 inserts a new section 6A into the principal Act, which makes it an offence to wilfully obstruct or remove, destroy or interfere with the equipment of an authorised officer or any officer of the department acting in the execution of such provision of the principal Act.

Clause 7 amends section 7 of the principal Act by increasing the penalty for an offence under the principal Act from $200 to $2,000.

Clause 8 inserts the Schedule, which lists the common crow, starling, house sparrow, kiskadee, feral pigeon and feral chicken as pest birds.

Clause 9 makes related amendments to sections 4(2) and 6(2) of the Firearms Act 1973 to clarify that a firearm may be used and that an ammunition licence may be issued in connection with Government-approved and supervised pest control.

The Chairman: Thank you, Minister.

Are there any Members who would like to speak to clauses 1 through 9?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 13, the Shadow Minister of Environment and Infrastructure. The Honourable Glenn A. Blakeney, you have the floor.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Yes, thank you very much, Madam Chairman.

I was just wondering with regard to, I suppose under clause 9, in the carrying out of utilising firearms to destroy or even if you are going to cull the birds. What kind of budget has been allocated? And what is the rate of remuneration for someone who is granted a licence?

The Chairman: Thank you, Member.
Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I remember, because I had a little note to myself, that . . . I will have to get back in terms of how much, whether there is any degree of remuneration. I think the thing that I did notice was that there was no fee for the person. There is no licence that the person has to have in order to do this.

By and large, a lot of this would be dealt with by either conservation officers or members already in our service. So I am not aware of any licence—any fee, and I will have to check it out.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any other Members who would like to speak to clauses 1 through 9?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 13.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Well, you know, I just was wondering for the clarification, because I do know that in the past there was a rate of remuneration for an individual who was retained to destroy the birds with a firearm. So I was just wondering if that was something that was continuing or, as she said, [only the] staff at Conservation Services [would be doing it]. Because, you know, I was looking at it possibly being an opportunity for an entrepreneur who might have been an ex-military person and pretty good with firearms deciding they would invest in an air rifle and then get the licence for the ammunition and go about assisting, because this is seemingly a serious enough problem that needs to be eradicated with regard to the pests, in particular.

The Chairman: Thank you.
Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: In response to the question asked by the Honourable Member, initially it is intended to utilise persons within the department. So this, as I said, would be an expansion of their duties. And there is, obviously, the possibility of a potential partnership with the Department of Health, the Environmental Health Section. And on the one hand, while there might be the opportunity, and if that is the case, some degree of remuneration might be considered. But I think that that would be dealt with on the basis of whether the department itself is not able to keep up with the demand.

I would think with respect to the Department of Airport Operations, that would be something where we would be allowing them to do it, but not necessarily getting involved in the actual cost of it. But I will further investigate.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any other Members who would like to speak to clauses 1 through 9?

There are no other Members.
Minister, please proceed.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I move the Preamble.

The Chairman: We will move the clauses first.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I move clauses 1 through 9.

The Chairman: It has been moved that clauses 1 through 9 be approved as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?
No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: Clauses 1 through 9 passed.]

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I move the Preamble.

The Chairman: We are going to move the Schedule next.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Oh, sorry. Sorry, Madam Chairman.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Chairman: That is part of the clause. That is part of clause 8. So you are correct.

It has been moved that the Preamble be approved as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?

No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I move that the Bill be reported to the House.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Bill be reported to the House as printed.

Any objections to that motion?

No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015 was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed without amendment.]

House resumed at 9:34 pm

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

PROTECTION OF BIRDS AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Speaker: Members, the Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015 has been approved in Committee. Are there any objections?

So we will now move on then to the Second Reading of the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015, in the name of the Honourable and Learned Member, the Attorney General and Minister of Legal Affairs, from Smith's West, constituency 9. Minister Trevor Moniz, you have the floor.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I move that the Bill entitled the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2014 be now read the second time and committed.

The Speaker: Are there any objections to that?

There are none.

Carry on, Minister.

BILL

SECOND READING

BERMUDA BAR AMENDMENT ACT 2014

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you for that, Mr. Speaker.

When we get to Committee, I will amend the "2014" to "2015."

The Speaker: Yes.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: I am obliged.

Mr. Speaker, by introducing the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2014, I am pleased to present to this Honourable House this important piece of legislation which concerns two major issues as it relates to the legal profession in Bermuda.

Firstly, Mr. Speaker, as you know, the Bar Association has a challenging responsibility to govern the legal profession. As such, the Bill reflects reforms sought by the Bar Association to amend the Bermuda Bar Act 1974, firstly, to alter the Constitution of the Bar Professional Conduct Committee. This in turn promises to uphold the integrity of the profession by allowing for a more feasible utilisation of members from a limited pool to serve within the disciplinary capacity.

Likewise, Mr. Speaker, reforms are sought to expand the pool of appointments of notaries public, which will increase access by residents of Bermuda to the important service which notaries public provide.

Mr. Speaker, the Bermuda Bar Professional Conduct Committee is responsible for receiving and investigating complaints relating to the professional conduct of lawyers in Bermuda. Once its members have sufficient evidence to make a case against a member, a tribunal is then convened. And these tribunals are chaired by a judge of the Supreme Court, always. A tribunal is convened to pronounce upon whether the barrister is guilty of any breach of the Code of Professional Conduct.

As Honourable Members will no doubt appreciate, this process is very important to ensuring the integrity of the legal profession.

Mr. Speaker, at present, the committee comprises seven members, of which three are drawn from the Bar Council itself, while four are drawn from the membership at large. The reform encapsulated in the Bill is straightforward: The ratio of committee members would be adjusted such that only one member is drawn from the Bar Council and the other six are drawn from the membership at large.

This change is sought specifically because of the burden that membership on the committee currently imposes on Bar Council members. By adjusting these numbers, time and resources could be appropriately allocated to the important work of both the Bar Council and the Professional Conduct Committee.

Mr. Speaker, as pertains to the amendments to the Commissioners for Oaths and Notaries Public Act 1972, the overarching intent is to increase the number of notaries public who are able to provide this very important legal service to the people of Bermuda.

Mr. Speaker, currently, the small pool of notaries public available in Bermuda poses particular challenges. The public are at times unable to access the services of a notary public in executing notarial in a timely manner. The activity is seen by many in the legal profession as unprofitable and even onerous, especially amongst more senior members of the Bar. This is compounded by the small size of Bermuda, which creates greater potential for conflicts of interest among the limited number of those currently offering these notarial services.

Mr. Speaker, the Bill will allow for the expansion of the pool of notaries public to be achieved in three ways: Firstly, the current requirement for lawyers to be called for five years to the Bar before being enrolled as a notary public is to be done away with. New members of the Bar will be able to simultaneously serve as both commissioners for swearing affidavits and as notaries public. Of course, a safeguard is in place for the judiciary, that the person must be a fit and proper person to act in that capacity.

Secondly, Mr. Speaker, the requirement that all notaries public possess Bermudian status will be done away with. At present, there are a number of non-Bermudian lawyers who have gone through obtaining the requisite immigration permissions and could easily offer these services to residents.

Thirdly, Mr. Speaker, the number of jurisdictions from which an overseas notary public can be enrolled in Bermuda will be expanded. At present, anyone who is a qualified notary public who is legally qualified in England, Wales and Ireland can be enrolled as a notary public in Bermuda without being a lawyer. This list will be expanded to include qualified persons from all Commonwealth jurisdictions.

Mr. Speaker, the public need not be concerned about allowing junior members of the Bar to offer services as notaries public. Increasingly, the profession is already allowing such members to take on more complex and sophisticated legal work. Notarising documents generally is not very involved in comparison with general legal work. In addition, my Ministry will be working with the Bar Association and the judiciary to publish guidance relating to the obligations and responsibilities of serving as a notary so that these junior members can be assisted with respect to their new responsibilities.

Mr. Speaker, the public also need not be concerned about removing the requirement for notaries to possess Bermudian status. Serving as a notary public is not a substantive profession, but is only a supplemental service on offer by lawyers in Bermuda. As mentioned above, many senior lawyers regard the work as loss-making, and some seek to avoid notarising altogether.

In addition, the amendment makes clear that the usual immigration requirements are unaffected. As such, this Government remains committed to preserving job opportunities for Bermudians; in no way does this amendment affect this overriding concern.

Mr. Speaker, the Bar Council has been for some time engaged in a process of modernising and reforming the laws which regulate the legal profession in Bermuda. The present amendments come at the request of the Bar Council and arise directly as a result of that process. Furthermore, I have sought and obtained the support of the judiciary in this regard. And in addition to that, I did request the President of the Bar and his Deputy to meet with the Shadow Minister and Attorney General, which I believe has been done.

Mr. Speaker, I am confident that these amendments will ensure that the public are better served by the legal profession. I am pleased to say that the Ministry of Legal Affairs has a productive working relationship with the Bar Council, and we look forward to continuing to work with them in order to improve the provision of legal services.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Attorney General.

The Chair will now recognise the Shadow Attorney General, the learned Member from Sandys North, constituency 36. MP Michael Scott, you have the floor.

Hon. Michael J. Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, there are some 423 active members registered in the Bar today in our country. And I want to thank the Honourable and Learned Attorney General for the presentation of the rationale for this. But there are some 423 lawyers currently properly registered on the Bar. And I understand that in connection with the second element of this dual initiative, the notaries public, this is the only matter that had been raised in our caucus. And in particular, it was the issue of the equivalency being offered to non-Bermudian lawyers to qualify to be appointed as notaries.

May I say right away that the disciplinary elements under the Bar Act to improve the administration . . . Mr. Speaker, of that disciplinary committee and the flexibility in it, we support without reservation.

By and large, Mr. Speaker, we are in general support of this notaries amendment, as well, to increase the pool. Generally and in principle, we are. We know that the pool will increase, for example, by the removal of the five-year call requirement because that will increase the pool immediately. Lawyers called from day one can be added to the list of notaries public.

If I had struggled with any element to uphold in this matter, it would have been the equivalency argument. But may I say that there is not strong resistance to this equivalency argument. I would argue that if the Bermudian status remains in place and the Act passed without the extension of notaries to Commonwealth lawyers and all of the foreign practitioners who are here, it would still achieve some of the objectives I know that the Honourable and Learned Attorney General is seeking to achieve.

So I make the point without declaring that there will be fierce resistance to the second part of the notaries public. And with those remarks, I indicate to the House that we support this legislation.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable and Learned Member from constituency 30, Southampton East Central. MP Leah Scott, you have the floor.

Ms. Leah K. Scott: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Good evening.

Mr. Speaker, I support this legislation, particularly the part about increasing notaries to people who are not Bermudians. As a lawyer and as a person who has had to act as a notary, there is a very limited pool. And I think that allowing junior lawyers to be notaries at the same time that they are called to the Bar is going to be a good thing. We are in very, very short supply. Nobody wants to do notariats. It is not profit-making. You do not get any money from it.

When I was in private practice, we actually had a rota, and we had to spend time away from fee-earning to actually do notariats. So it is not anything that is going to jeopardise the income of any Bermudian. I think that having a greater pool will help those of us who . . . The problem is that when a person finds somebody who is willing to do notariats for you, because they cannot get anybody else, they will come to you all the time. So increasing the pool actually will make it better for all lawyers all around. So I support the legislation. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Member.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak?

There are no other Members jumping to their feet, so learned Attorney General, you have the floor.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I would only say that I thank the Shadow, the Honourable and Learned Shadow Minister for his support. I note his slight concern. I thank my Member for the support. And I move that the Bill be committed.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

It has been moved by the Attorney General that the Bill be committed.

Are there any objections?

Then I will ask that the Deputy [Speaker], please, take the Chair [of Committee].

House in Committee at 9:48 pm

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

COMMITTEE ON BILL

BERMUDA BAR AMENDMENT ACT 2014 [BERMUDA BAR AMENDMENT ACT 2015]

The Chairman: Honourable Members, we are now in Committee of the whole House for further consideration of the Bill entitled the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2014. I call on the Minister in charge to proceed. Minister, you have the floor.

AMENDMENT TO TITLE

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you, thank you, Madam Chairman.

Firstly, I move that the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2014 be amended, one, by amending the title of the Bill and the citation in paragraph 1, by substituting the following: "Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015."

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any objections to the revision, to the amendment of the title and the citation, removing it from 2014 to 2015?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 29, the Shadow Minister of Tourism, the Honourable Zane J. S. De Silva.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I do not have any objection, per se, Madam Chairman. But we did not get a copy of the amendment. And, you know, this is the second week in a row that we have had to make an amendment because of a date change.

The Chairman: Yes.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: I wish that the OBA Government would get their act together so we would not have to waste time like that. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Member, are there printed . . .

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: No. Those changes are not normally circulated, Madam Chairman. It is just a housekeeping amendment.

The Chairman: Yes. Thank you. Please proceed.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: I move clauses 1, 2 and 3, which are all the clauses of the Bill. This Bill seeks to make amendments to the Bermuda Bar Act 1974, and the Commissioners for Oaths and Notaries Public Act 1972, at the request of the Bermuda Bar Council.

Clause 1 is the citation, which is self-explanatory.

Clause 2(1) replaces section 18(2) of the Bermuda Bar Act 1974 so as to alter the composition of the Professional Conduct Committee. Currently, the committee is composed of three members of the Bar Council and four other members of the Bar Association. The amendment would result in their being only one member of the Bar Council on the committee and six other members of the Bar Association at large.

Clause 2(2) provides for commencement of this amendment on 30th of April 2015 and makes transitional provision for matters which are pending.

Clause 3(1) replaces section 4(2) of the Commissioners for Oaths and Notaries Public Act 1972 so as to remove the requirement for a barrister and attorney to be a five-year standing and to possess Bermudian status before being qualified for appointment as a notary public, and to provide that a person entitled to practice as a notary public in any Commonwealth jurisdiction is also qualified for appointment. Currently, the only qualifying jurisdictions mentioned in section 2(b) of the [Commissioners For Oaths and Notaries Public] Act are England and Wales, Scotland and Ireland.

Clause 2 clarifies that the repeal of the requirement for a person to possess Bermudian status in order to be qualified as a notary public shall not be taken to abridge or derogate from the provisions of the Bermuda Immigration and Protection Act 1956. Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Are there any Members who would like to speak to clauses 1 through 3?

There are no Members.
Minister, please proceed.

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: So, I have moved those clauses 1, 2 and 3.

The Chairman: It has been moved that clauses 1, 2 and 3 be approved, with the amendment to the title and the citation.

Any objections to that motion?
No objections; agreed to.

[Motion carried: Clauses 1 through 3 passed as amended]

[Gavel]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: I move the Preamble.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Preamble be approved as printed.

Are there any objections to that motion?
No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: I move that the Bill as amended be reported to the House.

The Chairman: It has been moved that the Bill as amended be reported to the House.

Any objections to that motion?
No objections; agreed to.

[Gavel]

[Motion carried: The Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015 was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed, as amended in the title.]

House resumed at 9:52 pm

[Hon. K. H. Randolph Horton, Speaker, in the Chair]

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

BERMUDA BAR AMENDMENT ACT 2015

The Speaker: Thank you, Members. The Second Reading of the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015 has been approved.

Any objections to that?

All other Orders are carried over. So I will recognise first the Minister for Health and Seniors.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 21

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I move that Standing Order 21 be suspended to enable me to move that the Bill entitled the Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015 be now read the third time by its title only.

The Speaker: Any objections?
None. Carry on.

[Motion carried: Standing Order 21 suspended]

THIRD READING

PROTECTION OF BIRDS AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015, I move that the Bill do now pass.

The Speaker: Thank you.

It has been moved that the Bill do now pass.
Any objections to that?
There are none. So the Bill is now passed.

[Motion carried: The Protection of Birds Amendment Act 2015 was read a third time and passed.]

The Speaker: We will now recognise the Attorney General.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 21

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I move that Standing Order 21 be suspended to enable me to move that the Bill entitled the Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015 be now read the third time by its title only.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Are there any objections to that?

There are none. Carry on.

[Motion carried: Standing Order 21 suspended]

THIRD READING

BERMUDA BAR AMENDMENT ACT 2015

Hon. Trevor G. Moniz: Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015, I move that the Bill do now pass.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Any objections to that?

So the Bill is now passed.

[Motion carried: The Bermuda Bar Amendment Act 2015 was read a third time and passed.]

The Speaker: The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Premier.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Mr. Speaker, I move we adjourn to Monday, March 9th.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 5. MP Derrick Burgess, you have the floor.

ALLEGATIONS AND DEFAMATION

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, over the past we have heard in this Honourable House stories, innuendoes, allegations about the former Government. Mr. Speaker, I have said in this House before about the two Bermudas. Depending what particular organisation you belong to, that is the way you are treated.

Mr. Speaker, in Bermuda, in particular if you repeat something more than three times, it takes on a life. That life could be a bad life, a good one, a shameful one or an evil one. And it is, what I would say, meant to publicly lynch the victim. Mr. Speaker, reading the history of lynching in United States in the Deep South, over 4,000 people were lynched in a 73-year period. And they were lynched for just looking the wrong way—not only men, but women and children.

And they have done it here. They fabricate stories about us. You take, for example, the cedar beams in Dr. Brown's . . . the supposedly cedar beams in Dr. Brown's house. Those folks who fabricated that story, they knew what that story would do. They knew there were no beams in Dr. Brown's house. But it was meant to be a lynching—a lynching that has . . . the story . . . No one has ever even apologised. It appeared in the newspaper many times—no apologies.

I have heard in this House stories about the BLDC (Bermuda Land Development Company) concerning the PLP having cronies and people getting paid. Mr. Speaker, it is interesting that the auditor's report on the BLDC deliberately omitted the Trott & Duncan and the KPMG reports, a report that said that what the board enacted at BLDC was within the by-laws of the company and within the 1981 Companies Act. But yet, the auditor of the day wrote that scathing report attacking the chairman and the deputy and myself in that report.

When you fail to put in a report [the findings] by one of Bermuda's reputable firms, Trott & Duncan, and an international accounting firm, KPMG, this is taking matters in your own hands. That [shows that] you want a certain story to go out. In fact, that same person who wrote that story, the Auditor General, told one of their friends that they wanted to publicly shame Derrick Burgess. That is fine. And probably because I refused to be quiet about the $16.7 million that that auditor—when he was the Accountant General—failed to collect, having noticed when that person went to be the Accountant General in 1994 that monies were not being collected because law firms were undervaluing real estate in order to pay Government less tax. They were fleecing the Government out of money, or . . . I won't even say "stealing", but taking money from the Government.

Normally, when you get an employee who is responsible for collecting this money and he did not collect it, I would have thought the auditor at that time would have made a recommendation that that person be dismissed. No, that person was not dismissed. They became the Auditor General. That would not happen anywhere else in the world. Yet you try to shame—

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: Mr. Speaker, point of order.

The Speaker: Yes.

POINT OF ORDER

Dr. the Hon. E. Grant Gibbons: This is getting very close to character assassination of a senior public servant. We are not hearing the other side of the story. I think it is a little bit—

The Speaker: Yes. Thank you, Honourable Member.

I think, Honourable Member, we have to be careful because the other person cannot really respond. So, move ahead, but move carefully.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Mr. Speaker, may I say, respectfully, this has been put in a public document. So that part of the story has been told. It is not like it has not been written. It is in a document for my grandchildren to read—who have read it, and were offended by it.

The Speaker: And, Honourable Member, let me just . . . I will ask you to please . . .

No. As you deliver, I think it is important to stay on a careful track, you might say.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Oh, I will do that. But, Mr. Speaker, what I will give you is fact—not innuendoes, not allegations, not stories, but fact. That is what I am supposed to do. And, Mr. Speaker, I will abide by your rules. No problem.

Mr. Speaker, the fraudulent cheques . . . three people sat in a room and convicted the former Premier, Dr. Brown, and myself of these fraudulent cheques without even an investigation. One of the people in that room had control over the police department, cornered me in a call. One of them was a lawyer, former Attorney General. And not one said, Well, let's do an investigation.

I equate that to a public lynching, Mr. Speaker, because in those days back in the Deep South, you were guilty. No, you could not even prove yourself innocent, because they hanged you, or they burned you, or they drowned you, or they shot you. And I had to prove myself innocent. It took less than five minutes to prove that to the public.

Mr. Speaker, I tell you that those three people knew those cheques were fraudulent.

Mr. Speaker, you know what happened in a court case? The Governor at that time ordered an investigation of the former Premier based on a perjurious story, and would not order an investigation into this. And then they tried to make a mockery of it because the Government said, Well, we'll pay for legal fees for the Premier and the Minister of Works and Engineering (who happened to be named Derrick Burgess).

Mr. Speaker, when that case went to Canada, the Canadian lawyers told the Attorney General that in Canada, a Government cannot sue for whatever the charge was. I do not know if it was defamation or whatever it was. And the Attorney General approached me, and I am sure they approached Dr. Brown . . . The only way this case can go forward is if you put it in your name. I said, I don't have a problem with it. And that is how it was done. That is how it got in my name.

And then you get a report entitled, The Misuse of Funds, and want us to pay it back. But yet, no recommendation was made to pay the $16.7 million that that person failed to collect. And, Mr. Speaker, when it was asked . . . Well, not was asked, but the report in the Auditor's Report of 1998 states that they could not investigate it because they had inadequate records.

Oh, that is strange. There were lawyers bringing papers for tax purposes to convey property from one person to another. You take a cheque. And you could have had an investigation. I can make an innuendo why an investigation was not held, but I am not going to do that. I am not going to do that. I think anybody can figure that out, Mr. Speaker.

And then, you know, there was a story about White's Island, about the lease there. And you would think that the Minister for Public Works drafts these leases. The lease is drafted by the technical people in the Department of Works and Engineering and checked over by the Attorney General's Chambers, not the Minister. The Minister signs it. And there was a technicality in there, and instead of the Minister saying, Let me straighten this out—because obviously this was done by civil servants—Let's straighten this out. No! Instead, they went to court to take the property away, right?

Mr. Speaker, they took it away because the leader of Cartel, who does admirable work in this country, was a member of the Progressive Labour Party, so it was wrong for him to have it. And it was even said in the local newspapers that it was done through corruption. No corruption happened there. Are you accusing our people, your civil servants, of corruption because the person happened to know me and is a good friend of mine? But who is not a good of ours in Bermuda, a country of 22 square miles, Mr. Speaker? And they are all related to me one way or the other—probably my cousin. As they might say, as one of the former Attorney General's, I think it was an Indian fellow, says, It might be unethical, but not illegal.

Mr. Speaker, I heard of the statement in this House . . . Before I go there, Mr. Speaker, a boyfriend of a relative of mine was stopped. The car was searched and they said they found drugs in it. My relative never drove that car, not once, before or after. The boyfriend stayed with her. No drugs were found in her apartment, Mr. Speaker. But guess what? She was arrested and charged and had to go to Supreme Court!

The police knew this young lady did not indulge in drugs. She does not even drink liquor or anything like that, even up to today. But she was charged, and the family had to get $20,000 for a lawyer. And after the third day—she did not even go on the stand—they released her. Twenty dollars spent.

But, Mr. Speaker, I heard in this House that all containers at the docks are X-rayed. That is not so. All containers at the docks are not X-rayed. Not. The reefer, which means the refrigerated containers, are not X-rayed. And I have been told that sometimes they will get an order from Customs, Release these containers. Let them go, without even going through the X-ray. Orders came from high up. Now, I do not know what high up means, but it came from Customs.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday I went to church. I saw one of my good friends there. And thinking about this here, because when you attack me of pilfering, removing government assets—something I have never heard before—I get offended. And more so, I can take it. This is politics, as they say. My children and my grandchildren get even more offended. We are human also, Mr. Speaker, and that is why I talk about the two worlds.

Mr. Speaker, I went home and I googled a drug case. And what we saw in there, Mr. Speaker, is the Commissioner of Police at that time, for the first time, went and demanded the original file of this particular case. And that officer would not give it to his boss. He said, Why are you asking? You can get a copy, not the original file. This has never been done before. Why the sabotage? And then that particular commissioner charged six of his officers in court. I never heard a commissioner take six of his officers to court.

An Hon. Member: They were working on the case.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Who were working on the case . . . and they were removed. And they went to court, and they were found not guilty.

Mr. Speaker, if that container had belonged to the Honourable Member Marc Bean, or the Honourable Member Zane De Silva, they would have been arrested. Why do we have these two Bermudas? Depending on what party you belong to, what affiliation, political affiliation you belong to, that is how you are treated? And you want to investigate us? You think everything that everybody does in this party, particularly black people, is wrong? That is the way it looks in this country. This party could not have done anything right because of the complexion of this party.

This is not a black party. Let me say that. I have never been in a meeting in all my years in the PLP where they said, Only blacks are allowed here. Never! I would not be a part of anything like that. I have never been in a union like that. Never! Look at my complexion. It comes from someone else. So I am not going to do that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the commissioner in this particular case ordered the return of a computer of a suspect. Never been done before. You see the difference between (when I call the two Bermudas)? One person, no involvement in a case arrested and charged. One person owned the container, not charged. And the commissioner of police was there to sabotage the whole incident. Order the return of a computer of a suspect! Wanted the original files!

This nonsense has got to stop.

Now, as long as you keep accusing us of corruption and incompetence, we will speak about this drug case and other cases that I can bring up tonight, but I will hold some of it. I will continue to speak about it, Mr. Speaker. And the person knows who I am talking about.

Sabotage!

I have got more information I can give tonight here, but I am not going to give it tonight. I will just hold it, some damning information! But I will hold it, Mr. Speaker. So I am just saying, Mr. Speaker, this country better start treating people as people—not based on their complexion, not based on who they belong to, what political party they belong to.

And, Mr. Speaker, you know, even during the lynching back in the South, you even had some of our own taking some of their people to their Massa to be hanged. And then they would say, I'm proud to deliver these people for my master. This is how we get messed up.

And people thought, somebody who does not know thinks they only lynched men. They lynched children, women! They burned them! They drowned them! They shot them! They stabbed them! That is what they did, and hanged them. And this is what I call the modern-day lynching, when you are talking about you are still investigating a party from 1998. It is like, Okay, we can't find something, so let's put something there. That is what they did in those days. And it appears that the public lynching continues in this country.

Mr. Speaker, you know, they even talked about the Dame Lois Browne-Evans Building. Mr. Speaker, I have a document before me. And I wrote to Government House about this, about an employee who is in charge of making recommendations, who gets this job and costs in these jobs, who has his own construction company and had it since 1992.

I wrote to the people to try to correct it. They did nothing. And this same person signed a contract for $3.4 million, where the PS [Permanent Secretary] is supposed to sign. The PS knew nothing about it. No Cabinet approval, but was paid $3.4 million. No special audit was done. Nothing was done, Mr. Speaker. If that had been me, or anyone on this side, you know what would have happened.

Mr. Speaker, on two occasions, I will never forget, we had a contract submitted to my PS to present to me to take to Cabinet to fit out 3,000 square feet. And the price for it was $1,228,000. And I said to my PS, What's this for? Do the police need some special walls or something? So I called in the Police Commissioner and the Minister responsible for their budget. And I asked them, I says, Look. We've got to do this office for you. Is it anything special you need in this office? They said, No, just a regular office. I said, Okay, no problem. So . . .

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Okay, Mr. Speaker, we will—

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Derrick V. Burgess, Sr.: Okay.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.
The House is adjourned to Monday, February the 6th.

Some Hon. Members: March.

The Speaker: The 9th, February the 9th.

Some Hon. Members: March.

The Speaker: That is right. It is 6 upside-down.

Some Hon. Members: March.

The Speaker: March the 9th.

[Laughter]

The Speaker: You guys are keeping me out too late at night.

[At 10:15 pm, the House stood adjourned until 10:00 am, Monday, 9 March 2015.]

Take your seat!

PRAYERS*[Pause][Prayers read by Hon. K. H. But over the years, drawing on our shared history, we have seen and acted upon the huge advantages of mutual cooperation and understanding, for the benefit of our countries and the people who live in them.MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

"Not only are there tremendous rewards for this cooperation, but through dialogue we protect ourselves against the dangers that can so easily arise from a failure to talk or to see the other person's point of view.

OR MEMBER PRESIDING

"Indeed, it seems to me that now, in the second decade of the twenty first century, what we share through being members of the Commonwealth is more important and worthy of protection than perhaps at any other time in the Commonwealth's existence. We are guardians of a precious flame, and it is our duty not only to keep it burning brightly but to keep it replenished for the decades ahead.

The Speaker: I do have a few announcements.

When the Speaker stands, the Speaker expects absolute silence.

COMMONWEALTH DAY MESSAGE*From her Majesty the Queen
Head of the CommonwealthA YOUNG COMMONWEALTH*The Speaker: Honourable Members, today is Commonwealth Day, and I will read to this Honourable House the Commonwealth Day Message from Her Majesty the Queen, Head of the Commonwealth:

"One simple lesson from history is that when people come together to talk, to exchange ideas and to develop common goals, wonderful things can happen. So many of the world's greatest technological and industrial achievements have begun as partnerships between families, countries, and even continents. But, as we are often reminded, the opposite can also be true. When common goals fall apart, so does the exchange of ideas. And if people no longer trust or understand each other, the talking will soon stop too."

Honourable Members, when the Speaker is on his feet, Members take their seats!

"With this in mind, I think it apt that on this day we celebrate 'A Young Commonwealth' and all that it has to offer. As a concept that is unique in human history, the Commonwealth can only flourish if its ideas and ideals continue to be young and fresh and relevant to all generations.

"The youthfulness and vitality that motivate our collective endeavours were seen in abundance last year in Glasgow. They will be seen again in a few months' time when Young Leaders from islands and continents gather to make new friendships and to work on exciting initiatives that can help to build a safer world for future generations. And last November in India, talented young scientists from universities and research institutes conferred with eminent professors and pioneers of discovery at the Commonwealth Science Conference, where together they shared thoughts on insights and inventions that promise a more sustainable future.

"These are stirring examples of what is meant by 'A Young Commonwealth'. It is a globally diverse and inclusive community that opens up new possibilities for development through trust and encouragement. Commonwealth Day provides each of us, as members of this worldwide family, with a chance to recommit ourselves to upholding the values of the Commonwealth Charter.

"It has the power to enrich us all, but, just as importantly in an uncertain world, it gives us a good reason to keep talking."

YOUTH PARLIAMENT

The Speaker: I would also like to inform the Honourable House that we do have three of our Young Parliamentarians who are in London at the present time and will be participating in the Commonwealth Day [activities] there.

Also, here in Bermuda, our Youth Parliament will observe Commonwealth Day, where they will visit a total of seven middle and secondary schools across the Island to initiate discussion about the Commonwealth. The topic this year, as I just mentioned, is A Young Commonwealth. These Youth Parliamentarians will deliver 30-minute interactive presentations at the schools that they attend. This programme, the Commonwealth Day Youth Expo, will bring together key international and local issues, such as youth immigration, youth unemployment, use of social media in schools, as well as gaining a heightened awareness of the Commonwealth amongst our people.

The parliamentarians that we have participating in London are Aqueelah Simmons and Shamar Morris.

PHOTOGRAPHY NOT ALLOWED IN GALLERY

The Speaker: Also, Honourable Members, while I am on my feet, I did see, myself, a very disturbing photo of a Member of Parliament on Facebook in a photo which was taken in this Chamber. And, the first matter of clarity is that the photo was taken from the Gallery.

This is absolutely, totally unacceptable. And I have asked Mr. Fox to be absolutely vigilant in ensuring that electronic gadgets are not used in the House by those in the Gallery. I will be, during our meeting of the Standing Orders Committee this coming Friday, [ensuring that] this matter will be discussed.

MESSAGES FROM THE SENATE

The Speaker: There are no messages from the Senate.

PAPERS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS TO THE HOUSE

The Speaker: The Chair will recognise the Honourable Minister, the Minister of Finance, Mr. Richards.

PUBLIC SERVICE SUPERANNUATION FUND: ACTUARIAL VALUATION AS AT MARCH 31ST, 2014

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I have the honour to attach and submit for the information of the Honourable House of Assembly the Public Service Superannuation Fund: Actuarial valuation as at March 31st, 2014.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

[Pause]

The Speaker: Honourable Member, the piece that you just did, was [it] the Legislative Pension Fund?

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: Sorry?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Well, I have a second one.

The Speaker: You have a second one. Okay. All right. I was just checking to see whether we had that. Please, Honourable Minister.

MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE PENSION FUND: ACTUARIAL VALUATION AS OF MARCH 31ST, 2014

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Yes. Thanks, Mr. Speaker.

I also have the honour to attach and submit for the information of the Honourable House of Assembly, [the] Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pension Fund: Actuarial valuation as of March 31st, 2014.

The Speaker: Right. Thank you. Thank you, Honourable Minister.

PETITIONS

The Speaker: There are no petitions.

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS AND JUNIOR MINISTERS

The Speaker: We do have two Statements. First we have a Statement on the Actuarial Report of the Public Service Superannuation Fund, from the Honourable Minister of Finance. Minister Richards, you have the floor.

PUBLIC SERVICE SUPERANNUATION FUND ACTUARIAL REPORT OF AS AT MARCH 31, 2014

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, in accordance with section 8A of the Public Service Superannuation Act 1981, I am pleased to table the Public Service Superannuation Fund Actuarial Report as at March 31st, 2014.

Mr. Speaker, the Public Service Superannuation Fund (commonly known as PSSF) was established on April 1st, 1982 by the Public Service Superannuation Act, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as “the Act”). Members will be aware that the purpose of the PSSF is to provide retirement pensions for retired employees of the Government of Bermuda and the employees of various quasi-autonomous non-governmental operations.

The plan is a typical defined benefit plan. Mr. Speaker, a Defined Benefit (DB) plan is often regarded as more valuable than a Defined Contribution (DC) plan. This is because the benefits of a Defined Benefit scheme are often calculated as a proportion of final salary, with the employer carrying the investment risk, while the Defined Contribution benefits depend on the investment performance of the participant’s account or the pension pot.

Mr. Speaker, the most significant events disclosed in this actuarial valuation are as follows:

1. The value of assets as at March 31st, 2014, is $572.747 million. And that compares to $502.3 million in the previous year;
2. The actuarial liability was $1,359,815,000 (compared to 2012, of $1,475,141,000 a year before). The actuarial liability is based on the benefits earned up to the valuation date, assuming the PSSF continues indefinitely;
3. The unfunded liability was $796,582,000. And that compares to the previous year of $983,096,000. The unfunded liability is the difference between the actuarial liability and the market-related value of the assets;
4. The ratio of pension assets-to-liabilities, or funding ratio, for the PSSF was 41.4 per cent, and that is compared to 33.4 per cent in the previous year.

Mr. Speaker, in 2014, I announced the Cost of Living Adjustment (or COLA, as it is known) increases would be suspended for pensioners until such time as the sustainability of the PSSF has been improved. This amendment results in a decrease in the PSSF’s actuarial liabilities of $422.4 million, which has been recognised by the actuaries at the valuation date.

Also during the review period, a pensioner mortality study of the PSSF was completed in 2014. This review showed that the mortality of the public sector employees in Bermuda has kept pace with mortality improvements of similar employee groups in Canada and elsewhere. Accordingly, the mortality assumption has been updated to reflect this improvement. This change results in an increase of plan liabilities of [$176,931,000].

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, hold on for me a second.

[Pause]

The Speaker: Honourable Member, do you mind holding for a minute while we make sure that Members have . . .

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: No problem.

The Speaker: I apologise.

[Pause]

The Speaker: Right. So do all Members have [a copy] right now? All right. Okay.

And also, I am just going to remind Members as well, please, if you could let me have these matters in a timely fashion so that I can push on.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: My apologies, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Right. Please. Thank you.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Right.

As mentioned, the latest actuarial review shows an improved funded ratio of 41.4 per cent for the PSSF as at March 31st, 2014. Honourable Members are aware that the PSSF has a guarantor in the Bermuda Government as far as benefit security goes. However, it is still fiscally prudent for the Government to adequately fund and to plan for these, albeit long-term, obligations and maintain the funding ratio at an acceptable long-term target level.

It is important to note that, to achieve sustainable solvency, it is not necessary that all accrued benefits be fully funded. Research of the funding statuses of regional and international public service pension plans indicate that there is no internationally prescribed funding level. For instance, most of the CARICOM [Caribbean Community] countries and the UK generally have pay-as-you-go government-sponsored occupational pension plans that are paid out of their consolidated funds. Accordingly, they are unfunded. In contrast, various government-sponsored occupational pension plans of Canadian provinces are either fully funded or close to fully funded.

Honourable Members should note that there is no simple remedy to resolve the unfunded positions of the public sector pension plans. To assist with the review of these pension plans, a Pension and Benefits Working Group [PBWG] has been established. The purpose of the working group is to review, under the Public Sector Reform Initiative, all public sector pension plans and make recommendations to Cabinet in order to ensure the sustainability of these plans and benefits in a manner that is responsible and fair to both the pensioners and members of the plans and Bermuda taxpayers. Some of the benefit changes to be considered for the PSSF are as follows:

- Change the final average earnings (FAE) definition from “the salary payable to him immediately preceding the date of his retirement” to “an average of his earnings over the five years preceding his date of retirement (or termination)”;
- Increase the age at which an unreduced pension is payable from 60 to 65 (or 55 to 60 for special groups);
- Apply actuarial reductions on early retirement prior to age 65 (or 60);
- Decrease the lump sum commutation factor from 11.5 to 10.0;
- Apply a 10 per cent reduction to the amount of pension payable to someone retiring with a spouse, who elects the joint and survivor option;
- Increase contributions; and lastly,
- Decreasing the pension [accrual] rate (for the future, and possibly the past) for active members from 1.5 per cent per annum to a lower rate.

Mr. Speaker, as reported above, the market valuation of assets in the PSSF as at March 31st, 2014, was approximately $572.7 million, representing roughly 7.4 times more than the annual projected payout of some $77.2 million in pensions and allowances for this fiscal year.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I wish to assure current and future pensioners that the Government is sensitive to the challenges facing pension plans of this nature and will take appropriate steps to preserve the long-term financial viability of the fund.

The Speaker: Thank you, thank you, Minister.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister E. T. Richards, who has a second Statement. Carry on, Minister, please.

MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE ACTUARIAL REVIEW OF PENSION FUND 2014

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

In accordance with section 9(2) of the Ministers and Members of the Legislature (Salaries and Pensions) Act 1975, I am pleased to table the Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pension Fund [MMLPF] Actuarial Valuation Report as at March 31st, 2014.

This is a mouthful, of course, Mr. Speaker, so I am going to try to abbreviate it as MMLPF. The MMLPF was established on April 1st, 1988, by the Ministers and Members of the Legislature (Salaries and Pensions) Act 1975 [the Act]. The purpose of the fund is to provide retirement pensions for the Ministers, Members and officials of the legislature of Bermuda in accordance with the Act.

Mr. Speaker, it should be noted that, when the Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pension Fund was established in 1975, there was no separate fund established. Contributions were paid into and benefits were paid from the Consolidated Fund. On April 1st, 1988, the MMLPF was established, and from that date contributions were paid into and benefits have been paid from the fund.

Honourable Members will recall that, on June 27th, 2014, I announced that COLA [Cost of Living Adjustment] clause increases would be suspended for pensioners until such time as the sustainability of the MMLPF has been improved. This amendment results in a significant decrease in the MMLPF’s actuarial liabilities, which have been recognized, by our actuaries, at the valuation date.

Mr. Speaker, the most significant events disclosed in the actuarial valuation are as follows:

1. The value of the assets of the fund as at March 31st were $12.5 million, as opposed to $10.9 million the year before;
2. The actuarial liability was $23.17 million. In the previous year, it was $26.4 million for the MMLPF; and $6.9 million as opposed to $7 million for the Consolidated Fund;
3. The unfunded liability was $10.7 million as of March 31st, 2014, and that compares to $15.4 million the year before for the MMLPF; and $6.9 million for the Consolidated Fund. And that compares to $7.1 million the previous year; and
4. The ratio of pension assets-to-liabilities, or funding ratio, for the MMLPF was 53.9 per cent. That compares to 41.6 per cent the year before.

Although the fund is currently in an underfunded position, other vital fundamentals are relatively positive. For instance, the short-term cash flow position of the fund will remain positive for the foreseeable future; currently, contributions and investment income exceed pension benefits and other fund expenses by over $350,000 per year. The value of assets in the Ministers and Members Fund on March 31st was just over $12.1 million, approximately nine times more than the annual projected pay out of some $1.3 million in pension benefits.

Mr. Speaker, the Government is the ultimate guarantor of the benefits paid under the MMLPF. Despite this, it is still fiscally prudent for the Government to adequately fund and to plan for these long-term obligations and maintain the funding ratio of the MMLPF at an acceptable long-term target level so that the fund is sustainable. It is important to note that, for sustainable solvency, it is not necessary for all accrued benefits to be funded.

Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Finance, along with the Public Benefits Working Group, is currently in the process of further reviewing the benefits of the MMLPF to ensure its sustainability.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, I wish to assure current and future pensioners that the Government is sensitive to the challenges facing pension plans of this nature and will take the appropriate steps to preserve the long-term financial viability of the fund.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you, Minister.

[Pause]

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: Mr. Speaker, while you are just talking to that, just for the sake of good order.

The Speaker: Yes. Yes.

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: Minister, the date that this was submitted is incorrect. I mean, you have got 14 instead of 15—2014 instead of 2015, just for the sake of good order.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: No, no. On both of your documents, you have got March 9th, 2014, instead of March 9th, 2015.

The Speaker: Yes, yes. It should be 2015, yes.

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: Just for the sake of good order.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Much appreciated.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The Speaker: There are none.

QUESTION PERIOD

The Speaker: We now move to the Question Period.

The Chair will recognise first the Honourable Shadow Minister, the learned Member from Sandys South Central, constituency 34. MP Kim Wilson, you have the floor.

[Crosstalk]

The Speaker: Take your time, Honourable Member. Take your time.

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Good morning.

The Speaker: Good morning.

QUESTION 1: KING EDWARD MEMORIAL HOSPITAL QUALITY ASSURANCE PROGRAMME

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: The first question with respect to being addressed by the Honourable Minister of Health is as follows: Will the Honourable Minister please advise this Honourable House if King Edward Memorial Hospital has a quality assurance programme in place to monitor lapses in patient care, and what steps are being taken to ensure quality?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: The BHB [Bermuda Hospitals Board] does have a quality of care programme, and the chief of staff oversees a quality and risk department. And it investigates and responds to complaints. The various BHB monitors, in terms of quality, they look at falls, medication errors, infections and sentinel events, which have occurred in their patients.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Supplementary?

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Do these [sentinel] events also include situations where persons have died whilst in hospital and shortly thereafter nurses enter into the room for the purposes of drawing blood on a patient who is already expired?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker and Honourable Member, a “sentinel event” is defined as an unexpected event at the hospital which potentially harms or does patient harm. And so, they recognise that those things happen and there is an investigation that deals with it.

With respect to the second part of your question, I would have to investigate that. I am not aware of that as a particular occurrence.

The Speaker: MP Wilson?

QUESTION 2: GOVERNMENT'S PRE-CERTIFICATION PROGRAMME

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Thank you.

The question number 2, Will the Honourable Minister please confirm for this Honourable House that the Government has decided to move forward with its pre-certification programme, and if the advice given by the Bermuda Medical Doctors Association, which voted overwhelmingly to reject pre-certification, has been ignored?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, [and] Members of the House, responses to the requests for information [RFI] regarding the establishment of a pre-certification programme for diagnostic imaging, expensive laboratory tests has been received. A decision has not yet been made with respect to the issuance of a request for proposal [RFP].

The Speaker: MP Wilson?

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Thank you. Supplemental.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Which is actually part of the question that was asked.

The Speaker: Okay.

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Has Government decided to proceed with a pre-certification programme, contrary to the advice of the Bermuda Medical Doctors Association?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I have to respond again that we have not yet progressed to a request for proposal. We are in the process of looking at the answers for the request for information. Obviously, part and parcel of this is examining the utilisation, which was a concern as we went forward. And that information is being processed.

The Speaker: Yes, yes. Carry on.

Ms. Kim N. Wilson: Would the Minister agree that the Bermuda Medical Doctors Association has far more expertise, particularly as it relates to matters of pre-certification, than the Cabinet does?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I am not certain where that question comes from, or the sort of circular information. At the current time, we have obviously been having discussions with the Bermuda Medical Doctors Association in terms of suggestions that they might have with respect to how the over-utilisation can be reduced.

I do not have in front of me anything that says that the Bermuda Medical Doctors Association voted overwhelmingly that they were not in favour of pre-certification. They have obviously indicated by their reviews that they believe that utilisation needs to be examined, and that is what we are all doing, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes. The Chair will recognise the Member from constituency 29, MP De Silva, you have the floor. Supplementary?

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes?

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Minister, if the Bermuda Medical Doctors Association were to recommend to you and the Cabinet not to proceed with pre-certification, would you then follow their direction?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker [and] Members of the House, I would have to deal with that hypothetical situation at the time it arose. But in the interim, I must admit and advise the House, because it is useful to enlighten individuals, that the Bermuda Medical Doctors Association have been looking at this whole question of utilisation and suggesting that maybe there should be some more guidelines for their members to try and reduce over-utilisation.

So we are having a dialogue. Because the bottom line is, how do you make sure that the right tests are ordered at the right time and utilisation goes down?

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Yes. The Chair will recognise now the Member from constituency 26, the Leader of the Opposition. M. A. R. Bean, you have the floor.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Good morning.

The Speaker: Good morning. Good morning, good morning.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Mr. Speaker, I would like the Honourable Minister to confirm the position of her Government in regard to pre-certification—not whether, or not the process for issuance of an RFP has proceeded, but the actual policy position of the One Bermuda Alliance Government's idea to introduce pre-certification.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Is the Government going to proceed with it?

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: I should have asked Dr. Gibbons.

The Speaker: Yes, Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I could turn around and say, Question asked and answered. But I am actually going to repeat. A decision has not yet been made with respect to whether we are going to proceed for a request for proposal. We are in the process of evaluating not only the information from the RFI, but looking at the utilisation that has progressed since we started to look at the whole question of pre-certification.

The Speaker: Thank you. Minister, you had the floor.

We will now recognise the Honourable Member from Hamilton West, constituency 6, MP Furbert. Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Wayne L. Furbert: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Honourable Member said that they had not decided on an RFP yet. Has the Cabinet made a decision to move ahead with pre-certification? Not an RFP—has the Cabinet made the decision to move ahead?

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, the Ministry is still reviewing the RFI information in order to make a recommendation to the Cabinet with respect to having an RFP. And at the current time, what we are doing is making sure that we are not just relying on an RFP. We are actually working with the doctors to look at the utilisation, because the bottom line is to try and have the utilisation decreased. And that is what we are doing.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Yes, the Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 35. MP D. Lister, you have the floor.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Dennis P. Lister: Mr. Speaker, we are all rising to our feet, it seems, on this side because we are just looking for a simple, straight answer, in that it was the OBA Government that introduced the concept of pre-certification. What we are simply looking for is whether or not the OBA is still committed to what they introduced, or have they stepped away from it?

The Speaker: Minister? Go ahead, Minister.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: I guess I am trying to figure out . . . Some people know something about a work in progress. Well, this, right now, the information that we would need to make the decision was culled when we started to get the RFI, that is being processed.

We are trying to look at whether we want to progress to the next step or whether there has been subsequent, if you will, better performance by the doctors which indicates that, having raised the issue and having looked at guidelines and other items, that perhaps this is progressing and therefore the utilisation is being driven down.

Once we have been in a position to be able to determine whether pre-certification is the way to make this happen, or whether, if you will, the stick rather than the carrot is better, then we will make the decision.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you. Thank you, Minister.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 13, Devonshire North Central, MP Glenn Blakeney.

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Yes. Thank you, and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: So, with regard to pre-certification, the Minister is now confirming that the Government has not made a commitment. She has not, and the Government is not committed to pre-certification. They are just investigating the viability and feasibility.

The Speaker: Question?

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: But there is no commitment been made.

The Speaker: What is the question? The question is—?

Mr. Glenn A. Blakeney: Would the Minister agree that the Government has not made a commitment to pre-certification?

The Speaker: Thank you.
Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: The Minister will confirm that the Government is committed to reducing utilisation. And we have not yet made a decision with respect to whether we will progress to pre-certification.

The Speaker: Thank you. Thank you, Minister.
The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 29, MP De Silva.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.
So, Minister, you talked about you wanted to reduce over-utilisation. Do you not agree that if pre-certification comes about, that the doctors who look after patients, and some of them all their life, are not in the best position to make a decision whether a patient receives . . .

The Speaker: Yes. Honourable Member, that is a hypothetical question. You really are not to ask that. That is a hypothetical question.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Okay. Let us rephrase it if I can. I will try to rephrase it, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes. Yes.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Minister, you talked about over-utilisation and the need for pre-certification. Do you not agree that if pre-certification is a requisite of—

The Speaker: That is still hypothetical. Thank you.
The Chair will recognise the Honourable Leader of the Opposition. MP Marc Bean, you have the floor.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Hon. Marc A. R. Bean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.
I would like to ask the Honourable Minister a simple question. Would she agree that this whole movement for pre-certification is driven by the insurance companies in this country, in particular one particular insurance company, and the resistance is coming from the doctors under the Bermuda Medical Association?

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.
Minister?

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: Mr. Speaker, I do not agree. And normally, I would just say no. But I think this circle is going around and around. And I think it is beginning—

The Speaker: Just answer. Just answer in your best way.

Hon. Jeanne J. Atherden: No.

The Speaker: Thank you.
You have had your supplementaries, Honourable Member.
All right. Thank you, Honourable Members.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

HOUSE VISITORS

The Speaker: Let me just also indicate two things. First, that we have the Members from the Youth Parliament here, who are here to observe Parliamentarians.

[Desk thumping]

The Speaker: So, Youth Parliament, we have two members. There are four altogether, just two here.
Then also, it looks like we have, first of all, former Minister, Minister Neletha Butterfield, in the Gallery.

[Desk thumping]

The Speaker: And her students. It looks like your students who are there, as well.
Thank you very much.

[Continuation of Question Period]

The Speaker: We now move to the first Ministerial Statement, and I will first recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 18, Pembroke West Central. MP David Burt, you have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

QUESTION 1: PUBLIC SERVICE SUPERANNUATION FUND ACTUARIAL REPORT AS AT MARCH 31, 2014

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, in regard to the Minister's Statement, the first question that I have is about the Minister's Statement on page 4. The Minister states that the "Pension and Benefits Working Group . . . has been established." Is there any timeline on when they are expected to complete their deliberations?

The Speaker: Yes, Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I do not think there is a specific timeline, no. They are working away as best they can. But there is no deadline for it.

The Speaker: Thank you.
MP Burt, you have a—

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary.

The Speaker: Supplementary, yes.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker.
Mr. Speaker, has the Pension and Benefits Working Group made any recommendations thus far?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Not formally, no.

The Speaker: Thank you.
MP Burt, again?

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, therefore, will the Honourable Minister please then clarify where the one, two, three, four, five, six, seven recommendations which are in his Statement—where did they come from?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Well, they are not recommendations. They are options. And they came from this working group. But they are not recommendations; they are options.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.
MP Burt, yes? You have a second question?

QUESTION 2: PUBLIC SERVICE SUPERANNUATION FUND ACTUARIAL REPORT AS AT MARCH 31, 2014

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, unfortunately, I must move on to my second question in an attempt to clarify my first question. Because the Minister said that no recommendations came from the committee. But then he said from the Pension and Benefits Working Group. But then he said that these seven things came from the committee. So I guess I am trying to seek clarity. Is it because the Minister thinks that there is a difference between recommendations and options? Is that what the issue is? Because we have things that are being considered. So the question is, did they come from the Pension and Benefits Working Group, or did they come from somewhere else?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I do not understand why the Honourable Member does not understand the difference between “options” and “recommendations.”

[Laughter]

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I mean, they are self-explanatory. They are options at this point. A recommendation is something that you say, Do this or Don't do that. We do not have that yet. These are options.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.
Yes.

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. E. David Burt: So, would the Minister please clarify how his Government intends to move from options to recommendations?

The Speaker: Yes. Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, these issues are quite complicated, and we are working through them. And as we are working through them with this group, which is, I guess, a child of the SAGE Commission, we continue to work through this. And we will have some sort of recommendations that will be promulgated in due course.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.
MP Burt, yes?

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes?

Mr. E. David Burt: To continue upon that topic, were all the options, as I will call them, which have been presented in the Minister's Statement—were all the options, did all of these come from the Pension Benefits Working Group or were some suggested by the Cabinet?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I do not think any of them came from Cabinet. This is part of the working group, which includes officials in the Ministry of Finance.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Yes, MP Burt.

Mr. E. David Burt: Third question, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes?

QUESTION 3: PUBLIC SERVICE SUPERANNUATION FUND ACTUARIAL REPORT AS AT MARCH 31, 2014

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, on the third page of the Minister's Statement, he states that "it is important to note that [to achieve] sustainable solvency, it is not necessary that all accrued benefits be [fully] funded."

Could the Minister please elaborate on that statement so the members of the public can understand specifically what he is referring to?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

What this means is . . . (I am trying to find it here.) There it is, on page 2 of this Statement. It says that "the ratio of pension assets to liabilities . . . is 41 per cent." What I mean by . . . The answer to the Member's question is that this ratio does not have to be 100 per cent for the fund to be sustainable over the long period of time, over the long term. So, just because it is underfunded, it does not mean that the fund is in danger of collapsing, and the public should understand that. When you see a pension fund that is underfunded, it does not necessarily mean that there is some sort of impending doom insofar as the pension plan is concerned. So it does not have to be 100 per cent funded for it to be sustainable over the long term.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I thank the Honourable Member for that, because I think it is very helpful for the members of the public.

As a supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. E. David Burt: Could the Honourable Minister then clarify what, in his view, is a sustainable level or a sustainable level of the, I guess you could say, the funding percentage?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Well, Mr. Speaker, one cannot generalise on these things, because whether it is sustainable or not depends on the actual features of the fund. But I think that . . . And I do not know what a particular number is in the case of the PSSF. But I think most people consider that the underfundedness of this particular fund is a matter of concern. And I think that that is the bottom line.

I am not going to stick my head out to the extent where I can put a number down. But 41.4 per cent of funding is not sufficient. I think the actuaries may have varying opinions on what is sufficient. But we do know that this fund, there are some problems with this fund at this level of funding.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Yes, Member from constituency 18 again, MP Burt.

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

My second supplementary on my third and final question is, Would the Minister agree that the issue, that the accrued liability or the underfunded basis of the pension fund assumes that there would be no further contribution at any given date, and that is what we are looking at when we are talking about the underfunded level? It is assuming that there [will be] no further contribution and this is what the fund would have to pay out? Could the Minister please confirm that to this Honourable House?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: I am not sure I know the exact answer to that question. But I do know that the underfundedness has to do with the value of the assets versus the actuarial present value of the liabilities. And if that means that you are assuming that there are no further contributions, actually I am not sure about that. So if you know that and I do not know that, that is fine. But I do know that the actuarial estimate of the present value of the fund is a very tricky thing to estimate—very tricky. There are assumptions all over the place. So, it is problematic.

But it sounds logical, Honourable Member, but I cannot say that for sure.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Members.

We now move to the second Statement, and the Chair will again recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 18, the Shadow Minister of Finance and the Deputy Premier [sic], from Pembroke West Central. MP D. Burt, you have the floor.

Mr. E. David Burt: Good morning, Mr. Speaker, again.

The Speaker: Good morning again, yes.

QUESTION 1: MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE PENSION FUND 2014 ACTUARIAL REVIEW

Mr. E. David Burt: And some of these questions might seem a little bit repetitive. But on page 3 of the Minister's Statement, the Minister states, "... and maintain the [funding] ratio of the MMLPF at an acceptable long-term target level so that the fund is sustainable."

Again, Mr. Speaker, I will ask, Given that the funding rate shows at 53.9 per cent, and that is higher than the PSSF, can the Honourable Minister please indicate what, in his view, would be an acceptable long-term level?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: You know, it is a similar question to what he asked before. I do not have a number. The only difference here, Mr. Speaker, is that part of this fund is actually coming out of the Consolidated Fund for those people who are members before the actual fund was set up. And that is kind of what makes a difference here.

Also, the contribution level to this particular fund is much, much higher than for civil servants. But I am not going to say what that number is, because I do not know what it is.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Yes, Member from [constituency] 18 again.

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, the Minister keeps saying he does not know what that level is. However, both of his Statements speak about an acceptable long-term target level. When and how will the Government come up with what that number needs to be? Of course, if we are going to get somewhere, we need to know the target which we are going to reach. How will the Government come up with that target?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, I can commit to the Honourable Member to get the actuaries to come up with that number. This is an arcane science here. And therefore, if he wants somebody to come up with that number, I do not know how useful that will be, but we can get it anyway.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplemental.

The Speaker: Yes, your second supplementary.

Mr. E. David Burt: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes.

Mr. E. David Burt: Would the Honourable Minister agree that it is useful because he has mentioned a long-term target in his Statement. And if we have a long-term target as he mentioned in his Statement, should the Government not have the actual idea of what this target level is supposed to be?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: The Honourable Member just asked the same question a few minutes ago. There is no point in repeating the question because the answer is going to be the same.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

MP? Yes. MP Burt, yes, your second question?

QUESTION 2: MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE PENSION FUND 2014 ACTUARIAL REVIEW

Mr. E. David Burt: Second question, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, in the Minister's Statement, he refers to the cost of living increases that were suspended and which represented an experience gain in both funds. The question is, How long does the Minister intend to leave the cost of living adjustment freeze in place?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: There is no definite date on that. It is going to be suspended until further notice.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Yes, MP Burt?

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I thank the Minister for his response to the question. I guess the follow-up question is, Is this something that the Pension and Benefits Working Group will be looking at insofar as . . . because we realise that the experience gain that this has caused. It has put the fund in a better-funded position, but on a long-term basis, it seems that it would be unsustainable to imagine that there is not going to be any cost-of-living increases.

So, is this something that the Pension and Benefits Working Group will be looking at?

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, the removal of the COLA clause was the result of the work of this working group. And it has helped the fund to be on a more solid level. Which is why I say it [will certainly remain], indefinitely, or until further notice. Our objective here is to do what is necessary to help the sustainability of the fund. So I am not sure what the Honourable Member is driving at. But, certainly, this cost-of-living adjustment clause has been the bête noire of defined benefit pension funds globally. [It is] based on assumptions and conditions that do not exist anymore, because these things were generally put in [place] 30–40 years ago.

So, that is my answer to that. I do not know when it is going to come back. It might come back, but I am not sure.

The Speaker: Thank you, Minister.
Yes.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I will move on to my third question.

The Speaker: Yes.

QUESTION 3: MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE PENSION FUND 2014 ACTUARIAL REVIEW

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, previously in this Honourable House, the Honourable Minister has indicated that he believes that there should be major changes to the Ministers and Members of the Legislature Pension Fund.

Can the Minister please confirm to this Honourable House that Cabinet is still committed to reviewing the structure of the MMLPF insofar as the benefits that are received to former Ministers and Members of the Legislature?

The Speaker: Yes. Carry on, Minister.

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: We are looking at both of these public sector pension funds to try to make decisions to help them to be more sustainable to people who have served the public of Bermuda.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Minister.

The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member Burt for a supplementary.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. E. David Burt: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, as a supplementary, in regards to the changes, the Honourable Minister of Finance has indicated that they will be looking at changes.

However, there are no options presented in his Statement.

Will the Honourable Minister please enlighten this Honourable House as to what options the Government is considering of which may have come from the Pension and Benefits Working Group? We have got options in one Statement, but none in this Statement, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Minister?

Hon. E. T. (Bob) Richards: Mr. Speaker, I think generally, the options described for the PSSF are similar to the smaller fund. I mean, they apply. Just because they have not been outlined in the second paper does not mean that those options do not apply.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Thank you, Minister and the Member, the Shadow Minister of Finance.

That concludes the Question Period.

CONGRATULATORY AND/OR OBITUARY SPEECHES

The Speaker: We now move to congratulatory and/or obituary speeches. And the Chair will first recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 2, St. George's West, the Junior Minister of [Community, Culture and] Sport. MP Nandi Outerbridge, you have the floor.

Ms. Nandi Outerbridge: Thank you, and good morning, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Ms. Nandi Outerbridge: Mr. Speaker, on Friday I had the opportunity to attend a charity fundraising event with the Premier. And it was put on by the International Woman's Club of Bermuda. Basically, what the art event did was women of Bermuda were donating pieces of artwork to this art show, and it was for sale. So the proceeds and the benefits from the art show went to the Kaleidoscope Foundation and the Phenomenal People Foundation.

I just want to send congratulations to all the women who put it together and donated the pieces. It was a very well-put-together show. And the Premier and I even had a little giggle because the most popular artwork for sale, or what sold first, was the chickens.

[Laughter]

Ms. Nandi Outerbridge: Pictures of chickens. We were coming back that evening to debate the Protection of Birds Amendment Act; so that was funny.

While we were there, we did run into Flora Duffy's mom, who said she was competing over the weekend. So I just followed that race, actually, and I would like to send congratulations to Flora, who placed third at the World Cup Triathlon. I would like to associate the Minister of Education—the whole House. I will associate the whole House with this, for placing third place in the World Cup Triathlon in Abu Dhabi. And I am sure that Flora is enjoying her experience as much as Bermuda is proud of her out there representing us.

Whilst on my feet, lastly, I would like to send congratulations to the gymnast, Ms. Tabytha Hofheins, on winning the Gold Medal in Montreal for the National Gymnastics Team in Bermuda. Tabytha is the captain of the team, and she has done very well.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable and Learned Member from constituency 31, Southampton West Central, the Minister for Tourism and Transport. MP Crockwell, you have the floor. Minister Crockwell.

Hon. Shawn G. Crockwell: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to send congratulatory remarks to the most recent travel agency that officially opened up today, known as TRIP, Mr. Speaker, TRIP Bermuda. I had the pleasure of being able to cut the ribbon this morning. The company has been in existence for a little while now, but they were just doing sort of soft launches and getting the actual operation going. They had their official opening today. It is located there in the Washington Mall upstairs, and offers its clients services in various languages, in English and Portuguese. It provides sort of a balance of modern technology, because you know how the online travel agents have sort of taken over. But this is going to give the customers the opportunity to have your traditional travel agent, but be exposed to all of the modern technology that we find today with travel.

It is fully Bermudian owned, Mr. Speaker. And it was the dream of the late Ms. Lois Wilson, who passed away a year to this date, Mr. Speaker. And in honour of that, this is her family. It is a family-owned business, and they wanted to continue on with her dream and fulfilling her dream. And so I would like to congratulate them and tell them that it is good to know, as the Minister of Tourism, that Bermudians still have confidence in the tourism industry. I would like to associate the Honourable Member, Mr. Blakeney, with that. And I wish them much success, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 29, Southampton East. MP De Silva, you have the floor.

Hon. Zane J. S. De Silva: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would like this Honourable House to send congratulations to Mr. Collie Buddz. Well, you know I put my hand up, Mr. Speaker, he is my son-in-law. And just recently he was voted Artist of the Week in California by Cali Roots 2015. So, Mr. Speaker, he continues to excel in the sport of entertainment. And I associate Mr. Wayne Furbert, Jeff Sousa, Mr. Cannonier, Pat Gordon-Pamplin and, of course, MP Weeks would like to be associated. So thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Member from Warwick West, constituency 28. MP Jefferson Sousa, you have the floor.

Mr. Jeff Sousa: Good morning, Mr. Speaker, and good morning to those in the House and those who may be in the listening audience.

The Speaker: Good morning.

Mr. Jeff Sousa: Certainly, a gorgeous winter day.

Yesterday, the Bermuda Classic Bike Club had their annual Charity Ride. And of course, we all enjoy to see these vintage bikes and also listen to them, because it brings back times of our youth. And of course, it depends on how old you are whether you had a Triumph, Zundapp, Mobylette or Peugeot.

In particular this morning, I would like to send congratulations to one particular gentleman. And that is Mr. Paul Martins, who has opened up a Vintage Transportation Museum in the Bermudiana Arcade. And I would like to associate Member of Parliament Glenn Blakeney with these comments. Here you have a gentleman who has put on display his personal collection. I went to see it a couple of weeks ago, and I must say it was quite impressive, that this person has done this. And of course, it is everything from vintage dinghies to things like Seagull engines. Of course, the Mobylettes, the Triumphs and stuff. Of course, in particular, I love the orange Mobylette that he had there.

The Speaker: Do not forget the Cyrus now, the Cyrus.

Mr. Jeff Sousa: A little older than me.

[Laughter]

Mr. Jeff Sousa: Mobylette and Peugeots.

And of course, I was informed that nothing was for sale. But it was a very impressive collection. And of course, it is great when private citizens take it upon themselves to do this, because otherwise, these things would go missing. I mean, he even had a horse that was [used] on an attraction up on Khyber Pass you know, way back in the day in the 1940s. And of course, he had many artefacts from the Railway Trail and so on. It was really sharp. So I certainly would like to thank, again, Paul Martins for keeping this stuff, which is part of our history. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Chair will now recognise the Honourable Minister, the Minister for Community, Culture and Sport, from Paget West, constituency 23. Minister Patricia Gordon-Pamplin, you have the floor.

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and good morning.

Mr. Speaker, I noticed the Honourable Member never mentioned the Velosolex.

Some Hon. Members: Ooh!

The Speaker: Oh, that one hardly moved!

[Laughter]

Hon. Patricia J. Gordon-Pamplin: Mr. Speaker, I had the privilege on Friday night and again on Sunday to attend the soccer match that was organised by the BFA [Bermuda Football Association] at National Stadium, the friendly between Bermuda and Grenada. On Friday, unfortunately, I was not able to stay, but I had the opportunity to go and meet the teams, stay for the National Anthem and then we had to, obviously, come back to this honourable place.

But Bermuda was able to hold onto a 2–2 draw on Friday night. And on Sunday, again I had the privilege of going and watch a stellar display by our young people as they were able to grab a 2–0 win against Grenada. Mr. Speaker, I believe that our young people, our young men on our soccer national team deserve our thanks and congratulations, and the BFA for putting on quite a good event. It is a FIFA-sanctioned [Fédération Internationale de Football] event, and it was ever so professional. I was really quite proud to stand and to see how efficiently the whole programme was conducted. And I think the BFA deserve our hearty congratulations.

And I would also like to associate the Shadow Minister, Honourable Member Weeks, and the Junior Minister, Honourable Member Outerbridge, all of whom were also in attendance.

The Speaker: Did they have any Dandy Town players on the team?

[Inaudible interjections and laughter]

The Speaker: The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member, the Honourable Member from constituency 16, Pembroke East Central, the Shadow Minister of Community and Culture. MP Michael Weeks, you have the floor.

Mr. Michael A. Weeks: Yes, good morning, Mr. Speaker. Good morning, Honourable Members.

I too just rise to my feet because I want to give hearty congratulations to the coach of Bermuda's national team, as well as his staff. I think John Berry Nusum, the name of one, and Mr. Lowe, Coach Lowe, Maurice Lowe, a former Dandy Town player (whose name just left me for a minute). But, Mr. Speaker, I just want to add that in the FIFA, the world FIFA rankings, Grenada is about five to seven spots, I think, above Bermuda. So they came down with the understanding that they were just going to have a warm-up. But lo and behold, you know, our team was ready and rose to the occasion.

And I must say that I, too, like the Minister, had to leave on Friday. I was only there for the first half. But I must say that the players really deported themselves well, and on Sunday again. And I really want to say that, so often we only hear about our young men, especially young black men, with handcuffs, and through the negative things. But this was a group of men, even some teenagers, Berkleyites, and I must say Dandy Town products. They started, they were on the field, and they did, not only their club, but our country proud. So I take my hat off to the coaching staff and those young men. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak?

Yes. The Chair will recognise the Honourable Member from constituency 8, Smith's South, the Government Whip. MP Cole Simons, you have the floor.

Mr. N. H. Cole Simons: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I rise this morning to send condolences to the family of Elizabeth Elsie Clark. She is the matriarch of the Clark family of Harrington Hundreds, Smith's Parish. She was a lively character, and she was known for not mincing her words. She told us how it was and what it was, with no hesitations or reservations. She loved animals, and that was the only thing that she really showed true compassion for, her animals, her cats and her dogs. But anybody, do not cross her. You will be cut dead in a minute. She was a long-time employee at Perot Post Office, the Flatts Post Office, and the Gibbons Company. So again, I would like to send my condolences to the family, Jennifer Clark and Tallent Clark, for the passing of their mother and grandmother, one lively character. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you, Honourable Member.

Would any other Honourable Members care to speak?

This is the end of the congratulatory and/or obituary speeches.

MATTERS OF PRIVILEGE

The Speaker: There are no matters of privilege.

PERSONAL EXPLANATIONS

The Speaker: There are no personal explanations.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

GOVERNMENT BILLS

The Speaker: The Speaker: We have no government Bills, but I believe there is an Opposition Bill?

OPPOSITION BILLS

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, good morning.

The Speaker: Good morning.

FIRST READING

DECRIMINALISATION OF CANNIBIS ACT 2015

Mr. E. David Burt: Mr. Speaker, I move for leave to introduce and read for the first time by its title the following Bill, so that it may be placed on the Order Paper at the next day of meeting, the Decriminalisation of Cannabis Act 2015.

The Speaker: Thank you.
Any objections to that?
The Bill will be laid.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

The Speaker: There are no notices of motions.

ORDERS OF THE DAY

The Speaker: We move now to the Orders of the Day. We are going to resume in the Committee of Supply for further consideration of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16. And we will resume with the Home Affairs, Head 60.

I am asking if MP D. P. Lister would please take the Chair [of Committee].

House in Committee at 11:23 am

[Hon. Dennis P. Lister, Chairman]

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

[Continuation thereof]

The Chairman: Good morning, Members. We are now in the Committee of Supply so that we can continue the Budget Debate.

As the Speaker said, we are on the Ministry of Home Affairs. And we are actually going to do the Department of Workforce. And it is going to be led by the, I believe, the Junior Minister. We are doing Head 60.

Junior Minister, are you ready?

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Yes, sir.

The Chairman: We recognise the Junior Minister Richards. You have the floor.

MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS

HEAD 60—DEPARTMENT OF WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman, I move that Head 60, founds on pages B-321 to B-326 of the Approved Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure . . . I will start over. I really have to get up close to this [microphone], I am so tall.

Mr. Chairman, I move that Head 60, found on pages B-321 to B-326 of the Approved Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Year 2015/16 be now taken under consideration.

Mr. Chairman, it is my pleasure to present Budget Head 60, the Department of Workforce Development. Honourable Members can find the relevant budget information on pages B-321 to B-326, Current Account Estimates; page C-15, Capital Acquisitions; and page C-20, Grants and Contributions of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure.

The Department of Workforce Development is divided into four programmes:

1. 6001—General Administration;
2. 6002—Labour Relations;
3. 6003—Career Development; and
4. 6004—Training.

Mr. Chairman, Honourable Members will note that last year's budget brief spoke to the new direction that the National Training Board will take under this Government. It was mentioned that the board will serve as the umbrella training organization tasked with bringing together representatives from existing training bodies and associations under one entity, as well as develop a National Training Plan.

The board is developing the plan in two parts. This decision was based on a desire for continuing stakeholder input and involvement and ensuring adequate time is allowed for further consultation and input before moving forward with our implementation strategy.

Mr. Chairman, it is my pleasure to report that the National Training Plan, Part I, was successfully completed and made available to the public for further consultation and feedback in June 2014. We view this plan as a roadmap aimed at strengthening Bermuda's competitive position in our local and global markets.

Part I of the plan is an analysis of the economic sectors that the board focused on, in the first instance, with the goal of understanding the current job market and determining how best to move Bermuda from its largely uncoordinated workforce training regime to the adoption of short-, medium- and long-term views. This approach will enable Bermuda to become more self-sufficient in the supply of human resources needed to support and sustain our economy and, more importantly, position us for economic growth. The plan details things such as the number of Bermudians versus non-Bermudians in various careers and highlights where the demand for Bermudians is greatest.

Part I has been issued with the full expectation that it is an evolving document that will develop over time as new opportunities and workforce needs arise. Part I of the plan remains available for viewing on the Government website, under the Ministry of Home Affairs.

The following highlights of the plan should be noted:

- It is a forward-looking document.
- The findings are based on industry input.
- It reviewed five key economic sectors, those being:
 - Government Ministries, Corporate Bodies and Agencies;
 - Financial and Insurance;
 - Hotels and Hospitality;
 - Development and Infrastructure; and
 - Sales and Services.
- The plan also identifies potential job opportunities.
- It highlights training, certifications and standards.
- It lists several recommendations and actions.
- It invites further input to ensure it continues to evolve.

Mr. Chairman, the plan, among other things, stresses the need for soft skills training and suggests how targeted soft skills training in schools could be successfully implemented. It also provides some unemployment figures and identifies the kinds of jobs that Bermudians are and are not attracted to, and why there is a perceived cultural bias against service industry jobs.

The plan notes that, while Bermuda has the facilities and the ability to provide many certifications on-Island, that service is not being provided to the fullest extent. The plan offers several recommendations, including the reintroduction of shop classes for carpentry at high schools, the introduction of numerous career road shows, the implementation of grass roots trades education in schools, the offering of tax incentives for hiring Bermudian apprentices in all sectors and the removal of the perceived stigma attached to technical trades.

Mr. Chairman, the plan is a tool to help mobilize Bermuda to a place of reducing our reliance on overseas labour because we will have carefully considered the future needs of the economy and developed our people accordingly.

The outreach programmes to communicate the National Training Plan consisted of:

- a presentation to members of the Government Senior Executive;
- a CITV interview with the Chair of the National Training Board and the Director of Workforce Development;
- an interview with the Chair of the National Training Board on the David Lopes morning show;
- a 10-part series radio programme with Gina Spence-Farmer of the Bermuda Broadcasting Company with the respective National Training Board committee members;
- town hall meetings held at Francis Patton School, Hamilton Cathedral and St. James Church;
- presentations at both the Berkeley and CedarBridge High Schools; and
- posting of the plan on the Government Portal.

Mr. Chairman, Part II of the plan is a continuation of Part I, and it will:

- build on the work and research already completed;
- incorporate feedback and ideas received from consultation;
- focus on implementation of the plan and identify the required resources; and
- propose a sustainable management and governance structure.

Part II will focus on the development and implementation of training and entry level positions across industry sectors, as well as identifying the resources required to do so, and, where appropriate, policy considerations.

Ultimately, we see this plan as a tool to fulfil our goal of ensuring opportunities for all Bermudians in the market place.

Finally, as Bermuda moves to reposition itself as a top destination for business, it is hoped that the National Training Plan will be seen as the standard bearer for the coordination and forward planning of the training and development needs of Bermuda's workforce.

Mr. Chairman, the department will be issuing a request for proposal for selecting a vendor to work on new software development for the existing Job Board. This will allow the Job Board to display opportunities that may arise as a result of expiring work permits. This functionality will benefit the job seeker by being able to enhance and retool their skills and education. Further enhancements will include the creation of a report for employers to assist them with providing the Department of Immigration with information with respect to satisfying the criteria of the new work permit policy. The request for proposal process will begin in early March, with selection of a vendor by the end of April 2015. A Cabinet memo will be presented, with a potential contract start date in June. Development on the Job Board should begin in July 2015.

Mr. Chairman, on July 29th, 2014, the Department of Workforce Development and Bermuda Cablevision announced their partnership to provide a television channel dedicated to showcasing available jobs in Bermuda. By simply going to Channel 87, job seekers can view a scrolling display of all of the available positions from the Bermuda Job Board. This allows individuals the convenience of viewing available jobs and their closing dates (posted on the Bermuda Job Board) from the comfort of their own home. They can then go to the Bermuda Job Board to apply online.

Mr. Chairman, this supports the efforts of the National Training Plan in that it allows the maximum outreach of employment opportunities and assists in matching suitable candidates with the right employers.

Mr. Chairman, here are some specifics with respect to the budget. And this is from the Current Account Estimates for 2015/16, found on page B-322.

The Department of Workforce Development budget allocation for 2015/16 is set at $4,776,000. The comparative budget figure for 2014/15 was $5,200,000. This will result in an annual savings of $424,000, or an 8 per cent decrease from the 2014/15 budget expenditure.

Mr. Chairman, as previously mentioned, the department budget consists of four programmes, as noted on page B-322, those being:

- 6001—General Administration;
- 6002—Labour Relations;

- 6003—Career Development; and
- 6004—Training.

I will now walk Honourable Members through these numbers and provide an overview of the planned expenditure.

Mr. Chairman, [line item] 6001 is the General Administration Section. This section is responsible for the overall management and administration of the Department of Workforce Development. Cost centre 70000, Administration, variance versus 2015/16, which is found on page B-322:

Mr. Chairman, the original estimate for 2015/15 was $618,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $660,000, which represents an increase of $42,000, or a 7 per cent increase. The original number of employees for 2014/15 was three. The estimate for 2015/16 is four employees, an increase of one.

Mr. Chairman, the Administration section is staffed by three full-time employees as indicated, consisting of the director, an administrative accounts officer and a receptionist. Included this year is also a two-year temporary additional IT system support officer. The total wages are $352,745, which represents 53 per cent of the total cost for this programme. The other costs of $308,018, relates to general expenses such as rent, local consultants, software maintenance, utilities, office cleaning, building security, photocopiers and general office supplies.

Mr. Chairman, the total variance is an increase of $42,000, or 7 per cent, due mainly to including a temporary additional systems support officer post. This individual will be responsible for database and application support for PC users, software issues, and help desk support. During the recent restructuring, the department has commenced development and implementation of various computer software applications, such as the Bermuda Job Board, an electronic case management system, an amalgamated department website, and an improved computer training lab consisting of twenty computers and three smart boards.

These software applications are not supported by the government's Information Technology Office (ITO) and require enhancements, regular maintenance, troubleshooting and help desk support. It should be noted that these applications and systems are still being developed and customisations and enhancements are still taking place. The recruitment process for this post is currently underway.

[Line item] 6002 is the Labour Relations Section which includes three cost centres, found on page B-322.

- Cost centre 70010, Labour Relations Administration;
- Cost centre 70011, Labour Relations; and
- Cost centre 70012, Arbitration and Tribunal.

Cost centre 70010, Labour Relations Administration, variance versus 2015/16, found on page B-322. The original estimate for 2014/15 was $222,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $200,000, which is a decrease of $22,000, or 10 per cent. There are two employees; that will remain unchanged for 2015/16.

Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this funding is to provide for the management and administration of the operations and staff for the Labour Relations Section which consists of the labour relations manager and one administrative assistant. The total wages for this section is $176,796, which represents 88 per cent of the total cost for this programme area. The other $23,085, or 12 per cent, will be designated for certifying the labour relations officers as mediators, participating in the International Labour Organisation conferences and seminars to ensure that labour relations staff are conversant with international trends and for the ongoing education of the community to create awareness of good employment practice.

The labour relations manager is responsible for overseeing the administration of the arbitration panel and the employment tribunal. The schedule and organisation of hearing dates, notification to parties and general enquires related to the referral of matters to this stage fall under the manager's province. This has enabled the process to become more streamlined and allow panel members the freedom to prepare for upcoming hearings without being burdened by simple procedural queries.

The administrative assistant provides secretarial and clerical services to the section. The labour relations manager guides the staff in the section to ensure that existing policies and procedures are adhered to, that the section's operations are aligned with the current legal framework and anticipate international trends.

Mr. Chairman, during the course of the year there have been many changes in the Labour Relations Section. The section has experienced a complete overhaul of staff as three members of staff resigned to pursue careers in related areas. These changes have enabled the section to review its approach to labour relations in Bermuda, streamline its practices with international approaches to the challenges that labour relations experience worldwide in response to the continuing challenges of economic resuscitation and recovery. The need for officers to be adequately trained as mediators has never been more imperative with the number of labour disputes that continue to percolate in Bermuda. The wealth of the section has been identified in its ability to offer conciliation and mediation to opposing parties and enable them to come together. Recognising that disputes between labour and employers can only be resolved through cooperation and consultation.

The section continues to have its hand on the pulse of developments in employment. The need to share the view of good employment practices with employers and employees has been recognised as an important means toward reducing the number of disputes. To this end the department has been engaged in offering seminars, workshops and presentations to selected groups, individuals and schools in an effort to broaden the understanding of good employment practice. This in turn will cultivate sustainable employment relationships and invite economic prosperity by bringing awareness to the methods in which disputes may be avoided through constructive cooperation and consultation. The section's activities and aims enable the labour relations manager to systematise the education process and help to encourage a systematic approach to investigations and advice disseminated by the labour relations officers.

Senator, the Honourable Mr. Fahy, has deemed it necessary that our labour laws be updated and adapted to be more responsive to 21st century labour issues. We welcome his discernment in the need to strengthen the legal framework that shapes the employment relationships in Bermuda. The Labour Section has shared and continues to share the challenges that they encounter daily as they assist in resolving the volume of disputes in their charge. The labour relations manager has attended the reform committee meetings and when this committee's activities resume will continue to render service in this regard.

Mr. Chairman, it is anticipated that amendments to the labour legislative framework for employment practices will be enacted during the coming fiscal year.

Mr. Chairman, [cost centre] sub-account 70011, Labour Relations, variance versus 2015/16, found on page B-322. The original estimate for 2014/15 was $423,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $394,000, a decrease of $29,000, which represents 7 per cent. The number of employees will remain at four; no change.

Mr. Chairman, the staff complement for this programme comprises four substantive labour relations officers. As explained earlier the section has undergone many changes in relation to its staff. At its lowest point during January and February of this year the section had only one labour relations officer. A recruitment drive revealed two suitable candidates and these new officers will take up office in March 2015. The total salary budgeted is $368,618, or 94 per cent of the total allocation. The remaining funds of $25,000, or 6 per cent, are allocated for professional development and refreshing certification and training in mediation and conciliation, educational outreach seminars and workshops.

The total variance is a decrease of $29,000, or 7 per cent, due mainly to the reduction in the overseas training budget. The purpose of this funding is to provide for the general operations of Labour Relations Section. The resolution of disputes, providing employment practice advice to the plethora of queries received and sharing and implementing the provisions in the Employment Act 2000, the Trade Union Act 1965, the Labour Relations Act 1975 and the Labour Disputes Act 1992.

These funds are allocated for the provision of the Labour Relations officers who service the Bermuda workforce, employers (including government), unions and private sector representatives in understanding their rights and responsibilities, executing these in accordance with the statutory provisions and international best practice standards and bringing awareness to avoiding conflict.

Mr. Chairman, during 2014 there were approximately 661 matters lodged with the Labour Relations Section of which 445 were consultations. [There were] 198 complaints filed pursuant to the Employment Act 2000 and 18 grievances (unionized) reported pursuant to the Labour Relations Act 1975 and/or the Labour Disputes Act 1992 with the breakdown as follows:

- Constructive dismissal—5;
- Layoffs—9;
- Maternity Leave—1;
- Vacation pay—7;
- Reduced work week/overtime—13;
- Redundancy—21;
- Sick pay—5;
- Terminations—114;
- Wages/pay—41;
- Total Disputes—216;
- Consultations—445;
- Total—661.

The term “consultation,” Mr. Chairman, refers to circumstances where advice and guidance are provided to either employees or employers and may include a telephone call, e-mail or meeting. These are to be distinguished from disputes as this process has proved to be invaluable in resolving dissension, strife or contention before it crystallises into a dispute. The labour relations officers suggest, to those who may enquire, advice based on current good employment practice guidelines. The premise being that the conflict between labour and [employers] can best be served through the peaceful and constructive methods of cooperation and of consultation.

The number of consultations continues to rise and the staff of the Labour Section are increasingly finding that many of their resources have been attributed to assisting the public in this regard. The Department of Workforce Development has identified this increase as an element of the success of the Labour Section in sharing with the community the importance of good employment practice and making them aware of the services that the section provide. This may also be attributed to the change in attitude of the community toward the employment relationship, realising that help can be sought before a relationship deteriorates into a dispute and effectively avoid conflict.

More and more employees and employers are seeking to avoid contention and dissension in the workplace and are instead seeking to create a more harmonious environment where employment rights are protected. Our records indicate that approximately 80 per cent to 85 per cent of complaints lodged with the section during 2014/15 were successfully resolved with the assistance of a labour relations officer.

Mr. Chairman, LRO's, or labour relation officers, are instrumental in creating a space where complaints in both unionised and non-unionised environments may be resolved through mediation and conciliation or referred to the appropriate statutory board or tribunals such as the Employment Tribunal, the Permanent Arbitration Tribunal, or the Essential Industries Disputes Settlement Board. Further, the department facilitates the management of the certification process, from the time of the application, through to any necessary ballots, to the final order of certification issued by the director. Additionally, where an employer may desire to end its relationship with a union, the decertification process must be undertaken with the supervision and oversight of a labour relations officer.

These budgeted funds enable the officers to keep their pulse on the labour market in Bermuda, advising the Government as to the current state of labour and any changes that have been suggested on an international level by the International Labour Organization (ILO). The benefits of the deployment of these funds are that the staff in the Labour Relations Section contribute to the stability of an efficient labour market. In the anticipation of the roll-out of new legislation the involvement of the labour relations officers is key as a resource to educate sectors of the community in their application and continuing the campaign for improving Bermuda's employment practices.

Mr. Chairman, to further demonstrate the application of the funds for the section it is necessary to note the pivotal role the labour relations officer occupies in the very public and recent labour disputes involving the Bermuda Industrial Union and the Fairmont Hamilton Princess, the Department of Marine and Ports, Department of Parks, the strike notice issued by the teachers of Whitney Middle School and the Ministry of Education, and, most recently, the dispute between the BTUC and Government of Bermuda.

Mr. Chairman, if I may, I will elaborate more on the dispute involving the teachers at Whitney Middle School and the Ministry of Education, where a strike notice was issued. The labour relations officers acted swiftly in inviting both parties to consult on the issues that were creating an impasse. Once consultation ensued, the matters of contention became areas of discussion and the school was able to begin the academic year with a full complement of teaching staff. The strike was averted.

Another notable success of the section was the publicised certification of the Bermuda Public Service Union at the Clarien Bank Limited. This certification was historic in that it is the second bank in Bermuda to have its non-managerial staff unionised. The section offered both parties clarification on the issues, encouraged open and frank discussion around the effect and consequences, and ensured that the ballot process was clear to all involved.

Mr. Chairman, the Labour Relations Section continues to experience the after effects of a Supreme Court decision rendered in the last fiscal year.

Mr. Chairman, you may recall that this judgment clarified the manner in which matters were referred to the Employment Tribunal and offered helpful guidance to the section in terms of the role of a labour relations officer. The section has continued to adapt and evolve with the Supreme Court guidance stepping firmly into its position of an impartial third party enabling parties to reach a settlement and exhausting all opportunities to bring this about. This has enabled a shift in the perception of the services offered and widens the scope of assistance that is provided.

Mr. Chairman, over the past fiscal year, in addition to the certification of the BPSU at Clarien Bank Ltd, the Labour Relations Section facilitated the process for three other certifications: the BIU at Masters Home Centre Ltd, the BIU at DHL and additionally certification was attempted by BIU at Brown & Co though certification was not successful.

The Labour Relations Section ensures that the application process accords with the provisions of the Trade Union Act 1965, thereby systematising the application process for all those concerned. The assistance that the section provides benefits the entire process and enables the parties involved to be fully aware of the process and participate wholeheartedly. The section has been able to modify and improve the process of certification, learning from mistakes and omissions. This has resulted in a robust and constructive application process. Parties turn to the section for guidance, instruction and advice.

The time taken to facilitate the certification process involves a high volume of communication with the parties and their representatives. Mediation is key to ensure that the process is clear to all involved. The labour relations officer is responsible for the entire ballot process and this involves much behind-the-scenes activities devoted to ensuring a smooth process. The section works closely with the Ministry Headquarters where the certification process has not been successful. This has allowed for new learning experiences in terms of dealing with the appeals from the parties.

Mr. Chairman, the Labour Relations Section has been strengthening its public outreach efforts participating in eight such events during the year. The benefits to the public being aware of their human rights as it relates to employment and the best employment practice have been recognised as areas that need greater concentration and focus. With the change of the staff in the Labour Relations Section, there has been a directional shift in the target populations as recipients for seminars and workshops.

The section has sought to be more creative and discerning in the delivery of its message and selection of the target audiences to maximise understanding.

Toward the end of 2014, the section began a campaign to educate school leavers and arm them with knowledge in respect of employment. This project has led labour officers to make presentations to the graduate classes at the senior schools on the Island, both public and private. This campaign is ongoing. The reports from the schools and students have been positive and encouraging.

The reasoning behind this campaign stemmed from a need to educate the future leaders of the Island about good employment practice to enable them to think about employment in terms of not merely jobs, but the development of an ongoing relationship that needs to be nurtured and preserved. The section has met with students at Mount Saint Agnes and Warwick Academy schools and aims to complete the remaining senior schools before the end of the current academic year.

The section has also committed to reaching out to the restaurant industry, construction industry and salons in an effort to improve these segments of employment infrastructure that is at the forefront of service on the Island. It is envisaged that a systematic approach will be adopted to safeguard the sanctity of the human rights of the individual in these working environments, be they employee or employer.

Mr. Chairman, I will now review cost centre 70012, Arbitration and Tribunals, variance versus 2015/16, found on page B-322 of the Budget Book. The original estimate for 2014/15 was $136,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $140,000, which represents a $4,000 increase, or 3 per cent. The number of employees remains unchanged, at one.

Mr. Chairman, this budget allocation will underwrite the cost of the salary of an administrative assistant of $74,808, or 54 per cent, and the balance of $65,000 will underwrite the associated costs for arbitration and tribunal hearings, the fees for the panel members' service and office supplies.

The variance is an increase of $4,000, or 3 per cent of the total cost, due to the complex nature of matters that are being referred for resolution. Matters that are being referred for resolution include multiple complainants and several issues. The panel is often required to meet on more than one day to digest the issues, read the pleadings prepared by counsel and then to conduct the hearing. Following this, the decision is then drafted with input from the entire panel. Over the past fiscal year, we have seen the number of matters referred to a panel for resolution decrease percentage-wise in relation to the total number of disputes that are lodged with the section. However, the factual and legal matrix surrounding disputes has intensified.

In 2014, 10 matters were referred to the Permanent Arbitration Tribunal, and one additional matter that arose in 2014 is due to be heard and completed this year. [There were] 26 matters referred to the Employment Tribunal.

Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this funding head is to offer the community an alternative to dispute-resolution process. When the labour relations officers are unable to effect a settlement in a matter, or it is the wish of the complainant to have the matter referred and an officer believes that the employer has breached the law, then the matter may be referred for resolution to such a panel. This resolution process is less formal than court proceedings and is accessible to the layperson. Additionally, there is no cost to the parties.

Referral to the Employment Tribunal or an arbitration panel is a process that ensures that all disputes reach a conclusion. Parties may wish to take their disputes further to the Supreme Court in the event that they are not satisfied with the panel's decision or there is a belief that the panel has erred in applying the relevant law to the issues before them. Appeals from the panel decision are few and far between, and on the whole the community accepts the decision of the panel. The Labour Relations Section has worked tirelessly in reducing the number of cases awaiting hearing before a panel and in moving matters to the panel once it is clear that conciliation and mediation have no effect on the position adopted by the parties.

Mr. Chairman, this section is supported by one administrator, who executes all administrative functions in support of the Employment Tribunal, the Permanent Arbitration Tribunal, and the Essential Services Disputes Settlement Board, including but not limited to the coordination of meetings, preparation and circulation of agendas, minutes, awards and general correspondence. This post also provides administrative support to the Ministry of Home Affairs and the Labour Advisory Committee.

This administrator has been instrumental in recording the proceedings for the panel members to have a record of reference when it is time to review the factual and legal issues before them. In the event that the panel decision is appealed, this record is formalised into a record for the Supreme Court. It is a necessity to keep accurate records of panel hearings for a more transparent and efficient dispute-resolution process.

Mr. Chairman, [line item] 6003 is the Career Development Section, which includes two sub-accounts, found on page B-322. Last year, this programme consisted of three sub-accounts, those being cost centre 70300, Career Development Administration; and cost centre 70400, Career Development (formerly named Employment and Placement, which now also includes what was previously Assessments and Career Development, sub-account, [cost centre] 70200).

The Career Development Section continues to be restructured, with emphasis on providing professional services to both job seekers and employers in finding suitable employment and assisting with staffing needs. With the objectives of the department now modelled after the Career Centre concept, the focus of the Career Development Section is on client assessment, job readiness and job search, with an emphasis on soft skills. Where necessary, the clients will be referred for training and other support services that may be required to prepare them for suitable employment. The move to two cost centres more accurately reflects the functioning of the section.

Mr. Chairman, I will now review cost centre 70300, Career Development Administration, variance versus 2015/16, found on page B-322. The original estimate for 2014/15 was $189,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $192,000. This represents an increase of $3,000, or 2 per cent. The number of employees remains unchanged, at two.

Mr. Chairman, Career Development Administration is staffed by two full-time officers, consisting of a manager and one administrative assistant. The total wages are $176,796, or 92 per cent of the total budget for this cost centre. The remaining budget of $15,000, or 8 per cent, relates to the expense of staff training and office supplies.

Career Development Administration provides management and support for the day-to-day operations of the Career Development Section. It includes administrative support for the career development officers and manager, and scheduling of various job preparedness workshops, client appointments and job referral tracking. Also included is the maintenance and updating of the Career Information and Development System (or CIDS), the Job Board and the central filing system. Maintenance of the E-1 Accounting processes and procedures will also be carried out to ensure accurate monitoring of the budget throughout this fiscal period.

Career Development Administration is responsible for conducting research on various career options, including maintaining and utilising various databases on educational requirements and programmes, scholarships, labour market statistics, career paths and qualifications. Management supports the synergy between the Career Development Section and the Department of Financial Assistance for their unemployed clients, and the Department of Immigration in regards to new work permit policies.

Mr. Chairman, I will now review cost centre 70400, Career Development (formerly, Employment and Placement, which now also includes former sub-account, [cost centre] 70200), variance versus 2015/16, found on page B-322. The original estimate for 2014/15 was $402,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $412,000, an increase of $10,000, or 2 per cent. The number of employees remains unchanged, at four.

Mr. Chairman, the Career Development Section is staffed by four full-time Career Development officers. The total wages are $350,056, or 85 per cent of the total cost for this sub-account. The remaining costs of $61,750, or 15 per cent of the total cost, relates to the expenses for providing staff training, assessments, marketing and office materials to assist the section in performing its duties.

Mr. Chairman, Career Development officers conduct and administer comprehensive career and skills assessments to develop individual case management and career plans. Clients are referred to internal and external service and training providers or support services to minimise employment barriers and maximise employment opportunities. Support is provided to assist clients in identifying personal strengths and areas for development to facilitate decision-making around realistic career goals, developing a plan of action and ensuring job preparedness and suitability to access job opportunities. Clients are monitored to promote job retention. Career Development officers also build working relationships with employers to facilitate successful employment referrals and maintain current with industry trends.

Mr. Chairman, the Career Development Section has successfully participated and executed a number of initiatives to help those underemployed and unemployed to gain access to job opportunities as well as position individuals for successful outcomes with job search. In March, Career Development successfully hosted a job fair with the Royal Caribbean Cruise Line, with a number of young Bermudians given an opportunity to work with the cruise line in a variety of areas. Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to report that Che Augustus will board the Enchantment of the Seas within a month as a bar utility worker and Sherlina Thomas has already boarded the Legend of the Seas, in October, out of Quebec. Ms. Thomas is employed as a guest services officer. During her appointment, she will visit over 24 different ports.

Mr. Chairman, with the launch of the Bermuda Job Board and CableVision Channel 87 dedicated to posting job vacancies, access to information on current job opportunities has broadened. To date, the Job Board has 3,349 candidates registered and 502 employers registered, and currently, there are 135 available jobs posted. The Job Board continues to see considerable activity, with 10,034 job applications submitted to date.

Weekly Job Board training sessions are held in order to assist the general public and clients of the department to build their online profile and upload pertinent documents such as a résumé and written references. These sessions are listed on the department's Monthly Training Calendar. A technical officer is also available to meet employers with posting adverts or addressing any queries to operating the Job Board. On March 1st, 2015, the new work permit policy went into effect, requiring employers to advertise available positions for at least eight consecutive days on the Job Board prior to applying for short-term or standard work permits.

Mr. Chairman, the King Edward Memorial Hospital Redevelopment Project Completion initially forecasted approximately 450 Bermudians and spouses of Bermudians to be displaced. There were 40 contractors/sub-contractors included in the KEMH Redevelopment Project. Of the anticipated 450 displaced workers, contractors identified and subsequently referred 146 individuals to register with our department.

During interviews and information gathering, it was identified that there were several potential labour issues, resulting in all the department's managers meeting with the 40 contractors in April of 2014. This meeting addressed several major concerns, particularly with contractual agreements. Due to the nature of the meeting, the responsibility of the 146 individuals rested back with the contractors to adhere to contractual agreements. Mr. Chairman, this was an excellent demonstration of the working synergy amongst all sections of Workforce Development and the assistance provided to these persons.

Mr. Chairman, Career Development has engaged in multiple outreach initiatives to both inform of the department services as well as assist Bermudians. The section hosted a joint initiative with the Bermuda Industrial Union to promote registration with the Department of Workforce Development and assist the general public with registering on the Job Board. Approximately 85 individuals attended, receiving services in résumé development, creating an e-mail account and completing a candidate profile on the Job Board. Recent university graduates and previous Summer Employment Programme participants volunteered their time to assist clients who had limited computer literacy.

Mr. Chairman, similarly, Career Development, Training and Labour Sections provided expertise and support for a job readiness event held at the Somerset Cricket Club in conjunction with Kim N. Wilson, JP, MP for constituency 34, Sandys South Central. Approximately 70 individuals participated in the workshops, which focused on interviewing skills, résumé writing, training, employability skills and a synopsis of the Employment Act. Breakout sessions also occurred for attendees to receive individual guidance from career professionals.

Career Development has participated in two events hosted by the Pembroke Parish Council—a Community Day event, as well as the Great Debate—manning a booth to disseminate information on department services. Team members from the Career Development and Training Sections attended the Mount Saint Agnes School Career Day, sharing career, training and labour market information with high school students.

Mr. Chairman, research from the National Training Plan, as well as feedback from employers highlights the need for soft skills training. I am pleased to report that a career development officer was invited to present a series of workshops for those students pursuing the City & Guilds Employability Skills Award. [There were] 90 students who participated in the sessions, which were interactive and focused on Behaviour in the Workplace and Business Etiquette. Students were actively engaged and were required to prepare a report on the workshop as evidence for their City & Guilds Portfolio. We look to continue this partnership, as it is vital for ensuring that our young people understand appropriate work ethic and the skills and qualities employers seek in employees.

The department also presented the findings of the National Training Plan to the S4 students at Berkeley and CedarBridge Academy. This was a golden opportunity to speak to the students about real-life examples and convey the importance of learning, acquiring more education and advancing their skills to compete in a global market. Further, students learned how their choices will impact their respective outcomes in life. These students can utilise the plan for career development purposes.

Mr. Chairman, the Career Development officers facilitate monthly presentations at the Department of Financial Assistance for their clients. The presentations' emphasis is an orientation to services of the section, department initiatives, goal-setting and driving their personal career plan. These workshops have been well received by those in attendance, who are challenged to consider retooling to better position themselves for current employment opportunities.

Mr. Chairman, the Career Development's outreach extended to the radio waves where representatives from the Career Development Team participated in a promotional series which occurred weekly as a segment of the Gina Spence-Farmer Show, FM 89.1. The series highlighted and informed the listening public on matters relating to the National Training Plan and the department's services. The officers were accompanied by two clients. One client is currently receiving services, and the other is currently employed as a result of the department's referral. The officers shared information with the listening audience about services, as well as job search strategies. Each client represented their experience with the department. The listening audience were provided with an opportunity to ask questions and share concerns. The section had an outlet to showcase their success stories.

The Career Development also offers monthly in-house workshops for Keyboarding, Introduction to Microsoft Word and Introduction to Microsoft Excel for clients, at no cost. All sessions are a gentle introduction to technology and software to help clients gain confidence and encourage them to pursue formalised training. Soft skills training will be a staple of the Monthly Training Calendars, with opportunity for mock interviews, interview skills, résumé critique and development, customer service, understanding what employers want, business etiquette and time management, to name a few.

Mr. Chairman, there was a joint initiative held between Workforce Development, the Housing Corporation, and the Department of Parks, which provided opportunities to 78 participants for a three-week rotational period, working along with the Department of Parks to clean up and maintain grounds and public areas throughout the Island. Participants also participated in activities within the Government Plant Nursery and performed clerical tasks in the Parks Office. The labourers also assisted with painting government facilities.

Mr. Chairman, the Summer Employment Programme is a major initiative for Career Development, which met with yet another successful year. A full 150 college and university interns received the opportunity to work, some in their area of study. Each intern received the maximum 10-week placement, with a $5,000 stipend. Students were placed across government, private and non-profit sectors. The Minister of Home Affairs hosted a reception to showcase interns' work experiences. Supervisors were invited to attend and were acknowledged for their willingness to provide the career development opportunity and mentoring to each student. Mr. Chairman, you may recall Markus Raynor Brangman, a culinary arts student with pursuits of becoming a pastry chef, featured in the Royal Gazette, working at the Reefs alongside the executive chef. Kudos to him!

Mr. Chairman, the department has successfully tracked the summer employment applicants for the past four years, using the www.careers.gov.bm database. We now have sufficient data to assist employers in determining the future talent pool for Bermuda. This information will assist the National Training Board with implementation of Part II of the National Training Plan.

Mr. Chairman, as the Career Development officers work diligently to assist the underemployed and unemployed, it is important that the Career Development team remain current with trends, employment guidance, service delivery and labour market information. I am pleased to inform that during the year, all Career Development officers engaged in professional development and completed the Global Career Development Facilitator (GCDF) Training with the National Career Development Association. They are eligible for the GCDF certification, which is a globally recognised certification for Career Development professionals.

The Career Development team participated in multiple webinars to enable officers to remain current with the latest career development trends and research. The team to date has completed webinars for Understanding Code of Ethics in Career Development, Winnowing Assessments in the Information Age, and training in the CareerScope Assessment tool for assessing career interests and aptitude. Scheduled training will continue for the year 2015/16.

Mr. Chairman, during the year, approximately 2,075 candidates came to the Department for Career Development Services, and currently, there are approximately 2,214 unemployed persons registered in the department's database to date. During the year, approximately 49 individuals were referred to employers per month, with an average of 10 individuals per month being hired.

Mr. Chairman, I will now refer to [line item] 6004, which is the Training Section, found on page B-322. There are three cost centres:

- cost centre 70014, Training Administration;
- cost centre 70015, Certification;
- cost centre 70016, Apprenticeship and Professional Development.

Cost centre 70014, Training Administration, variance versus 2015/16 numbers, found on page B-322, are as follows: The original estimate for 2014/15 was $256,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $232,000, which represents a $24,000 decrease, or 9 per cent.

Mr. Chairman, the section is staffed by two full-time employees, consisting of a training manager and an administrative assistant. The total wages are $195,314, or 84 per cent of the total cost for this programme. The other costs of $37,000, or 16 per cent, relate to general expenses such as advertising, board and committee meeting fees, materials and office supplies. The variance in this cost centre is $24,000, or approximately 9 per cent less than the 2014/15 budget year. This is mainly due to the reduction in overseas consultant services.

Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this cost centre is to provide management and administrative support to the Training Section of the Department of Workforce Development. Additionally, administration and oversight of board activities is performed with specific guidance to ensure delivery of projects in a timely manner. All correspondence, payments and prescribed legislated exercises are carried out within this programme. Additionally, Mr. Chairman, the Training Section is responsible for executing and implementing directives and programmes as prescribed by Ministry Headquarters—

The Chairman: Minister, would you like to pause at the end of that paragraph so that the Premier can dismiss us for . . . be recognised?

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Yes, sure.

The Chairman: Okay.
Premier?

Hon. Michael H. Dunkley: Yes. Good afternoon.

Mr. Chairman, I move that we rise for lunch and come back at two o'clock to resume in Committee.

The Chairman: We will rise now and resume at two o'clock.

Proceedings suspended at 12:30 pm

Proceedings resumed at 2:00 pm

[Mrs. Suzann Roberts-Holshouser, Chairman]

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE FOR THE YEAR 2015/16

[Continuation thereof]

The Chairman: Good afternoon, we resume in Committee of Supply for Head 60. It is a two-hour debate. This debate ends at 2:54 this afternoon. I call on the Minister in charge, please proceed.

MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS

HEAD 60—WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Madam Chairman, I will resume and I will read the statistics for cost centre 70015.

The Chairman: Would you be kind enough to give me the page?

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Yes, I am going to read that. It is on page B-322.

The Chairman: Thank you.

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Certification, [cost centre 70015] formerly named Certification/Apprenticeships and Training. Its variance versus 2015/16 is found on page B-322.

The original estimate for 2014/15 was $1,428,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1,069,000 which represents a decrease of $359,000 or 25 per cent.

The full staff complement for this section is two full-time standard and enforcement officers for a budget of $197,862, or 19 per cent of the total cost of this section. This section is currently staffed by one standard and enforcement officer with one vacancy which was hoped to be filled prior to the completion of this financial period. This process continues as a suitably qualified candidate has not yet been found.

Madam Chairman, the variance in this cost centre represents a decrease of $359,000, or approximately 25 per cent less than the 2014/15 budget year. The reduction is mainly due to reduced budget allocations for scholarships, summer employment and local training programmes.

This allocation is to support government-funded training schemes, and national certification of designated trades programmes.

Madam Chairman, after carefully examining the 2012 Employment Survey provided by the Department of Statistics, it was apparent that there was a need to develop Bermudians in the automotive collision repair field. Further consultation with industry partners confirmed this assessment, and as a result, the department identified six young Bermudians to study at the New England Institute of Technology in Rhode Island, USA to obtain their qualifications and certifications in this trade. One of the selected individuals could not attend due to personal circumstances.

Four of these students have completed their studies and the remaining student is expected to complete her studies by summer 2015. During their summer vacations these students were placed on job rotations to allow industry partners to witness first-hand their skills. The automotive sector was impressed by all and we are proud to exclaim that all four are employed and will soon be writing their ASE (Automotive Service Excellence) Certification exams.

Madam Chairman, one of the department's most successful programmes is the Maritime Program. In September 2014, five students completed the Bridge and Engine Room Watch Certificates at Holland College, PEI, Canada. They went on to successfully complete their Security Awareness Certification, at the Maritime Professional Training Centre in Fort Lauderdale. This is a mandatory requirement to obtain the STCW (Standards of Training Certification and Watchkeeping) [which is a] internationally recognised certification. With this qualification these individuals can further their maritime studies in the UK and/or can apply to any shipping agency in the world as a deck-hand. Another five students departed Bermuda in January 2015 to follow the same pathway as those before them.

Madam Chairman, continuing on with Maritime occupations, the department is proud to showcase three recent graduates from Warsach, UK, who will be completing their "sea hours" on board ships—one is currently on a Carnival Cruise Line (passenger vessel), one will soon board the Golar Grand (oil tanker) and the remaining seaman will board the Golar Winter in Singapore. These individuals will spend four months on board the ships working as Bridge-watch Merchant Marines. They receive wages from the shipping agents during the time of their employment at sea.

Additionally, Madam Chairman, other students attending UK maritime schools are currently working part-time for the Department of Marine and Ports as Engineers. To gain broader experience one is awaiting word on a berth on board an NCL (Norwegian cruise line) ship, but will return to Warsach, UK, in May 2015. The other is scheduled to return to South Tyneside, UK, to complete his engineering studies with a view to graduate this summer.

Madam Chairman, this year the department placed one cadet, versus four the previous year, on board the barque Picton Castle, a three-masted tall ship based in Nova Scotia, Canada. It is best known for training programmes which allows cadets to explore some exotic tropical ports and islands while learning seamanship and navigational techniques. The time spent on board assist cadets in achieving the required sea time to receive the international maritime certification, or STCW mentioned previously. There remains a world-wide shortage of English speaking merchant mariners hence the motivation to continue with the programme as it offers opportunities for careers locally and abroad.

Madam Chairman, the number of certifications (outside of National Certification) amounted to the following:

- Appliance Technicians—2;
- Maritime Cadets with Officer of the Watch Certifications (Warsach, UK)—3;
- Power Engineers (4th class)—8;
- Private Investigators—9; and
- National Fire Prevention Association (NFPA)—17.

Also, Madam Chairman, National Certification (Designated Trades) continues with the following results:

- Welders—23;
- Electricians—15;
- Industrial Electricians—14; and
- Automotive Service Technicians—14.

Certification schemes will be ongoing through this period and into future financial periods. As promised in last years' brief, plans are currently underway to introduce regulations designating the power engineer as a trade requiring persons to be nationally certified.

Madam Chairman, the department attended the annual Interprovincial Power Engineering Curriculum Committee (IPECC) meeting in Vancouver, Canada, in June 2014. The Training Section is working towards receiving accreditation from this body to allow the department the rights and privileges related to Curriculum Documents and Syllabi for developing individuals in the occupation of Power Engineer. This committee is delegated by, and is responsible to, the Standardisation of Power Engineer Examinations Committee (SOPEEC). Its purpose is to reinforce the relationships and collaboration between industry, educators, training providers and jurisdictional bodies. I am going to skip ahead, Madam Chairman, because I do not want to use up all my time.

The Chairman: What are you skipping ahead to?

Mr. Sylvan D. Richards, Jr.: Right now I am skipping to page B-322, cost centre 70016—Apprentice and Professional Development, variance versus 2015/16.

The original estimate for 2014/15 was $1,526,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $1,477,000 which was a decrease of $49,000, or 3 per cent. The number of employees remains unchanged at three.

Madam Chairman, the full staff complement for this cost centre is three full-time training and assessment officers. A budget of $286,248, or 19 per cent of the total budget is for staffing. The remaining funds of $1,190,835, or 81 per cent are to assist with apprenticeship instructional training, student scholarships, and local training programmes.

The purpose of this section is to provide financial support toward costs associated with training and development. Individuals who are 18 years or older wanting to expand their skills, knowledge and aptitude at varying levels of education are assisted by the department to realise their goals and objectives. Financial support is provided to individuals pursuing further education in both local and overseas institutions.

Madam Chairman, the training and assessment officers are responsible for assessing and coaching their apprentices on job sites and making recommendations to employers on training needs. In addition, they must manage a portfolio of students who are studying both locally and overseas to provide mentoring and career advice wherever needed.

The Training and Assessment Officers will assist management in maintaining and building relationships with industry partners of all sectors including relevant instructional institutions. They are also responsible to ensure programs are accredited and recognised internationally resulting in Bermudians being able to compete globally.

During the period April 1 to December 31, 2014, the training officers completed registration and oversight for the following:

- Overseas Scholarships—49;
- Local Scholarships—92; and
- Apprenticeships—10.

Madam Chairman, the Training Section expects to launch the City & Guilds, Employability Skills Training in March 2015 for an initial 25 individuals selected from the department's existing database. This programme is a continuation of activities to prepare and ready individuals for the workplace no matter the industry sector.

Additionally, Madam Chairman, in accordance with section 4A of the Private Investigators and Security Guards Act 1974 there is a requirement for all persons engaging in the two occupations (Security Guard and Private Investigation) to be certified to a standard approved by the Commissioner of Police.

The Commissioner approved the City & Guilds standard, and training is expected to commence in the spring, and continue until there are a favourable number of individuals certified to support national security. The successful individuals will undoubtedly be ancillary support for such projects as the America's Cup and the introduction of gaming.

Madam Chairman, tuition funding was provided for the Department of Works and Engineering apprentices to study at the New England Institute of Technology in the trade of automotive service technician (auto mechanics). This initiative was implemented as a result of careful inspection of the retirement and attrition rates within Works and Engineering. It is pleasing to announce that the six individuals who participated in this overseas programme were successful and have graduated—some with associate degrees and others with bachelor's degrees. All are currently employed and working towards achieving their ASE (Automotive Service Excellence) Certification.

Madam Chairman, the department continues to work with BELCO to assist with the payment of tuition for their apprentices who participate in industry specific training programmes at the Nova Scotia Community College and Swale [Skill] Centre in the UK.

Madam Chairman, the department has a great working relationship with the Fairmont Southampton Princess Hotel. They are committed to developing Bermudians in the area of culinary arts. In February 2014, three apprentices returned to Holland College, PEI, Canada to continue their culinary studies. Two of them will participate in the "Block 2 Programme." This learning activity is designed to allow apprenticeship training to begin after the completion of a programme at Holland College. Another prerequisite for eligibility is that the apprentice must be working full-time with a suitable employer.

There are a certain number of hours that an apprentice must complete before he or she can take block training and move up to the next level. Once an apprentice has completed the required number of blocks and worked the required number of hours, they can earn the Interprovincial Red Seal Certification by completing an exam. The remaining apprentice has completed the required hours and will return to Holland College in February 2015 to sit the Red Seal Exam. An Interprovincial Red Seal gives the apprentice the ability to work anywhere in the world. It is a mark of excellence for a chosen trade and a highly recognised designation by employers. The hotel chain has seen two Bermudians receive their Red Seal Certification in culinary arts.

Madam Chairman, a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) continues between the Department of Workforce Development and the Bermuda College which establishes a cooperative working relationship in key areas to assist the department and the college in promoting their interests in ways that are consistent with their respective mandates, policies, priorities and resources. The general intent of the parties is to cooperate in professional certification and training initiatives for the underemployed and unemployed in Bermuda, specifically as it relates to professional areas where there are a significant number of guest workers in the job market, and new industries where there is a need for qualified resources.

Madam Chairman, as part of the Government's Workforce Development Strategy, the department has identified a need for training in the following occupations: accounting, information technology, secondary education, international business and nursing. This list is by no means exhaustive.

There are currently four individuals in the associate's nursing programme. This is a two-year programme which started last year with the first cohort of students set to complete their education in December 2014. We are looking to increase this number in the September 2014 registration.

The Associate of Science in Nursing Degree (ADN) will deliver quality innovative nursing education, and typify excellence in nursing practice. It has been developed and endorsed in collaboration with the Ministry of Health, the Bermuda Hospitals Board, and other key stakeholders in nursing throughout the Island.

The curriculum was developed utilising the American Nurses Association Standards and the National League of Nursing Accrediting Commission's Standards. It integrates a strong liberal arts core, a nursing core, alongside sound clinical practice, ensuring graduates receive superior instruction and deliver high quality care, along with critical skills that respect the dignity of all patients.

The ADN Programme includes clinical opportunities both locally and overseas; hence, students must commit to travelling to obtain clinical exposure with key clinical partners overseas. Prior to being accepted into the programme, students need to submit the following annual drug screening results; current immunisation record; and police vetting report.

Students must maintain a cumulative GPA of not less than 2.6 in the pre-nursing core to be admitted into the Associate of Science in Nursing Programme. Upon successful completion, graduates will be competitively equipped with the knowledge and competencies to function as a professional nurse, and have the ability to apply for licensure through examination.

Madam Chairman, in the professional accounting programmes, there are (and I will read the funded students for 2015):

- Certified Professional Accountant, CPA (Canada)—3;
- Associate of Chartered Certified Accountant, ACCA (UK)—15;
- Certified Public Accountant, CPA (USA)—3.

The total amount dispersed so far for accounting certifications is $240,000.

I will now refer to the Teacher Certification Programme at the University of the West Indies (UWI).

Madam Chairman, this is a pilot programme that offers a postgraduate diploma in education for teacher certification in mathematics at middle and high school levels. It began in February 2014 and ran through December 2014. Students spent 12 teaching weeks in three middle schools and one secondary school to complete practical training and active research projects. This pilot programme was judged a success. A new cohort of students began on February 9, 2015.

Madam Chairman, Miami University is offering a two-year master of education in special education with certification and licensure. Students can choose to complete licensure without the degree or a masters without certification. Courses are asynchronous, by online face-to-face classes, followed by meetings with a mentor. A local mentor is also assigned to assist students. For students who seek certification, a 15-week practicum will occur in spring 2016. Nine students began the programme in September 2014, one withdrew in December 2014.

It is anticipated that both programmes will continue for a second intake, but indications are that students will continue to need financial assistance in order to complete them. The total amount dispersed so far for teaching certifications is $77,000.

The department continues to provide full funding to assist individuals in obtaining their GED at the Adult School of Education, Care Computer Services and other community schools as required. Individuals aged 18 and above are eligible. They must achieve passing grades to obtain subsequent funding. Requests for funding in this program, has increased as a result of more stringent eligibility terms and conditions for financial assistance funding.

Madam Chairman, the Annual Summer Employment Programme which was previously included in Wages and Expenses is now captured under Grants and Contributions. You have already heard that this programme remains popular amongst our young adults.

I will now provide an accounting of the training budget for 2015/16 for the Department of Workforce Development under [line item] 6004—Training Section, [found on page B-322]. The training funds are classified under Grants and Contributions expenses and are found on page C-20.

For Scholarships, the original for 2014/15 was $400,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $239,000 which is a difference of $161,000.

For Apprenticeship Scheme, the original for 2014/15 was $430,000. The 2015/16 estimate is $418,000, a difference of $12,000.

For Sponsorship-Trainees, the 2014/15 original figure was $500,000. The 2015/16 estimate is $400,000 a difference of $100,000.

For National Certification Training, the 2014/15 original was $350,000. The 2015/16 estimate is the same, $350,000, there is no difference.

The Summer Student Programme for 2015/16 is $600,000.

Therefore the total for the 2014/15 original was $1,680,000. The 2015/16 estimate is $2,007,000, for an increase of $327,000.

This fund represents government-sponsored training programmes which represents a [14] per cent decrease over last year. In previous years funding for the Summer Student Programme was classified with Wages.

Madam Chairman, the capital acquisitions budget for the department is as follows: And I am referring to the Capital Acquisitions Schedule found on page C-15.

[Cost centre] 76818, Capital Projects—Bermuda Job Board and Department of Immigration (Work Permits) interface; variance versus 2015/16:

The original estimate for 2014/15 was $60,000. The estimate for 2015/16 is $130,000, an increase of $70,000.

The purpose of this budget is to provide $130,000 for development of the Bermuda Job Board Phase 2. The Phase 2 system's specifications and request for proposal documentation are being developed and will be finalised shortly. The vendor will be tasked with integrating the Bermuda Job Board with the Department of Immigration's work permit system. This will allow the Job Board to display expiring work permits and link the position details to the employer's previously submitted job advertisement.

Madam Chairman, the revenue budget for the Department of Workforce Development is as follows, as found on page B-323, variance versus 2015/16:

The original estimate for 2014/15 was $20,000, and the estimate for 2015/16 is $20,000—no change.

The purpose of this budget is to show revenues expected from fees charged to applicants for national certifications during 2015/16. The statutory application fee for each applicant for certification is $251.00. The National Training Plan will consider how the department will move forward in this area.

Madam Chairman, the Department of Workforce Development continues to focus on preparing the unemployed and underemployed to re-enter the workplace. The department is working hard to ensure that Bermudians are not disadvantaged and that they are prepared to meet the needs of the ever-changing economy.

Madam Chairman, as I conclude my presentation, I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the hardworking staff of the Department of Workforce Development led by Director, Mr. George Outerbridge, [and] his management team; Mrs. Pandora Glasford, Training Manager, Mrs. Oonagh Vaucrosson, Labour Relations Manager; and Mrs. Judy Teart, the Acting Career Development Manager.

This group is at the forefront of assisting Bermudians during these challenging economic times.

Madam Chairman, this now concludes my budget presentation for Head 60.

Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you, Minister.

Are there any other Members that would like to speak to Head 60?

The Chair recognises the Member from constituency 21, Pembroke South East, the Shadow Minister of Home Affairs, Mr. Rolfe Commissiong.

You have the floor.

Again, the debate concludes at 2:54 pm.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I just want to note to the Chair that I will be conceding some of my time to my honourable colleague, Mr. Derrick Burgess, who will speak primarily to [line item] 6002, Labour Relations.

Madam Chairman, I am certain that most Members who have taken note of the cuts to the respective Ministries will assert that it is always in the national interest, or it is in the national interest that the respective cuts be overturned and that the funds be restored.

In the case of funding cuts to Grants and Contributions afforded to Workforce Development, previously I, too, can make—

The Chairman: Do you happen to know what page that is on, just for me?

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: —these are just my opening remarks.

The Chairman: Oh.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: Previously, I took . . . with respect to page B-322, the General Summary, I am getting to that.

Previously, I could make the case that cuts along with others that have taken place are somewhat myopic and counter-productive in light of significant structural changes that are occurring to the global economy even as we speak.

Notwithstanding that, Madam Chairman, we know that the Workforce Development Department is going to be critical in helping Bermuda to maintain and enhance its global competitiveness as we move forward, not only in terms of providing the necessary training and expertise to assist Bermudian workers, but also to position Bermuda in terms of how it can produce a more synergistic relationship between companies and their labour forces.

As I said, we have a significant challenge, Madam Chairman, in respect to the changing nature of the global, and ultimately local, workforce as we deal with the challenges represented by things such as robotics, artificial intelligence, 3-D printing, and the continuing development of automated systems as we speak. I would like to just also take note here, again, of [page] B-322, Workforce Development, Madam Chairman. And just give me one second here to arrange these notes.

The Chairman: Okay.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: We have taken note of the fact that Assessment & Career Development here on page B-322 has seen—

The Chairman: And that would be [line item] 6003, [cost centre] 70200.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: [Cost centre] 70200 has been eliminated, is down. The 2015/16 estimate is showing zero. Those funds, I assume some of those funds, and their staff have moved over to Career Development, and I am sure the Minister has touched on that.

The other query we have on this page [is] in terms of certification. The certification budget has been declined by $359,000 from its original estimate of $1,428,000. This represents a 25 per cent decline. Contrast that with Apprenticeship/Professional Development which would have the original estimate for 2014/15 at $1.526 million and is also showing a decline to $1.477 million, a decline of $49,000 and/or 3 per cent. The Minister may have touched on that. I would like for him to, again, give us more clarification on why we have seen these declines in areas which we think are critical for the running of Workforce Development and the ability to service the clientele probably much more than ever with respect to the economic challenges that are out there.

We see, again, talking about the overall decline in terms of numbers, including the Labour Relations piece (which my honourable colleague will speak to) revised figures for the department are . . . not the revised, I am sorry. The original figure is $5,200,000. This year or for this fiscal year they are estimating $4,776,000—a $424,000 decline (in terms of dollars), representing 8 per cent.

The question I have there . . . I heard the Minister talk about the Summer School Programme, which is a new programme that has been taken on by the department, as I have been made to understand. I mean, that represents in and of itself $600,000, and I believe that the department will now be the coordinating body for the summer school programmes that are being made available throughout all the ministries. In other words, all respective ministries had their own summer internship or summer school programmes, and now that is not the case?

I would like to get some clarification on that because I thought that that was what was taking place, that those summer school programmes that were once under the respective purview of the various ministries had been consolidated within Workforce Development and the monies that would have [gone] to fund those summer programmes for the students have now been placed into this budget. That is the understanding I have. In other words, if it was not for that half a million dollars being placed there with respect to the summer school students and to make provisions for their hiring throughout the respective Ministries, the respective cut may have been far deeper than what we see here now.

Just going over to Subjective Analysis of Current Account Estimates, in terms of Salaries we see a $2,059,000 original estimate in 2014/15. The estimate for 2015/16 is $2.179 million—an increase of $120,000. Again, in terms of the Subjective Analysis (I am on page B-323), we see an increase overall of $326,000, or 19 per cent. The Grants and Contributions were at $1.681 million. They are now reflecting a $2.007 million for 2015/16—again, representing a $326,000 increase, or 19 per cent. Again, how much of that is due to the half a million dollars that came from the summer school budget for summer students?

Just going to [page] B-324, Employee Numbers. I think the Minister explained this. My major highlight here has to do with Assessment and Career Development. That is showing now—

The Chairman: That would be [cost centre] 70200?

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: [Cost centre] 70200, my apologies, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: That is okay.

Mr. Rolfe Commissiong: That particular head had represented two employees there. Nothing has been budgeted for there at all in terms of employees. And we have seen a concomitant increase, or a doubling, of the numbers of employees or staffers under Career Development. I guess then that the tasks that were formerly taken over by, or were performed by Assessment and Career Development have now been melded into the overall Career Development in [cost centre] 70400, as I thought I heard you say, Junior Minister.

Page B-325, my main highlights here are under [cost centre] 70015, Certification. We have the original forecast of 2014/15 of 200 persons sponsored for training. We also are seeing a similar target for 2015/16. However, I am just noting the revised forecast of 119, which shows a significant drop from what the target was for 2014/15. You may have explained that, so maybe if you have time you can just reiterate on why the variance there.

The number of certifications, moving down still with [cost centre] 70015, the original forecast for 2014/15, the target figure was 75 and the same for this year as well, 2015/16—75, I repeat. The revised forecast for 2014/15 shows a figure of 31. The number of apprenticeships, 25 for 2014/15. The expectation for the targeted outcome in 2015/16 is, in contrast to that, 15. The revised forecast notes a figure of seven. I would appreciate some explanation of that, again.

Moving down to [cost centre] 70016, the number of persons sponsored for training, the original forecast for 2014/15 has been maintained in terms of the targeted outcome for 2015/16. In terms of the revised forecast for 2014/15, we see 119 persons, which is coming under the targeted outcome forecast for this year and, of course, under the original forecast of 2014/15.

Moving onto Capital Acquisitions, page C-15, again, under the Department of Workforce Development, [cost centre] 76818, National Training Board Management Systems. I heard the Junior Minister give some explanation for that. The estimate has gone to $130,000 here. I think it had something to do with software that is being implemented. And I just wanted to also pose the question, the National Training Plan talked about the . . . in terms of the Information Technology Pathway, one of the recommendations was that the department was enjoined to, “Employ an information technology (IT) ‘career champion’ (within the Department of Workforce Development framework) whose role it is to support mandating career counselling, in the IT space, by going out”—I am quoting here, Madam Chairman, sorry about that—

The Chairman: That is fine.

Mr. Rolfe Commissioning: —from the National Training Plan that was published or came online last year. Again, “[an] information technology (IT) ‘career champion’ . . . whose role [it is] to support mandating career counselling, in the IT space, by going out to all schools and providing IT teacher counselling, curriculum advice and encouraging teachers to stay current on new technology.”

I would like to know what the status is of that initiative, if it has gotten off the ground. Have there been any provisions in the budget made for this individual for this post? I think it is going to be critical that we do move forward with that.

Over to Grants and Contributions, on [page] C-20. I believe that the Minister did address this, but we note that under the heading of Scholarships the original estimate was $400,000. We have seen the decline here to $239,000—that is the estimate for 2015/16. That gives us some concern.

The Sponsorship of Trainees, the estimate for 2014/15 was $500,000. Similarly, we have seen a dip here to $400,000—the estimate for 2015/16.

Again, the Summer Student Programme, one of my major queries here, of course there were no entries in any of the previous years going back to 2013 as evidenced by this on page C-20 and, of course, we see $600,000 representing a new expenditure here for 2015/16.

Those are my few questions. I think I have one or two more before I concede or give way to my colleague. Just give me a second . . .
